SUNDAY PREVIEW

Of Cards and Cowboys

Where have the Cardiac Cards gone? What has happened to Dallas' Doomsday Defense? Sunday's Texas Stadium game may provide the answer. Sports writer Terry Williamson provides background and predictions about that game in Sunday's Midland Reporter-Telegram.

The beginning of a tradition

Rain or shine, the St. Ann's Family Fair brings crowds. And Saturday's 30th edition of the event promises to be no exception. Some longtime Midlanders remember well the early days of the fair and share a few recollections about this Midland tradition in Sunday's Reporter-Telegram.

Planning for Midland's growth

When a city is growing rapidly, planning becomes more important than ever, Midland city officials say. Sunday's Reporter-Telegram, in another of its series on "The Midland Story," looks at how the city's planning department is working to make sure expected continued growth in Midland is orderly.

'Hard-line' Arabs arrive in Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy and Palestinian guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat arrived unexpectedly from Syria today in an apparent bid to talk Jordan's King Hussein into joining the hard-line Arab front against the U.S.-sponsored Camp David peace accords between Egypt and Israel.

Hussein had told Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, who met with him in Amman Wednesday and Thursday, that Jordan would not close the door on the new peace initiative.

It was Khadafy's first trip to Jordan, and it was the first meeting in Jordan between Hussein and Arafat since Jordanian troops evicted Palestinian guerrillas from this country in September 1970. The two have met several times since outside Jordan.

Official sources said the three leaders met at Al-Mafraq air base north of this capital city.

Khadafy and Arafat took time off from the current conference of the Arab "rejectionist" states in Damascus and drove to the border town of Ramtha, where a Jordanian military helicopter took them to Al-Mafraq for the meeting with Hussein.

At the Damascus summit, informed sources said today that Syria, Algeria, Libya, South Yemen and Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization have agreed to set up a joint military command as part of their strategy to sabotage the Camp David accords.

As a further insult to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, the sources said, the hard-liners chose Lt. Gen. Saadeddin Shazli, Egypt's army chief during the 1973 Arab-Israeli war who was sacked by Sadat, to take over the joint command. However, the sources said there appeared to be disagreement among the hard-liners over a proposal by Algeria for a "strategic alliance" with the Soviet Union to counter increased U.S. involvement in the Middle East following the Camp David agreements.

The leaders of Syria, Algeria,

Libya, South Yemen and the PLO have been meeting in Damascus for three days, and planned to issue their final declaration today.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam told reporters Thursday the participants had agreed on all the basic points discussed, but declined to reveal any of the decisions.

Medical mixup blinds pilot

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — A National Guard pilot who has survived dozens of dangerous rescue missions in the treacherous White Mountains may never fly again because an unexplained medical mixup during a routine checkup left him blind.

"I thought my flying days would end when a mountain top or a pine tree crashed through my cockpit, not because of a mixup in eyedrops," Lt. Col. Russell Tilton said Thursday.

The work of the 46-year-old Army National Guard air rescue officer is legendary in the state's aviation and conservation community.

He has piloted small planes and helicopters over the state's wilderness forests and needle-sharp mountains, survived three crashes in his 24 years of flying and logged more than 10,000 hours.

"There are dozens of people alive today because Tilton slipped his chopper into places in the White Mountains where other men would never try to fly," said Col. Leon Parker, a senior Guard commander.

But on Sept. 9, Tilton was grounded after a routine annual flight physical at Pease Air Force Base — not because of his health, but because of the examination itself, Guard officials said.

A senior flight surgeon had completed most of the examination and was running a routine test for glaucoma, an eye disease.

Seconds after administering eyedrops that should have dilated his pupils, Tilton's eyes began to burn.

"It felt like someone had shoved hot poker into my eyes," he recalled.

Guard officials said the medication the doctor administered was in a bottle labeled as the required ophthalmic solution, but in reality contained Hemocult, a highly caustic mixture used to test stool samples.

"The bottle had the correct label, but the wrong contents. It was a tragic accident but we're not satisfied at leaving it at that," said Col. James Cuddihoe, a senior Guard official. "We have no proof that the solutions were deliberately switched, but we're investigating the entire matter."

Although he entered the examination with 20-20 vision and left almost blind, Tilton said he does not blame the doctor. "There was really no way the doctor could have known," Tilton said. "I've got the pain but he's got the memories."

"I went to the specialists and took all the medications they offered and although they said it would correct itself any minute, that minute never came," Tilton said.

Another team of specialists at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston told Tilton on Tuesday it was impossible to evaluate the problem because of "a conflict from the earlier medications and treatment I'd been given by the other doctors," he said.

Many of the dozens of people Tilton has plucked off mountains or from rivers are writing and phoning their best wishes and the father of three appears to be taking the accident in stride.

"All I can do is wait but the waiting is killing me," he said. "Flying is my entire life and without it there would be an enormous hole to fill."

Testimony on CIA plots expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators want former CIA Director Richard Helms to explain why the agency withheld significant information from the Warren Commission's investigation of the murder of President John F. Kennedy.

