MERKA, Somalia (AP) - A oneyear countdown starts today to see if smallpox, one of the five killer diseases to ravage the world since the dawn of history, is licked for good.

If by Oct. 26, 1979, no new cases are reported in six nations in East Africa and the Middle East, the World Health Organization will declare the disease wiped from the face of the

The only remaining chance of infection would be from virus stocks stored in laboratories.

As recently as 1966, smallpox accounted for between 500,000 and 1,000, 000 deaths a year worldwide. Ali Maow Maalin, who has the dubious distinction of being the last man known to catch smallpox naturally, lives in this small town on the edge of the Indian Ocean.

Maalin, a 23-year-old hospital cook, was infected Oct. 26, 1977, during a three-minute ride in a jeep that was carrying two children with smallpox.

If there are no new cases in Somalia. Ethiopia, Kenya, Djibouti and North and South Yemen by the second anniversary of Ali's infection medical experts say they will consider the disease beaten.

"I am fully confident that in one year's time we will be able to confirm that the disease has disappeared,' says Dr. Isao Arita, head of the WHO smallpox eradication campaign.

"Smallpox is carried by the breath so anybody close to a victim can catch it." said Dr. Zdenek Jezek, who organized the campaign against the dis-

WHO doesn't count the infection of two people in Birmingham, England, in August, apparently from virus stored in a laboratory. Jezek, who was in charge of the program that eliminated smallpox in India. Bangladesh and Pakistan, says he is confident the Somali hospital cook will be the last person to catch the disease naturally.

WHO wants virus stocks to be kept only in centers that rigidly enforce security precautions in collaboration

Stocks are maintained in at least 11 laboratories in South Africa, the United States, West Germany, the Soviet Union, the Netherlands, Britain, China and Japan. Arita wants this reduced to two laboratories.

The breakthrough in beating smallpox was a technique developed by Dr. William Foege, now director of the Center for Communicable Diseases in

He was in charge of the smallpox eradication program in West Africa and realized there was not enough vaccine or manpower to immunize

"He noted that if you could encircle an area where there was a smallpox outbreak and lock it in, the disease would not break out," said WHO information officer Jim Magee.

The conquest of smallpox, says Arita, will remove the need to vaccinate against the disease. Already 130 countries no longer require vaccination certificates for travelers.

WHO calculates $2 billion will be saved annually.

Peace drive shaken by Israeli action

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Israel-Egyptian peace drive was shaken today when Israel announced it is strengthening existing Jewish settlements in the West Bank in apparent pique at the United States, and Egypt said it may recall its Washington peace negotiators for consultations.

HOME EDITION

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance issued a statement in Washington saying the Carter administration was 'deeply disturbed" by the Israeli move, which he called a "very serious" matter.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan acknowledged that the settlements decision may "make it more difficult" to reach final agreement with Egypt on a peace treaty.

Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil told reporters in Cairo a recall of the Egyptian negotiators would be "purely routine." But it would rule out the scheduled resumption of the peace talks Friday in Washington.

In another development today, Syria and Iraq signed a "charter for joint national action" to oppose the Camp David peace framework agreed to by Egypt and Israel. The alliance is particularly significant be cause it ends a long bitter feud between the rival factions of the Baath Socialist Party that rule the two Arab neighbors

Israeli government officials said the decision to expand Jewish settlements in the West Bank of the Jordan River was made in angry reaction to statements made privately by Undersecretary of State Harold Saunders over the future of the Palestinian-populated zone

In a closed meeting with West Bank Palestinian leaders last week. Saunders reportedly hinted that Israel might evacuate its West Bank enclaves at the end of the five-year transition period envisioned by the Camp David agreements. He also reportedly reaffirmed the U.S. position that Arab East Jerusalem, annexed by Israel after the 1967 war, is considered by Washington to be occupied

"If you want to give the plan a name, you could call it the Saunders project," one Israeli official quipped about the settlements expansion.

The decision to build more apartments and send more Jewish families to settlements in the West Bank was made at a lengthy Israeli Cabinet meeting on the proposed treaty with Egypt but wasn't revealed until the end of late night political meetings.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin's Cabinet decided Wednesday to accept in principle the draft peace treaty but sent Dayan and Defense Minister Ezer Weizman back to Washington today with instructions to seek amendments in the text.

The tricks were in the hullabaloo generated by kids and grown-ups in their mingling together in the fun booths, such as the sponge throw, spookhouse and ring toss; the 'junk"-filled country store, and the cake auction.

They all cost money — from two bits for a potluck item from the country store to more than 40 bucks for a cake in the benefit auction.

Getting the cakes ready for the Saturday night bash was fun, perhaps, but a chore nevertheless.

'Cake baking's nothing,'' said Scoutmaster John Johnson, who wrestled with the batter in helping sons Allen, 14, and Mike 12, in the bake-off. "The icing is what's hard." And it's the fancily-done icing, not the texture and taste of the baked batter itself, which plays the major role in winning the judges' favor.

That's what happened last weekend, when the Boy Scouts of Midkiff BSA Troop 24 pulled off their second

On Oct. 6, the GSA conveyed to the city of Big Spring 51/2 acres for the hangar construction site. Lockheed will make the modifica

Other major aircraft service companies, such as McDonnell Douglas and Rockwell International, are bidding for the work. McDonnell Douglas earlier this year was awarded a contract to modify the Air Force version of the aircraft.

Should Lockheed not be awarded the contract, Big Spring officials have said they expect to attract another major aircraft service company to air

Mayor Choate noted that military aircraft are being modified rather than new ones being built during these peacetime years.

a useful purpose in overcite of state government, providing it is not used 'as a cosmetic change" for the sake of consolidating government bodies, according to Snelson very worthwhile. There is a legitimate public interest to be served by its function in determining how well a government agency is performing, Snelson said.

"If a government agency is serving a useful purpose and can be improved, then we ought to improve it. If a government agency is not functioning, then it ought to be eliminated. I don't think we ought to consolidate for the sake of consolidation. We wouldn't accomplish much that

Regarding allegations that petroleum waste discharges into open pits and plava lakes in West Texas is threatening to migratory birds and ground water, Snelson said he believes environmentalists and the oil industry should be able to strike a happy medium in the best interests of the Permian Basin. "We've got to always balance the ecological concerns with the economical concerns. It is important for future generations that our natural resources not be contaminated. And we have to realize that oil production is the backbone of our economy,' Snelson said.

"I just don't think we ought to go off half-cocked and say that shutting everything down is a solution or (that) letting everything run wild is a solution. We have a responsibility to look at both sides of the issues before making decisions."

Hance then told the audience that the purpose of having campaign expenditure reporting laws was to let the public see where a candidate is getting his money

"You saw what happened in 1972 with Watergate. That's why we have these reporting laws. He then claimed the number of contributors Bush has from outside the district, and especially the northeast part of the country, is an issue in the campaign

"These contributions from the Northeast concern me," he said. "The Northeast has been in direct conflict with us on oil and gas and agricul-

Bush retaliated later by saying: "I've had over 3,000 contributors to my campaign. That shows a lot of work for someone who was not given a chance to win. Do you want me to give it back," he asked the audience, "or would he (Hance) have taken it if he had been offered it?"

The crowd of about 300 gave Bush a round of applause.

Concerning Bush's education, Hance said: "Yale and Harvard don't prepare you as well for running for the 19th Congressional District as Texas Tech does. He then added, "He (Bush) doesn't have as good credentials as I have by living here (in the district) all my Agriculture is a major issue, it would seem, but the two men appeared to disagree on how to solve the problems in that area. Bush said while Hance prefers adoption of the Nowlin Bill, he prefer-sets the price for selling a commodity and then says how much you can sell

On the subject of each candidate having campaigned for more than a year for an office with a two-year term, each man said he feels he can be effective once he gets to Congress, and neither said he prefers extending the length of term for a congress-

"from day one." Although he said he knows the members of the Texas Caucus in Congress, he said it is not those that cause the problem but the "liberal Democrats and those are the ones we must battle against.'

Hance brought up Bush's father, who had served as a congressman. with "My dad and granddad have had nothing to do with what's happened in Washington. How can someone say he will be a vote to get things done when a member of his own family couldn't

Instead, Hance said, by virtue of his knowing members of the Texas delegation he feels he can draw committee assignments which would be helpful to the 19th District.

A void in space

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration entered its 21st year recently facing, among other things, a diminished share of the federal budget.

As if to underscore the point, the White House recently released a lengthy statement of its space policy for the coming decade. A NASA official tactifully characterized the Carter administration's shrinkage of the space program as "a go-easy approach."

Actually, the policy statement describes a space program pared to the bone.

Space exploration will continue to be de-emphasized. Only unmanned vehicles will be assigned exploratory missions and then only when there appears a good chance for direct collateral benefits.

Projects designed to explore the feasibility of space colonization, manufacturing in space and solarpower satellites were specifically rejected.At NASA, the glory days may be over for quite some time.

The space agency's basic political problem is that its constituency generally is limited to its own employees, a few visionaries in the scientific community and some factions within the aviation and aerospace industries. Public support has proved transitory and NASA no longer has a friend in the White House. The popular fever to cut taxes and government spending compounds the space program's problems.

Declining public support for space programs can be attributed in part to a lack of public understanding of the real worth of these endeavors.

Weighed against its benefits. the cost of the space program has always represented a bargain. Since 1958 NASA has spent a total of just under $72 billion.Counting space program contributions from other federal agencies, the average cost of America's two-decade effort in space is $100 billion.

Aside from the direct benefits of our immense new knowledge of space and space travel, the program's so-called technological spin-offs are truly impressive.

They include: the revolution in electronics made possible by miniaturization of components and circuitry, quantum leaps in computer science, much of the most advanced intensive-care equipment used in hospitals, a whole range of new fire-retardant fabrics and materials, space photography with all its geological, agricultural and military applications, a vast new knowledge of climate and weather patterns which has transformed the science of meteorology, and a similar revolution in communications and navigation due entirely to satellites.

The value of these developments, of course, is incalculable.

A failure to comprehend the central role the space program played in the evolution of these technologies is deplorable enough.

It could be that this particular account of the multiple benefits of the program, in addition to the direct benefits, has not received the publicity accorded the overall program. This quite likely is something completely new to the average citizen.

But we wonder also if waning support for space exploration. might signify something far more disturbing and profound.

If exploration is an act of faith motivated by confidence in the future, what does the present apathy toward space programs tell us about the nation's vision?

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare now spends more in nine days than NASA spends in a year. Can that be the extent of this nation's collective desire to push back the boundaries of man's physical limitations? It is hoped that this is not the case.

Nevertheless, it's something to think about.

ART BUCHWALD Neutron 'discussion' leads to the Gong Show

WASHINGTON - My wife and I were watching the Evening News when Walter announced that President Carter had given the go-ahead to the Defense Department to start making the components for a neutron bomb. Walter said that while the components would be manufactured, they would not be assembled at the present

My wife, whose only weakness is she doesn't keep up on sophisticated nuclear weaponry, turned to me and

"What's a neutron weapon?" "It is designed to kill people without destroying property. We call it an enhanced radiation weapon," I told "Who's we?"

"Those of us in the military-industrial complex.' "Are you in the military-industrial complex?" she wanted to know. "No, but some of my best friends are. It's one helluva piece of hardware. With the right warhead you can zap a battalion of Soviet tanks 80 miles away," I said. "Why do we need it?" she wanted to

"That's the most stupid question I ever heard. We need every type of nuclear weapon we can get. We've got hydrogen bombs and atomic warheads, and Nike and Polaris missiles. But they're too powerful to use in the field. The neutron weapon fills the gap and lowers the kill threshold to just the right level to fight a civilized war.

"Do the Russians have it?" she

Art Buchwald

"They certainly do not. All they have is monster weapons that can destroy entire cities. They're in a lot of trouble.'

"I guess I should know this," she said, "but if the Soviets don't have a neutron weapon and we do, how do we prevent them from using their monster weapons after we use our small ones on them?"

"Because if they use their monster ones they know we'll use ours, and then we'll destroy each other," I said patiently

"But if we use the neutron weapon against their armies in the field, won't we be destroying them? They're certainly not going to stand by and see all their men and tanks destroyed without retaliating with everything they've got."

"I'm sorry but I'm not at liberty to answer that at this time," I replied.

"Can I ask you another question? If we have developed a smaller weapon that just kills people and doesn't destroy property, what is to prevent the Soviets from doing the same thing?" 'They don't have the know-how to make a neutron bomb or they would have before now.' "That's what you said about the atomic bomb after World War II." "Can you keep a secret?" I asked

"You know I can."

'Carter really doesn't care if we have a neutron bomb or not. But he wants a SALT treaty very badly. Even if the Soviets agree to one, he'll have a hard time getting the Senate to approve it. So by announcing he was going ahead with the neutron bomb, he'll win over the senators who are against SALT."

'Then," she said, "Carter's not going ahead with the neutron weapon to impress the Soviets, but to placate the U.S. Senate?"

Has CORE leader divided group?

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - It is sad to see a once-renowned organization falling apart at the seams. But that's what is happening to the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE)

When it was founded 36 years ago, CORE earned a reputation for high idealism and courageous if rambunctious leadership. It played a decisive role in the civil rights demonstrations which cracked the wall of segregation beyond repair. CORE's record was a proud one.

But now, the organization is being torn asunder by partisan bickering and charges of financial improprieties against a backdrop of

At the center of the controversy is Romannis, a Virgin Islands native who took over as head of CORE in 1968. He dedicated himself to improving the condition of black communities across the nation, and raised millions of dollars to further this worthy goal. But present and former CORE staff members have told us that money and power - and perhaps a short-lived friendship with Ugandan President Idi Amin - have turned Innis into a despot who considers CORE his personal property. In an inept parody of Louis XIV's famous comment, "I am the state," Innis once blurted out at a staff meeting that he was the 'King of France" and CORE was his kingdom.

Law enforcement authorities have now moved into the fray. The FBI and local police are looking into allegations that Innis ordered the shooting or beating of former colleagues who displeased him in one way or another. New York State authorities are also probing charges that Innis diverted CORE funds for his personal use.

In conversations with us, Innis ehemently denied all charges and heaped scorn on his accusers.

Meanwhile, we reported allegations that Innis ordered the execution of dissident CORE members, the nonfatal shooting of a former staff aide. and beatings of CORE members. In the context of a bitter feud between Innis, CORE founder James Farmer, and others in the organization, it is possible that some of these charges are either exaggerated or imaginary.

