Pollsters, politicians predict light voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — A largely apathetic public today was electing a new Congress, governors and state legislatures from among candidates whose solutions to the nation's economic headaches often sounded the

In off-year elections dominated by worries over inflation, unemployment, government spending and a rising tax burden, voters in 16 states were voting on a variety of tax-cutting and budget-trimming proposals.

Despite nationwide rumblings of a tax revolt, pollsters and politicians alike predicted a light turnout — a factor Republicans hoped would swing a few close races their way. The weather could discourage some voters, with rain forecast for much of the eastern third of the nation and in Republicans also anticipated taking several governorships — perhaps as many as a half dozen — now held by Democrats and hoped to make some inroads into the two-thirds majority Democrats hold in state legislatures.

Although a record 155.5 million Americans were qualified to vote, off-year elections traditionally attract a small turnout. In 1974, for example, only 39.6 percent of the voting age population bothered to vote. And just 36 percent voted for congressional candidates.

There were 428 House seats, 34 Senate seats and 36 governorships being filled today. Seven House members and one senator — all from Louisiana previously won election by capturing 51 percent of the vote in that state's open primary in September.

Another 41 House members — 27 Democrats and 14 Republicans — had no general election opposition. Sixteen other Democrats and two Republicans in the House had only minor party opposition.

But most observers were predicting little change in the Democratic dominance of Congress.

Even Republican National Committee Chairman Bill Brock estimated the GOP would gain only 15 to 20 seats in the House and one or two in the Senate. The party out of power in Congress has, since World War II, gained an average of 36 House seats in off-year elections.

But Brock was more optimistic about state races, predicting during an appearance on ABC's Issues and Answers that Republicans could pick up 200 or more additional state legislators and four to six new governors.

President Carter, riding the wave of his new-found popularity, spent 13 days campaigning for Democratic candidates in 19 states and urging voters to support his efforts to curb inflation - particularly his wageprice program.

Republicans countered with former President Gerald R. Ford and Ronald Reagan, as well as other would-be presidential contenders.

Republicans had hoped to make major inroads in this election by riding the crest of a taxpayers' revolt. But public opinion polls showed taxpayers were more worried about the rising cost of living and more interested in curbing government cut advocated by the GOP. The Democrats, meanwhile, were quick to embrace the economic issues themselves. The result: many races ended up with the issue one of — in the words of a popular song — "Anything you can do, I can do better."

Democrats controlled the Senate 62 to 38 and the House 285 to 146 in the last Congress. Four House seats were vacant because of deaths.

There currently are 37 Democratic governors, 12 Republicans and one independent. Fifteen governors were not running for re-election.

Forty-five states also were electing legislatures Tuesday and voters in 16 states were considering an assortment of tax and spending restraints spawned by California's Proposition 13 battle against property taxes

Bight senators — four from each party - faced extremely tight reelection battles. In addition, attention was focused on voters' reaction in three House races where incumbents are under federal indictments and three others where incumbents had been reprimanded by the House for past misdeeds.

Democratic senators believed to be facing close battles included Floyd Haskell of Colorado. William Hathaway of Maine, Jennings Randolph of West Virginia and Wendell Anderson of Minnesota. Republicans believed in possible trouble included Robert Griffin of Michigan, Charles Percy of Illinois, John Tower of Texas and Edward Brooke of Massachusetts.

Crane County Chamber cites two citizens at annual banquet

By ED TODD R-T Staff Writer

CRANE - "The key to success is good communication," Ann Smartt, the 1979 president of the Crane County Chamber of Commerce, said here Monday night after out-going president Gordon Hooper called her to the

'Communication is a two-way street," she told approximately 150 Crane folks and out-of-town guests at the annual chamber banquet, "and you're entitled to know what is going

After she had clued the folks in on the happenings, two of Crane's citizens were cited for taking pride in their town Claudia Willis, a Crane resident since 1941 and owner of Crane Flower Shop, was recognized as Crane's First Lady for the year. R.E. Wesberry, a real estate agent who has lived here since 1935, was singled out as Crane's Outstanding Citizen.

"She has always been proud of Crane," Bernice Passur, last year's First Lady, said of Mrs. Willis. She described Mrs. Willis as "friendly, "kind" and "most gracious" and noted her free-will work in serving the community

Wesberry has done "various and sundry things" for his community in the 43 years he has lived and worked in this oil- and gas-producing town, said Dr. B.J. Maynard, last year's Outstanding Citizen.

Before she told the folks about the chamber's plans, president-elect Mrs. Smartt cited out-going president Hooper for being "very capable in picking up the reins" after he was made president in mid-year when then-president Bob Anderson resigned to move to Hobbs, N.M., to take a new job. Then, Mrs. Smartt demonstrated what she meant by "good communication" in telling about the chamber's plans for 1979:

-Recognition of youth at the Crane County 4-H Club Livestock Show in January.

-Implementing a "concentrated (chamber) membership drive." -Carrying on with the annual "clean-up" of this town of 3,400-plus.

-Work harder at "inviting new industry" to Crane

"Work with young people in instilling in them a sense of pride that they live in Crane.

The "subject closest to my heart," Mrs. Smartt said, is "supporting my

Her objective is to make Crane 'better than good." It's to "make it the best." And with the help of Crane folks making a concerted effort, that can be done, she said.

Earlier, Hooper noted that the chamber did not launch any revolutionary programs in 1978.

"We haven't taken on any new programs much," he said. "But we have tried to carry out the old ones.

He referred to the chamber projects in the 1976 Bicentennial year and to the celebration of Crane's 50th anniverary in 1977.

"So (now), we're pretty well partyed out." In 1978, Hooper said, the Crane chamber has: -Prepared a new format for the

The high court's ruling Monday upholds an Ohio Supreme Court decision that Ruppert should receive a new trial if he wants one.

Attorney Hugh Holbrock said he is considering asking a state judge to determine his client's mental ability to stand trial again.

"His paranoid condition has worsened. Generally, his entire mental processes are breaking down," Holbrock said. Ruppert, who is presently confined at the Lima State Hospital for the criminally insane in Lima, Ohio, was 41 and living at his mother's home here when his brother's family visited for Easter dinner on March 30, 1975. In what prosecutors described as bizarre fit of anger, Ruppert shot and killed his mother, brother, sister-inlaw and eight nieces and nephews, aged 4 to 17.

Trial testimony indicated Ruppert believed his mother headed a conspiracy to spy on him and that he was surrounded by a "sea of enemies."

Davis seeking order releasing him from jail

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis, on trial for allegedly trying to hire a hit man to kill a judge, today seeks a Texas Court of Criminal Appeals order releasing him from jail.

Davis' lawyers were scheduled to appear before the court, asking it to overturn orders by two judges who refused to set bond for Davis.

Davis is charged with attempting to hire a killer to murder State District Judge Joe Eidson, who was presiding over Davis' drawn-out divorce case. Judge Arthur Tipps of Fort Worth refused to set bail shortly after Davis' arrest on Aug. 20, and Judge Wallace Moore of Houston denied a similar request on Oct. 20.

The Texas Constitution allows a judge to deny bond when the state convinces him it probably can prove the defendant committed a felony while free on bond in an earlier felony

Both denials of bail were based on the fact that Davis was free on bond in three other felony cases, including the shooting of his wife Priscilla and the murder of her lover, Stan Farr, at the Davis mansion in Fort Worth.

Davis' lawyers said in their brief to the appeals court that the Constitution requires a judge to set bond if the defendant is not tried within 60 days on both the previous offense and the latest indictment

They also maintain that the three pending felony indictments could not legally be used as a reason for denying bond because each involved double jeopardy

Farr, Mrs. Davis and Gus Gavrel, the victims named in the earlier indictments, were shot on the night of Aug. 2, 1976, by the same person who killed Mrs. Davis' daughter, Andrea Wilborn.

Davis was acquitted of Andrea Wilborn's death following a four-month trial in Amarillo last year.

The state should not be permitted, legally or ethically, to use a pending indictment known to be legally void to obtain the denial of bail," Davis' brief to the high court said.

Tarrant County District Attorney Tim Curry's office replied that all three cases had been docketed for trial but were passed over when Davis waived his right to a speedy trial on June 21. Davis was charged with solicitation to murder Judge Eidson before the cases could be reset, Curry's brief said.

Jannings said the FBI had been involved late last year and in early 1978 in the investigation of an extortion attempt directed at Davis.

Again outside the courtroom, defense lawyer Steve Sumner said, 'The extortion came in the form of a letter and then there were subsequent phone calls. "...the FBI was called in and put recording devices on the phone, but nobody was ever caught. The extortion went to his (Davis) being killed if he didn't pay the money.' Sumner said Davis was more than a little distressed at the unsuccessful effort by federal agents to identify and apprehend the extortionist. Haynes questioned Jannings at length about a series of meetings among three principals in the Davis saga - Priscilla, the defendant's estranged wife; David McCroy, Davis' chief accuser; and karate expert Pat Burleson. The defense contends the trio conspired to frame Davis on charges he solicited a gunman to kill Joe Eidson, the presiding judge in Davis' long and bitter divorce case.

The state said Davis, 45, tried to draw McCrory into a scheme to kill Eidson and others.

"The oil show has grown out of proportion" to the space permitted in the Ector County Coliseum, Hooper said.

-The town has been "without a dentist for sometime" but, with the aid of Dr. Maynard, a Crane physician, the town may be getting by next summer a dentist fresh out of dental school.

'We have managed to keep the chamber going for you," Hooper said in wrapping up his talk.

Incoming chamber directors re-cognized Monday night included Dan Anderegg, Jim Fowler, Mike Milam. Lou Tennison and Tom Witt.

Hold-over directors are Gene Cowden, Carlos Fox, Jowanna Griffin, Bill Harkins, Darrell Warren, Johnny Ainsworth, Steve Holifield, Buren Hale, E.L. Tipton and Mrs. Smartt. Outgoing directors recognized by Hooper were Crane County Judge Charles Blue, James McDonald and Bob Lewis.

The banquet food of boneless club steak, baked potatoes, green beans and home-made rolls was prepared by the Crane public schools' cafeteria staff, and table service was provided by members of the Future Homemakers of America. "Those rolls are worth waiting for," commented Larry D. Sheppard, a past chamber president.

Master of ceremonies at the fete was Murry Ford, Crane superintendent of schools. The night's speaker was humorist-banker Lee Herring of Grand Prairie.

Staten Island ferry crashes, injuring 170 passengers

NEW YORK (AP) - A Staten Island ferry crashed against a concrete seawall at the lower tip of Manhattan today as it tried to dock in heavy fog. Police said as many as 170 of the 2,000 persons aboard were injured.

Authorities said the ferry was never in danger of sinking. Five to seven feet of the half-inch steel deck peeled back and passengers were thrown about like rag dolls. "It looked like it was opened by a giant can opener," said one passen-Police said at least 30 of those aboard suffered serious injuries and 140 others were said to have suffered bruises and cuts in the crash off Battery Park about 7:30 a.m.