Helms, the top U.S. spymaster from 1966 to 1973, was scheduled to testify before the House assassinations committee today.

Although John McCone was CIA director when the commission was conducting its probe in 1964, Helms was head of the agency's clandestine services and was heavily involved in its dealings with the commission.

The committee was expected to seek Helms' explanation for the agency decision to withhold information about these matters:

—Bizarre CIA plots to assassinate Cuban leader Fidel Castro, possibly with the help of U.S. crime syndicate figures. Some conspiracy theorists have suggested Cubans were involved in Kennedy's murder as retaliation for the plots against Castro.

—A Russian defector, Yuri Nosenko, who claimed he had been a high-ranking Soviet intelligence official with direct knowledge of Lee Harvey Oswald's activities during a three-year stay in Russia. The Warren Commission identified Oswald as Kennedy's killer and said he acted alone. The CIA believed Nosenko was a Soviet-planted spy at the time and thought he would offer no truthful information about Oswald.

—Discussions within the CIA about attempting to use Oswald as a source of information about Russia after his return to the United States in 1962. Helms told the Warren Commission the agency "never contemplated" such an effort, but CIA documents dispute his sworn testimony.

Committee members raised questions about CIA and FBI dealings with the Warren Commission as they took testimony Thursday from the three still-living members of the commission — former President Gerald R.

Ford, a House member at the time of the commission's work; former Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and John J. McCloy, a high-ranking official in several administrations.

The committee also questioned J. Lee Rankin, the Warren Commission's chief counsel, and former Attorney General Nicholas deB. Katzenbach, who was deputy attorney general at the time of the commission probe.

All five said they believe the commission reached the right conclusion: that Oswald was the lone assassin. But they said the commission's investigation probably would have been much broader had the FBI and CIA shared all of their information about the case.

"We did our best to find the truth," Cooper said, "and if someone else can find more of the truth, then it's their duty to do it."

Rankin and Katzenbach said they have been shocked to learn the extent of the information which the FBI and CIA withheld from the commission.

The FBI, for example, gave the commission no hint that then-Director J. Edgar Hoover had punished 17 agents and officials for deficiencies in their investigation of Oswald prior to the assassination.

Nor was the commission told that someone in the FBI destroyed an Oswald letter to the FBI in which he reportedly complained of harassment

Wetter, warmer weekend forecast

Although fall officially comes to the Permian Basin Saturday, Midlanders were still feeling the effects of the season's first major cool front, which brought autumn weather a few days ahead of schedule.

Area residents can look forward to the chance of more rain this weekend, the weatherman said.

The forecast from the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport calls for a chance of light rain and a few thunderstorms through Saturday. But the fall-like cool spell should begin warming up Saturday, with temperatures predicted to reach the mid-70s.

Low tonight should dip to the mid-50s, the weatherman said, with the probability of rain still at 40 percent. The probability drops to 30 percent for Saturday. Winds are expected to be from the east to northeast at 10 to 15 mph tonight.

The Weather Service recorded only .39 inch of rain for Thursday, but observers in Lamesa noted an unofficial inch and a half of the wet stuff.

Observers in east Midland recorded .75 inch overnight. Monahans observers showed a total of .71, while one area of Odessa recorded .44 inch. Sprayberry weather watchers recorded .55 inch of rain.

Officially recorded rainfall so far this month has totalled 3.23 inches, bringing the annual total to 10.52 inches.

The high Thursday was 57, nowhere near the record of 102 set in 1977. The overnight low of 53 was closer to the 1972 record of 46 for that date.

Most area towns were recording cool and cloudy weather Friday morning, with Andrews recording a misty rain.

Change: a synonym for weather

If there's an omen in a sudden change in the weather, it's this: Be prepared for more of the same.

In the fabled, legendary and sometimes rudely maligned great state of Texas, "more of the same" is continued change. And that's just about as revealing as sand on the desert.

Except for long stretches of drought and such, the weather rarely is monotonous in the continent's No. 1 (by mass and diversity) state: the damp (for now) Lone Star State.

For the most part, change is synonymous with weather — in Texas.

There are, shockingly enough, some borderline exceptions: Take, for instance, Brownsville, the town that claims the tail end of the state. The weather there is so uniformly humid and relatively warm and unchanging, it's boring to all but those who would resist change.

For those who travel south at autumn's end to escape the cold, places nearer the equator are the sites to which to fly. Birds do.

Spotlight in Cullen Davis saga shifts to Houston

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Millionaire Cullen Davis celebrated his 45th birthday in jail today as the spotlight in his celebrated legal saga shifted to a Houston court presided over by a former wartime fighter pilot.

Visiting Judge Arthur Tipps, after a three-day change of venue hearing, Thursday moved Davis' latest trial to Harris County's 184th District Court, presided over by Judge Wallace C. Moore. Both defense and prosecuting attorneys agreed an impartial jury could probably be found in the state's largest city.

Moore, a chain-smoker who wears a lucky coin on a chain around his neck, admitted Thursday that he is a "close personal friend" of defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, but said he will try the case "like any other felony."