But we have obtained strong corroboration of the charge that Innis ordered the shooting of an ex-CORE member in Washington, D.C., back in 1974. The evidence includes a signed confession by the man who claimed to have pulled the trigger and testimony by another man who claimed to have witnessed the shooting. Similar corroboration was obtained by our associates Gary Cohn and Tony Capaccio of the charge that Innis personally ordered the beating of Ray Cunningham, a former CORE fund-raiser, who was set upon by three CORE employees wielding rubber mallets in Los Angeles in November 1976. The three were convicted of the assault earlier this

After his sentencing last summer, Peay told the Los Angeles County District Attorney that Innis had ordered the beating. He told the same story to the FBI's Washington field office, and later repeated it to our associate Gary

Peay was described by James Farmer as a "completely reliable" witness. And evidence suppressed at the trial of Peay and the two other CORE members, Terry Shumake and William "Tank" Hill, adds circumstantial support to the contention that Innis ordered the beating. Peay and Hill were picked up by sheriff's deputies outside Cunningham's apartment the night before the beating. The deputies found stocking masks and rubber mallets in their car, which police sources said was leased by CORE. And according to law enforcement sources. Peay and Hill told them they had come to town to "inflict a beating on a brother who screwed up. Two CORE officials obtained

Peay's and Hill's release, and one of the officials told police that organization takes care of its own disciplinary problems.' The next day, outside Cunningham's new place of business, the three beat him up. The fact that the thrashing was committed in broad daylight lends weight to the belief that Innis intended it as a warning to others who might be tempted to step out of line. Innis shrugged off Peay's allegations. "They've been raising that charge against me all the time.' he said. He explained that Peay sees himself as another Joe Valachi, the Mafia "soldier" who ratted on the organization in Senate testimony 15 "Every cheap hoodlum who wants to play games with the cops tries to get off for his own crimes with this cheap stunt," Innis sneered. "The Valachi syndrome, I call it.'

Daddy (a teacher) is still at camp (in jail)

By MARK SULLIVAN

MILFORD, Conn. (AP) — Jim Santo told his three young children he was going to camp - the kind of story many parents come up with to explain to a child something that just can't be explained.

Santo did, in fact, go to camp. He spent six days at the National Guard's Camp Hartell, with some 260 other Bridgeport teachers jailed last month for ignoring a back-to-work order during a 19-day

It was the largest mass jailing of striking teachers in American history but only one episode in a widely fought labor battle of the 1970s. The National Education Association says there have been 130 teacher strikes in 21 states this fall. Last year, there were 152, and in 1975-76, 203. And, says an NEA spokeswoman in Washington, 'What we are seeing more of than ever is increased jailings of teachers. What is it like for a teacher who has always led a law-abiding life? What pushed him to it? How did his

The strike left Santo with a rocky family budget, a temporarily alienated 3-year-old - and a sense of accomplishment. Santo is a math teacher at the Blackham Middle School in Bridgeport. He is not a union officer, but if court appeals fail, he faces personal fines of $2,100 -$350 for each day he defied the order.

He thinks the NEA and its Connecticut branch will help pay any fines, but Santo says the salary he lost was "devastating."

"We won't starve, but we're hurting," he said. "I called all my creditors. They were very accommodating - accommodating, but I still have to pay.' And his family paid another price, especially 3-year-old Rebecca.

'She wasn't affectionate," said Santo. "She wouldn't sit on my lap. Cold, surprised, I don't know what."

He and his wife, Veronica, had told Rebecca and sons Aaron, 5, and Matthew, almost 2, that Daddy "was at camp." Santo said that each day he phoned, Rebecca asked if that was the day he would come home. When he did, it took a couple of weeks for her to warm up to him.

But Santo said the issues were important to him,

Commissioners finalize spending for hangar

ANDREWS - Andrews County Commissioners finalized their spending for a new county airport hangar at a special meeting called Tuesday. Officials learned the cost somewhat exceeded the anticipated $40,000, as originally estimated. The project's major cost is a $28,000 contract awarded to build the six- to eight-plane hangar. Commissioners dropped earlier considerations to use county employees on the construction. Members earlier approved a bid of $13,525 to buy material to build the new hangars. With Tuesday's construction cost estimate figured in, commissioners learned the entire cost of the facility will be $41,525. The bid was awarded to Tony Virden Construction Co. of Ballinger. Plane owners housed in the countyowned hangar space will pay $40 monthly rental fee, said officials.

and to the 22,500-pupil school system - whose heart, he feels, is teachers "in the pits," not administrators downtown; whose chronic ill, he feels, is a lack of equipment, supplies and specialists; whose operations, he feels, are "totally political.

Santo believes the strike showed school and city officials that teachers won't be second-class citizens, and gave teachers "the feeling that we were able to stand up to the board of education.'

"They run a school system that I can't believe survives," he said.

For years teachers, PTAs and others have complained about crowded classrooms in decaying school buildings without adequate gyms and libraries. Teachers say they must buy their own paper

Santo doesn't live in Bridgeport, and his son doesn't attend school there. In his kitchen in suburban Milford, Santo displayed a brochure from Aaron's school - half the size of Blackham, but with twice the specialists in music, physical education, guidance, and athletics.

All the frustrations, he said, crystallized for him in September. "I think that happened for a lot of teachers," he said. "They just got sick and tired of taking garbage from the board.

And, of course, there was salary. But Santo says the 13.5 percent wage increase over two years won't make up for the pay he lost. Under the new contract, the average Bridgeport teacher makes $15,800 a year, up from just under $15,000, school officials say.

"I wanted more; I can't survive on what I get now," Santo said. He teaches night school and his wife teaches adult classes part time.

Santo admits the possibility that the NEA stressed militancy this year for reasons that were not Bridgeport's alone - nationwide resistance to tax increases, for example, or organizational battles with the American Federation of Teachers.

"We were very possibly used by the CEA (Connecticut Education Association) and the NEA," he said, but then added: "We were used only to the extent we allowed ourselves to be used." He said the leadership could not have stampeded the teachers. And when it was over, he said, the strike had drawn the teachers together - "like family ... a good feeling."

The teachers also emerged with some bitter feelings, he said - feelings toward the board. "We'll go by the word of the contract now. There's going to be a lot of animosity," Santo said.

One thing Santo says he did not find is disrespect from students - "no flagrant abuse" of his authority, no "jailbird" catcalls. And his initial fears about going to jail, he said, didn't last. "What broke my nervousness was the ridiculousness of the whole thing. You walk into court where there are 60 or 70 people who wouldn't hurt a fly who are willing to go to jail. You didn't feel alone.' The "jail" he went to was no maximum-security prison, but Santo rejects Bridgeport Mayor John Mandanici's label of "country club." Camp Hartell is a World War II-vintage installation 70 miles north of Bridgeport, enclosed by wire fence, with two-story wooden barracks that the Guard rarely uses. Santo said teachers could not go beyond certain areas of the camp, had to report to bunks for checks several times a day, had only limited recreation. "You get 116 guys and six heads - five of them working - that's no country club," he

THE MIDLAND NATIONAL BANK

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter plans to send Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance to Geneva next month for another round of strategic weapons limitation talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, according to U.S. sources.

The idea is to try to complete a treaty and have it signed at a summit meeting by Carter and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev before the end of the year. The treaty would limit each country to a total of 2,250 strategic bombers and intercontinental ballistic missiles. Soon after completion, U.S. and Soviet negotiators would get to work on a follow-up treaty with further

After the last round of talks, in Moscow earlier this week, a number of key issues remain unsettled. They include the range limitations to be placed on land- and sea-launched U.S. cruise missiles and the details for restricting new weapons on both

Still, U.S. officials say they have not lost hope of completing the treaty by Christmas.

Vance's meeting with Gromyko will mark their ninth round of weapons talks in less than two years. Overall, the Americans and the Soviets have been working on a treaty for six

On Wednesday, the Soviet newspaper Izvestia said "definite circles" in the United States that cling to cold war attitudes are trying to impede the arms limitation talks.

The article also accused the unnamed groups of "artificially" tying up the negotiations with other questions of Soviet-American relations. The Izvestia article noted some progress was made at the latest round and "a relatively small number of questions...still remain outstand-

It said use of the word "constructive" by both sides to characterize the talks "means that the stands on issues under discussion have further become closer. There remain certain differences in approach. Further contacts will be necessary for reaching a final agreement on how to overcome these differences.'

The article was the first sign from the Soviets that issues unrelated to armaments could be holding up a new SALT treaty.

During the negotiations, U.S. spokesman Hodding Carter told reporters that unspecified other issues were discussed during Vance's threeday visit.

On the homeward flight Tuesday, a senior U.S. official said there had been "a frank exchange" over President Carter's decision to begin production of neutron weapons.

This was a diplomatic way of saying the Soviets had registered their objections forcefully

The official, who asked not to be identified, said Vance also discussed with the Soviets the status of two other sets of negotiations — to reduce NATO and Warsaw Pact troop levels in Central Europe and to ban U.S. and Soviet underground nuclear tests.

Carter said a U.S. official took up with a Soviet official a number of cases involving Soviet citizens wishing to emigrate to the United States.

In Washington, meanwhile, Defense Department officials said the administration was expected to ask Congress for millions of dollars to move into full development of a mobile intercontinental missile but to delay a decision on how to deploy it.

U.S. and Soviet negotiators have tentatively decided to permit one new land-based and one new sea-launched missile system to each side during the life of the treaty.

For the United States these probably would be the MX mobile missile and a new Trident submarine.

Kahn presided over many changes in CAB

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's wage-price chief is beginning his new job after establishing the administration's one bright spot in its war on inflation.

As chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board for the past 16 months, Alfred E. Kahn presided over sub-stantial changes in American aviation, including a rash of discount air fares that have resulted in travelers filling airplanes in record numbers.

While retail prices are generally rising at an annual rate of nearly 10 percent, average air fares are now lower than a year ago.

Carter selected Kahn for the CAB job because of his reputation as a specialist on deregulation. The presimote competition and protect con-

Kahn, 61, had taught regulatory and antitrust economics at Cornell University for 30 years and wrote "The Economics of Regulation," a study of the government's role in the regulation of private industry.

As head of New York State's Public Service Commission from 1974 to 1977, he introduced time-of-day pricing to give breaks to electricity users during non-peak hours and permitted competitors of the Bell telephone system to hook up to Bell's equipment.

When Kahn took over the CAB, he began making over one of the most staid of the regulatory agencies into a body which conducted its decisionmaking in as rational a manner as

He also moved to speed up the board's setting rates and assigning

Selecting top aides from among the sharpest critics of past CAB policies, Kahn moved people to the inside who once tried to change the board from the outside.

Also, Kahn backed the congressional moves to deregulate the airline industry. And he said once that was done he saw no further need for a Civil Aeronautics Board.

When he became impatient with the slow pace of Congress, he began to deregulate the industry on his own, gaining support from other board members. His stated goal was to free the airlines from any government ec-onomic controls and to allow them to fly anywhere at any time and to charge any price.

Earlier this month, Congress finally agreed on a deregulation measure which will gradually phase out federal regulation of the airlines and perhaps lead to the end of the CAB by 1985. President Carter signed the bill into law Tuesday.

His full-speed-ahead approach as CAB chairman was tempered with a wit that helped soothe the feathers he sometimes ruffled.

As an award ceremony where he was honored guest began to wind down earlier this year, Kahn told his hosts he had to hurry off. "I have to go back and destroy the airline industry," he said. At one meeting, where Kahn backed a low-fare policy for U.S.-British travel, a veteran CAB staff man warned: "You have just destroyed the North American fare structure." Kahn replied: "That's a good afternoom's work."

No one was too big to take on. After Carter overruled a board decision, Kahn once called a news conference to denounce the decision.

"He is the president and has a right to make a judgment, and I have a right to disagree with it, and I do," he told reporters.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States and the Soviet Union will meet in Mexico City in December to discuss a possible ban on arms sales to the rest of the world, a State Department official said Wednesday

The two countries had agreed in principle to the talks earlier but actual negotiations had not been set until Secretary of State Cyrus Vance was in Moscow this week for the most recent round of SALT negotia-In announcing the agreement earlier this month to talk about troublesome arms sales, especially to the developing Third World, another State Department official, Leslie H. Gelb, told a House panel that the Soviets had reversed a "totally negative attitude." Gelb told the panel then that the Soviet Union had three possible reasons for its reversal. "It could be that the Soviets realize that arms transfers beyond a certain point can complicate and cause serious problems in their relations with the United States," he said.

Gelb also noted that the Soviets are learning that some arms transfers, such as those to Egypt, Indonesia and Somalia, have resulted in the arms being used in politically sensitive areas in ways the Soviets had not foreseen.

And last, he said, Moscow may have decided that the United States has a much greater capacity for supplying arms to the Third World, meaning the Soviets eventually could overextend themselves in arms production and fall behind the U.S. in garnering influence in developing nations.

Gelb said the United States first contacted the Soviet Union about a ban on transfers last December after U.S. European allies said they would not consider cutting arms sales to the Third World unless the Soviets would agree to a similar curtail-The Washington Post said in Thursday editions been set comes before a backdrop of SALT talks that still have not produced a final agreement for the signatures of President Carter and Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev.

There remains hope, however, that such an agreement on limiting strategic nuclear weapons can be reached before the end of the year and signed at a summit in the United States.

operations WASHINGTON (AP)

- Vietnam has sent 10,-000 to 15,000 reinforcements to its army facing Cambodia amid expectations of intensified fighting within the next few weeks, U.S. intelligence sources say.

These sources, who declined to be named, estimated that Vietnam now has about 100,000 fighting men in position to push deeper into Cambodia if Hanoi decides on such a move. The reinforcements are said to have arrived in southern Vietnam from the north within the last month.

The Vietnamese are reportedly in effective control of an irregular strip of territory on the Cambodian side of the border. However, most of their units are deployed in five Vietnamese provinces within striking distance of Cambodia, the sources said.

Fighting between the two one-time Communist allies - it began after their Indochinese victories of 1975 - has slowed during the rainy season, but U.S. intelligence sources say the Vietnamese have been conducting battalionsized sweeps while Cambodian troops have staged small hit-and-run attacks into Vietnam.

In one recent action, the Cambodians were reported to have made an unsuccessful effort to recapture the town of Snuol, which the Vietnamese captured earlier

Republican balance in Senate

By LINDA HILL R-T Staff Writer

SAN ANTONIO - Texas needs influence "on both sides of the aisle" in the U.S. Senate, Sen. John Tower said on the campaign trail Wednesday.

Tower, "harnstorming" through his opponent's congressional district, said there is nothing his Democratic opponent, U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, can add to what is being done by Democratic Senator Lloyd Bentsen.

Tower, who is seeking re-election, said his Democratic colleague (Bentsen) has experience, and provides leadership in that party. He said he does not know of anything more "a junior Democratic senator" could accomplish.

"There's always the possibility you might get a Republican president in 1980, so consider the advantages of having influence on both sides of the aisle," said Tower.

Tower campaigned Wednesday in Big Spring, San Angelo, Del Rio, Fredericksburg and San Antonio. Of those cities, only Big Spring is outside the boundaries of Krueger's 21st Congressional District. Asked in San Angelo about Krueger's charge that Tower said.

Tower has been ineffective because there has never been a "Tower bill," the senator said that is not a good measure of effectiveness. "Nobody knows of a 'Byrd bill," but, as majority leader Sen. Robert Byrd has considerable influ-strengthen that economy.

