CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) - Egypt warned today that Israel's rejection of outstanding American-backed Egyptian proposals on a peace treaty could undermine what has been agreed on so far.

It said the United States and the international community have a responsibility to get Israel to change its stance in the interest of a comprehensive peace in the Middle East.

"We now see ourselves returning to the starting point because of Israel's intransigence," the official Cairo Radio said in a commentary on Israel's rejection of Egyptian proposals conveyed to it Wednesday by Secretary of State Cyrus

The Israeli cabinet today rejected an Egyptian demand that the end of 1979 be set as a target date for establishment of Palestinian autonomy in the Jordan West Bank and the Gaza strip.

"If the Israeli concept and methods continue along this line of prevarication to obstruct peace efforts because of the failure of its leaders to grasp the real meaning of peace, then everything that has been achieved toward conclusion of an Egyptian-Israeli treaty may be in vain and a genuine chance for an overall and just peace in the Middle East may be lost," the Radio said.

REJECTS TREATY - Israel's Menachem Begin reads a statement at the end of this morning's cabinet meeting in Jerusalem saying that Egypt bears the responsibility for the failure of signing a peace agreement between Israel and Egypt and that the U.S. has taken a one-sided attitude favoring Egypt. Begin Raps U.S., Egypt

Israel today rejected the proposals made by the United States and Egypt for conclusion of a peace treaty and sharply criti-cized the Carter administration for siding with the Egyptians in

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, who failed in his shuttle at getting the two nations to sign the pact by Sunday as sought by President Carter, left Cairo for Washington today.

At Prestwick Airport in Scotland, where Vance's plane made a one-hour refueling stop on its way back to Washington, U.S. officials said there would be no comment on the Israeli decision until they have seen the full text of the cabinet statement.

The Israeli cabinet decision put Israel on a collision course with the United States because the White House, in statements Thursday, made Israel responsible for the success or failure of Vance's shuttle rescue mission.

The cabinet, in a statement read by Prime Minister Mena-chem Begin, blamed Egypt for the inability to conclude a treaty based on the framework of the Camp David peace agreements signed in September.

Begin said the Egyptians introduced wholly new demands and chided the United States for a "one-sided" interpretation of

Basically, the main issue blocking agreement has been the same that has Basically, the main issue blocking agreement has been the same that has overshadowed the negotiations from almost the first day: the link between the treaty and the future progress toward Palestinian self-rule in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip. But Begin this week said that Egypt now wants to tie its exchange of ambassadors with Israel following a treaty to a date for solving the Palestinian problem.

He also has said Egypt wants a looser interpretation of a key article, which now would prevent Cairo from going to war with its Arab allies.

'These demands," Begin said following the five-hour special session of the cabinet, "are inconsistent with the Camp I frameworks or are not included in them and changes subsully provisions of the aforementioned peace treaty.

"Therefore, they are unacceptable to Israel and rejected "The government of Israel rejects the attitude and interption of the United States government with regard to the Island Report of the Island Re tian proposals."

Begin said Israel would like Washington "to keep its objectivity" and later said in reply to a question, "The position as expressed by the (Carter) administration is one-sided. Any one-sided decision imposes difficulties and we hope it will change." Carter said Thursday that the conclusion of the treaty was "primarily in the hands of the Israelis."

"primarily in the hands of the Israelis."

The negotations for a pact began Oct. 12 and proceeded in fits and starts, athough progress was rapid initially. But the talks hit a deadlock about a month ago, which led to the Vance mission. Begin today reaffirmed Israel's willingness to sign a U.S. draft treaty as presented to it Nov. 11 and approved Nov. 21.

Israel's rejection of the proposals brought from Egypt by Vance came as no surprise. But it meant Sunday's deadline for initialing the treaty will not be met unless there were drastic developments in the next two days.

Begin said he expected the negotiations will be resumed because "we want to sign a peace treaty with Egypt."

He said he would attend another summit meeting with President Carter, if invited, in an attempt to seal the pact, the first ever between Israel and an Arab state.

Israeli newspapers today reflected the country's growing mood of isolation. A Jerusalem Post editorial was headlined "U.S. Goes Too Far," and condemned American efforts to "bully" Israel.

Carter, in stepping up the pressure on Israel, said Thursday:
"One of the major issues is whether or not a goal should be set, not a fixed definite requirement that the West Bank-Gaza self-government should be established by the end of 1979."

"I personally don't see how this could be difficult for the Israelis since it is not mendatory into a coal to be require.

Bahais in Iran, they have always played a prominent role in social, economic and military life. This has been a sore point with the leaders of the Shiite Moslems, the sect to which most of Iran's 34 million people belong, and in the early stages of their campaign against the shah's Westernization program, they put pressure on him to dismiss Bahais in influential positions. In an attempt to pacify the Shiites, the shah replaced bank presidents, several generals and the president of Iran Air, retired Gen. Ali Mohammad Khademi. Khademi later committed suicide because of accusations he misappropriated Iran Air funds, the government said. But members of his family said he was assassinated by unknown gunmen Unofficial sources reported that three soldiers opened fire with automatic weapons on an officers' mess two miles from the shah's Niavaran Palace Monday night, killed at least 12 Imperial Guard officers and wounded more than 20. Official sources claimed the attackers were civilian terrorists in military uniforms, that they wounded at least 20 soldiers but killed no one, and that they themselves were shot and killed. These sources said the attack occurred Tuesday

It was the first such attack reported since October, when an enlisted mankilled the military governor and chief of security forces in the southern town of Jahrum. Moslem leaders claim that many army noncoms have told them they refused orders to fire into crowds demonstrating against the shah and fired into the air instead. Two men on motorcycles tried to throw a bomb into a troop camp in a Tehran sports stadium Wednesday night, but the bomb went off in the hand of one of them, and he was hospitalized in critical condition, authorities said.

Tehran went through its second consecutive day of long power failures after a week of comparatively uninterrupted service in most areas of the sprawling metropolis.

The power failed Wednesday and Thursday nights just as the government television service was beginning a news bulletin describing pro-shah demonstrations in various parts of the country.

Reliable sources said the power workers had decided to sabotage such newscasts. Military personnel moved into the power stations and restored the electricity temporarily, but the sources said the power workers were still able to cause periodic stoppages.

When the city refused to contribute $3,-300 for program operations, the program steering committee borrowed the money from a local bank, he said.

Moreno testified that the city steadfastly refused further help, and that the committee members became liable for the debt.

He said another committee member made $300 worth of payments on the note. Since that time, Moreno said, he has been paying back the debt at $30 a month and still owes about $300.

Moreno said the city council in 1970 was approached to sponsor the Neighborhood Youth Corps Program in Lubbock,

Card Sales High Despite Postage

By LISA PAIKOWSKI Avalanche-Journal Staff

Despite rising prices and higher postal rates, holiday tradition prevails this year as city residents boost retail sales with ChristMas card purchases that are keeping the U.S. Postal Service busy, too.

All but one of six local card and gift shop owners contacted said that card sales have been comparable to or better than those of last And most of those cards reach their destination through the Lubbock Post Office, which reported handling record numbers of mail several days this week. Patty Lewis, owner of the Paper Tiger gift shop, said, "We've only been here eight months, so we weren't here last Christmas, but I think we're doing fantastic.

"Our salesman said we should buy more expensive cards this year because of the high postage rates. He said if people are going to spend that much to send cards, they'll want to send nicer cards. But we haven't found that. We've sold a lot of the expensive cards, but it hasn't affected the less expensive ones.

Morris Nunley, one of the own-ers of the Shetland-Hallmark stores said that his sales have increased over those of last year.

Miller-Ohls Gift Shop owner Ru-by Miller said, "I think there's fewer (cards being sold), but it's not much different from last year. Of course it's not like it was 10 or 12 years ago.'

Mrs. Miller did not think the higher cost of cards affected sales, but added, "They (the customers) do complain about the postage, but it's not really a major thing.

Kay Callaway, partner in Town & Country Gift Shop, provided a clear contrast in opinions concern-ing card sales, however. Asked if sales were as high as those last year, she said, "Definitely not. We stocked up on boxed cards this year, and neither those or the counter cards are moving. "People are asking for the Christmas postcards because of the high postage rates," she said. "It's sure hurting our business. We'll have about two-thirds of our boxed cards left over. People said See CARD SALES Page 14

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's licensed imports totaled $8.795 billion in November, up 16.7 percent from October's $7.539 billion and up 28 percent from $6.870 billion in the like year-earlier month, the ministry of international trade and industry

Ministry officials attributed the sharp increase in the month to a big annual rise in manufactured product imports. The annual gain in manufactured product imports was 74.3 percent, the officials said. There weren't any significant changes

Executives Win Awards

NEW YORK (AP) — Edgar Bronfman, chairman of the board of the Seagram Co. Ltd., and John Miller, president of the Hearst Corp., have been awarded the 1978 United Cerebral Palsy Humanitarian Award.

The award was presented to Bronfman and Miller at a black tie banquet Thursday at the Waldorf Astoria. The men were praised for their support of health research in this country, particularly in the field of cerebral palsy.

Previous recipients include President Dwight Eisenhower, Nelson Rockefeller, William Clay Ford and New York Gov. Hugh Carey.

Haley Settles Out Of Court

NEW YORK (AP) - Author Alex Haley has settled a plagiarism suit out of court for a reported $500,000, acknowledging another writer's work found its way into his blockbuster best seller, "Roots."

Judge Robert Ward, who presided over a five-week nonjury trial in U.S. District Court here, said Haley apologized to writer Harold Courlander of Bethesda, Md., Thursday. Ward did not disclose the amount of the settlement, but The Washington Post reported it was $500,000. The newspaper did not state the source of its information. Courlander had accused Haley of copying passages from his novel, "The African," which was published in 1967, nine years before "Roots."

Prince Passes Navy Tests

LONDON (AP) — Prince Andrew, 18-year-old son of Queen Elizabeth II, has passed a medical exam and aptitude tests for entry into the British navy.

The queen's second son will apply for a 12-year commission in the Royal Navy in February or March, Buckingham Palace announced Thursday.

Andrew, second in line to the throne after his older brother, Prince Charles, is currently finishing his secondary education at Scotland's Gordonstoun School. Charles and the princes' father, Prince Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh, also chose naval careers.

Barbara Mandrell Will Not Sing

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Country music singer Barbara Mandrell says she'll attend Gov. George Wallace's farewell party but, contrary to what Wallace's staff says, she won't be performing.

Wallace's press office said earlier this week that Miss Mandrell had agreed to donate her talents for the Jan. 6 sendoff, scheduled nine days before Wallace leaves office after an unprecedented three terms.

However, the entertainer said Wednesday she was never asked to sing. She said she agreed to attend because of Wallace's past support of her fund-raising efforts for the Ala-

Elvin Stanton, Wallace's assistant press secretary, said proceeds from the $5 ticket sales will be used to defray party expenses, with any excess going toward the purchase of a new luxury car for the governor.

Brando Sues Movie Producers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Marlon Brando and his production company have filed a $50 million lawsuit to halt further showings of the movie "Superman," claiming producers and distributors of the movie violated terms of an agreement for Brando's services in the film.

Brando plays Jor-El, Superman's father, in the film, which premiered in Washington, D.C., this week.

The suit, filed Wednesday, names producer Alexander Salkind, Warner Bros. distributors and a string of corporations as defendants. It alleges some of them tried to deprive Brando's Penny Poke production company of its share of gross receipts from U.S., Canadian and other for-eign distributions, and asks for an accounting and appointment of a receiver.

Music Group Sets Concert

NEW YORK (AP) — Symphonicum Europae, an interna-tional music organization seeking to promote world harmo-ny, has scheduled a March 3 gala fund-raising concert.

An organization spokesman said Thursday the event will be at Carnegie Hall and will include violinists Yehudi Menuhin and Ruggiero Ricci; guitarist Andres Segovia; flutist Jean-Pierre Rampal; and pianists Jorge Bolet, Gary Graffman, Byron Janis and Jeremy Menuhin; sopranos Roberta Peters and Maureen Forrester, and dancers Jose Greco and Nana Lorca.

Masters of ceremonies are to be Peter Ustinov and Jose Ferrer. Piero Gamba, president of the Symphonicum Europae Foundation, will conduct the Winnipeg, Canada, Symphony Orchestra.

Gamba and Segovia are the only surviving members of the group that founded the Symphonicum Europea. Other founding members included Pablo Casals, Albert Schweitzer and Igor Stravinsky.

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) - A closed pretrial hearing was held in Circuit Court this week in what legal sources say is one of the first cases in the nation in which a man is charged with raping his wife.

John Joseph Rideout 21, of Salem, is scheduled to go on trial next Tuesday on charges of raping and beating his wife, Greta, 22, Oct. 10 at their apartment. Mrs. Rideout has filed for divorce since that date. After the Wednesday hearing, from which press and public were excluded, Charles Burt, attorney for Rideout, said he submitted evidence to Circuit Court Judge Richard Barber, who declared the

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

City Free Of Bond-age

A DECLARATORY judgment by District Judge Robert C. Wright hopefully is the last chapter in a novel series of delays to spending $9.5 million in general obligation bonds that were approved by Lubbock voters more than two years ago.

In this period of runaway inflation, postponing capital improvements unnecessarily is extremely costly to the taxpayers.

Those who opposed sale of the bonds have had a full measure of hearings through legal channels, as is their right, but they now have a responsibility to accept the will of the people and the ruling of the court.

THE OUTCOME of the challenge never was seriously doubted by anyone familiar with the facts.

As Judge Wright now has ruled, the City of Lubbock fulfilled all legal requirements in the handling of the bond issue and the citizens are entitled to have built the capital improvements which they voted for in 1977. The City Council sought the declaratory judgment, technically filing a class action suit against all voters, property owners and citizens of Lubbock, in order to put an end to the type of roadblocks that had been thrown up by a small group of opponents.

A jury was seated to hear the case, at the request of defendants Robert Lee Isom Jr. and James G. Marshall, but Judge Wright ruled after two days of testimony that the City's position was valid as a matter of law.

A jury decides a case when facts are in dispute but the law is the law is the law, as they say, and the Court itself rules on matters of law.

Although Isom said there might be an appeal, Assistant Atty. Gen. John Darrouzet, representing the state, and Tony Wright, attorney ad litem for unnamed defendants, joined in the motions for a ruling in the

IT THUS IS CLEAR that the City has complied with all legal requirements and that any further delays in selling the bonds and using the funds as they are needed ought to be avoided.

Judge Wright's ruling effectively knocked down Marshall's key allegation: that the bond election did not sufficiently inform voters on the specifics of how the money would be spent.

Total specificity would be impractical and, as the court now has ruled, is legally unnecessary. That should be the end of it.

Vet Pensions Put Pinch On Us

-WASHINGTON-It is a risky business, as every. filter knows, to write anything that might be rued as critical of programs intended to enefit "the veteran." But when it comes to two tters now in the news, some cool observations

This should be said first of all: Of course the tion has a high obligation to look after the vet-in who is wounded in combat or disabled by e other cause that is clearly related to his tary service.

Of course the nation must provide benefits, ich as college tuition and temporary support, or those whose education is disrupted while they in uniform. It would be plainly wrong to can inducements held out at the time of enlist-

But at some point a line has to be drawn. The erans' preference now provided in federal emment is one such point. The new veterans' nation act, effective Jan. 1, suggests another.

LAST WEEK THE Justice Department filed a morandum supporting the constitutionality of system by which veterans automatically get rantage in obtaining jobs in the federal civil

The memorandum is beside the point. By ra-binal extension of the power "to raise and sup-ort armies" and "to provide and maintain a na-y," the Congress doubtless has authority to rovide this significant homes. The question is not the constitutionality of the stem but the equity of the policy.

eral employment.

It is patently unfair, or so it seems to me, to continue to award these preference points to a man who may have served only a few months in the army in peacetime years ago.

THE SYSTEM MAY be lawful; it isn't right, and Carter is on sound ground in attempting to

The new pension program is intended to raise the annual payments to veterans who are "permanently and totally disabled."

That sounds great-until it is understood that (1) we are talking about injuries or illnesses that have nothing to do with military service, and (2) for purposes of the pension act, veterans automatically are classed as permanently and totally disabled when they reach the age of 65.

Such veterans may have served only one day in wartime and only 90 days in service totally. So long as they meet eligibility standards based upon "countable" income, they need only to stand in line for their checks.

The bill that finally was approved in the closing days of the 95th Congress was a compromise be-tween a very costly House version and a somewhat less costly Senate version.

There's one thing worse than hearing your wife say: "I'm going Christmas shopping tomorrow." And that's, "We're going Christmas shopping to-

IN EITHER VERSION, the bill is a budget buster-and its true costs will not become apparent until next year. The Congressional Budget Office estimated the net costs of the House bill over the next five years at about $8.7 billion. The final version may cost 10 or 15 percent less. But whatever they turn out to be, the higher costs resulting from this pension bill are only part of the story. The effect of the new act will be to provide higher benefits to veterans who suffered no com-bat or service-connected disability than now are paid to veterans who truly were permanently disabled in the service of their country.

Traditionally the service-connected disability has carried a higher pension, as of course it

IT WILL BE politically impossible for Congress not to restore the differential next year.

When this has been done, by one authoritative estimate, the effect will be to raise total pension costs over the next five years by $30 billion And once the new rates are entrenched in the budget, indexed to increase with the rate of inflation, the costs will be calculated among the "uncontrollable costs" of the government. To repeat: Of course the nation must fairly compensate those whose lives are disrupted by military service, and of course promises must be kept. But at some point the millions of veterans must be told that enough is enough. ONE MAN'S OPINION

PRESIDENT CARTER keeps making Big Talk about slicing the federal deficit and holding inflation in check, but he's making precious little progress on either front. If he could be as good as his words, he'd win re-election in 1980 in a New York Minute, as Hayden Fry said a week before he left North Texas State for Iowa.

Carter often says one thing and does the opposite, though, it seems to me.

For example, he ordered a boycott by government purchasers of firms which violate his price guidelines-and in the next breath said "I don't personally favor any organized boycotts.'

CARTER ALSO LEFT open the door for re-ducing revenue-sharing funds to states and localities that violate anti-inflation wage guidelines which is an out-and-out economic boycott.

He's even given aid and comfort to feminist Equal Rights Amendment groups who are boycotting convention sites in states that have not ratified the ERA.

AS DESCRIBED TO me by an gyewitness, 105 political prisoners were called by name from their cells and posted behind a screening fence. Then a spokesman of the Interior Department read the statement of their liberation.

A cheer rose from the inmates, and then was echoed in immense volume by thousands of citi-tens in the streets, from the rooftops far and near, as the prisoners came from the hated jail that had been a death house for many who were starved, bludgeoned or simply left to lie and expire in their own refuse.

It was a scene that lost little in the telling, as relatives rushed to claim their kin, or searched

The release did not, as is often supposed, con-nect with Carter's emphasis on human rights, or with the visit to Port-Au-Prince of the American UN Ambassador Andrew Young who was touring the Caribbean and plugging Carter's human rights viewpoint. Rather, the mass release was an

Meanwhile, President Duvalier has orderd the fearsome prison Fort Dimanch to be remodeled into a more humane detention place.

He also disbanded and renamed the frightening secret police, Tonton Macoutes (the Creole name for Bogeyman), put the cops in uniform and called their outfit VSN, meaning Volunteers for National Security.

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you really think you have a chance to win the top job at your company? Are you on the right track? Do you need to make adjust-ments in your line of pursuit or, sadly, even in your goal?

Here is an opportunity to check yourself. But first, a word from our sponsor, Professor Eugene Jennings, who has spent his adult years studying the corpo-ration and its people, and advising them as well.

Thousands of managers, he observes, come to the end of each year asking themselves if they have a chance. Some do; most don't. Some, he says, are driven by "false hopes and tyrannical delu-

Most of the eligibles in the 25-to 40-year age group already have a leg up on the competition, says Jennings, who three decades ago began diagramming the routes to executive success, an endeavor that produced many books.

Those routes, and much of the terminology now commonly associated with the pursuit, haven't changed much since publication of "The Mobile Manager," a computer study which Jennings completed in the 1960s.

Income remains one of the first tests

At the Sylvester Cooperative Gin, near where his sister was buried Sunday, Alex Perales was pitching in, too.

"My sister (Lolita, 17) was one of the persons who passed away. I just couldn't sit around the house anymore, so I came down here." he said.

Perales said millions of dollars of harvesting equipment was in the fields today. Volunteers worked about 13 hours Monday to bring in 299 bales of cotton for the Decker and Jeffrey families, he said.

Of the six members of the Jeffreys family aboard the schoolbus, Britt Jeffrey died and five others remain hospitalized. Debbie Decker was critically injured but was in stable condition today at an Abilene hospital.

"There were probably 100 trailers (filled with harvested cotton) brought in yesterday," Perales said.

The 21-year-old was near the end of a four-year U.S. Navy tour assigned to the USS Yosemite at Mayport, Fla., when he heard of the crash.

"I think it is outstanding. It's the best thing that could have happened. All the farmers around, they couldn't have done any better for the people down here. I've never seen anybody care about other people so much as these people."

That spirit has been translated into work and dollars.

Rift Surfaces On Fraud War Between Carter, Black Leader

By BROOKS JACKSON

The rift between Carter and Hatcher, the Gary, Ind. mayor to whom the president earlier offered a job as his principal White House liaison with blacks, surfaced this week at what was supposed to be a showcase for the new administration initiatives against waste and corruption.

Carter told 1,300 federal, state and local officials that he is instituting a government-wide program to root out waste and theft, and another new move to cut down on the $3 billion spent handling welfare paperwork.

"This administration has declared war on waste and fraud in government programs," Carter said.

Only later did administration officials explain that no new auditors or antifraud investigators would be hired as a result of Carter's latest pronouncment, and that roughly half of what they consider needless welfare paperwork cannot be cured by administrative action but will require welfare reform legislation from a so-far reluctant Congress.

The president, under attack from black leaders and liberal Democrats for proposing budget cuts in social programs, insisted that $1 billion saved through cutting waste is better than $1 billion in new

War Begins On Welfare Paperwork

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The administration is declaring war on a new target: all the red tape and paperwork that ham-pers efficiency in the welfare system.

In a move calculated to save taxpayers $3 billion a year, Carter and HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. announced this week a plan to simplify the hundreds of eligibility requirements for welfare re-

Carter told a Health, Education and Welfare conference on fraud, abuse and error in federal programs that streamlining the requirements will make it easier for needy Americans to get aid and easier for government watchdogs to control

"Today," he said, "the welfare system of one state eats up 3 billion pieces of paper each year and a thousand different forms. A women seeking economic aid in another state had to spend 300 hours in one year filling out paperwork document-ing her need."

The president said such complicated and time-consuming paperwork contrib-utes $3 billion each year to the cost of public assistance and other human serves programs.

"We will move to simplify these procetures where it really counts, at the state He ordered Califano and federal budget

Tuition Costs To Jump, Group Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tuition costs at private vocational schools could jump at private vocational schools could jump 50 percent as a result of a new federal regulation governing the schools, industry leaders say.

The Federal Trade Commission issued the regulation this week, saying it was needed to protect students against fraud and deception by the schools.

"I'm convinced that unfair practices are so pervasive that we need a regulation," FTC commissioner Paul Rand Dixon said in explaining the rule.

But a spokesman for a group claiming

"This rule is going to hurt students," aid Bernard Ehrlich, an attorney who

the National Home Study uncil, the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools and the Cos-

But Hatcher said at the same conference that $1 billion in welfare fraud probably is statistically insignficant, insisted that there is "much more egregious fraud" in the Pentagon where Carter wants to boost spending, and criticized the attitude of "white politicians" toward welfare reform.