Moore has not yet set a court date, but attorneys in the case have speculated the trial will probably begin the week of Oct. 16.

"When the indictment and files are transferred here and they are all in place we will have an early as possible pretrial setting to determine exactly where we are and what we are going to do," Moore said.

"But you can be assured it is going to be done very quickly."

That may have been in reference to the prosecution's desire to start the trial before Oct. 20. Davis was arrested Aug. 20 and state law requires that a defendant be released on bond if not tried within 60 days of his arrest.

Davis is being held without bond in Tarrant County Jail on charges he ordered the murder of his divorcee, one of 15 persons allegedly named in a homemade "hit list" the state claims was authored by the Fort Worth industrialist.

"I would have preferred to have had the trial in Tarrant County since I was born and raised here," Davis said. "But I believe I can get a fair trial in Harris County, and I'm pleased with Houston as a site for the trial."

Haynes, who lives in Houston, said, "It's good to get back home and establish residency again."

Haynes said he has appeared several times previously in Judge Moore's court and said, "he's an A-Number-One guy. He's a very able lawyer and a very able judge."

Prosecutor Marvin Collins said he does not personally know the new jurist, but "by reputation, he is an excellent judge, and I would say that Harris County is an appropriate place to transfer the case. I believe we can get a fair and impartial jury in Houston."

Jack Strickland, a newly assigned prosecutor in the Davis case, said "Houston is as good a place as any and better than most. I don't know Judge Moore, but the people here are very high on him. I see no problems in Houston."

Concerning a trial date, Strickland said, "We're going to go on the assumption that we'll be going to trial very quickly."

Haynes was asked if he will be ready for trial by the Oct. 19 deadline.

He said, "I'm confident we'll exert a maximum effort to meet that deadline."

Defense lawyer Phil Burleson of Dallas described Moore as a "very smart lawyer-judge. He's easy going but at all times in control of his court."

Burleson predicted the case could be tried within six to eight weeks or about half the time it took to prosecute Davis last year in Amarillo on a capital murder charge of killing his 12-year old stepdaughter. Jury selection alone required eight weeks in Amarillo.

Davis spent both his 43rd and 44th birthdays in jail during the legal proceedings prior to his acquittal in November 1977.

Tipps, who disclosed that only three of several judges contacted were willing to take the case, said, "My experience with fighter pilots is that they are a breed apart. He's sort of a no-nonsense judge ... He will try the case faster than most judges."

Tipps said Moore insisted one of the prosecutors assigned to his Houston court assist the Tarrant County prosecutor. There was no such assistance in Amarillo.

Moore, now 55, left the University of Florida as a freshman to enter the Air Force in World War II and kept his lucky penny in his left boot during 35 combat missions over Italy.

He later took the boots and penny along when he was called to active duty in Korea. While there, a friend borrowed the boots and the penny was lost. Moore's plane later was shot down but he landed in a friendly area and was not injured. Back at the base, Moore looked up the friend who had lost the penny.

"He was so upset when he heard I'd been shot down he retraced every single step he took that day and found it," Moore said.

Moore graduated from the South Texas School of Law in 1951. After three years of law practice in Houston, Moore became an assistant district attorney and served under four Harris County district attorneys before being elected as judge of a county court-at-law on a platform that called for "full-time, conscientious, and impartial administration of justice."

Moore moved to the 184th District Court in 1969 under an appointment by Governor Preston Smith. He is now the Democratic nominee for a third four-year term.

Davis' August 20 arrest came after an employee of the Davis financial empire told authorities Davis wanted him to hire someone to kill the judge in a bitter and drawn-out divorce suit filed by Davis' estranged wife, Priscilla.

At a bond hearing, the prosecution produced tape recordings and video tapes showing Davis and his chief accuser, David McCory.

Attorneys trying to show insanity

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — David Lee Powell, accused of machine gunning Patrolman Ralph Ablanedo to death, had enough "speed" in a knapsack the morning of the killing to rate as a dealer, a narcotics officer has testified.

Attorneys for Powell, 27, were expected to begin presenting evidence today that the slender former student, shorn of his shoulder-length hair, was and is insane.

Defense lawyer Jacques Darrouzet said Thursday that Powell suffered from "speed psychosis," which he claimed worsens any other mental disease or defect.

If the defense fails to convince the jury of seven women and five men, Powell could be executed with a lethal injection. Still to be tried is Sheila Meinert, 27, also charged with capital murder in Ablanedo's death.

Ballistics expert Fred Rymer of the Texas Department of Public Safety testified Friday that markings on spent cartridges found at the murder scene matched the AK-47 automatic rifle found in Powell's car.

He also said bullets test-fired from the weapon "exhibited the same characteristics as" a slug removed from Ablanedo's bullet protection vest.

Bullets from the AK-47 penetrated the vest.

"Are you able to determine where that particular weapon was manufactured?" asked Assistant District Attorney Steve Edwards.

"I don't know. ... but my opinion is this gun is the Chinese version of the Russian AK-47. This is called an assault rifle. All the Communist bloc countries have them," Rymer said.