There were broken arms, broken legs and lacerated faces from broken glass in the cabin windows, police said. Most of the injured were standing near the bow, according to harbor

Barry Sternstein, a passenger who received a minor leg bruise, said he saw pandemonium and some screaming. He said police commandeered a city bus, in addition to ambulances, to get the injured to hospitals.

said, "No one knew what was going on. There was so much blood." One passenger on board the radar-equipped ferry, American Legion, said the boat was in a heavy fog bank as it neared the shore and a deckhand saw it was about 100 yards west of its docking slip.

"Back down! Back down!" the deckhand was reported to have

The witness said the engines were backing down when it hit the wall but had not begun to reverse the vessel's momentum. One estimate was that it hit the seawall at about 10 knots, or about 10 miles an hour.

Edward Hillis, mate of the ferry, said, "I was up at the front of the boat. It was running half speed. The captain gave it 'full astern' — put the brakes on, reverse — and the wheel didn't grab."

Asked if anything was wrong with the engines or propeller, he said: "It's just one of those things. It happens very rarely. It's one out of a thousand, but it happens." The captain, Irving Satler, a 30-year veteran, was not injured. Because the deck was peeled back, officials of the city's Department of Marine and Aviation had to turn the ferry around and back it into the slip to take cars and passengers off. Marine and Aviation Commissioner Leon Tracy said the boat can carry 3,400

Any Child Can Write, by Harvey S.

Wiener, Ph.D.; McGraw-Hill; 248 pages; $9.95. This Harvey S. Wiener, whoever he is, is a funny duck. Everybody knows that Johnny can't read, but Wiener even wants him to be able to write. Oh, he's not expecting him to be transformed into a latterday Shakespeare, but he does want him to start using words at an early age and, even, to come to feel comfortable with words.

Quite possibly Wiener should be put away somewhere. At least they should make sure he doesn't get near any sharp objects and that he's locked up when there's a full moon.

Just listen to this: Wiener, who has been at this heresy for a long time (he's written several other books about children and words), actually sticks up for public schoolteachers.

It's probably because he was one himself for seven years, but he claims that teachers are overworked and that, with 30 pupils to instruct, no single teacher can be expected to take

But here's the capper:

Wiener thinks it's time the family got into the education act, especially when it comes to teaching children to come to appreciate - perhaps even love - words.

"Please don't call it a chore for parents," Wiener, said in an inter-view. "A responsibility, yes, but there's no reason why learning at home can't be fun, that learning can't be part of a growing up playtime."

Is this guy crazy or what? Doesn't he know we pay taxes so schools can take care of all that stuff? Doesn't he know that both parents want to get out to paying jobs in today's world?

Doesn't he know that we hire people to stay home with our child in these fast-moving times, and that the sitter's first and only duty is to prevent wholesale destruction of the house while mommy and daddy are off at Wiener claims to have credentiale but what could he know?

He says he was brought up at his father's knee, where he was exposed to the magic of crossword puzzles and stories. He took a couple of degrees at Brooklyn College and his Ph.D. at Fordham.

He's a professor of English at LaGuardia Community College of the City University of New York, where he teaches writing and literature.

Wiener, 38, also is raising children of his own, he says successfully. For all I know, he may have had only one

He suggests that the use of written words in a child's life might start as early as the age of 3. He thinks that home learning can be a sort of game played by parents and Wiener would have us staying at home, drawing pictures with our child, then associating the pictures with words. He would have us help the child make little signs to stick on things, so that he can associate the words with the objects.

Dream reverses roles

By ERMA BOMBECK

I had a dream the other night that I. can't get out of my mind. The adults of the world became the children and the children ran the world.

It was terrible, standing down there wedged among all those knees. I couldn't get a drink of water, mail a letter, or open a door. Cars were even worse. If you didn't kill yourself getting to a window you just sat there on the seat with your legs sticking straight out, staring at the back of the seat. Every once in awhile, the child driving would say, "You sit down or you're going to break your neck. You know I can't drive and yell at the same time." But that wasn't true.

At the supermarket, I was just standing there when without a warning, someone whipped me off the floor and forced my legs through a grocery cart seat that was so cold my teeth frosted

I never got introduced. Sometimes, someone would say, "Oh, is this your youngest parent. . . or your only girl?" Or someone would say how much you looked like someone, but for all purposes, I had no name.

I took naps when I wasn't sleepy, ate when I wasn't hungry, had sweaters put on me when I wasn't cold and got thrown into swimming pools when I didn't want to swim.

I crayoned when I was supposed to, played with strangers when I was told to, and washed my hands 50 millions times a day. I was "seen a lot and not heard," given reasons of "Because I said so, that's why" and told with regularity, "You should have gone before you left home."

But the worse part was that people kept telling me, "This is the best part of your life, so enjoy it." I thought I'd never wake up.

Weight, diet becomes cycle

By DR. LAURA SCHLESSINGER Copley News Service

"All my life I've had a weight problem so this is nothing new. I go on a diet, lose 25 to 30 pounds, feel real good about it and then gain it all back. It makes my husband so unhappy. I wish I understood why I can't keep the weight off." Jan is 33, married with two children. She is 5 feet 4 inches tall and her weight varies from 125 to 155 pounds. I asked her what benefits there were in being thin, why was this her goal?

"Well, when I'm thin my husband is just thrilled. He loves the way I look and tells me so. He reinforces me like crazy so I don't see that this is a problem at all. I know some women get ignored so that they feel nobody cares. But he does give me lots of positive reinforcement when I'm thin.

"Also, my whole family compliments me a lot - they make a big fuss over me when I go on a diet and get that extra weight off.

"I feel freer to buy clothes. It is tough to get clothes that look nice when you're heavy. "And I hate buying 'fat' clothes anyway because I don't want to have them around. I'm afraid I might get complacent. So I only buy smaller sizes so that I have something to work toward. Otherwise, I feel guilty spending money on myself.

"I also feel sexier when I lose weight. Slinky and sexy, just like the ads. It's obvious that my husband thinks so too, because he approaches me more when I'm thinner. "In general I just feel more comfortable. For instance, when I'm walking around stores or wherever, I don't feel so self-conscious about people watching or seeing me when I'm thin. When I've gained the weight back I resent people looking at me - I feel angry."

I then asked Jan the negative aspects of being thin.

"I can only think of one, really. When I get thin I don't get to eat all the things I love, like cake and ice cream. It's almost like punishment, really. But I guess that's not all that bad if you consider all the positives I just named. You see? None of this

Jan and I went back over her list of "benefits" to see if we could find the key there. I reflected on how it might feel to get all this wonderful feedback only when thin.

You know, that's true. I guess it does hurt me. It feels as though my husband's love is conditional love.

Jawboning by public

"When economics gets important enough, it becomes political." - Peter G. Peterson in American Enterprise Institute Publications.

In his newly announced effort to control inflation, President Carter might be likened to a cook faced with a pot boiling over on the stove. In setting wage and price guidelines while conceding a $300 billion federal deficit, he merely placed a temporary lid on the problem instead of turning the high burner down to simmer.

The basic cause of inflation, as has been stated time and time again, is the fiscal and monetary policy of the federal government; unless control is exercised over the expansion of credit and paper currency, which result from excessive spending in Washington, there can be no real hope of controlling inflation. In calling for a lid of 7 percent on wages and 5.75 on prices, Mr. Carter proposes to treat the symptoms rather than the cause of inflation. One would think he would learn sometime.

Unlike some segments of the population in this country who are swayed by political rhetoric to hope for improvement, foreign financiers and exchange dealers quickly recognized the lack of substance in the touted White-House economic program. Consequently, they began to unload their dollar holdings as being too risky. The result was a further fall of the dollar against the foreign currencies in the lowest ebb since World War II - and a concurrent rise in the price of gold to an alltime high of $230.75. And this, of course, brought on Carter's later crash program to stem the dollar's rapid loss of value overseas.

The President's potent threat to impose price guidelines on major industries under government contracts will undoubtedly have some effect at first. But this can only be temporary if organized labor leaders drag their feet, which they already are doing. They insist that their cooperation will depend on a reduction in prices, ignoring that wages and fringes alone account for 76 percent of the total costs of goods and thus are a major factor in determining price levels.

Moreover, the President's 7 percent wage guidelines ignore the 40 percent increase in the minimum wage mandated by Congress over a four-year period. Nor do they take into account an $8.5 billion increase in the Social Security payroll tax which will fall on the American people next January.

One could argue that the President has done all that is politically possible at this time short of wage and price controls, which the Nixon administration's experience proved to be disastrously counterproductive.

But if this is true, the question arises as to why the anti-inflation offensive was not undertaken much sooner in partnership with Congress.

This is a mighty good question, and one which should be answered to the satisfaction of the public.

And while the President is credited with vetoing the porkbarrels passed by a profligate Congress, the White House failed to exercise the necessarily tough leadership in halting excessive federal spending on Capitol Hill.

There is considerable doubt if Jimmy Carter is capable of exercising tough leadership in Congress or most anywhere else.

Presidential jawboning about inflation should be aimed at Congress, not the American people who, by erroneous implication, are being held responsible for the success or failure of the national struggle to control inflation.

In fact, with congressmen now home from their Hill, it would be a good thing if the voters, nationwide, did some jaw,boning on their own. This is what it is going to Inflation cannot and will not be curbed unless and until federal spending is reduced materially.

It is past time for the people to speak out in demanding tones to the President and to the Congress. If they speak loud enough - and soon enough - something yet may be done about this pressing problem, which stems from excessive spending by big govern-

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Report from Somoza's Nicaragua

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - Nicaraguan dictator Anastasio Somoza tells anyone who will listen that the Sandinista rebels are left-wing, Cubantrained terrorists who would lead his country down the primrose path to communism.

Disguising his shaky position with bombast, the Big Banana of Central America has now begun castigating his democratic neighbors for giving shelter to the "Nicaraguan Sandino Communists.'

Somoza figures, correctly, that the most important outside support he needs to maintain his dictatorship is that of the United States, which put his father in power 46 years ago and has kept the Somozas in control ever since with military and economic aid. But Somoza's ruthless tactics are proving an embarrassment to the Carter administration, and the State Department is quietly trying to get a 'line" on the rebels, to determine their background and politics.

We sent reporter Bob Sherman to Central America for a first-hand look at the Sandinista National Liberation Front. He spent several days in a remote, secret guerrilla training camp, where he ate and slept with the rebels and watched them train. He went underground and met sources and contacts in the anti-Somoza movement at "safe houses" and in out-of-the-way restaurants, after hair-raising taxi rides designed to throw off the dictator's ubiquitous

- The Sandinistas are, as they claim, a politico-military organization that cuts across all classes and ideologies. The cement that holds this unlikely structure together is the determination of all its components to get rid of Somoza and his satraps.

- The guerrilla group has agreed to support the establishment of a democratic provisional government once Somoza is kicked out.

The Sandinistas do not seek an official position for themselves in a provisional government. Instead, they have put their trust in the socalled "Group of 12," an inter-party coalition of 12 prominent Nicaraguans, many of them longtime exiles from their native land. Risking arrest, they returned to Managua last year to lend their prestige to the anti-Somoza movement.