"Those who are the enemies of poor people — there are such, no matter what they call themselves — spare no pains to try to make welfare fraud a major issue of national concern," Hatcher said.

Carter's anti-fraud program was de-scribed by several administration officials as mainly an effort to get federal agency heads to concentrate more personal attention on seeking out theft and mismanagement.

"It is a consciousness-raising exercise," said a presidential aide who asked not to

Carter asked heads of 90 federal agencies, including some independent regulatory bodies, to come up by Jan. 31 with anti-fraud plans administered by someone reporting directly to the agency

Director James McIntyre of the Office of Management and Budget, to whom Carter assigned overall control of the new anti-fraud move, told reporters that no new auditors or investigators would be hired, and some might actually be lost unless special exceptions are made to the president's current hiring freeze.

A number of "major problem areas" in the current federal grain standards were identified in the report.

The present standards "are not constructed so that all potentially adverse conditions are routinely identified" and made known to those who use federal inspection services.

For example, moldy kernels of grain are currently included in a category called "total damaged kernels" and are not separately identified.

Infestation by insects is another example. A "tolerance" is allowed in grain be-fore the infestation must be reported. "Infested grain could be blended with "Infested grain could be ble other grain, causing contamination of the entire mix without the handler being aware of the situation," the report said.

Another problem involves the numeri-cal grade assigned grain and the practice of different prices existing for grain of the same grade. 'This occurs because grain markets use discount and premium (price) scales for the various inspection factors, and these vary by individual factors," the report

Under existing standards, it is possible to assign a high grade rating to a sample of grain that has poor or undesirable qualities for the use that will be made of tal task that probably cannot be done completely under the present system of recording ownership and other informa-

The report, "Facts About U.S. Land Ownership," was made available Thursday by the Agriculture Department. It was written by Gene Wunderlich, an economist in the department's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service.

"Knowing who owns U.S. land is im-

"Knowing who owns U.S. land is important because land ownership affects how wealth is distributed nationally and how land is used," it said. "Yet the currently fragmented and incomplete status of ownership data means only gross gen-eralities are possible."

Wunderlich's report refers to land own-ership in the broadest sense and does not delve into the narrower question of for-eigners owning U.S. farmland.

Foreign ownership currently is under scrutiny by USDA, which is putting together regulations to implement a new reporting system required by a law passed by Congress this year.

Although the report does not examine the issue of foreigners buying U.S. farm-land, it does suggest by its general tone that it may be exceedingly difficult to pin down precisely how much land is owned by foreign interests and the identities of those who own it.

The report said that "ambiguity in ownership" information arises from who or what constitutes an owner.

"Owners may be one person, a corpora-tion, a husband and wife," it said. "Public records rarely provide more informa-tion than names, which may or may not represent all persons involved nor always the actual persons."
Further ambiguities are possible, including the practice of owners selling certain rights such as mineral, water and air space. Those statistics "cannot now be obtained economically," the report said.

"Finally, the data sources lack uniformity," it said. "A list of owners from tax records, for example, would differ from a list from the grantee index in the recorder's office." Reports from national censuses, federal agencies, commerce and industry, state land agencies, universities, local governments and public interest groups produce only interesting fragments of data" or suggestive information. "For determining who owns America, these sources are inadequate, partial and inconsistent," the report said. "In many situations and jurisdictions accurate information is just not available. Nationally, the situation is chaotic.' Wunderlich says recent legislative developments, heightened by a growing awareness of the need for better land information, are steps in the right direc-

A survey by Wunderlich's agency is under way to help determine ownership of land and what it is used for.

"Beginning with this core data, researchers will be able to build a more refined picture of the separated interests in land," the report said.

Additional surveys and other work will be required over longer periods of time to provide more complete statistics, how-

Drop Foreseen In Feedlot Cattle Numbers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite another increase in total feedlot cattle numbers, some slight slowdown may be in the offing this winter, according to new government figures.

The Agriculture Department said Thursday that, as of Dec. 1, feedlots in seven key states showed inventories of 9.32 million cattle, up nine percent from a year ago. Further, the report said marketings of cattle last month totaled 1.72 million head, up 15 percent from November of last year.

However, feedlot operators put 1.89 million head in fattening pens last month, an eight percent drop from a year earlier, the report said. High prices of lightweight "feeder" cattle are one of the factors in a slowdown in new feedlot placements Cattle producers reduced herds sharply the last several years because of low market prices. Cattle numbers are thinned out enough now so that prices have been up substantially this year.

Despite the higher prices, cattle producers have not yet signified a substantial rebuilding of herds and experts say high cattle and beef prices are the outlook for the next few years until the supply can be

Although the supply of "fed" beef is up, fewer cows and other "nonfed" cattle are going to market. Thus, the total beef supply is down from recent years and is expected to remain so for some time.

Dec. 1 feedlot inventories of cattle in the seven states which produce about 75 percent of the nation's beef were:

Arizona, 507,000 head, up 27 percent from a year earlier; Colorado, 1,095,000, up 10 percent; Iowa, 1,540,000, up 1 percent; Kansas, 1,430,000, up 12; Nebraska, 1,820,000, up 9; and Texas, 2,120,000, up 15.

McKnight, nominations committee chairman, said he expected to serve on the Senate Finance Committee during the 1979 legislative session and planned to make his point with agencies that appear before the appropriations panel.

"This is one of the things I'm going to be asking the people that come before the Finance Committee asking for money to see that they're not shoving people around," McKnight said.

"A state bureaucrat is just as a lederal bureaucrat," he said. "The only difference is one is farther away from home than the other.'

Homosexual Rape Charge Brought Against Inmate HOUSTON (UPI) - A grand jury this week returned an attempted homosexual rape indictment against a Texas prison inmate who is suing the state for prison reforms, including better inmate ecurity against sexual assault.

During trial of the suit, there has been testimony about previous alleged sexual assaults by David Ruiz, who has testified he was "set up" by prison officials who have tried to squelch his activism on be-half of prison reform.

The indictment charged Ruiz, 37, with attempted sexual assault at knifepoint of another inmate while in the Harris County jail to participate in federal court trial

MCALLEN (UPI) - The annual battle with snow and ice during the Christmas season in most of the nation coincides with the peak of the rich citrus harvest in the semi-tropical Lower Rio Grande Val-

The valley's highways these days are crowded with trucks delivering thousands of boxes and baskets of tree-ripened oranges and ruby red grapefruit, regarded as the best of the crop, for the nation's holiday tables.

The month preceding Christmas is the busiest of the year for citrus cooperatives and gift fruit companies who pool their efforts to make sure orders are filled on time and the colorful fruit baskets are delivered to doorsteps throughout the country by Christmas day.

By this week, the federal-state market news center at nearby Weslaco reported 335,000 pounds of grapefruit and 115,000 pounds of oranges, colorfully wrapped in gift packages and containing a greeting card from the sender, already had been shipped from the Texas Citrus belt, which often records the nation's highest temperature this time of year and boasts that it produces the sweetest fruit in the

The total shipments this year are run-ning 123,000 pounds ahead of the gift packages of 1977 when drenching rains hampered harvest operations. The next two weeks will be frantic.

"We haven't had enough rain to stop the harvest and this year I'm just right up to the day for getting the orders out to the packing houses," said Chris Gerber, a fresh fruit sales manager for Texas Citrus

"We're having a good season: the fruit is excellent and the orders are ahead of last year," said W.T. Ellis, whose TexCitrus Fruits Inc. of McAllen is one of numerous companies specializing in gift package shipments. "Last year we had a lot of rain. We had plenty of fruit, but the size was small. It was difficult to get the large size, which were in good demand.

"This year we have plenty of large sizes and the quality is excellent. I always say the fruit never starts getting good until Nov. 15. In December, it's a little sweeter and we local people like it better. Our red grapefruit has more Vitamin A than any grapefruit in the United States, according to a USDA report."

Ellis said his firm buys Grade A Select handpicked fruit, then culls that to No. 1 select citrus, filling the citrus packages with the top of the crop.

Ellis' firm gets its oranges and grapefruit through the Texas Citrus Exchange, composed of 1,500 grower members, and joins with other gift fruit companies to fill truckloads destined for delivery throughout the country. When a truck bound for a certain area is filled, it transports the citrus to a post office at a central location, such as Chicago, where the packages already are post-marked and ready to deliver to doorsteps of the recipients within 150 miles of the

Ellis said the standard citrus package weighs 40 pounds and costs $20.80 delivered to the doorsteps, but on some direct truck routes the packages are sold for $17.90, comparing favorably with the price in supermarkets. He said a selfaddressed card is in each package guaranteeing the fruit against damage in transport or spoilage.

John Engel, director of the market news center, said the price may be slightly higher than super.arket prices in some areas, but the quality also is higher. "I think you could probably go buy grapefruit out of the store a little cheaper than you can get the gift fruit," Engel said. "But it is so much better fruit. In other words, it's the cream of the crop. It's wrapped in gift wrapping. It's presented in a better way than just commercial fruit. It's really an attractive packwspaper Says Golda Meir Inspired Israelis

Following is a sample of what the nation's newspapers have been saying this

Providence, R.I., Journal-Bulletin

Golda Meir, former Israeli prime minister, was a figure of indomitable will. Aroused by the spirit of Zionism, she left the comfort of the United States to become a pioneer in Palestine.

As one of the few women national leaders in history, she inspired her countrymen and was a subject of admiration by women around the world. Her sternfaced, grandmotherly image became known everywhere.

An immigrant to this country with her parents, she grew up in Milwaukee, where she became a school teacher. But the idea of building a new Israel fired her imagination. She gravitated to politics, became a leader in the Labor Federation and in the Labor Party.

A solid figure who inspired confidence, Mrs. Meir represented the toughness of the Israeli nation and the new freedom for women in public life. Seldom sentimental herself, she evoked a sentimental reaction among her followers and will be revered in a country that is often critical of its leadership.

No 'Cut' Seen

Scripps-Howard Newspapers
President Carter insists he's preparing a "tight" budget to submit to Congress early next year. He pledges to hold the deficit to no more than $30 billion.

Much attention has been focused on the deficit figure, which while high would still be the lowest in several years. The president offers it as proof he is doing all he can to fight inflation.

But we submit there is a far more accurate figure by which to judge the president's resolve. That figure is the level of federal spending

There will be no "cut" in federal spending next year. The only question is: How much will that spending in-

Federal spending during the current fiscal year is now calculated at $491 billion. Higher Social Security and veterans benefits, increased interest costs on the national debt, salary increases for the nation's military and civilian work force ing $530 billion in fiscal year 1980.

That is the figure on which Carter should be judged when he reveals his budget. It would represent an increase of 8 percent, which is less than the current rate of inflation. The closer the outlay figure is to $530 billion, the better it will be in the long-term fight against in-flation. Spending less than that would be remarkable. More than $530 billion would be much too much.

Remember that figure: $530 billion. It will be the true benchmark to measure the president's austerity program.

Meany Makes Point

Norwich, Conn., Bulletin

While evidence mounts that mandatory wage and price controls are not the answer to this country's inflation woes, AFL-CIO President George Meany continues to harangue the federal government for failing to impose such restric-

Meany deserves to be strongly criti-cized for his shortsighted views on fighting inflation. No doubt, mandatory controls would initially benefit workers. But the shock ultimately to the entire economy would be devastating...

Meany, in his criticism of Carter's inflation fighting plan, did hit on one important point. Controls should cover other inflationary aspects of the economy such as rents, dividends, interest rates, profits and other forms of income.

Only if Carter establishes voluntary guidelines for all inflationary elements, and keeps his pledge to hold down government spending will the country have a fighting chance to overcome inflation while avoiding a recession - or worse, a depression.

Marriage Discouraged

San Antonio Light

For some reason or other, the Internal Revenue Service seems to be discouraging matrimony. A married couple with a combined annual income of $40,000, each spouse earning 20 grand, pays a federal tax of $10,700, regardless of whether the husband and the wife file $8,884, or $1,816 less than if they are legally married.

Some married couples who discovered this loophole actually used to get a divorce near the end of a tax year, file separate returns as singles, and then get remarried early in the following year. The IRS stopped that marriage-divorce-remarriage rigamarole several years ago by declaring it illegal. But recently the revenue service ruled that a married couple who gets a divorce and then lives together without remarrying are entitled to the lower tax rate given to single tax-

What has the IRS got against marriage?

Tax Criticized

The Nashville Tennessean

Of all taxes conceived by mortals, the 'value added tax" is probably the worst, most regressive and most deceptive.

The value added tax is a tax imposed at every level of production and marketing. The amount is based on the value that has been added at each level. In sum, it would increase the price of food at the farm, at the wholesale level and then at the supermarket.

It is essentially a tax on consumers and some people find it attractive because it is hidden, in a sense, and as someone put it. "The sheep is sheared without being aware of the shearing."

The value added tax has been used in some countries of Europe where income tax evasion is considered a game by many. The Nixon adminstration sent up a trial baloon on VAT some years ago. It was promptly shot down and most thought no more would be heard of value added taxation.

But in separate speeches recently, the top tax writers in Congress suggested that VAT could be a way of easing the burden of income and Social Security

One was Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. The other was Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. The two committees are a key factor in determining the tax structure of the nation.

It has to be a little more than coincidence that both would suggest it separately. But if this was another trial baloon, it ought to be punctured as quickly as pos-

The VAT is essentially a federal sales tax that would be imposed on top of sales taxes of state and local governments. Assuming the VAT might be 10 percent, it would be easy to see what would happen to consumer prices.

Permissiveness Cited Berkshire Eagle

The Guinness Book of World Records should establish a new category for the Congress with the largest number of representatives who have been indicted, convicted, censured or reprimanded. In line for that dubious honor would certainly be the 435 members of the 96th Congress, whose Democratic side has spent much of the past week drawing up ground rules for the coming two years. Several proposals under consideraton how to deal with fellow representatives who have been caught outside the law or beyond the pale of House behavior and who still want to hold onto their committee or subcommittee chairman-

Common Cause came up with the suggestion that there should be an automatic vote by the entire Democratic caucus for would-be subcommittee chairmen who have been convicted of a crime or censured or reprimanded by the House itself. This would have meant a vote on Charles Diggs of Michigan, who has been convicted of accepting kickbacks from his staff employees, and two Californians who were reprimanded by the House last year for their parts in the Korean scandal, Charles Wilson and

Edward Roybal. This struck the caucus members, however, as excessively judgmental. Instead, they approved a proposal to limit such full-caucus votes to representatives who have been convicted or censured... Behind all the debate over what role the full party caucus should play in deciding who's fit for chairmanships and who isn't is an assumption that's a little disconcerting for members of the public unfamiliar with the buddy system that that no single committee would ever or rarely ever - find it within itself to take away a subcommittee chairmanship from a fellow congressman, whatever his misdeeds. The issue of which chairmanships will be determined by full caucus vote is important simply because the tradition of live and let live on the committees is so strong. The caucus has shown itself to be made of not much sterner stuff. Permissivism may have passed its peak in pedagogy, but it's alive and well on Capitol Hill.

Bergland told the sugarbeet producers that sugar consumption is expected to fall to about 93 pounds per person and corn sweeteners are providing greater competition.

The secretary also said the administration supports a strong domestic sweetener industry. The United States produces about 55 percent of its sugar; imports make up the remainder.

Both Major Parties Suffer Money Woes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republicans' expensive campaign to wage a comeback in last fall's elections and the Democrats' midterm conference in Memphis last week left the nation's two big political parties in financial trouble.

Money problems are just "more of the same" for Democrats, who have been in debt for the past decade, but a new experience for Republicans, who will still outspend their rivals 3-to-1 this year despite the pinch.

The GOP suffered a $500,000 shortfall in recent weeks and has had to fire 50 to 60 workers, but spokesman Peter Teeley said the party should be "in the black by next week" as pledges and membership renewals for the new year roll in.

The Democrats trace their debt back to the 1968 campaigns of Sens. Robert Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey. Since Jimmy Carter took over the White House, the $2.5 million owed has been reduced to about $1 million, but the cost of the 1978 campaign and the Memphis convention will add to that.

The Democrats face a debt of $650,000 from the conference alone.

Spokesmen for both parties said Thursday the national committees are tightening their belts for the final weeks of the year. Democrats have scheduled a major fund-raiser in January to help pay the debt, but Teeley said the GOP has no plans for special money raising.

plans for special money raising.

Teeley said the Republicans got in trouble because the projected 1978 budget of $19.5 million was "overly optimistic and overly ambitious." It has been trimmed to $14.3 million.

Democrats knew all along the Memphis convention would put them in the red, and had set aside money in their budget for it. But Chairman John White decided to spend the money instead on the 1978 election campaigns, said party spokeswoman Susan Morrison.

The DNC will shut its doors Monday for a two-week paid vacation for all staffers — a move Mrs. Morrison said would result in a "minor savings" in electric, heating and telephone bills.

The Republicans fired 43 organizational directors on the staffs of state GOP committees, but paid for by the national committee, and 10 to 15 computer keypunch operators and secretaries on the Washington staff.

"In May through August, the receipts fell off," Teeley said. "There was no shortfall in what we were able to spend on the campaign; we spent what we had planned. But we have cut a number of internal programs."

In 1978, the Republicans spent an unprecedented $2 million on state legislative campaigns, an area where national parties usually invest almost no money. Even with the cuts, the GOP still has a

Even with the cuts, the GOP still has a staff of 207 full-time and 63 part-time workers, while the Democrats have only about 50 employees on their staff.

Byrd Seems Secure As Caucus Member

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Harry Byrd, the Virginia renegade, appears in almost no danger of being forced out into the cold by Senate Democrats.

In fact, the Democrats best be wary that a snubbed Byrd doesn't voluntarily cross the aisle to join the Republicans, who would welcome the 63-year old scion of Virginia's famed political family.

Despite a resolution adopted at the Democrats' midterm convention in Memphis urging Byrd's ouster from the Democratic caucus, the conservative Independent appears secure.

Targeted at Byrd, who runs for office as an independent and then joins the Democrats, the resolution called on Senate Democrats to kick him out of the caucus, strip him of his committee assignments and deny him all priviliges which come to those who are members of the majority party.

Undoubtedly, there are Democrats in the Senate who share the feelings of those who voted for the resolution.

An attempt to purge Byrd might be a symbolic victory for doctrinaire Democrats who want to keep the party pure, but it would be a high-risk undertaking in the Senate.

Despite the 59-41 margin (Byrd included) which Democrats will hold in January, there is a growing feeling a resurgent Republican party could take control of the Senate in 1981 or 1983 for the first time in more than a generation.

Among Democrats, Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin and Sen. Dick Clark of Iowa, who was defeated this year, have publicly warned of this possibility. Assistant Senate GOP leader Ted Stevens agrees.

Given this apprehension, few Democrats would be willing to purge Byrd now and risk the possibility that in a few years he could get revenge by voting with Republicans to organize a closely-divided Senate.

In effect, Byrd — should such a scenario ever emerge — could with his vote deny every Democratic committee chairman his post and all the power and trapping that goes with being a member of

On the other hand, the risks for Byrd are minimal.

To be tossed out by the Democrats would certainly be a personal affront to him and he would lose his seniority on the Armed Services and Finance Committees where he now ranks fourth.

But in the unlikely event Senate Democrats heed the Memphis resolution, it is almost certain the GOP would invite him to join their conference.

Public Wants Budget Trimmed

NEW YORK (AP) — Inflation has forced millions of Americans to squeeze and trim their family budgets. Now the public wants the federal government to do the same with its half-trillion-dollar budget.

An Associated Press-NBC News poll found the public clamoring for reduced government spending, but divided and uncertain on where to make the cuts.

President Carter's announced determination to hold down federal spending has a tremendous amount of support from in-

Carter Family Lights Tree

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says there is hope this Christmas season that mankind "might at last learn to call even enemies brothers and sisters"

Carter, accompanied by his wife, Rosalynn, and 11-year-old daughter Amy, made the comment Thursday night before flipping the switch illuminating the National Christmas Tree. The 30-foot Colorado Blue Spruce blazed under the soft light of 1,600 gold lightbulbs.

The president used the occasion to talk of peace prospects in the Middle East.

"Two ancient enemies are on the threshold of an agreement that could bring peace to the Middle East," he said. Carter added that it is his "earnest prayer that the day will come when all children in the Middle East can play in prayer that the day will come when all children in the Middle East can play in the sunshine without fear, their young men and women can turn their energies and talents away from war and death to making the deserts fruitful."

flation-weary Americans, including blacks, the poor and even self-described liberals.

But the internal dissention within the Carter Administration over what programs to trim — and which to fatten — accurately mirrors the conflicting priorities of the public ties of the public.

About half the public says inflation has reduced their family's standard of living. Fourteen percent said the reduction had been substantial; 24 percent said there had been some forced cuts; and 13 percent said only minor changes had been neccessary. Forty-eight percent said there had been no reduction. One percent was not sure.

Having faced the squeeze on family budgets, the public wants to see the squeeze put on the federal government.

Sixty-three percent favor a substantial cut in federal spending, even if it means the federal programs they like would have to be cut. Opposed to such cuts are 27 percent of the public. Ten percent of those interviewed Monday and Tuesday were not sure.

This sentiment runs through every major group in the population, even those who some have said do not support cutbacks.

Self-described liberals, for example, back spending cuts. Those who say they are very liberal support cuts by a 56-40 margin, while those who are somewhat liberal back the cuts 62-31.

Poorer Americans have been hit harder by price increases for food, clothing and other necessities than wealthier citizens. And they also are the intended beneficiaries of major federal programs. Nevertheless, they favor spending cuts by a 60-28 edge.

Black Americans — whose leaders have been fighting to avoid cuts in some federal programs — support overall reductions by a 61-30 margin.

It is the dilemma of what to trim in the federal budget — since every program has its supporters — that the disagreements arise.

Blacks, for instance, overwhelmingly back defense cuts over cuts in Social Security, aid to education or aid to poor people.

Overall, 37 percent of the public shares that view, picking defense as the target for cuts. Seventeen percent said aid to education; 16 percent said aid to poor people; and 9 percent said Social Security. Twenty-one percent were not sure, the telephone interviews with 1,600 adults found.

But that support for defense cuts is not as firm as it might appear.

Asked about current Pentagon outlays — without reference to an overall slash in federal spending — the public says defense spending is at about the right levels. Twenty-four percent want it increased; 23 percent said it should be decreased; and 46 percent want it kept the

Looking at the figures from another perspective, the 24 percent who want the defense budget increased also favor major cuts in federal spending overall by a 63-27 gap. In other words, this group favors a bigger defense budget — but a smaller federal budget overall.

As with any sample survey, the results of the AP-NBC News poll could differ from the results of interviews with all Americans with telephones because of chance variations in the sample.

For polls with 1,600 interviews, the results should vary no more than three percentage points either way simply because of sample variations.

William Henry Harrison holds the record for the largest presidential family with 10 children.

Miller did endorse an unwavering government policy of reducing inflation. Miller said he expects the inflation rate next year to range between 6.75 percent and 7.5 percent, a little lower than 1976.

"We're facing many years of needed discipline in our economy to wring out inflation, which has become deeply embedded over the past 12 years," he said.

Economy Gets Good News

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's industries increased their output by a grow at a strong, steady pace, the government said today.

The Carter administration expects the economy to grow more slowly next year as it tries to bring down the 9.5 percent inflation rate. However, today's report showed that the economy shows no signs yet of slumping.

Rhodesians Purchase Helicopters

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) - Rhodesia says it has been able to purchase American-made helicopters for its bush war against black nationalist guerrillas despite U.N. trade sanctions barring such

"The U.S. Bell 205 helicopter is now in service with the Rhodesian air force," a military spokesman said Thursday.