Both prosecution and defense lawyers say they do not know where or how Powell obtained the illegal automatic weapon.

Earlier, witnesses testified that Powell's fingerprints were on plastic bags of methamphetamine — "speed" — found in a brown nylon knapsack. The knapsack was discovered in a wooded area next to Travis High School, near where Ablanedo was shot.

Police chemist Ralph Owen said the "speed" in seven plastic bags weighed 63.62 grams, about 2.24 ounces and ranged in purity from 71 to 76 percent.

Narcotics officer Larry Stafford testified the street value of the drug, if cut once and sold by the gram, was $11,700. Under questioning, he said the amount was great enough to rate the powder as a "speed" dealer.

Darrouzet asked Stafford the characteristics of a "speed freak."

"He talks very fast. He is unkept and dirty because they snort speed several days in a row ... and don't eat anything. They are very paranoid and worried about what is around them. Anything around them sets them off, gets them worried, and they want to get rid of their dope," Stafford said.

Darrouzet told a reporter, "We are going to prove that that night in jail he (Powell) was just like he (Stafford) described speed freaks to be."

Someone wants sheriff killed

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Cherokee County Sheriff Danny Stallings says he believes a $35,000 contract has been issued for his life in retaliation for a recent crackdown on drug dealing in his East Texas county.

"There are at least two people in this county that want to see me dead, and probably more," said Stallings, a former Department of Public Safety narcotics agent. "It takes good money to kill an officer."

Stallings told the Tyler Courier-Times-Telegram on Thursday at least one attempt has been made on his life.

Last Friday, he said, an anonymous caller led him to a roadside park in the county in an apparent attempt to ambush him.

Stallings, suspecting the ambush, said he hid in a wooded area near the park until a small car drove up and dropped off a man carrying a shotgun. The sheriff said 25-year-old James Thomas Pryor shot at him once before Stallings returned fire and killed him.

DPS officers and Texas Rangers are still investigating the episode in an attempt to determine who was driving the car that deposited Pryor at the park.

Early in August, Stallings' house burned down in a fire that has since been labeled arson.

Deputy Tom Glass was reportedly investigating the arson when he picked up John Robert Odom for questioning. Glass reportedly took Odom to an isolated area for questioning and during a scuffle in the patrol car Odom was shot and killed.

Cherokee County residents protested the shooting with a courthouse demonstration, claiming the suspect should have been brought to the sheriff's department for questioning.

Stallings said he believed he and Glass could both be objects of the death contracts due to the shootings of Pryor and Odom.

The sheriff said he hoped, however, that he was the only person marked in the contract.

"I can't look out for the others," he said. "I can look out for myself. I'm not going to fall into any trap."

Permanent presidential primary recommended

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rank-and-file Texas voters will once again have a say in the nomination of presidential candidates in 1980 if the House Elections Committee has its way. Committee members voted unanimously Thursday to recommend passage of a permanent presidential primary law. And they tried to make it easy for the Legislature by letting party executive committees decide how to allocate delegates to various presidential hopefuls on the basis of primary vote totals.

The committee recommended that the presidential primary be held on the same day as the June run-off primary for state offices — not the much more heavily attended May primary. Parties would choose whether to even hold a primary. But if a party does hold one, all "major, nationally recognized presidential candidates" would have to be on the ballot. Voters would choose among candidates themselves, not "surrogates or intermediaries or slates of delegates" as was the case in the "Bentsen primary" of 1976.

Rep. Lance Lalor, D-Houston, who drafted the presidential primary recommendation, wanted the balloting to take place at the time of the first primary in May. But he was out-voted by Reps. Sue McBee, D-Del Rio; Don Rains, D-San Marcos; and Ralph Wallace, D-Houston, on the subcommittee that first approved the proposal. Lalor said that while immediate past State Democratic Chairman Calvin Guest liked the idea of having the presidential primary in May, "entrenched leaders" of the party opposed it because it would increase turnout.

Lalor said those "entrenched leaders" like a low turnout because it makes elections easier to control. Mrs. McBee said another option was to hold presidential primaries separate from those to nominate state officeholders. But she rejected that idea because "it is very costly — up to $2.6 million." The committee also recommended moving primary dates from May to July for the first primary and June to August for the run-off — but only if the Legislature decides against a presidential primary. A primary to select presidential nominating convention delegates would have to be held before the conventions, which are usually held in July. Republicans adopted rules for a presidential primary at their state convention last week and said they would hold one regardless of what the Legislature does. Democrats called only for a study. The 1976 presidential primaries, won by Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan, were Texas' first. They were established by a one-shot law, which has expired, designed to benefit the candidacy of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, briefly a presidential contender.

