Energy OK set today

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year ago today, a weary Senate held its first around-the-clock session in more than a decade, battling over the natural gas section of President Carter's energy program.

Now, on the anniversary of that all-night filibuster, a compromise version of that same legislation was finally headed toward expected Senate approval.

This time there was little suspense . over the outcome.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd predicted the administrationchampioned bill, which would lift federal price controls from most natural gas by 1985, would pass the Senate by as many as 20 votes.

And opponents of the measure — a coalition of liberals who call it too costly to consumers and conserva-tives who say it doesn't deregulate prices quickly enough — conceded in advance the long battle was lost.

Opponents were badly defeated on two trial votes and virtually abandoned the search for votes Tuesday after the Senate rejected, 55-36, their second attempt to scuttle the compromise by returning it to committee for redrafting.

No converts had been gained for either side since a 59-39 rejection of a first recommittal motion last week. Differences between the two recorded votes reflected only the the absence of more members the second time

"We've been touching bases but all the bases have been empty," said Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., who had offered the recommittal motion.

The House gets the measure next. A fight is expected there too, but the administration is believed to have the House leaders plan to combine the gas bill with a number of other fragments of Carter's 17-month old energy plan and to pass the whole package at once.

The energy plan Carter called the "moral equivalent of war" called for continued price controls on gas but at higher levels. The House went along, but the Senate — after breaking that 1977 filibuster — voted inste8ad to deregulate gas prices after two

Although far different than his orig-inal proposal, Carter backed the compromise as the best that could be negotiated.

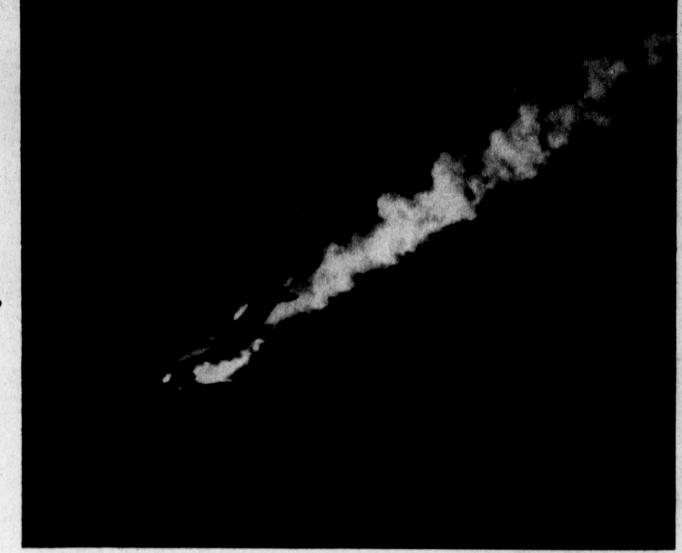

The White House waged a forceful lobbying campaign for the measure, making it into something of a symbol for the entire/stalled energy pro-

Congressional economists estimate the deregulation legislation will cost consumers $16 billion through 1985 in higher gas bills.

It would allow the price of newly discovered gaslto about double until the lids come off on Jan. 1, 1985. In the meantime, gas produced and used within the same state would be subect to federal price controls for the first time.

Controls could be reimposed for a single 18-month period under the compromise. And industrial consumers would have to pay proportionately more for gas than homeowners, at least initially.

The bill also sets a pricing formula for gas from Alaska's North Slope — giving it the top price short of full deregulation. Backers say this will enable construction to begin on the pipeline, which will carry the fuel to the lower 48 states.

Council approves 69 percent hike in garbage collection assessment

By LANA CUNNINGHAM R-T Staff Writer

An ordinance increasing residential garbage collection charges by 69 per-cent was passed Tuesday by the Midland City Council.

Monthly charge for residential customers will go from $2.75 to $4, according to City Manager James Brown. Commercial rates will go up 15 percent, and apartment rates will go up $1 per month per unit, he

Council Member G. Thane Akins said the increases "were a big jump," but Fred Baker, director of public utilities, said Abilene is going up to $4.25 for residential users.

The ordinance must be approved on a second reading at the next council meeting before the increased charges can be put into effect.

In other business, the Permian Basin Duplicate Bridge Club had asked to purchase one acre of city property in an area north of the City of Midland Swim Team on North A Street. The council is delaying action on the sale until it can confer with the Federal Aviation Administration.

Col. Wilson Banks, director of aviation, reminded the council the FAA had warned further encroachment in the area directly south of Midland Air Park might mean loss of federal funding for aviation projects.

Banks said he is opposed to selling city land in that area for any purpose but added an FAA representative would be available to talk with the council at a future meeting. But the FAA earlier had given approval to release the land for sale, said Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr., "and they should not have done that. We need to get them on record so we won't have problems in the future." Another council member, Carroll Thomas, remarked that the city land in question "is no where near the encroachment as some other private developments." He was referring to developments north of FM 868.

The firms raised $163,410 toward the goal of $928,686, Brown said. The campaign kick-off began at noon with a parade of agency representatives and campaign volunteers and officials from the Federal Build-Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. proclaimed today as United Way Day of Service and urged all employers with employees working on the campaign to let the volunteers use the day in service to the United Way. Other speakers included County Judge Blake Hansen and United Way president B.J. Pevehouse. Joe Dominey was master of ceremonies, and Salvation Army Capt. Bob Vincent gave the invocation.

Following the formal program, the Edison Freshman band performed, and drinks and sandwiches were available from the Salvation Army field kitchen. Among the pilot firms, results for Lynch, Chappell, Allday & Aldridge are a 593 percent increase over the firm's 1978 pledge, and the Frank See results are an increase of 262 percent over last year, said United Way executive director Marilyn Van Petten.

Three pilot firms, First National Bank, Frank See Chevrolet and Tom Brown, Inc., had 100 percent participation by employees, Mrs. Van Petten said.

Key persons who spearheaded these employee campaigns for the pilot companies included Kelly Barnes with Adobe Oil; Don Evans, Tom Brown, Inc.; Gene Drummond, Drilco Industrial; Diane Newland, First National Bank; Verna Doan, Levi-Strauss; Doug Berry, Lynch, Chap-pell, Allay & Aldridge; Jerry Camp-bell, Midland Memorial Hospital; Pat Garrigan, Peat, Marwick & Mitchell; Jim Hogan, Sears, Roebuck & Co.; Bob Christensen, Frank See Chevrolet; Robert Mena and Steve Deaver, Southwestern Bell; Steve Wilhelm and Bill Kyle, Texas Instruments, and Gregg Akins, Tipperary Corp.

The pilot firms program serves the United Way as a training ground for United Way solicitors and as a "pacesetter" for the general campaign, Mrs. Van Petten said.

Most of the deficit was caused by enormous amounts of oil purchased from the Middle East. But Japan and Germany, which do not sell oil, still sold far more to the United States than they bought.

President Carter announced Tuesday what he said were the first steps to get U.S. businesses to start promoting their products abroad.

"Our export problem has been building for many years and we cannot expect dramatic improvement overnight," Carter said in a statement. "Increasing exports will take time, and require a sustained effort.

If the plan works, the president said, the economy will grow, new jobs will be created, the dollar will become stronger and inflation will be curbed.

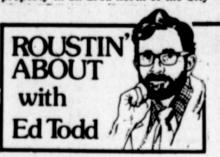

The program involves loans to exporters and easing of some of the environmental and legal restrictions exporters face. The U.S. trade deficit this year is already ahead of the record year of 1978, but Treasury Secretary W. Mi-chael Blumenthal held out hope Tuesday that it will improve. In a speech to world monetary officials, Blumenthal pointed to progress in Congress over energy legislation and increasing ability of foreigners to buy U.S. products.

"I am confident that these efforts, combined with the slowing of the U.S.

Opinion may open can of worms

By MARK VOGLER R-T Staff Writer

The state attorney general's office could create "some hassles" if it issues an "unfavorable" opinion on the practice of Southwestern Bell's charging the state for taxes the telephone company pays cities, predicts the company's chief attorney.

Residential and business customers would wind up paying higher tele-phone bills and there "would be law suits filed all over the place," should the state attorney general rule the accounting practice unconstitutional, according to John D. Lawrence.