The candidate claimed a major role in passing a large number of important bills, and charged Krueger "has no legislative achievement he can

Tower suggested Krueger is seeking the Senate seat as a base from which to run for the presiden-

Therefore, Tower charged, Krueger would act like a "Frost Belt" senator in order to gain favor in the Northeast. The incumbent senator said Krueger "is giving every indication of being a slavish flunky" of the Carter administration.

Tower said he thinks it is "funny" Krueger has started talking about "party teamwork" after making much of being an "independent Democrat." He claimed the talk of party affiliation now indicates Krueger knows his campaign is in trouble.

During his Del Rio appearance, Tower called on President Carter to have a summit meeting with the president of Mexico.

"If they can do what they did at Camp David...I see no reason why old friends like the U.S. and Mexico can't get together," Tower said.

The senator questioned the wisdom of a proposed six-mile fence along the U.S. border at El Paso "that may not be effective (in keeping out illegal aliens), but ... will serve as an irritant.

"I don't want (the U.S.) to be blatantly offensive,"

Ultimately, the solution to the illegal alien problem is a healthy Mexcan economy, he said. The U.S., Tower contended, should be working to try to Get involved to prevent crime, senior citizens urged

R-T Staff Writer

Senior citizens must become actively involved to prevent crime, according to a variety of speakers at a seminar entitled, "Senior Citizens Against Crime," held Wednesday at Midland College

The seminar was held in conjunction with National Crime Prevention

Speakers included Darrell Joy of the Texas Crime Prevention Institute in San Marcos, Allen L. Beatty, general manager of the Permian Basin Better Business Bureau, Don Hellinghausen of the Brecko Corporation and Sgt. E.M. "Lalo" Camaraillo of the Midland Police Department Crime Prevention Unit.

Mel Goffigon, of Casa de Amigos, acted as master of ceremonies for the seminar, which was attended by 45 senior citizens and guests, including Midland Police Chief Wayne Gideon. Goffigon said crime "affects all citizens.'

The need for citizen involvement was stressed repeatedly throughout the seminar by the speakers.

Joy told the senior citizens "crime is a serious matter, especially for the

"The bad news is that crime is increasing," he added. "The good news is that people appear to be concerned that crime is increasing." However, he urged citizens to become actively involved by organizing and doing something to prevent crime on the local community level.

"The police cannot do the job alone. They are asking for your help. It can work to prevent crime," he said. He described crime as the major concern of at least 26 percent of Americans.

Joy said 150 years ago some towns with one lawman required the aid of many citizens as deputies.

"In today's society, law enforcement is calling upon citizens to provide help in preventing crime."

Although once communities asked for more law enforcement officers to protect citizens, Joy said, today lawmen are asking for more citizen participation in protecting society.

He said the basic elements necessary for crime to exist include desire, opportunity, ability and laxity.

The latter, he explained, refers to a community's willingness to allow crime to occur. "Crime occurs because you as citizens allow it to hap-Even 10- to 16-year-olds are committing 50 percent of the nation's crimes, Joy said. "They see the opportunity. They are opportunists. Equally as serious, he said, is the fact that criminals are becoming as, if not more, sophisticated than law enforcement.

"We must reduce the abilities of these criminals," he said. Joy said it's "earth-shattering for a community to allow crime to occur -because it's unnecessary.' Comparing Texas to California, Joy said he's been told people on the West Coast allow crimes to happen "because so many people do not care. I know West Texans care. You can stop it. However, crime is not merely a police problem - it's your problem.'

He described the role of police as the investigation of crimes, gathering of criminal evidence and, if possible, the arrests of criminals involved. "Still, today's police officers have so many other duties not related to those responsibilities that these men and women depend upon the public for help in fighting crime. He cited the Fifth Ward of Chicago, Ill., as an example of people successfully fighting crime. Citizens guarded new housing day and night when building materials were threatened by thieves.

'My message to you all is to get involved in your community," he told senior citizens. "Set some goals and

He described crime as an "endless cycle" because "not enough citizens step up and tell police officers what they saw."

When a senior citizen said he knew of neighbors fearful of reporting crime because they are afraid their house would be burned down, Joy said citizens should report everything to local authorities.

"In Midland County, the arrest clearance rate is much greater than the national average. People must realize the police responsibility ends after arrests. Then the courts and corrections take over," he ex-

"Did you know that 60 to 65 percent of all people sent to state prison come back? The criminal justice system is overloaded. The best way of solving the problem is through involvement of citizens in their communities.'

The fear of retribution and the fear of being unable to walk the neighborhood at night are new experiences for many senior citizens today, he "Crime is not someone else's problem. It's a problem that affects every segment of the community," Joy

"Elderly residents of our communities are the most overlooked invaluable human resources there are,"

said Joy. "Many people would be surprised at the various talents of retired people right here in Midland. What's needed is a mechanism to mobilze these talents. I'm telling you (to) put your talents at work in your community to help the area solve its crime problems," Joy said.

He said organization toward a common goal in crime prevention would be a good direction for senior citizens to take.

He said the cost of crime involves far more than dollar loss figures.

"I'd think you would be most concerned of the case of the elderly citizen fearful of leaving home at night," he said.

Other costs of crime, he said, are declining morals in society, a lack of confidence in the judicial system and even in government.

He said only citizens can solve the problem. "You must be dedicated and give your time and energy in the process," declared Joy.

Better Business Bureau trying to protect elderly were focused upon by Allen L. Beatty, general manager of the Better Business Bureau of the Permian Basin during a "Senior Citizens Against Crime" seminar held Wednesday at Midland College.

"Schemes That Affect the Elderly"

Beatty stressed that the BBB has been deeply involved in crime prevention during the more than 60 years of its existence.

He conceded the BBB has no law enforcement powers, but said the group has served as "kind of an early warning system" for citizens.

The organization, which traditionally has provided advice for consumers and accepted complaints on alleged unfair practices or illegalities, has been most effective at exposing frauds and alerting citizens, especially elderly citizens, against such schemes, he said.

Beatty showed a half-hour film about the bank inspector, pigeon drop and charity switch schemes.

Without greed, gullibility and goodness, Beatty said, swindlers would never be able to gain trust and fool people into believing they could gain something for nothing. He said citizens deserve a fair shake at the marketplace.

"You people provide us (with) the complaints. Hopefully we can get your problems solved by voluntary action. But you enable us to know what's going on so that we can investigate, and, if necessary, ask law enforcement to take action.

He said it's "extremely important" for senior citizens to get involved in crime prevention. As an example, he pointed out that shoplifting adds about 5 percent to merchants' cost of doing business. Vo and Beatty said.

Another area he cited as a problem is false advertising.

"It's a very sophisticated way of stealing," he said. "Both the consumer and the merchant lose. Consumers lose money on false expectations. Merchants lose the public's trust and gain the distrust of people," he explained.

He urged the Wednesday audience to call the BBB about false advertising and other problems, including

"businesses which do shoddy work." "The advice the Better Business Service provides you is free," he

Beatty warned the senior citizens: "Once you've dealt with a con man or a crooked businessman, getting redress is not always easy to do. Sometimes people get away with things. Your best advice is not to get involved in schemes which look suspicious in the first place."

Beatty said senior citizens should be wary of energy-saving devices sold by door-to-door salesmen. "Just be careful," Beatty said.

Beware of work-at-home schemes, too, he said. "Addressing envelopes for quick cash can become expensive!" he declared.

He told the story of a young man in Odessa who sold such a scheme for more than a year before being caught. "He had taken in $350,000 before they caught him," said

"If the deal is too good to be true, or if you're offered something for nothing, don't fall for it," he said.

He urged senior citizens to never buy anything out of the kindness of their hearts, but only if they really need it.

He cited an elderly Odessa woman who bought $235 in "roofing" recently and her roof still leaks. The salesman who offered her a "bargain" is still

"It's so much easier to stay out of trouble than to get into it," said Beatty. "We work closely with police departments in Midland, Odessa and Big Spring. Become involved and let us know if we can help you.'

Pope turns attention to Lebanon conflict

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II turns his attention today to the conflict in Lebanon, the only regional crisis he has mentioned publicly since his election last week.

The pope scheduled a 45-minute working session with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing at the Vatican for a general review of the Middle East situation. The focus, however, will be on the Lebanese crisis, which both the Vatican and France have followed with particular concern.

The pontiff's predecessor - John Paul I - reportedly had planned to make a trip to Lebanon to underscore his personal commitment to the settlement of the internal strife.

The Sacred College of Cardinals, which ran the affairs of the church during the interregnum between John Paul I's death Sept. 28 and John Paul II's election Oct. 16, twice appealed for peace in Lebanon. The church recently received a plea from Lebanese Christians seeking the church's help in putting an end to the internal strife.

In his first papal speech on Oct. 17, John Paul II indicated that he would pay prompt attention to the Lebanese question. He spoke of the "grave" problem in "the beloved land of Lebanon and its people who earnestly desire peace and liberty.'

Last year, Giscard d'Estaing proposed sending French troops to Lebanon to act as a peacekeeping force in much the same way U.S. Marines intervened in the Moslem-Christian fighting in the 1950s.

Citizens help reduce death rate

By WARREN E. LEARY AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Americans apparently are heeding advice to cut down dietary fats, smoking and blood pressure, but there is little hard evidence on how much this is responsible for declining heart disease death

Heart disease experts meeting at the National Institutes of Health said Wednesday that they have "gut feelings" and indications that reducing these risk factors is at least partially responsible for the decrease in cardiovascular disease death rates.

But there has to be more to it than that, they add.

"It is clear we are doing something right in the United States," said Dr. Jeremiah Stamler of Northwestern University Medical School in Chicago. 'We are doing better than any other industrial country at reducing the death rate. We admittedly started higher than most, but we are still

Good roof comes from close check

WASHINGTON (AP) - When was the last time you made a close check on the condition of your roof? Will it stand up to another rough winter?

A good roof will last for years, the National Council of Better Business Bureaus reports, but only with a program of inspection, repair and maintenance.

Look for penetrations, blisters or cracks before your roof starts to leak or become badly worn.

If you think your roof needs repairs it may pay to have it checked by a reputable roofing contractor. This person can make a detailed examina-tion of damaged areas and flashings. Those are the sealing materials, usually aluminum, around chimneys and vent pipes.

Before deciding to have any work done, get at least two reliable contractors. The local BBB office can advise you on their dependability. Be particularly careful of fly-bynight contractors who offer big jobs at low prices. If they fail to pay the supplier for the materials used on your home, the BBB points out, a lien may be placed on your property even though you paid the contractor.

Get a written contract from the firm you finally select specifying what is to be done including the size of the roof, type of roof (flat or pitched) and type of shingles. It should also state whether flashings, valleys and removal of the existing roof are included and whether there is a warran-

Heart and blood vessel problems still represent the nation's No. 1 killer disease, taking almost 1 million lives a year.

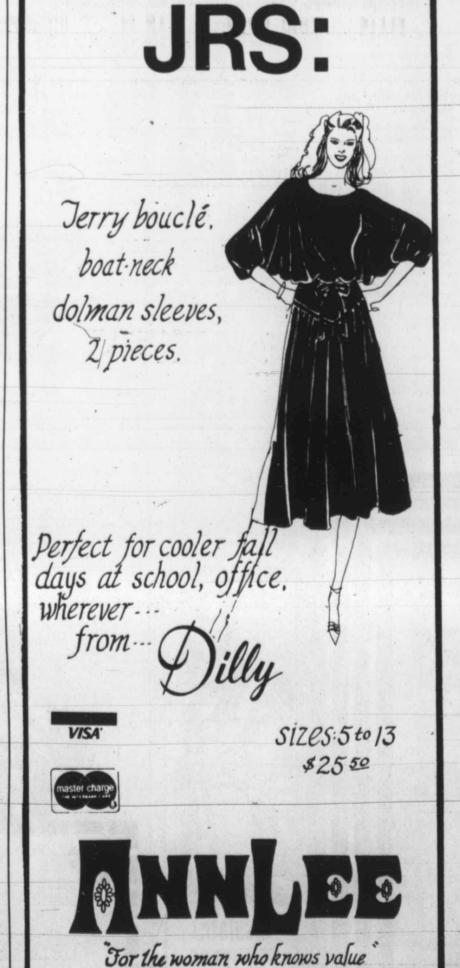

Stamler said he and Dr. Alan R. Dyer, also of Northwestern, just completed a statistical study which indicates that changes in average blood pressure, smoking and blood cholesterol in middle-aged white men over the last 20 years could be responsible for much of their decreased cardiac

Looking at the numbers for these risk factors in 8,100 men tested in the 1950s, the scientists calculated the death rate change for this group if the measurements had been reduced to

These figures projected a death rate reduction for this group of 18.5 percent; very close to the actual mortality rate reduction of 20.9 percent. Dr. Joel C. Kleinman of the National Center for Health Statistics said data on cigarette smoking is so sketchy that it is impossible to show definitively that many adults giving up the habit have contributed to reduced heart disease death rates.

Ironically, he noted, white women, who are at lowest risk of heart disease and whose cardiac death rate has declined more than any other group, are smoking more than ever before. This indicates other factors must be at work, he added.

Decisions difficult

By DR. LAURA SCHLESSINGER Copley News Service

"I just can't seem to make up my mind!" is a relatively common complaint. What makes decisionmaking so fearsomely difficult that many people will vacillate interminably or procrastinate in even thinking about it until "time and circumstance" make the decision?

As a child most major decisions are made for you by your parents, older siblings and family members, teachers and other authority figures. Structure and critical guidance are the decision makers and you are told that "When you are older and on your own you can make your own decisions, until then you have to do what I tell you. I know best for you

The hidden (but not so hidden) message is that you are incapable of making decisions now, but someday . And what is supposed to happen "some day"? How do you know when or if you are ready?

Certainly people who have logged more track time in life have experience and knowledge above and beyond a child's.

However, courage and ability to make decisions are not inherent mechanisms switched into "automatic" at some magical age. These are qualities which are developed and nurtured by those who will allow you to practice. In other words, if your family is (or was) one in which negotiation, open discussion and individuality was supported and promoted then you would have had background helpful in gaining selfrespect and self-confidence.

In family situations in which all laws are given and irrefutable then your mind might tend to be frozen with rigid rules which may deny you the flexibility to deal with different situations, times and people, making future decision-making difficult.

Often, decision making means coming to terms with inner tugs-ofwar which may represent a conflict between old and new versions of reality, ideas and beliefs. This may result in immobilization because of guilt.

For example, we are all carrying histories of assumptions, lessons and truths of earlier teachings, which may (or may not) have served us in the past. Now these earlier ideas might be encroaching upon our ways of doing and thinking things now, interfering with our ability to relate open-mindedly and comfortably with the present.

Therefore, instead of being a source of wisdom, perspective and help, these past notions become a tyranny of "must and should" as though you were programmed like a computer to respond only in one way.