Teachers' strikes affecting 500,000

Negotiators talked but reached few agreements as teachers strikes continued to plague a wide area of the nation from New England to the Pacific Coast today. The walkouts affect more than 500,000 students from elementary school through college with most of the disagreements centering on wages. All-night discussions in Bridgeport, Conn., produced no positive results and more than one-fifth of the city's 1,250 teachers remain jailed, in National Guard camps, for refusing to obey back to work orders. "Really it boils down to money and nothing but money," said school board attorney Terry Durant. "They want more, we don't have it; we can't raise it." The teachers continued to demand a raise of 8.6 percent, while the school system offered 7 percent. Present salaries range from $9,450 to $20,180.

In five Ohio schools districts, including the 100,000-student Cleveland system, negotiations remained deadlocked with only Dayton teachers and administrators even discussing their differences. Talks recessed in Cleveland as both sides turned their attention to finding the funds to resolve the salary dispute. In Washington state, Superintendent of Public Instruction Frank Brouillet and Seattle Mayor Charles Royer said they would enter negotiations in the 2-week-old Seattle teachers strike, but the city's school superintendent, David Moberly, said he did not welcome the intervention because both sides were too far apart on key issues. Three community colleges in Michigan, with an enrollment of 44,000 students, remained shut as was the City Colleges of Chicago system.

PCB publicity prompts firm to kill application

DALLAS (AP) — Publicity surrounding disposal of the hazardous chemicals called PCBs apparently led a Louisiana firm to withdraw a chemical disposal application from the Environmental Protection Agency. PCBs stands for polychlorinated biphenyls, used in electricity transformers. The chemicals have been linked to cancer in humans and are listed as environmental contaminants. Federal law requires that PCBs be disposed of by incineration.

Lawmen meet with leaders

DALLAS (AP) — Texas law enforcement authorities and Mexican-American leaders are meeting here today to talk about "The Use of Deadly Force by Law Enforcement Officers."

Rollins Environmental Services had applied to incinerate PCBs at its plants in Baton Rouge, La., and Deer Park, Texas, EPA spokesman Eddy Lee said Thursday. "Apparently, as soon as the publicity hit, they advised they would not apply for the permit in Louisiana, but would continue to apply for approval in Texas," Lee said.

The meeting is sponsored by the federal Community Relation Center in Dallas. Among the law enforcement authorities scheduled to attend were police chiefs from Dallas, Corpus Christi, Austin, San Antonio and Brownsville.

Adlene Harrison, EPA regional administrator in Dallas, said recently that there were at least six applications pending for PCBs disposal sites and four likely would be located in the southwest. Energy Systems Co. of El Dorado, Ark., is seeking an EPA permit to burn the chemicals at its plant in El Dorado.

Mexican-American leaders to attend included State Rep. Paul Moreno of El Paso, Dallas Brown Beret member Juan Perez, League of United Latin American Citizens official Ruben Bonilla and Jose Cano, state chairman of the American GI Forum.

The Union County (Arkansas) Quorum Court passed an ordinance last week that prohibits the storage or incineration of PCBs in the county. The ordinance is to take effect Oct. 14. Enso filed suit this week, contending the ordinance violates the 14th Amendment and other constitutional provisions.

Bonilla said the purpose of today's session is to lay the groundwork for a larger, more diverse meeting in the future.

The suit seeks a restraining order that would prohibit enforcement of the measure and asks that the ordinance be invalidated.

Summit boosts Carter's popularity some, but poll shows Americans remain doubtful

Edgar Bergen, holding his monocular dummy, Charlie McCarthy, announced at a Thursday press conference that the 56-year partnership was coming to an end. Reason for the retirement Bergen said was that he was tired of working. The duo will make one last appearance in Las Vegas, and several December concerts in the east. Charlie will remain with Bergen during his lifetime and then will find a final home in the Smithsonian Institute. (AP Laserphoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — Although the Camp David summit boosted Jimmy Carter's standing with many Americans, the public still has grave doubts about his ability to deal with domestic problems, particularly the economy and energy, an Associated Press-NBC News poll shows.

The surge in the judgment of Carter's overall performance totaled 16 points in the aftermath of the summit talks on the Middle East, according to the survey taken Tuesday and Wednesday. But the surge is a relatively narrow one, focused on the Middle East in specific and foreign affairs in general. Carter, as other presidents before him, has seen a decisive move in international affairs provide a substantial boost in his standing with the public. On his overall performance, Carter got "excellent" or "good" ratings from 42 percent of the public, up from 26 percent last month. He got "only fair" ratings from 45 percent of those interviewed, down from 53 percent in August. Twelve percent rated his work "poor", down from 20 percent last month. In both months, 1 percent was undecided. But, asked specifically about energy and the economy, Americans gave Carter poor grades for his work. In the economic area, only 19 percent rated him good or excellent this month for his performance, about the same as the 18 percent found last month. Seventy-seven percent gave him only fair or poor marks. Four percent were not sure. On energy problems, the public gave Carter's efforts just a 22 percent good or excellent, slightly below the 24 percent found in August. Seventy-two percent judged his work on energy poor or only fair, and 6 percent were not sure. Carter's low rating in these two areas near to American hearts and pocketbooks is also reflected in the public's continuing perception that Carter does not have the ability to get things done. The percentage of Americans giving Carter credit for getting things done has risen about 10 points since May, but even the Camp David summit did not convince a majority of Americans that overall Carter had shown that trait. This month, half of those interviewed say Carter has not shown he can accomplish much as president. Forty-three percent think he has shown the ability to get things done. Eight percent were not sure. In May, 63 percent said Carter hadn't shown he can get things done, while 31 percent thought he had. The AP-NBC News poll of 1,600 adults by telephone Tuesday and Wednesday was the first national survey since Carter explained the summit to the American people in a nationally televised address to Congress on Monday. The reason for the jump in Carter's overall rating is clearly his success at negotiating a framework for peace in the Middle East with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israel's Prime Minister Menachem Begin at Camp David. Nearly three-quarters of the public — 74 percent — gave Carter excellent or good ratings for his handling of the Middle East situation. Only 23 percent gave him only fair or poor marks.