- So white-hot does the anti-Somoza flame burn in the Sandinista camp that the rebels recently withdrew their support from the Broad Opposition Front, a coalition of 15 political parties that was supposedly unwavering in its opposition to the dictator. What caused the Sandinistas' disenchantment with the coalition was its agreement during recent negotiations to put two Somoza loyalists on a proposed three-member junta that would set up a provisional government. The Group of 12, meanwhile, withdrew from the negotiations and sought refuge in the Mexican embassy.

- Left-wing influence on the Sandinistas is minimal. Of the three main political groups that make up the rebel camp, the only avowedly leftist group - the Proletariat appears to have little or no influence among either the guerrillas or the population at large. - The dominant political group in the Sandinista movement calls itself the "Third Party." It is pledged to establish a free, democratic government, and has so informed President

- The Sandinista training camps are located in remote areas near the Honduran and Costa Rican borders, not in Cuba, as Somoza suggests.

- There is no evidence that any communist country is supplying arms to the guerrillas. Their American and European-made weapons are purchased from arms merchants.

Although even Somoza acknowledges he has something less than a majority of Nicaraguans behind him - more objective estimates put his support at about 10 percent of the population - the guerrilla leaders now believe that nothing short of an all-out war will dislodge him. Negotiations will not do the trick, they feel.

For this reason, they are trying to convert their forces from an undisciplined guerrilla band into a more conventional army capable of fighting Somoza's National Guard on its own terms.

The Sandinistas believe that their biggest obstacle to victory is the United States. They do not believe the congressional ban on direct military support is effective; Somoza, they contend, is buying arms from nations like Israel, which obtain them originally from the United States.

They also feel the cutback on U.S. economic aid to Somoza is inadequate. They want the United States to impose an all-out blockade like that thrown up around Cuba in the early 1960s.

Thus far, rebel leaders and anti-Somoza businessmen agree, the left wing has had little influence in Nicaragua. But they warn that a swing to the left is inevitable if Somoza is not deposed soon. The longer he remains in power and milks the Nicaraguan economy for himself and his cronies, the wider the gap will become between the haves and the have-nots-a situation that can only encourage support for leftist solu-

Supreme Court forbids Customs to open mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Customs agents should be forbidden to open lightweight letters coming into the United States unless the agents first obtain search warrants, says a House committee, complaining about dangers to rights of free speech.

The House Government Operations Committee said in a report released today that routine opening should not be allowed for international mail weighing one ounce or less. Most letters weigh less than

The committee indicated heavier mail can more easily conceal drugs or other illegal items and should continue to be subject to opening without a war-

A customs officer is allowed to open a letter entering the United States - without a warrant - if the officer has reasonable cause to suspect there is an illegal item in the piece of mail.

Customs officers are prohibited from reading the letters, but the committee said that prohibition is not always followed.

Agents open about 57,000 letters per year and find something improper about 60 percent of the time, according to statistics furnished by the Customs

A 1977 Supreme Court decision held that these openings do not violate the constitutional prohibition against illegal searches.

The committee report said, "Packages sent in sealed international-letter-class mail clearly could pose a threat if they can enter the country without routine examination.

Pope to live

VATICAN CITY (AP) - Pope John Paul II was reported Monday to be planning to live for several days in the papal apartments adjoining St. John Lateran, his basilica as bishop of Rome.

The Italian news agency ANSA said Cardinal Ugo Poletti, the pope's vicar for Rome, relayed the pontiff's intentions at a meeting with 35 clerics who help administer the Rome diocese.

The Vatican gave no confirmation of the re-

ANSA speculated the pope may move into the apartments as early as Sunday when he takes official possession of the basilica and presides over a Mass. But the agency added the sojourn could also take place some time in the future.

The Polish-born pontiff was reported to have told Poletti he keenly wants to acquaint himself with life in the Rome diocese both by visiting individual parishes and spending some time at the Lateran palace.

The papal apartments at the Lateran were rebuilt by Pope Sixtus V in 1586, though the Lateran itself has served as the cathedral of Rome and the world for a thousand

The new trial for alleged copyright infringement resulted from a suit by Harold Courlander of Bethesda, Md., a novelist and folklorist, and began Monday in U.S. District Court in Manhattan.

Courlander was among the early witnesses at the non-jury trial before Judge Robert Ward, who listened to numerous segments of Roots as the trial opened. Courlander testified he wrote "The African" after years of studying African ritual, dance, song and culture in the United States, Haiti, the Dominican Republic and on the African continent. He submitted into evidence a long list of his works.

A suit brought against Haley by Margaret Walker Alexander, who claimed he copied from her novel "Jubilee," was dismissed by U.S. District Judge Marvin Frankel last Sept. 21. Frankel ruled against Miss Alexander, a professor of black studies at Jackson State University in Mississippi, saying no author's work was completely original.

WASHINGTON (AP) - During this year's political season - in which people have raced around the country saying bad things about one another it was soothing to read Smith D. Fry's "Thrilling Story of the Wonderful Capitol Building and Its Marvellous Decorations.'

Fry wrote the pamphlet in 1912, when he was historian of the Capitol. In those days, decades before Tongsun Park, Fry would have been shocked had a pollster told him members of Congress were held in less than the highest esteem by the American people.

Office rezoning request denied

A request to change the zoning from residential to office was rejected by the city Planning and Zoning Commission Monday during a meeting in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

Raymond Horton had asked the commission to recommend that zoning be changed from MF-2, multiple family district, to O, office district on the northwest corner of West Illinois Avenue and North D Street.

Horton explained he needed to consolidate his work into one office, but added he would be moving to another house in the future.

He pointed out the city had initiated a zone change in an adjoining block.

Dr. James Mailey, superintendent of Midland Independent School District, opposed the change on the basis of future growth of Midland High

He said the school district owns the property west of the site in question and was hoping to acquire that piece of property in the near future, contin-

7-year-old to have grave marker after all

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) - It appears that little Bobby Nethercot's grave will have a marker after

The 7-year-old died Aug. 29, 1977, from an intestinal infection and kidney failure after being hospitalized for three days.

Officials at Resthaven Cemetery here removed the grave marker when the boy's father, Robert Nethercot, failed to meet four monthly payments. News of the removal two weeks ago sparked a nationwide outpouring of sentiment and dollars.

By Monday, bank officials said the Bobby Lee Nethercot Memorial Fund had grown to $1,387. Cortland Clotfelter, attorney for the Nethercot family, said he believes about $1,150 was needed to have the marker replaced. He said cemetery officials claim almost $1,500 is owed. Paul Morley, new accounts officer at Fourth National Bank, said when $1,500 had been raised, further contributions would be sent to Clotfelter to be returned to the contributor. 'We've had money come from all over the United States," Morley said, adding that one of the largest contributions was a $255 check from the staff of Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland.

Stanley Mark Rifkin was arraigned Monday before U.S. Magistrate Harry McCue on a charge of interstate transportation of stolen property in what has been described by officials as one of the largest theft-by-wire schemes ever

The charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. But Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael Lippman said a federal grand jury in Los Angeles may indict Rifkin on other charges. A hearing on the stolen property charge was set for

"It does appear as though the entire scheme was conceived and perpetrated by Rifkin himself," said Roger Young, FBI agent in San Diego. Young said there was no indication the Soviets knew the money for the diamonds had been stolen. "The Russians had to be cooperative," Young said. "They deal in cash and cash was offered.

The FBI agent said Rifkin used a phony passport to go to Switzerland to pick up the diamonds, which were bought from the Soviets at the wholesale price

Bank officials said earlier that about $2 million of the transferred money had been located in bank channels, and the bank was in the process of recovering that money. They said the diamonds would become bank property.

When Rifkin was arrested Sunday in Carlsbad, Calif., Young said, he had $12,000 in cash and diamonds with a retail value of $13 million.

Rifkin's attorney, Howard Frank, said his client had returned from the East Coast to give himself up after learning he was being sought, but "was arrested before he had a chance to surrender.'

Frank said Rifkin holds a master's degree in computer science and was working for a doctorate at the University of California at Los Angeles. Rifkin had no previous police record, authorities said. possible on the shift to the first military government Iran has had in 25 years, Ms. Schuker said the Shah tried to form a new civilian cabinet before turning to the military.

That effort failed when the civilians

- approached by the Shah after the previous government resigned Sunday - turned down his offers of cabinet posts, she said. Ms. Schuker repeated the State Department position that the Shah should be able to ride out the storm of protests against his rule, but some officials, speaking privately, were less certain.

They noted that the virulence of attacks against the Shah appeared to reach unprecedented levels this past weekend as rampaging mobs burned

president of New York Life Insurance

Co., was in Midland Monday and talked about the effect of inflation on the insurance business: With "moderate" inflation or recession, Stimpson said, people's first reaction is to buy more insurance because they become more conservative in their investments. But as conditions worsen, and inflation leaps to the double-digit level, people have less confidence in insurance as an adequate hedge against future needs. Stimpson said, however, any effect on the industry will be gradual because of the nature of the business.

Another indirect effect of inflation is increased borrowing against policies' cash values, said Stimpson. Although Texas law, and that of most other states, now permits insurance companies to charge up to 8 percent for policy loans, most exist-ing policies include provisions allowmatically, there was a "great surge" in policy borrowing from people "in all walks of life," said the insurance executive.

Beginning about four years ago when interest rates began to rise dra-ing borrowing at 5 percent, he said.

It was only good business sense, he added. "If you can get money for 5 percent, why pay 8 (percent)?' The effect on insurance companies was to increase the proportion of company assets tied up in policy loans. In the case of New York Life, said

Stimpson, the amount rose to 25 per-

That percentage is down to 16 now, he said, but with interest rates increasing again, it could rise once It will be years before insurance companies reap the benefits of the interest rate increase to 8 percent, loses NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market dropped sharply today amid concerns over high interest rates and the possibility of an economic slowdown in 1979.

At noon, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 13.60 to 801.28. The fall followed an 8.14-point loss the day before. DECLINES OUT-

DISTANCED ADvances by nearly 8-1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. NYSE volume came to 11.65 million shares in the first two hours of trading, up from 9.37 million at noon Monday. Federal Reserve Board Chairman G. William Miller said in a published interview that the economy might grow by only 2.5 to 3 percent next year, down from an earlier Fed etimate of 3-3.5 percent growth. Higher interest rates are part of the Fed's - and the administration's - plans for cooling the economy, curbing inflation and strengthening the dollar. As one indictor of the effects of that strategy, a ½-point increase in the prime len-ding rate to 10¾ percent spread to most major banks.

Auto industry issues were lower in active trading following General Motors' announcement that it is cutting its yearend dividend from $3.25 to $2.50 a share. GM slumped 1% to 58%, Ford was off % at 39% and

Chrysler dropped ¼ at 11. Eastman Kodak fell 11/2 to 571/2. IBM dropped 25% to 261½. Oils alo were lower, with Exxon off % at 49. The NYSE's composite index dropped .77 to 52.26; the American Stock Exchange market value index lost 2.27 to 142.21.

