fighters and helicopters buzzed sections of Tehran today in a show of government force as tens of thousands of defiant marchers chanted support for Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's nominee to head a provisional revolutionary regime.

The exodus of foreigners continued with about 400 more Americans and 70 Canadians leaving in American military transport planes.

An American Embassy spokesman said about 5,000 Americans remained in Iran out of an estimated 50,000 when the turmoil started a year ago. In other developments:

-Andrew Young, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, was quoted in the West German news magazine Der Spiegel as saying the United States failed to forecast events in Iran because "it didn't want to see them."

-American sources in Tehran confirmed that Gen. Robert C. Huyser, deputy commander of American forces in Europe, had left Iran after more than a month. Sources said he was in Iran urging the Iranian military to support Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar

Khomeini's backers said Huyser's presence there was another example of American inteference.

Bakhtiar told the lower house of Parliament he would remain in office "even if all the parliamentary deputies resign" and until he conducts the next general election, despite de mands by Khomeini that he resign immediately

"I have nothing to do with governments that exist in the imagination of people and are more of a joke," Bakhtiar said of Khomeini's designation of Mehdi Bazargan as interim prime minister "But if they start

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iranian jet taking action, I will respond accordingly.

The state radio reported that Parliament approved dissolving the dreaded SAVAK secret police and speeding up the corruption trials of former officials.

The fly-over by nine F-14 jet fighters and about 100 Chinook and Huev helicopters was the second such show of force in a week.

The planes and helicopters passed over the marchers in formations. The jets made about six passes over the volatile university district, and each time the crowd shouted "Allah Akbar" (God is great).

On Monday, Khomeini named Bazargan, a longtime foe of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, to form a transition government. He said it would hold elections for a constituent assembly that would ratify a new constitution abolishing the 2,500-year-old monarchy and making Iran an Islamic republic.

Bakhtiar told Radio Tehran: "I will have no objection to the announcement of a temporary government provided this government plays the role of a shadow government or future government. But if it comes to action, it's a different thing.

Bazargan said his government would be a "real" one, not a shadow Cabinet.

The officer corps remains loyal to the shah and Bakhtiar, but some Western diploats believe the commanders doubt their own strength and are eager to find a way to compromise with Khomeini.

Bakhtiar's foreign minister, Ahmed Mir-Fendereski, said today Iran will leave the 24-year-old CENTO alliance with Britain, Pakistan, Turkey and the United States and "belong neither to the West nor the East.'

A flight schedule for Braniff's service to Midland Regional Airport and hook-up destinations on that plan were announced during a news conference today at the airport today.

Making the announcement was Ro bert H. Burck, senior vice president with Braniff and a 47-year veteran of Braniff will have two flights from Midland Regional Airport daily. The first will depart at 6:55 a.m., arriving in Dallas-Fort Worth at 7:45 a.m. and in Chicago at 10:20 a.m. That flight to DFW will make connections to numerous Braniff points, including the Concorde service to Washington, D.C., Paris and London, Burck noted

The second flight will leave the Midland Odessa area at 1: 40 p.m. and arrive at DFW at 2: 30 p.m., Memphis. Tenn, at 4:35 p.m., Washington National Airport at 7:45 p.m. and New ark Airport in the New York metropolitan area at 9:10 p.m.

Two flights will be landing daily in Midland Midland. The first will depart John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York at 5: 45 p.m., stop. in Dallas and arrive in Midland at

The second flight will originate in Cleveland, Ohio with an 8 a.m. departure and stop in Chicago and DFW before arriving in Midland at 12:55

To introduce area residents to Braniff service, the airline is instituting an $18 one-way fare to Dallas-Fort said. Starting April 1, a one-way

'super coach' fare of $28 will begin. Plans for a ceremony to mark the inaugural flight have not been completed yet, Burck said.

Braniff already has a ticket office, located in a mobile home outside the south end of the airport building, is ready for operation, Col. Wilson Banks, director of aviation, said.

Recommendations on constructing a ticket counter inside the terminal building will be made at the Midland City Council's Feb. 13 meeting, Banks

Planning group ignores staff recommendations

Commission members went against two city planning department staff recommendations Monday, voting in favor of two zone changes

Herman L. Harris was asking that zoning on a lot west of Tyler Street and south of Scharbauer Drive be changed from LR-1, local retail district, to LR-3, also a local retail district, but with different restrictions.

Harris said he wants to locate a cabinet shop on the lot. He got his zone change, but not until Richard Hennessy, director of planning and community development, told the commission the site would not be suitable for such a business

The area is zoned LR-1, and should remain that way, Hennessy said. Commission member Robert Southerland remarked, "You should have told us this six or eight meetings ago that this was not a suitable spot for a cabinet shop."

Southerland was referring to the first time Harris appeared before the commission in October 1978, when his request to change the zoning to com-

A record overnight low of 15 de grees, two degrees below the old mark of 17 degrees set this date in 1936, was recorded in Midland Monday night.

And this morning's low of 18 degrees tied the same record set in 1936 for a Feb. 6.

All of which added to a general discomfort and difficult navigational conditions in Midland, with more than an inch of snow recorded throughout the area Monday and today, said the weatherman.

Officials of the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport said 1.4 inches of snow were measured at that location.

Weather officials forecast hazardous driving conditions would continue throughout today in Midland and the surrounding area.

Midland police said 51 accidents were reported between 7 a.m. Monday and 7 a.m. today, compared to only five or six during the same 24hour period in a typical week.

And a total of 26 accidents were reported between 7:30 and 8:30 a.m.

Bergland says publicity, greed drive protesters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, appearing less than totally sympathetic with protesting farmers who are here to demand higher prices for their crops, said today that some of the demonstrators are driven by publicity and greed.

In an interview on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" program, Bergland also said he was not certain what the protesters wanted "because they haven't got this thing sorted out yet.'