"If the ruling is the state (along with other government bodies) doesn't have to pay, I guarantee there'll be some hassles," Lawrence told The Reporter-Telegram in an interview Tuesday. We pay over $31-million in municipal taxes to 488 cities in Texas. This is passed on to our customers as a standard operating expense. If the state doesn't have to pay the tax, it means that whatever tax-exempt (government) agencies don't pay would have to come from the rest of the rate payers everywhere. "The situation at hand is certainly a concern for us because these state agencies account for about 10 percent of the municipal tax revenue. And 10 percent is a lot dollars on this one issue."

Officials in the state attorney general's office decided to seek an opinion Friday after a request from the State Telecommunications Network of the State Board of Control. Midland County Attorney Leslie Acker also had sought an opinion last week as to whether counties were legally bond to pay the tax.

The existence of the telephone company's practice of passing on the municipal tax to its custumers came to light last month, when the state public utilies commission ordered the company to itemize all future charges in the telephone bills.

Southwestern Bell officials claim that what appears to be an additional charge on the latest telephone bill actually is nothing more than documentation of what is refered to as "a city gross receipts tax." The tax, which is collected by the telephone company, goes directly to cities allowing Southwestern Bell to use streets and alleys "It is not a tax. It is a contractual agreement between Southwestern Bell and these 488 cities that we do business with. It has been treated as a general operating expense and has been embedded in everyone's rate."

We view this as a lawful charge - not a tax - but a provision of the rate that the public utilities commission has approved.

"Even if it were a tax, which it is not, it would be a legitimate item to pass on to our customers. It's like the federal income tax, a legitimate expense that can be passed on to our customers. That's what a rate case is

Lawrence said he "welcomes" the role of the state attorney general's office in seeking a legal opinion and added he expects the accounting practice to be upheld as constitutional.

The decision by the State Telecommunications Network to seek a legal opinion from the state attorney general is "a legitimate request" because it will put to rest the misconceptions of residential customers that a new

Surgeon explores brain secrets

By BRIAN SULLIVAN AP Science Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) - Harry Whitaker is exploring the small, mysterious sphere inside the human cranium, mapping the sites of language

In a series of remarkable experiments, the University of Rochester neuropsychologist and neurolinguist has found that a much wider area of the brain than previously suspected is involved in language — more than half of the left hemisphere in 90 percent of all people.

Language function is located in the left hemisphere. The right hemisphere is devoted to visual and spacial functions.

Whitaker has also found that different languages occupy different parts of the left hemisphere in a person who speaks more than one.

Moreover, "our brain is as unique as our face," Whitaker says. Brains differ from person to person, something "we suspected, but this is the first direct physiological evidence."

The evidence derives from stimulation of brain matter during "open brain" operations on epileptics by a University of Washington neurosurgeon, Dr. George A. Ojeman in Seattle, with Whitaker in

"It gives us an opportunity to explore the brain that you can't do any other way," Whitaker says.

The open brain operation has been standard clinical practice for three or four decades in the treatment of epileptics who don't respond to drug treatment. Only about three to four percent of epileptics require the surgery. (Epilepsy traces to a brain malfunction characterized by "electrical storms," uncontrolled electrical discharge from the affected brain cells.)

The patient can be kept awake and alert during the operation because the brain itself is not sensitive to pain, Whitaker says. While the brain sends pain signals to the rest of the body, it has no pain sensors of its own. So it's possible for the neurosurgeon to open the scalp, using a local anesthetic, and proceed to test for "good brain or bad brain."

The point of the surgery is to find the damaged brain cells that are responsible for the intractable epilepsy and to cut the cells out in hopes of alleviating the condition. To test the cells, the surgeon uses a pair of electrodes, tiny silver balls five millimeters apart.

The electrodes constitute a probe to explore the brain cells. A very weak electrical current, of the same intensity as the normal electrical activity of the brain, is sent through the probe. The current, however, is converted to a different pattern so it deliberately interferes with the brain's normal functioning at that precise location.

To find the "bad brain" sections of the epileptic, the neurosurgeon performs what amounts to a direct EEG, electro-encephalogram. The electrodes are connected to a recording machine with a graph. When they come in contact with damaged brain cells the chart will display characteristic epileptic activity, jagged lines on the paper. The surgeon then has to decide how much tissue can safely be

Under these circumstances, then, Whitaker had the opportunity to map the brain for the precise location of language function in "good brain."
The technique is to evoke errors in the epileptic's brain function. Another person in the operating room will show the patient some familiar object, say a picture of a ship, or ask the patient to repeat a sentence. While the patient is doing this, the neurosurgeon moves the electrodes around the surface of activity is touched with the electrodes, that brain function is suddenly interrupted — so quickly that the brain lacks time to compensate or reorganize itself — and the patient cannot complete the language task. That pinpoints the locations of language.

"You find out that way what that piece of brain is doing," Whitaker explains. He says the systematic mapping adds only a few minutes to an operation that can last 10 to 12 hours and is only incidental to the primary purpose of the neurosurgeon.

The Rochester scientist emphasizes his finding that a surprisingly large amount of the left hemi-sphere is devoted to language, especially when you consider the enormous range of motor and physiological functions the brain performs. The mapping of language sites also has implications for the neurosurgeon who is operating on epileptics — he then knows precisely which portions of the brain are for language and will be careful not to remove so much tissue that the patient's ability to think and speak is impaired.

Phillip Hogue of the National Transportation Safety Board said that a twin-engine light plane may have played a part in Monday's crash that left at least 150 people dead when the Pacific Southwest Airlines jet and Cessna 172 crashed into a residential area. It was the nation's worst air

But Hogue emphasized Tuesday that investigators were nowhere near fixing blame for the crash.

"The only conflict I have at this moment is to determine if the PSA pilot saw the aircraft he collided with," Hogue said. "Did he see a third aircraft out there or did he see any aircraft at all?"

Hogue also said that the PSA Boeing 727 and Cessna were being controlled by the Lindbergh Field tower on the same radio frequency, con-trary to testimony in Washington on Tuesday by Elwood Driver, acting chairman of the safety board. He said Driver might have received wrong information before testifying the planes were talking to different towers on different frequencies.

The small plane was practicing instrument landings and the jet was descending for a landing when they collided.

"It was virtually headon," Hogue said of the crash.

Hogue said pilot James McFeron, 45, calmly reported his jet was going down as it plunged into the North Park neighborhood three miles from the airport. "We're going in," Hogue quoted McFeron as telling the tower in a soft voice. The death toll included 135 aboard the jetliner, two in the Cessna and at least 13 on the ground killed by chunks of metal and bodies cascading down on the neighborhood. At least nine people were injured.

"Listening to the tower, it's apparent that the twin-engine plane was making its approach," he said. "They had made their approach before the single-engine one. The pilot said, 'We've passed,' but we're unsure what plane he was referring to. The pilot probably was confused."

Hogue marveled at McFeron's "calm statement that he was going

"I cannot begin to account for it," he said. "Because when that airplane was hit, it had to be a matter that was understood in the cockpit.' Hogue said earlier that McFeron had told the tower his plane was about

"He said it in the softest tones, We're going down,' and I couldn't believe he said it in such soft tones. There was no sign of panic, no hint of Hogue said traffic controllers were also extraordinarily calm.

"It sounded almost routine," he said, "and the tower radioed back just as calmly: 'We'll dispatch the equipment.'" Earlier Tuesday in Washington, a House subcommittee heard testimony on air safety in a hearing that was scheduled weeks before the crash. Most of the testimony centered on Monday's disaster, however. Driver said his board had recommended several times that the Federal Aviation Administration require collision avoidance systems. Witnesses for the Air Line Pilots Association said the technology for such systems has been available for years, but they are not in use because of inaction by the FAA.

The computerized systems would automatically warn pilots when they were on a collision course and some designs also would tell the pilot the best maneuver to avoid a crash. Subcommittee Chairman John Burton, D-Calif., said the collision "perhaps could have been avoided" by avoidance systems. Langhorne Bond, the head of the FAA who is scheduled to testify when the hearings resume Thursday, told reporters the FAA is working on such a system. But he said the FAA wants a system "that really does work."