County Extension sets program

The Midland County Extension's program building committee will celebrate the 75th anniversary of the First Cooperative Farm Demonstration at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Valley View Community Center, said Charlie Green, the country agricultural extension agent.

The night's program will include a barbecue supper, the film "Thinking of the Harvest" and reports on agricultural committee work in Midland County. The committee reports will afford "an overview of Extension educational programs in agriculture, home economics and related subjects."

The program will clue folks in on objectives and accomplishments of the Extension Service and how the service helps "farmers, ranchers and families, as well as urban citizens," according to Midland County Extension Agents Green, Judy Germany and Travis Harney.
The root of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service was planted at Kaufman County in Northeast Texas in 1903, when U.S. Department of Agriculture Special Agent Dr. Seaman A. Knapp 'planted the seeds for the first farm demonstra-The USDA program became the foundation of a nationwide system of cooperative extensions in agriculture, home economics and related subjects. The demonstration was on 37 acres on the Walter C. Porter farm near Terrell. Before planting, the land was disked, cross-disked and harrowed. Cotton seeds were planted an inch deep in rows 31/2 feet apart. A roller which made the soil around the seed followed the planter drill. Certain acreage in experiment plats were fertilized at planting. The effect of moderate fertilization and better tillage almost doubled the cotton yield. Yields in this first experiment showed:

—The yield was 414.4 pounds of lint per acre from land well tilled and enriched the previous year by legumes. -The yield was 326.6 pounds of lint per acre from land well tilled and enriched with a fertilizer containing phosphorus, potash and cottonseed. —The yield was 166.6 pounds of lint per acre from land new to cultivation but "handled just as Porter had always grown cotton."

The effect of the demonstration was the opening of the Farmers Cooperative Demonstration Work in Houston in 1904 and the hiring of 33 county agents.

The first agent was W. C. Stallings, who was appointed to work in Smith County (Tyler). The "pioneer farm" where that first demonstration — experiment — was conducted is now hailed as site "where science and farmers first joined Today, extension agents work in 253 counties in

tion includes: -Central planning committee, county program building committee and executive. Chairman is John Crosby Jr. -County extension agents. Charlie Green, agriculture; Judy Germany, home economics, and Travis Harney, agriculture. Green, the senior agent, has been county agent here since 1949.

—State and federal agricultural agencies.

-Governor's committee to make Texas No. 1 in agricultural productivity and profitability. C.R. Welch is chairman.

-Crops committee. A.C. Teinert, chairman. -Livestock and range committee. J.D. Crawford,

-Commercial horticulture committee. Harold semple, chairman -Landscape and turf committee. Jean Eads, chairman -4-H Club and youth committee, Dolly Calhoun, chairman.

-Family living committee. Laverne Lindsey, committee. Since 1961, dozens of farmers, ranchers and men and women in other areas of agriculture have participated in Midland County farm demonstrations. Those in 1978 include Vernon Chandler, Roy Graham, Paul Crawford, Danny Robertson, E.A. Crook John Crosby Jr., Jack Kirby, Harold Merritt and Mark Treweek. Those throughout the years include A.L. Ledbetter, John King Jr., Ronald R. Graham, R.V. Robinson, J.T. Lucus, Bob Branham, Bob Evans, Billy Evans, E.F. "Gene" Jones, Glenn Drake, M.C. Graham, Joyce Lucas, Jimmy Lucus, Bobby Howard, Clay Richardson, George Anderson, E.A. Baumann, J.C. Perryman, J.G. Bennett, Bob Ess-

Vietnam's Chinese among hardest hit

HO CHI MINH CITY, Vietnam (AP) — Cholon, this city's once-throbbing Chinatown, held the purse strings of South Vietnam. Its wealthy merchants kept a tight grip on the country's vital rice trade and the shadowy Chinese networks led to the seats of civilian and military power.

To really control South Vietnam, observers used to say, you had to control Cholon. But throughout the war years, most of the men in power decided it was easier, and often more profitable, to join rather than fight the Chinese quarter. Today, more than half the stores of Cholon have closed down, and many residents are simply surviv-ing on past earnings. Most of the Chinatown's restaurants, which once boasted menus the length of short novels, have shut their doors. The narrow, rambling streets are still crowded, but by 8 p.m. the folding iron gates of shophouses creak shut one by one and the lights go off inside. Vietnam's Chinese, officially estimated to number 1.3 million out of a population of 50 million, have been among the hardest hit groups in the ongoing transformation of southern Vietnam into a communist society.

Cox finals Upton oiler

John L. Cox of Midland No. 1-53 Halff has been complted in the Spraberry Trend Area field of Upton County, 15 miles northeast of Rankin.

On 24-hour potential test it pumped 31 barrels of 38-gravity oil and 75 barrels of water, through perfora-tions from 6,955 to 8,367 feet. The pay was fractured with 130,000 gallons.

Total depth is 8,420 feet and 4/5-inch pipe is set on bottom.

Petroleum museum starts drive for funds

The Permian Basin Petroleum Museum in Midland is setting out to raise $207,000 between now and Jan. 1, inmemberships or year-end gifts.

The drive is intended to fill a gap between operating expenses and income that opened in 1977 and which is expected to worsen next year without additional support.

The museum carried on a personal solicitation effort since 1974. This year board members and others will see a limited number of prospective new givers as well as past supporters of the museum. In addition, the museum will rely on mail appeals both in the Permian Basin area and elsewhere, and on volunteered aid.

Inflation plus higher maintenance costs on its building, exhibits, and other equipment require that the museum "go more public with its needs," a museum source said.

The petroleum museum is debtfree, with only current obligations, and earns about 30 percent of its operating expenses through admission fees, a gift shop, and miscellaneous income sources. The remainder of its funding comes through memberships and other forms of giving.

I receives no tax support other than instructional fees paid by school districts using its facilities.

These criticisms notwithstanding, some progress is being made. The Economic Regulatory Administration is supporting a consortium planning to build the nation's first commercial coal gasification plant in Mercer County, N.D.

In addition, the first commercialscale modules for two-synfuels processes based on solvent refined coal (SRC) should be in operation by late 1983, according to the Department of Energy (DOE). DOE also has entered an agreement with West Germany and several German and American companiés to develop a demonstration plant program for the SRC-II coal

The future for gasohol--alcohol blended with gasoline--is more clouded than for the other synthetic fuels. Gasohol is not expected to be able to compete in price with gasoline for some time, even with anticipated gasoline price hikes.

And under present technology, it takes more fuel to make grain alcohol that can be produced.

Archeological study will rewrite Washington legend

By CHRIS ROBERTS

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — As the story goes, George Washington chopped down the cherry tree, then when confronted by his father fessed up, saying, "I cannot tell a lie."

Amost every school boy who ever fibbed heard that

But the foundation of that great lesson in honesty has long been questioned, and now stories from Washington's encampment at Valley Forge are being challenged by researchers bent on setting history straight.

An abundance of fresh information has been uncovered on the Continental Army's stay here over 200 years ago — so much the National Park Service says brochures and handbooks will have to be revammed vamped.

"They will be rewritten on the basis of new and very clear documentary evidence," says Wayne Bodle, a Park Service historian taking part in the study. "It should take another six months."

The Valley Forge project is being coordinated by Jacqueline Thibaut, another Park Service historian who's in Europe examining British and French archives for old Revolutionary-War era documents.

She says research so far shows that contrary to last year's Christmas stamp and the report of Isaac Potts, a contemporary of Washington, the future president did not kneel in prayer for his troops here during Christmas week of 1777.

That story, she says, and the one about the cherry tree, are "myth — part of the 19th century beatification of Washington."

Bodle said in an interview, "We have found that some things commonly believed to be true, can't be proved one way or the other — like Washington kneeling in prayer, or the stories of the bloody footprints in the snow.

"We do know that thousands of soldiers did not have shoes, that the roads were covered with frozen ruts, so it's probably safe to assume some feet did bleed, but bloody footprints?"

"Very little research was ever done on the park, so we've really had to start from scratch. So many historical documents are scattered in private collections."

The research, costing $230,000, was begun shortly after Pennsylvania turned the 2,250-acre park over to the Park Service two years ago.

History books, including ones still sold here, describe the Continental Army that entered Valley Forge on Dec. 19, 1777, as a ragged, freezing, half-starved collection of men who were untrained and undisciplined.

But Miss Thibaut and Bodle say the latest research shows the soldiers were able enough to build sturdy fortifications, and that throughout the winter they gave the British troops fits.

"From the latest research, it seems the conditions were probably as bad as the history books paint, but it's also clear they weren't just hibernating out there for the winter," said Bodle. "And the notion the British sat warm and toasty in Philadelphia also clearly isn't the case.

"Washington's army was harassing the British army throughout the winter, sending out raiding parties at regular intervals. It's quite clear they really gave the British a hard time.

really gave the British a hard time.
"Washington not only had tremendous military.

Dayan discusses issues of treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan says U.S. help in building two new airfields will have to be "dealt with" before his government approves terms of a peace treaty with Dayan told reporters late Monday after a meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance that details of transferring control of Sinai oilfields to Egypt also remain to be worked out.

But he steered clear of laying down conditions for completion of the accord and said most military questions have been settled.

questions have been settled.
"We can see the end of it being reached shortly,"
he said of the treaty's military annexes that occupied negotiators most of Monday.

Heading back to Washington from Cairo and Jerusalem were Boutrous Ghali, the acting Egyptian foreign minister, and Ezer Weizman, the Israeli defense minister. Diplomatic sources said that Ghali, at least, could be carrying "clarifications"

Weizman said in Israel before departing for the United States, "I believe we are close to signing a peace treaty. It would be a mistake if we didn't — but not at any price."

not at any price."

He added, "The question is not about this or that clause, but about the atmosphere."

Weizman said the problems still to be resolved are "political," but he would not elaborate.

In Cairo Monday, President Anwar Sadat said Egypt would not sign a treaty that did not clearly spell out future negotiations dealing with the fate of Palestinians on the Israeli-occupied west bank of the Jordan River.

Sadat told reporters his negotiators want an agreement to begin talks on self-rule for the Palestinians. Sadat indicated those talks should start within a month of the treaty's signing.

Meanwhile, Israeli Radio said the Israeli government has allocated $32.5 million to build nearly 900 ment has allocated $32.5 million to build nearly 900 housing units in occupied Arab lands. The radio said 660 apartments and houses would be built on the West Bank.

The military details of the treaty still being worked out involve the timetable for Israel's evacuation of the Sinai, security measures to be installed to prevent surprise attack and the setting up of demilitarized and "thinned-out" zones.

Over the past week or so, the question of U.S. aid has become pronounced.

Secretary of Defense Harold Brown promised, as part of the Camp David agreements, to consider U.S. aid in building two Israeli airfields in the Negev to replace Sinai installations Israel is giving up. Cost estimates have varied from $500 million to more than $1 billion.