"The farmers who are here are generally representing what we describe as local problems," he said.

Bergland said some of the farmers, such as those who farm in the Ogallala Basin that extends from West Texas into Nebraska, "are in real trouble because of the high and rising cost of irrigation and the depleting water

But, he added, "There are others who have made bad business judgments, are seeking publicity and others are driven by just old-fashioned greed."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police kept a tight corral around the tractors of thousands of militant farmers today as Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland declared that the disruptive tactics of the farmers were "an unmitigated disaster, from a public relations point of view.

He added the display tended "to discredit all of agriculture and does not reflect the majority" of those who till the soil

Despite isolated reports of rockthrowing and slashing of tires on police cars, authorities completely stymied the traffic-snarling tactics with which the farmers had tied the capital in knots a day earlier, when 19 protesters were arrested.

Police had answered the motorized protest Monday with their own vehicular show of force. They surrounded the main armada of tractors and trucks with squad cars and other government vehicles after the farm vehicles had been parked on the Mall, a grassy strip between the Capitol and the Lincoln Memorial.

Authorities and protest leaders met without success today in what police termed an effort to work out a compromise under which the farmers could resume their demonstrations without violence or major disruptions

Tom Kersey, head of a protest contingent from Georgia, said the police presented several demands "and we didn't agree to any of them." Thus the standoff continued, with the farmers determined to drive their tractors and the police firmly blocking the way.

Police said they asked for commitments that the tractors would remain off expressways, not travel on city streets before 9 a.m. or after 5 p.m., that drivers would obey routine traffic rules and that "wagonmasters" would maintain control over caravan routes.

Several farmers said those conditions were unacceptable because they should have the same right to drive their 1,350 vehicles whenever and wherever they choose as a regular motorist driving a car.

Deputy Police Chief Robert Klotz warned that unless the 3,500 farmers bend on the issue, "I'm not unhappy with the way it is now" - meaning

Demonstrators merely wasting fuel, says Kahn

WASHINGTON (AP) - Inflation fighter Alfred Kahn, disagreeing somewhat with his boss Jimmy Carter, says farm demonstrators are wasting fuel and threatening to push spiraling food prices even higher.

Carter expressed sympathy for farmers and gave vague promises of more government aid Monday while tractors roamed Pennsylvania Avenue a few vards from the Oval Office.

But Kahn said, "I would say that the tractors do not bode well for food prices, or even for energy consumption in the United States today.

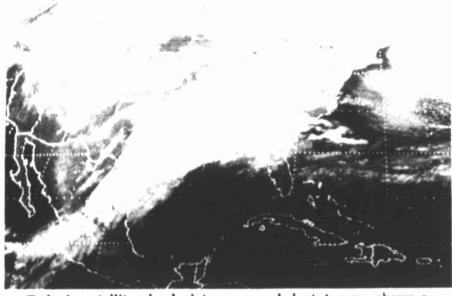

Carter was made aware of the protest early in the day, when the traffic-clogging tactics of the demonstrators held up his national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, delaying the president's regular morning "Farm prices last year went up 20 percent," he said. "Net farm income up 40 percent. Export levels an all-time high, both years I've been in Carter portrayed farmers as inflation's chief victims, saying, "I don't know of any other group that suffered more from the consequences of inflation in the past than have the farmers. This view was immediately rebutted by Kahn. Asked whether farmers indeed suffer most from rising prices, Kahn replied, "No. I don't think that's true." Informed of Carter's statement, Kahn laughed and said, "That's all right, He's entitled to his opinion. I'm entitled to mine?

In a separate interview before a speech to state agriculture officials, Bergland called the demonstration "an unmitigated disaster" and declared he would not deal with the farmers "in any public confrontation ... I won't go out in the streets.

Although many of the farmers have demanded higher government price supports for their crops, Bergland said "some want federal guarantees of full parity prices and some say they want the government out of the busi ness. They can't get their act together

"We feel like we're in bondage. I don't trust anybody I see out there,' said Jerry Hanning, a farmer from near Lansing, Mich.

"When we break out of here - it may take a month — all hell will break loose," said Hanning. He, like many others, slept the night inside the police corral. Others went to Washington hotels

The police and the farmers accused each other of breaking faith in a demonstration that started on a far meaner tone than last year's four months of high-spirited lobbying, which paid off in sympathetic legislation from an election-year Congress.

All told Monday, 19 farmers were arrested and 19 vehicles were hauled off the streets, where they had been abandoned to snarl traffic. One farmer was hospitalized. Six policemen were hurt.

Hildebrand also worked as a bookkeeper in the First National Bank of Sterling City, becoming assistant cashier in 1940. After serving as a director and vice president, he became president in 1964 and chairman of the board until his death.

Other banking interests included directorships in the Republic Savings and Loan Association of Dallas and the American Bank and Trust Co. of Dallas, where he served as vice chairman of the board. He was listed in Who's Who in Banking.

He was a member of the Lions Club, Masonic Lodge and the Methodist Church, serving as steward, trustee and treasurer. He was a member of Suez Shrine Temple in San Angelo, the El Paso Scottish Rite Temple and past master of the Sterling City Masonic Lodge.

He also served as a trustee of the Scott and White Hospital Foundation from 1957 until 1965 and as a governor since that time. Survivors include his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Stanley K. Harwood, and four grandchildren.

Rhodes hints at historic rewrite

WASHINGTON (AP) - House Republican leader John Rhodes is raising the possibility of a runaway convention that might rewrite large chunks of the United States Constitution if Congress fails to act soon to sharply cut federal spending.

Rhodes, R-Ariz., says that in the absence of such action, "I don't think there's any doubt" that the necessary total of 34 states will move to force Congress to call the first constitutional convention since the Constitution was drafted in 1789.