Three percent were not sure. That is 24 points higher from the 50-43 rating of Carter's role in the Middle East found by the January AP-NBC News poll this year. But even that jump is overshadowed by the startling 35-point move in the public's rating of Carter's handling of foreign policy. Last month only 21 percent of the public rated Carter's foreign policy work good or excellent. This month, that figure was 56 percent. Those rating his foreign affairs work only fair or poor dropped to 40 percent from 73 percent in August. Four percent were undecided in September. Carter's current foreign policy rating is the highest of his administration, passing the 46 percent positive mark he received in May 1977 after his first overseas trip. By contrast, Carter's overall performance rating is now at the same level found late last year and early this year, but still well below the highs of the early months of his administration. A number of recent presidents have found — like Carter — that a decisive move in foreign policy can give a substantial boost to one's standing.

Judge speaks on Speedy Trial Act

The new Speedy Trial Act, passed by the last session of the Legislature, was discussed by District Judge Barbara Culver Thursday noon at the meeting of the Downtown Rotary Club in the Midland Hilton. Judge Culver, who was introduced by Sheriff Dallas Smith, said it yet is too early to know just what the full impact of the new act will be and how it will affect the judicial processes. The judge explained various provisions of the act, which is designed to speed up the criminal trial process. The act provides, Judge Culver explained, that the court shall discharge the defendant if certain provisions are not met in the required length of time (120 days). She told how the act is being viewed, generally, by the accused, the defense attorney, prosecutor, law enforcement officer, court clerk and the judge. The speaker said the new legislation was enacted in response to public demand. She expressed the opinion that provisions of the act eventually will balance out and that it works satisfactorily. If it doesn't work, then the legislature will change it to make it workable, the judge added. "The law is here and it is up to everyone to adjust to it," she said. Judge Culver expressed the opinion that Midland is in good shape in this regard, with three district courts presenting a good lead on court availability.

Midland police investigating theft of motorcycle, food, meat, calculator

Eugene Hernandez of the 1100 block of West Dakota Avenue told Midland police Thursday afternoon of the theft of a motorcycle worth an estimated $300. Hernandez told officers the cycle allegedly was stolen between 3:30 and 3:40 p.m. the same day from a parking lot in the 4300 block of Roosevelt Avenue. He told authorities he took the keys with him, and when he returned to the parking lot his cycle was not there.

Opal C. Wheelock of the 1600 block of East Oak Avenue told police Thursday of the burglary of steaks and meat patties and a calculator. The burglary reportedly occurred between 7:40 a.m. and 4:05 p.m. the same day. She estimated the loss at approximately $75, according to reports. Police said entry was gained by breaking into a window on the north side of the house.

Mary Lopez of the 1100 block of East Hickory Avenue told police at 10:38 p.m. Wednesday of the theft of assorted foods stored next door to her. Estimated total loss reports.

Clinic heals birds of prey

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — One of Dr. Patrick Redig's young patients gingerly flexed his muscles, his broken bones having been mended with stainless steel pins.

Above him, another patient peered down, nursing a swollen leg, and a few feet away a third patient craned a long neck to watch the other two.

One patient is an eagle, another a blue heron, the third is a swan. They are among hundreds of birds — mostly eagles, hawks and other birds of prey — brought to Redig's clinic every year.

Most of the birds are victims of shotguns, traps or cars. After surgery or other medical treatment, care and feeding, about 40 percent are able to fend for themselves if released. The others are destroyed or used in research at the clinic.

The 30-year-old Redig is a falconer who has been in love with birds since his youth. "Birds are kind of my way of life," he says. "I think I have a basic fascination with flight."

As a veterinary student, he met two others who were interested in studying birds of prey. The three of them got together and set up the rehabilitation clinic — first in a basement and later, with the funds from two local organizations, as a pilot project at the University of Minnesota's College of Veterinary Medicine. There is no other clinic of its scope, with university association, in the country, Redig said.

Owls and other common birds are used at the clinic to experiment with and develop methods of treating rarer birds such as the eagle or the falcon.

"When we started, we had very little information to go on. By and large, we had to develop surgical techniques here," Redig said.

One technique was a way to prepare birds for surgery. Now, Redig says, "I think I can take just about any wild bird and anesthetize it and expect it to recover."