Dayan seemed to be stressing that aid pledge, although Israel is seeking a long-term loan probably in excess of $3 billion from the United States to help carry out terms of the treaty.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin, after discussing aid with Vance last week in New York, promised Israel would repay it all. Still, a large loan on top of regular aid to Israel, running about $1.8 billion a year, could pose problems within the administration and in Congress.

Egypt also is likely to ask for major U.S. economic and military aid.

Meanwhile, Israeli Finance Minister Simcha Ehrlich, who is accompanying Weizman to the United States to discuss financial aspects of the agreement, denied that Begin's request for an American loan caused sharp reaction by Israeli officials.

Some critics have charged that Begin should have asked for a grant from the United States instead of a loan. But Ehrlich said the prime minister sought the loan in addition to a grant. "It is impossible to imagine that the United States will cover all our expenses," Ehrlich said.

ability, but the ability to simply get things done. He was a politician in the best sense of the word.

"He could take what he saw with his eyes and make very vivid images on paper, in letters, for instance begging Congress for supplies. It was Washington who wrote you could track the course of the army by the bloody footprints in the snow. He created some of the enduring images that have stayed with us when we think of Valley Forge."

Adds Miss Thibaut: "We have found nothing that will change the basic outline of the history of the period, but the stories of a barely mobile, stumbling army coming into Valley Forge are untrue."

army coming into Valley Forge are untrue."

In addition to Park Service historians, research is being carried out by a man-and-wife architectural team camped in a trailer at the park and by archeologists from Philadelphia's University Muse-um. Both are under contract to the federal agency.

um. Both are under contract to the federal agency. The archeologists are studying the terrain with aerial infra-red photographs, soil penetrating radar and magnetometers, instruments that can locate such features as old roadbeds and entrenchments by detecting fluctuations in the earth's magnetic field.

The archeologists have found soldiers' trash pits, one filled with animal bones and nut shells, some musket balls, and a button or two.

"Once we know for sure what animals the bones are from, it will tell us something about the soldiers' diet," says University Museum archeologist Helen Schenck. "If it turns out to be bones from little animals like squirrels, that would indicate the seldiers were quite hungry and foraging for food."

Unfortunately for the researchers, their sophisticated equipment also picks up such features as modern day trenches dug for electric lines and pipes, as well as loads of tent stakes and flag pole holes from national Boy Scout meetings in 1950, 1957 and 1964.

"It's a big problem," says John Dodd, the Layton, N.J., architect who's working with his wife, Cherry. "The whole park was so chewed up. You can imagine with 40,000 to 50,000 kids here.

"They really pushed things around. Now, it's hard to find your little hut sites, your traces of roads."

Archeologists from the University of Pennsylvania Museum examine a test trench dug recently at Valley Forge, where they are searching for new evidence of encampment of Washington's Continental Army. At right, a researcher operates a ground radar to show possible dig sites. (AP Laserphoto)

Which set of numbers worthy of MVP award?

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

The loser in today's Baseball Writers Association of America election for the American League's Most Valuable Player had the consolation of knowing that not many second-place finishers had the kind of year he

And that went for both Boston's Jim Rice and New York's Ron Guidry.

Rice's credentials centered on one of the best slugging seasons in modern baseball history. The Boston bomber batted .315, walloped 46 home runs, drove in 139 runs and became the first player in 40 years to accumulate more than 400 total bases.

THOSE CERTAINLY WOULD seem to be MVP qualifications, and in an ordinary year, Rice would have had little problem claiming the

But 1978 was no ordinary year, certainly not for Guidry. The slender New York left-hander posted a 25-3 record that included nine shutouts and a 1.74 earned run average last season.

Now the question is, which set of dazzling numbers is more worthy of the MVP award?

ONE OPINION IS that because Guidry is a pitcher and usually performed his magic once every fifth day, his production was not quite as awesome as the day-in, day-out pounding Rice turned out.

Guidry, who last week was the unanimous winner of the American League Cy Young Award, does not agree with that analysis.

"I did my job," he said. "That's all I know." Rice felt he paid the price of part-time employment last year when, as a designated hitter, he batted .320 with 39 homers and 114 RBI and saw the MVP award go to Minnesota's Rod Carew.

"SO I HAD A good year this year, got over 400 total bases, hit over 40 home runs, drove in 139 RBI, had 16 game-winning hits, and had 29 home runs that put the Red Sox ahead or tied the game. So what do they want

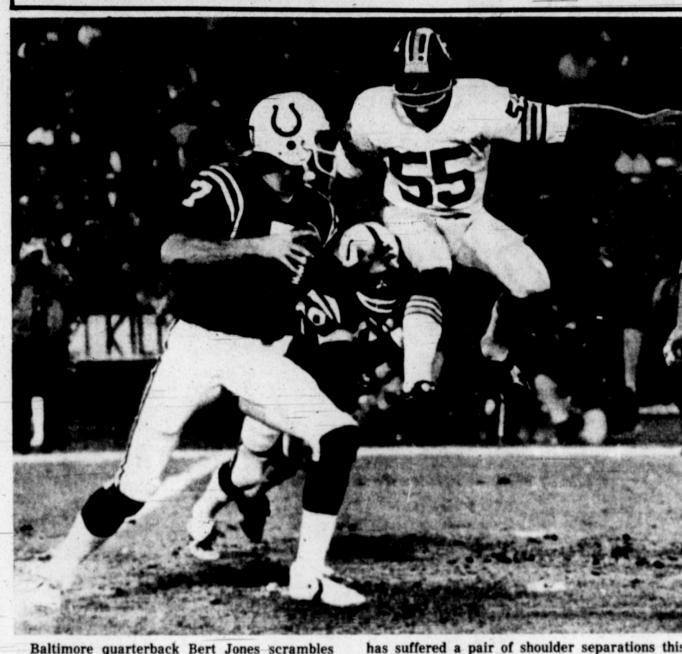

There's little more he could have done, unless, he was a pitcher and had tied Babe Ruth's record for shutouts in a season by a left-hander and had posted the lowest ERA by a southpaw since Dutch Leonard's 1.01 in 1914. Those were among Guidry's 1978 accomplishments.

Part of the debate involved the definition of the MVP. Logically, it would seem that the award should go to the player judged to be most valuable to his team, which could be different from the credentials required if, for example, the award was called Player of the Year. So, the question would seem to be whether Rice was more valuable to the Red Sox than Guidry was to Yankees.

THERE IS ANOTHER factor here. Some observers believe that pitchers have their Cy Young Award and thus should take a backseat when it comes to MVP voting: But the MVP vote doesn't exclude pitchers and since 1956 when the Cy Young was introduced, five hurlers have swept both awards. They were Don Newcombe in 1956, Sandy Koufax iN 1963, Bob Gibson and Denny Mclain in 1968 and Vida Blue in 1971.

In every case, the winners had the same spectacular statistics that Guidry brought to today's election. Rarely, though, did any of them face sluggers with the kind of numbers Rice had endorsing him.

One-armed bandit Jones rallies Colts past 'Skins

BALTIMORE (AP) - It would be easy to compare Bert Jones with a military commander who leads his forces to victory despite serious bat-

Just don't let the injury-plagued quarterback of the Baltimore Colts hear you making that comparison.

"I don't want to be a martyr; I want to play football and contribute to the team," said Jones after coming back from yet another shoulder injury to rally the Colts to a 21-17 victory over the Washington Redskins Monday

JONES, WHO MISSED the first six games of the National Football League season with a shoulder separation and then played only a few minutes before being hurt again three weeks ago, was injured on the same right shoulder during a scramble in the third quarter.

Pain creased his face and he labored to throw on the sidelines. But when the Colts regained possession after a 1-yard run by John Riggins had put the Redskins ahead 17-14, Jones was back in the game.

"I asked the doctor if Bert could play, and he said yes," recalled Coach Ted Marchibroda. "I asked Bert if he could go back. He said it hurt a little bit. I told him that if it got to the point where it hurt too bad, to take himself

"BUT THAT'S leadership. The team knows he's out there to win." With Jones at the helm and his teammates seeming to play with renewed vigor, the Colts marched into Redskin territory three times in the final quarter.

Twice, field goal attempts by Toni Linhart failed. On the third drive, Jones fired a strike to wide receiver Roger Carr for a 27-yard touchdown that gave Baltimore its fourth victory of the season in the nationally televised game.

"BERT'S COMING BACK meant a lot to the whole team," said Carr, who had teamed with Jones on a 78-yard TD pass in the second quarter. "He makes us go. It's a dreadful thing when he gets hurt. He moves this team.

Jones, who has gained the nickname of "The Franchise," said he was merely doing his job, his latest injury notwithstanding.

We have a good football team and I think I complement the team," he said, "and as long as I can contribute, I'll play."

THE SHOULDER STILL hurt, Jones said, but not enough to keep him from shaving with his right hand Colts' next contest, against Seattle.

"It'll be OK by March," he joked. Besides his two bombs to Carr. Jones passed 19 yards to rookie tight end Reese McCall for a touchdown in the second period. In addition to Riggins' TD, which was set up by a pass interference call in the Baltimore end zone, Washington, now 7-3 and a game ahead of Dallas in the NFC East, scored on a 44-yard field goal by Mark Moseley and a 31-yard pass from Billy Kilmer to Ricky Thompson.

ALTHOUGH KILMER started at quarterback for the second consecutive week, Washington Coach Jack Pardee went to Joe Theismann in the third period when the Colts shut down the Redskins' offense. "We thought Joe could take advantage of some things in their defense that Billy possibly couldn't," Pardee said. "They were giving Billy a strong inside rush, and we thought Joe's mobility would be able to stop that." Aside from his work on the Redskins' final scoring drive, Theismann, the starting quarterback through Washington's first eight games, was also ineffective. He finished with 92 yards on six completions in 12 attempts, compared with Kilmer's two completions in 11 tries for 38 yards.

"It (the quarterback situation) is a game-to-game thing," said Pardee, trying to play down a seemingly pe rennial problem for Washington. "We're just trying to win every

"WE STILL HAVE a one-game lead in our division, so it's not the end of the world. But we do have to do something to figure out what we're doing

Riggins, among the NFC's top rushers going into the game, had 60 yards to raise his season total to 794. Mike Thomas, back from four weeks on the bench with a broken bone in his foot, was the Redskins' leading rusher with 78 yards.

Jones, who missed his first three passes before the TD toss to McCall, finished with 10 completions in 19 attempts for 191 yards. He was sacked three times in the early going but was untouched in the final period as his blockers supplied excellent Carr gained 124 yards on four catches. Joe Washington was the Colts' top rusher with 62 yards on 17 carries.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) - The Green Bay Packers have announced they have been cleared by the National Football League of any rules violation in their handling of a tryout for former all-pro running back Duane

Coach Bart Starr also said Monday he would ease his restrictions on media coverage of the Packers, but remained reticent when asked what he had told the NFL concerning the Thomas affair, which sportswriters had publicized. He said Green Bay's letter to the NFL "was accepted as a satisfactory explanation of the matter, and I have no further comment."