On the other hand you have the pull of present feelings, desires and thoughts.

Decision-making then becomes difficult because you are not only dealing with the dilemma at hand, but find yourself attempting to reconcile what you "thought was so" versus what you now "find out is so for you."

For many, the transition to intellectual and emotional autonomy is difficult. You might feel that total rebellion is the only way to be free. Or, if you become more secure internally, you might be able to objectively value past and present and work out your own way in personal and interpersonal peace.

For others, decision-making is difficult because of the fear of "loss." Many think that in making a decision you come to a cross-roads where you have to travel down one leg of the fork, sacrificing that which can be experienced down the road left behind. In part this is true since in choosing between possibilities you automatically eliminate others.

In part this is not true because you don't necessarily have to eliminate Compromise is often more comfortable and satisfying than "eitheror." For example: work and-or family, work and-or fun, or friend and-or lover. Of course, there are situations in which you can't "have it both ways" but they are fewer than we often admit.

Compromise takes flexibility and courage, and it is more rewarding than the self-flaggelation often involved in forcing yourself to sacrifice - PAY - for the decision you've

Women to report for sea service

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some of the Naval officers who report for duty next month will make history. They'll be the first women sent to sea by the U.S.

The Navy said Tuesday the first of 55 female officers will report for sea duty Nov. 1. And in December the first of 375 enlisted women will become crew members on non-combat ships.

The new policy is in line with a federal court ruling that threw out a 30-year-old law that prevented women from sea duty except for limited cases. And it follows congressional enaction of a law ending a ban on assigning women to ships other than hospital vessels and transports.

The law says women may be assigned to combat vessels only on a temporary basis and only if the ships are not headed for actual battle.

The Navy plans eventually to station women aboard 49 non-combat ships with a target of 210 officers and 5;120 enlisted women serving among the permanent crew by 1984.

Officials say few modifications are needed on ships that will include women among the crew. Most of the changes involve sleeping and toilet facilities. And officers present almost no problems because they already enjoy separate steeping facilities.

Try cocktail party with French approach

NEW YORK, N.Y.-The cocktail party is the favored, if somewhat usual, American way to entertain a number of guests. To make the party really memorable, however, an outstanding array of appetizers-for example, a variety of French hors d' oeuvres-will turn your average cocktail party into a chic and gala

These hot and cold hors d' hoeuvres are a marvelous melange of textures and flavors, all wonderfully easy to make because their basic seasonings are the convenience products which are usually found on your pantry shelf.

Suffed Mushrooms Français are elegant to serve and simple to make with bottled real Italian dressing imparting a sprightly, satisfying taste to the stuffing. Delicate Crepettes Asperges, miniature crepes, spread with a delicious instant onion soup mix and sour cream combination and wrapped around asparagus spears, are interesting, new and irresistibly good. Unflavored gelatin is blended with Roquefort, cream cheese and Worcestershire sauce to make a pretty molded appetizer, Roquefort Spread Delicieux. It is delightfully creamy and deliciously compatible with other foods. Local option renews Kansas liquor scraps

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) - Booze has been an emotional issue in Kansas ever since Carry Nation invaded saloons in the western part of the state, hatchet in one hand, Bible in the other, turning rows of whiskey bottles into glass nuggets.

That was nearly a century ago. World War II passed before the Sunflower State relaxed its ban on liquor. And the battle rages on.

Today, the state's drys and wets are fighting over a new law that allows each county to decide whether certain restaurants can serve liquor by the drink. It goes before voters in 45 counties Nov. 7.

The law slipped through the Legislature so swiftly this spring that it stunned liquor lobbyists as well as the dry forces. Under the new law, restaurants that do at least half their business in food could sell liquor by the drink - providing voters in the county

Even then, voter approval might not be the last word. The state's attorney general has asked the Kansas Supreme Court to decide whether the law violates a constitutional ban on "open saloons."

Even without the new law, Kansas is not entirely dry. All but seven of the state's 105 counties have liquor stores, and there are nearly 1,000 private clubs in the state that sell liquor by the drink.

The state's hodgepodge of liquor law allows people over 21 to buy drinks in a hotel's private club. providing they're guests there, at other profit-making private clubs if they pay a fee and endure a waiting period, and at nonprofit private clubs simply by paying a membership fee.

"The drys have the laws and the wets have the liquor," says Bill Strukel, chief enforcement officer for the Alcoholic Beverage Control Division, summing up the situation.

The Rev. Richard Taylor, president and chief lobbyist for the Kansas United Dry Forces, claims he was feels betrayed by the Legislature, which passed the local-option plan while he was out of the state.

Drys in counties considering the option have organized campaigns to defeat the law, while proponents, usually chambers of commerce supported by local hotel and restaurant managers, have done little beyond collecting signatures required to get the issue on the ballot

To get on the ballot for the Nov. 7 election. supporters had to collect the names of 5 percent of the county's voters. Petitions were certified in 45 counties, while drives fell short in some and no effort was made in others.

The only previous vote on liquor-by-the drink was statewide in 1970. It fell short by 11,000 votes, out of 680,000 cast, as urban counties, which generally favored the law, squared off against rural Kansas, which opposed it.

This time, there are pro-liquor noises coming from some of the rural counties. Petitions have put the measure on the ballot in several western Kansas counties where the statewide measure was handily defeated in 1970.

Liquor-by-the-drink also is on the ballot in metropolitan counties which include cities such as Wichita, Topeka and Kansas City, Kan. They all voted heavily in favor of the 1970 measure.

Projects outlined to chamber board

Leadership Midland and the West Texas Industrial Tour were two of the report topics presented to the Midland Chamber of Commerce board of directors at the board's meeting Wednesday. The West Texas Industrial Tour, an annual trek by area businessmen to sell West Texas to new industry, is planned for Dec. 11-14, Grant Billingsley told the chamber directors. This year the tour will go to New York to inform industrial executives there what West Texas has to offer as site for new industry. Midland's contingent on the tour, which includes people from as far away as Wichita Falls, is usually one of the largest in the 50-person group, Billingsley

The Leadership Midland program - an eightmonth course designed to build leaders for the community - will get under way Nov. 9 with the first class session. The monthly all-day classes will cover various areas in Midland which present the opportunity for service and leadership, Reagan Legg, chairman of the program said. Some 40 people were selected from 56 applications for the program, Legg said. Course fee is $200.

Directors also heard a report on plans for George and Helen Mahon day planned Nov. 11.
Tickets for the planned barbecue dinner will go on sale this week at $1 each, and chamber officials are hoping for as many as 2,000 people to honor the retiring congressman.

Los Angeles' Watts Towers near collapse

By CYNTHIA KADONAGA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Like crochety Venuses — old, gray and losing their looks — the Watts Towers of southeastern Los Angeles are fighting to stand

The internationally-famed towers have crumbled as officials argue about saving them. At least one engineer says the storm-struck, 100-foot structures are in danger of collapse.

Women working to save the aging beauties say they have been excluded from meetings to discuss repairs. Architect Harriet Watson of the privately funded Committee for Simon Rodia's Towers says she was told by repair contractor Ralph Vaughn there would be "no girls on this job."

Work was delayed for weeks in a dispute over repair methods, and now City Controller Ira Reiner says he will not sign any more checks to pay the contractor. The city used $15,000 in federal money to pay Vaughn, when money from a $207,000 state grant should have been used, Reiner says.

The 1931 sculptures resemble petrified Christmas trees whose ornaments of broken bottles, dishes, tiles and seashells are frozen in concrete and chickenwire branches. They were built over 33 years by Rodia, an Italian immigrant, as backyard monuments to America, his desceased wife and things he described as "good good."

"You have to be good good or bad bad to be remembered," said Rodia, a tilesetter who died in 1965 at the age of 86. Rodia built without welds, rivets or bolts to strengthen the towers' steel joints, using bailing wire to reinforce the frame. But the frame's concrete casing has cracked with rain and the rumblings of earthquakes and nearby trains. The state-owned sculpture has been closed to the public since March, when concrete chunks began falling like meteors. "Hundreds of feet of cracks have appeared all over the towers," says Jean Morgan, a Rodia committee spokeswoman. "Deterioration prior to last winter's great rains was already pronounced, but the rains have brought the towers into a condition of imminent Although the state provided $207,000 last spring to preserve the towers, repairs have been delayed by arguments between officials and committee mem-Vaughn says he would coat the sculpture with a clear silicone substance to seal the cement against water. Moisture seeping through the cement casing and expand, resulting in cracks of up to 100 feet, he But committee members, notably Norman Goldstone, claim the silicone coating will give the towers

has caused the sculpture's metal framework to rust

a shiny "plastic" appearance. "It's a shame to spend $200,000 for artificial looking towers that are no longer art," Goldstone says, adding that a huge umbrella should be constructed instead.

Mrs. Morgan and other committee members say the city had neglected the towers since taking over the sculpture in 1976. She adds that the city paid "not one penny" to care for the landmark structures, which the committee had purchased and saved from demolition in 1959.

Remington recalls 200,000 firearms

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Remington Arms Co. said Wednesday it is recalling about 200,000 guns following a $6.8 million settlement to a Texas man who claimed he was shot by a rifle whose trigger had not been pulled.

The company is recalling four different models of bolt-action guns so their trigger assemblies can be replaced, said Edmund S. McCawley, Remington's public relations manager.

McCawley said the guns being recalled are the following models made before February 1975: Mohawk 600 rifles, Remington 600 and 660 rifles and XP-100 pistols.

He said he could not estimate how much the recall would cost.

The plaintiff in the Texas case said a Remington Mohawk 600 rifle fired when the safety was pushed to the "off" position even though the trigger was not

McCawley said, "our investigation indicated that this was unlikely" but he added that the recall was being made "due to the fact that in some unusual circumstances it's possible to move the safety and the trigger in such a way that subsequently moving the safety selector to the fire position could result in an accidental discharge."

"We don't think that's what happened in this case in Texas," he added.

Remington agreed Monday to pay $6.8 million to John Coates, 42, an Austin lawyer, who was paralyzed from the waist down after being shot. The agreement is one of the largest lump-sum personal injury settlements in history.

Coates' 16-year-old son, Will, was holding a Remington Mohawk 600 rifle when it discharged into his father's back on Dec. 11, 1977. The men and some other deer hunters were in a four-wheel drive vehicle when the accident occurred.

McCawley said the guns being recalled are Remington 600 and 660 rifles with serial numbers 0001 to 131,552, Mohawk 600 and Remington 600 rifles with serial numbers from 6,200,000 to 6,899,999, XP-100 pistols with serial numbers from 0001 to 11,000 and from 7,500,000 to 7,507,983.

He said owners of recalled guns can find out where to take them by calling the following toll-free numbers and asking for operator 61: in all states except Georgia, 1-800-241-8444; in Georgia, 1-800-282-1333.

High court turns down Bell appeal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court refused Wednesday to reconsider its decision upholding the methods used by the Texas Public Utility Commission in establishing telephone and electric rates.

It voted 7-2, with Justices Sam Johnson and T.C. Chadick dissenting, to deny Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s motion for a rehearing of the July 26 decision.

The court had found the commission was complying with the Public Utility Regulatory Act when it set Bell's rates in December 1976. The commission used essentially the original cost of Bell's equipment in determining the base against which Bell's earnings should be measured.

Bell sought a $230.8 million rate increase in 1976 but was allowed only $57.8 million - partly as a result of the rate base determination.

Bell insists that the Legislature intended the commission to use a mix of original cost and a considerably larger replacement cost figure.

The court also said when utilities contest actions by the commission, courts may only review the record before the commission and may not take up the whole matter afresh.

Justices seldom write opinions on motions for rehearings, but Chadick wrote a six-page opinion saying the Texas Constitution guarantees Bell a jury trial in district courts when it appeals rate decisions. The court majority said appeals would be presented only to judges, sitting alone and based on the record before the com-

"The constitutional guarantee that the company shall 'have the right of trial by jury' has been cut to shreds,' Chadick said

Bell's motion for rehearing said the commission was required by law to use adjusted value of invested capital in its calculations, not original cost alone. It said the commission computed a rate of return - 8.37 percent on adjusted value only after Bell took its case to an Austin district

"The Legislature deliberately did not say rates should be 'restated against' or 'compared to' the adjusted value of invested capital," Bell said, but should be "based upon" it.

"This court, through judicial legislation, has redrafted (the utility) act, abandoned well-reasoned regulatory guidelines, struck down the role of the judiciary as an effective buffer against administrative excesses and created confusion where harmony and understanding heretofore existed," Bell's motion said.

It all came up when Amy celebrated her 11th birthday a week ago. Carter related the tale a few days later at a political rally in Minneapo-

It seems that Amy wanted to see the two movies but her parents decided she wasn't old enough. "Well, Daddy, I would like to remind you that I am a pre-teen-ager,' the youngster said, according to her father, prompting him to reply: "Amy, you have been a pre-teenager for a long time, ever since you were born."

"Yes, but I am a double-digit preteen-ager," Carter said his daughter answered.

That prompted the president to remind his audience that "we don't let people use double digits around the White House anymore until we get inflation under control. .

UNLIKE SOME public speakers, Carter rarely appears to have any trouble keeping the length of his speeches under control.

When the White House releases a text of a speech in advance of its delivery, it rarely runs fewer than five pages or more than seven. That means, invariably, that the speech will take just about 20 minutes, giveor-take a minute, to deliver.

But when the president gives a speech without the benefit of a prepared text, the address still lasts about 20 minutes. Sometimes 18 minutes. Rarely more than 22 minutes. And you won't catch him looking down at his watch.

Now it can be told how the president manages this feat of timing.

Almost all of his speeches are delivered from a heavy, modern, bullet-proof lectern. The White House Communications Agency owns 12 of them and transports them around the country for presidential speeches.

A small digital clock is built into the upper right-hand corner, visible only

As the president begins a speech, he can push a small button that starts the clock running. It ticks away each second and minute and as it approaches 20:00, he can wind up the Price standards have exceptions

WASHINGTON (AP) had to pay rose rapidly. - Businesses can raise their prices beyond President Carter's new price standards if they can show they suffered from unavoidable cost increases. Carter's anti-inflation program limits price a company's average increases to one-half of a percentage point below price increases during 1976-77. However, the White House added an exception for firms that cannot meet the deceleration standard "because of uncontrollable cost increases. These companies "will be required to show that their before-tax profit margin (on sales) is no higher than the average of the firm's best two out of three fiscal years ending before Oct. 1, 1978.

That would mean a company could comply with the guidelines if it could show the prices it paper."

For instance, if the cost of a raw material jumped sharply, a company could still pass the increase on to the consumer. It would have to demonstrate, however, that it did not make a profit from its increases.

The administration says it cannot control the price of such erratic marketplace items as farm products. But food, which was not included in the Nixon administration's wageprice program, is included in Carter's plan.