The spokesman was reacting to American reports that Rhodesia has secured up to 11 Huey helicopters, the civilian ver-sion of the Bell 205A used by the United States in Vietnam,

Rhodesian officials refused to say who provided the aircraft in violation of U.N. trade sanctions imposed on Rhodesia after it declared independence from Britain

In Fort Worth, a spokesman for Bell Helicopter said his firm did not help smuggle the choppers into Rhodesia and offered to cooperate with an investigation announced by the State Department.

"We do not yet know how those helicopters might have reached Rhodesia," State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said in Washington. "We are investigating all possible routes by which Rhodesia might have obtained them.

Before the acquisition, Rhodesia's two helicopter squadrons relied on 66 aging French-made Alouette helicopters, according to the Londor-based International Institute for Strategic Studies. The Rhodesian forces, strapped for manpower, rely heavily on helicopters because the guerrillas are difficult to track and highly mobile.

The insurgents demonstrated their mobility this week by sneaking into Rhodesia's industrial area and rocketing a vast oil supply depot, which was still burning furiously today for the fifth day. Salisbury Deputy Fire Chief John Zaktrager said the blaze may be extinguished by the weekend, but all 28 tanks on the depot's compound reserved for Shell, Britsh Petroleum and Total fuel have been affected by the blaze.

The guerrilla attack was the costliest and most visible blow they have dealt Rhodesia since the war for black rule started in 1972.

To avoid a repetition in the southwestern city of Bulawayo, Rhodesia's biggest urban center after Salisbury, police an-nounced a 24-hour curfew would go into effect at the industrial sector starting to-indicator of economic strength because it measures the combined output of factories, mines and utilities. When the unemsyment rate rises it is often preceded by a decline in industrial production.

Gains were widespread among nearly all industries in November, the report by the Federal Reserve Board showed. Strong output in the auto industry contributed to a 0.5 percent increase in production of consumer goods.

However, production of home goods declined for the second month in a row because of cuts in the output of appliances and furniture. because of cuts in the output of appli-

OPEC Members Agree To Boost Price Of Oil

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates (AP) — The world oil cartel has agreed to increase the basic price of crude oil, probably between 5 and 10 percent, at its annual winter pricing meeting opening Saturday.

The increase is likely to add a half-cent to one cent a gallon to the price Americans pay for gasoline.

Oil ministers of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries say all of them have decided to raise prices to make up for the lost purchasing power of their oil revenue resulting from inflation and the drop in the value of the dollar, the currency in which oil bills are

The only question remaining for the ministers meeting behind closed doors in this Persian Gulf emirate is the size of the price boost.

A 5 percent increase in the current base price of $12.70 for a 42-gallon barrel of crude oil would bring about $7 billion a year into the OPEC members' treasuries.

Last December, members of the cartel bowed to the wishes of Saudi Arabia, OPEC's largest exporter, and froze prices for 12 months, primarily because of an oil glut on the world market.

The oil surplus has pretty much evaporated since mid-year, partly because of stockpiling by oil companies anticipating a price increase and partly because of anti-government strikes by oil workers in Iran. The OPEC secretary-general, Ali Jaidah, said today the cutback in Iranian oil will have no immediate effect on OPEC pricing, and other member nations could step up production to "alle-viate the problem" of declining Iranian

The strike has cut Iran's normal daily output of 6 million barrels to less than 2

Earlier this year, oil industry analysts were predicting OPEC would settle on a 5 percent increase. But now that the surplus has dwindled, Libyan Oil Minister Izzedin al-Mabruk, one of the cartel's more outspoken pricing hawks, says the market is ready for a stzable increase.

Iraqi Oil Minister Tayeh Abdul Karim, another price hawk, said his government

Terrorists Shoot Italian Policemen

TURIN, Italy (UPI) - A Red Brigades urban guerrilla attack squad killed two policemen in Turin today and a bank president and another policeman were wounded elsewhere in a new explosion of political violence.

Police sources in Rome speculated the killings in Turin may have been carried out in retaliation for the formal charges filed against 14 Red Brigades members in connection with the Moro assassination.

The new charges were filed Thursday after investigators said they had proof the same Red Brigades team that killed Moro also gunned down a Rome magistrate, wounded a former local politician and attacked a national police barracks.

The companies have 30 days in which to discuss the alleged violations with the EPA, and if they continue beyond the 30 days, the EPA will issue criminal sanc-

He said Marathon's annual emission is estimated to be 374 tons of hydrocarbon, compared with an estimated EPA allowable emission of 37 tons; Clark's emission rate is 76 tons against 8 tons allowable, and Continental's rate is 81 tons against 8 tons allowable. The allowable figures vary for each company under a compli-cated system the EPA has set up, he said.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you, but I am. David, our son, a junior in an eastern college, phoned to tell us that he's bringing his girlfriend Ju-dy home for Christmas. She's a sophomore and we've never met her.

We have only one guest room with twin beds. My husband and I sleep in a king-sized bed, so I said, "Fine. You and Dad can sleep together in our room, and Judy can sleep with me in the guest room."

David laughed and replied, "No way. You and Dad can sleep in the twin beds, and Judy and I will sleep in your room."

Abby, I don't tell our 20-year-old son how to live when he's away in college, but I just can't see him sleeping with this girlfriend in our home — especially with his Dad and me right in the next room.

He thinks I'm square, Am I?
MENOMINEE MOM

Dear Mom: If you're square, I'm in all four of your corners.

DEAR ABBY: This is the second marriage for both of us. We both have grown children, so we had papers drawn up to be sure that everything from our first marriages will go to our own children.

I sold my house (at his request) and moved into his with the understanding that if anything happened to him the house would promptly go to his children.

I do all the cooking, cleaning and laundry — in addition to holding down an outside job. I buy all the groceries, had cable TV installed and even take turns paying for meals when we eat out. We bought all new furniture for which I paid half. I also pay for any long distance calls I make. He agreed to pay the water and electric bills, but now he wants me to pay half because he says the bills are too high. When we have words (always about money) he either goes to his daughter's house for two or three days, or leaves town. Do you think I'm getting a fair deal, Abby? I'm tired of being a patsy. What

NO NAMES PLEASE

Dear No Names: Since you make no mention of your feelings for this man, your marriage sounds like a business deal a bad one. All you have to invest is time and money. And at this stage of your life, time is more important than money. Walk.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was mar-ried recently. She had a lovely church wedding, followed by a dinner and reception attended by 224 guests.

All the wedding festivities were, planned carefully and everything went beautifully. The only part that caused us a great deal of trouble was that many guests brought gifts to the wedding. The bride's family has enough to do without worrying about how to get a carload of gifts home after the wedding reception!

Please say something in your column about this. Why, oh, why do people bring gifts to the wedding?
MOTHER OF THE BRIDE

Dear Mother: Because it's easier - for THEM. Wedding gifts should either be sent to the bride's home before the wedding, or to the couple's home after they return from the honeymoon.

A bumper crop of new photography books offers solutions for last-minute gift-giving this Christmas for camera

They are convenient compact packages of inspiration and information which can be chosen to suit the giver's budget and the recipient's area of interest. Here are some titles to look for:

"Sudek" by Sonja Bullaty, with an introduction by Anna Farova, (published by Clarkson Potter, N.Y. $25), is a hauntingly beautiful collection of 80 photographs by a Czech contemporary of Steichen, Atget, Man Ray and Stieglitz.

Sudek's artistry is all the more remarkable considering the fact that he lost his right arm in World War I. Despite the handicap, he became known as the Poet of Prague.

Sonja Bullaty became Sudek's assistant after her release from a German concentration camp at the end of World War II. Photography became her destiny too under his influence. Their friendship continued after she arrived in the United States and made potography her profes-

Q. I intend to paint several rooms in our house within the next few weeks. Some years ago when I tried my hand at painting, I used a brush and a stepladder. This time I want to try a paint roller and scaffolding. I have two stepladders and want to buy a scaffold plank to put between them. What size plank should I

A. The use of a plank, placed across the steps of two ladders, is usually recommended because it does away with the chore of going up and down the stepladder to move it every few minutes. While this is true, it fails to take into account that the two ladders and plank also must be moved quite a few times, and that this movement is a little more difficult than simply moving a stepladder. I have al-ways found it just as easy to use a single stepladder for an ordinary room with the usual 8-foot ceiling. However, if you want to buy a plank, it should be about 10 feet long. Tell the lumber dealer how it is to be used and he will give you the proper kind and size. If you buy the paint and other supplies at the lumber yard, there is a possibility the dealer might let you borrow a plank. Some large paint stores carry such planks for lending or renting.

I had be brush especially for shellac and didn't use it for anything else, so I can't see what went wrong. What is your advice?

A. It sounds very much as though you cleaned the brush with turpentine, which is fine for paint but not for shellac. The solvent for shellac is denatured alcohol. which must also be used for cleaning the brush. You are right in keeping that brush only for shellac.

nalyst Says Consumers Share Inflation Blame

By JOHN CUNNIFF NEW YORK (AP) — In the final analysis, the consumer isn't always the helpless, hapless victim of inflation. Some-times he and she must share blame for prolonging the problem of rising prices. Their power to do so, in fact, can be seen currently in the strength of retail sales, in the amount of credit being ex-tended, in home sales, and in the inten-tions to buy so-called big ticket items Willingness to buy remains strong, no matter what consumers are telling survey-takers. And so, apparently, does the ability to buy, even if to do so means availing oneself of "easy" credit terms. November retail sales are now believed to have grown 2 percent to $68.6 billion.

Earlier, they had grown in August, September and October. And few analysts expect anything but another gain in De-

Formula Recalled By Agency

DETROIT (AP) - The federal government has suspended distribution of a baby formula distributed by the government that may have caused diarrhea among children in Detroit, Washington and Des Moines, the Agriculture Department said.

In a news release issued here, department spokesman Frank Johnson said none of the formula in question is sold in stores but is distributed only through the government's Commodity Supplemental Food Program.

The formula in question was given to low income families last summer only on a medical prescription, he said.

According to the director of a Detroit social service and civil rights organization, the recall was triggered by complaints from women in Detroit about diarrhea among their children.

The Rev. Walter Cunningham, director of Focus Hope, said about 6,000 cases of the formula had been distributed in the Detroit area since August. He said over 90 percent of the formula had been accounted for since then.

Because the formula had been in homes since last summer, most of the missing formula had probably been used up, Cunningham said.

The priest said he notified USDA officials, and technicians were then sent in to test the formula. On Monday, Cunningham said, he was informed that bacteria had been found in some of the material tested and the order to stop further use of the formula was issued by USDA.

Johnson said the recall was issued after the tests showed some problems with coagulation and fat separation in the ior-mula, made by Baker-Beechnut Co.

He estimated that about 4,500 babies in the Focus Hope program had been given the formula since last summer. He said it should be easy for families involved to check their shelves to see if they had any of the questioned formula on hand. He said it bore a Commodity Supplemental Food Program label and one of three numbers, 178, 278 or 378.

But they have bought. They have dug into savings and into lines of credit to do so. Cynically, perhaps, they have adopted the philosophy that if prices are high today, they will be higher tomorrow.

There is a second awareness inherent in the attitude — that in repaying loans they will be using cheaper dollars; and that, besides, interest paid is an income tax deductible. Throughout the fall, government and private sector economists have been watching to see when interest rates would rise high enough to slow the de-mand for housing. But what slowdown has occurred is so far minor.

Usury laws limiting home mortgage rates to less than 10 percent exist in 17 states, slowing some commercial mort-gage activity. But in many instances sales continue, with the seller granting the

While President Carter and G. William Miller, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, expect the downturn to be soft, some private sector economists are convinced a recession is coming late next

And consumers will lead that downturn, the economists say, explaining there is a point beyond which buyers cannot continue to buy, when fear, anger or snapping of credit lines forces them from the marketplace.

They go a step further: The downturn, if it comes, will be worsened by the extent to which it is delayed. And one of the primary reasons for the delay, they say, is the consumer's persistence in buying.

In a sense, the consumer therefore might be admired for persistence, and for the ability to extract credit from sometimes reluctant lenders in order to fuel the persistence, but the effort comes

Oil Firms Turn Out Record Amount

By MARK POTTS

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's oil companies turned out a record amount of gasoline last week to meet the current supply squeeze that the Department of Energy says is the result of too-stiff price regulation.

The squeeze has sent prices up and caused spot shortages in the past month, paricularly of unleaded gasoline.

The refiners produced 7.81 million barrels of gasoline a day last week, beating the previous week's record of 7.77 million barrels daily, the American Petroleum Institute, a trade group, said this week. The production binge raised gasoline inventories by more than 5 million barrels to 228.8 million barrels.

Tight supplies, particularly of unleaded gasoline, have caused Shell Oil Co., the nation's largest gas producer, to ration the amount of the fuel it sells dealers to 85 percent of previous levels. Standard Oil of Indiana (Amoco) is limiting the amount of unleaded fuel it sells to service stations.

Other firms also report some supply problems, although they have not yet begun allocating their gas. The firms say supplies are tight because of unusually high demand this year and because government price regulations discourage the construction of new refineries

Department of Energy officials confirm that consumption has been unexpectedly high and agree with the companies' complaints about regulations. "The lack of incentives arise from our regulations," said John F. O'Leary, deputy secretary of energy. "I have to agree, they're

The refiners are making a lot of money," he added, "and they're putting it into things that make money." Refineries are poor investments, the firms say, because regulations allow wholesale price increases to reflect only increases in refining costs.

The Energy Department is expected to ask Congress early next year to lift price controls on gasoline. But such a request - which must be endorsed by President Carter - is expected to encounter rough sailing, particularly in the wake of the current supply problems.

O'Leary says bad will generated by the supply situation will make deregulation harder to get past Congress, and a supply pinch now would have been the last thing

Deregulation is expected to lead to a price increase of about 4 cents per gallon, and O'Leary said the increase could be greater if gas is deregulated while supplies are still tight because of supply and emand pressures.

Those pressures have already led to higher retail gasoline prices in the past month. Although the oil companies have not raised their wholesale prices — Shell has lowered its price a penny a gallon since Dec. 1 — service stations, faced with shorter supplies, are raising their prices. The gas stations are restricted in how much money they can make over costs, but most are running below their maximum legal profit level because of competitive pressure. The oil companies say they have not been the beneficiaries of recent price increases because the increases have been at the dealer level. Refiners can only increase wholesale prices as their costs in-

Christmas Tree Plantings Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) - A conservationist group urged Americans Wednesday to buy live Christmas trees and plant them as a way of reforesting the earth.

Evergreen Ecology said a Christmas tree has a much greater chance of surviv-ing if it is not brought into a warm home but is, instead, decorated in the yard after planting.

Planting the trees helps the water table, prevents erosion, purifies the air, provides a habitat for wildlife and creates noise buffers, the group said. Most im-

Ford Challenges Federal Fuel Standards

DETROIT (AP) - Ford Motor Co., already squeezed by federal fuel economy standards for 1979 cars, has asked the government to ease up on its demands for the 1980s.

The company this week challenged what it called the "assumptions" of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration that fuel economy goals for 1985 could be attained without causing more harm than good.

Already in the 1979 model year, Ford has had to boost prices on its bigger, fuelhungry cars to discourage motorists from buying them.

Automakers' 1979 cars must get an average of 19 miles per gallon across each company's annual production. The number climbs to 27.5 mpg by 1985.

"We believe that the time has come to reassess fuel economy standards so they better reflect the full range of consumers' complex and varied interests in price, fuel economy, utility, performance, size, choice," said executive vice president Fred G. Secrest.

Secrest's statement was submitted to NHTSA in advance of a Jan. 15 report by the agency to Congress on whether the annually escalating fuel economy standards can be met.

Ford and the other automakers have vowed to meet whatever standards are set. Since the current standards were put; in place, the industry has refrained from specifically asking relief.

No standards have been set beyond 1985, but automakers have complained their resources are already being stretched to the limit.

Transportation Secretary Brock Adams served notice earlier this month that he wants average fuel economy in the 50 mpg range by the turn of the century.

But Secrest, in an apparent reference to Ford's difficulties in getting motorists to give up the bigger gas-guzzlers, said Americans won't stand for stiffer re-

The doctors at Peter Bent Brigham re-

The doctors at Peter Bent Brigham reduced the death rate by cutting back on those drugs, which allowed the body to fight infection, while at the same time giving a single powerful dose of antibiotics during the operation. They said the change in drugs did not increase the risk that the kidney would be rejected.

With the new improvements, the doctors wrote: "The danger of dying from complications attendant to transplantation can be reduced considerably. Thus.

tion can be reduced considerably. Thus, this form of treatment of end-stage renal failure has become an attractive alternative to chronic dialysis for increasing numbers of patients." Dr. Nicholas Tilney, who wrote the journal report, said in an interview: "In the past, we tried many times to save a kidney ... at the risk of the patient. Now it's just the opposite way around.

"If the kidney works, that's super, and it gets people off dialysis and allows them to return to quite a normal life. If it doesn't work, we haven't harmed them, and they can go back on dialysis and come back another day if they want to."

Dialysis, the cleansing of the blood by machine, is the only alternative to transplants for patients whose kidneys have failed. Dialysis requires eight-hour treatment sessions three times a week.

About 37,000 Americans now undergo dialysis, and the number is expected to grow by 50 percent within the next six or Tilney said transplants are "a treatment alternative for a chronic and hitherto terminal disease. If you have a good kidney, for as many years as it will last you can live essentially a normal life. On dialysis, you can still live a perfectly respectable life, but it is inconvenient, unpleasant and painful."

Until recently, however, the death rate in people receiving transplants was high. Through 1974, 26 percent of those who received the organs from dead donors died within one year of their operation.

Infection was the main culprit. The doctors said that in 1972, 25 percent of the patients' operations became infected.

the patients' operations became infected. By 1976, they had reduced the infection rate to 2 percent.

Of 186 patients who received new kidneys at the hospital during the past four years, only seven died within a year.

By CHARLES S. TAYLOR

ATLANTA (UPI) - New information bout the Legionnaires' disease bacterium has made it clear the world must deal with an organism microbiologists did not expect to encounter.

Dr. William Foege, director of the national Center for Disease Control, says medical scientists must give Legion-naires' disease "an extraordinary amount of time until we can define it."

Foege, referring to a recent interna-

ease, at the CDC, said "it was clear in hearing the papers that we're dealing with something that was unexpected in the field of microbiology.

We have to pursue this to see if there are related fields in microbiology that were opened up by this discovery.

Foege said there are lots of illnesses that are still not clearly classified. "We just don't know if we're going to solve some other mysteries or not," he said.

More than 500 medical scientists from 33 countries attended the three-day symposium on Legionnaires' disease, where the world's most recently discovered type of pneumonia was given the medical name "Legionella Pneumophila." Researchers presented about 55 papers dealing with their investigation of the ill-

"Never before have we learned so much about an organism within the first two years of isolating it," Foege said in an interview.

"In many ways it's been unique. With many diseases, we understood something about the disease's clinical characteristics ... the epidemiology ... before an or-ganism was ever isolated. With Legionnaires' disease, we started from zero in

"Since that time, we've really made great strides in understanding the micro-biology ... knowing something about the organism, how it grows, certainly about its epidemiology, and in two years we've characterized a fairly wide spectrum of clinical illness

"I think it's equally obvious that we've just scratched the surface in all of these

Dr. David Fraser said the Legionnaire's bacterium is an organism that behaves as an "opportunistic infection" - striking people when they are already down with other major, underlying illnesses.

Some scientists attending the symposium questioned the wisdom of putting too high a priority on further investigation of Legionnaires' disease since present evidence indicates it causes less than 2 percent of pneumonia cases in this

Foege said, however, that investigators are still trying to define how big a priority Legionnaires' disease should receive. "It's a bit early to compare it with other pneumonias," he said.

Fraser cited investigative milestones since the Legionnaires' disease bacterium was first identified in January, 1977. They included discovery that the antibiotic erythromycin is effective in fighting the infection and that the disease spreads through the air in many instances and does not seem readily transmissible from person to person.

Outbreaks of the ailment, it has been revealed, have occurred in other countries besides the United States.

The organism lives in the environment, reseachers have found, and on occasion it has caused infection after being spread from air conditioning cooling towers and

Education Save Lives

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - I read about the Heimlich method but I didn't absorb it. Now I wish I had. Yesterday at noon I was eating a hot dog on a hot dog bun when a piece of something got caught in my throat. It was like the breath had been knocked out of me. I couldn't inhale at all. I didn't make any choking or gagging noises. I couldn't make a sound. I jumped up and leaned forward and kept trying to exhale the best I could. I finally got it dislodged or I guess I wouldn't be sitting here writting to you today. The only ones witnessing all of this were my three children, ages 11, 9 and 5. I was petrified over this incident and so were my chidren. Could you please send me some information on the Heimlich method? I want to learn all I can on this life saving procedure and teach it to my children if they are old enough.

DEAR READER - I'm afraid most people don't think health information is very important until they need it. Often it is too late then as it could have been in your case. I am continually impressed that health education saves lives.

The basic principle behind the Heimlich maneuver is to consider the two lungs as large inflated air bags connected to your wind pipe at the back of your throat. If you are able to squeeze those inflated lungs in some way so that it forces air out the wind pipe, it helps to dislodge whatever is in the throat. You can consider the food that lodged in the back of the throat as a cork in a bottle. What you are trying to do is pop out the cork.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-4, Save A Life, Heart and Lung Arrest. It includes in it a discussion of the Heimlich procedure. A modification of it can be used on an unconscious patient who is lying flat. You could also use a modification of it on yourself. You did do the right thing by trying to exhale, forcing the air out around that food cork in the back of your throat probably helped to dislodge it.

You can learn, though, to press on your abdomen just below the breast bone vigorously and sharply at the same time you are exhaling. This pressure pushes the diaphragm up and squeezes the lungs and makes it a little easier to dislodge the food.

There is another method which has been advocated recently which simply involves getting hold of the tongue and pulling it out rather far. If you can pull the tongue out far enough, it helps to elevate the obstruction in the back of the throat and may enable you to reach back and pull out the food bolus.

The Health Letter I am sending you also provides the basic information on how to administer artificial respiration and how to provide heart compression through the chest as an emergency procedure. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

People who know how to do these things often have the opportunity to save lives. If your friends know how to do it, they may even have an opportunity to save yours. Community Red Cross and Heart Association often give courses on these procedures for the public.

Medicare Claims Bidding Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP) - A panel of government officials is urging the abolition of a system that permits hospitals and nursing homes to decide what insurance diaries they wish to use in handling Medicare claims.

Instead, the 14-member Department of Health, Education and Welfare panel said in an internal study, the government should switch to competitive bidding on all Medicare contracts.

For 13 years, health care facilities have allowed to nominate or "elect" what insurance intermediaries they wish to work through on Medicare claims. Most have chosen the Blue Cross Association.

Currently, the 67 Blue Cross plans and all other insurers are paid whatever it controversy surrounding them, the organization said, but nearly 2 million others still take them.

Dr. Sidney Wolfe, director of the group, told Dr. James Sammons, executive director of the American Medical Association, that he should urge AMA members "not to prescribe these drugs to the large numbers of overweight diabetics for whom such therapy represents malpractice.

Wolfe also released a letter he sent the Food and Drug Administration, saying it should require such drugs to contain warnings to patients. The FDA has proposed including warnings in the information doctors receive about drugs. In addition, the FDA renently released an audit it said supported a controversial study showing some of the drugs were linked to an increased risk of death from heart attack and stroke. The FDA pubcomment which is now under way.

Wolfe and other critics of the drug have contended that proper diet and weight loss is better therapy for diabetics than the oral drugs.