Midland school trustees Tuesday approved a uniform discipline code

New sections have been added concerning tardiness to provide a "cookbook" method for trying to control the problem. Under the new code, any student late to a class four times in a quarter has his citizenship grade lowered one letter. The penalties escalate with each subsequent tardiness to the class. For each tardiness after seven, two points are deducted from the student's final 12-week

The code also provides that a stu-dent may be withdrawn from class for lack of interest if he accumulates 10

Earlier, Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill told reporters he hoped Carter would not veto the public works measure because it would alienate many legislators and jeopardize the natural gas bill in the House.

A comprehensive evaluation of the vocational program is under way and probably will be presented to the board in February, said Assistant Superintendent Doug

In his report on last year's program, Slagle noted vocational enrollment had doubled since 1970. Some 399 Midland businesses currently provide training stations for the vocational cooperative students, Slagle

"In Midland, it's hard to get guidance on where to expand the vocational program," Brown said.

"Because of the growth here, al-most anything will do. The job market for our welding and auto mechanic students is such that they tend to get jobs and drop out before they finish the program," he added.

In other action, the board approved an audit of student activity fund accounts and chose the Texas Association of School Boards plan for employee insurance for the coming year.

They also heard a report on new packets of books to be distributed to advanced readers in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. The packets of two to four related books will be distributed through the "Partners in Reading" program and are available through a grant from the Junior League of Mid-

Board members also heard a request for a clarification on their policy of presenting decisions on "life and

Knesset expected to endorse accords despite party split

JERUSALEM (AP) - Prime Minister Menachem Begin's party is badly split over his agreement to abandon the Jewish settlements in the Sinai Desert if Egypt makes peace with Israel, but the Knesset is expected to endorse the Camp David agreements overwhelmingly today.

With leftist opposition parties supporting the accords, analysts predicted 75-90 of the 120 members of the Knesset, the Israeli Parliament, would vote in favor of them.

Begin met Tuesday with the powerful Foreign Affairs and Security Committee and with Knesset members of his own Likud Party. He told them the Camp David negotiations nearly collapsed over the settlement issue until he decided that "peace is preferable to the settlements," but he failed to win over militant opponents of the accords.

One Likud member, Yosef Rom, complained that the decision to dismantle the settlements was made "as a result of an ultimatum. Peace reached by surrender to this kind of dictate cannot hold up.

The Laam faction of the Likud, which holds eight of the party's 45 Knesset seats and two places in the cabinet, planned to vote against the accords or abstain. Education Minister Zvulun Hammer, a member of the National Religious Party, reportedly was considering voting for the accords and then resigning to avoid the accusation that he backed Begin only to retain his cabinet post. Political analysts said the depth of the adverse reaction within Begin's power base could spell trouble for him in the future, but he still has a sizable majority and does not have to face elections until 1981.

Diplomatic sources said U.S. officials were seeking support for the Camp David agreements among Palestinians in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, but the initial reaction was negative.

The accords envision the end of Israel's 11-year military occupation and self-government for the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. But most Palestinians demand an independent state, and Israel rejects that. The sources said the Americans believed that respected Palestinians, including some nationalist leaders who publicly condemn the accords, would cooperate and come forward to be candidates for the administrative council that is planned.

Assad of Syria met with King Hussein of Jordan and then went on to Saudi Arabia seeking support of his campaign against Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and the Camp David

The Weather Service rain gauge only recorded 0.19 inch of rain for the 24 hours ending this morning, bringing the total for September up to 4.99

Other areas of Midland recorded similarly small amounts of rain. South and west Midland showed 0.1 inch of rain that period. North central Midland weather watchers, however, noted 0.88 inch.

Greenwood observers recorded 0.3 inch of rain, while Greenwood Estates received 0.4 inch. Odessa recorded 0.39 inch, and watchers at Spraberry got 0.15 inch for the 24-hour period. Warfield got 0.3 inch and east Mid-

Elsewhere around the state, skies were cloudy except clear skies were reported in northern sections of the Texas Panhandle and in the El Paso

Negotiations to resume on arms-limiting treaty

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko reopen negotiations today that may determine whether a new treaty to limit the nuclear arsenals of the two superpowers can be completed by the end of the year. The two men planned two days of meetings, beginning in the late afternoon at the Soviet Mission to the United Nations and continuing Thursday morning at the U.S. Mission. U.S. officials said after Vance ad-rounds of Vance-Gromyko negotiations since April and Carter's intercession last May. There are a number of issues in dispute. Chief among them is "modernization," how many new missile systems the two governments will be allowed to build and how many they will be allowed to improve for the duration of the treaty, until 1985.

The Soviet trials of prominent Soviet dissidents and of Francis Jay Crawford, an International Harvester representative accused of currency manipulations, hardened feelings in this country against the Russians.

Air Terminal. A request to change zoning at the southeast corner of Wadley Avenue and Lamesa Road from 1F-2, single family district, to LR-2, local retail district, elicited debate from the council as to what type of zoning should be there. The change was approved, but to an LR district. This means a convenience store can be constructed on the location, but it can not sell alcoholic beverages.

At the root of the problem is the fact the land is located across from Hogan Park. It is owned by J.L. Patterson, who wanted it re-zoned to obtain a better market value on it, according to Dwayne Casbeer, who was representing him. Wayne Kohout, director of parks and recreation, said he and the commission were opposed to selling alcholic beverages across from a park area. But Casberry pointed out beer is sold at Cubs Stadium which is at Hogan Park.

The council decided to go with no alcoholic beverages at the site.

Government economists were encouraged that food prices were stable. However, medical and housing costs continued to rise. Here are some features of Carter's program to promote exports: - The Justice Department will try to reassure wary business persons by educating them on its "enforcement priorities" under the new foreign antibribery law, and to emphasize that joint ventures abroad are unlikely to lead to antitrust prosecution. The Small Business Administration will direct up to $100 million a year in loan guarantees to exporters, while Carter will budget an extra $20 million for federal export development programs.

Damage done to man's car

An estimated $200 in damages to a vehicle was reported to police Tuesday by Terry Hodges of the 3100 block of North Big Spring Street. Hodges told police the vehicle was parked near his residence.

Ronald Jameson of Lee Street told police Tuesday of the theft of an amplifier valued at $595.

Dale Carter of the 3200 block of Franklin Avenue Tuesday morning reported a burglary at Carter's Market, located at Main Street and Florida Avenue, earlier.

He told authorities $25 in coins was taken and an estimated $100 in damage was done to a door and a cash

Police indicated the meth4od of entry was unknown.

MC board approves $3.6 million budget

The Midland College board of trustees Tuesday approved the college's $3.6 million amended budget for 1977-78 and noted a surplus from last year's operating funds.

"I think this leaves us in awfully good shape," Dr. Al G. Langford, president, told the six board members attending the regular meeting. Three were absent. "And we're going into another year in good shape financial-

Bob Phillips, vice president for fis-cal affairs, briefed the trustees on the amended budget, which reflected a $45,518 surplus.

Ideally, Langford said a 10 percent surplus is desirable "to help us get out of a hole in case of an emergency," such as a fire or tornado.

In other action, the trustees:

—Awarded H&M Construction Co. of Midland the contract for building a city-college Tennis Center on campus. H&M's bid of $70,000 was the lowest bid submitted. Sneed Construction Co. of Midland bid $99,900, and Rose & Sons Construction Co. of Abilene bid

-Accepted landscape architect Douglas Page's proposal for landscaping Chaparral Center. Projected cost will be between $20,000 and $30,000

—Rejected, in a 5-1 vote, a request to hold a rodeo in November in Chaparral Center. Langford, MC Board President Murray Fasken and others expressed concern that holding a rodeo in the center and the bringing in and hauling out of dirt 10 inches deep would damage the center. Langford said the Taylor County Coliseum in Abilene was "buggered up" by front-end loaders hauling dirt. Reagan Legg cast the dissenting vote. "We're very restricted on what we can refuse," Legg said, since the cen-ter is a public building. Too, he noted the wide-spread interest in rodoes in West Texas. "It (holding a rodeo) could be done," said Larry Campbell, manag-er of Chaparral Center, "but I wouldn't sleep until it was over."

—Considered allowing the Shrine circus to be held in the center next year, but postponed any action.