He said it could happen by this

Once such a convention is convened, there may be no way to limit the subject matter, Rhodes told reporters Monday.

"It could take on a life of its own, taking up all the burning issues of the day," he said. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, joined Rhodes in predicting that "this year the 34 states necessary to mandate a constitutional convention will have acted."

Youth charged in tenement tire

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - A Newark teen-ager who allegedly was seeking revenge has been charged with murder in connection with a tenement fire that killed five people, including four children, authorities say.

Nelson Rodriguez Mendez, 18, "set on fire debris in a vacant first floor apartment alongside the hallway and did so in revenge," Fire Director John P. Caufield said Monday.

He would not explain the possible revenge motive, but said others were being sought for questioning.

The Sunday fire brought to 50 the number of persons killed in suspicious fires in New Jersey during the last two months. Caufield said the city-owned building that burned Sunday was condemned several weeks ago because it was "unfit for human habitation." He said the city had received several anonymous telephone calls warning that the building was going to be After the condemnation, three of nine families moved out of the build-

State Senate abolishes dormant burial board

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - It was win one, lose one for the Sunset Advisory Commission on Monday.

The Senate voted, 27-0, to abolish the Burial Association Rate Board, which has not met in 14 years.

The Senate Economic Development Committee, however, voted to extend the life of the Texas Real Estate Commission for 12 years. Common Cause said senators voting for the measure ignored the advisory commission's recommendations.

The advisory commission was created by the 1977 Legislature to determine whether state agencies were executing their duties at a reasonable cost to taxpayers.

It has reviewed 25 state agencies and made numerous recommendations, including the elimination of the burial board.

Speed law 'revolt'

The 55-mile-per-hour speed limit imposed by the federal government in 1973 as a fuel conservation measure once again is causing a stir in various parts of the country. Attempts to increase the set figure have been tried in previous years, but the present effort seemingly is more widespread and more intense than before.

The 55 mph limit is about as popular with most motorists, particularly in the wide-open spaces of the West and Southwest, as atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair would be at a Southern Baptist camp meeting. And many of the unhappy motorists are working on their state legislators to do something about it.

The Wyoming State Senate has taken the lead in the rapidlyexpanding campaign by adopting a 65-mph speed limit, pointing out that this is a practical, safe speed on that state's good, wide-open highways, with limited traffic.

A companion measure would reduce fines to $5 for speeds up to 75 mph.

Legislation has been introduced in a number of other state legislatures, including Texas, to increase the speed limit to 60, 65 and 70.

A bill introduced in the Texas Legislature by Rep. Fred Head, D-Athens, would increase the limit to 70 mph on Texas highways, which are among the very best in the nation. Head has said that if his fellow legislators will vote the way they drive, he is proposed legislation.

Lawmakers in the states of Washington, Montana, New Mexico and perhaps others, in addition to Texas, have similar legislation in the works. The overall matter is snowballing, somewhat similar to the way in which Proposition 13 caught on.

But the federal government doesn't seem to be paying much attention to the protest movement. And therein lies the meat of the matter.

The federal government has threatened to withhold highway funds from states which fail to go along with the 55-mph legislation. It is reported that Wyoming is risking $52 million in such funds. This is blackmail pure and simple, but up to now the feds have gotten away with it.

Where the states made their mistake was in ever accepting the federal government edict in the first place. The states should be in a position to set their own speed limits, based on local conditions, and enforce them.

There are those who have expressed doubt that the feds would withhold highway funds from states refusing to abide by the federal edict. Wyoming may be in a position to find out.

The Washington powers, however, aren't looking back. Rather, they are forging ahead with even more threats to states in speed limit matters.

Texas drivers, it mow is proclaimed, have eight months to slow down to 55 mph or the state could lose an estimated $8 million in federal highway funds.

Rep. Don Henderson, R-Houston, said last week: "The Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1978 requires that all states must cause more and more of their drivers to slow down each year until in 1983 at least 70 percent of vehicles are within the 55-mph speed limit. Henderson is chairman of the Texas House Transportation Committee.

Doesn't sound like Washington is letting up one single bit, does it? It is doubtful, however, if such an unrealistic goal ever could be achieved in Texas or elsewhere unless and until motorists themselves are willing to accept the slower speed limit.

It is interesting to note that only one in four Texas vehicles obeyed the 55-mph limit in 1977, according to a report issued by the Texas Transportation Institute at Texas A&M University

Yet, one-third of Texas vehicles must drive within the limit by Sept. 30, 1979, or the state could lose $8 million of 1981 highway

Joe E. Milner, chief of traffic law enforcement for the Texas Department of Public Safety, said in an address here recently that although the majority of Texas motorists do drive above 55 mph, the slower speed limit has reduced driving speeds, on the average, by a marked degree.

What will all this amount to this year or the next? Who knows?

It does seem, however, that a reasonable compromise might be worked out whereby the federal government might set a maximum speed limit of, say, 65 or 70 mph, and then let the states establish, and enforce, their own limits at or under the federal maximum.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Toon wins few popularity votes

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - Malcolm Toon, the irascible 62-year-old American ambassador to the Soviet Union, has achieved what might seem to be impossible for the professional diplomat. In just two years on the job, he has managed to alienate his colleagues in the State Department, Kremlin leaders and even Soviet dissidents.

It's not as if Toon were some bumbling amateur envoy, a political appointee being rewarded for campaign contributions with a prestigious ambassadorship. He is a professional, a career diplomat with more than 30 years in the Foreign Service, much of it in Eastern Europe

A tall, athletic, gray-haired nonsmoker. Toon is apparently as conservative in his politics as he is in his dress. Although considered an anti-Soviet hardliner - so much so, in fact, that the Russians were reluctant to approve him as ambassador -Toon has turned out to be surprisingly cool to the Soviet dissident movement

Recent State Department cables confide that Toon's attitude toward the dissidents has stirred complaints. One, for instance, quotes a letter from Robert Bernstein of Random House publishers, who visited the Moscow embassy. He pleaded with Toon to open the embassy doors to dissidents. But Bernstein came away with the impression that "in 1979 we will pay lip service" to the idea but that Toon's 'heart isn't in it.