In New York, NFL spokesman Jim Heffernan similarly declined to detail the league's exchanges with Starr. 'This is something strictly between the commissioner and the Green Bay Packers," Heffernan said. Having said he received an all-clear restrictions he had imposed last week after four sportswriters wrote that the NFL was investigating a possible violation of the NFL's "stashing rule" in the Thomas matter.

Starr said he would reopen the Packer dressing room and practices to news media, except on postgame Mondays, and that he still will not grant interviews to the four sports-

The Packers "have been exonerated of any possible violation," Heffer-nan said. "The explanation they offered was acceptable to the commissioner. They will not warrant any fine or any other penalty.'

Thomas arrived in Green Bay Oct. 23 as a free agent and worked out that day. He left last Monday, the day sportswriters questioned Starr and the league about a rule that prohibits clubs from working out free agents more than one day, from paying their expenses beyond the day of the offito use club facilities other than on the day of the official workout.

Thomas had been seen running at least once after his workout while Packer aide Burt Gustafson watched, although Thomas and the Packers insisted there had been only one official workout.

A desk clerk at the motel where Thomas had stayed said the Packers had reserved the room and were to be sent the bill. But Thomas and Starr said Thomas was paying for his stay after the official workout.

When the four sportswriters checked further with Starr, he reacted angrily and told them that if the story were printed, they would no longer be welcome on club premises.

Heffernan said sportswriters had interpreted the rule accurately, and said he could not say why the Packers Packer equipment. Starr last Wednesday ordered the locker room closed to news media except after home games.

He also eliminated his weekly Wednesday news conferences, but said he would meet with electronic media representatives Mondays and Fridays after which he would meet with print media representatives on a one-on-one basis.

He also said practices would be closed the rest of the season.

Heffernan said NFL officials "have been in touch with Starr since the edict" was issued, "and we pointed out that we have a policy against locker room restrictions.

When told that Starr said he will continue to refuse to talk to the four sportswriters but would talk to other writers, Heffernan remarked: "I will have to inquire about that further."

The top two teams could be headed for a national championship showdown in the Orange Bowl. First, however, Oklahoma must get by 8-1 Nebraska at Lincoln this weekend.

Alabama and Nebraska remained 3-4 after the Crimson Tide stopped Mississippi State 35-14 and the Cornhuskers belted Kansas 63-21. Alabama received 1,110 points while Nebraska totaled 1,072 points.

Maryland dropped from fifth to 13th, thus clearing the way for Southern California, Texas and Michigan to move up a notch to fifth, sixth and seventh, respectively. Southern Cal received 993 points for a 13-7 decision over Stanford, idle Texas earned 889 points and Michigan got 855 following a 34-0 rout of Iowa.

The rest of the Top 20 is comprised of the same teams as last week but with a different order.

The Houston Cougars, 63-6 victors over Texas Christian, received 840 points for eighth place. UCLA remained No. 9 with 745 points by edging Oregon 23-21 and Louisiana State jumped from 12th to 10th with 617

Shoulder separation may end season for Simpson

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - O.J. Simpson, once the National Football League's premiere running back but crippled by injuries the last two seasons, may be lost to the San Francisco 49ers for the rest of the year with a separated shoulder

The former Buffalo Bill star, who is paid nearly $50,000 for each of the 16 regular season games, suffered the injury to his right shoulder Sunday in the 49ers' 21-10 loss to the Atlanta Falcons.

Team doctor Joe Haggerty said after examining Simpson Monday that he would be out at least three weeks and perhaps the rest of the season. The 49ers, 1-9, have six games

Simpson declined to undergo surgery after sustaining a "third-degree acromial-clavicular separation" which included torn ligaments along with separation of the shoulder from collar bone.

The surgery, which included putting a pin in the shoulder, would have made him unable to play for at least eight weeks.

Simpson, was hurt on a 2-yard gain in the second quarter when he was hit by Jeff Yeates and Wilson Faumuina. "I heard something snap," he said

"My intention is never to hurt another player," Faumuina said. "I'm sorry what happened to O.J. I saw the expression on his face when he went down and I knew he was hurt."

Simpson, the NFL's second leading career rusher with 10,776 yards, had gained only 593 yards on 161 carries this year — a lackluster performance attributed at least partially to the absence of powerful blocking back Wilbur Jackson, Midland College's basketball season gets underway Wednesday with a completely new look. Not only will the Chaps be playing in the spacious new Chaparral Center, but they'll be sporting new uniforms and a host of new players. McMurry's JV will supply the oppo-sition for the first game at the Center, 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

"We're really beginning to get excited," said Coach Jerry Stone, "We have had a of workouts, several scrimmages and are starting to come together as a team.

THE CHAPARRALS, starting their fourth season, will move out of the cramped quarters of the MC Physical Education building into the Center.

Spectators will find a completely different atmosphere, starting with the large parking lot surrounding three sides of the Center. The lot is accessible from both the Chaparral Circle and from Wadley Drive, where an extension of North I Street leads directly into the parking lot.

Inside, there are 5,000 seats, all with molded backs and seats plus arm rests. Almost 700 seats are located in the two lower center sections have padded seat cushions. The floor area

NBA rules changes open up game

By The Associated Press

What effects have the move to three referees and the enforcement of the prohibition on hand checking had on the game of pro basketball?

'We find that excessive roughness has declined sharply and the game has opened up," said Larry O'Brien, commissioner of the National Basketball Association, who authorized a preliminary evaluation of those two major changes based on the first 100 games of the season.

"Unquestionably, the changes are working out better than we could ever have anicipated this early in the season," O'Brien said.

WHEN THE CHANGES were announced at the Board of Governors meeting last June, it was feared the presence of an extra official combined with tighter restrictions on defensive tactics would turn the NBA game into a parade of fouls. Games would drag on and on as players marched from foul line to foul line; the essence of the sport as a ballet of constant motion would be lost.

Those fears have not been realized, according to the study made for the NBA by the Elias Sports Bureau and released this week.

In the first 100 games of the 902game regular season, an average of 54.9 fouls were called on the two teams. That's an increase of just one foul per game from last year's average of 53.9. And the length of games has increased by only one minute to an average of 2 hours, 5 minutes, from last year's 2:04.

THOSE DIFFERENCES are remarkably small considering players, coaches and officials had just one exhibition season to get used to the Scoring has risen, by about 10 points per game. That may reflect the edge given to offensive players by the ban on hand checking. But free throws have accounted for 20.7 percent of all points scored this season the exact same percentage as last year.

"The scoring is a little higher, but this will change as NBA players readjust to playing defense as they did in college," predicted Joe Axelson, president of the Kansas City Kings and chairman of the NBA's rules commit-

"HAND CHECKING has come and gone and is not missed by anyone except poor defensive players," said Axelson, "The three-referee system is getting better every day. If the present trend continues, by the All-Star break there will be fewer foul calls than under the old system.

The changes are not without their critics. Several coaches have complained that under the three-referee system, the most experienced official works the midcourt area and does not get a clear view of the action under the basket, where most off-the-ball fouls occur. Others, including New York's Willis Reed and Los Angeles' Jerry West, say the no-hand checking rule is only a step in the right direction and have called for even stricter prohibitons against incidental con-

Still others have their doubts about the three-referee setup because they feel the league does not have enough competent officials to fill out the required number of three-man crews. By the same token, others argue that the extra official has made each referee's job that much easier by reducing each man's area of responsibility. Three men can cover the court better than two, they say.

"THE GAMES TO DATE have worked out very well," said Norm Drucker, the NBA's supervisor of officials. "The third official has stabilized the game. We've been able to eliminate many of the annoying fouls away from the ball. We're very enthusiastic this will give us a better product this year. The rule against hand checking, meanwhile, has opened up play.

"The elimination of hand checking allows for more driving to the basket and, as a result, more exciting plays," said Coach Al Attles of Golden State. New Orleans guard Gail Goodrich, a 14-year veteran, said, "It makes for a cleaner game. There's much more finesse and the game is not as physical eff the ball.'

Eddie Gottlieb, coach of the NBA's first championship team and now a consultant to the league, said, 'There's less physical contact than at any other time in the league's history because of the changes.

ONE CHANGE that has not worked as well has been the increased penalty against playing a zone defense - a technical foul for the first violation instead of the old zone warning.

This has not deterred the teams that have always employed zones from continuing to do so, since the borderline between a legal pressing defense and an illegal zone remains so shady. And since the rule against hand-checking has given an edge to the offensive player, more and more coaches may turn to zone-type defenses to compensate.

This could be a problem area for the league in the near future. For now, however. Commissioner O'Brien can. take heart from the results of the preliminary evaluation of the other

"The success of the three officials and the elimination of hand checking at the same time may prove to be the most significant developments on the court since the adoption of the 24-second clock in 1954," he said.

The Japanese took a 2-0 lead in the bottom of the third inning on a two-out homer by Dragon Yasunori Oshima into the left field bleachers off Reds starter Fred Norman.

The Reds got their first runs in the sixth as Driessen pounded his solo homer into right-center field. Then Lum doubled and Bench homered, giving the Reds a 3-2 lead.

The Japanese tied the score in the bottom of the inning on a sacrifice fly by the Dragons' Kyohei Taniki. In the top of the eighth, Lum started a five-run rally with his solo shot into the right field stands. George Foster followed with a single and Bench smacked his sixth homer of the tour into the left field stands.

Later in the inning, Pete Rose doubled to center, driving in Ray Knight and Junior Kennedy for two more runs. Both Knight and Kennedy had singled.

Snyder, Iraan Braves wrap up district titles

By STEVE O'BRIEN R-T Sports Writer

While Snyder and Iraan were sewing up district titles and the trips to the playoffs that accompany those crowns with wins Friday night, the District 7-AA picture became even more clouded than expected after round one of inter-league competi-

Snyder polished off Lamesa, 28-15. to clinch the District 3-AAA title and unbeaten and fourth-ranked Iraan hammered Marfa 47-7 in what was supposed to be a showdown for the District 6-A crown to settle things

Meanwhile in the cutthroat threegame District 7-AA race, absolutely nothing was settled as Crane disposed of Ozona, the district's only non-contender, 32-0 as expected. But, the league's other top threats for the crown, Sonora and Kermit, fought-to a 14-14 standoff in Sonora to throw things into a real tizzy.

OF COURSE Crane has the inside

track after a successful debut in district play, but the tie leaves Sonora and Kermit only a half game back. Crane must still play both of the contenders, however, while Sonora and Kermit finish out their schedule with Crane and Ozona.

Crane saddled Ozona with their eighth straight loss while improving their own season mark to 7-1. The Golden Cranes methodically crunched the Lions with a ground attack that produced 289 yards and four touchdowns. Crane added insult to injury with a safety and a 37-yard Rocky Rives field goal:

SONORA, DOWN 14-0 in their contest with Kermit, turned a pair of Yellowjacket mistakes into fourth period touchdowns to pull into the tie. Kermit fumbled on their own 32 in that period to set up one Sonora score and a short punt enabled the Bronchos to drive only 40 yards for the

Not only was the score deadlocked in the Sonora-Kermit tilt, first downs and penetrations were also even. Snyder put the 3-AAA title under wraps by scoring three unanswered touchdowns against Lamesa to turn a tie game into a breather. Lamesa had knotted the score at 7-7 in the first period on Mark Price's 57-yard touchdown run. But then came the deluge as Tiger quarterback Clay Johnson passed for his second touchdown of the night and ran for two more as Snyder built a 28-7 lead.