Lawsuit filed against policeman, City of Big Spring

BIG SPRING - The City of Big Spring and a former policeman are named as defendants in a lawsuit filed here Friday in 118th District Court by Paul Merrell, 25, of Big Spring. Merrell said he was shot by the former officer last summer.

Merrell named the city and former Big Spring policeman Dusty Choate as defendants in connection with an Aug. 19 incident in which Merrell claimed to have been wounded by Choate while fleeing on a motorcycle from officers.

The suit, filed by attorney Allen McFall, asks $200,000 damages.

TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN RESOURCES TITLE 20 SOCIAL SERVICES PLAN

The final 1979 social services program for Texas has been prepared by the Department of Human Resources in cooperation with citizens throughout the state. The plan is available for public review.

> COMPREHENSIVE ANNUAL SERVICES PROGRAM PLAN FOR TEXAS (CASPP) October 1, 1978 to September 30, 1979

BACKGROUND: The proposed Title 20 plan was published May 1, 1978. Public comments were accepted through June 14. About 200 comments were received. Differences between the proposed and final plans are summarized ORGANIZATION: Charts showing the organization of DHR's state office and Social Services Branch have been updated.

CLIENTS AND ELIGIBILITY: In response to public comment, the income limits for eligibility have been raised from 55 percent of the state median income* (adjusted according to family size) to 60 percent. For community care of the aged, blind and disabled, the income limit is raised to 76 percent of the state median" until July 1, 1979, when it will advance to 80 percent. The raises for the aged, blind and disabled will keep program eligibility abreast of eligibility for the Title 19 Nursing Home program.

FEES: No fees will be charged for the Region 10 (Nacogdoches) pilot project of community care for the aged, blind and disabled. The project may be discontinued in 1979.

DEFINITIONS: The definition of Family Planning was modified to remain compatible with federal regulations and Transportation is called a support service in the Vocational Rehabilitation program.

SERVICE ADDED: A new service was added for children assisted by the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program. The 65th Texas Legislature earmarked $13.2 million in state funds for the service EXPENDITURES: Two elements limit program expenditures: (1) the amount of money appropriated by the Texas Legislature, and (2) the federal allocation of Title 20 funds to Texas. The federal ceiling has been unchanged

As the cost for services rises to keep pace with the cost of living, the amount of services that can be purchased decreases. To stay within projected fund limits, decreases were made in Employment Services and in Services Provided Through Interagency Agreements, and administrative costs (which include DHR employees' salaries and benefits) were more accurately

CATALOG OF SERVICES: Because of funding limits, priorities were established for protective services to children. The final Title 20 plan shows apportioned to programs at state and regional levels.

SERVICE PROVIDERS: The list of providers from whom services are purchased has been updated to show the contracts that were in effect June

OTHER: The Planning, Needs Assessment, and Evaluation sections were revised to show the changes made in DHR processes. Estimates of how many clients will be served, statewide and at regional level, were updated in several program areas. A summary of standards, issued recently by the Texas Commission on Alcoholism for facilities that treat alcoholics, is included in the final Title 20 plan.

GETTING COPIES: The Title 20 plan may be read or reviewed in the DHR offices listed below, or obtained free by writing to Title 20, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701

MORE INFORMATION: To ask questions about Title 20, contact any of the offices below or the Title 20 Information Center. To apply for any of the services in the plan, please contact an office listed below

PUBLIC COMMENTS: A summary and file of comments can be examined from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., weekdays, in the Title 20 Information Center, John H. Winters Building, 200 E. Riverside, Austin.

preparing, in effect, to admit the failure of its first round of antiinflation iniatives and to trot out a new plan.

It would be great to be optimistic about the new plan's prospects. But we are not.

Few tears will be shed over the demise of Round One's feckless tactics. When Jimmy Carter assumed the presidency 18 months ago, the annual inflation rate stood 5.2 percent. Today, the annual rate is 10.7 percent, the first double-digit rate in almost four years.

The administration has tried tinkering with import quotas to curb rising prices. It has sporadically appealed to business and labor to moderate wage and price increases. And the White House sought to demonstrate firmness in its own back yard by setting ceilings on wage hikes for federal employees.

Collectively, these measures have been a dismal flop.

The new plan is said to feature voluntary wage and price guidelines, stiffened perhaps by proposals for federal tax and-or regulatory policy incentives to encourage compliance.

Rewriting the tax laws to permit their use as incentives for companies and workers to keep wage and price increases within guideline limits sounds attractive given extraordinarily shrewd drafting and administration, it might even work in some

But such legislation would also ensnare the Congress in an immense tangle of economic considerations so arcane as to make the energy policy debate look like mumblety-peg. And it would invite opposition from most of the lobbyists and tax lawyers in Washington.

As theory, it merits consideration. Chances for enactment of actual legislation are not favorable, however.

And regulatory policy is far too inappropriate a tool for use as a guideline cudgel against violators

Without workable incentives or a whip to enforce compliance, the record of wage and price guidelines as inflation fighters is most unlikely.

Outright wage and price controls would, of course, be much

Which brings us to a fundamental objection to presidential formulation of any guidelines. Given the present inflation and the

The Carter administration is predictable failure of guidelines alone to control or reduce it, the public would be certain to see such a policy as a precursor to controls.

The pressure for still higher wages and prices would grow as workers and businessmen sought to protect themselves in anticipation of a White House imposed

With or without guidelines, the experience of the past dozen years has taught Americans to expect inflation and to make their economic decisions accordingly.

It's an inflation psychology that is itself inflationary. Breaking its grip on the country is a key to any successful anti-inflation policy.

What that will require, as Mr. Carter's more candid ecomomic advisers will tell him, is a sustained attack on the federal government's chief contributions to inflation: the huge budget deficits of recent years and the unwarranted expansion of the nation's money supply by the Federal Reserve Board.

Why in the world the White House personnel, Congress and bureaucratic Washington in general will not admit this is a mystery, indeed. It has been pointed out time and again that excessive government spending and huge budget deficits largely are responsible for rising inflation, but little if anything is done to curb the spending. It is true that the budget deficit may be reduced somewhat next year, but it will take a sustained campaign in this regard to curb rising infla-

NEW YORK CITY — The New York City newspaper strike is starting to take its toll on the Big Apple. You can see it in people's blank expressions and hear it in their desperate voices.

The imposed press blackout during the talks no doubt contributed toward their success. This so impressed Carter that he's converting the correspondents' briefing room into a greenhouse.

The Camp David event is a setback for Jerry Brown who had hoped to send Sadat and Begin tickets to a Linda Ronstadt concert.

Writer reports on the unisex art of self defense

NEW YORK — As a result of what was hardly a historic human rights suit, three adult females were issued boxing licenses here last week by the State Athletic Commission. Thus feminism and the box-office are served, and fools of either sex can pay to watch women smash each other's faces as men have for decades in the "manly art of self defense." A few years back, I saw a news photo out of Seattle of a woman boxer, her nose dripping blood, emerging from the ring. I was startled. But I was appalled soon thereafter when I saw another news photo, this one of a pretty 11-year-old girl, her mouth in a belligerent set, described as the champion of some local amateur boxing division in Idaho. She had beaten up all the small boys her weight.

Actually, the emergence of women's professional boxing is not new. As Nat Loubet, editor of Ring Magazine, has chronicled, the first known boxing match featuring women took place in England in

The current rage dates to 1975 when Nevada, the only state where prostitution is legal, granted a boxing license to one Caroline Svendsen.

Since then, women pugs have used all manner of anti-sex-discrimination laws to get boxing licenses all across the Republic. But in New York, where boxing is taken seriously, the athletic commission resisted, and it took a State Supreme Court ruling to win the right for women to get licenses.

In some freshwater towns, women's bouts are main events. Male boxers go along because they know the gate and their share - is bigger when the curious and kinky-minded crowd pays to see young women punch each other in the prize ring. Most women I talk to here about women's boxing insist that women have an equal right to a boxing license, but quickly add that boxing is an awful sport, and they wouldn't want to see a woman's face messed up. Feminism is strong in New York City, a trend leader in the nation. The super-patriotic, "hard-hat" movement began here. Gay rights, liberalization of abortion (though not the Supreme Court case), and now the mania for the death penalty, got strong impetus in New York.

