TIPS...

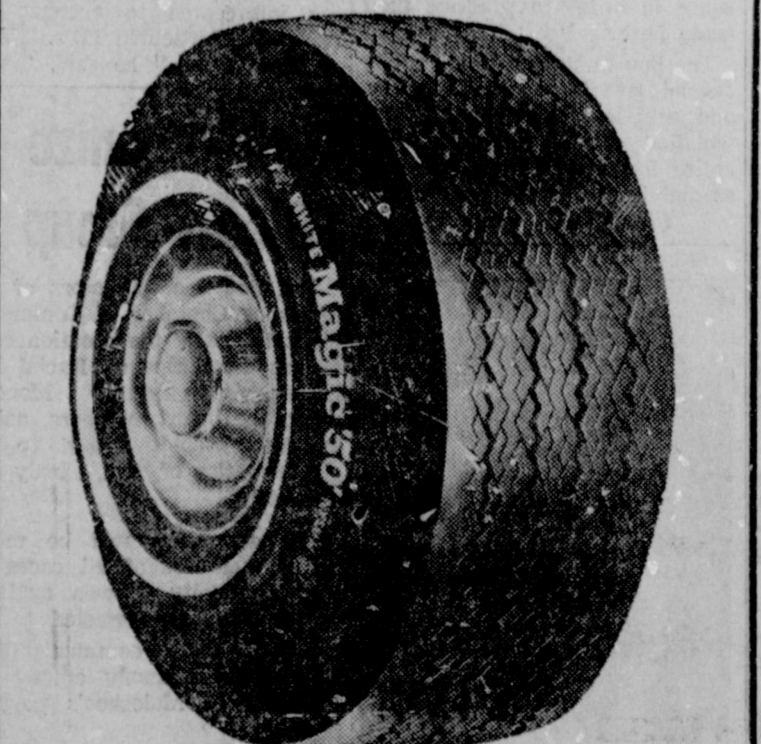

FROM THE OFFICE OF HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT

Since school time has rolled around again, it is a good time for us to discuss what the parents' responsibility is toward the health of Jimmy and Susie early in the school year. Each school age child should have visited his dentist for a dental check-up, and his doctor for immunizations and a hearing and eye examination. Toothaches can cause the school child to perform his tasks poorly. Often a child is considered slow when actually is a bright child who is unable to hear or see well enough to do his school work. If his hearing and vision had been checked before beginning school, they could have been corrected permitting Jimmy or Susie to do his best work and to learn along with his classmates, and to learn along with hisclassmates. Remember, before your child is brought home ill or with a toothache or brings home a poor report card that proper medical care is necessary for him to do his best work and to learn.

(Continued from page 1) and glad to pick up a little extra dough. She had been teaching history for 88 years and in 25 more years, would retire. The Philias' average life span is 192 years.

Sally learned many things about Philia that her history books had never mentioned. She was surprised to discover that the Philias had abolished war more than 4,000 years ago, believing that long ago that war never decided anything.

In fact, said her teacher, "for many years we have been studying American culture and we have been surprised to find that you people still have wars."

She told Sally about the hundreds of times over a period of several centuries when Philia has sent space ships to hover over the United States—or sometimes France or Japan to study Worldlings. She had been on three of the scouting parties herself.

"Why were you never detected?" Sally asked.

"Well, as you know, we developed the ability to make our ships and ourselves invisible," the Philia teacher explained, "but there were times when we did reveal ourselves to a number of persons, but nobody would believe the story they told. In fact, you never did accept as until late in the 20th century when we decided to risk a mission to fly straight to Washington. Even then some of the people in your country thought your government officials were nuts, as you would say. It took considerable doing to convince them that we were actually from another planet and that we were on a peaceful mission."

WARLDORF WEEKEND — IDL drug stores announced the winner of the Free "Weekend at the Waldorf" contest. The winner is Mrs. Jim Carter of Canyon. Her name was drawn from almost 10,000 names of those who entered the contest. Mr. and Mrs. Carter will spend three days and two nights in New York City at the fabulous Waldorf.