IRAAN USED A 420-yard rushing attack to break away from a 14-7 halftime lead and bury defending District 6-A champ Marfa 47-7.

In the glamour game of area football last week, Fort Stockton took a big step toward nailing down the District 2-AAA title as the fourth-ranked Panthers stayed unbeaten and unscored upon by waxing fifth-ranked and previously unbeaten Pecos, 21-0.

It was business as usual for the Fort Stockton defense as that crew recorded its eighth straight shutout while holding Pecos to a meager 104 yards of total offense and only six first

WHILE THAT GAME was the 2-AAA headliner, Andrews was making some noise of their own as they moved to the number two spot in the loop standings behind Fort Stockton with a 49-0 humbling of Monahans. Andrews is now 6-2 on the season and 2-0 in district play, joining Fort Stockton as the league's lone unbeatens.

Sophomore tailback Van Pearcy once again provided the spark for Andrews as he rushed for 126 yards on only 16 carries and scored four times. Pearcy's scores came on runs of 23, 16, one and 35 yards. Johnny Lopez added 118 yards on 10 carries and scored touchdowns of one and 76

FOUR GAMES WERE played in District 5-A and all four were shutouts. Seagraves remained unbeaten and on top the league standings with a 50-0 runaway against Forsan. Seagraves is now 8-0 on the season and 5-0 in district play.

Stanton's Buffaloes remained right on Seagraves' heels with a 72-0 humiliation of winless Anton. Stanton is now 5-2-1 on the season, but more importantly, 4-0-1 in district play and only a half game behind the leader.

The game was never even close as Stanton rolled to a 34-0 first quarter lead and just coasted the rest of the way with a lot of reserves seeing action. The Buffaloes scored 11 touchdowns, all on the ground, had 439 total yards to Anton's 39 and rolled up 16 first downs to Anton's three and did not punt the entire game.

TODD SMITH scored three times for Stanton, Richard Perez twice, and Ernie Byrd, Bobby Mims, Tommy Morrow, Craig Eiland, Randy Koonce and Alonso Padron each tallied once.

Reagan County saw their playoff ambitions go up in a puff of smoke as the Owls dropped a 27-19 decision to Junction in a key District 9-A battle. Junction moved to 6-2 on the year with the win and kept their district mark clean at 3-0. Reagan County dropped to 3-5 and virtually fell out of the district race with a 1-2 league slate.

FRIDAY'S RESULTS

Middies remain fascinating story

By The Associated Press

Despite Saturday's loss to Notre Dame, Navy remains one of the most fascinating stories of the college football season.

Since Roger Staubach's 9-2 Cotton Bowl team of 1963, Navy has had only two winning campaigns — 5-4-1 in 1967 and 7-4 in 1975. But the Midshipmen are still ranked in the Top Twenty with a 7-1 record and are probably headed for a bowl game unless, (1) they fall flat on their faces against Syracuse and Florida State the next two weeks, or (2) the Secretary of the Navy turns thumbs down.

The fledgling Holiday Bowl in San Diego, site of a huge naval base, would love to have the Middies against the Western Athletic Conference champion. The Liberty Bowl also is casting covetous eyes at the Tars since Memphis is the site of the nation's largest inland naval base.

Navy has done most of its damage with a defense that has ranked No. 1 nationally over the past several weeks. Ironically, the defensive unit includes four walk-ons.

Junior end Charlie Thornton from Compton, Calif., weighed 185 pounds as a freshman after attending the Naval Academy Prep School. "No one knew about him," said Coach George Welsh. "He talked his way onto the team. Now, he's grown up to 205 Senior cornerback Herb Wilson from Wheeling, W.Va., wasn't rewanted him. He just hung around."

Senior end Mark Stephens from Ozark, Ala., "wanted to come to the Naval Academy and wrote several letters," said Welsh. "All of a sudden he got faster and stronger."

The fourth walk-on is senior nose guard A.B. Miller from Little Rock, Ark., who also attended the Naval Academy Prep School. "We didn't know if he was a football player or not," said Welsh, "but he could run so we made sure we got a look at him." Obviously, Welsh liked what he saw.

So much for extensive recruiting. Says Welsh, "A lot of the guys we recruited aren't playing."

Coach Tom Osborne is always happy to see Nebraska win, but he doesn't particularly care for scores like the 63-21 rout of Kansas last weekend. One problem is the Big Eight Conference's 55-man limit on traveling squads, so the Cornhuskers couldn't dip below their second unit. It was much the same a few years back when Nebraska slaughtered

Army 77-7 at West Point. "They are saving dimes with that limit and losing thousands of dollars in players," said Osborne. "You try to hold the score down, but when you make 8 yards on a quarterback sneak,

Osborne said an extra five or 10 players would allow more substitutions, help prevent injuries and enable teams to keep from running up embarrassing scores.

Nebraska ripped off a school record 799 yards in total offense against Kansas with sub running back Craig Johnson rushing for 192 yards in just

On the subject of limits, Notre Dame's Dan Devine calls the 95-scholarship limit "the most unfair rule that's ever been passed." Notre Dame has been hit by injuries, especially at the receiver positions, and has had to cancel its junior varsity program because of a lack of bodies.

"The rule has forced us to play freshmen who should be over in the library, but we don't have anybody, else to play," said Devine. "They shouldn't be on a varsity field. They're not ready to step in and play the high-pressure type of schedule we play. Not many kids can start as 17-year-old freshmen."

Although Notre Dame realistically has two chances to successfully defend last year's national championship - slim and none - Devine said "no team in the country can stay on the field with us when we're playing Maybe going to the library isn't such a good idea, though. Dino Harris, a freshman running back at Army, sprained an ankle running down the West Point library steps and had to miss a game.

It was a bad week for the McCulley family. First, Pete McCulley was fired as coach of the San Francisco 49ers. Then, Pete's son, Kit, a defensive back at Navy, was cut from the traveling squad for the Notre Dame

Maryland is one of the few teams still using the wide-tackle-six defense. "It's been outdated for a long time," said Coach Jerry Claiborne, who annually turns out some of the nation's top defensive units. "But I remember when I played at Kentucky, Gen. Neyland used it at Tennessee and we

Cutler wins fifth CFL scoring title

TORONTO (AP) - Dave Cutler of the Edmonton Eskimos has won the Canadian Football League scoring title for the fifth time in the past six years.

League statistics released Monday showed that the Eskimos' kicker totaled 167 points in beating Cyril McFall of the Calgary Stampeders by four points

Cutler finished with 45 conversions, 36 field goals and 14 singles. McFall had 36 conversions. 37 field goals and 16 singles for 163 points. Lui Passaglia of the British Columbia Lions finished third with 159 points and Winnipeg's Bernie Ruoff was fourth with 149.

It was the seventh consecutive season that Cutler kicked for more than 100 points, extending his career total to 1,328 points, 298 more than former record holder Larry Robinson of Calgary and 573 better than Montreal's Don Sweet, who is second among active players with 755 points.

The 1978 rushing title was won by Mike Strickland of the Saskatchewan Roughriders, who had 1,306 yards on 284 carries.

Larry Key of the Lions, Winnipeg's Jim Washington and Jim Sykes of Calgary were the other players to reach the 1,000-yard plateau this season. Washington made it in his final game, running for 77 yards against Calgary Sunday, finishing with 1,032 on 200 carries.

Rookie Joe Poplawski of Winnipeg was the league's top pass receiver with 75 catches for 998 yards, but two players surpassed him in total yardage.

Tony Gabriel of Ottawa wound up with 1,070 yards gained on 67 receptions while Tom Scott of Edmonton had 1,066 yards on 66

what are you going to do? "I suggested at the Big Eight meeting that we throw the lid off the limit, ALBUQUERQUE (AP) - It was David vs. Goliath or at least expand it to 60, like in non-conference games, but they cruited, either, said Welsh. "No one turned me down. time the giant won.

Russians blast Lobos behind Tkachenko

Vladimir Tkachenko, a mammoth 7-foot-4, 300pounder who looks like he belongs on someone's defensive line in the National Football League instead of on a basketball court, took on a host of Davids in the University of New Mexico's Lobos Monday night.

And the man-mountain, who looks even bigger than they say he is, was unstoppable as well as unforgettable as he dumped in 22 points and pulled down nine rebounds while playing only half the game to lead the touring Russian national team to a 111-82 rout of the Lobos in an exhibition game. The 21-yearold Tkachenko was deadly as he intimidated New Mexico's players on defense by blocking eight shots and dominated them on offense by bulling his way to the hole for two-handed slam dunks or flipping in soft jumpers from eight to 10 feet away.

"I think our team scared their young men a bit," said the coach of the Russian team, Alexandr Gokmelski. "Tkachenko psyched them out and as a result they completely lost control of the game.'

New Mexico Coach Norm Ellenberger, who led the Lobos to the Western Athletic Conference basketball title last seasn, admitted his club wasn't able to handle Tkachenko.

"You just can't let a guy that big get the ball in close," said Ellenberger.

"He'd take the ball and stick it in with one hand and reach up in the basket and take it out with the other - two points and a rebound at the same time. I wonder if they'd be interested in cloning that guy,' he said, demonstrating he may have lost the game but still had his sense of humor.

Tkachenko didn't start, but he came in early and picked up most of his playing time in the first half. He scored 14 points and grabbed seven rebounds to lead the Russians to a 56-33 halftime lead. He started the second half but Gokmelski showed some heart by pulling him out with about 13 minutes to go after the Russians had built their bulge to 34 points. The Lobos, whose tallest players are only 6-8, led but twice in the contest, and those brief advantages came in the game's opening minutes before Tkachenko was sent into the battle. Behind Tkachenko the Russians rattled off eight straight points during one stretch midway through the first half to open up a 13-point lead, and the rout was on.

Nikolai Deryugin and Anatoli Mishkin, a pair of 6-10 forwards, chipped in with 18 and 15 points respectively, while 6-5 guard Sergei Tarakanov. added 12 for the winners.

Dino Grgory, one of five junior college transfers Ellenberger is counting on, topped the Lobos with 16 points, and Larry Belin, another of the transfers, finished with 13.

The victory before 17,194 spectators gave the Russian team a 2-1 record after three games on its 13-game tour of the United States. Next stop is Kent State Wednesday night

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Excessive depressants produce intoxication

Dear Dr. Solomon: What does it mean when somebody says that they're on depressants?-Ms.

Dear Ms. S.S.: Substances regulated by the government as depressants have a potential for abuse associated with both physical and psychological dependence. Taken in amounts as prescribed by a physician, depressants can be beneficial in the symptomatic treatment of insomnia, relief of anxiety, irritability, and tension.