The glamor figure of women's box-ing is Cathy "Cat" Davis, 26, listed by the Women's Boxing Federation as the lightweight champion. The "Cat" has green eyes, long blonde hair, and a record of 16 victories, including 15 knockouts. She was originally trained by Willie Pep, a famous champ of

After fighting as a licensed boxer all over the country, she applied for a New York license in 1976 and became indignant when Commissioner James Farley ripped up her application. "Cat" claims she spent $8,000 in legal fees to get her license. Now she has a $5,000 guarantee to fight in White Plains, N.Y., in December.

In boxing, blows to the face can: fracture noses and jawbones, break open the tight skin around the eyes, thus causing blood to gush copiously; cause flesh to swell large, and darken into "black eyes"; split lips, and occasionally break off, or dislodge teeth. Blows to the chin and head can cause unconsciousness, brain damage, paresis, paralysis, and occasion-ally, death. Male boxers have suffered these injuries for many genera-

The California State Athletic Commission, according to Ring Magazine, specified additional medical precautions for women boxers. Among them is a written statement by the boxer prior to the fight that to the best of her knowledge she isn't pregnant or mensturating. A pelvic examination is required. To protect their breasts, women boxers wear a cup device (aluminum or plastic).

Thus far, no state has licensed a boxing match between a man and a woman. In fact, the president of Madison Square Garden, Sonny Werblin, makes it clear that he doesn't want female boxers performing in that famous emporium at all.

Still, feminists, including those with an aversion to boxing, can argue that a woman has the right to make a living boxing just as a man does. I think the sight of a woman getting beat up is awful. I also know that this spectacle, now that New York has sanctioned it, will enjoy a certain prosperity. Floyd Patterson, the former heavyweight champion, as a Commission member here, opposed the licensing of women boxers. "I think it's terri-ble," he said. "I always respected women and supported Women's Lib. But in the ring, no. I can't stand to see a woman bleeding in the mouth or sustaining a deep gash over the

Storage cavern blaze out with aid of balloon

HACKBERRY, La. (AP) - "There is very little chance of another blowout," said Asgar "Boots" Hansen after snuffing out a five-day fire fed by 6 million barrels of oil stored in an underground salt dome.

Hansen and his wild well troubleshooters plugged the shaft into the dome with a rubber balloon Tuesday. cutting off the flow that had formed a fiery lake of oil above ground.

The fire, which ignited Thursday in blowout that killed one man, consumed up to 70,000 barrels of crude oil that escaped from the shaft.

It happened at cavern No. 6 of the Department of Energy's $20 billion Strategic Petroleum Reserve project to store up a billion barrels of oil as emergency supply.

Boots and Coots Inc. of Houston, Texas, wild well specialists who nor-mally deal with wild oil wells, found this problem unique

It wasn't a wild well, to be strangled with heavy mud or killed with precise explosions. It was a "tame" well draining off crude from the cavern bigger than a 10-story building, scoured out deep inside a salt dome. The usual methods, especially explosives, were out of the question.

They solved the problem with a special rubber balloon, 7 feet long and 7 inches in diameter:

Working in a protective spray of foam and water, they used a long boom operated from a tractor to lower the empty balloon 10 feet down into the 9%-inch wide well shaft. Then it was inflated to 2,000 pounds of pressure, swelling against the steel casing, sealing off the shaft like a cork in a bottle of champagne.

When the fuel stopped flowing, crews used foam and water to battle the flames in the 250 by 250 feet area, rimmed by earthern dikes, where the

However, the Coast Guard said a shortage of foam and hoses developed, and extra supplies were flown to the scene. The additional equipment was provided by various fire companies, industries and military

The well had been drilled 3.042 feet down into the top of the cavern. Pressure inside the cavern caused the blowout when a special safety valve failed while a workover crew was repairing casing. The pressure blew the oil out the shaft, spraying into

A fireball that erupted within seconds after the blowout left two crewmen severely burned. One died a few hours later in a Baton Rouge hospi-

The some 650 pounds per square inch pressure at the time of the blowout had diminished to about 17 pounds at the end. The once spectacular fire, with flames leaping 250 feet high, was down to a sullen red glare cloaked by thick black smoke.

Hansen said there probably was no damage to the storage cavern since the top of it is 3,042 feet below the

A new valve control system was ready for installation on the wellhead as soon as things cooled off enough to permit work.

A federal inquiry to determine what went wrong is expected to last another two or three weeks.

Cavern No. 6 held 6 million barrels of crude shipped in from the Persian Gulf when the fire started. The storage vault is one of a series created to hold a billion barrels of oil that will be kept as emergency supply in case of another Arab oil boycott.

Rail strike could hurt work at chemical plants

Texas railroad workers were under a court order today to return to work but early checks with affected railways showed not all unions were immediately complying.

Freight traffic moved slowly across Texas and the rest of the nation Tuesday as railway clerks picketed 43 railroads. The pickets went up in symptathy for the Norfolk and Western Railway on the East Coast, which has been idled for several months because of the strike by the Railway and Airline Clerks union.

Some railroad spokesmen said they felt the court orders would be honored but the logistics of serving the orders today might account for the delay.

Loren Simmons, a spokesman for Santa Fe in Dallas, said there would be about 80 crews in its system today, made up of supervisory personnel who started their careers as train-

Hiring suit under way

HOUSTON (AP) — Morale prob-lems at Mobil Oil Corp. may have caused its employees to leave for jobs at Superior Oil Co., the board chair-man of Superior testified Tuesday. But Superior never solicited Mobil trade secrets from those employees, Howard B. Keck said.

He was the first witness in a state civil district court suit in which Mobil accuses Superior of hiring eight for-mer Mobil executives to obtain confidential information.

Mobil alleged trade secrets revealed by the employees gave Superior an advantage it used to lease offshore tracts in the Gulf of Mexico expected to be rich in oil and gas.

Mobil is asking Judge Arthur Lesher to prevent Superior from enticing any present or former Mobil employee to disclose trade secrets. It also is asking the judge to bar Superior from receiving any payment as a result of production from the two

Keck said Superior hired the eight men because he felt they were the best men available to upgrade the company's exploration and production operations.

In his second day of testimony, Keck said he had heard reports of a morale problem at Mobil, "and an exodus of people from Mobil led me to believe there was a problem."

But he said Superior didn't take advantage of the "morale problem" in hiring 39 employees away from Mobil since August 1976.

Clements said he favors development of domestic petroleum, coal and nuclear energy. And, he said, the nation should begin buy oil at fair prices from Canada and Mexico instead of from the Middle East and Venezuela.

Bill bad for Texans; boon to bureaucrats

By MILLER BONNER WASHINGTON (AP) — The natural gas compromise expected to pass the Senate later this afternoon is viewed as a boon for bureaucrats, lawyers and accountants but bad news for Texas, according to opponents of the bill.

The compromise calls for phased deregulation of natural gas with consumer gas bills steadily rising by about $13 a year by 1985, according to the conference committee report that has been widely disputed by liberals and producing-state congressmen.

The bill "will add substantialy to the cost of producing gas," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who along with fellow Texan John Tower has been an outspoken critic of the bill. "It will make it more difficult for the small producer to stay in business and cost increases will be passed on to the consumer. How much of an increase? It's really hard to say right now.

"It will be a bonanza for attorneys and accountants," the Democrat

The bill establishes a rigid set of regulations for determining the price that can be charged for gas taken from a specific well.

The "staggeringly complex new regulatory scheme" will "significantly increase the regulaory cost of exploring for and producing gas," added Tower who earlier this month joined an unlikely coalition consisting of fellow Republicans Dewey Bartlett of Oklahoma and Clifford Hansen of Wyoming plus Democrats Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio and James Abourezk of South Dakota in condemning the centerpiece of President Carter's energy package.

Carter, who earlier tabbed America's energy problems the "moral equivalent of war," has apparently been successful on Capitol Hill in selling the compromise as a means of reducing this country's dependence on foreign oil and shoring up the faltering dollar abroad.

The compromise was hammered out during 17 months of bargaining between Senate-House negotiators after the Senate passed a deregulation bill while the House version called for extended regulation.