Another cable reflects the concern of two senators who recently visited Moscow, S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., and Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo. "The senators," reports the cable, "claim the embasssy has discouraged

Americans from making contact with dissidents in order to maintain good relations with the Soviets.'

Under Toon's predecessor, Walter Stoessel, Soviet dissidents enjoyed frequent and close personal contacts with American embassy officials. Although the dissidents claim they were always careful not to discuss sensitive political matters, even these innocent exchanges, say our sources, were broken off when Toon took over.

Lyudmila Alexeeva, a prominent dissident who eventually fled Russia to escape prosecution, recalled inviting some embassy friends to a Christmas celebration. One of them explained that Toon had forbidden the Americans to go. "The official said they were embarrassed and ashamed but they could not break these orders." Alexeeva told our associate Tom Rosenstiel

State Department sources claim Toon has not changed the policy on dealing with dissidents. The ambassador, they say, has merely attempted to get the contacts on a more orderly basis by having them cleared with him first. Whatever the reason for the change, both dissidents and State Department officials feel that it was done to mollify the Kremlin.

Toon's actions coincided with a Soviet crackdown on the dissident movement. The net result, say our sources, has been a drying up of potentially important contacts.

Toon's coolness toward dissidents apparently hasn't improved his stock with Soviet leaders. Once he had to break through a security cordon at a diplomatic reception in order to deliver a letter from President Carter to Leonid Brezhnev.

In contrast, Soviet ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin is a favorite in

The simple fact is that there is money to be made with giant industrial projects like steel mills, oil development, coal and the like, but

He has easy access, therefore, to American leaders. He can see the highest officials on short notice or reach them on the telephone. He can also backslap on Capitol Hill like a veteran politician. There are seldom any witnesses to his confidential conversations with American officials. The White House has learned that Dobrynin habitually misquotes these conversations in his dispatches to the Kremlin. But U.S. officials don't quite know what to do about it.

The White House hardly can complain without jeopardizing intelligence methods. A complaint about some specific misrepresentation might reveal our eavesdropping techniques.

The White House is also reluctant to offend Dobrynin. Although he tells one story to American leaders and another to his Kremlin superiors. Dobrynin is more reasonable and understanding than any past Soviet ambassador. The White House, therefore, doesn't want to cut off this channel of communication.

As for Toon, he was Henry Kissinger's choice for ambassador to Moscow. His actual appointment was delayed by the Soviets' hostility until the Carter administration took over. Toon's sponsorship by Kissinger. coupled with his crusty demeanor and his independent thinking, hasn't made him popular with his new bosses in Washington. They regard him as a hard-liner and a grandstander who doesn't like to take orders. Toon, meanwhile, is acting like a short-timer whose tenure is about over. He has been granting more press interviews and keeping a higher profile - moves that might land him an important post-retirement position in private business.

More important and more frustrating to the Japanese are the hurdles that have surrounded what now appears to be a $2.03 billion deal under which Nippon Steel, the world's largest steelmaker, will build a new mill near Shanghai equipped with two blast furnaces with a capacity of 3 million metric tons a Year.

Nippon Steel estimated that deal would be signed, sealed and the project under way last summer but now, even though an apparent agreement has been reached, nobody seems to know when things will get down to nuts and bolts

The Chinese are good businessmen and the Japanese fear that many other plums may go to European, particularly West German and French, concerns. Nippon even has been running into trouble with a North Atlantic Treaty Organization ban on shipment of some strategic items to Communist countries. Even though far removed from NATO, Japan is a member of the export committee concerned, and has trouble getting approval for shipment of small computers that are part of Nippon's steelmaking process.

Japan is running into other problems in its ambitious China trade plans, and these are problems that eager American firms will encounter, although one of the Japanese problems will benefit U.S. dealmakers.

China has foreign exchange problems, and they are tied to its undeveloped but extensive oil potential. Japan is vexed because China wants its Tokyo loans to be made in dollars while Japanese policy has been to make such development loans in yen.

Dollars help China's foreign exchange position, and this position is a critical one because, in simple language, it needs to export more in order to pay for its imports. At this moment, the potential of 10 major oil fields gives China 40 billion barrels of possible crude.

There is a bright future, eventually for Chinese oil because, contrary to some reports published in the United States, it is very low in sulfur content, which means it can be burned by power plants and others without fear of excessive sulfuric pollution.

However, from Japan's standpoint, there are two major disadvantages concerned with Chinese oil. It has a high level of nitrogenous substances and this could cause a different kind of pollution problem. Also, the mainland oil is high in heavy oil and low in high-priced light oils that are used in gasoline and other high-profit conversions.

Thus, Japanese firms are resisting government drive to increase Chinese oil from a current 3 to 12 percent share of the nation's total oil imports.

Despite all these setbacks, Japan is pushing for a big share of the China boom - textile plants, soft drinks, shoes and all kinds of consumer goods. But, it has learned, just as U.S. firms will learn, that it may take longer than fast-talking American salesman prefer, to reap the billions in profits first visualized

Cold spoils Teng's Japan talks

TOKYO (AP) - Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping arrived from the United States today but canceled the start of his talks with Japanese leaders because of a cold.

Teng, making his second trip to Japan in less than five months, was to have dined with Foreign Minister Sunao Sonoda. Sonoda's secretary said this was called off because of a cold the 74-year-old Chinese leader caught during his eight-day visit to the United States.