Another clinic development is the insertion of a tracking device in a bird before releasing it. The device helps monitor the eating habits of the bird, Redig said.

In all, 975 birds have been treated over the past seven years. Redig says just under half of the 80 eagles treated have been returned to the wild.

The birds come from Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, the Dakotas, or as far away as Wyoming and Utah. Under contracts with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, eagles, peregrine falcons and ospreys are shipped to the clinic by air freight.

Redig, who has three hawks of his own at home, says he has learned not to get too attached to the clinic patients, although he does make every attempt to get them back to their natural environment.

Once, he spent about two hours in a boggy, wooded area near the Wisconsin border chasing a young eagle that didn't quite know how to fly, to make certain it got into its nest. And it's not unusual for the clinic to fly an eagle to the Gulf Coast to release it, to give it a better chance to readjust to the wild.

"In some instances, birds do learn to adapt and get along on one foot," Redig said. "We turn them loose if they look like they can make it."

Judge refuses to block Christie movie

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge has refused to block distribution of a movie and novel based on mystery writer Agatha Christie's brief, unexplained disappearance in 1926.

U.S. District Court Judge Lawrence W. Pierce this week dismissed two lawsuits brought by the late writer's estate and by her only child, Rosalind Christie Hicks, who argued that the defendants were infringing on her right of publicity.

The right of publicity covers use of a personality's name or likeness. A recent U.S. Court of Appeals decision involving the estate of rock 'n' roll singer Elvis Presley established that the right of publicity is transferrable and inheritable.

However, in dismissing the suits, Judge Pierce concluded that because the "Agatha" plots were fictional and not biographical, "this court finds that the First Amendment protection usually accorded novels and movies outweighs whatever publicity rights plaintiffs may possess and for this reason their complaints must be dismissed."

Named in the suit as defendants were Ballantine Books, which published the book; Casablanca Records and Filmworks; First Artist Corp. and Warner Brothers Inc.

Both fiction plots deal with what happened when the writer disappeared from her home on Dec. 4, 1926, and returned 11 days later, saying she had suffered amnesia.

Permian Civic Ballet reaching maturity in Midland

Permian Civic Ballet is fast reaching maturity as a performing arts organization in Midland.

The dance organization has rounded out its first 10 years in existence and now is well into its second decade, carrying with it justifiable optimism for its future and renewed dedication to its basic goals.

The Permian Civic Ballet Association, the "parent" organization, was founded in 1967 under the guidance of Robert Mann, then conductor and musical director of the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Chorale.

The first performance by the association's Permian Civic Ballet troupe did not come about until April of 1969, however. That was when "Pandora," an original ballet written by Mann, had performances in Midland and Odessa with the full symphony orchestra in support. For a number of years following, the ballet troupe gave winter and spring programs annually in the two cities - until Odessa withdrew from participation in the dance organization and the Permian Civic Ballet became Midland-based and largely Midland-supported.

Guest choreographers who have assisted in directing and training dancers of the Permian troupe for productions have included George Zoritch of Hollywood, a former star of the Ballet Russe; Pittman Corry, director of the Southern Ballet of Atlanta; Mme. Nathalie Krassovska of Dallas, a former leading dancer with the London Festival Ballet and Ballet Russe; Nikita Talin, also of Dallas, a noted choreographer-teacher and former dancer; Enid Holm of Odessa, then director of Odessa's Permian Playhouse and now producer-director of The Mansion dinner theater; Cherry Jones, choreographer and dance instructor for Midland Community Theatre; and Bill Martin-Viscount of Fort Worth, director of Southwest Ballet Center in that city and widely-known free-lance dancer.

Martin-Viscount, who was first hired by Permian Civic Ballet in early 1972, staged the first "Spring Gala" ballet performance that year. In September of 1972, Martin-Viscount was signed as Permian Civic's artistic advisor and artist-in-residence on a part-time basis. That Christmas season, he staged the complete "Nutcracker" ballet for Midland and Odessa audiences. This represented another first for the association and its dance company - the first complete classical ballet work attempted. Permian Civic Ballet has presented Christmas and spring dance concerts each year since, offering performances of works from its repertoire which now includes such famous works as "The Nutcracker," "Graduation Ball," "Les Patineurs," "Swan Lake" (Act II), "Les Sylphides" (also sometimes called "Chopiniana"), "Giselle" (Acts I and II) and "La Favorita," among others.

When Permian Civic Ballet Association came into being in the late 1960s, it listed the following basic objectives:

-To present ballet programs of the highest possible quality to the public.

-To elevate the art of the performing company dancer to the highest degree possible.

-To provide young dancers living in the Permian Basin with the same opportunities in dance as are available in the metropolitan areas of the state and nation.

-To stimulate interest in, and support of, ballet.

-To solicit and raise funds to further these objectives.

The association sponsors weekend workshops regularly during the season under direction of Martin-Viscount, artistic director, in order to build and improve the dancers' technical abilities. The association's classical productions are presented twice yearly, in winter and spring, to provide dancers with actual performing experience - and, it might be noted, to provide local audiences with "live" ballet.