While the reduction in use of the drugs, Wolfe said, is "cause for considerable optimism, it means that 1% million diabetics are still using these pills which may be responsible for thousands of deaths a year and which Americans spent about $200 million on in 1977.

"FDA needs to warn those still on these drugs through patient information sheets, rather than merely warning their doctors with the proposed new doctor labeling," he added. The drugs still in use include tolbutamide, tolazamide, chlorpropamide and ace-

About 40 firefighters from the neighboring communities worked for more than four hours to extinguish the flames but decided around 6 p.m. to move the trailers into nearby fields to burn themselves out.

Firefighters, the gin's crew and area farmers kept an all-night vigil over the trailers. Much of the cotton was still smoldering today, and another trailer burst into flames this morning.

Joy Blasingame, bookkeeper for the gin, said the gin's management would not be surprised if other fires erupted. We're just letting them (the trailers) that of the 38 trailers that burned probably no more than four were salvageable. Wooden trailers were completely destroyed, he said, and few metal trailers were usable.

Fry estimated that perhaps $2,000 could be salvaged from the four trailers. Damage estimates do not include the trailer found burning this morning. Most officials felt the fire originated inside one of the trailers of cotton brought to the gin for processing. The fire is be-lieved to have smoldered inside the trailer for several hours before finally reaching the outside layer of cotton and spreading rapidly to the adjoining trail-

Spent Shotgun Shells Fired From Gun In Boy's Closet

HASKELL (AP) - Six spent shotgun shells - found in a gas tank near a house where three members of a West Texas family were shot to death last January came from a shotgun found in the closet of 17-year-old Roy Glenn Swink, a firearms examiner says.

Swink is being tried here for the slaying of his brother, Royce, 14, but also is charged with the deaths of his father, Hermon Welon Swink, 38, and his expectant stepmother, Ilene Swink, 27.

Allen Jones of the Dallas County Forensic Laboratory testified Thursday that markings on the shells pinpointed them as having come from the defendant's

At most, a "small number" of volunteer bus riders may wind up with different teachers, he said. If that happens, those students - having served their required semester of sister-school reassignment - may transfer back to their neighborhood schools.

Also sent to the school board was a report on student enrollment at Dunbar-Struggs High, a magnet school. The study said that after first-quarter changes, the Dunbar-Struggs enrollment stands at 803 students - 45 percent white, 31 percent black and 24 percent Mexican-American.

This report is particularly encouraging because, of those students who transferred to Dunbar-Struggs from Coronado and Monterey for vocational courses, only three elected to return to their home schools at the end of the first quarter."

Mix-Up Averted SST Landing

An apparent mix-up about the availa-bility of equipment at Lubbock International Airport caused Braniff International officials to scuttle the scheduled Lubbock landing of the Concorde supersonic

Homer Chapman, Braniff's Lubbock airport manager, called the last-minute cancellation "strictly a matter of ground support," explaining that Lubbock did not have a stairway tall enough to allow passengers to deplane, and that power units necessary to start the big plane's engines were not readily available.

The British Airways-owned Concorde is on a 16-day promotional tour of the southwest and earlier this week landed in airports in Amarillo and Midland-Odessa.

Braniff used makeshift equipment when the Concorde landed Wednesday in Amarillo and used "Jetways" (enclosed bridges) to deplane passengers when the supersonic plane stopped Tuesday in Midland-Odessa, said Chapman.

In Amarillo, Braniff borrowed a stairway from Trans World Airways, strapped it to a truck and placed a platform atop the stairs, said Chapman. Midland-Odessa airport manager Wilson Banks said passengers deplaned through the new Jetways "with no problems at all."

Although both methods were considered for the aborted Lubbock landing, they were discarded as impractical, said a Braniff spokesman in the airline's Dallas office. He cited excess engine noise as one reason for rejection of the Jetways.

Chapman also said he thought the Lubbock airport did not have available power units to start the Concorde's engines. He said he had planned on importing such units from Reese Air Force Base before Braniff decided against bringing the plane to the city.

But according to airline maintenance crews with Continental, Southwest and Braniff, several power units capable already are at the airport. The crews indicated that Southwest and Braniff both have complete units and that Southwest and Continental share another. The units, which consist of air pressure units and electric power generators, can produce easily more than enough power to start the Concorde,"a maintenance spokesman said.

Pete Nikolai, a Continental maintenance crew member who started the Concorde while it was in Midland-Odessa, said that any unit that could start a standard 727 or 737 jet could start the supersonic Concorde. He added that the Continental crew had in fact started the supersonic plane with a standard power unit. Continental furnished the Midland-Odessa crew because Braniff does not presently serve Midland-Odessa.

Marvin Coffee, head of Lubbock's aviation department, said he was "incensed

Jerry Cox, Braniff's vice president in charge of publicity, agreed with Coffee, saying "Lubbock offered us every consideration." He said he was sorry the plane couldn't have landed here, but that "time ran out on the plane and the tour." Cox indicated that Lubbock would be a high-priority alternate landing site for the supersonic plane once it begins service to Dallas-Fort Worth in January.

As to whether Braniff gets the equ ment it considers necessary for the Concorde to land here in time for the airport to be used as an alternate, he said Braniff "will take a look at the situation as it gets closer to the January starting date."

Coffee was optimistic that, despite the problems getting the big bird here on the tour, Braniff would indeed use Lubbock as an alternate. "We certainly should be a high-priority alternate, in terms of our equipment, our runways, our terminal and our distance from Dallas-Fort Worth," he said.

Dallas Police Test Suspects

IRVING (AP) - Lie detector tests will be given today, for the second straight day, to check the stories of two men arrested in Fort Worth Thursday "in relation to" last weekend's sniper slayings of two persons on Texas 183 near the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

Until the arrests, police had reported few clues, despite rewards that had mounted to more than $20,000 to find the killer of Steven Thomas Gaulden, 12, of Plano and Raymond Douglas Andrews, 43, of Arlington.

Police arrested two men, ages 20 and 21. about 2:30 p.m. Thursday in Fort Worth, reportedly after receiving a tip by telephone, and the pair was arraigned in Fort Worth for investigation of murder and jailed in Irving under $35,000 bond "You're on the right track. They are in custody in relation to this (the sniper slayings)," Irving police chief Bennie Newman said.

But we are not calling these guys the snipers. If these were real prime suspects, I'd still be out there questioning them. I don't want to mislead you, but we just aren't sure yet," Newman said.

Polygraph tests were administered to them Thursday after their arrest: a second test is being given, "evidently because the first one wasn't any good or was inconclusive," a police spokesman

quatters Inhabit Quake Ruins

By ALFONSO CHARDY

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) - When Erving and Juana Pena went looking for a new home in Managua they did pretty much what an ordinary couple does walk through the buildings, check the walls and roof and size up the back yard.

They settled on the one they live in because its walls seemed fairly sturdy, it had a whole city block for a back yard, was only three blocks from the nearest water tap and above all was free and empty.

The next day they moved in and joined the hundreds of "terremoteados" - the earthquake people - squatters of a strange kind who live in the eerie ruins left by the 1972 earthquake that killed 8,-000 people

We are squatters in the ruins of downtown Managua," said Erving, 31. leaning against a table on the dirt floor of his 'house" - the cracked-walled garage of what once was a plush house in the San Sebastian neighborhood.

But we are not squatters by choice. I don't like living here in constant fear that the walls may crumble on us. But I don't have a job and so we cannot pay rent."

The garage is the only part of the house standing — though perilously. The rest was rocked into rubble by the colossal power of the quake. And so was every other structure on the block. And so were all but a handful of buildings in the heart of Managua.

Overnight on Dec. 23, 1972, Managua changed from an active if somewhat seedy Central American city of 350,000 to a 275,000-person suburb ringing a flat-tened hole seemingly devoid of almost all human activity.

New construction has gone up in what used to be the outskirts of the city - low brick and cement buildings and houses with the look of a Miami suburb - but little has been rebuilt in the center.

From hills overlooking the city, the mile-square earthquake zone now looks like a real estate developer's dream - a sea of empty, treeless lots covered with weeds and crisscrossed by seldom-travelled streets.

But a closer look at the few ruins precariously standing reveals families living under almost cracked roof and on shelters built on the side of many walls.

In a cracked structure that once was a multi-level parking lot, "terremoteados" live in the different floors like tenants in a crowded apartment complex. Another group crowds into what used to be a Texaco gasoline station, the rusted metal shells of discarded fuel pumps flattened out for makeshift doors and loose bricks piled haphazardly to cover the once large glass windows.

Most of the squatters are people who lost their homes in the earthquake and afterward moved into any structure that was left standing, disregarding discomforts and the danger of collapses from quake-weakened roofs.

Others are allowed to live in the shells by their owners so they can guard what is left and still others, like the Penas, are newcomers who do not want to pay rent and move into any standing structure.

Until he lost his job as a waiter in a Managua coffee house earlier this year. Erving, Juana, their three daughters and Juana's aging mother lived in a wooden shack on the ouskirts of the city where he paid $35 rent a month.

When they moved in there was no roof over the garage but the Penas built one with cardboard and wood. Without water or electricity, they must walk three blocks to the nearest water tap in a public park and get light at night from a gas

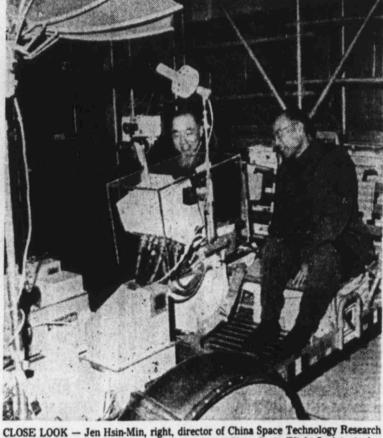

Their furniture consists of four wooden cots - one for Erving and Juana, one for the three girls, one for grandmother and one "for visitors" - arranged around a brick stove used for cooking the daily diet of rice and beans.

Thanks to Managua's tropical weather it never gets very cold but the Penas complain about abundant mosquitos and occasional scorpions and snakes.

Why wasn't central Managua rebuilt? President Anastasio Somoza recently said that it was because of a "lack of funds," and some officials say that it's because no one wants to live there for fear of another earthquake. But there have been allegations that Somoza and his close associates pocketed most of the international funds that poured into Managua in the wake of the earthquake to rebuild the city. And some cynics say Somoza wants to keep the houseless, treeless area just that way because it offers little cover for anyone attacking his bombproof presidential offices on the western edge of the earthquake zone.

Searchers Fail To Find Trace Of Missing Airplane, Pilot

two months ago, a single-engine plane flying over Australia vanished as its 20year-old pilot raved about a long object with "four bright lights" chasing him.

Aviation officials admitted they still do not know how, why or if the plane was overtaken by an unidentified flying object, or if the entire incident was a hoax. Since October 21, when Frederich Valentich disappeared under bizarre circumstances, officials have searched a 10,-000 square-mile area without finding a trace of the pilot or plane. Valentich was flying from Melbourne's Moorabbin Airport to King Island, 130 miles across the Bass Strait sparating Tasmania from mainland Australia. Aviation spokesman Ken Williams said Thursday, "Officially the file is still open in the absence of a body or a plane. We have not found anything at all relative to the disappearance of the aircraft." During the final minutes of radio communication with Air Traffic Control, Valentich reported a large aircraft flying at below 5,000 feet altitude, but said he could not identify it.

He told the tower, "It has four bright lights, appear to be landing lights. Air-In Assault Charge eraft has just passed over me about 1,000 eet above

"It's not an aircraft. It's..." The transnission then broke off.

Two minutes later Valentich came through again saying, "Melbourne, it's approaching from due east toward me. It seems to be playing some sort of game ... flying at a speed I cannot estimate.

"It is flying past ... It is a long shape ... Cannot identify more than that... Coming for me right now ... It seems to be stationary ... I'm orbiting and the thing is orbiting on top of me also ... It has a green light and sort of metallic light on the out-

Avalanche-Journal Staff CROSBYTON - America relies too much on rapidly diminishing fossil fuel sources and before long will have to turn to alternate energy measures, House Majority Leader Jim Wright warned local, state and national officials here Thurs-

Wright, who spoke at ceremonies for the official opening of the Crosbyton Solar Energy Project, added, "If the economics of this project prove out, it would be a significant breakthrough not only for

West Texas but for all of America." The congressman called solar power the ultimate answer to the nation's energy problem. "Some people say that spending money on solar energy is a waste of money, and perhaps they're right," he said. "But, we won't know un-

District Judge Dismisses Smoking Suit

U.S. Dist. Judge Halbert O. Woodward Thursday dismissed a federal suit rought by a Reese Air Force Base employee who complained of having to work in areas where others smoke tobacco. A separate damages suit brought by plaintiff Shirley Wassom, 44, is still pending, however, In the suit ordered dismissed, Mrs. Wassom, who says she becomes physically ill when exposed to tobacco smoke, had asked for an injunction ordering a revisal and clarification of Air Force and Department of Defense rules pertaining to smoking, so that individuals could work in a smoke-free environment. She had also sought authority to work in a smoke-free area. Woodward said in a dismissal order that no federal question was present in the suit "No statutory or common law cause has been asserted; nor does one exist. The plaintiff does not have a constitutional right to work in a smoke-free environment." the order said in part. The federal court suit was filed Sept.

The longtime Fort Worth representative called the project's groundbreaking a day that is an "important milestone in the history of the United States." He added it was an especially great day for Crosbyton and West Texas.

Dr. Bennett Miller of the Department of Energy scooped up the first shovel of dirt for the project. Noting that cloudy skies and rain usually mar dedications, he said he considered Thursday's abundant sunshine a good omen for the feder-ally-funded Analog Design Verification System (ADVS), located two miles south of Crosbyton. This community of 2,500 is proud of the $2.5 million project, which is being designed by Texas Tech University engineers through a contract with the U.S. Department of Energy. About 500 local residents showed up to watch local, Tech and national dignitaries break ground for the 65-foot mirrored dish, expected to be the largest single solar collector ever

Tech officials say actual construction of the project - a scaled-down model of 10 200-foot solar gridirons planned eventually for the site - will begin in February and take approximately 10 months to

Ironically, the groundbreaking coincided with another significant event in American history - the diamond anniversary of the successful flight of the

Wright brothers. Wright had been scheduled to make the breaking, but his flight was delayed in Dallas, and he missed the hour-long ceremony. He later addressed local and national officials at a luncheon.

Following the luncheon, Wright joined Miller; George Witt, mayor of Crosbyton; T.J. Taylor, former mayor pro-tem of Crosbyton; Dr. John D. Reichert, project director: Norton Barrett, Crosbyton city secretary; Roy K. Furr Jr. of the Texas Tech Board of Regents; and Congressmen-elect Kent Hance and Charles Stenholm for a "second" groundbreaking at the test site, situated across from the Crosbyton Municipal Airport.

"It's a great day for the people of Crosbyton, and I hope that this project will be just one of many to be located in the Sun Belt," Witt said.

Miller called the undertaking the beginning of the solar age for the nation.

The solar collector, which will be tilted to the south, will help gather sunlight to heat water to 1,000 degree steam which then will drive a turbine. The turbine will turn a generator to produce electricity. The system is designed to eventually reduce the town's energy costs and dependence on fossil fuels.

The project is the single largest research project ever undertaken at Tech, Dr. Reichert said. He reported that more than 30 faculty members and many graduate students from eight departments at the university are currently working on

E-Systems in Garland is the primary subcontractor for the Crosbyton project. A solar project in France is the only other one in the world similar to Crosbyton's, but the French project is on a

Probers Fail To Uncover Identity Of Child Killer

DETROIT (UPI) — A task force investigation into the ritualistic slayings of four children in Detroit's affluent northern suburbs ended in frustrated disapointment today with the identity of the killer still a mystery.

The unique federally and locally funded and computer-aided police task force formed two years ago to catch the Oak-land County child killer closed up shop without achieving its goal.

"I think we had to do the best we could, and I don't know what more you could ask," said State Police Lt. Robert Robertson, who directed the investiga tion from a private school in suburban Beverly Hills, Mich.

"I don't have any fear of closing down," he said. "We have to close down. You can't go on forever."

The case began Feb. 15, 1976, with the disappearance of Mark Stebbins, 12, of Ferndale. He was found strangled four days later.

Jill Robinson, 12, of Royal Oak, vanished Dec. 22, 1976. She was found shot to death four days later.

The third victim, Kristine Mihelich, 10. of Berkley, was last seen Jan. 2, 1977. Her body was found 19 days later. She had Timothy King, 11, of Birmingham, disappeared March 16, 1977. Five days later, he was found suffocated.

The two boys were sexually assaulted. All the victims were kept alive in seclusion for several days before their deaths. Their bodies were cleaned and their nails manicured before they were dumped along roadsides or in a parking lot. All four abductions occurred after a snow-

The killer has not struck since, but concerned citizens in wealthy communities once considered havens from crime are not convinced the threat has passed.

The task force originated in January 1977 and included 134 investigators from area police departments and 25 state policemen at its peak.

Even though the task force is disbanding, its work was not a "total loss," Robertson said.

"Obviously we failed when you talk about only one portion of the investigation, that being the apprehension of the Oakland County child killer," he said. "But I think the task force itself has generated enough concern in child mo-lesting that we put a little bit of emphasis on that particular problem in our socie-

The group uncovered a host of other crimes, most of them sexual, Robertson said. Information dug up by the task force and given to Indiana State Police helped crack a five-state child pornogra-

The task force also used a computer system to process information that has become a model for other states. A special reference manual has been printed for use in similar investigations.

But, Robertson conceded, "The com-

CHICAGO (UPI) — American-Soviet tensions may abound over the arms race, human rights and influence grabbing around the world, but detente is flourishing in the baby food industry.

Two Chicago area companies are helping the Soviets launch a baby food industry in Moscow — an issue that reportedly was mentioned prominently in the current Soviet five-year plan.

"Formula and pre-made baby foods are basically non-existent there," said Thomas Craig, a spokesman for Abbott Laboratories of North Chicago,

Officials said the Sovie: move toward mass produced baby food could be linked to its industrialization. They privately speculate Soviet concerns about infant nutrition and the time pressures and productivity of working mothers may be behind the baby food push.

Abbott has a contract with the Soviet Ministry of Meat and Dairy Products to build and get into operation a factory in Balta in the Ukraine to produce 40 tons daily of its Similac baby formula.

Similac, made of vitamins, milk and other nutrients to approximate a mother's natural milk, is the most widely used bottle formula in the United States, company officials said.

Harmful Fluorocarbons Emitted By Volcanoes

VOLCANOES NATIONAL PARK, Hawaii (AP) - Madame Pele, the Hawaiian goddess of the volcano, may have some surprises for the Environmental Protection Agency, the office that sets safe limits for potentially harmful chemicals.

Studies at Hawaiian Volcanoes National Park show that its active volcanoes may emit halocarbons, a chemical group that includes fluorocarbons, which are suspected of being harmful to the atmosphere's ozone layer.

That layer shields the Earth from the sun's ultraviolet rays, which can cause skin cancer.

The two volcanoes are 4,090-foot Kilauea, which last erupted in September 1977, and 13,680-foot Mauna Loa, which last erupted in July 1975. Both are located on the island of Hawaii

The gas studies were preliminary, and many more experiments must be performed before conclusions are drawn, said Gordon Eaton, former scientist in charge of the U.S. Geological Survey's volcano observatory in the park.

Mantle Receives Write-In Vote

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) - Former New York Yankee slugger Mickey Mantle and Capitol news reporter Frosty

Troy tied for first place in the write-in rote for governor in the November general election. But the votes won't count.

State Election Board Secretary Lee Slater said Wednesday each received one write-in vote. Slater listed the votes as an example of improper balloting, which he said occurred in Payne County.

Slater said state law prohibits write-in ballots, but several Payne county voters ignored the provision. He said Payne County Election Board Secretary Nolda Selph reported Mantle received one write-in vote, and Troy, editor of the Oklahoma Observer, received one such

"Still another wrote in (Attorney General) Larry Derryberry's name for U.S. enate, and a fourth wrote in "A. Points" or four secondary races," Slater said.

"At least," Slater said, "we didn't have my votes for Mickey Mouse or Donald Duck. In states which allow write-ins, Mickey and Donald always seem to do it will have a significant impact on whether industrial applications are doing as much harm as we thought," said Tom Casadevall, a gas geochemist at the observatory.

The EPA has proposed that fluorocarbons be banned from use in refrigeration systems and in aerosol spray cans, such as hair sprays and deodorants. The proposal has caused controversy in scientific and industrial circles.

An initial study of the volcanic gases came from Rei Rasmussen, a professor of atmospheric chemistry at the Oregon Graduate Center, a private research institute at Beaverton, Ore.

Two months after the last Kilauea eruption, Rasmussen detected fluorocarbons coming from fumaroles, or vents from which gas and steam escape.

He also took samples at the summit of Mauna Loa and tests showed the presence of halocarbons, Eaton said. However, fluorocarbons were not among them. Scientists believe fluorocarbons and some other gases come not from the mol-ten lava but from the vegetation that was sealed off and burned by the lava flow.

Rasmussen compared it to a smolder-ing campfire that is tightly covered. There is no evidence yet, Rasmussen said, that volcanoes produce large quanti-ties of fluorocarbons during a non-erupstudies to determine the exact composition and amounts of the chemicals during a volcano's eruptive and quiet times. At this point, he said, the chemical only has been identified, not measured, and the effect on residents is not known.

In his studies near Kilauea, Rasmussen also identified some toxic chemicals, including methylchloride, one of the top 10 substances on the EPA's first-choice list of compounds that must be studied as possible cancer-causing agents.

"We identified a Pandora's box," said Rasmussen. "We hadn't anticipated such large concentrations under cool conditions. We can only conjecture what is released when the lava flow is in its rosy orange state as it moves over vegetation.

The findings at Mauna Loa's summit also were a surprise. At the 13,000-foot level, there is no organic dirt or vegetation to produce the chemicals similar to those found at Kilauea, yet similar chemicals were identified, Rasmussen said.

"It makes the picture a bit more com-plicated. But it doesn't change the premise that most toxic gas is the result of hot lava over vegetation," he said.

Scientists agree that many questions are unanswered. "There's no doubt Rasmussen measured fluorocarbons," said Casadevall. "But we need to know the source and how it was generated.'

Proposition 13. Since the victory of that massive slash in property taxes last June, Jarvis has been stumping the country selling his seductive proposals. Freely translated, Jarvis's message is: "Taxes are too high. Let's reduce them

As the victories of tax-cut measures on many states' November ballots attest, Jarvis has struck a responsive chord.

The idea of cutting taxes is very appealing. But we seniors need to know what Proposition 13 and like measures may do to federal matching-fund programs.

A study by the Federal General Accounting Office reports that 32 out of 52 federal programs require matching funds from the states. In California, matching-fund programs accounted for 85 prcent of the money the state received from the federal government last year.

That's $18.3 billion California won't get if it cannot pay its share of those programs. The law is: "No matching state funds, no federal money.

Now we take a quick look at some of the programs already under the ax: The school luch program may be wiped out. As seniors, we see that as an attack upon our grandchildren.

Urban mass transit operating assistance also may be nixed. How will we get to our senior centers? How will the dedicated workers in the Retired Senior Volunteer Program get to the elderly sick, the lonely and the housebound of all

In California 16 of the 53 state-supported day-care centers closed recently. Five centers were kept open only after strong protests. Working mothers throughout the state are scrambling for child care.

Many parents — especially working mothers — now must either spend a great deal of money on private child care or quit their jobs. Will these losses eat up their tax savings? Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) programs in which many seniors participate also are in deep trouble. In California, most of those in

CETA programs will lose out on both training and jobs. The American Association of Retired Persons reports that California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. last month rescinded a cost-of-living increase in the state's living increase in the state's portion of Supplementary Security Income

(SSI) benefits. "That was one result of cutbacks triggered by passage of Proposition 13," notes the AARP newsletter. "These cutbacks will affect about 7,000 aged, blind and disabled beneficiaries.