Teng is scheduled to meet Wednesday with Sonoda and Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira for talks expected to cover his American trip, the situation on the Korean peninsula and the Vietnamese invasion of Cambodia, China's ally in Southeast Asia. Teng flies to Peking on Thursday. Sonoda, other Japanese and Chinese officials and U.S. Ambassador Mike Mansfield greeted the vice premier on his arrival at Haneda Airport after a flight from Seattle, Wash., and

The court of inquiry was convened last week by State District Judge Woodrow Wilson Bean II, who concluded there were criminal violations during the police search and that they 'disturb the court!'

Bean passed the matter along to the county attorney, who will determine whether prosecution is merited. A parade of police officers testified during the inquiry that they indeed went through somewhat less than 100 client files during preliminary investigation. But Assistant District Attorney Gary Wiser testified they had every right to do so.

Chagra family members, including Lee's brother Joe and brother-in-law Sib Abraham, both lawyers, are chagrined that police sealed off Lee's office for five days following discovery of his body.

'We don't know what they did in there," Abraham said.

The widow, JoAnne, a sister of Abraham, said, "Lee's rights are every U.S. citizen's rights. We are

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market drifted lower today, still weighed down by concern over e prospects and inflation

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off more than 35 points in the last six trading days, was down another .96 at 823.02 by noontime today.

outnumbered Losers gainers by a 7-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said political upheaval in Iran, and the resulting cutoff of oil exports from that country, had prompted fears of increasing energy problems in the months ahead.

That in turn has helped stir up new inflation worries at a time when prices of a number of commodities silver, gold and copper, for example - are on the rise. Wall Street was bracing for more unpleasant news, meanwhile, when government makes its monthly report on the trend of producer prices on Friday.

Among copper stocks, Kennecott was up 34 at 24; Asarco 1/2 at 181/8, and Phelps Dodge 1/8 at 26 1/8.

The NYSE's composite index eased .02 to 54.99, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was off .02 at 157.97.

Volume on the Big Board came to 10.88 million shares at noontime, down from 12.01 million at the same point Monday.

State Bar members say membership must be mandatory

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Bar of Texas, whose fate will be decided during the current session of the Legislature, says belonging to the bar should not be a matter of choice for lawyers.

Cullen Smith of Waco, president of the bar, told a House committee Monday that the right-to-work law does not apply because the bar is not a labor union. "The right to practice law carries with it certain duties," he said before the House Committee on Government Organization. The bar fell under the Texas Sunset Advisory Commission's review in 1978 and the Legislature must pass a bill this session if the bar is to continue as a state agency. Two representatives have introduced bills that would make membership voluntary. "It's the one profession that doesn't believe in the right-to-work law," said Rep. Fred Head, D-Athens, who is a lawyer. "I'm offended more than anything else by having to join any organization. The committee heard testimony on two comprehensive bills to keep the bar alive — one favored by the bar and another incorporating the sunset commission's recommendations. Head and Rep. Doug McLeod, D-Galveston, also separately introduced series of bills to make membership optional, among other changes. McLeod proposed keeping the bar as a state agency only for licensing and regulation of attor-

He said its other activities - lobbying, continuing education, publications, lawyer referrals - should become part of a trade association outside of state government.

No other profession has a state agency performing those chores, Head said. The bar should keep its present status as a state agency and should also continue to keep its money outside the state treasury, said Tom Hanna, the bar's executive director. The comprehensive bill with the bar's support has been introduced by Rep. Lynn Nabers, D-Brown-

Opposing Nabers' bill was Joe Longley, an Austin

attorney and former head of the attorney general's anti-trust division The bar's funds belong to all Texans and should be administered by the Legislature, urged Longley, one of the bar's directors. "The state bar should be required to justify its expenditures at every session of the Legislature," he said. "These are funds I feel should be administered through the appropriation process. Bar funds have been used to lobby on legislation not related directly to the organization, he said.

Hanna said the bar proposes a legislative program but does not participate in any political campaigns. The bar "will not use its funds for the purpose of being involved in the political process," he said. Fourteen or 15 other state agencies, as well as the bar, have budgets that do not come under the supervision of the Legislature, he added. A bill sponsored by Rep. Bill Ceverha, D-Dallas, a sunset commission member, would require the bar to deposit all its funds in the state treasury. Ceverha had said previously the bar used poor judgment in spending $8 million — most of it borrowed - for its new headquarters in Austin. Nabers' bill also centralizes the bar's control over local grievance committees, which handle complaints against lawyers, Hanna said. Testimony before a grievance committee could be made public if the lawyer concerned gave his consent.

Rep. Bennie Bock II, D-New Braunfels, said he was a co-sponsor of Nabers' bill. He was vice chairman of the sunset commission.

"I feel that the report from the sunset commission staff was biased," he told government affairs committee members.

Texas Farm Bureau accused of seeking big rural tax cuts

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Bill Sullivant, D-Gainesville, has accused the Texas Farm Bureau of trying to "stick it to" the people by seeking bigger rural tax cuts than were envisioned when the Tax Relief Amendment was approved last year. Sullivant, a longtime crusader for taxation of agricultural land on its productivity, as opposed to market value, made the assertion Monday at a House Ways and Means Committee hearing.

He sharply criticized proposals by the farm bureau and Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, to tie agricultural land evaluations to a "capitalization rate" 5 percent above the Federal Reserve discount rate. Based on the current Federal Reserve rate of 9.5 percent, that would mean a capitalization rate of 14.5 percent. Sullivant, in a bill introduced this session as well as in 1975 and 1977, has recommended a capitalization rate of 2 percent above the Houston Federal Land Bank interest rate, currently 7.9 percent. The taxable value of a farm or ranch would be determined by dividing the capitalization rate into the average net income it should have produced over the preceding five years under careful manage-Pat Smith of the farm bureau endorsed Von Dohen's bill before the committee and earlier told the Senate Economic Development Committee that a 14½ percent rate would "bring more tax relief to more people. Sullivant said the farm bureau - and, by implication, Von Dohlen, who sponsored the Tax Relief Amendment in the House - never mentioned that amendment in November. The Tax Relief Amendment instructed the Legislature to provide for productivity taxation as a means of keeping land in production.

high a rate before voters approved the constitutional

" 'Well, we got it past the people, let's see how bad we can stick it to 'em.' It seems like that is what is going on," Sullivant said.