On Sept. 19, the Senate voted 59-39 not to have the bill recommitted to the conference committee, a move that would have effectively killed the

A day before the vote, both Tower and Bentsen received a letter from Texas Railroad Commission urging that the controversial compromise be defeated.

The letter, signed by chairman Mack Wallace and commissioners Jon Newton and John H. Poerner, said the compromise would create a "devastating administrative burden" on the commission.

The compromise "is really strange. Several senators have commented that this bill has more lives than a cat," said Ron Smith, Tower's legislative counsel who specializes in energy matters. "The bill doesn't represent any cohesive regulatory scheme. It's self contradictory. It calls for deregulation while extending regulation."

Both Smith and Mike Naeve, Bentsen's legislative director, said the compromise will increase the amount of federally regulated gas.

The repercussions in Texas where intrastate gas is deregulated is a "big concern for Texas consumers because Texas has prospered economically," said Smith. "It has been an attractive place for industry." But he said the bill likely will dilute that benefit because there no longer will be assurances of a great supply.

"You have the clear potential of a subsequent congress making a few word changes in the law and extending, in effect, total authority to regulate natural gas from the well head to the user, determining how it's produced and at what rate, who it's sold to at what price and where it is eventually sent in time of emergency," added Smith.

Many independent producers "lit-

Museum meeting set

New members to the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum's Hall of Fame will be elected Thursday at a called meeting of museum's board of trustees and board of executors.

The session is scheduled for 3 p. m. in the museum's auditorium.

Other items on the agenda include a possible by-laws change; election of a vice chairman of the board of executors to succeed the late Frank Stubbeman, a briefing on early planning for the northern expansion of the building, and a tour of the Archives Center construction.

Russell J. Ramsland is president of the board of trustees and Maurice R. Bullock is chairman of the board of executors.

erally exist for the intrastate market and the lack of regulation there," said Smith, and he contended the bill will extend a giant framework of federal regulation on those producers.

'Not all of them are going to go out of business overnight but it will create a number of disincentives to the agresssive oil and gas exploration that the country needs and that Texas would benefit by. "The big gas producers won't be affected because they have the resources as such that they will hire another office full of lawyers and accountants and plow on through and keep doing business.' Smith said a lot of small independents have one to three-man offices and spend the majority of their time finding or producing oil and gas. He said they have no concept of the expense and delays involved in this type While a bill provision will keep gas companies from passing along all of the costs of additional lawyers and accountants, consumers will subsequently pay the price for regulation, contend both Naeve and Smith.

"The small independent producer will find his markets increasing once the (compromise bill) regulations are imposed, but then he'll find the cost of doing business increasing dramatically due to the increased regulations," said Naeve.

According to Smith, another alarming feature of the bill allows the government to decide where to enter court to settle price disputes. "They can have their choice between the federal court, say in Texas, or a federal court in the District of Columbia. Where do you think they'll want to try most of the cases?

Folks out there will be paying more for their gas but through other manufactured goods," he said. Through the shirt that you buy or the car you buy. Somebody has to pay for Texas gas, concluded Bentsen, has become one of the casulties in Carter's "moral equivalent of war."

"The Northeast is receiving their gas at a subsidized rate and that means that Texans in effect, are having to pay for the finding of the new reserves for the nation," he said.

Adam West, now battling the super-hero image he earned in three years of playing Batman, says "it's not easy."

Adam West's flying high in 'Hooper'

HOLLYWOOD - It's a bird. It's a plane. It's .. Great balls of fire!

Not Batman? But, yes, that's who it is, all right, the Caped Crusader of TV series fame who's flying high once again. With a "ZOWIE!" and a "POW," he's kay-oed the sluggishness which dogged his career immediately after the TV put-on in which he starred was cancelled. He's been seen in "Hooper." a movie starring Burt Reynolds and previously known as "The Hollywood Stuntman." The title was changed to avoid confusion with another movie called "The Stuntman." In "Hooper," Reynolds plays a Hollywood stuntman who doubles a superstar, played by West, who specializes in James Bond-type

But he flatly rejected a chance to return to the character in some television commercials for the State Department.

Savings, credit risked for special

By JERRY BUCK

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Actress Diane Baker risked her savings, and all the credit she could muster, on a children's show inspired by a picture

She produced the one-hour show, at a cost of nearly $200,000, without a network commitment. Had it not sold, she would have had an extravagant home

"Every penny I ever earned went into this," said Miss Baker, who also stars in the special. "I accepted roles in 'Fantasy Island' and 'Love Boat' and poured my salary into the production. Many of the companies we dealt with, the film lab, the sound people, gave me extended credit.'

But, of course, she did sell it, and "One of a Kind" will be aired this afternoon as an ABC Afterschool Special. The sale brought enough money to pay all the costs and provide a tiny profit.

Miss Baker plays a mother who abuses her daughter when she neglects her duties at their beachfront food concession. Stephanie Brown, in her first role, plays 10-year-old Lizzie, whose irresponsibility and defiance provokes her mother.

It is the story of how - prodded by an itinerant Punch and Judy puppeteer — they finally learn to communicate and build a loving relationship.

The seed of the film was an antique postcard showing such a puppeteer.

"Marjorie Sigley came to America from England with the postcard," said Miss Baker. "She always wanted to do something with it and it sat on my kitchen table. I said this is a marvelous idea but what's the story?

"Finally we hit on having it represent how a child can free her mind from the confines of a limited

Miss Sigley, the founder of the Young People's Theater at the City Center in New York, developed the original story. Harry Winer wrote the script with her and directed

In the film the wandering puppeteer, who be-friends Lizzie, is the catalyst for bringing mother and daughter together. The mother is affected by an allegory built on the make-believe violence of the abusive Punch, manipulated first by the puppeteer and then by Lizzie.

"The mother and daughter are equally victims," said Miss Baker. "We wanted a balance. We didn't want just the child to be the victim. We also kept away from sentimentality.

Miss Baker and her friends made the show in 15 days on a spartan budget, compared to other TV productions. The average cost of an hour network prime-time show is now nearing $500,000. They cast the children's parts by simply holding workshops and letting the best talents shine through. They felt the usual method of casting was too intimidating for children. This is the third production for Miss Baker, who in the 1960s was on her way to becoming a major movie star. She starred with Paul Newman in "The Prize" and in such films as "Stolen Hours" and "Strait Jacket." She said she decided she did not want to pay the price of becoming a big star.

Seven years ago she produced her first film, a documentary made in India called 'Ashiana." Nearly two years ago she made an ABC Weekend Special, "Portrait of Grandpa Doc," starring Melvin Douglas and Barbara Rush. Next on her schedule is theatrical film she will produce in England.

"I love filmmaking because it's not a job. Everyone shares their thoughts. I found that we were all alike in that we all wanted to share our values and get them on film.

"I've always had these feelings, but I held them in. In 20 years of acting there was no time to talk it over with a writer or director.'

She does not plan to abandon acting totally, but said, "If I knew in the beginning what I know now, I probably would have gone into production. It's the most exciting thing I've done. I never craved personal attention. I've always loved ideas and seeing them flourish. Now I can put them into a script. When I was acting I couldn't."

A few years back she was in the NBC pilot "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," which did not sell. She has made numerous TV guest appearances, but her only series was ABC's "Here We Go Again," a short-lived comedy about divorced couples who remarry.

Her acting career probably hit its highest peak in 1965 when she made "The Prize" with Newman. She said, "I never did enough to push myself. I wouldn't do it. I wouldn't do the publicity. I said I'll play my parts and that's it. I didn't have what a lot of actresses have, the guts to grab hold and make it

"After that I turned to television. Then the interest in production started to overtake television. She said she hopes that other people will be able to get started as she did. She feels it is important that

Clark expects 'train wreck' quality to aid live program

NEW YORK (AP) -You're on the air live, and watch out for the mike cord!

"We've polished so much in prime time that sometimes there's no heart left," says Dick Clark, who's convinced levision is ready this fall for an hour of variety with an element of chance.

"We call it the 'train wreck' quality," says Clark, a master showman with as much going in TV today as anyone.

'Fire Storm' misfires

Every novel of suspense has to have its share of good and bad guys. That's what it's all about. But when you get too many baddies in one book, the intended shock effect can misfire and the book becomes confusing, even dull.