"Efforts will be made to ensure that commodity price decreases at the farm level are accurately and quickly reflected in retail prices and that when farm product prices rise, there are no more than commensurate increases in retail food prices," said a White House "white president, he would regularly walk the streets of Washington around Blair House, where he was living while the White House was renovated. Lyndon B. Johnson held strolling news conferences on the White House driveway.

President Carter, no less an outdoorsman, decided the other day to walk across Pennsylvania Avenue to Blair House to have lunch with the members of the Israeli and Egyptian delegations to the Middle East peace

It sounds simple enough. But before Carter walked the approximately 50 yards from the White House gate, police officers sealed off traffic on one of Washington's busiest streets for 10 minutes, 15 police cars blocked the street, officers on motorcyles fanned out in the area, and pedestrians were held behind ropes about 20 yards from the gate. As Carter crossed the eight-lane avenue, a black limousine remained just a few feet away and waited outside Blair House while he had lunch.

The process was repeated 90 minutes later when Carter crossed the street, again on foot, to return to the White House.

This raises the question: If 15 police cars, motorcycles and an untold number of police officers are needed when the president walks across the street in front of his house, what would happen if, like Truman, he decided to take a walk around the block?

Dear R.W.: Cardiopulmonary resuscitation-CPR for short-is the best first aid when a heart attack victim has no pulse and has stopped breathing. It combines mouth-tomouth breathing and rhythmical chest compression, so that blood with oxygen keeps going to the brain until medical treatment can get the heart started again. CPR is best done by two people, but can be done by a single person if necessary. The only way to learn it properly is in a course that meets the standards of the American Heart Assn., which pioneered the technique. Stock market mixed

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market was mixed today, steadying after a brief round of selling at the opening following President Carter's announcement of his anti-inflation plan.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off more than 5 points at the outset, was up 3.73 at 836.28 by noontime.

But losers maintained a 2-1 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchangelisted-issues. Analysts said the weak opening today was somewhat surprising, since most of the details of the President's plan for voluntary wage and priceagehad been known in advance. By mid-morning, however, stock prices had stabilized, and blue chip issues began to attract some buyers with the Dow at its

Support growing for Carter plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is picking up important support for his anti-inflation program from Federal Reserve Chairman G. William Miller and business and labor groups.

Miller, in a speech Wednesday night, called Carter's new program "a balanced, concerted and sustained program to fight inflation.

Miller's support was important to White House inflation fighters, who must avoid any collision course with the independent Federal Reserve's interest rate policies.

If labor and business will support Carter's program, Miller said, "it gives us running room to eradicate inflation.' Some business groups have pledged cooperation with the program, although many of them had opposed the idea of wage-price guidelines. Most of them like Carter's promises to cut government spending. General Motors Corp. praised Carter for "his recognition that government must take the lead to slow inflation." It also applauded his rejection of mandatory wage-price controls. And Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons said he would back the plan if "adjusments" were made in the wage standard and if the program helped moderate price rises.

"If this program establishes some credibility on the price side and adjustments are made on the wage standard, I am sure that the 2 million Teamster members and their families will do their share to assist in resolving this difficult problem," said Fitzsimmons

He said the wage adjustments might involve health care, pensions and other fringe benefits.

Initial response to Carter's plan in world money markets was not good. The dollar fell to new lows in West Germany, The Netherlands, Austria, Belgium, Denmark and Norway and also was sharply down against the yen in Japan.

Announcing his plan Tuesday, Carter set guidelines limiting wage and benefit increases to 7 percent next year for all workers except those making less than $4 an hour. The plan aims at limiting price increases to 5% percent across the economy, excluding

If the program works, Carter said it will lower the inflation rate to between 6 percent and 6.5 percent in 1979, compared to more than 8 percent forecast for

The program is voluntary, but the government could withhold contracts or use other sanctions against companies that do not follow its terms.

To lead the program, Carter selected Alfred E. Kahn, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board. Kahn gained prominence with his success in reducing airline prices by increasing competition.

Appeals Court to hear Davis bond arguments

HOUSTON (AP) - The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has set Nov. 7 to hear arguments on whether Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis should be freed Davis has been held without bond since his arrest

Aug. 20 on charges of solicitation of capital mur-Meanwhile, attorneys defending Davis announced

Wednesday they expect to be ready to begin jury selection in the case Monday unless something unexpected occurs. Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, a Houston attorney, and Phil Burleson, a Fort Worth attorney, head a team of lawyers defending Davis against a charge he plotted the murder of State District Judge Joe Eidson of Fort Worth. Eidson, the judge in the divorce trial of Davis and his estranged wife, Priscilla, has since removed himself from the case. District Attorney Tim Curry of Fort Worth predicted the appeals court will agree with District Judge Wallace C. "Pete" Moore of Houston, who will preside at the trial, that Davis is not entitled to bond. Burleson said he will argue before the appeals court that prosecutors failed to comply with legal requirements for keeping a "no bond" order in He said the defense has not decided whether it will call Davis or his wife to testify during the trial.

Prosecutors cannot call either to the stand while presenting testimony. But they could question them if the defense places them on the stand.

Abandoned dam sites rediscovered as hydroelectric energy gold mines

By CONNIE GRZELKA

DETROIT (AP) - Mention a water wheel and most people conjure the image of a rustic setting, fieldstone house and slowly churning paddle wheel.

But increasingly, abandoned dam sites are being rediscovered as energy gold mines. Economics, not romance, is the driving force in a move to recapture hydroelectric power, says J. D. Kiser, whose company specializes in restoring water-run generators abandoned decades ago. Kiser and his uncle, Robert Kiser, gave up their jobs as millwrights 11 years ago and began restoring hydro plants for their Empire Co., located about 400 miles northwest of Detroit

"It all started changing around 1973 with the energy scare," says J. D. Kiser, whose company has become a $2 million-a-year business with 50 major accounts. It employs up to 40 people in busiest times.

"It was hard to get people to do it at first. But now, since all this went up in price, hydro plants have become very attractive," he said in a recent telephone interview.

While no one knows for certain how many abandoned water generators may still be in existence, Kiser estimates there are "a couple hundred" abandoned sites in Michigan alone. A 1977 study by the Federal Power Commission found at least 228 small hydro plants had been abandoned in New England in the past 30 years.

The same report found that the nation's 66,000 megawatts of existing generating capacity could be nearly doubled to 113,000 megawatts if undeveloped hydro-electric power were developed to its potential. Even if 10 percent of the nation's

50,000 small dams were partially developed, the energy equivalent of 180 million barrels of oil a year - costing about $2.1 billion - could be saved, the study said. Large hydroelectric power plants have long been used in some Western

LCRA continues rebuttal in Stacy hearing

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN-The Lower Colorado River Authority continued presentation of its rebuttal case Wednesday in the Texas Water Commission hearing on Colorado River Municipal Water District's application for construction of Stacy Reservoir.

Most of the Wednesday session was consumed by the reading of a deposition from Department of Water Resources scientist Dr. Krishna Murty regarding a computer model study Murty had prepared on the water use in the Colorado River.

The session also saw Murty called on cross-examination by CRMWD's attorneys, with Frank Booth questioning Murty regarding the 281-page report, which consists mainly of tables, figures and a 50-page explanation of the methodology used in the computer study

Booth questioned Murty regarding projection of inability to meet water needs from various reservoirs on the Colorado and its tributaries under varying conditions, and with differing amounts of water committeed to prior rights in the basin.

that the Colorado River Municipal Water District "has failed to prove itself entitled to the issuance of a permit" for the proposed Stacy Reservoir, the LCRA had attempted to convince the Texas Water Commission Tuesday that the district's application for the reservoir permit should be dismissed.

New TWC chairman Felix McDonald and commission member Joe Carroll, however, overruled LCRA cousel Larry Smith's four-point motion to dismiss the application, requiring the river authority and other opponents to proceed with what is expected to be a lengthy rebuttal to the case for the reservoir presented by the CRMWD over the five months.

In his motion to dismiss, Smith argued the district had failed to support its application on four-points:

*That the district failed to show the availability of unappropriated water in the Colorado River and further had "completely failed to deal with the question of what portion of the flews passing the Stacy dam site have been previously appropriated to the use of the Lower Colorado River Authority and other downstream rights

*That the district "has failed to posed appropriation does not impair engineer Bob Gooch had shown that posed project.

•That the district is not entitled to the permit under a "Wagstaff Act". claim since (a) the act grants rights to cities and towns and the district "is neither a city or a town:" (b) the LCRA's permis predate the effective date of the Wagstaff Act; and (c) the district's application is for both industrial and municipal water and, the LCRA said, "a permit for industrial appropriation cannot be granted under the Wagstaff Act.'

CRMWD attorney Booth called Smith's claim that the district has not shown the availability unappropriated water in the river "easy to say, hard to describe."

The issue is a determination of what

'unappropriated water," Booth said. The issue is for the commission to make on the basis of all the evidence, he added.

Booth also maintained the CRMWD existing water rights would not be impaired by demonstrating that there would be more water available in the river than is now being used.

Booth also said the commission should not construe the Wagstaff Act in a common sense and use its discretion in applying it to the Stacy Reservoir application.

On the matter of hydroelectric generation. Booth agreed that Stacy reservoir would reduce the amount of water available downstream for use by the LCRA for this purpose. 'We do not deny that," he said, ad-,---

"whether or not hydroelectric power will be generated or people in West Texas will have drinking water." While McDonald said the motion

Airlines make mad dash for hundreds of U.S. routes

By HOWARD BENEDICT

WASHINGTON (AP) - A modern-day version of than 20 airlines claiming a newly legislated right to provide scheduled service to cities that don't now

With hundreds of U.S. routes up for grabs, the airlines trooped inside the Civil Aeronautics Board when it opened its doors Wednesday morning and filed bulky sheafs of legal documents for the routes

First in line was United Airlines, followed by Eastern and American and the other 20 or so. Airline representatives had been camped on the sidewalk outside CAB headquarters for a week.

The new routes will be granted on a first-come, first-served basis.

There was no limit on how many routes an airline could claim, so conceivably United, as first in line, could grab them all. However, there is a provision that a carrier must begin serving any route it claims within 30 days.

mines if they are "fit, willing and able" to serve the routes they have selected.

It was impossible to predict how many or which cities would get new airliner service since the airlines involved kept their plans secret. "We certainly don't want to tip our hand on what we're after, and I'm sure the others don't want to, either," said Jim Linse of United.

The routes were available because of a section in the airline deregulation bill signed Tuesday by President Carter. It opens routes not being served at all by any airline and dormant routes which airlines hold authority for but are not using and do not plan to use within a set time.

Why would one airline want rights to a route not being used by a competitor? A route that might not be profitable to one airline might fit better into Johnson gains release the route structure of another, which therefore would have a better chance of making a profit on it. And

CAB authority over routes will be ended altogether the frontier land rush began Wednesday with more at the end of 1981, leaving existing airlines free to start new routes without any application process.

At the end of 1982, the board will lose its authority over fares and mergers, leaving the airlines subject to the same federal antitrust statutes regarding pricing and mergers that apply to other non-regulated industries.

WASHINGTON - On Aug. 10 at the Mead Corp. tower in downtown Dayton, Dr. Armand Hammer, the 80year-old godfather of Los Angelesbased Occidental Petroleum Corp., gave the Ohio executives an offer for their pulp and paper company that he thought they couldn't refuse.

But they did. And in the two months since, Mead has answered the Oxy takeover bid with a massive counterattack. The weapons of this corporate battle have been propaganda and legal legerdemain. Right after Hammer and his top executives visited Dayton, Mead hired a passel of highpriced accountants, investment bankers, lawyers and public relations men who immediately began to dig for dirt in Oxy's balance sheet - and they came up slinging.

As a result, the Justice Department has concluded that an Oxy-Mead merger would be anti-competitive and has gone to court to block it. Meanwhile, the Securities and Exchange Commission is scrutinizing Oxy's offering prospectus for Mead to determine if there is any truth to Mead's allegations of questionable accounting by Oxy.

In public documents, the Mead forces have accused Oxy executives of misdeeds ranging from "blackmail" to "fraud" in operating the international energy conglomerate. The record of civil fraud suits brought in recent years by the SEC against Hammer and Oxy have been exhumed, as well as his criminal conviction of making illegal contributions to President Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign.

Oxy's president and heir apparent to chairman of the board Hammer, Joseph Baird, is described in unflattering terms. The basis for this is that Baird allegedly delivered a $25 million non-interest-earning loan to the Government of Peru, where Oxy has valuable oil and gas concessions. As for Oxy's executive vice president for finance, John Dorgan, who helped fashion the Oxy offer for Mead, he is dismissed simply as a go-for. "Were loyalty to one's superiors the essential virtue of a corporate fiduciary, Dorgan would rank high," the Mead group says of Dorgan in a public

Indeed, Mead's top executives are fighting like men who fear for their very livelihoods - which they probably do. For it seems unlikely that Hammer, who has never been known as a sentimentalist where busiess is concerned, will choose to retain them if his takeover attempt is successful. But a lot more than a few high-paying jobs is at stake here.

In 1977, Mead had sales of $1.8 billion, net income in excess of $98 million and assets of $1.4 billion, making it the 146th largest industrial corporation in the U.S. Besides pulp and paper, Mead's products include coal, iron castings, chemicals and molded rubber products. What is particularly galling to Mead's chief executive officer, J.W. McSwiney, is that, for the past half-dozern years or so, he has been trying to update the company's old-line operations. More recently, paper company stocks have been performing well, after a period in the doldroms. Mead's earnings and its stock price - were beginning to reflect these developments when Oxy suddenly stepped in.

Oxy is offering Mead shareholders preferred stock in exchange for their common shares. Mead has urged its shareholders to reject the Oxy preferred, which if converted would be worth about $35 a share (Mead common hit a high of about $24 before Oxy's offer). One argument is that Oxy is already too highly leveraged, and preferred effectively adds to that debt. Moreover, argues Mead, preferred stockholders are subordinated to many of Oxy's other creditors. For Oxy, financing the acquisition by issuing preferred stock is far more expensive than using other debt financing, mainly because the preferred dividends are not tax deductible to the company. But Oxy apparently has exhausted its less costly lines of credit. But it may need a domestic company like Mead because it has accumulated about $100 million in domestic tax credits. Since most of its current holdings are overseas, it will lose these credits without an acquisition.

In 1977, Oxy ranked 27th among industrial corporations with sales exceeding $6 billion, net income of $138 million and assets of $4.13 billion. Acquiring Mead would push up Oxy's standing to 19th among industrial companies. This makes Oxy's bid for Mead one of the biggest unfriendly tender offers in history.

Ironically, it was just four years ago that Standard Oil (Indiana) tried to take over Oxy, and Hammer, then the victim, managed to get his friends in the Senate to call a nearly instant hearing so he could argue against bigness. "If Standard succeeds," predicted Hammer,"... a message will reverberate through every competitive zone of American business: Free enterprise and independence are

Like so many other companies caught up in a merger affair, practically the first act of Mead's management when Oxy revealed its intentions was to place a call to the New York office of the merger maven, Joseph Flom, of the law firm Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom.