"Yes," said Sally "and I remember reading about the president making a trip to your world in one of your space ships. The entire flight was carried on television."

"I think your people thought we would be little green people who would literally eat you up if they came near; that's why when our people actually walked the streets of New York and Kansas City and Dallas you wouldn't believe they were from another planet. They even had to learn to eat all that gob of food that you folks were eating at that time. Thank goodness we've transformed The World into pill eaters, too. Of course they were right when they said our space ships gave off a green light; that's because of the fuel we burn in spaceships. Philia, you know, is the greatest producer of space fuel in the Universe, and we export millions of pounds of green space fuel each year to The World."

I was like that all summer as Sally and her teacher, Miss Coppenheimer, traveled and studied the wonderful planet of Philia.

And when she went back to school that fall in good old USA, she was the most sought-after pupil in her school. While the other kids told about spending a prosaic summer in the Canadian Rockies or in France, Sally described life on Philia, the planet of Brotherly love.

Needless to say, she breezed through Philia history that year with a straight A. She's going to college this fall and will major in Philia history. Of course before she gets her doctorate, she plans to spend three or four more years on Philia. "Philia," she will tell anybody, "is one of the greatest planets in the world. I just wish everybody could visit Philia once anyway."

Bovina Man, 22, Killed at Fair

A fatal shooting in the parking lot Saturday night at the Curry County fair in Clovis left one man dead and his father-in-law in jail in Clovis, charged with murder.

Jailed was 47-year-old Leslie Adams Alford, Bovina. Slain was Alford's son-in-law, Lee Stephens, 22, also of Bovina.

Alford was arrested early Monday at the Clovis stockyards. He admitted the shooting during a family argument, but said he did not intend to kill Stephens. The shooting took place after Stephens allegedly struck his estranged wife during the argument.

The Clovis News-Journal says Stephens, after being hit, turned and ran from the area south 114 yards before collapsing near the carnival area. The bullet entered near the heart.

The wife, Dorothy Jean Stephens, had left her husband some three weeks ago, following a series of arguments and fights and was living with her parents.

Mrs. Stephens told police there had been "trouble before with Stephens" and that he had struck her several times.

She said she finally left, taking her small baby, and went to her mother and father. She said Saturday, about 10 p. m., she, her father and mother, a sister, Jeannie, a sister Eloise, a sister, Alice, a brother, Leslie and a niece, Baleria, and her little baby, Darrell went to the Curry County Fair.

When leaving, they ran into her husband, Horace Lee, who asked her to go back home with them.

"I told him I didn't know whether I would or not," she told officers, and then said she got into her father's car.

She said Stephens then pulled her back out of the car and that she again got back into the auto, going with him. I told him," Mrs. Stephens said, "I did not want to go."

Mrs. Stephens told police her mother, Annice Alford, then got out of the car, and took hold of one arm, trying to get her loose from Stephens while Stephens was pulling on the other arm.

She said Stephens then slapped her across the face, she heard a shot and saw that "my daddy had gotten out of the car."

She said her father got back in the car and said he thought he had hit Horace, but, she said, she and her mother told her father they didn't think so, and the family drove off.

She said they went to a church on Thornton and parked under some trees, then went to the home of a grandmother. She said her mother and sister then went to

A New Mexico law requiring a 60-day waiting period before condemnation action can be taken will mean the New Mexico portion of the proposed road can not be started until late November.

Stephens said the short route to Portales will take some 15 miles off the present highway to Portales which now goes through Clovis. Except for portions on both ends of the 34-mile route, the new highway will be a dirt road, but Stephens said it is the hope of both New Mexico and Texas officials that the route can be paved before long.

BRISTOL, England (AP) — A 62-year-old local bagpiper, with the appropriately Scottish name of James Duncan Stewart, is so considerate of his neighbors that he drives to a near-by railway overpass and practices his piping, even in freezing weather, in the tunnel where he doesn't disturb anyone.