Most of these old people will turn to their familles for help. Where's the saving Jarvis is talking about?

And here is a warning from Janet Levy, head of the California Department of Aging: "Although it is still too early to assess the full impact of Proposition 13 upon delivery of services and programs for older Californians, there may be varying degrees of diminishing matching support funds across the state." That's a mild way of talking about the disastrous cuts that may be expected. Keep in mind that top California officials won't be cutting their salaries to save tax money. They'll still take trips at state expense and enjoy fringe benefits such as limousines. Any tax money that is saved will usually come from reductions of social services to the aged, the disabled, the needy and the children. If, for example, New York state passed a version of Proposition 13, 14 of the 34 aging programs !isted by my own Nassau County Department of Senior Citizen Affairs could be seriously cut or wiped out entirely. These include such important services as crisis intervention, senior clubs, geriatric health centers, home health aids, homemaker mental counseling, volunteer opportunities and the nationally famous "Seniormobile." The congregate meals nutrition program — jointly funded by the country and federal governments — also could be hurt. This important program has served 1 million nutritious meals to seniors at nutrition centers. "Meals on Wheels" for the homebound also would be reduced. Ditto for senior employment, community recreation and multi-service centers.

We seniors should take the lead in exposing the fallacies inherent in Proposition 13 and similar tax-cut proposals. Howard Jarvis sold the taxpayers of Cali-

No state in the union should buy it. Seniors, especially, should vote it down.

Cotton Computer System Near Completion

signed to take the guesswork out of cot-ton harvesting is expected to be completed by early 1979.

Developmental work began two years ago at Texas Tech University. Experiments involve the use of computers to predict the most effective system of harvesting and handling seed cotton.

Called HASP (Harvest Analysis Simulation Program), the service provides computer readouts which tell how many harvesters, module builders, rickers, and what field-to-gin transportation are most profitable for any particular harvestingginning operation.

A computer readout for one grower showed him how to make an extra $1,-838 in his cotton harvest. The computer showed that by using one harvester in good weather, the grower's total harvesting and handling cost per bale of about $30 to have as many as 10 difference of cotton was $53. But if he used two harent options evaluated. vesters, the cost per bale dropped to $50. The result was a $3 per bale profit on the grower's 613 bales

The experiment is being funded totally by cotton producers through Cotton Incorporated. HASP was designed and set up by Dr. Milton L. Smith, professor of industrial engineering at Texas Tech.

"Cotton Incorporated also assists us on the reasearch and gives us guidance because this has turned out to be a much more involved process than we originally thought," Dr. Smith said.

Once perfected, the computer service will be turned over to independent operators selected for their ability to best serve cotton producers. Dr. Smith estimates the cost to the grower will be

To use the service, the cotton grower fills out a questionnaire describing his particular circumstances. He includes any "what if" situations he would like to investigate. The grower is asked to provide such information as cost and age of his equipment.

When fed into the computer, the output tells the cost components in the total harvesting handling cost for each option examined. In short, it gives a grower his harvest cost per bale. By using different combinations of equipment, and taking the weather into consideration, it tells which combination of equipment is most efficient.

For example, the computer told Lynn Harrist, a Lubbock cotton grower, that he needed an extra harvester for the 960 acres of cotton he farms with his brother. Actually, Harrist had already bought the harvester but the computer confirmed that he made a good decision.

"I think this program has been help-ful," Harrist said. "It lets us see what we're doing and what we could do with more or less equipment or land. I can see how this system could save me mon-

The idea is to have the right combination of equipment to maximize total crop return. Of course, more equipment means faster harvesting.

However, Dr. Smith cautions that the decision to buy or not to buy should not be based solely on the computer's information. "We're giving information of a type most producers have not had before. But there are other factors involved, such as personal financial situation, that we're not considering. This is just one more input into the farmer's decision. The farmer will still have to use

MAKING HARVEST DECISIONS - Dr. Milton L. Smith, professor of industrial engineering at Texas Tech University, set up the computer service which is designed to take the guesswork out of cotton harvesting. The service should be available by the 1979 season.

How does the weather play a factor in computer harvesting? Dr. William Lalor, manager of Systems and Cost Engineering for Cotton Incorporated, says, "We look at costs for two weather situations and for several yield and price situa-

'The normal weather option tells us how well we'll do on the average. The bad weather option tells how much protection we have aginst the worst circumstanes. The cost to the farmer will be greater during a year of bad weather because the more you extend the harvest, the greater your quality and yield loss will be. And the way to offset this is to harvest your cotton faster.

When expected yields are high, we can afford to invest more per acre farmed to ensure successful harvesting and ginning. And the same thing applies when prices are high. But we also need to know how we'll fare when yield and prices are low.

"If the farmer is expanding his operation, say going from 700 acres to 1,200 acres then he likely will need some more harvesting equipment," Dr. Smith says.

HEREFORD (Special)-The gradual decline in Deaf Smith County's corn acreage over the past two years figures to continue during the 1979 crop year, according to John Fuston, county Agri-Fuston stated. culture Stabilization and Conservation Service director.

A growing problem with corn insects, combined with adverse weather conditions during the growing season and disappointing yields in the fall are all factors which have set local farmers to considering a return to grain sorghum on at least a part of their acreage in 1979. A wholesale switch from corn to um during the 1978 crop year was only averted by the government farm

Under the program, farmers were required to produce the same commodities they did in 1977 to qualify for set-

Deaf Smith Corn Crop Decline Seen

"For 1979, the requirements are being called a feed grain program once again, and a farmer is free to switch to something other than corn if the wants to,"

According to Fuston, Deaf Smith County's corn acreage stood at 120,000 acres in 1977. Corn dropped to 87,000 acres for the 1978 crop year. 'Right now, I'd say we'll be looking at 40,000 to 60,000 acres of corn here for 1979," Fuston estimated.

The major reductions in corn acreage over the past two years do not spell

"In normal years, farmers found they farmers are finding they better plant it only where they have enough water to handle the crop. They can plant milo or something else on those other areas. I don't think we'll see corn put out of the picture here any time soon. It will simply be cut back to the best land with the most abundant water beneath it," he ad-

As far as the insect problems are concerned, Fuston explained that corn has been particularly susceptible to insect attacks here over the past two growing seasons due to other stresses on the crop during spring and summer.

"Some of the weather conditions put us at a real disadvantage the past couple of years. Bugs hit stressed corn particularly hard. Right now, it seems we can control sorghum insects a little more adequately, most of the time," said Fus-

Fuston pointed out that although the new provisions of the farm program-for 1979 allow farmers somewhat of a back door escape from corn production, if they elect to take that route, there is displeasure within the farm community.

'The diversion payments on corn have been cut in half, even though these diversion payments are subsidizing the American public with a cheap food policy. On top of that, the diversion payment on milo has also been dropped from 12 cents to 10 cents. The system of payments that will be in effect for the 1979 crop year won't even cause farmers in the Corn Belt to give any consideration to cutting back corn production, and we're headed for another big surplus before we even start.

We'll probably have more general acres in production nationwide in 1979 than we did in 1978, with less participation in any set-aside program. The policy is placing us in a position where we're going to have to hope for a disaster to befall someone elsewhere before we'll even have a market for our products...That's not a real good way to operate," Fuston stated.

16 Area Delegates To Attend National Cotton Conference

Sixteen cotton producers, ginners, merchants, crushers and cooperative representatives will be among 40 Texas delegates to the National Cotton Council in 1979. The selections were announced by Reed Lang, Rio Hondo producer and vice chairman of the state unit.

Producer delegates will be Marion Bowers of Seminole, Wilbur Braden of Midland, Lloyd Cline of Lamesa and W. B. Criswell of Idalou. Ginner delegates will be D. R. Hodges of Edmonson and Jerry Harris of Lamesa.

Raymond Tapp, Watson Carlock and Fred Traylor, all of Lubbock, and W. R. Moore of Vernon will serve as merchant delegates. W. L. Goble of Levelland and Dixon White of Lubbook will serve as crusher delegates.

Cooperative delegates will be Ross Hargrove of Colorado City and Rex McKinney, C. L. Boggs and Wayne Martin, all of Lubbock.

About 292 delegates from all segments of the cotton industry in the 14 major cotton-producing states will serve the National Cotton Council in 1979.

Cotton Prices Show Healthy Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) - Cotton prices are up about 29 percent from a year ago, primarily because of a much smaller crop this year and rising exports.

The Agriculture department says that as of early December, cotton prices were averaging about 66 cents a pond, up 15 cents from a year earlier.

Flu Epidemic Hits Los Angeles Area

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A Russian flu epidemic is keeping thousands of pupils home from school, forced cancellation of athletic events and prompted some schools to close early for Christmas vacation, authorities say.

The A-Russian flu strain was blamed by state Department of Health Services officials for the epidemic which by Wednesday had struck 10 counties all over the

In Los Angeles County, school absen teeism Wednesday exceeded 25 percent with the West San Fernando Valley, Glendale and the San Gabriel Valley hardest hit, said Dr. Shirley Fanin, chief of Acute Communicable Disease Control for the county health department.

The Brethren Church School in Long Beach closed its doors Monday after only 42 of its 210 pupils came to class, according to school aide Kevin Clothier. Orange County health officer Dr. Mor-

Farther south, nearly 7,500 pupils at 29 San Diego city schools were reported absent because of illness Tuesday and Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Cal Lutheran High School classes and a basketball game scheduled with Julian were both canceled Tuesday because half the school's 50 pupils - including most of the basketball squad was sick, said Cal Lutheran Principal Don Schulteis.

Elementary classes at Mendota in western Fresno County were closed for the holidays on Tuesday when absenteeism reached the one-third level. About half the pupils at some high schools in Tulare, Kings and Stanislaus counties were also reported absent due to the flu.

Christmas gives you a perfect opportunity for the kind of fun you can't buy - you have to do-it-yourself. Here are do-it-yourself soda straw starbursts to hang in the doorways or on your tree.

Cut colored paper or cellophane some straws into even the each). Four each length of straw in half to the center, and flatten that point between your fingers. With a piece of strong black thread, tie together 15 soda straw pieces. Then spread out the ends of the straws and hang the colored soda starbursts on the tree.

Skeptics Eye Inflation Pl

And MYRON KANDEL

While President Carter calls for time and support for his anti-inflation program, it isn't hard to see why virtually all the major sectors of the U.S. economy big business, organized labor, lawmak-ers, bankers, private economists, even some consumer groups — are skeptical. For the most part, they doubt the government's understanding of the problem and its ability to walk the tightrope between inflation and recession.

While we don't hold any brief for the critics and, like everybody else who pays bills and taxes, we hope the program works, a quick look back shows the errors in timing and perception.

Only last spring, secretary of the Treasury W. Michael Blumenthal cavalierly treated the impact of the falling dollar, seizing on an uptick in the markets. "I'm encouraged that the dollar has strengthened in relation to other currencies," he said, adding: "Our policies are reasona-

The markets didn't think so. Two months later, the dollar was at new lows and the price of gold was soaring. The decline of the dollar meant more inflation, especially as consumers turned away from higher-priced imported goods in favor of domestic merchandise.

Economist Sam Nakagama said then that "the value of the dollar must inevitably fall relative to these currencies unless inflation trends are reversed." By August, Nakagama was saying "no serious person would dispute that the falling value of the dollar is the most serious problem facing the American people today.

In July, Federal Reserve Board chairman G. William Miller voted against an increase in the discount rate - the amount the Fed charges for loans to member banks - to 71/4 percent from 7 percent and said he thought "interest rates will peak between now and the end of the year." It was one of those rare times when a Fed chairman was outvoted, and banks' prime lending rates, 8% percent at the time, have climbed to 111/2 percent now. Bank loans, accelerating since the spring, paused for a short time after Miller's words and then took off again. As we reported at the time, credit expert Henry Kauffman said "the cutting edge of interest rates isn't apparent yet," and, contrary to Miller, he predicted a continuing upward surge.

In August, President Carter held a news conference while the dollar was being battered overseas. He said then that "the single most important thing" Congress could do was to pass an energy a voluntary inflation-control program.

The markets again were pointing the other way. The dollar kept going down, gold continued to rise and interest rates kept climbing. Albert Wojnilower to First Boston Corp. said then, "We are now able to enjoy 8 percent Treasury bills and 10 percent prime loan rates without suffering any meaningful sense of credit restraint at all. The steps we have taken to deregulate interest rates must be viewed as the final throwing in of the towel with respect to subbuing in-flation quickly. We face an extended spell of double-digit rates."

Finally, on Oct. 24, the Administration announced its voluntary wage-price re-straint program, and, on Nov. 1, it began count rate, to 9½ percent at ed's discount rate, to 9½ percent, the biggest one-step increase in almost 50 years. Many observers said the plans were too little, too late. The dollar has shown

Just last week, Scott Pardee of the Fed's New York bank said he saw "further strenthening of the dollar over the next few months." Others aren't so sure. H. Erich Heinemann of Mor Stanley, for one, says, "The crisis of the dollar — and inflation — has its origins in the deep-rooted acceleration of monetary on. The Carter ac

"The president is very annoyed about the reports he has been receiving about this double game being played by some women," the radio said.

Tools, Plants Make Wonderful Christmas Gifts

Associated Press Writer What do you give a gardener for Christmas? That's easy.

Gardening tools and lawn equipment make excellent gifts. So do books, subscriptions to garden publications, and

The poinsettia continues to be the most popular plant gift but there are many oth-

An amaryllis bulb potted and ready to grow may be purchased from nurseries, florists or garden centers that handle fall bulbs. They are available in reds and Another suggestion is the Christmas pepper (Capsicum frutescens). Its bright red fruit help it blend with the holiday decor. It is hardly worth keeping after its foliage and fruit have lost their attractiveness, but ripe pods provide seeds for spring planting.

Christmas cactus is another.

How about gift certificates for fruit or ornamental trees to be delivered in spring as a green growing gift? Many seed houses will take care of this chore for you.

Students Await Shoes Worn By Film Star

GOSHEN, Ohio (AP) - Students at Goshen High School are eagerly waiting for the arrival of a pair of red shoes. Not just any shoes, but some that belonged to movie star Judy Garland.

The 125 students in the school's band and chorus raised the $375 they used to bid successfully on the red pumps, which were auctioned off along with other Garland memorabilia in California last month. "To be perfectly honest, we don't know when the shoes were used or for what," band director Eldon Thomas said. He said the students had not decided what to do with the shoes yet.

Seed catalogues offer many gift suggestions. Burpee has Vegetable Planting and Flower Planting Clocks with graphic gardening tips. It also offers an indoor herb garden kit for gourmet cooks, and a framework for a "Strawberry Bush" that you can plant into year after year.

Indoor plant lights make fine gifts. One, (from Duro-Lite Lamps) is a combination of incandescent, fluorescent and high intensity discharge. It uses 20 percent less electrical energy than incandescents and screws into an ordinary socket. It sells for $65 to $75 (depending on wattage) and has a two-year warranty.

Then there is a composter bin that helps condition soil by utilizing garden and kitchen wastes (by Rotocrop, Doylestown, Pa.)

Other items for consideration include seed starting kits, terrariums, shell planters, and a small greenhouse if you can afford something expensive.

Controllers, Pilots Blamed For Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) - A government agency has attributed an aerial collision near the Memphis International Airport to mistakes by air controllers and the pilots of the two planes.

The National Transportation Safety Board said Wednesday that controllers working in the Memphis International Airport failed to keep the two planes apart and issue traffic alerts that could have averted the collision last May. At the same time, investigators said, the pilots failed to see and avoid one another, despite good visibility.

The two planes, a twin-engine jet and a single-engine light plane, collided at about 2,000 feet 3.7 miles west of the airport in hazy weather on May 18. The dead included an instructor pilot and three Saudi Arabian trainees aboard the jet and an instructor pilot and a prospective flight student in the other plane.

There also are a number of new garden books. They include: "Big Fun to Grow," by Allan A. Swen-

EPA Proposes Tough Waste Handling Law

mental Protection Agency, trying to prevent such accidents as the Love Canal disaster, Thursday proposed a crackdown on the way hazardous wastes are handled

The rules would require that more than 35 million tons of hazardous wastes produced in the country each year be controlled from the point of manufacture to their ultimate disposal, with a provision that companies monitor disposal sites for

Bauxite Found By Geologists

TOKYO (AP) - Chinese geologists report finding China's "biggest-yet" deposits of high grade bauxite in South China. Peking's official Hsinhua news agency said Thursday.

It said ores of the bauxite deposits, found in Pingkuo County in the Kwangsi Chuang autonomous region, contain an average of 59.9 percent aluminium oxide or alumina, "the highest grade found in

Verified reserves, Hsinhua said, are sufficient for a large aluminium cen-

The deposits, covered by only half a meter of earth and rock or showing outcroppings in some places, are suitable for opencut mining," Hsinhua said.

The ore lies along the banks of the Yuchiang River, one of the region's major waterways, and both river and land transport are available, Hsinhua said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Environ- 20 years to make sure the chemicals are not leaking into the soil or water.

The industries involved will have to pay about $750 million each year to comply with the rules, the EPA estimated.

Hearings will be held on the rules next year at sites across the country.

In announcing the proposal, EPA Administrator Douglas Costle cited the Love Canal case in Niagra Falls, N.Y., where more than 200 families were forced from their homes when chemicals dumped a quarter century earlier began oozing into yards and basements.

He also cited a case in North Carolina where the chemical PCB was dumped along 200 miles of roadway at night; a dumpsite in Charles City, Iowa, where a veterinary drug firm's waste is leaking into water supplies; and an abandoned factory site in Lowell, Mass., where 15,000 deteriorating barrels of waste pose a Costle warned that even with these rules, "environmental and health damage caused by improper hazardous waste management will continue to occur" because of previous disposal methods. EPA three weeks ago released a lengthy list of potentially dangerous older dump sites across the country.

The rules would cover any company which produces more than 220 pounds of us waste per month. Those companies would have to furnish information on the waste and designate a specific storage or treatment facility to which the products would be taken.

The disposal sites would have to be lined with clay, plastic or other materials. In addition, the companies would be liable for up to $5 million each time damage occurs at disposal sites.

FTC Concerned Over Bell Santa Calls

SEATTLE (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission is not "ho-ho-ho-ing" over a Pacific Northwest Bell promotion that had Seattle youngsters telephoning Santa Claus long-distance to New York.

William Erxleben, FTC regional director, said, "Using Santa as the lure to take commercial advantage of parents because of the naivete of their little children seems contrary to both the Christmas spirit and Federal Trade Commission advertising standards."

vertising standards."
In a letter to Bell President Andrew V.
Smith, Erxleben asked that the phone company offer refunds to customers whose children made "unpermitted phone calls" on the special Santa line advertised in local newspapers:

Bell executives will meet within the next couple of days to discuss what action to take regarding the FTC letter, said Bill Moznette, a company spokesman. Erxleben wrote, "Clearly, children

The letter said some parents who taught their children to dial the phone as a safety precaution may find themselves "making involuntary Christmas dona-tions to the taleshene assesses."

After parental complaints over expensive Santa calls placed by small children, Pacific Northwest Bell offered to spread Santa-line charges over several months.

Erxleben commended the company for that approach, but said, "I suspect a number of persons won't know what happened until they get their phone bills."

As of Wednesday, at least 18,000 calls had been made to the number, Moznette said. The weekday charge for a one-min-

Sign Up For Independence

When young people sign up for newspaper route work, they are really signing up for independence. The kind of independence that goes with earning your own money, running your own business and dealing with people on a one-to-one basis.

Our carriers are young business men and women. They provide a vital service, handle their own finances and reap a handsome profit from their efforts. What better training to prepare them for the future?

If you are interested in stepping into the business world and declaring your own independence, contact our carrier manager right now. He'll give you all of the important facts about carrier work. Then, if you are still interested, he'll provide the pen and show you where to sign . . . even if your name is John Hancock.

Blood Drive Aids

By KAY BELL

Avalanche-Journal Staff CRITICALLY needed units of blood for victims of last week's tragic school bus-truck collision near Roby are being donated by South Plains residents who have willingly turned out for blood drives across the region.

The response to the need for blood for several of the victims critically injured in the wreck was felt "the very day it happened," said John Richmond, executive director of South Plains Blood Services.

The Lubbock-based blood bank happened to be in Snyder last Friday conducting a routine blood drive when the wreck occurred, he said. Richmond said the bank had expected to gain only about 15-20 units of blood that day, but after the der hospital, donors increased to about

And in the wake of the wreck, several businesses, schools and churches have contacted the blood bank requesting a mobile unit be set up so that those groups also could contribute to the victims

Tuesday, such a unit was sent to Roos-

Santa Claus, Wife Slate Appearance

Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, escorted by members of the Fire Department, will make their grand entrance in their sleigh at Santaland at 6 p.m. Saturday.

The jolly old gentleman and his wife mark their 25th anniversary at Santaland, now located at 9th Street and Avenue K. City boys and girls can revel in a variety of sights and activities at the exhibit which will be open daily from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. through Dec. 23. Santa's house, of course, will be the highlight of a visit to Santaland, where anxious tots can tell their secret desires and receive candy from St. Nick.

A special feature will be a show wagon where various civic and church groups will entertain with carols every evening in 30 minute segments. Displayed throughout the exhibit will be animated scenes of Santa's reindeer barn housing Rudolph and his pals, an animated Santa playing his organ, a Nativity scene, and a snowman that melts and magically comes back to life. Also featured will be a 65-foot Christmas tree which was assembled from branches cut in New Mexico. More than $10,000 is spent on the exhibit each year, according to Jim Flippo, who is in charge of cultural events for the city. He added that 30,000 to 40,000 people visit Santaland each year.

Teen-Ager Charged In Shotgun Slaving

HENDERSON (AP) — A California teen-ager has been charged in the shot-gun slaying of a Henderson man found dead in his home near this East Texas city Tuesday.

Rusk County deputies found the bodies of John Mimier, 66, and his wife, Edna Louise Mimier, 68, after a business associate of the retired accountant became concerned that he did not keep an ap-evelt High School and 17 units of blood were collected, Richmond said. The blood services director said school officials had called him asking for the mobile "pop-up," or unscheduled, blood drive because they hoped that such donations would be done for their students if Roosevelt schools were in a similar situation.

Richmond said that Bacon Heights Baptist Church also has scheduled a blood drive Dec. 22 for the McCaulley High School wreck victims and the employees of St. Paul's Insurance Company, too, have expressed a desire to donate

Additionally, Estacado High School student body president Willie Queenan said that school will try to donate 100 units of blood to the victims, "a very high amount for a school," Richmond said

South Plains Blood Services, which serves 38 hospitals within a 120-mile radius of Lubbock, operates on an all-volunteer, "altruistic," system of blood donations, Richmond said.

Under such a method, donors are not paid for their blood and because of this, patients receiving the blood are charged only a minimum fee to cover the processing of the blood that is delivered to area hospitals on consignment, he said. In addition to Miss Jeffrey, other persons injured in the Dec. 8 collision who are benefiting from the recent blood donations include three other students hospitalized at Abilene's Hendrick Medical

The blood is being donated for those seriously injured in the wreck, including 15year old Tami Jeffrey, who remains in serious condition at Methodist Hospital. It will help keep the cost of blood needed by the victims to a minimum, Richmond.

Kathy Wilkerson, 16, was still listed in very critical condition this morning at the medical center, Daren Jeffrey, 14, remains on the critical list. Doyle Bell, principal of the school, who was said to be in "guarded" condition Thursday, was in serious condition today, according to a Hendricks spokesman.