Joe Flom is to mergers what Mickey Mantle was to baseball: a powerful switch hitter who is as adept in blocking an unfriendly takeover attempt as he is in managing an unfriendly takeover. Either way, Flom and his associates know all the tricks of the merger game. Because time is always of the essence in tender-offer battles, the lawyers in Flom's firm work at a sizzling pace, regardless of which side they happen to represent. The firm also charges clients especially rich ones like Mead - with equal intensity.

In an attempt to discredit the Oxy forces, Flom took Mead's case before the Ohio Division of Securities. A number of states have created laws to protect locally based companies from takeovers. The legislation is of questionable constitutionality because interstate takeover fights are federal issues. Moreover, the SEC has argued that many of these laws were pushed through state legislatures by corporate executives seeking job security.

After 36 hours of testimony filling 2,400 pages, the hearing officer in Ohio issued a scathing attack on Oxy that, in many details, reflected the findings of the Flom team. The officer, Nodine Miller, recommended that the Oxy offer be halted until the "industrial leviathan" complies with federal securities requirements of fair and full disclosure. She punctuated her conclusions with criticism of Oxy's "rubber stamp" board of directors and the "arbitrary handling of this corporation" by senior management.

On Friday, the full Ohio commission upheld Miller's refusal to let the offer go forward until Oxy "provides fair and full disclosure" to Mead shareholders about such potential costly hangups as Hooker Chemical Co.'s environmental problems in Michigan and some of its foreign dealings. Attorneys for Oxy have refused comment about their client's plans.

Naturally, the Flom team has also spread the bad word about Oxy to Washington. On Oct. 11, the Justice Department's Antitrust Division filed suit in U.S. district court in Dayton. Justice charged that if Oxy were allowed to take over Mead, the merged company could monopolize the market for several products each now produces, such as socium chorlate, carbonless paper and a form of bituminous coal. As for the SEC, it is revieweing Oxy's registraton statement on the Mead offering to determine whether the oil company has failed to disclose material facts about its operations. For example, the SEC's enforcement division must determine whether Oxy has defrauded its shareholders by not revealing a $25 million, interest-free loan it made to the nearly bankrupt Peruvian government for a few months earlier this year. Among the questions raised by this transaction: Did Oxy, which already has major oil concessions there, get anything from the government in return for use of Oxy's money?

The Flom group has also raised questions about the way Oxy delayed writing off its loss on its disastrous project to build a huge refinery at Canvey Island in England. Construction began in 1970, but before it ever was completed the international oil picture changed dramatically, rendering the refinery uneconomical. Oxy finally took a $122 million writeoff on the project this year, but Flom - looking to raise questions about Oxy's bookkeeping - has charged that Oxy delayed the write-off for years through questionable account-

Questions remain

BROOKSIDE VILLAGE, Texas (AP) - Two major questions remain unanswered in the wake of a gas pipeline explosion that killed five persons--what caused the destructive blast and where is Miss Ivey Beasley?

Philip Hogue of the National Transportation Safety Board said Wednesday there was no evidence of maintenance or operating failure by the United Texas Transmission Co., owners of the 30-inch pipe that erupted near the Royal Trailer Park Tuesday.

Hogue said the initial investigation showed no failure by the company or any corrosion in the pipe, which is 25 years old.

Hogue added that the board's investigation would take three months and it would be detailed and thorough. "We will look into much more than the immediate cause of the explosion," he

The bodies of five victims were found in the pre-dawn hours and 43 others were injured by the blast. All area residents affected by the blast have been accounted for except Miss Beasley, 65, whose small frame house was leveled in the mushroom explosion

Tom LeClere, a Pearland policemen, said "Ninety per cent of the opinions out here are that she was in the house at the time of the fire. Her whole house was leveled except for some concrete stairs.'

Firemen said the intense heat was capable of incinerating a human being. A friend visited Miss Beasley Monday night and saw the woman lock her front gate and return to her home. Miss Beasley's dogs were found dead near the home Joe Piotrowski, director of the Texas Railroad Commission's gas utility division, said the "cause is anybody's guess. You can't point a finger at anything. We can't see any negligence on anyone's part.'

Piotrowski said the pipe was 20-25 years old "and appeared in excellent shape. You can compare it with the new pipe they are installing and cannot see any difference.

The ruptured section of pipeline was replaced with 80 feet of new pipe and was back in operation early Wednesday.

Oil imports to increase; Hugh Liedtke honored

HOUSTON - The Independent Petroleum Association of American forecast oil imports will begin to climb again next year as domestic crude production resumes a downward trend.

Imported oil declined from record levels after the start of crude production from Alaska's North Slope region

The association's supply and demand committee said, however, North Slope production will level off at about 1.13 million barrels a day next year as domestic demand for petroleum products approaches a record 19.4 million barrels a day.

The committee estimates crude and products imports nect year will average a record 8,870,000 barrels a day, compared with 8,144,000 this year and the 1977 all-time high of 8,722,000 barrels a day.

Domestic crude production meanwhile is expected to drop to 8,656,000 barrels a day, compared with this year's indicated average of 8,742,000. Before North Slope crude began moving to markets in mid-1977, domestic crude output dropped from a record average of 9,637,000 barrels a day in 1970 to a low of 8,132,000 in 1976. Crash crew reportedly lost sight of aircraft

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The crew of a Pacific Southwest Airlines 727 jetliner apparently lost sight of a small Cessna just before colliding with it in the worst air crash in U.S. history, the Los Angeles Times reported Wednesday. The Times carried an interview with unnamed officials who said they had listened to a confidential cockpit tape recording of the crew's last words before the two planes collided and crashed, killing 144 persons the morning of Sept. 25. The cockpit tape shows confusion about the small plane's whereabouts, according to the quoted officials. "Do you see him?" asked one crew member.

"He was right over there a minute "He's probably behind us." The tape is in the possession of the National Transportation Safety

Board, which is investigating the collision and has not yet released its A previously released Federal Aviation Administration transcript of radio talk between the San Diego control tower and the crew shows the pilot reporting "traffic (Cessna) in sight" 1 minute and 34 seconds before the collision. But that tape did not pick up all that was said in the cock-

Fifty-eight seconds after McFeron told Saville he thought the Cessna had passed off to the right, the planes collided and plunged to the ground.

According to the cockpit tape, McFeron fought desperately during the final 20 seconds to bring his craft under control.

The latter show, still third in ratings in its hour against NBC's "Today" and ABC's "Good Morning America," also will get a new look that could include another anchor change after only a year.

There've been rumors Richard Threlkeld and Leslie Stahl, who succeeded Hughes Rudd and Bruce Morton as the show's co-anchors in the fall of 1977, may depart for other duties soon.

"Well, it's possible," says Robert "Shad" Northshield, who last month became the executive producer of their show and is the guy who'll run the six-day "Morning" venture when it begins in

But he hastens to add there's been no decision the current "Morning News" anchors will be hoisted and others installed: "When I say it's not decided, I mean it hasn't been talked about.

"I know they (Threlkeld and Stahl) are absolutely going to be involved in the Sunday operation in a big way, and that's about all I know now." He was asked if they'd shift to Sunday-show hosting.

"Not necessarily, there may not even be anchors," he said by phone from New York. He said he wasn't trying to be vague, "it's just that we haven't even talked about it.' Everything still is in the planning stages, emphasized Northshield, 55, a respected ex-NBC News documentary, specials and "Today" producer who last year rejoined CBS, where he toiled in 1953-58. Right now, he said, he's busy enough just trying to hire a staff, get office space and secure the gear needed for the new Sabbath show, which he likens to the Sunday edition of a daily newspaper. "It'll have hard news, a review of the week's news, plus a lot of cultural stuff, the kinds of things you only get on Sundays (in newspapers)," said the former Chicago newspaperman. It'll also probably have staff critics to criticize art, music, theater, movies and even TV, he added. CBS says the Sunday effort, to regularly carry religious as well as cultural news, will be pre-empted several times each year for "important religious

Scribe picks Houston, Texas to nab wins

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent

It was a theory of Bill Murray, the former Duke football coach, that when a team riding a victory crest suddenly stubbed its toe it plopped on its nose — not once but twice.

"The emotional letdown is tremendous," Murray said. "After such a loss, it's virtually impossible for a coach to get the team up the next week. If the foe is tough, count on another upset."

This rule of thumb is put to test again this week in the game between Arkansas, beaten by Texas, and rugged Houston. The Razorbacks are favored, but look out for the "letdown jinx."

Last week's score: 39-13, .750. Season: 227-85, .731.

Oklahoma 48, Kansas State 7: The Sooners have had their little "sleep-in" — the Kansas squeaker — and may be unstoppable.

Penn State 33, West Virginia 14: Coach Joe Paterno is in danger of making QB Chuck Fusina balloon-headed from syrupy praise.

Alabama 35, Virginia Tech 7: The Tide's cover boy, Jeff Rutledge, needs a fast finish if he covets the Heisman Trophy.

Nebraska 27, Oklahoma State 7: The Cornhuskers won't match the 641 yards gained against Colorado but should prevail.

Maryland 27, Duke 14: The Terrapins, counting the Hall of Fame Bowl, are gunning for No. 12 in a row.

Southern Cal 30, California 14: The Golden Bears must still be dazed over all those turnovers in the UCLA game.

Texas 30, Southern Methodist 21: The Longhorns refuse to be hypnotized by the Ford-Tolbert razzle-dazzle of SMU.

Michigan 28, Minnesota 7: The Wolverines imbibe freely from the Little Houston 25, Arkansas 20: The sharp-toothed Cougars put the bite on Lou Holtz' sense of humor.

UCLA 33, Arizona 20: Better keep the kickoff away from UCLA's

Theotis Brown — his return average is 29.5 yards.

Washington 25, Arizona State 19: The Sun Devils have had an extra week to savor the Southern Cal upset and grow soft on adulation.

Missouri 31, Colorado 25: Phil Bradley, Earl Gant and James Wilder look like too tough a trio to stop.

Pitt 14, Navy 9: The Midshipmen yield yardage and touchdowns grudgingly, but Pitt should grunt to a pair.

Georgia 18, Kentucky 15: Friendly home surroundings for the Wildcats should make this a closer game.

Purdue 25, Iowa 10: Mark Herrmann's got an arm that should be preserved in bronze.

Notre Dame 28, Miami, Fla. 7: Even if Miami plays as it did against Auburn, it won't be enough in this one.

Clemson 20, North Carolina State 18: The Tigers anxious to get the ACC title, as the song says, "back where it belongs."

Crane tries Alpine; Rankin meets Iraan

By STEVE O'BRIEN R-T Sports Writer

The buck stops in Crane Friday night and the Golden Cranes will be doing their darndest to make it a very short and unpleasant stop.

The afore-mentioned buck is not of the "passing the buck" variety. Nor is it to be confused with a note of legal tender. This buck originates in the mountain area of Alpine, is generally regarded as hostile and thrives on

They are the Alpine Fighting Bucks and if they have their way, they'll be feasting on Golden Crane tomorrow.

IT IS THE final non-district encounter for Crane, which stands 5-1 on the

In other area football action this week, Andrews opens it's District 2-AAA season with Ector in Odessa Saturday, Rankin travels to Iraan in a crucial District 6-A showdown, McCamey is at Marfa, Stanton is at O'Donnell and Reagan County entertains

Wall.

Alpine carries a mediocre 3-3 reading into the Crane contest, but don't be deceived by that mark. All three losses have come to powerhouse foes. The Fighting Bucks lost only 14-0 to Fort Stockton, the fourth ranked team in Class AAA, and*played sixthranked Pecos close to the vest before a fourth period collapse in a 26-6 loss. The other loss was by the same 26-6 score, this time to Kermit.

"THEY'VE GOT GOOD size and good speed. They are big, strong and (Steve O'Brien's picks, page 2-D)

very aggressive," said Crane defensive coordinator Mike Patterson.
"They've got an excellent passer and like to throw the ball quite a bit. We're gonna have to play excellent pass defense."

Fortunately, pass defense has been a strong point thus far for the Golden Cranes. Through six games they've limited opponents to just 342 yards in the airways. But, Patterson is still a ittle worried.

"We've got to have more consistency, both in our offense and in our defense."

Crane's Carl Gibbs stands as the number three rusher in District 7-AA with 478 yards on 77 carries and he'll be counted on in Crane's attempt to establish their running game. Dewayne Draper, the hero of last week's 22-14 win over Van Horn, has added 423 yards on the ground.

CRANE DOESN'T go to the air much, but when they do it usually means big yardage. Quarterback Rocky Rives has completed just 30 passes, but each completion has gone for an average of over 17 yards. Andrew Hannon has snared 12 of Rives' aerials for 278 yards and three touchdowns. His 23.1 per catch average is tops among district receivers.

Rankin travels to Iraan for what could be the decisive match in District 6-A. Iraan is unbeaten and untied through six games and ranked fourth in the latest AP high school poll. Rankin is unranked with a 5-1 season mark.

IT WILL BE the district opener for Rankin, but Iraan has already had a taste of league competition. The Braves downed McCamey last week 25-14.

Rankin fullback Richard Barrett enters the contest needing only 44 yards to surpass the 1,000 yard mark. The big senior fullback has already scored 15 touchdowns.

Andrews' Mustangs finally jump into District 2-AAA action when they meet Odessa Ector Saturday night in Odessa's W.T. Barrett stadium. With an open date last week, the 4-2 Ponies have had two weeks to ready themselves for this one.

Pearcy continues to spark the Andrews attack. Pearcy is the top rusher in 2-AAA with 638 yards in six games. He's scored seven times.

Andrews has averaged 241 yards of offense in their six outings, third in the league behind unbeatens Fort Stockton and Pecos. Ector is at the bottom of the district's defensive charts, giving up almost 230 per game.

Defense has been a sore spot for Ector, but offense hasn't exactly been one of their specialties either. The Eagles have managed less than 1,000 yards of offense and have scored only 62 points. Andrews, on the other hand, gives up only an average of 146 yards and have been the toughest team in the district to run on.

MCCAMEY TRAVELS to Marfa for another District 6-A battle. Marfa, 5-2 on the season, stands 1-0 in district play after a 33-14 win over Clint last week. McCamey is 3-4, 0-1, after losing to Iraan.

Marfa stands as one of the top offensive machines in the district, averaging 355 total yards and 26

Tom Landry

Cowboys, Vikes on tube tonight

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Coach Tom Landry and Minnesota Coach Bud Grant don't mind Thursday night "Monday night" National Football League games.

"When television wants to put you on the air nationally it's an honor," said Grant. "That means you are a contending team or they wouldn't call.

"I'm sure it would be nice to play at 1 p.m. every Sunday, but if you are a contending team you just have to bear the cross of unusual starting times. I'm not so sure Dallas has an advantage because we have to travel. The important thing was that we both played at home last Sunday. It (the travel) is not a major handicap."