An executive meeting will be held September 30, and the next general meeting of the Band Boosters will be held, October 21. At this time plans will be completed for the Halloween Carnival.

The Hinn Soybean, first product of the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway, gets the once-over from Barry Love, left, in charge of plant breeding at the foundation; Frank Moore, foundation president and Dr. Earl Collister, foundation director. Rosy Future Is Seen For Plains Soybeans

By TOBY DRUIN
Last Week

Soybeans were labeled Tuesday as a crop that in years to come can be expected to compete with wheat for cash returns on the High Plains.

Barry Love, assistant agronomist at the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway, made the soybean-versus-wheat statement Friday afternoon at a news conference called to bring area newsmen up to date on the development of the Hinn soybean.

The newsmen saw evidence to back up the statement at the Frank Moore farm at Barwise where 123 acres of the Foundation-developed soybeans are being produced. Similar plots, though smaller, are at the R. C. Mitchell farm at Lockney, Bob Kirchoff and Clyde Harrell farms at Halfway and George Sides farm at Dimmitt.

Seed Available by 1965

All of the plots are being grown under supervision of the Research Foundation which will provide seed for certified seed growers when the beans are harvested this fall. Seed growers who have cooperated with the foundation will be given priority in the distribution of the seed which should be available to farmers by 1965.

The Hinn Soybean, first product of the foundation specifically developed for High Plains farmers, is named for Harold Hinn, chairman of the foundation board of directors. It was developed by Dr. Earl Collister, foundation director, from breeding material obtained from Johannesburg, South Africa.

The plant is large and heavily branched with fruit on every branch located high enough off of the ground to facilitate combining. Love and Collister expect the average annual yield to be from 40-45 bushels per acre in Hale County and surrounding areas. Early planted beans will mature in approximately 130 days.

The Hinn Soybean has exhibited remarkable growth over the entire High Plains although in the past a distance of 50 miles north or south has necessitated variety changes in other beans. Not so with the Hinn variety. It has produced equally well on Farm-Centered Research plots throughout the area.

New Law Requires School Attending

New Law requires children to attend school a minimum of 165 days per school year.

All children between the ages of 6 and 17 must attend school. By State Law it is the duty of the parent or guardian to see that their children attend school regularly.

Article 299 of the Compulsory Education Law states, "Any parent, upon conviction for failure to comply with the provisions of this law, shall be fined for the first offense five dollars, and for the second offense ten dollars, and for each subsequent offenses twenty-five dollars."

This factor is important, according to Dr. Collister. "I think the Hinn Soybean will go all over the state," he said.

The soybean breeding program was originated at the foundation in 1959. Seed was obtained from growers throughout the world. The Anderson-Clayton Co., of Paymaster Farms also contributed to the nursery stock from 18 years of soybean research. Enough strains of varying size were received to make the research work possible.

Continuous Research
The research program is a continuous process. Two other early maturing varieties will soon be out to aid farmers implementing double cropping systems and in the event of severe spring weather.

Extensive research has been done and is continuing also in the practice of interplanting soybeans with cotton. Increased lint yield and quality and therefore increased income per acre have been achieved through the interplanting scheme.

A bottle of raspberry syrup in the house? This delightful concoction, indispensable to Europeans, has been making its way around this country and is available in a good many shops. Add some of the syrup to cut-up fresh fruit or couple it with club soda and ice for a refreshing beverage.

USED VARIETY OF METHODS

Moore Is Looking Toward Whopping Sorghum Crop

Frank Moore of Plainview, one of the many Plains farmers who aren't afraid of new ideas, is expecting this fall to harvest a 10,000-pound-per-acre grain sorghum crop and he'll do it at a minimum of cost.

The crops are being grown on two of his farms, 127 acres at Barwise and almost 100 more southwest of Plainview.