In excessive amounts, however, they produce a state of intoxication remarkably similar to that of alcohol. As in the case of alcohol, these effects may vary not only from person to person but from time to time in the same individual. Low doses produce mild sedation; higher doses, insofar as they relieve anxiety or stress, may produce a temporary state of euphoria, but may also produce mood depression and

In marked contrast to the effects of narcotics, however, intoxicating doses invariably result in impaired judgment, slurred speech and an often unrealized loss of motor muscle coordination. They may also induce drowsiness, sleep, stupor, coma and possible death

The abuse of depressants falls into several distinct patterns. Episodic intoxication is found most commonly in young adults or teen-agers, whose source of supply may be the family medicine cabinet, the illicit market, theft or illegal prescriptions. In addition to the dangers of disorientation, resulting in accidents on the highway or by an overdose, habitual users incur increasing risks of longterm involvement with

Tolerance to depressants develops rapidly, extending the intake capacity while narrowing the range between an intoxicating and lethal dose. The person unaware of the dangers of increasing dependence will often seek prescriptions from several physicians concurrently, increasing the daily dose up to 10 or 20 times the recommended amount. Others often won't recognize the person's problem until he or she exhibits confusion, decreased ability to work or recurrent episodes of intoxication. Members of the drug subculture often use depressants as self-medication to soothe the "jangled nerves" brought on by the use of stimulants, to quell the anxiety of "flashbacks," or to ease their withdrawal from heroin. The dangers of depressants, it should be stressed, multiply when used in combination with other drugs or alcohol. Chronic intoxication by depressants is most common Depressants also are sometimes taken as a means of suicide, a pattern especially common among women. The depressants vary with respect to their lethal overdose potential. Moderate depressant overdose closely resembles alcoholic inebriation. The symptoms of severe depressant poisoning are coma, a cold and clammy skin, a weak and rapid pulse, and a slow or rapid but shallow respiration. Death will follow if the reduced respiration and low blood pressure are not counteracted by proper

Anyone who ceases to take or abruptly curtails the amount of a depressant on which he has become dependent will encounter symptoms of withdrawal more severe than in an otherwise comparable case of narcotics addiction. In its mildest form the abstinence syndrome is characterized by anxiety, agitation, and apprehension, accompanied by a loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting, a pelpitating heart, excessive sweating, fainting, insomnia, tremulousness, and muscle spasms. If the individual is dependent on a large amount of the drug, delirium, psychotic behavior, or convulsions and even death

In view of the severity of the withdrawal syndrome, it is recommended that withdrawal from depressants be supervised under the controlled conditions of a hospital. The withdrawal regimen will usually consist of the substitution of a long-acting barbiturate for the depressant used, followed by a gradual decreasing of the dose. Among the depressants that most commonly give rise to the general conditions described above are chloral hydrate, a broad range of barbiturates, qlutethimide, methaqualone, the benzodiazepines,

Many cars stolen in U.S. wind up in 'chop-shops'

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN

WASHINGTON (AP) - In the time it takes to read three paragraphs of this story, an automobile will have been stolen somewhere in the United States. Chances are one in 143 that it will be yours.

A car is stolen every 32 seconds. That's 2,700 a day, 985,500 a year of the nearly 141 million registered vehicles in the nation. The cost is $4 billion annually, including the cars, higher auto insurance premiums,

For years, auto theft was one of the most frequently solved crimes, but now that has changed dramatically. If your car is stolen the chance of recovering it has dropped from 86 percent in 1967 to 59 percent and the chance of the case being solved has dropped from

In fact, if your car is stolen, there is a growing chance that within 48 hours it will be chopped into untraceable parts and sold to a salvage yard. Once primarily committed by teen-age joy-riders, auto theft has increasingly drawn professionals. The FBI calls it "the most lucrative, illegitimate business today." Organized crime has refined it by establishing smoothly operated "chop shops."

Operating with pit-stop efficiency, chop shops dismantle a car in two to three hours, dispose of the engine, dashboard and transmission, which carry vehicle identification numbers, and quickly market the rest. Secretive as spy agencies, chop shops don't allow thieves, chopping crews, or marketers to know

This picture emerges from a four-month investigation by Illinois Republican Sen. Charles Percy's staff on the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations. Made available to The Associated Press, the staff report shows that chop shops have grabbed much of the market and extended opera-

In Chicago, for instance, police say 25 to 40 percent of stolen vehicles end up in chop shops. The parts end up across town or as far away as Los Angeles, Dallas or San Antonio. Texas officials suspect Midwest chop shops supply salvage yards along Texas highways that have late model front ends stacked up four and

With organized crime has come violence. Percy's staff linked 11 unsolved murders in the Chicago area and four in New York City to auto theft rackets. Last month, three shotgun blasts were fired into the bedroom of an Illinois investigator working on auto thefts. Another investigator's car was burned.

Outside Chicago, Senate investigators found chop shops in Baltimore, Boston, Cincinnati, Detroit, Indianapolis, Miami, New York City, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Hammonton, N.J., and rural North Carolina. But the racket has victimized virtually every auto

It contributed to a 52.4 percent rise over three years in the cost of automobile insurance. Because chop shops target their area for thefts, Chicago central city residents pay an average of $138 for theft insurance compared to $30 for suburban residents, according to State Farm Insurance.

Ironically, while chop shops inflate insurance prices, inflation in the cost of new parts contributes to chop shop success. For instance, investigators were told a new nose for a 1975 Chevrolet Monte Carlo costs $1,607 with labor. A used nose from a legitimate salvage yard would cost $1,290, but a chop shop could provide it for $690-$890. And service is faster. Automaker delays can range up to two months. But chop shops deliver overnight and can provide assembled front ends, which come from Detroit in 12 pieces.

The staff report said chop shops operate this way:

The crime begins with a call from a salvage yard. ordering parts. The chop shop drafts a "pull sheet" with instructions for a "mule"—or thief—on what

The mule searches shopping mall, theater and restaurant parking lots. Within 30 to 120 seconds, a professional can penetrate door and steering-wheel locks. According to the FBI, he can steal 30-35 cars a week at $200-$500 a car. One ring in Chicago used teen-agers, paying $25-$50 per car.

The most likely targets are expensive. In one city, Cadillacs are as common as American Motors cars, but 12 times as many Cadillacs are stolen.

Maroon Platoon showed pride

By ROBIN BENNETT, JULIE OSCHNER & CINDY CANFIELD

Well, Friday night our MIGHT REBEL EXPRESS really poured on the steam against "Mojo." Our GUYS really gave those Panthers some SUPER-TOUGH competition! We'd like to give special recognition to Watahead "Golden Toe" McPherson for scoring the first three points of the game to put us ahead in the third quarter! The MAROON PLA-TOON really showed it's pride and put forth that REBEL DETERMINATION in one of the BEST football games this season! Not until the LAST quarter did Permian finally take the victory, 14-3. We are really proud of our REBEL EXPRESS and we want you to know we're behind you all the way, Guys!

This Friday, the MAROON PLATOON takes on Abilene High. We are tied with the Eagles for second place in district play, so come on out to Memorial Stadium at 8 p.m. sharp Friday and see us PLUCK

Last Thursday night the Stonewall Brigade took on "Mojo" and played a tough game. Those mangy cats took the victory, however, 33-6. We're behind you,

The cheerleaders would like to give a big THANK YOU too!! To who showed up at the pep rally last Friday morning. We want to see ALL of that MIGHTY REBEL SPIRIT and MORE, MORE,

MORE again this Thursday morning at 8 o'clock (since there is no school Friday).

The French Club needs your paper-back books for its Used Book Sale to be held Saturday, from 10:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. If you have any books you would care to donate to this worthy cause, please dial 694-0353 and Help'em get to Europe.

We really appreciate your spirit at the game and pep rally last Friday. We've got two more important games coming up, so we really need your support for these two important weeks!

Remember - Squad meetings every Wednesday morning at 7:30 and Honor Squad at 7:45 Hey Rebs — If you didn't get to the dance in the C. Friday night, you missed SOME real good BOOGIE!! During the "Cotton Eye Joe" Greg Collins TOLD us what "Mojo" really was and Miss Huckabay dedicated a song to 'em (y'all know what Junior Council Members - be sure and read B.C.'s Comments and come set up and clean up so we can have a dance after we EGG.the EAGLES!!

B.C. COMMENTS:

There will be a meeting of the Junior Council at 7 m. Thursday. NO EXCUSES! If you're not PRE-SENT, you ARE NOT in Junior Council!!! Remember - 7 p.m. this Thursday.

100 Club - be sure and find out when you work and BE THERE. There are too many not showing up. Speaking of irresponsibility — too many are expec-ting others to do their job AND that is precisely the reason there WILL NOT be an "after game dance" this Friday night. When it gets to the point where I have to carry tables and chairs and clean up after YOUR dances - I'm not interested in having more

I am grateful to Linda and Sandra Hugly, Lee Mc-Clurg and Greg Collins for showing up at 3 p.m. Saturday to "put the place back in order." They will be rewarded with 50 points each and a great BIG THANKS for their interest in helping.

Until Next Week, Robin, Julie and Cindy P.S. Hey, Bulldogs — We were really proud of y'all last Friday for beating the Odessa Broncos 15-7!
Keep up the good work. Good Luck against the Abilene Cooper Friday!!!

Now South held one trump and three diamonds. No matter what was led, the defenders had the rest.

It might seem that South was sure to lose a trump and three diamonds no matter now he played the hand, but not if he plans ahead. MUST RUFF

South must ruff a heart at the second trick. He then leads the top trumps and continues with the top clubs and a third club.

If West ruffs, dummy discards a diamond. When West actually discards a heart, dummy ruffs. South then ruffs a heart and leads his last club.

West cannot afford to ruff or to discard the queen of hearts. West must therefore discard a diamond. South ruffs the club in dummy and safely ruffs dummy's last heart with his own last trump for his tenth trick. DAILY QUESTION Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S-QJ4; H-Q10742; D-K94; C-Q3. What do you say? ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. The hand is too good for two hearts, not good enough for three hearts, and has to many high cards (and the wrong distribution) for four hearts. Bid an imaginary side suit and raise hearts at your next turn.

LAMESA — Dee Ann Daffern, 19, of Lamesa will represent an 18-county area in the Texas Farm Bureau's queen contest Nov. 27 at the bureau's 45th annual state convention in the Convention Center Theater in Dallas.

She is the reigning Dawson County and District 6 Texas Farm Bureau queen.

State winner of the contest will receive an expense-paid trip to Washington, D.C., and Williamsburg, Va., next April, and will attend the bureau's Citizenship Seminar in July. Miss Daffern is a sophomore education major at Baylor University, where she is a member of Pi Beta Phi, Kappa Pi and the Sidelines. In high school, she was secretary of the student council, and held memberships in the National Honor Society, Future Teachers of America, band and choir. She was on the tennis team. She was sweetheart of the football team and band. She was listed in the biographical dictionary "Who's Who Among American High School Students" and was an Optimist Club Young Texan. She is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Daffern of Lamesa.