LANDRY SAID, "It's an honor to be asked. They don't ask you to play in games like this unless you have a good football team. I think we can recover from our tiredness Sunday but maybe our bruises won't heal as fast. I think we probably have a little advantage — I don't know how much — because they have to travel."

Then he laughed — "Knowing Bud they probably won't be here until the last minute anyway."

Playing on the artificial turf of Texas Stadium was a bigger worry to Grant.

"Well, it's a distinct disadvantage to play on your (the Cowboys') field coming off grass," said Grant. "It's a handicap we find it difficult to adjust to. There is so much more traction. It's a faster, finer, more precision type of game. A Tony Dorsett type field."

And Landry added: "All I know is that we've been on grass twice and lost."

The Cowboys were seven-point favorites for the nationally televised 7:30 p.m. CDT kickoff with a sellout crowd of 65,000 expected.

Dallas, 6-2, had a chance to move a half-game ahead of Washington in the National Conference Eastern Division with a victory while the Vikings, 4-4, were trying to stay close to Green Bay in the NFC Central.

THE GAME marked the return to starting grace of Tony Dorsett, who regained the Cowboys No. 1 halfback job after he apologized to the team and Landry for sleeping through a workout last week. Landry had demoted Dorsett to second-string.

Hargrove trade surprises former Ranger first sacker

DALLAS (AP) — Former Texas Rangers first baseman Mike Hargrove, sent to the Padres in a fiveplayer deal, says he is surprised and hurt, but looking forward to playing in

"They probably did a good thing to trade me to the other league," Hargrove said. "If they hadn't, I'd come in with a crowbar, a stick of dynamite and a shotgun and would have eaten first base if I had to to help beat

Rumors of a trade circulated for weeks, but the American League Rangers made it official Wednesday. Hargrove, infielder Kurt Bevacqua and catcher Bill Fahey will go to San Diego of the National League for outfielder Oscar Gamble, catcher Dave Roberts and an undisclosed amount of cash which was estimated at between $250,000 and $300,000.

"I knew it would come someday, but I'm surprised and hurt it happened this soon," said Hargrove, the AL Rookie of the Year in 1974 with Texas. He finished 1978 with seven homers and a .251 average.

Hargrove got the word Tuesday night during a dinner with Rangers owner Brad Corbett, the Dallas Times Herald said.

"I'm not mad at anyone but Robinson (General Manager Eddie Robinson). I cannot stand that man," said Hargrove, adding that he thought Robinson was the force behind the trade.

Gamble expressed his pleasure with the trade. "I hit better in the American league," said Gamble in a telephone interview from his home in Montgomery, Ala.

Gamble powered 31 home runs with the White Sox in 1977. But last season he finished with just*seven homers and a .275 average with the Padres. "Yes, I'm happy because they didn't want me to play here," said

Gamble. "It got to the point where I had to fight to get into the lineup."
Hargrove was once described as "the kind of guy you like to build a team around" by former Texas Ranger Manager Bill Hunter.

But Hunter was axed with just one game left in the season, and now the player he prized has been become the latest bargaining chip in an apparent economy move by the Ranger's wheeling and dealing owner.

"I've had some time to get over the shock and I'm looking forward to going there," said Hargrove. "But I didn't want to leave. I don't understand it other than maybe the eco-

The little speedster, who has been a member of the National Football League's 1,000-yard club in rushing for the past three years, missed four weeks with a leg injury and has been generally impotent in the two games since returning.

Pruitt gained just 8 yards in six carries and fumbled once in the 34-14 loss to Pittsburgh two weeks ago, then ran the ball 14 times for 46 yards in the 17-3 defeat by Kansas City last

In the first two games of the season, before suffering the injury, the 5-foot-9, 190-pound Pruitt scampered for more than 200 yards and caught a handful of passes. "You get a guy like Pruitt back and you want him to run the ball 22 to 25 times - you want to use him to his fullest extent," Rutigliano said. "But we had to go without him for a month and we were doing things differently without him.

"Then he comes back and suddenly we're not looking around for the things we've been doing before that have been working. We've got to get our thoughts together and do the things we can do well. But it's like anything else. You have to go with your best, and our best is Greg

"I know his physical condition isn't as good as it was before the Cincinnati game (in which he was injured), but we didn't do a good job of execution against Kansas City either. We'll try to do some things this week to take the pressure off him.

Bellard convinced he was to lose job

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - As far as former Texas A&M football Coach Emory Bellard is concerned, his resignation came just before regents were to ask him to

"Tuesday morning after I arrived at the office, I was given some information from a very reliable source that the intentions of the president of the university and the Board of Regents were to ask me to relinquish my coaching duties at the end of the season, regardless of the outcome of the remaining games, and remain at Texas A&M as athletic director," Bellard said.

A later conversation with school President Dr. Jarvis Miller convinced him the information was correct, Bel-

Offensive coordinator Tom Wilson took over the coaching duties. His name had been prominent as a successor to Steve Sloan at Texas Tech. but the job went to Rex Dockery instead

Bellard said he's through with athletics, but isn't sure what he will do in the future. In 61/2 seasons, his Aggie teams won 75 percent of their

The resignation came after the team lost consecutive games to Houston and Baylor.

"I feel no animosity toward Texas &M," Bellard said. "I truly love this university and most of all the people of Texas A&M. They have been great to me. I hope that I can be remembered as a good Aggie.

Most accusing fingers in the matter were pointed at an alumni group in Houston, but one Aggie supporter from Dallas went on record for Bellard, "It must have come as a hell of a shock to everybody," Tom Dwyer said. "I know Emory Bellard did a hell of a job. I hate to see him persecuted in any way." Aggie placekicker Tony Franklin denounced some recent student moves calling for Bellard's replacement. "A lot of students were really being crass," Franklin said. "Chicken bleep is the only way to describe

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas Coach Fred Akers Texas said Wednesday Texas' upset victory over Arkansas Saturday carried more importance than just a single Southwest Conference victory.

Texas moved up one place in the national college poll to No. 7 after coming from behind to defeat previously unbeaten Arkansas, 28-21. Arkansas fell from third to ninth.

The game, Akers told the Longhorn Club on Wednesday, "had a little something for everyone - for coaches, players and fans. It meant a great deal to us, obviously, the way we had to win it ... and it goes a long way to building our (young) ball

Akers disclosed that Ron Bones, a defensive end who had been counted on to try containing Southern Methodist passer Mike Ford this Saturday, may miss the SMU game with an injured elbow

Offensive tackle Craig Rider, praised for his pass blocking against Arkansas, has a hurt shoulder, Akers

He said Texas missed 16 tackles against Arkansas, "which is normally not like us, but part of that" is due to the elusiveness of such backs as Jerry Eckwood.

"Eckwood can cause you to be a foot short getting to him," said

"They're going to come in here throwing the ball, and it should be an exciting game," said Akers. "It will require a lot of patience and skill" for Texas to win. "I hope we have all our people ready by the weekend, because we're going to need them."

points per game. Those figures are second only to Iraan. Marfa's team rushing total of 1,427 yards ranks them with the best in the league in that department. But, they can also sport the most prolific aerial attack in the loop, having collected 1,058 yards in the air. Quarterback Manuel Mendosa is the top passer in the conference, connecting on 59 of 112 passes for 972 yards and nine touchdowns.

With that kind of offense, one might wonder how Marfa has lost twice. The answer is evident when you look at the defensive stats. The Shorthorn defense has been virtually non-existent, giving up 271 yards and two touchdowns per outing.

MCCAMEY MAY BE unable to take advantage of that obvious weakness however as the district's worst offensive team is now on it's third quarterback of the season, this one a converted tight end

After a 10-10 tie with Plains last week, Stanton will face a must-win situation when they travel to O'Donnell. The Buffaloes now stand 2-0-1 in district warfare and need to win to keep pace with unbeaten Seagraves.

O'Donnell is 3-3 on the year, dropping a 13-9 decision to Ropesville last After opening the season like gang-

The Rangers had been considered pennant contenders. But it was a disappointing season for the Rangers at the box office, with losses approaching $2 million, as well as at the diamond. And team management apparently has backed up the bus in a cost cutting drive.

The Hargrove swap is the second trade for the Rangers since the end of the season. Earlier, the team dealt slugger Bobby Bonds and Len Barker to Cleveland for Jim Kern and Larvell Blanks.

"I almost wish I didn't have so many good friends on the team," said Hargrove. "Then it would make it a lot easier to hate the Rangers."

Iraan will be tested

No matter how long I look at it, think about it and try to analyze it, that Rankin-Iraan matchup Friday night still leaves me scratching my head. It seems to shape up as an exciting, no-holds-barred district showdown. But then again, it could be a rout.

There's no doubt it's going to be a showdown match between two of the top contenders for the District 6-A crown. The only question is whether Iraan will make pretenders out of all the other contenders.

The Braves sport a perfect 6-0 mark and have scaled the Class A polls to the No. 4 position. Their closest contest thus far was last week's 25-14 win over McCamey which really wasn't that close.

RANKIN ENTERS the contest not far off Iraan's pace with a 5-1 mark. A 75-yard touchdown pass with only 19 seconds left in a game two weeks ago allowed Menard to apply the lone blemish to the Red Devils' mark.

The two squads have some striking similarities. Both spurn the pass for the grind-it-out, ball control running game and their records stand as proof that this method has served them both quite well. Both also field ballhawking, gang-tackling defensive crews which have shown a special distaste for giving up touchdowns.

The chores of running the ball in the Iraan attack fall on the more-than-capable shoulders of Martin Russell and Sammy Castaneda. The two have combined for over 1,000 yards and 90 points in six games. Russell is the power back at 210 pounds and he has bulled his way for 527 yards and seven touchdowns. Castaneda has just about matched that with 516 yards and eight scores. When either of those two tire, the Braves turn to sophomore Mike Hill, carved in the same mold as teammate Russell. He's added another 200 yards rushing and has shown good hands coming out of the backfield with 12 catches for 198

THE RANKIN ATTACK can be described in a very few words only two in fact — Richard Barrett. When the Red Devils want to move the ball, they look to Barrett. Anything else is just for a little diversity.

Barring injury, the big senior fullback will probably reach the 1,000 yard mark by halftime of Friday's game. He's already carved out 956 yards on the season while carrying the ball around 28 times a game. With Barrett in the lineup it's been easy money for the Red Devils when they've gotten close to the goal. He's scored 15 touchdowns to personally account for 90 of Rankin's 150 total points.

It's been no secret to any of Rankin's opponents that the Red Devils were going to line up and feed the ball to Barrett, but he just seems to get better and tougher to stop each week. In his latest outing he rushed for a season-high 215 yards and scored three times, his second best scoring output of the year.

BUT, IRAAN isn't a team that is likely to give up a lot of touchdowns. In fact, the only two touchdowns scored on Iraan this year came when the defense was on the bench. Both came last week when McCamey returned a blocked punt for one score and a kickoff for the other. Other than that, Iraan has been dented by the opposition for only a single field goal while recording four shutouts.

Rankin has been just as stingy. They've also recorded four shutouts and have given up only 20 points through their six games.

So, it would appear the two are very evenly matched. Risking the possibility of being labeled a cynic, I still have my doubts.

RANKIN MATCHES UP well with Iraan in nearly every sta-tistical category, but Menard may have exposed a critical Rankin deficiency in their 14-13 win two weeks ago - a susceptibility to the long pass. Menard scored on a pair of 70-yard plus passes in the fourth period to take the game right out of Rankin's back pocket.

Iraan, on the other hand, has shown no such deficiencies. As McCamey coach Ronnie Page said last week, "if they have any weaknesses, I can't see 'em. They are totally balanced." Even though Farmersville is the top-ranked team in Class A, some insiders say the seniorladen Iraan Braves are going to be the team to beat come playoff

If anyone is to derail the Braves, it would seem Rankin is the team with the best shot. Whether they can actually pull off the upset is a question that will be answered soon enough. Until that time, I guess I'll just have to keep scratching my

Stewart, Denbow named

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

AP Sports Writer Rockdale Coach Fred Johnson looked at 250-pound defensive lineman Louis Stewart and decided he needed more size in the backfield. Vidor Coach Philip Brown looked at 5-5, 140 Darron Denbow and decided to give the kid a chance.

Both decisions made the coaches look like geniuses last week when Stewart rushed 192 yards on 27 carries and scored two touchdowns in a 21-15 victory over Hearne and Denbow caught four key passes for 100 yards and a touchdown in a 21-15 upset of Port Neches-Groves.

Their performances last week earned them mention in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll.

Stewart, the biggest player on the Rockdale team at 6-1, 250, shifted to fullback this year after lettering as a sophomore defensive lineman last season. Rather than play the season with 140-pound runners, Johnson shifted Stewart into the backfield. "He had some trouble holding onto the football early in the year," Johnson said. "But he only fumbled once last week and that went out of bounds. 'He runs about an 11-flat 100 yard dash so he's no George Woodard (Texas A&M's 265-pound fullback). He just flat runs over people.'

Johnson said Stewart and several other players missed one game because of disciplinary reasons. "I think he's more determined now," Johnson said. "He's just starting to realize his potential."

Denbow leaped between two taller defenders on his 39-yard touchdown catch for Vidor's first touchdown. He later caught key passes to the PN-G one and 16 yard lines to set up the next two touchdowns.

"There's a place for every kind," Brown said. "I've had 5-2, 120 pound safeties playing 4A football. He (Denbow couldn't be a tailback or fullback but for the type of offense we run, we can find a place for him." Brown called Denbow "my kind of player. He's just 5-5 and 140 pounds but he plays like he's 240 and I'm not going to tell him he can't.' Joining Stewart and Denbow on this week's list if Gregory-Portland quarterback Mark James, who was virtually a one-man show in G-P's surprisingly easy 35-0 victory over Beeville in what was expected to be a close district showdown.

The victory put G-P in the driver's seat for it's 10th consecutive district championship, a feat accomplished by only two other teams in Texas schoolboy history.

James rushed 209 yards on 13 carries scoring on runs of 73 and 15 yards and hit five of eight passes for 124 yards and two]more touchdowns. James' 73-yard TD came on the first play of the game.

Rose minced no words Wednesday over the deteriorating relationship with the Reds' management.

He said the claim by President Dick Wagner that Rose has been offered the highest salary package in Reds' history is "a bunch of bull, no matter what the other guy says.

"He's got such a way with

Battle spreads into Europe sporting events

By HOWARD SMITH

AP Sports Writer The battle among the three networks for rights to sporting events has spread to Europe. The main weapon is cash, lots of it. And Geoff Mason, an articulate 37-year-old from Duke University, is calling the shots

"It's not true that the world has turned into a gigantic auction," says Mason. "We won't let it. But the price for events has gone up. Basic rights prices are escalating. Promoters are now aware that Europe is no longer an exclusive ABC market. In recent history, Europe has been ABC's backyard.

ALL THREE network's now have sports anthology programs - ABC's long-running "Wide World of Sports". the CBS "Sports Spectacular" and NBC's "SportsWorld", the new guy on the block. Hence the premium on gymnasts, weightlifters, barreljumpers and the like is up.