Jack Parks, assistant agricultural engineer in charge of flame cultivation at the High Plains Research Foundation of which Moore is president, sums up the crop with the statement, "We think we've broken the yield barrier."

The crop has been achieved with a variety of methods, chiefly the use of a grain drill to sow four rows of seed in 40 inches instead of the usual one. Flame cultivation, four waterings, and some 287 pounds of fertilizer per acre have done the rest.

Moore got the idea at the research foundation last year. A similar test there limited to usual fertilizer applications resulted in no increased yields. Moore simply tripled his fertilizer to 187 pounds of anhydrous ammonia and 100 pounds of 0-46-0 and doubled the yield. Dr. Earl Collister, foundation director, thinks Moore's estimate of 10,000 is conservative and that it might hit 12,000.

Moore listed and pre-watered his seed bed before the first planting in April. When the grain sorghum reached 10 inches in height a flame cultivator was used to remove the weeds from the field. Just enough heat was applied to burn the weeds.

The flaming was the last time Moore has had a tractor in the field. The grain sorghum quickly recovered from the effects of the flaming and soon shaded the entire field, cutting the weed problem to a minimum.

Moore said the intense shade cut down on evaporation in the field and saved water. The lack of weeds in the field also freed his equipment for use elsewhere.

He sees the practice as a boon to farmers as well as seed producers, fertilizer manufacturers and dealers in I.P. gas.

POSTAGE SAVER

SEATTLE, Wash (AP) — A letter sent by Robert Roose of Brugge, Belgium, took three and a half years to get here, but it wasn't the fault of the postal department.

Norman L. Hovland, head of the Industrial Arts Department at Garfield High School, found the letter in a bottle while walking on the beach in front of his home.

The note, in excellent condition after having floated halfway around the world, said:

"September 19, 1959. Near Saigon, Viet Nam. Around the world trip. Please report where and when you found this note."

Hovland decided to use the regular service for his reply.

ENMU to Blast Grid Season

PORTALES—The 1963 football season gets under way Saturday for the Greyhounds of Eastern New Mexico University when they collide with the New Mexico State Aggies in Las Cruces.

And the initial encounter will be a tough one for the Hounds because it is the opener, because the always tough Aggies appear much improved over last year, and because the Hounds' inexperienced line will have to mature the hard way—under fire.

A Warren Woodson coached team is always hard to beat and ENMU head coach Carl Richardson says he is sure this year will be no exception.

Richardson, who has compiled a 51-35-2 record in nine years at the Greyhound helm, is worried about the Hounds' ability to stop James "Preacher" Pilot who will be trying to become the first three-time winner of the NCAA rushing crown and who needs only 600 yards to set a career rushing mark.

"What I'm worried about is that Pilot will be out to make all 600 of those yards against us," Richardson said.

Farm Product Prices Down

WASHINGTON (AP) The Agriculture Department has reported that farm product prices decreased 1 per cent between mid-July and mid-August.

Primarily responsible for this change were lower prices for such items as commercial vegetables, especially tomatoes and lettuce, and for cattle and hogs. Partially offsetting were higher prices for wholesale milk, potatoes and eggs.

The mid-August farm price level was 1 per cent below a year earlier.

Prices paid by farmers for goods and services used in production and family living declined one-third of 1 per cent during the same period. The change was largely the result of lower prices for some family living items.

The mid-August level of prices paid by farmers was 2 per cent above a year earlier.

Winter Grain Mite Control

It is almost time for farmers and ranchmen to seed small grains, says H. A. Turney, area entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The entomologist reminds that fields which have been planted in small grain for the past three to four years should not be replanted to this crop, because of the possibility of winter mite damage. The rotation will help to control the destructive pest, he said.

The winter grain mite builds up to damaging populations in late winter and early spring, Turney explains. The necessity of chemical control can be eliminated or decreased to a great extent by the use of rotation, he adds.

For additional information about winter grain mite control, contact your local county agent.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Vern Sanford

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Now in effect is a new compulsory school attendance law which requires school children, ages seven to 16, to go to school 165 days out of each 175-day school year.