The association also enters into joint educational-arts projects with the Midland Independent School District to provide special ballet performances for entire grades of school students, as well as lecture-demonstrations for special class units. And a special two-week summer workshop is sponsored after the close of the season each year, to which all eligible dancers in the Permian Basin are invited to participate.

Guiding the destinies of Permian Civic Ballet Association and its ballet company are officers and directors of the association.

President of Permian Civic Ballet Association for the 1978-79 season is Gordon Marcum II, who succeeded Barry Beck in the post.

Other officers include Jim Shelton, first vice president; Patrick Lipscomb, second vice president; Tom Bruner, third vice president; Mrs. Joseph I. O'Neill III, secretary, and Dave Edwards, treasurer.

Directors of the association include all the above, plus Ronald Bumpus, Chic Murphy, Mrs. Wes Perry, Don Huxman, Mrs. Lyle Eberly, Mrs. Thomas Hohstadt, May Taylor, Mrs. Smith Ray, Mrs. Watson LaForce Jr., Dr. James McGee, Mrs. H.A. deCompligne, Mrs. William E. Gau and Mrs. L. C. Slape.

Civic Ballet Association is the Permian Civic Ballet Guild, which was organized in late 1970 with Mrs. James Mashburn as first president.

Guild members support PCBA and the ballet troupe in such ways as assisting with publicity and public relations programs; working on costumes and scenery; selling tickets for dance concerts and advertising for souvenir programs, and arranging cast parties following concerts. Past presidents of the Guild in addition to Mrs. Mashburn include Mrs. Goff Weststein, Mrs. Don Huxman, Mrs. Wes Perry, Mrs. Eugene F. Motter and Mrs. H.A. deCompligne.

Current officers of the Guild are Mrs. L. C. Slape, president; Mrs. Wes Perry, vice president; Mrs. William E. Gau, secretary, and Mrs. James McGee, treasurer.

State sues motorcycle

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) - The state couldn't convict the rider, so it filed suit against his motorcycle.

Kelly Pearce, director of the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement, filed suit in 7th District Court against a 1970 Honda 750.

The suit alleges the motorcycle was used to transport marijuana and should be awarded to the state.

Chinese finesse bamboozles enemy

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Our week-long series on how to bamboozle an opponent into playing low continues with an example of the Chinese finesse. As you might suppose, this play is neither Chinese nor a finesse.

Opening lead - ♦ 5

You take the ten of spades and see that you need at least two clubs for the game.

If you later need the jack of clubs for a finesse, you will lose to the queen. The spade return will set up West's suit, and he will get in with the ace of clubs in time to defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

The solution to this problem is to play the clubs upside down. At the second trick lead a low club from dummy!

Since he can't tell what is going on, East will play low. You play the jack, and West will take the ace.

CANNOT CONTINUE

West cannot afford to continue spades. You win his shift and lead a club to the king. If the queen didn't fall, you could give up a second club while you still have the ace of spades.

The play would be similar if West refused the first club. You would lead the next club to dummy's king.

The Chinese finesse costs you an unimportant overtrick when West has the queen of clubs but helps you make the contract when East has the queen.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S-K97532; H-J8; D-72; C-A42. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades. Partner must have good enough support for your six-card suit, and there should be a reasonable play for game.

Stern switches to film

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Leonard Stern makes his debut as a film director with "Two of a Kind," starring George Burns.

Stern is a television producer-writer-director whose credits include "Sgt. Bilko," "The Honymooners," "Get Smart" and "Millan and Wife."

Two-part adaptation of Alcott's 'Little Women' to air Oct. 2-3

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Greer Garson, Robert Young and Dorothy McGuire star in the four-hour, two-part adaptation of Louisa May Alcott's "Little Women" on NBC on Oct. 2-3.

The story of family life during the Civil War also stars Meredith Baxter Birney, Susan Dey, Ann Dusenberry, Richard Gilliland, Virginia Gregg, Eve Plumb, Cliff Potts, William Shatner, and William Shatner.

David Lowell Rich directed from a script by Suzanne Clauser, which received a commendation from the National Education Association.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Michael Moriarty and David Huffman star as Wilbur and Orville Wright in "The Winds of Kitty Hawk" to be shown later this year on NBC.

Moriarty received an Emmy nomination for "Holocaust," and Huffman starred with Sylvester Stallone in "F.I.S.T."

The two-hour special will be presented on Dec. 17, the 75th anniversary of the famous flight of the Wright brothers at Kitty Hawk, N.C.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - The long-running but now defunct comic strip "Terry and the Pirates," created by Milton Caniff, will be made into a major motion picture by Avco Embassy and Tower Productions.

The $9 million picture, parts of which will be filmed in the Far East, is the fourth film from a comic strip. The $30 million production of "Superman" is due to be released soon. Big budget films of "Dick Tracy" and "Flash Gordon" are also the works. Caniff left the strip in 1947 when he created "Steve Canyon." George Wunder continued the strip until it was recently discontinued.