Debbie Decker's condition had stabilized this morning. The 16-year-old had previously been listed in serious condition at Hendrick

Jury Charges Dodge Heiress

NEW YORK (AP) - Gregg Sherwood Dodge Moran, former showgirl and socialite heiress to part of the Dodge auto fortune, has been accused of stealing $390,000 from her son's multimillion-dollar trust fund.

The grand jury's larceny indictment Thursday was the latest in a series of problems for Mrs. Moran.

In June, she and her third husband, former New York City policeman Daniel Moran, were charged with grand larceny for allegedly fraudulently procuring loans of $75,000 from the U.S. Trust Co., a New York bank

In July, the Morans were declared bankrupt by a Miami court and a month later. Moran was found shot to death in their Palm Beach, Fla., home.

His death was an apparent suicide and police said the widow attributed the death to the desperate financial condition into which the once high-living couple-

Manhattan District Attorney Robert Morgenthau said Mrs. Moran flew here early Thursday to surrender.

In the latest indictment, Mrs. Moran was accused of taking money on 21 separate occasions out of a $5.6 million Citibank trust account of her-son, John Francis Dodge, 24. between 1970 and 1972:

In 1953, when she was 29, Mrs. Moran married Horace Dodge Jr., then 54. He sued for divorce in 1962, complaining she was "a spendthrift." She inherited $11 million from Dodge, who died in 1963 before the divorce came through. In 1965, she married Moran and the couple settled in Palm Beach where they began a spending spree which included well-known parties costing $20,000 each.

It looked as if evidence was stacked up against the 41-year-old man and his 24-year-old female companion before an attendant at a convenience store at 34th. Street and Avenue S told police he accidentally touched off the robbery alarm at the store about 12:15 a.m. today.

Officer Jim Taylor said he noticed the man entering the store and decided to

The officer said he stopped the two persons in the 3600-block of Avenue H and ordered them out of the car. A subsequent search revealed two loaded .22 calber pistols on the front seat of the vehicle, according to reports.

The man and woman were arrested but released minutes later when it was reported over the police radio that the robbery was a false alarm. However, the pistols were confiscated and the man and woman this morning were suspected of unlawful concealment of weapons.

In more real robberies reported Thursday night, Dee Courtney, 67, of 4304 Ave. D was treated and released at Highland Hospital after he was beaten and robbed at his home about 10:50 p.m.

Courtney said a black man came to his door and asked to use the phone. When he refused, the suspect then asked if Courtney could call for him.

Reports show while Courtney was in the kitchen using the phone, the suspect entered the residence and knocked Courtney to the floor with a long object. Courtney said the bandit took his wallet containing $9 and fled the house.

A robbery victim was taken to Health Sciences Center Hospital after he alleged-ly was assaulted and held up shortly after 10 p.m. Thursday in the 2200-block of Clovis Road. Tony Guerrabaldo, 50, address unknown, told police he was struck by a piece of metal and robbed of $400 by a Mexican-American man at a trailer house on Clovis Road. He was treated and released at the hospital.

A four-month pregnant, 22-year-old Lubbock woman told police she was beaten Wednesday by a man she had lived with several months, and then locked in a bathroom when she tried to go to the hospital.

However, when her boyfriend left their Belton Avenue apartment, she was able to go to Health Sciences Center Hospital where she was treated and released. In burglaries reported recently, Ramon

Graves of 6317 35th St. said he lost $1,800 in stereo equipment, cameras and a cal-culator when burglars broke into his home between 2 a.m. and 9:30 p.m. About $1,200 in jewelry, a television set burglars who broke a living room window of her home Thursday afternoon took $550 worth of goods, including two tel-evisions and a radio.

A television and radio also was reported stolen by Maria C. Libby of 3205 25th St. She said the back door of her home had been ticked in by the intruders and she set her loss at $423.

Connie Delgado said burgtars pried the front door of her 2115 Cypress Road home between 8 a.m. and 1:20 p.m. Thursday and took a $495 television set.

Jan Jackson said a broken window apparently was the point of entry of burglars who took a typewriter and radio, together valued at $165, from the office of Holiday Trailer Park, 4702 Pourth St.

Mary Ann Brewster said she left her purse in a shopping cart next to her car Thursday afternoon while she was placing packages in the vehicle in the lot of K-Mart, 3200 Ave. Q. She said she left the handbag unattended for only a moment and when she returned to the cart the purse, containing $150 cash and credit cards, was gone.

New Highway Violence Reported By Truckers

violence was reported in Pennsylvania today, one day after a Teamsters rally failed to generate support for ending a month-long strike by independent steel haulers.

One man was injured slightly by flying glass when his tractor-trailer rig was hit by a projectile on Interstate 70, east of Pittsburgh, state police said. Two other trucks traveling on the highway were struck, but no injuries or significant damage resulted.

Elsewhere, a trucker escaped injury when his rig was fired on from a passing flatbed truck on state highway 65, west of Pittsburgh. In addition, two steel trucks were pelted by rocks on the Penn-Lincoln Parkway, near Wilkinsburg, but no one was injured.

On Thursday, gunshots shattered a truck windshield in Pennsylvania, and Cleveland police arrested two men after the tires of a steel truck were punctured.

A federal grand jury in Columbiana
County, Ohio, returned an indictment against four drivers, charging they disa-bled a truck last month by damaging a radiator and a tire.

A rally on Thursday organized to entice striking independent steel truckers back to work erupted into a show of support for the steel haulers.

Rate Set Lower

NEW YORK (AP) - At least 48 banks, from Boston to Dallas to Missouri and Chicago, have set base lending rates be-low the prime rate for small businesses. And the Small Business Administration hopes many more banks will join in.

Unlike the blue-chip corporations, businesses with less than $1.5 million in assets do not have easy access to the bond and commercial paper markets to raise funds. They rely on banks, and usually are limited to banks in their immediate

Mellon bank, the largest commercial bank in Pittsburgh, was the first to an-nounce a small business base rate about a month ago. Manufacturers Hanover Trust in New York, ranked No. 4 in the nation in terms of assets, was the largest bank to establish a "small business brime." Manufacturers Hanover put its program into effect Tuesday. In a massive mailing Wednesday, the Small Business Administration asked the nation's 14,000 banks to consider some kind of interest-rate relief for small busi-

The mailings included copies of Mellon's internal procedure memo for operating its program so that interested banks could initiate a similar rate without having to draw up their own plans. The mailing was handled by the Office of Chief Counsel for Advocacy, a new SBA depart-ment that promotes the interests of small businesses in the business community

The SBA's list of banks with such programs, which the advocacy office said could well be incomplete, includes two banks in Pittsburgh, three Boston banks and one bank each in New York, Dallas, Jersey City, N.J., Chicago and Cincinnat-i. In addition, a bank holding company in Missouri with 36 banks statewide has established a small business base rate.

Two of the banks, one in Chicago and one in Boston, have posted a ceiling on the small business base rate of 111/2 percent, the current prime rate.

The other banks will use small business base rates that range one to two percentage points below the prime, the rate that is charged on loans to the largest and most creditworthy corporations.

At Manufacturers Hanover for example, a small business whose balance sheet and prospects for income would call for & loan with interest 2 points over base rate would have been charged 131/2 percent, using the prime as base. Using Manufac turer Hanover's new small business base rate, keyed 1¼ pertentage points below prime, the borrower will be charged 12¼ percent. The rate is available for debts up to $500,000 to firms with assests not in excess of $1.5 millon

If the prime rises, as many analysts think it will, so will the small business base rate. When the prime falls, so will the special rate — until it hits 10 percent. At that point, Manufacturers Hanover will let the prime close in on the small business rate. Mellon set its floor for the special rate at 9% percent

Many of the nation's 14,000 banks don't use the prime rate, if for no other reason than they don't have "prime" borrowers from the top 100 corporations on the Fortune magazine ranking.

For banks that do use the prime as a base for commercial loans, a separate prevents pr into interest-rate brackets they may be

Inflation Fight To Continue, Wright Says

By JOHN F. BARTON WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democratic Leader Jim Wright says the next Congress will concentrate on halting inflation, but also will try to check rising. Social Security taxes and enact at least a limited form of national health insurance.

The Texas Democrat told reporters this week the fight against inflation would be the most serious issue confronting law-makers when Congress convenes Jan. 15.

But he said he also expects a move to freeze Social Security taxes after higher rates take effect Jan. 1. A series of increases were enacted to prevent the So-cial Security system from going bank-rupt, and Wright said a freeze would have to be accompanied by some alternate method of maintaining the financial viability of the system.

He suggested Medicare could be taken from the Social Security program and be financed separately from the general fund. "That would seem to me to be the most likely candidate," Wright said.

Concerning the controversial question of national health insurance, Wright said, "I expect something will be done...But it will stop short of a cradle-to-the-grave

He predicted legislation to "cover catastrophic illnesses, the kind that can simply wipe out a family financially."

On welfare, Wright said, "We must eliminate from the system any incentive not to work."

"We just can't afford a system that en-courages people not to work," he said, and Congress never intended the welfare program to be "a haven for the indo-lent."

Wright said he felt Americans would support a crude oil tax if the funds it gen-erated were used to develop alternative

He said Congress might enact an excess profits tax on major oil companies if it contained a plowback feature allowing tax credits if the profits were used for energy exploration and development.

He said he could not predict whether major income tax reforms would be undertaken.

American Samoa, consisting of six small islands in the South Pacific, has a total area of 76 square miles and a population of 30,000.

John R. Torell III noted that the big New York bank has among its customers top multi-national corporations to whom the prime rate appplies. About half its business last year was overseas.

He said the bank opted for the special loan rate base because, unlike the credit crunch of 1974, funds are still available for loans, but at high rates. Manufactur-ers Hanover President John McGillicudClub of New York, said he exost significant positions" in the New York-area banking market for small businesses, Torell said. Manufacturers Hanover "is one of the top two banks in this market," holding a share of the market estimated at more than 20 percent, Torell said. The special base rate is aimed at maintaining, and perhaps expanding, this

The lower base rate will cut Manufacturer Hanover's margin on such loans to right around the break-even point, Torell dmitted. He also said the program is based on two major assumptions — that funds will be tight but available in 1979 and that the prime will peak at about 12 percent in early 1979 and begin to drop by FOR YOUR WANT ADS CALL 762-8821

He may be in for a season of difficulty with liberal Democrats, but there's every indication the voters are on his side.

Carter says he will maintain his fight against inflation even if it jeopardizes his quest for a second term.

Instead of being an unpopular act, I think it would be a popular act to main-tain it," the president said before he went to Memphis to face down critics of his planned budget curbs at the Democrats' mid-term convention.

Carter gained a split-decision endorsement of his policy when the convention rejected a liberal resolution demanding that spending for jobs and other social programs be spared in budget cuts.

Nearly 40 percent of the delegates vot-ed against Carter on that issue. But Carter said he was pleased at the outcome in that test, and in the convention's general endorsement of his inflation control plan.

The battle will be rejoined in the new Congress but there, as in Memphis, the administration is likely to have a majority on its side. Even if congressional Dem-ocrats are divided on spending curbs, Carter can depend on substantial Republican support.

And the decisions made there are the ones that will count, long after the reso-lutions of Memphis are filed and forgot-

Congress tends to watch election returns more closely than political plat-forms. Just a month before Memphis, the voters elected a corps of congressional candidates who had campaigned for austerity and budget restraint.

And nearly two-thirds of the people interviewed in an AP-NBC News survey said they want a substantial cut in federal spending. The polls consistently rank inflation as the top concern of the public, and cuts in the federal budget as their preferred answer to the proble

Auto Sales Approach 1965 Mark

DETROIT (AP) - Auto dealers are ending 1978 with near-record sales, despite predictions by Henry Ford II and other that car sales will decline next year.

The industry reported Wednesday that the sales pace leaped 24.4 percent in ear-ly December to the highest level since 1965. Both Ford Motor Co. and General Motors Corp. set corporate records.

The same day, the Ford chairman in his annual review of the economy said car sales would drop from this year's expected 11.3 million to 10.8 million next year. But he likely didn't object the lastest sales report.

The automakers sold 219,235 cars in the Dec. 1-10 period at a rate of 27,404 per day. The industry continued to surpass the sales levels of a late 1978 when a winter-long sales slump was beginning.

The poor year-ago figures partly explain this year's big percentage increase. But the latest figures showed no sign of the industry-wide softness expected by the Ford boss and many analysts in com-

In the year-ago period, which had one more selling day than the latest Dec. 1-10 period, Americans bought 198,300 cars or 22,033 per day.

GM was up 37.3 percent from a poor comparative period last year. The No. 1 automaker sold 127,310 cars or 15,913 per

Ford, after five consecutive sales periods that fell short of last year, jumped 18.8 percent to 69,163 cars or 8,645 per

The Big Two combined captured 89.7 percent of the domestic car market, as sales declines at Chrysler Corp. gave it a poor 8.9 percent and AMC dipped to 1.4 percent of the market.

Chrysler sales dropped 8.1 percent to 19,584 cars or 2,448 per day. AMC car sales were off 20.7 percent to 3,178 or 398

Volkswagen of America reported sales of 1,568 U.S.-built Rabbits, bringing the number of U.S.-built cars sold in early December to 220,803 or 27,600 per day. The latest figures were "way above predictions" at Ford, a company analyst said. To the automaker's relief, its allnew full-sized Ford finally jumped 33 percent ahead of last year and the all-new big Mercury was up 18 percent. Their sales had been sluggish since their Octo-

"The need for transportation remains firm," said Ford sales vice president Gordon B. MacKenzie.

Since Jan. 1, U.S. automakers have sold nearly 8.9 million cars and are 2.9 percent ahead of last year. GM is up 5.6 percent. Ford up 2.2 percent, Chrysler off 6.6 percent and AMC down 6.1 percent.

20 New Senators Being Educated

WASHINGTON (AP) - The 20 new members of the United States Senate are getting a preview of what their new duties are and how to handle them.

The incoming senators are going through three days of lectures on everything from how to file expense vouchers to how to stay in the good graces of the Ethics Committee. Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., had these few words on Senate speech-making: "A man makes a speech that says nothing. Nobody listens, and then everybody disagrees."

vals many of them would have preferred. It is no surprise that the emotional hero of the Memphis convention was Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, not Carter. The president contends that has a lot to do with the Kennedy name and

Lawyers May Receive Report On Reactors

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) - The chairman of the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board says the three-member board is "seriously considering" giving attorneys for an anti-nuclear group access to an in-ternal report on General Electric's nucle-

The board this week heard oral arguments on GE's motion to quash the board's subpoena for the so-called Reed Report in the latest session in the safety hearing on the proposed Black Fox Station. Public Service Co. of Oklahoma plans to build the two-unit nuclear plant with GE reactors near Inola in Rogers

The Reed Report is an internal GE study on how improvements can be made in the firm's boiling water reactors. It has been studied by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission staff and several congressional committees, but it has never been made available to the public or to antinuclear groups

Citizens Action for Safe Energy (CASE), which is opposing the construction of Black Fox Station, wants to examine the Reed Report because of 27 safety factors mentioned. GE has offered to give CASE a summars of those 27 factors, but CASE turned down the offer.

GE also has offered to give the board a copy of the full 160page report.

In questioning GE attorney George L. Edgar, board chairman Sheldon J. Wolfe said board members were leaning toward a five-point plan allowing case attorneys to review both the summary and the full

He said, "This plan would limit the review to attorneys for CASE" and would keep the report from falling into the hands of CASE's nuclear consultants three former GE engineers who now oppose nuclear energy — although they may get to see a "sanitized version" of the report later.

"We are seriously considering the fivepoint procedure to cut down on delay,

Edgar said he was opposed to the procedure because it is a "very cumbersome process" and because Joe Ferris, attorney for CASE, said he would have difficult reviewing the report without the help of his consultants.

The oral arguements heard by the board underlined previously filed written arguments on the subpoena. GE and PSO want the subpoena quashed; CASE and the NRC staff want it upheld, although the NRC staff did ask for safeguards to keep parts of the report that could harm GE's competitive position in the nuclear reactor field from being divulged.

The confrontation hearing was preceded by a march by anti-nuclear activists from the PSO headquarters downtown to the Page Belcher Federal Building, where the hearing was held. The march was led by Dr. Benjamin Spock, the famous pediatrian and social activist.

A standing-room-only crowd of 150 persons crammed into the federal courtcrowd was equally divided etween propo-nents and opponents of Black Fox Sta-

Attorneys for PSO and GE have said CASE may be seeking access to the Reed Report just to delay the construction of Black Fox Station. Joseph Gallo, attorney for PSO, said the delays would cost

"Mr. Chairman, that's about $10 million a month," Gallo said. "Those are real dollars the ratepayers will have to

Ferris denied CASE was using the Reed Report issue to delay the Black Fox

"If I could control the elements, I would have it rain every day and fill that hole out there with water," Ferris said. No timetable has been established for the board to rule on the motion and another session in the continuing hearing is expected to begin early next year.

HOQUIAM, Wash. (AP) - Sometimes you go fishing — and end up wishing you'd stayed in bed.

The waters came so quickly that some slow-moving residents took refuge on their roofs and were picked up by heli-copters and carried to safety. Those who lived in Baldwin Hills were aware of a big dam and reservoir perched on high ground overlooking their homes but they never had reason for fear until that day, Dec. 14, 1963.

Police went into action, after a caretak-er, aptly named Revere —Revere G. Wells — heard an unusual roaring noise in the spillway of the earthen dam that held back 900 acre feet of water used for drinking purposes in the system of the city's Department of Water and Power.

Scholars View Ideas On Jesus' Mother

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

Associated Press Writer
Both Protestants and Roman Catholics always have had a high esteem for Mary, the mother of Jesus, but they've viewed her from different angles, often mutually useful in bolstering mutual understand-

The Rev. Karl Donfried of Smith College, Northampton, Mass., one of the Lutheran editors, says that in interdenomi-

"all kinds of ecumenical doors."
The Rev. Joseph Fitzayer of the Catholic University of America, another of the book's editors, says it will be particularly helpful to Catholics in sharpening larly helpful to Catholics in sharpening awareness of "just what the Bible says about Mary.

"Modern Catholics tend to think that everything in our 20th century piety comes from the New Testament, but quite often what we are used to is not what the Scriptural writers had in mind but rather the reflections of believers in equent centuries.

"Marian piety should be more biblically based.'

On the other hand, Lutheran Donfried says "there is a lot here that we in Protestantism have overlooked about Mary." For example, it was noted that Protes-

However, Donfried says the tendency of Protestants to overlook elements about Mary didn't characterize the attitude of the Protestant founder, the l6th century Martin Luter, who graphically extolled Mary in his commentary on the

The new study comes in the wave of several books by both Protestants and Catholics about Mary that reflect growing common understanding and regard for her.

The approach contrasts greatly with past periods when some Protestants misconceived Catholic devotions as "worship" of Mary, and when Catholic reaction tended to see Protestants as totally ignoring her special role.

A tempering of the friction about it came with Catholicism's Second Vatican Council of 1962-65 and its treatment of Mary largely from a biblical perspective. That, in a more detailed way, is the ef-

The 336-page volume of findings is being published both by Fortress Press, a Lutheran institution, and Paulist Press, a Catholic publisher.

Besides Catholic Fitzmyer and Lutheran Donfried, the other two editors are the Rev. John Reumann of Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia and the Rev.Raymond Brown, a member of the Pontifical Biblical Commission who teaches at New York's Union Theological Seminary.

The scholars agreed there is no direct Scriptural evidence for two Catholic teachings about Mary - that she was immaculately conceived without sin and was assumed body and soul into heaven. Catholics may be surprised at some

To many people, 100 letters would have no real significance, but to Jim Huff who is in prison ministry, it means one more open door to his soul-winning campaign.

A letter from Huff brings a quick response from the often-forgotten people locked away. Huff is often the only person many prisoners communicate with on the outside. Letters he receives incidate loneliness, alienation from friends and family and despair.

His soul-winning mission began two years ago when he was serving time for forgery. Huff, who says he was heavy into drugs (including alcohol) at the time, went to Florida in hopes of avoiding the second the guards were cussing me. I was scared," he said. Huff, after entering prison, hoped for an inside job, but instead was sent out in-

Recalling the day he was saved, he said, "I came in from the field after a 10hour workday and was very tired. I laid down on my bunk bed to go to sleep. I heard a voice say, 'Get up and go to "Thinking it was my buddy on the top bunk, I lay back down. Five minutes later I heard the same voice say, 'Get up and go to church." "I then knocked on the wall, saying, 'I don't appreciate this - I'm too tired to go to church," Huff said. He then checked his buddy who was asleep. At this point, Huff said he again tried to go to sleep. Ten minutes later I heard the same voice say, 'Get up and go to church.' The voice was deep and strong," he recalled. When I hear something three times, I'm gonna check it out and find what's going on," he added. "I got up and took a sink bath and went to church.

Once inside the prison chapel, Huff said he could think of only one thing. "I'll be glad when this service is over," he thought to himself.

"I don't remember the service and didn't to the singing. They had a group from Dallas. I was too tired to listen. And when they gave the invitation for people to come to the altar, I thought, 'Good, this service is almost over," Huff said.

The service was almost over, but for Huff, it was just the beginning of something. "I had felt like I had lead on my chest. I was up and walking down the aisle before I knew what hit me. After I kneeled down and confessed my sins, I felt light as a feather. Tears flowed down and, from that moment on, I've felt rested and relaxed," he said.

"I left the chapel and went back to my cell singing. Prisoners were asking what to me and I'd tell them, 'I'm born again," Huff added.

He says the feeling has never left him and his drug habit disappeared at that in-stant. "I had changed so much the prison guards didn't know what to think," he re-

After that chapel experience, Huff, who this time had not requested an inside job, was taken from the field and given the job of head nurse in the hospi-

"I was given an air-conditioned job. I was in prison but was locked up - but I was free. I was never afraid again and I knew that no one would bother me because I had the Lord on my side," Huff

His burden for prisoners led him to send off for religious tracts, take Bible courses and witness for Christ. Huff, who is a regular visitor at hospitals and nursing homes now, says he doesn't do the things he used to do and doesn't go to the places he used to go.

Huff says the moments of sadness come when he thinks back and remembers the young boys who received their first marijuana cigarette from him or the young boys who received their first can of beer from him.

"Now I'm interested in souls and vitnessing for Christ," he concluded.

9 Jesus was amazed! Turning to the crowd He said, "Never among all the Jews in Israel have I met a man with faith like this!"

10 And when the captain's friends returned to his house, they found the slave completely healed! 11 Not long afterwards Jesus went with His dis-procession was coming out. The boy who had died was the only son of his widowed mother, and following along with her were many mourners from the village. 13 When the Lord saw her, His heart overflowed with sympathy. "Don't cry!" He said. 14 Then, as He walked over to the coffin and touched it, the bearers stopped. And He said, "Luddie,

Raiders Take On Cowboys

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (Special) - Two teams with similar personnel and styles of play - but with different won-lost records - will clash here tonight in the opening round of the Birmingham Classic Basketball Tournament.

And Texas Tech coach Gerald Myers hopes his team can make it to Saturday night's finals.

The Red Raiders, coming off an overtime win over Northeast Louisiana, will take on Oklahoma State in the first game of the tournament. Tipoff is at 7 p.m.