Before the 58th Legislature passed this law, the minimum attendance requirement was 120 days. This left a wide margin for truancy—especially by children of migrant farm workers who are on the move two to four months out of the year.

Laxity of compulsory attendance laws has been cited as one reason for the high rate of illiteracy among Latin Americans. Texas' rate of illiteracy is high for all races. It has been estimated that almost 10 per cent of the state's population is functionally illiterate.

A recent U. S. census survey showed that the average school child in Texas, with a Spanish they have to do is say, 'Here I am.'

PROGRAM PRAISED—Dr. E. F. Knippling—known as the "father of the screwworm eradication program"—addressed Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation trustees at their annual meeting in Austin, and praised the progress of their eradication program against complacency. Knippling reported that in August, only 81 screwworm cases were reported in Texas, compared to 5,988 in August, 1952. But a large percentage of the 81 were in the Trans-Pecos area.

Animal health officials feel the Trans-Pecos problem is a direct result of screwworm flies migrating from Mexico. Mexico's northern border has been the target of sterile fly drops for several months now. But newly-gained knowledge that the fly can travel about 180 miles on his own volition is worrying the officials.

Knippling said, "We must intensify our survey efforts to find where fly drops will be most effective; then widen the barrier to prevent infestation."

FALL RAINS PROBLEM—Charlie Scruggs of Dallas, president of the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation, said his group is beginning to worry about a growing rate of screwworm infestation when fall rains come.

Cool weather and dampness, usually associated with early fall, may couple with shearing and calving wounds to foster screwworms if livestock producers don't take precautions. Scruggs said an "information campaign" will be launched soon. NEW OFFICERS—Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde is the new president of SWAHRF. The young rancher just completed a term as president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, before he took the animal health post.

New vice-president is Joe Lane of Alpine. T. J. Richards of Paducah is secretary-treasurer.

EDUCATORS MEETING SET—Texas Association of School Administrators and Texas Association of School Boards will hold a joint meeting in Austin September 22 and 23 to hear talks on education in the Space Age. They will hold seminars on: School dropouts, the migrant pupil, religion and the schools, teaching and textbook selection in Texas.

POLL TAX REPEAL—Campaign for repeal of the poll tax as a requirement for voting was launched by the Texas League of Women Voters, with Gov. John Connally and Vice President Lyndon Johnson giving their support to the movement.

On November 8 Texans will vote on a constitutional amendment to remove the 60-year-old requirement that you pay a poll tax to vote. Texas voting will be under the shadow of a proposed U. S. constitutional amendment outlawing taxes on the right to vote in elections of Federal officials already have ratified this amendment, and when two more approve, it will go into effect.

Texas Legislature provided Texans a "do it yourself first" route by submitting the proposed constitution at the November 9 election. There is no chance for re-election. There is no chance for the U. S. amendment to go into effect until after that date.

TOURIST—Texas first form al effort to attract tourists will get under way now that Governor Connally has appointed the seven men to head the new Texas Tourist Development Agency. Interestingly enough, most of the seven are natives of other states, indicating the Connally felt they would know best how to bring other Americans into Texas.

Frank Hildebrand Jr., former Louisiana, Baytown, Houston and Dallas news writer, will be executive director. For the last year, he has been chief of the travel promotion section of the Texas Highway Department.

On the advisory board which will help Connally direct Hildebrand are Bill Berger of the Honolulu Herald and president of the Texas Press Association; Chris Fox, El Paso banker; James M. Gaines, San Antonio radio-TV executive and president of the Texas Tourist Council, John McCarty, of Dallas, vice president of advertising for Frito-Lay, Inc.; G. A. (Pop) Mabry, Houston, public relations director for Humble Oil & Refining Co.; and John Powell, Austin hotelman.

AGING—State Senator Walter H. Richter of Gonzales was named by Governor Connally to head the Governor's Committee on Aging.