That's the trouble with this otherwise exciting novel. It starts out at a fast enough pace when a group of Japanese terrorists known as the Red Watch take over a U.S. tanker, spread gasoline on the waters of a small Japanese port and touch it off. Within seconds the harbor turns into blazing hell, incinerating boats and sending a seaside village up in flames.

Charles Corwin, vice president and trouble shooter of a shipbuilding company that owns the hijacked tanker happens to be driving by when the blaze erupts. As he speeds off to notify his superiors, his troubles quickly mount.

A crooked Japanese police inspector tries to frame Corwin as an accomplice of the terrorists, who, incidentally, are planning to repeat their fire-onwater act in a California bay.

When our hero finally reaches his own people he finds they are out to get him, too, fearing he knows too much and will soon realize they are working with the terrorists.

It seems the Japanese are being used as pawns to carry out a much graver act of violence than the Red Watch ever dreamed of. All the terrorists wanted to do was to threaten to blow up a few Mexican dignitaries to persuade their government to spring some Red Watch members from a Mexican jail. The Americans, backed by a shadowy group of high oil-company executives, wnat to blow up a giant cruise ship, thus eliminating the Mexicans plus an idealistic senator and his staff and a few hundred other people. It seems the senator has been winning nationwide attention with his campaign to divest the big petroleum companies of their growing power. So now we have a second good guy, but before long we are led to suspect that even this crusading legislator

Niekro outduels Niekro

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joe Niekro had a bittersweet victory over his brother, while those Pennsylvania blood brothers, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, moved a little closer together in the National

Joe Niekro of Houston beat Phil Niekro of Atlanta 2-0, Joe's third victory in five fraternal decisions, keeping Phil from winning his 20th game. Both knuckleballers said they had a trouble getting a grip on the situation

"I don't like to (face him) if I don't have to," said Joe Niekro, whose 13th victory in 27 decisions kept the Astros from falling below the Braves into the NL West cellar. "We both do our best to win. I don't think it's as tough on him and me as on the folks back

"I want to see him win 20, but I want to win as many as I can, too. Phil feels the same way.

Phil said he talked to his brother before the game and said: 'Beat me the best way you can 'cause I'm gonna beat you the best way I can. That's the way he pitches, and that's the way I do.' Meanwhile, it appears the fourgame, season-ending weekend set in Pittsburgh between the Pirates and Phillies will decide the NL East flag. The Phillies beat Montreal 5-3 to reduce their magic number to three, then lost to Rudy May's four-hitter, Pittsburgh, meanwhile, beat Chicago 5-2 and is 31/2 games behind Phila-

"We'll be ready, and I think we'll have a very good chance to sweep them," said rookie Pirate pitcher Don Robinson, who pitched a six-hitter for his 14th victory in 20 decisions.

Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati downed Los Angeles 6-4, the New York Mets beat St. Louis 3-1 and Gaylord Perry notched his 21st victory as San Diego beat San Francisco

Astros 2, Braves 0

Ken Forsch relieved Joe Niekro in the ninth to save Houston's victory. But Phil will pitch in the Braves' season-ending series against Cincinnati in his bid for his third 20-victory

"I hope he wins that 20th one, and I hope Gaylord gets beat so Phil can win the Cy Young Award," said loyal brother Joe. "He deserves it. I know it's tough to win the Cy Young when you lose 17 games, but when you think what all he's done for this club and all the categories he leads the league in, I really feel he deserves it."

Phils 5-0, Expos 3-3

Jim Kaat, 39 years old and suppos-edly washed up, pitched six solid in-nings for Philadlphia in the first game. Greg Luzinski carried the offense, knocking in three runs with a two-run homer and a single.

"It's satisfying to come back and help," said Kaat, 8-5. "It's like Fran Tarkenton coming back in football, Gaylord Perry winning 20 games. "It helped dispel the old cliche that guys in their mid-30s lose their body skills."

In the nightcap, May bested Tug McGraw, normally a reliever, ending the Phils' six-game winning streak. 'Mission accomplished," said McGraw, who gave up six hits in seven innings in his first appearance since Sept. 15. "I went out there not thinking in terms of starting, but just to work on things to get right."

Pirates 5, Cubs 2 Another greybeard, Willie Stargell, had a big night in Pittsburgh, contributing a three-run homer to the Pirates' 21st straight home victory. The 15th place on the all-time homer list. Manager Chuck Tanner thinks Ro-

Flanagan in gem; KC captures flag

The crowd of 3,662 rose to its feet at Memorial Stadium in Baltimore as left-hander Mike Flanagan faced Cleveland's Gary Alexander for what it hoped would be the final out of the first no-hitter by an Orioles' pitcher since 1969.

Then, almost in unison, they sat down when Alexander launched his 26th home run of the season into the right field bleachers.

'The pitch," Flanagan explained after the 3-1 victory Tuesday night, "was not really where I wanted it." But it was just where Alexander

"He'd been getting me out with curve balls all night," said Alexander, who connected on a 2-1 pitch, "so I was looking for the curve ball. If he had thrown me the fast ball inside, I probably would never have swung But it's hard to second-guess him

Flanagan, 19-14, may well do enough second-guessing himself.
After Alexander touched home plate, he gave up singles to Ted Cox and Duane Kuiper, then was replaced on the mound by Don Stanhouse, who preserved the triumph for Flanagan and recorded his 23rd save in the

Meanwhile, the American League's top East Division teams remained one game apart with five games to play while the Kansas City Royals clinched their third consecutive AL West title. The Yankees beat the Toronto Blue Jays 4-1 behind Ed Figueroa, while Boston ace Dennis Eckersley carried the Red Sox to a 6-0 victory over Detroit

The Royals beat the Seattle Mariners 4-1, while the Oakland A's blasted the Chicago White Sox 10-3, the Minnesota Twins downed the Texas Rangers 6-2 and the California Angels nipped the Milwaukee Brewers 4-3 in Singles by Eddie Murray and Doug DeCinces delivered first-inning runs for Baltimore, and DeCinces added an eighth-inning homer for insurance before Flanagan's errant pitch to

"Our pitchers have been teasing us all year," said Orioles Manager Earl Weaver, "and this was the biggest tease of all." Tuesday night's game marked the fourth time since August

Cowboys, Redskins have no love for each other

IRVING --- It's that special time of the year again. It rains in Midland and the Cowboys, hopefully, get ready to face the Washington Redskins Monday in RFK Stadium.

It may be trite since you've already heard this one zillion times, but there is no love lost between these two teams. Hate is a very strong word, but it is the one these two teams throw around the week before the big game. Of course, it's always a big game-even when it isn't exWASHINGTON, most thought, were supposed to be much weaker this year. So it stands to reason (by NFL standards) that the Redskins are leading the world with a perfect 4-0 record and the world cham-pion Cowboys are chasing one game out of first.

It should have been expected because when Washington meets Dallas there is nearly always something on the line. And that's why this rivalry has mounted to a year-in, year-out mountian-top high for pro football fans. The players of both squads seem to relish these yearly confrontations despite the fact that you can lose an arm or leg. After seeing one of these battles, Washington Irving's headless horseman doesn't seem to be out of the realm of possibility. AFTER Sunday's game with

St. Louis, it was pretty hard to find a Dallas Cowboy who wasn't getting in the swing of the "big week". But over there in the corner of the dressing room, there stood one in silver and blue who doesn't get too estatic about playing Washington anytime-in RFK or in Texas Stadium. Tight end Billy Joe Dupree could care less about the

It's not that Dupree is scared of the Redskins. In fact, Dupree is not scared of anything. He would walk on nails in a California traffic jam to catch a pass. But that is the problem with Dupree and the Redskins. "I like to catch passes," Dupree stated. "But against Washington, I've caught one pass in

Rice looking for some help

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Rice of the Boston Red Sox leads the major leagues in several categories, but he's still looking for help, even from a teammate with a .250 batting aver-

Rice borrowed a bat from Butch Hobson and belted his 44th homer Tuesday night as the Red Sox rode Dennis Eckersley's seven-hit pitching to a 6-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers before a chilled crowd of 27,078 at Fenway Park.