He said tying the rural land taxes to the Federal Reserve rate would have caused wild fluctuations over the past five years, with taxes dropping over 40 percent between 1976 and 1975.

"The Houston Federal Land Bank rate is inherently more stable," he said, varying only six-tenths of 1 percent over the past five years.

Von Dohlen urged denying the productivity tax break to corporations - except for closely held family corporations — and timber growers.

"People believe the family farm and the family corporation should have the benefit of this, but that a large corporation should not," Von Dohlen said. But Ed Wagoner, executive vice president of the Texas Forestry Association, said timber corporations should get the same break as family farms. "The principal issue is land use, without reference to the type of entity that owns the land," Wagoner .Mr. and 1 No. 14 Fairfa t were host co candlelight G bers of the 1 American Ass Women. Co-host cou

The museum will sponsor a tour to New Orleans March 15 to see "Peru's Golden Treasures," the largest collection of its kind ever shown in the United States. It consists primarily of 225 exquisite pieces of pre-Columbian Peruvian gold from the renowned Museo de Oro Del Peru in Lima.

Covering a span of 2,000 years before the Spanish Conquest, this exhibit represents the highly sophisticated gold-working techniques of five civilizations: Inca, Chimu, Moche, Nazca and Vicus. A variety of fine gold artifacts used by the pre-Hispanc ruling classes will be on display. These priceless artifacts are among the few remaining examples of Peru's ancient gold-working tradition.

Seniors discuss housing problems at recent government conference

By DIANE KIESEL Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - For many of the 5,000 persons who turn 65-years-old each day, a long life of work turns to a long awaited life of leisure.

But for some middle and working class senior citizens, retirement often means the end of a comfortable standard of living and the beginning of a struggle to hold onto basic necessities, like food, medicines and

Through a three-day conference here recently a quasi-government agency heard just what it is that retirees want from their remaining years. The officials heard it not from public health specialists, sociologists or economics professors, but from the mouths of senior citizens themselves.

The Federal National Mortgage Association (FN·MA), a congressionally chartered but privately owned and managed mortgage loan corporation, invited 120 senior citizens to Washington to share with one another their views on FNMA will gather the material from the session and within six months publish a report for builders, officials about how seniors want to

'Dignity is one of the key words,' said Patricia James, a 66-year-old widowed teacher from Oxnard, Calif.

"I would not want to be somebody's mother in somebody else's home, said James. "And I would suspect that this is not what a lot of other retired people want either."

Oakley Hunter, chairman of the board and president of FNMA, called the trend "a liberation that will never reverse itself."

'There is a sense of independence (among retirees). They don't want to go back to the time when three generations lived inside one house," Hunter said.

But for some senior citizens, living alone is financially difficult after retirement; for others, it is virtually impossible. The house is suddenly too big, too expensive to heat, and too heavy a tax burden, said one conference participant

And the alternatives are often grim: board with a relative, move to an apartment, enter a nursing home. But for every conference member ready to give in to financial pressures, a half-dozen others had suggestions for remaining independent and financially solvent. Several suggested moving to seates that have special property tax relief remedies for senior citizens. California offers tax assistance for both senior citizen home owners and renters, and so do a majority of states, according to the National Taxpayers Union.

Another popular suggestion was to take out a reverse annuity mortgage on an already paid-for home.

With a reverse annuity, a person borrows money on the value of his home to add to his income. An owner can borrow any amount of money he or she wants, receive it in the form of monthly payments and pay it back after a certain number of years with

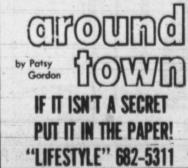

If the house is sold, the money must be repaid, and if the owner dies, the home is passed on to the heirs, with a mortgage due for the amount of money borrowed. "Basically, you must change your philosophy about home ownership," said H.Y. Kinard, a retired banker from Charlotte, N.C. "It is really for that person who has no desire to leave money to his heirs,"

Others suggested making duplexes out of single family homes to bring in rent-paying tenants that would help make financial ends meet in some young couple who would shovel the care for or who would have to care for me," suggested Lucile Vanden Brink, a retired teacher from Iowson, Md.

China topic of program

Susan Rutherford, writer in the Lifestyle Department at The Midland Reporter-Telegram, will present a program on China at Wednesday's meeting of United Methodist Women at 10 a.m.

The program will be held in the First United Methodist Church fellowship hall.

Ms. Rutherford holds a master's degree from Southern Methodist University in Chinese art and history. She has studied Chinese art for two summers in Taiwan and last spring traveled with the Rev. Ken McIntosh and a group of 24 persons to mainland China.

She has also taught a number of classes on Chinese brush painting in Dallas and Midland.

Interested women are invited to attend the program. Activities will include a covered salad dish luncheon at 12

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

As the District 5-4A basketball season nears a close, Midland High cage boss Don Humphrey has increased his deep breathing exercies, and it's not without some deep seeded merit.