Immediately after the Tech-OSU contest, host Samford will tackle Western Illinois. The losers will play Saturday at 7 p.m., the winners at 9. "We're just a whole lot alike," Myers commented, prior to leaving Lubbock. "We have a young club, and so do they I wouldn't call our team physical, and Oklahoma State is about the same way. They have some 6-8, 6-7 kids, but they're not big, physical types." Says George Davidson, the Tech aide who scouted the Cowboys earlier this week: "Just like our team, they like to run when when they get a chance. And, I'd imagine we'll see some zone defense, although they switch around." The Raiders, despite the likenesses, will have an edge in the record. They have carved out a 5-1 record, the last being a 69-67 win in overtime when freshman David Little hitting the winning shot with two seconds remaining over Northeast Louisiana last Monday night. The Cowboys, in running up a 3-3 re-cord, have lost two of their last three, but both losses came to nationally regarded teams. They fell to Texas in Austin 85-70 last Saturday, then dropped a 94-91 ver-dict to Long Beach State Monday night.

The next night, they edged Oral Roberts Despite the work of several Raiders playing off the bench, Myers plans no lineup changes for tonight. He has gone with a unit of 6-8 sophomore Ralph Brewster, 6-9 sophomore Ralph McPherson, 6-5 junior Kent Williams, 6-4 freshman Jeff Taylor and 6-2 senior Geoff

Huston. With Myers playing upwards to 12 Raiders every game, the points have been well distributed. Only Williams (13.2) and Brewster (12.5) are averaing in double figures. And against the Louisiana team Myers lauded Little and guard Tommy Parks for providing the winning sparks. Also playing off the bench is Joe Baxter.

LCHS Opens With Victory

By JIM FERGUSON Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

What is that they say in the casinos of Lost Wages? You can't lose 'em all. They usually say it when you're trying to find someone to cover your IOUs or looking for a way to hock you alligator shoes for one more chance to get even.

But sport is built on cliches. And tradition. And maybe that's why Lubbock Christian High posted its first win in two years Thursday night at the Reese Air Force Christmas Classic basketball tour-

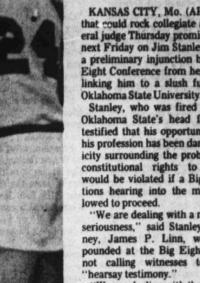

The Eagles went 0-3 in last year's event, however Thursday's 69-45 victory over Lubbock High assured the Gary Bowe-coached team that wouldn't happen this time around.

Bowe denied the rumor that the Eagles might be jinxed at the Reese gym. Instead he went for a better reason.

"We didn't play good basketball here last year," the LCHS coach pointed out. "We lost three games here and then lost our first one at the Caprock (tournament). That's (losing four straight) has never happened to me before. So we had a little talk and things have worked out for us."

Since dropping those four, the Eagles have gone on to win the TAPS state crown and 12 games in a row already this year. LCHS has yet to lose this year. In the early going, neither the Eagles nor the Westerners were able to do much when they got the ball as the first quarter See EAGLES Page 2

Stanley Says Rights To Find Job Damaged

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — In a case that could rock collegiate athletes, a federal judge Thursday promised a ruling by next Friday on Jim Stanley's request for a preliminary injunction barring the Big Eight Conference from hearing evidence linking him to a ruly fund scandal of linking him to a slush fund scandal at

Stanley, who was fired last month as Oklahoma State's head football coach, testified that his opportunity to practice his profession has been damaged by publicity surrounding the probe and said his constitutional rights to due process would be violated if a Big Eight infractions hearing into the matter were allowed to proceed.

"We are dealing with a matter of grave seriousness," said Stanley's chief attor-ney, James P. Linn, who repeatedly pounded at the Big Eight's practice of not calling witnesses to corroborate

"We are dealing with the right of a man to pursue his chosen profession, to feed

U.S. District Court Judge Russell G. Clark, who granted Stanley a temporary restraining order Nov. 30, the day Big Eight faculty representatives and athletic directors were to review the conference report on the investigation, took Stanley's request for a preliminary injunction Attorneys and staff members of the NCAA monitored the day-long proceedings. The investigatory and disciplinary processes of the NCAA, the ruling body of major college athletics, are similar to the Big Eight's and have also come under fire by critics who claim they are a violation of an individual's right of due process under law.

Stanley was smiling and confident at the end of the hearing.

"There's no way we can lose," he said. T've only had two objectives through all of this - to get my money and defend my reputation."

On Wednesday, Oklahoma State president L.L. Boger announced the university had agreed to pay off the two years remaining on Stanley's contract.

Stanley testified that after the investigation was begun earlier this year, Boger and Big Eight commissioner Charles M. Neinas asked him on more than one occasion to resign, "in the best interests of Oklahoma State." Responding to a question from Clark, he also denied any involvement in the alleged slush fund.

Neinas and Dr. Henry Lowe, professor of law and the University of Missouri's faculty representative to the Big Eight, described the Big Eight's procedures in gathering evidence and presenting it to conference officers. They said the OSU probe involved testimony from about 75 persons and was conducted fairly.

"Oklahoma State would be allowed to be represented in the hearing by whoever they choose," said Neinas. "It is our responsibility to determine the facts in a case as best we can."

Neinas testified he never asked Stanley to resign. He also said Stanley could have witnesses testify in his behalf if he wanted them and noted the Big Eight is not able to subpoena witnesses. He and Lowe testified that "live witnesses" would be reluctant to appear.

"In the history of the Big Eight Conference, has a witness ever been asked to appear at a hearing to corroborate the hearsay evidence gathered by the conference investigators?" Linn asked Neinas.

"No, sir," Neinas replied.

"They don't know whether they would appear or not," Linn told the court.
"They've never asked any witnesses to appear."

Former Sooner Aide Headed For OSU?

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Jimmy Johnson, a former assistant coach at the University of Oklahoma, is expected to be recommended today as the new head football coach at Oklahoma State University, an Oklahoma City newspaper reorted.

In its Friday edition, The Daily Oklahoman reported that Johnson, currently a defensive coach at the University of Pittsburgh, will be recommended to the Oklahoma State Board of Regents at its meeting today in Stillwater.

Johnson was in Stillwater Thursday night, according to one member of the Pitt coaching staff. One source close to the OSU search committee also indicated that Johnson will be recommended to the regents, the newspaper said.

Earlier Thursday, Baylor coach Grant Teaff announced he would remain as head coach at the Waco school. Johnson, Teaff, Texas assistant Leon Fuller and Tennesssee-Chattanooga coach Joe Morrison were reportedly the four candidates for the vacancy created by the firing of Jim Stanley on Nov. 21.

Fuller removed his name from consideration earlier in the week, but after Teaff bowed out, there were rumors that he would be contacted again. Fuller said Thursday night he had not been contacted by the committee again and Morrison said he has not talked to the committee since Monday.

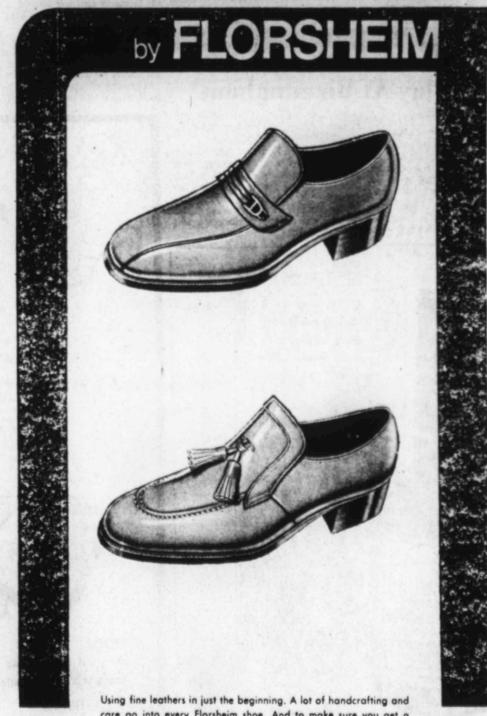

Johnson, 35, played college football at Arkansas, where he was a captain of the 1964 national champions.

He served as an assistant at Wichita State, Clemson, Louisiana Tech and Iowa State before going to OU in 1970, where he served as defensive line coach under Chuck Fairbanks.

He became defensive coordinator at Arkansas in 1973 and went to Pitt in 1976. He was reportedly in the running for the head post at Texas A&M after Emory Bellard resigned there in midseason and was also in the running for the head

Dave Smith, who preceded Stanley as Oklahoma State head coach, said he was still receiving adverse publicity from a 1975 probation of SMU when he was head coach there. All About Steve Yeager

By MICKEY HERSKOWITZ

Q. I'd like to know what Dodger catcher Steve Yeager does in the off-season and where he lives. Is there any possibility he will be traded by next season? I think he's one of the most underrated and not-talked-about players of the Dodger team. Does he like to keep his life private?

-M. N., Brainerd, Minn.

A. In the off-season, Yeager lives in Woodland Hills, in the beautiful San Fernando valley, where he has partnerships in several varied businesses. There is no talk of him being traded. Yeager's life may be private, but not because he shuns publicity. It has somehow just worked out that way.

Q. Can you please tell me if the 1958 sudden death game between Baltim and New York was the first sudden death game in NFL historY? I don't know when the rule was put in, but I seem to remember another game was so decided.

-Gary Siefert, Indianapolis.

A. The 1958 Baltimore victory over the New York Giants was the first league or championship game determined by the sudden death rule. However, in the preseason of 1955 a promoter in Portland, Ore., prevailed upon the LA Rams and the Giants to agree to a sudden death outcome of the game. This

-A. J. Cox, Chattanooga, Tenn.

A. Both are married. Fred Brown has two sons, Johnson no children. Brown lives on Mercer Island, near Seattle. Johnson lives in Bellview, a suburb of Seattle. Brown was born in Milwaukee, Johnson in San Pedro, Calif. Fred is known as Downtown Brown, courtesy of his teammates, because a 20-foot jump shot seems to be the same as a layup to him. Johnson, though he's second ranking scorer for Seattle, is known for his defensive prowess, and recently held Pete Maravich to six points and leads the club in blocked shots, though he is a guard. though he is a guard.

Q. Can you tell me what Super Bowl records, if any, Larry Csonka of the Giants holds? I figure he has to have some because he played in three Super Bowls. Also, who holds the record for most TD passes in a Super Bowl? It must be Fran Tarkenton, because he has been in four.

—Eddie Wakefield, Butte, Mont.

A. Csonka holds the most total yards record, because he gained 297 in three games. Franco Harris of Pittsburgh is second with 240 in two games. Roger Staubach of Dallas holds the most significant passing record, five touchdowns

LCC Tries

Paul Quinn

By RUSS PARSONS Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Nobody could blame Larry Hays if he started walking around looking over his shoulder. It seems he's got some kind of devil dog on his tail. First, the Lubbock Christian College basketball coach, whose squad faces Paul Quinn College tonight, lost his top scorer and rebounder midway through the season last year. Lamar Sampy, averaging 14.7 points and 7.5 boards game on a team that finished 4-22, died of complications of the flu.

A good recruiting year and it looked like maybe the Chaparrals could over-come the lose. Then the injury bug bit. Guard Bruce Carver cut a tendon in his hand while watching the Dallas Cow-boys; guard Marshall Smith dislocated a shoulder tussling with his roommate; center Kevin Wharton had to make do with a severly twisted ankle; forward Keith Gardner suffered what appeared to be a shoulder separation and forward Russell Boston came down with a sever case of the flu.

All of those were starters at one time or

But in addition to the odd shoulder and finger, a couple of losing streaks have been broken this fall semester and that has to give Hays hope.

First to fall was a five-game losing streak that dated since the beginning of the season. It bit the dust against Texas

Then came the biggie. LCC won its first road game in 35 (count 'em) starts against Tarleton Saturday night.

"Well, I said all along we're just trying to get better," Hays said. "It seems hard. We said we wanted to get competitive but when you've had three starters miss the whole season. .

"We haven't yet put our starting five out on the floor at the same time." Mind you, Hays doesn't have to do this. He is a highly successful baseball coach while he's not looking after the cagers. In fact, he quit the basketball program four years ago and just now returned.

There's only two games left for the Chaps in 1978. Tonight's game and Saturday they face Jarvis Christian. Both games are on the road. After that they have some time off to rest, regroup and try to get healthy. The next contest isn't till Jan. 11 at home against Eastern New

"Despite our 2-8 record, I'm happy with the talent we've had," Hays said. "I'm not happy with what we've been able to do with it.

For the record, Gardner is the team's leading scorer and rebounder, averaging 18.4 points and 12.0 boards a game. REDWOOD LEATHER

Pro Bowl game Jan. 29 against the American Football Conference.

The Cowboys and Rams will have nine players each on the 40-man roster, the eague office announced Thursday. The NFC squad, composed of 20 offensive, 17 defensive players and three specialists, was chosen in balloting among among the conference's 14 head coaches and NFL Players Association members on each

The American Football Conference team was announced earlier for the allstar game at the Memorial Coliseum in Los Angeles.

Runningback Tony Dorsett,1 who helped Dallas win the Eastern Division, will be one of three Cowboy players on the starting offensive unit for the NFC. The others are quarterback Roger Staubach and tight end Billy Joe DuPree.

In addition, the Cowboys will have three players on the starting defensive team - tackle Randy White and safeties Cliff Harris and Charlie Waters.

Los Angeles, the Western Division champion, will have three starters on the defense - end Jack Youngblood, tackle Larry Brooks and cornerback Pat Thom-else. The key for us will be the chill factor and the wind.

The Sun Devils, you see, aren't crazy about playing in anything less than ideal conditions. They only have to remember back as far as last season when they bowed to Colorado State 25-14 in the snow at Fort Collins, Colo. "You could gradually see us fade," said Kush, whose team took a 14-3 lead while it was just flurrying and then fell apart; when the snow turned into a full-fledged blizzard. "We just wanted to get the hell . out of there."

In this weekend's only other action, East Carolina plays Louisiana Tech in the Independence Bowl at Shreveport, La. and Florida A&M meets Massachusetts for the NCAA's Division I-AA championship at Wichita Falls.

The Sun Devils got a taste of what they thought was in store for them here last week when the temperature plunged to around 20 back home in the Phoenix area - "I've never heard of that before," said sports information director Moon Mullins - while it was milder than mild in

New York. "Colorado State psyched us out," Mullins said. "They came out in short sleeves while our kids were bundled up in parkas. You couldn't see across the field and every time the ball changed hands they'd say, 'Oh, my God, we have to go out there

Arizona State came here prepared for any eventuality.

'We brought everything," Kush said, "thermals, gloves; in fact, one female writer even gave me a pair of pantyhose because she heard all the players were wearing them."

Kush can't do anything about the weather, so he's not going to worry about it. He's more concerned with the mental attitude of his Sun Devils, who are favored by 11/2 to 21/2 touchdowns.

"I know we're ready physically," he said. "Mental attitude will be the big thing. What happens in a game like this is that you bring so many players and a lot of them aren't going to play or make any contribution. They're not seriously thinking about the game and they just distract the other kids.

Bartow's UAB Team Posts Fourth Victory

By The Associated Press Long before the season started, Gene Bartow insisted he would have a competitive basketball team in his first year at Alabama-Birmingham. And you know something? He was right.

Plunging head-first into a Division I basketball schedule in the first basketball season ever at UAB, Bartow has managed to keep his head above water as promised. Thursday night, he won for the fourth time in seven starts with a 100-81 decision over Georgia State in a Sun Belt. Conference game.

"It was the best game of the year for said Bartow. "If we can get that kind of play from our forwards, we will be a pretty good basketball team.

"We played like a finely tuned orchestra tonight. I've never been accused of running up a score. But the way we played tonight, we could have beaten a lot of teams."

Bartow coached at Memphis State, Illinois and UCLA before leaving the Lig-city lights for Birmingham, where he established the basketball program in the dual capacity of athletic director and Daryl Braden (formerly of TCU) and

Larry Spicer (a transfer from Baylor), two of Bartow's forwards, combined for 51 points to lead the Blazers' victory. No ranked teams were in action on a relatively light night in college basket-

Elsewhere, Sly Williams scored 21 points to lead Rhode Island to an 85-76 victory over Brigham Young. Otis Jack-son and Kevin Fromm combined for 38 points to pace Memphis State to an 89-69 decision over Valdosta State. Cricket Williams scored eight straight points in overtime to lead Jacksonville to a 74-71 decision over the University of New Orleans. Princeton edged Fordham 38-37 as John Lewis hit two free throws in the last minute. Kansas State routed Southern Illinois-Carbondale 91-66 as Steve Soldner scored 22 points. Bill Phillips and Calvin Garrett teamed for 38 points to power Oral Roberts to an 83-71 decision over Tulsa. Sammy Drummer's 26 points helped Georgia Tech beat Tennessee Tech 108-63.

Wagner beat Harvard 82-73 behind Jamie Campaglio's 22 points. Ron Jones scored a game-high 20 points as Illinois State defeated Cal Poly-Pomona 92-64. Wichita State walloped South Dakota 93-75 as Steve Kalochinski collected 18

Evan Robinson scored 25 points, leading Xavier of New Orleans to a 100-77 decision over Mississippi Valley. Lonnie Leggette hit four free throws to stave off a North Park rally in the final minutes and give South Alabama a 75-68 victory.

Kurt Moore scored 22 points to lead Weber State to an 83-65 victory over Eastern Washington. George Sims converted a three-point play and then Eddie Harris blocked a last-second shot to give West Texas State a 79-78 triumph over North Irvin Kiffin scored 16 points as Ath-letes-In-Action defeated Ohio State 83-71 in an exhibition game.

Rockets' Win

HOUSTON (AP) - In the first two games against Golden State this season, Houston center Moses Malone was held to only 20 points by Warriors center Rob-

Lyle Retells Story In Own Defense

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) - Heavyweight boxer Ron Lyle punched a pistol out of a deputy district attorney's right hand with blows that echoed through the courtroom to reconstruct the fatal shooting of his former roadman, Vernon "Rip" Clark.

"I knocked the gun loose. I reached for it. He reached for it. It went off," Lyle testified Thursday at his second-degree murder trial in Jefferson County District Court here.

Lyle was the final witness in his defense, which has maintained that the boxer killed Clark in self defense. The boxer said Clark whipped out the pistol after they argued over money at Lyle's suburban Lakewood home last New Year's Eve. Prosecutor Dan Fahrney, in cross examination, asked Lyle to reconstruct the struggle. A deputy district attorney, in the role of Clark, pointed a pistol at Lyle's head. Lyle swiftly grabbed the attorney's gun hand with his left hand and struck the man's right arm with his right hand, knocking the gun to the floor. The man who fought Muhammad Ali for the heavyweight title repeated the sequence in slow motion and showed how he picked up the gun.

Golden State moved into a 107-105 lead on a slam dunk by Parish, but Malone tied the score again with a pair of free throws with 31 seconds left to send the game into overtime.

Calvin Murphy, who scored 34 points for the Rockets including eight in the overtime, put Houston ahead to stay with two free throws with 1:01 left.

Rick Barry, who added 23 points while helping beat his old teammates for the first time, scored on a layup and added a free throw seconds later to wrap up the Rockets fourth straight victory.

"We have our combinations working very well now," said Murphy as Houston moved one half game ahead of idle Atlanta in the NBA Central Division. "There can't be any excuses for us now.

"I'd like to see Moses play like he did tonight all the time. He was just super out there," Murphy said.

Short scored a career-high 27 points and Smith added 22 for the Warriors, who lost to the Rockets for only the third time in the last nine meetings of the two clubs. Ironically, all three of the triumphs have come in overtime.

Elon Coach Eyes ASU Not Entire LSC Loop

Jerry Tolley is quick to point out that his Fighting Christians are playing only Angelo State — not the entire Lone Star Conference — in Saturday's inaugural City of Palms Bowl here.

"We're playing for the national title and Angelo State happens to be there al-so," Tolley said. "They're not going to beat us before we get on the field. A lot of people are too respectful of the LSC."

But that may be because a lot of people can read the records. LSC teams have won the NAIA Division I title eight of the past nine years. The LSC teams have rolled up a respect-grabbing 278-88 scoring margin in the finals.

And Tolley has seen the LSC magic at work. In 1973, Abilene Christian manhandled Elon of North Carolina 42-14 in the

"We didn't think we were going to beat Abilene Christian," Tolley said, "This time our guys think they can win."

ASU is rated as up to a three-touch-down favorite over the 11-1-1 Christians. Coach Jim Hess' undefeated Rams are looking for their 14th win of the year — believed to be a college record.

Teaff, after turning an attentive ear toward the Oklahoma offers the early part of this week, announced Thursday a com-mitment he has to Baylor University remains unchanged.

The job of succeeding Jim Stanley. fired two weeks ago, was his for the having. Teaff turned down a reported $50,000 to stay at the school where he won a Southwest Conference football title four years ago.

It was Baylor that hired Teaff from Angelo State seven years ago, making him the nation's youngest major college head coach.

In a "clarifying" statement Thursday, Teaff said he never was as interested in taking over the Stillwater, Okla., job as newspaper reports seemed to indicate.

"In order to clarify the situation concerning the Oklahoma State University football job, I would like to make it clear I have a commitment to Baylor Universithe purposes of the University and to the young men that are my responsibility. That commitment has not changed," he

Lambright paused a while, then responded: "He's my nephew."

Actually, Barkley is no relation to Lambright, but the coach will probably adopt him as son and heir if the youngster can penetrate the East Carolina defense.

The Pirates from Greenville, N.C., gave up an average of 204.8 yards a game over the season—just a yard more gen-over the season - just a yard more gen-erous than Penn State, the nation's de-Dye said his defensive end Zack Valentine, a 230-pounder, is "the finest defensive end I've ever seen.'

Valentine has registered seven quarterback sacks this season And the freshman will be throwing into a tough defensive secondary led by safety Gerald Hall and cornerback Charlie Carter. That secondary has intercepted 19 passes this season, allowing just 76.1

yr'ds a game passing.
East Carolina was 8-3 for the regular season, while Tech, defending Independence Bowl champion, is 6-4.

Western Hills Teams Triumph

Jeff Shadden scored 18 points Thursday night to lift Western Hills Baptis: Academy past First Church of God Christian in a High Plains Atletic Association boys basketball game Thursday night.

Western Hills broke a three-game losing streak with the victory. Western Hills had dropped contests to Plainview Christian, Christ the King and the Monterey and Levelland junior varsity teams.

The win lifted Western Hills record to 2-3 overall and 2-0 in district play. In girls action, Beth Elliott accounted for 17 points, Julie Harrilson had 13 rebounds to lead Western Hills Baptist Academy by First Church of God Christian 46-25 in a girls district contest. The win evens the Western Hills girls'

Illinois Cancels Athletic Meeting

CHAMPAIGN, III. (AP) - Officials have cancelled a special meeting original-ly scheduled for today at which the status of athletic director Cecil Coleman was to have been discussed.

The cancellation by the University of Illinois Athletic Association's board of directors was announced Thursday.

Financial contributors to the university have complained about Coleman and there have been rumors that his job was Board president Jack Chamblin said a date for the board's regular February meeting will be set. Chamblin said the special meeting was called off because rumors and speculation about its purpose might put "ex-treme pressure" on board members to make a decision on Coleman's future "when, in fact, none would be forthcom-

Steelers Get Nod Over Denver In Playoff Preview

What's that? You don't understand the National Football League playoff picture, even as the teams enter the final week of the legame schedule? Shame on you. You obviously haven't been paying attention to the detailed explanations.

If Team A beats Team B this week, then Team C advances, provided, of course, it has a better intraconference record than Team D, which must play Team E for the. . .

Don't worry about a thing. It will all fall into place Monday night when the regular season ends and the Super Bowl

Nevil Grabs Costa Rica Golf Lead

SAN JOSE. Costa Rica (AP) - A heart condition almost ended Dwight Nevil's golfing career in the spring. But his comeback reached a high when he took the first-round lead in the PGA Tour's $100,000 Central and South American Open at the Cariari Country Club

Nevil went into today's second round holding a 2-stroke lead after battling gusty winds and tricky greens for a 3-under par 34-34-68.