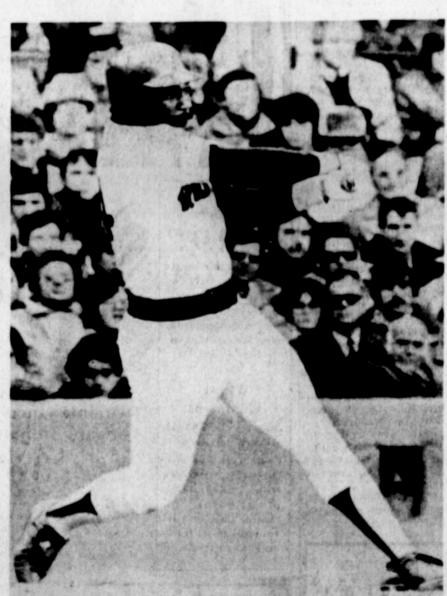

"I'm thinking about winning, nothing else," Rice said after his two-run homer gave Eckersley a 5-0 cushion and helped the Red Sox remain one game behind the New York Yankees in the twilight of the American League East race. Rice, as usual, insisted, "I don't worry about breaking records." He said, for the 100th time this season, homers "ain't nothing if you don't

However, the 25-year-old righthanded slugger continues to move into all-time great company in help-ing the Red Sox try to overtake the Yankees in the final week of the regu-

In the first inning against the Tigers, he lined a single that helped the Red Sox to a 3-0 lead. Then, after Jerry Remy led off the fifth with a single, Rice hoisted a shot halfway up the screen in left center.

While going 2-for-5, Rice boosted his major league-leading totals to 207 hits, 393 total bases, 44 homers, 135 runs batted in and close to .600 in slugging. He also tops the majors with

among the leading contenders for Most Valuable Player in the American League. A lot will depend on who wins the AL East Division. (AP

HOUSTON (AP) — Disgruntled Houston Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini went AWOL from Tuesday's workout following criticism of his play selection in a 10-6 loss to Los Angeles but Coach O.A. 'Bum" Phillips expected everything to be shipshape today.

Phillips said Pastorini, who could not be reached for comment, was just upset at losing the game. "I know that kid as well as I know anyone and right now his feelings are really hurt," Phillips said. "I've never seen a great one that didn't get upset when he lost.

"I don't think he resents the fact that we're going to send in some of the plays as much as he is upset that we lost the game," Phillips said. "I think if we had won the ball game, none of this would have come up."

Phillips said the Oilers actually wouldn't be making any drastic changes in their play-calling. It will amount more to a suggestion.

"The best person to call a play is the man right behind the center," Phil-lips said. "If we send in a play and when Dan comes up and sees there's no way it can work, he'll change it.

"It's not meant as a criticism of Dan," Phillips said Tuesday. "We're just trying to complement what he can do. We put together a game plan based on what the team, we're playing has done against other teams, but in the second third and fourth quarter we can start making decisions based on what they're doing against us."

Top seeds take wins in Atlanta

seeds in the $100,000 Atlanta Women's Tennis Classic - Wimbledon champion Martina Navratilova and Britain's Virginia Wade — have struggled to victories in the opening round of the competition.

Top-seeded Navratilova overcame a tough early challenge from unseeded Ann Kiyomura Tuesdat and went on to win the match 7-6, 6-3.

'I gave Ann too many chances,' said the Czechoslovakian native, who now lives in Texas. "Whenever I started playing worse, Ann's tempo would increase.'

Wade, last year's Wimbledon champion and the No. 3 seed here, had to come from behind to defeat Caroline Stoll 4-6, 6-1, 7-5.

"You get irritated playing a player like that," Wade said. "She puts so much top spin on the ball and it bounces so high you end up hitting everything high over your head."

Tuesday was the second day of opening-round action in the tournament. Second-seeded Chris Evert won easily in her first match Monday.

In other action Tuesday, Zenda Liess defeated 17-year-old amateur Wendy White 6-1, 6-3; South African Yvonne Vermaak surprised Mareen Louie 6-4, 6-3; Jeanne DuVall beat South African Marise Kruger 7-6, 2-6, 6-4 and Lea Antonopolis beat Paula Smith 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

Stockton takes tennis victory

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The defending champion is out of it before the big guns have begun to fire in the $175,000 men's open tennis tourna-ment at the Cow Palace.

Butch Walts, who upset Brian Gott-fried to win here last year, was beaten 6-4, 6-4 Tuesday night by 10th-seeded Dick Stockton.

Not until tonight do four of the tournament's top players see their first action. They are top-seeded Bjorn Borg, Vitas Gerulatis and Gott-fried, seeded 1-2-3, and Arthur Ashe, seeded ninth and winner over Gottfried Monday at Los Angeles. "I know how he feels" Stockton said of Walts. "The same thing happened to me in Philadelphia where I was the defending champion and beaten by Tim Gullickson in the first round. I was out of the tournament before most of the guys even had a match."

Three more players among the top 16 seeds in the stasrting field of 64 won first-round matches Tuesday.

John McEnroe, No. 8 seed, worked past midnight to beat Dave Schneider of South Africa 6-4, 4-6, 7-6, with a 9-7 tiebreaker. Fifth-seeded Roscoe Tanner defeated John Austin 7-5, 6-3, and Gullickson, No. 11, breezed past Dennis Ralston 6-1, 6-4.

They have been averaging over 20 points per game and I think it will take four touchdowns to beat them. CHARLIE WATERS is another Cowboy that looks forward to playing Washington. In a pre-season poll of Redskins, Waters was named as one of the most over rated players in the NFL while Dallas teammate Cliff Harris was tabbed by the Red-skins as one of the dirtiest players. Translated that may only mean that Waters doesn't tackle as hard as Harris, thus Waters is over rated and Harris is dirty.

"The beauty of football is playing in RFK Stadium. They (the Redskins) hate us, and it is fun to beat them up there. Their fans get sick when we win at RFK," Waters said. "I don't think the Redskins like me very well, but you don't make friends everywhere you go."

Friends may be hard to come by in RFK Monday, but maybe Dupree will catch a pass or two while Waters and Harris move up on the latest Washington hit parade list.

Pardee despises Dallas Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) — It was 1972 and the Washington-Dallas rivalry was never any hotter. And Jack Pardee, the new Washington coach, found himself right in the middle of a controversy as a line-backer for George Allen's team.

Dallas wide receiver Lance Alworth dogged Pardee all day with crackback blocks that finally sent Pardee limping to the sidelines. Later Washington retaliated and a Charley Taylor block put Cowboy linebacker Chuck Howley on the bench for the Pardee has despised the Cowboys since that day. And the topic came up again Monday a full week before the once-beaten World Champions travel to Washington to play the unbeaten Redskins in a critical National Conference Eastern Division game.

"I didn't think it (the crackback) was a very good tactic at the time and I still don't," said Pardee in a tele-phone hookup with Dallas writers. "I'm not all that fond of the Cowboys. However, Dallas is great competi-great rivalry. When you are in Washington on a Monday night it's an interesting spot to be."

Pressed on the point, Landry said
"I'd like to beat them."

Landry said of Pardee "He has a good memory. That crackback thing was back in 1972. That's history."

Landry added "Jack is using the crackback right now. It's legal (above the waist) and ours was too back when we were using it."

The defending World Champion Cowboys trail the unbeaten Redskins by a full game in the National Conference Eastern Division and Landry said "We've got to beat them if we are going to do any good."

"It's too early to call it a must game because the division will be won in the last part of the season. You've got to be within striking distance after eight games. I'm sure they (The Redskins) feel good about the game. They can lose it and still be tied."

Landry said "The Redskins are playing much better than I thought they would be."

He said he thought Pardee was following the old Allen pattern of getting his team psyched.

Landry said "Washington has always been a psychological team. If George could get you thinking about something else it bothers you-you have a problem. Pardee has kept a lot of things he learned around Allen." The Cowboys will have to juggle their offense because of the loss of weeks because of a broken arm. "We just don't have the flexibility we would like to have," said Landry.

But the champagne festival lacked the intensity of the last two.

"It's not really as exciting," said John Wathan. "We've been this far before. Now we'd like to know what it's like to go farther."

They'll get that chance in the playoffs against whoever surviv8es the pressure in the East.