Humphrey's Bulldogs are so close to winning the 5-4A title that only a rerun of an old Titantic horror movie can bring a Midland High cage fan back to his senses--or a coach for that

The Bulldogs can win the whole thing without a playoff if they can just pull off two victories in their last three games. They'll need only one victory if Abilene Cooper can stub its toe once more in the next three out-

Even if Cooper could win the second half with a Midland collapse, Midland High would still have another shot at Cooper in a district playoff. So, the Midland Lee's Rebels kept their fading hopes alive Friday with a victory over Big Spring. Their hopes are very slim with a 2-2 second half mark. # Vanderbilt tumbles badly as Tigers control SEC

By The Associated Press

The Louisiana State basketball team showed Vanderbilt all the moves - and as a result, moved into first place in the Southeastern Confer-

"We were just physically overpowered," said Vanderbilt Coach Wayne Dobbs after a 92-71 loss to eighth-ranked LSU in an SEC showdown game Monday night. "Tonight LSU was about as good as any team in the country and could go to the (NCAA's) final four if they play this well every night. They pulled every card out of the hat and couldn't do anything wrong.'

24 points and 10 rebounds. "You have to keep him away from the ball and we couldn't do that.'

IT WAS a revenge beating for the Tigers, who lost to Vanderbilt 88-87 earlier in the season.

'The last three times out of the shute, we've played our best games,' said LSU Coach Dale Brown. "We played fumbly-bumbly for about a minute and a half in there in the second half, but otherwise we were Elsewhere, top-ranked Notre Dame blasted Loyola of Chicago 84-66; fifthranked Louisville defeated Memphis State 103-82 and No. 16 Alabama stopped Georgia 67-59.

Vanderbilt led briefly in the early stages of the game with LSU, but the Tigers then outscored their SEC foes 12-2 to take an advantage they never relinquished. The Tigers built their lead to 20 points early in the second half, virtually locking up the contest.

Tracy Jackson came off the bench to score 18 points and lead Notre Dame past Loyola. The Irish never trailed in the game at South Bend going ahead for good with 9: 42 left in the first half.

"I'm used to not starting," noted Jackson. "There's pressure from some of your peers and friends who say you should be starting, but I accept my role." Jackson, a former high school star from Washington, D.C., hasn't started any of the 46 Irish games in which he's played. "I haven't started in so long that I've forgotten how if feels," the 6foot-5 sophomore said. "And I like the way I'm being used. I can get the feel of the game sitting there watching early. And I don't have the pressure that goes with starting.' BOBBY TURNER scored 23 points and Larry Williams added 16 as Louisville defeated Memphis State in Metro Conference game. The victory was the Cardinals' 12th straight and 20th in 23 games.

"Nothing Bobby Turner does sur-

Freshman Ken Johnson poured in 20 points and Reggie King contributed 18 as Alabama whipped Georgia. The Crimson Tide led by as many as 16

The Irish collected 25 of 54 firstplace ballots and 1,036 points in balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, edging the Sycamores by 33 points. Notre Dame scored victories over Brown, Xavier of Ohio and Dayton last week, raising its record to 15-2.

Indiana State was tabbed first on 20 ballots after posting a 91-89 overtime victory over New Mexico State and a 66-56 triumph over Tulsa last week. The Sycamores, 20-0, trailed New Mexico State by two points with three seconds left last Thursday night but tied the score on Bob Heaton's 50-shot at the buzzer.

Notre Dame and Indiana State both were named on all the ballots. The

Lloyd's 38 sinks Chaps, 71-62

ROSWELL, N.M.---Midland College would like to forget trips into New Mexico. The Chaparrals dropped a 71-62 decision to the New Mexico Military Institute Bronocos Monday night in a Western Junior College Conference basketball game. The Chaps had already lost to New Mexico Junior College last Thursday in Hobbs, so Coach Jerry Stone's crew, after racking up a 7-2 WJCC mark, is now 7-4 and on a two-game skid since its jaunt into the Land of Enchantment.

Lewis Lloyd was a one-man wrecking crew for the Broncos, ripping the cords for 38 points as MC was falling to a season record of 15-9. Lloyd connected for 14 field goals and an additional 10 free throws for NMMI. He was backed up by teammate Roy Hunnicutt with 10 points as the Broncs are now 7-4 in league play and stand 15-6 on the season.

Luis Alvarado and Chucky McGill led MC's attack with 12 points each while Robert Tate chipped in with 10 more. Cullen Mayfield and Tim Shelby only had eight points and that was the difference.

NMMI led at halftime, 32-28, and had jumped off to an early 9-2 lead at the offset. It wasn't until 11 minutes left in the game that the Chaps finally caught the Broncos to tie the game at Lloyd's three-point play with three minutes left in the game, helped NMMI take the lead for good and it waxed hot at the free throw line, connecting on 13 of 14 charity tosses. MC hit 10 of 12 free throws, but only had 26 field goals during the loss.

Midland College returns to the friendly confines of Chaparral Center Thursday night when the Chaparrals take on Amarillo College in another WJCC battle at 8 p.m. Then they travel to Big Spring a week from today to challenge Howard College's Sparked by Bird, the Sycamores have a 20-0 record. But they are not even rated as the top team in Indiana. That honor is held by Notre Dame, No.1 in the nation.

"One time, right before I leave here, I want to go through one time of real good competition," Bird said. He admits that Indiana State's Missouri Valley Conference schedule may be easier than that of some other schools, but points out his team has

NBA expansion seems strange

By The Associated Press

Bring a few hundred basketball people together under one roof and something strange is bound to hap-

That's one way to explain the National Basketball Association's decision to begin the expansion process that is expected to add two clubs to the league by the 1980-81 season.

At a time when more than half the teams are experiencing attendance declines, when TV ratings are down for the second year in a row and when just about everyone involved in sports has a pet theory as to what is wrong with pro basketball, the NBA decided last weekend to expand to 24 teams. Commissioner Larry O'Brien, announcing the Board of Governors' decision to begin processing expansion applications, emphasized that the league has not sought out new investors. "All the flow has been in the other direction, with people coming to us," said O'Brien. "What we are doing is responding to that interest." What they also are doing is setting the stage for a one-shot windfall for the existing 22 teams, who would share in the expansion fee. Keeping that in mind, maybe the decision to expand at this time isn't as strange as it seems.