Nevil. a 44-year-old Texan, leads George Knudson of Canada and young Jim Chancey of the United States, the only other players in the field of 70 professionals to break par.

"I've had an irregular heart beat, much too fast," Nevil said. "It has gotten worse through the years and I've had shaky hands. So I took shock treatment in April and have been taking pills. But I haven't won a check since."

On Thursday, he carded four birdies and a bogey when "I blew a three-footer on No. 5," he said. His biggest problem stemming from his physical condition is lack of confidence.

"This round helps. When you're playing in a wind (gusts reached 30 miles) it's easy to mis-hit the ball. You must hit the ball solid and keep in your mind that you will miss some greens. I must have missed five of six. But I'll take this round every day," he said.

Nevil never has won a major tournament. His two previous victories came in second tier events.

Chancey got off to a ragged start - bogey. double bogey — before recovering for four birdies and 12 pars. "Because of the wind you have to keep the ball down and hit solid shots, and I'm pretty good at that," he said.

Knudson was 3 under par after five holes, but he missed his only fairway on 15th and took a double bogey. Before the Caribbean tour was discontinued in 1973, Knudson had won five on 19 tournaments

"I guess I'm a good wind player," Knudson said. "You have to hang tough,

The golfers were driving into a strong wind on the second hole, where just one player, Alan Pate, managed a birdie. He was one of four golfers to card par 71. Bobby Walzel soared to a 9 on the par-4 hole on his way to a 78.

Michael Morris remained in "very critical condition" this morning in Methodist Hospital and has not regained conscious-

Morris, a walk-on footballer who played a leading role in Texas Tech's 22-21 upset of SWC champion Houston last month, has been in a comatose state since coming of the operating room ear-lier this week.

It was reported that Morris went into the hospital last Monday for surgery on a thyroid gland, and during the surgery, his heart stopped for a time. Later, it was reported that the heartbeat stopped after leaving the operating room, and he lapsed into a coma.

Morris, feeling the operation was rou-tine, had taken his textbooks with him the the hospital, planning to spend his time there studying for final exams, scheduled next week.

Morris, a sophomore wide receiver from Wilmer-Hutchins, was a walk-on but he played extensively in the Houston game. He caught a 21-yard pass from full-back James Hadnot to set up Tech's win-ning touchdown in the final three minutes of the game.

Strength Meets Speed In Pioneer Bowl Clash

WICHITA FALLS (AP) - The heavyweight strength of Massachusetts collides with the speed and agility of Florida AM here Saturday in the Pioneer Bowl, the first national football championship ever held in the NCAA's Division 1-AA.

Coach Rudy Hubbard's Rattlers would have had a perfect record for the past two years were it not for a field goal that Tennessee State kicked six weeks ago for a 24-21 upset victory over Florida AM. Last year, the Rattlers were the only undefeated and untied team in the NCAA.

Hubbard said he doesn't expect to change his game plan any this Saturday, that they'll be doing what they do best— playing defensive ball.

Nose guard Harold Oliver, 6-1, 225pounds, and defensive end Jeff Grady, 6-3. 215-pounds, anchor the Oklahoma-style 5-2 defense, which statistically leads the nation in its division for most of the season this year.

The Rattlers' offense suffered a bad blow when Ike Williams, who with over 1,200 yards rushing, became the school's only player ever to rush for more than 1,yards, broke his leg against But Hubbard says running backs Michael Solomon and Melvin McFayden have picked up the slack. And offensive guard Tyrone McGriff, 6-1, 265, has been voted to the AP Little All-American team for the second year in a row.

Massachusetts, 9-3, brings a much heavier team into the game, led on the defense by 230-pound linebacker Joe McLaughlin

Bob Pickett, in his rookie year as head coach, says the Minutemen are defensively oriented but that the offense has exploded recently so that the team is very well balanced. "I think we're right at our peak," Pickett said after Wednesday's practice.

Massachusetts' statistics aren't as impressive as Florida AM's but the team has played a tougher schedule with many Division I teams, including Holy Cross. The Minutemen offense has averaged 35 points per game in the last five games, mainly behind the blocking of offensive Massachusetts gained the finals by whipping previously undefeated University of Nevada-Reno, 44-21, last Saturday in Reno.

Florida AM gained the finals by beating Jackson State, 15-10. Both coaches said they consider the game a toss-up.

Buffs Defeat Eagles 79-78

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - George Sims converted a three-point play and then Eddie Harris blocked a last-second shot to give West Texas State a #ild, 79-78 victory Thursday night over North Texas State in a nonconference basketball game.

West Texas had led throughout the sec-ond half until the Eagles' Don Manning sank a lay-in with 29 seconds remaining to put North Texas into a 78-76 lead. Then Sims sank a lay-in with 16 seconds left and then was fouled and made the decisive free throw. After a time out, North Texas tried to work for a last-second shot but Harris blocked Manning's effort and came up with the loose ball, Manning led all scorers with 39 points, 27 of them in the second half. Ken Robinson added 18 and Waymond Lister 11. while Dave Wilburn came off the bench for 17 and Darrell Atkinson added 10. West Texas State led at the half, 40-33.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market retreated today, confronted with the prospect of a price increase by oil-exporting countries.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 2.34 at Losers outnumbered gainers by a

7-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. The Organization of Petroleum

Exporting Countries was sched-uled to hold its semiannual meeting over the weekend in Abu Dha-News reports today said the oil ministers were in agreement that the price should be raised, and analysts generally were looking for an increase in the 5 to 10 percent The prospect of a price increase has been well advertised in advance. But brokers pointed out that the idea was still a source of concern to investors already worried about the inflation outlook. Declines in most individual issues were modest. Among early NYSE-listed volume leaders, Gulf Oil was unchanged at 25; Mesa Petroleum dropped 1/2 to 301/4, and Exxon was unchanged at 49%. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dropped .08 to 53.62. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .21 at 150.00.

Volume on the Big Board came to 9.32 million shares at noontime against 9.52 million at the same point Thursday.

Media Trust Legislation Planned

SEINGTON (AP) — Sen. elect La saler, R-S.D., said today te plans ucc antitrust legislation in C called for a new "Teddy A

Co. Inc., which owns numerous financial publications including The Wall Street. Journal, and Gannett Co. Inc., which has more than 70 newspapers and television holdings. Pressler also cited Time Inc. as a target for federal trustbusters.

Pressler, elected to the Senate last month after two terms in the House, urged limiting the number of papers a company may own, as well as placing restrictions on cross-ownership, in which a firm may own several types of media outlets.

Pressler said the antitrust effort he advocates can be accomplished without violating the free speech guarantees of the First Amendment to the Constitution.

He said news monopolies pose three

He said news monopolies pose three dangers:

—The possible slanting of news.

—Unfair competition in which large companies could lower advertising rates to drive out competitors.

—The example set for other industries.

"Many in Congress complain of oil monopolies and other business conglomerates, but few raise voices against the more powerful media monopolies," Pressler said.

At Thursday's symmosium session.

At Thursday's symposium sessions.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., accuss the Justice Department of a "dismal p formance" in enforcing antitrust laws a der the Carter administration. Udall, a 1976 presidential primary foe of President Carter, said the president and the department's antitrust chief, John Shenefield, have done almost nothing to "overturn the avalanche of cor-

While criticizing the Justice Department, Udall gave high marks to the FTC, which also has antitrust jurisdiction. He said the FTC is "designed to rattle a few cages" and is doing this.

Recent mergers have eliminated many companies and formed larger surviving companies. "The day is fast coming when we won't have enough manufacturing firms in this country to make up a Fortune 500," the Arizona congressman said. "We may soon only be able to find 400 companies," he said, referring to the magazine's listing of the largest corporations.

"Today less than 1 percent of all U.S. corporations, about 200 big firms, control two-thirds of all manufacturing assets. And two percent of all U.S. corporation control some 90 percent of all net profit That's an incredible statistic — and very troubling one," Udall said. Competition is essential to the Amer can economic system because companies are more efficient and tend to hold down prices when they must compete, Udall said. However, monopoly status is more profitable, Jeading to the increase in corporate takeovers, he said.

Police Kill Passenger

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI) — A passenger on Amtrak's crowded Southwest Limited train "went berserk" early today, tried to set himself on fire and fired at least one shot at two crewmen. He left the train and was shot and killed by pol-

A police spokesman said the man was shot at least twice by officers after he left the train in Hutchinson shortly after 2 a.m. Police Chief Bob Adams said two police officers were waiting for the man when he got off the train. The man died about three hours later at a Hutchinson hospital.

A spokesman for Amtrak in Hutchinson, Melvin Rainbolt, said "the man just went berserk when a porter tried to wake him. He pulled a gun on him."

Another Amtrak official, Sue Stevens, said the man fired at the porter and conductor on the train while standing in the baggage, or crew car. She said none of the estimated 180 persons on the train were in the line of fire. Adams said the man had been identified as Howard Smith, 65, by a Social Security card that was found in his wallet. The police chief said the conductor told officers the man tried to set himself on

"While doing the shooting," Adams said, "the conductor told us the man set his coat on fire deliberately. I'm assuming that he was wearing it but I can't say for sure because we didn't see it. But that's what the conductor told us. "I know he wasn't wearing the coat. when he was shot,"

Glad You Asked That!

Q: I've heard that George Meany's father also was the president of a powerful union. If true, which one? — L.T.R., Tulsa,

A: The elder Meany was the prexy of a local plumbers' union in New York City, where George was born, Aug. 16, 1894. It was a powerful union, but not as big as the one his son runs these

Q: My grandfather, a great admirer of Will Rogers in the good old days when the humorist wrote and told gags satirizing Con-gress, says Will was once a congressman. Was he? — Bill Dunn,

A: No. But his son, Will Rogers Jr., was elected to Congress in 1912. (Once Will Sr. said he never satirized Congress, explaining: "How can you satirize a satire?")

Q: Was Jackie Mason, that very funny fellow, once a rabbi? — Karla Cohen, Philadelphia.

A: Yes, for a short while, but long enough to officiate at marrying four or five couples, he once told us. He came from a long line of rabbis. His father and three brothers were ordained, while his three sisters married rabbis. (Note: Jackie will be seen shortly on TV when he plays the role of a consumer advocate in a comedy mini-series.)

Q: We've often read the phrase "taxi squad" referring to football players. Who are they and what do they do on the team? -Mrs. L.P., Oakland.

A: We called on an expert to get the answer — Bob Sheridan, the announcer on Don King's football and fight promotions. Here's Bob's scribbled reply, written on the run: "Though this system are dischard from the run." system was dissolved four or five years ago by the NFL, it consisted of seven men on a squad but not on the active roster. On any given week during the season a member of the taxi squad could be named to active status. They got the name because they took taxis to the games, and were paid a modest sum even if they didn't play. Originally the rules prohibited the boys from dressing for games or traveling with the team."

News in a nutshell: Golf pro Lee Elder has won $146,348 thus far this year on the Pro Tour, putting him in a bracket almost as respectable as the income other black athletes earn in football, basketball, baseball, fighting, etc. But as a golfer he still has the advantage. All he's expected to do is break par, not his neck or

Buddy Hackett's superformance in NBC-TV's Abbott and Costello flashback (with Harvey Korman playing straight man Bud) again proves a funnyman can be a fine actor when he gets the chance to turn his talents inside out. We knew Lou almost as well as we know Buddy. But the latter's emoting was so believable that after a few reels you forgot "Lou" was Hackett. That's the acid test in acting, worthy of a statuette named Oscar

Michael Collins, command module pilot of Apollo 11, who wrote a best-selling book on space flight, now directs the Smithsonian's air and space museum. But to give you an idea of the pranks fate plays, another of our spacemen met with the strangest accident the other day, in Louisville, Ky. Neil Armstrong, dubbed the All-American Boy when he was the first man to walk on the moon from which he returned to terra-firma without mishap, almost lost a finger when his wedding band caught on a door as he jumped from a truck! caught on a door as he jumped from a truck!

Houston Featuring Christmas Exhibit

HOUSTON (AP)- An evergreen scent draws visitors past the paintings and sculpture in the Houston Museum of Fine Arts to a celebration of Christmas around the world.

A 12-foot "American Tree" at the museum entrance, set up by the Garden Club of Houston, heralds the exhibit. The tree is sumptuously trimmed with lights and more than 1,000 hand-made ornaments from West Germany.

The decorations are reproductions of those brought to America by German immigrants, who introduced the custom of the tannenbaum to the New World.

The imposing evergreen represents the custom of the community tree that dates back 100 years and is still popular in many cities and towns throughout the United States.

A visitor need only follow his nose to the Masterson Junior Gallery and the rest of the exhibit: "Traditions and Festivals - Heritages in Houston."

Prominent in the display is an Italian Creche, a miniature nativity scene telling the story of Christ's birth. The Holy Family is sheltered in a grotto instead of a stable, surrounded by animals, angels, shep-herds and the Three Wise Men, who closer to the grotto each day. The infant Jesus enters the scene Christmas

Next is a scene depicting a 10-year-old girl's room as it might appear during Ha-nukkah, the eight-day Jewish Feast of Lights whose beginning coincides this year with Christmas Day. A tape record-

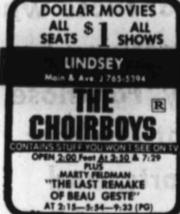

The visitor also gets a look at a presentday Swedish Christmas and a rural Mexican fiesta, complete with adobe hut and children breaking a pinata full of candy

The exhibit then brings him north to the Lone Star State with two exhibits - a reproduction of a dining room in the home of a Gulf Coast planter circa 1890-1910 and a trek through the museum's Little Thicket.

Decorating the turn-of-the-century home is a native cedar hung with traditional paper ring chains and popcorn, and a Christmas table set with antique china.

The "Texas Forest" is a Piney Woods replica replete with ceramic animals created by students from the museum's junior school and special classes at Texas Children's and M.D. Anderson hospitals, Houston School for the Deaf and Montrose Elementary School.

The exhibit, which is free, continues through the end of the month.

Ritter Claims Program Fun

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — John Ritter may have the most envisble job in television, frolicking every day with co-stars Suzanne Somers and Joyce DeWitt in "Three's Company," the top-rat-

As Jack Tripper, the girl-crazy, eye-waggling bachelor who lives with a gor-geous brunette (Miss DeWitt) and a sexy, addlepated blonde with an enormous bosom (Miss Somers), Ritter is a man blessed by a festival of riches.

Ritter enjoys his working conditions qually as much as Tripper reveis in his living arrangement.

John, 30, is the son of the late country and western singing star, Tex Ritter. He's articulate, well educated and reluctant to talk about himself.

As for his job with Suzanne and Joyce, John can hardly wait to get to work every

"There's a tremendous affection among the cast, including Audra Lindley and Norman Fell," he said. "We really care for one another.

"We touch a lot. We give one another back rubs. It's a delight working with them. I never thought I'd make a living and have so much fun at the same time.

"Every day it's like coming to a play-ground. Our guest stars are treated like members of the family. We make it a point to get them into the spirit of the show. We make it a point never to leave them out of the fun.

John was a bachelor when the series began. He worried about separating work and romantic involvement, although he was seriously attached to actress Nancy Morgan, a great beauty herself.

"When I took the role I thought it would be hard to remain true to Nancy,' he said. "I had all these little fantasies about my co-stars. But it wasn't long be-fore Joyce and Suzanne and I established strong friendships. "I tease them like Jack kids Janet and Chrissie on the show. It gave our relation-ships a different emphasis, one that is very much the same as the characters we "It would ruin the premise of the show if viewers were lead to believe that Jack

"Three's Company" is often criticized for being too racy.

John shrugs off the critics. He gets mail from both men and women with similar living arrangements praising the trio's lightly the critics.

He refuses to say whether he would enjoy living with a couple of girls himself, on a platonic basis or otherwise.

"My best friend up in San Francisco lived with a couple of pretty girls," he said. "It was a matter of economics and it was platonic. Americans are breaking the barriers on that sort of living arran

"The people who complain about the racy elements in the series have no idea what goes on in rehearsals. We soften it up when the crew comes in for rehearsals and then soften it up even more for th studio audience.

"Norman Fell and I play a whole bunch of weird characters off-camera just for the fun of it. There are a lot of sight gags and jokes about the girls' figures, but that's the way Jack is.

"You could say there isn't a great deal of difference between me and Jack.
Sometimes I think he's about 10 years younger than I am and not as well read.

"We work in terms of farce on the show and I can identify with the things he does and says. I guess it comes out of my is making out with either one of them. And, of course, the same is true if any-

pera Critic Lavishes Praise On Soprano, Tenor In 'Tosca'

By MARY CAMPBELL NEW YORK (AP) — Shirley Verrett and Luciano Pavarotti, two stars who have expanded their vocal range to accommodate the best parts in opera, triumphed Wednesday night in "Tosca" at the Metropolitan Opera.

Next Tuesday's performance will be televised live nationwide on PBS.

Pavarotti has been a magnificent lyric tenor, floating his voice through the light tenor roles. But the big, important roles are written for tenors with a louder, more robust sound, and Pavarotti has un-

Viets Shell China Post

HONG KONG (UPI) - Armed Vietnamese intruded into China this week and shelled a border outpost, seriously wounding a Chinese security guard, Peking charged.

The reported attack came after China's Vice Premier Li Hsien-nien accused Vietnam of serious provocations and sternly warned that "China's forebearance has Peking's New China News Agency. monitored in Hong Kong, said the intrusion began at 8:20 a.m. when the Vietnamese "lobbed one shell at a Chinese outpost on the border.'

"Later more than 40 armed Vietnamese intruded into China and took three heights in Liaohang (in China's Kwangsi Chuang Autonomous Region)," the agency said.

"At 3:30 p.m., the Vietnamese fired over 30 rounds from one of the heights at Panchiu village, in Liaohang area, wounding seriously Liang Chien, a member of the Chinese patrol team," said the agency, monitored in Hong Kong.

Vietnam is embroiled in a protracted border battle with China. China also supports Cambodia in its more bloody war against Vietnam, which is aided in turn, by the Soviets.

The warning by Li Hsien-nien, vice premier and vice chairman of the Communist Party, followed the strongest formal protest yet made to Vietnam since differences between the two countries erupted into the open almost a year ago.

Opera Stages 'Baby Doe'

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas Civic Opera wound up a successful fall season Wednesday night by staging its first American work—Douglas Moore's The Ballad of Baby Doe.

Ruth Welting, who sang the title role on a live telecast from the Lincoln Center two years ago, headed the large cast, with baritone Julian Patrick playing her husband, Horace Tabor. Frances Bible repeated the role of Horace's cast-off first wife, Augusta, which she first created when the opera had its world premiere at Center City, Colo., 22 years ago.

Emerson Buckley, another veteran from that first performance, conducted the lively score, which at times sounded like grand opera and at others more like a modern musical, with its Noel Cowardish male and female quartets.

The Ballad of Baby Doe, based on the true story of the millionaire owner of the Matchless Mine, who ruined himself because of his fanatical devotion to silver, makes effective but unusual opera. It will be repeated tonight and at a Sunday mat-prediction of the late Fred Allen on the impact of TV: "The next generation will have eyes as big as cantaloupes - and no brains at all."

Which leads to a note on a new book, "Eyes as Big as Cantaloupes." You might pick up a copy if you are in the market for a good yuletide read about television and various inmates thereof.

Written by Don Freeman, TV editor of the San Diego Union, "Eyes" doesn't brim with inside scam on devious network moguls, wayward starlets or the significance of a feud at "Welcome Back,

It does brim with graceful, often whimsical thoughts on some past TV bombs and nifties, plus conversations with such varied folk as Henny Youngman, Gary Cooper, Mae West and Ted "Dr. Seuss" Geisel.

The chats aren't of the puff-piece variety in which the star says, "The character I play is..." No, they actually reveal something about the nature of the cus-

In the reviewing section, Freeman's con-cons are performed gently, without cheap shots. He doesn't pummel the poor show so briskly it emerges but a station break of its former self.

Of an NBC awful, for example, he writes: "Oscar Levant, that acerbic fellow, once said he couldn't watch Dinah Shore because of his diabetes. I wondered, watching that 90-minute epic about Grace Kelly ... just what Oscar would have said about this one."

A nice tome, this "Eyes as Big as Cantaloupes." It has style, perspective and a tone of good humor that reminds you TV

by Whipple and Borth Hussein Criticizes U.S. Efforts In Middle East Peace Talks

PARIS (AP) — King Hussein criticized the United States Thursday for its "extremely vague" answers to questions on the Camp David accords and said Jordan would stay out of the current Mideast Peace talks.

He told a news conference here that the United_States had given the "extremely vague and unacceptable" responses to precise questions on the future of the West Bank, Gaza and the other territories occupied by Israel in the 1967 Mideast

The U.S. answers to these outstanding questions "do not encourage us to consider involvement in the process in any formal way," he said.

Jordan and the other Arab nation opposing the accords "seek to know what the end result of any process or suggested process is," he said, adding there was 'no clear end" to the Camp David meth-

Hussein said the objectives must be "a just and durable peace" based on complete Israeli withdrawal, the return of East Jerusalem to Arab sovereignty, and the right of the Palestinians to self-determination, including establishment of an independent state if they wished. He said the current difficulties in finalizing the Camp David agreement were 'not a very encouraging sign in terms of Israel's position and in terms of a change in their intransigence" over many years.

Hussein repeated that he saw overall peace coming only in a framework that included the United States, the Soviet Union and possibly Europe, adding he did not believe in "a piecemeal approach Hussein said Jordan and the other Arab nations were studying the possibility of asking the U.N. Security Council to redefine Resolution 242, the basic U.N. text on the situation, as a possible starting point for a new peace process. The resolution calls for the withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied territories and respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of every state in the area.

Norwegian Concern Bankrupt

OSLO, Norway (AP) - After only nine months of state ownership the Noregian Tandberg Radio and Television concern - once the flagship of Norway's electronics industry - has been declared bankrupt.

The concern's 2,016 Norwegian workers will lose their jobs before Christmas, Minister of Industry Olav Haukvik said. The estate was placed under Oslo pro-bate court administration Thursday.

The bankruptcy also will affect Tandberg's Color tv set production plant at Haddington, Scotland and 12 subsidiary sales companies abroad.

Eighty Norwegian sub-contractors producing for Tandberg also may be severely hurt. These companies have some 1,000

Haukvik said the most profitable of Tandberg's production departments will be reorganized into a new company which may save some 800 jobs in Nor-

The Tandberg companies abroad have some 400 to 500 workers and it is unclear how many of those jobs can be saved. The TV factory in Scotland employs some 100 people and is profitable. Some 300 Norwegian radio and TV dealers who owe Tandberg $32 million dollars in special sales credit also may be hit hard if the probate court rules these credits must be paid back in full to the es-

At present Tandberg has accumulated debts of some $82 million. Total losses in Norway's biggest post-war bankruptcy will be in the range of $20 million, reports indicated.

Haukvik said the government is pre-gared to use $10 million to support the concern in an interim period until a new company has been organized to continue operation of the most profitable units, including data techniques and so-called "language laboratories" for education purposes. Such a new company also yould guarantee service on exisisting Tandberg products.

When taking over Tandberg only nine months ago, the Norwegian government supported the firm with $47 million.

Tandberg Radiofabrikk A-S was started by the enthusiastic engineer Vebjoern Tandberg as a private company in 1933. It soon became the flagship of Norway's electronics industry.

Painting Again On Exhibit

LONDON (AP) - A 17th-century inting that was shredded with a kitchen knife by a vandal in the National Gallery went on exhibit again this week. "The Adoration of the Golden Calf" by