ABC Sports has long had agents prowling through Europe, signing various events for "Wide World." Now both NBC and CBS have also invaded Europe and the competition can be rough. "WE DON'T have an open checkbook policy," says Mason, who, as vice president of European Operations for NBC Sports is based in Paris. 'We try to be selective. But it's getting tough.

"For example, ABC bought the World Cup track and field meet in Duesseldorf last fall after a bidding war with me. We started by offering promoters $200,000. The contract had an option clause giving us first crack for the 1979 meet in Montreal. We decided this was very attractive to us as kind of a pre-Olympic meet. So we decided we would bite the bullet and spend maybe $500,000 because we really wanted it.

"I spoke with the agent for the event and it looked good. Then that night he gets a telex from ABC. Without having previously approached him, they offer $1 million. Now that's open checkbook. He calls me, almost embarrassed, and tells me what they

"I told him as a friend to take the money and run. That's how it is." Mason joined NBC in April of 1977, among the earliest of a long line of quired rights to the 1980 Summer Olympics in Moscow.

'When I came over here we had a full 81/2 months committment for "SportsWorld" and the only European events we had were Wimbledon, which isn't even part of "Sports-World", and the Arc de Triomphe. So in terms of European events for the new show, we had one 41/2-minute horse race.

"The first major event I acquired was the World Cup gymnastics in Spain. I got on a plane with a lawyer and a contract, flew to Spain, met for three hours with the promoter, made a couple of changes in the contract and signed the deal.'

MINUTES AFTER, the phone rang in the restaurant where Mason and the promoter were having lunch. It was Dick Button who heads Trans World International and was looking to acquire the event for "Sports Spectacular.'

Mason says there will be more European events on the three networks this season than ever before. From Sept. 1, 1978, through September 1, 1979, he says NBC will air about 20 events, ABC about the same and CBS about 15. That makes a total of about 55 events on the three networks. During the same time period two years ago, the three networks aired about 18 European events.

"The bottom line to all this is to find new events," he says. "You don't take ABC's leftovers. There's room in broadcasting for everybody but we don't want the rat decathlon.'

The increased competition has rewoodwork with events to peddle

"The other day I got a telex from a go-cart organizer," says Mason. "He offered me exclusive broadcast rights to his event for $300,000. I hope that was a typo.

"As soon as you exhibit interest in an event, four guys show up at your doorstep saying they have the rights to it. It's tough to find out who you are supposed to deal with. That's why the first person I hired was a lawyer."

Rebs, Mojo will prevail

Last week was the best of the season for this corner in picking Class AAAA football games across the state. In fact, it was so good that even in District 5-4A, all four games were correct. That's a change isn't it?

Anyway, last week the score was 42 right and only five wrong for a percentage of .894 and on the season it stands 239 correct and 54 incorrect for a per cent of

Got to brag a little bit on picking Pasadena Dobie over LaPorte. Dobie had already beaten Port Neches-Groves earlier in the year. The pick was 26-22 and the final score was 30-29. What a wild one that must have been!

Lee made me look good, winning 28-25. The call was 21-17 and late in the third period that was the score and it looked like that might stand up as the final reading.

Time to look forward instead of backwards with another big weekend coming up.

Here are this week's picks:

MIDLAND LEE travels to Big Spring and most likely will be looking ahead to the big showndown battle with Odessa Permian next week. That won't make any difference. The Rebels, with Jeff McCowan, Ricky Johnson and Company, like Mojo last week, can just about name the score. Lets say

MIDLAND HIGH will be celebrating homecoming Friday night in Memorial Stadium against the San Angelo Central Bobcats. They will have to stop Glen Payne in order to win and as much as I hate to, have to go with Central to win, 21-14. The Bobcats still have some talent left. They have to in order to score 34 points on Odessa

ODESSA PERMIAN meets Abilene Cooper in a mighty important Districrt 5-4A battle in W.T. Barrett Stadium in Odessa. It is a must for Cooper since it lost to Lee last week. Permian still has the best defense in the league and it will be the difference Friday as Mojo will win, 24-16 in a real headknocker. There ought to be quite a crowd for that one...

ODESSA HIGH travels to Abilene to take on the big and quick Eagles in P.E. Shotwell Stadium. Abilene has some talent this year and should give OHS all it wants. Going with the Bronchos to post a wild 28-22 victory, however in another good one...

IN OTHER GAMES: El Paso Burges 14, El Paso Andress 13; Austin of El Paso over Bowie, 22-20; El Paso Coronado to win

Guidry set for hunting back home

Benefi

NEW YORK (AP) - In a few days, Ron Guidry will head back to La fayette, La., to do some hunting with his friends and furnish his recently built house.

Meanwhile, the 29-year-old pitcher has stayed around town picking up some awards for the unreal season he and the world champion New York Yankees experienced. He is looking forward to placing some of the newly acquired hardware on the mantle in

In two weeks, the American League Most Valuable Player award will be announced, and that's the one that Guidry would cherish more than any individual honor.

But Guidry is realistic enough to accept the fact that Jim Rice of the Boston Red Sox had a fantastic season as their designated hitter.

'Sure, I'll be glad if I get the MVP," said Guidry Wednesday, "but if Rice wins it, I won't hang my

"I know I'm in competition with Rice, and he's a hitter while I'm a pitcher. Here's a case where two guys had their best season and one will get the MVP and one won't."

Guidry was presented with a twofoot high pewter trophy and a check for $10,000 at a luncheon for being named the winner of the Seven Crowns of Sports baseball award for

The award is sponsored by the Seagram Distillers Company.

The stylish southpaw, in becoming the first pitcher in the four-year history of this computer competition to earn the accolade, outdistanced Rice and Dave Parker of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins won the award last year.

Next week the American League will announce its Cy Young Award winner, emblematic of the outstanding pitcher in the league. And Guidry, who posted a 25-3 won-lost record for an .893 percentage and a 1.74 major league-leading earned run average, is a virtual shoo-in to win it.

As for Guidry's chances for winning the AL MVP, he said, "People say that Rice should get it because he plays every day and I pitch every fourth or fifth day. I realize he had a good season but if it were given just for hitting they should call it the Ty Cobb Award or the Rod Carew Award. Remember, the MVP stands for Most Valuable Player, and is not given to the most valuable hitter or pitcher."

Guidry respects Rice but he notes that he handled him pretty well this past season. "He only got two hits in about 11 or 12 at bats against me, both singles, and one of the hits was an infield single, and was questionable.

"If I come in second," said Guidry, "maybe I could win it next year. It would be nice to have, but it really doesn't mean that much to me.

"Many people feel that the player on the team that wins the pennant should get the MVP. Others feel that the best player should get it even if his team doesn't win the league championship. All I know is that we both had good years and we both have a chance. Both players led the majors several categories. Besides topping the majors in victories, ERA and winning percentage, Guidry also had the most shutouts, nine, and tied for third in strikeouts with 248. Rice was first in hits (213), home runs (46), runs batted in (139), total bases (406), sluggin8g percentage (.600) and triples (15).

Vitale ejected from wild NBA contest

By The Associated Press Dick Vitale finally injected his vibrant personality into a National Basketball Association game — and was handed his first ejection.

Vitale, in his first season in the league, suffered physically and mentally as his Detroit Pistons lost their first five games of the season. He was on the bench for the first two games and in the hospital - because of a stomach disoorder - for the last

He returned to the bench Wednesthe Cleveland Cavaliers their first loss of the season, 110-105, but didn't last through three quarters.

WITH TWO minutes remaining in the third period, Vitale, who has promised to "revitalize" the slumbering Pistons, went wild after incurring his second technical foul of the game, resulting in automatic ejection. The technical was assessed when Vitale protested a personal foul against the Pistons' M.L. Carr.

The excitable Pistons' coach chased referee Tommy Nunez around the floor, threw down his jacket and threatened to fight the official. The feisty Vitale had to be restrained by police and team aides before being removed from the playing area.

"I coached my personality tonight," the angry Vitale said afterward. "This is the first time I have coached my personality since I have been in the league. I see too many players being protected and I'm going to fight when I think I'm right. Around the league, they're going to know who Dick Vitale is.

"I didn't lose my head. I'm just a fighter ... to coach in this league, you've got to be crazy.

IN SOME saner NBA games, the unbeaten Seattle SuperSonics trounced the Washington Bullets 121-92, the Philadelphia 76ers nipped the Atlanta Hawks 118-117, the Denver Nuggets defeated the Phoenix Suns 108-104, the Houston Rockets downed the New York Knicks 106-101, the San Diego Clippers topped the Milwaukee Bucks 125-116, the New Jersey Nets edged the Golden State Warriors 121-118 and the Kansas City. Kings beat the New Orleans Jazz 1/14-109.

"You can criticize my coaching if you want," said Vitale, "but no one will ever criticize me for being a worker and a fighter. I want some wins. We've got to get some victories. If I didn't get ejected, we might not have come out with the victory. "It wasn't intentional, it's just the way I am. I can't change. If I can't make it in this league by being myself that's that, but I can't change. The delay in getting Vitale off the court wasn't the only prolonged delay during the game. There also was a 12-minute halt when one of the basket standards was knocked out of place BOB LANIER'S 26 points paced the Pistons, who rallied from a 71-59 deficit in the third quarter by outscoring Cleveland 17-1 for a 76-72 lead. Rookie John Long scored 11 of his 19 points during the burst.

Henry Bibby hit a field goal with 31 secoonds remaining while he was falling toward the floor, giving the 76ers, 4-1, their victory over Atlanta. Philadelphia's Doug Collins led all scorers with 31 points.

Nuggets 108, Suns 104

Denver, 5-1, playing without highscoring David Thompson, sidelined with the flu, got a big game from George McGinnis in rallying from a 16-point, third-quarter deficit and beating Phoenix. McGinnis scored 33 points and grabbed 24 rebounds, the most ever by a Denver player in an NBA game. Paul Westphal was high for the Suns with 29 points.

Rockets 106, Knicks 101

Houston, 5-1, was led by Rudy Tomjanovich's 23 points and Calvin Murphy's 21 in downing the Knicks, who were without high-scoring Bob McAdoo, sidelined with a back injury. Spencer Haywood had 24 points for more - paced San Diego's freewheel-son Washington's 26 points and 18 rebounds — both career highs — carried New Jersey past Golden State. The Nets converted 43 of 59 fouls to only 22 of 27 for the Warriors. Phil Smith topped Golden State with 29 points.

Kansas City hit 11 of its first 13 shots and went on to build a 15-point lead with eight minutes remaining in the game, but then had to hang on for the victory after missing 14 of its last 16 shots. Scott Wedman led the Kings with 22 points, while Truck Robinson scored 37 for New Orleans and Pete

"This is a good opportunity at a great university with an outstanding program. I was a product of its infancy, you might say, and I'd like to be a part of it for the next 10 or 15 or 20 years," he said. "I've had a great deal of continuing to get back, but I didn't think the opportunity would present itself for the next eight or 10 years," Howser said Wednesday before holding his first practice here. The veteran utility infielder and

"I wasn't disenchanted with major league baseball, it was just a change of lifestyle I was interested in. I've been on the road for 21 years. My home here is the first I've ever owned," he said.

"The obvious question was why I turned down a so-called glamorous position as coach of the Yankees to accept a position at FSU. I enjoyed my tenure in professional baseball, but I'd like to go into something else. I've had my day at the beach. I've been there," he said.

Any aspirations he might have had for a managing job have been dismissed, he said.

"If I really wanted to stay in pro ball and get a job, it would have been easier to stay with the Yankees or another team. There is a lot of politicking involved. A college job is fatal to me professionally. It's difficult to move from the campus to a manager's job," he said.

contract set for Dec. 5th

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Lightheavyweight boxing champion Mike Rossman has signed a contract to fight European champ Aldo Traversaro at the Spectrum Dec. 5.

It will be the first bout for Rossman since Sept. 15 when he stopped Victor Galindez in New Orleans to capture the World Boxing Association version of the crown.

"He's no stiff," Rossman said of Traversaro, the WBA's eighth-ranked challenger. "He's a real good punch-

The champ was presented at a press luncheon Wednesday aimed at promoting the bout.

Bob Arum, president of Top Rank, Inc., a co-promoter of the fight, said Rossman, of Turnersville, N.J., will be guaranteed a purse of $100,000, plus training expenses, and Traversaro, who fights out of Chiavari, Italy, would get $20,000. Before lunch, Rossman's father and manager, Jimmy DePiano, told reporters his son was thinking of challenging Muhammad Ali. "It would be a great fight," said the son later. "Yeh, I'm thinking about it, why not? But I got to get past Traversaro first."

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) - A group of University of Illinois alumni will meet with Chancellor William Gerberding next week to ask for the dismissal of athletic director Cecil Coleman, according to the Champaign News-Gazette. The men represent some of the major financial contributors to the university's sports program, the newspaper reported Wednesday. "These men have expressed grievances and I have agreed to meet with them," said Gerberding. "As far as I'm concerned, his tenure is not at issue at this time ... although I understand they want to raise precisely that question." The four alumni, who represent contributors to the grants-in-aid program from all over Illinois, are to meet Tuesday with Gerberding. "I don't like to say it, but I personally feel we'll have a problem as long as Coleman is director," said Bob Eisner, a Champaign insurance executive and one of the top contributors to the athletic program, both in time and money. "The key to the whole thing is the chancellor. The sooner he decides, the better it will be for the athletic program. The alumni in general and those most supportive of the program are extremely unhappy."

Coleman said he knew of the meeting with Gerberding, and understood that people with complaints would go to the chancellor.

Schramm wants new NFL rule on fumble play

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Tex Schramm, chairman of the National Football League's competition committee, has proposed a rule making it illegal for a team to advance its own fumble on the game's final play.

If adopted, such a rule would make illegal such "Holy Rollers" as when Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler had what was ruled a fumble advanced by Pete Banaszak and kicked into the end zone by Dave Casper, where he recovered for a 21-20 Raiders victory over San Diego.

Schramm, the Dallas Co8wboys general manager, said in an interview in today's San Diego Union that he formulated the suggested rule change after viewing films of the game here Sept. 10.

The competition committee is regarded as the NFL's most influential body and its recommendations generally are accepted by the league's owners, who meet next in Hawaii this

Death claims prep gridder

SEYMOUR, Wis: (AP) - Donald G. Neal, a 15-year-old Seymour High School football player who collapsed during practice Tuesday, died of a hemorrhaged lung, the county coroner says.

Neal died shortly after he collapsed during a huddle on the practice field. County Coroner Bernard Kemps said Wednesday the autopsy showed Neal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Neal of Black Creek, suffered a laceration in the left lung and may have been injured in a football game Monday night

The boy's coach, William Collar, said Neal had given no indication that he had been injured in the game, and there had been no physical contact in Tuesday's practice.

"We were just working on our special teams, kickoff and punt returns," Collar said