How much will a new franchise cost? O'Brien wouldn't even offer a guess. When four teams were admitted from the dying American Basketball Association in June 1976, each paid $3.2 million. Inflation over the past three years pushes that figure to $4 million. The two new teams also have to be stocked with players, raising the cost more. And there's always the greed factor.

If the admission fee is $8 million -$2 million more than the last expansion team, New Orleans, paid to join the league in 1974 — each existing team would get nearly $750,000. If the fee is $11 million, each of the 22 clubs would get an even $1 million. Those are the kind of numbers that turn red ink into black. And that, say the cynics, is why the NBA is talking expansion.

Formal applications already have been received from groups in Dallas and Minneapolis-St. Paul. There have been informal talks with groups from Miami and Toronto. O'Brien also mentioned Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and St. Louis as "cities that appear to have the greatest potential for success," although one Cincinnati official said the expansion talk caught him "completely off guard."

Motta was participating in his first All-Star Game Sunday, when his East team lost to the West 134-129 before a record crowd of 31,745 in the Silverdome at Pontiac, Mich.

Motta described the All-Star Game as "a very sophisticated pickup game, sort of like the kind you play at the 'Y,' only at a much higher level." Motta was handicapped because there were only three guards on his roster. In order to prevent that happening again, he suggested that in the future the coaches pick the reserves by position.

At one time we had four forwards and a center playing," said Motta, who used forwards Julius Erving and Campy Russell as emergency backcourtmen. Then he thought about it and added. "If we had two or three days to practice, it would be fun to work with that team. I think we could compete."

Asked why he didn't use Bobby Dandridge, one of his Washington players, at guard, Motta quipped, "It's not in his contract."

Dandridge didn't report to training camp because of a contract dispute, claiming he deserved more than his salary of $250,000 a year. Teammates Elvin Hayes and Wes Unseld recently signed contracts for more than $300,-000 each.

But Motta said Dandridge "won't let anything affect his play. I appreciate his forwardness. We look each other straight in the eye. He's an up-front guy.'

Motta also reported that guard Phil Chenier, sidelined since the middle of last season with a back injury, is ready to return to action. "But I don't want Phil to have on-the-job training," said Motta, so he'll keep him inactive until he's really ready.

Motta also doesn't want to break up a winning combination. Washington's 36-15 record is the best in the NBA and Motta doesn't want to make any of his other guards unhappy.

The NBA All-Stars were all genuinely happy to be part of the midseason contest, a striking contrast to the attitudes of so many players in other

Arkansas hopes to add clarity to hot SWC race

By The Associated Press

Arkansas' 19th-ranked Razorbacks hope to add a little clarity to a clouded Southwest Conference baskeball race Tuesday when they host one of the two deadlocked league leaders, 16th-rated Texas A&M, in a pivotal SWC clash.

Both the Aggies and co-leader Texas, which have identical 9-2 conference records, emerged victorious in weekend conference basketball

Although the Aggies had a tough time getting on track Saturday against Houston, they erupted for 10 straight points just before intermission. They retained that fever pitch in the opening moments of the second stanza and rolled to a 66-58 win over the Cougars in College Station. Houston, now 3-8 in league play, managed only five points in the entire second half in its first meeting with the Aggies, but even in losing Saturday's performance was heartening for the Cougar coach. 'We played about as well as we can.

I'll guarantee you," remarked Guy Lewis. "There wasn't any quitting out there. We haven't folded our tents and stealed off into the night just yet." Aggie mentor Shelby Metcalf said,

'We put a lot back in on the rebounds. That was probably the difference. I zone. But they know that's their weak thought our delay game worked real good The 11th-ranked Longhorns encountered surprisingly stiff opposition Saturday night from feisty conference cellar dweller Texas Christian. TCU, fresh from its first conference win, narrowed a 14-point deficit to just five points in the closing five minutes. But Texas regained its composure and walked away with a 73-60 win in Fort Worth Saturday.

TCU players have been openly critical of the way Coach Tim Somerville runs the team. But Saturday night's performance renewed Somerville's confidence.

"My rules of discipline are paying off," said Somerville. "We played the best a TCU team has played in years with freshmen."

"If that is a team mad at its coach," said Texas Coach Abe Lemons, "I'd like to get mine mad at me."

Arkansas boosted its conference record to 7-3 in Houston Saturday night with a 68-50 win over Rice, now 3-8 in the league. Razorback offensive wizard Sidney Moncrief pumped in 33 points.

"We got beat by a great, great player in Moncrief," said Rice Coach Mike Schuler. "He's the best in the league. He might have hit 40 points if we had let him in. He had a terrific "Everyone was just standing around at first, and I felt I needed to take over," Moncrief said. Texas Tech appeared to sew up at least a fourth place conference finish when it, backed by a 64 percent shooting efficiency, whipped Baylor 78-70 in Waco Saturday. The win gives Tech a 7-4 conference mark, while Baylor falls to 5-5. "That's the best game any Southwest Conference opponent has had against us all season. Tech had a super, super game and ran its offense perfectly," said Baylor Coach Jim Haller.

McCrory convicted in murder of girl,

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) - A jury today convicted John W. McCrory of the rape-strangulation of a 17-year-old Lewisville girl whose body was found in Denton County last June.

Jurors received the case against McCrory Monday, and deliberated a total of about three hours before returning the guilty verdict. Jurors must now decide punishment for McCrory, 27, of Argyle. Prosecutors said they intend to seek the death penalty for McCrory, convicted of killing Jeana Melissa Walker. Her parents, Al and Lee Walker have observed the trial and were present when the verdict was announced. Jurors have been sequestered since testimony in the case began Jan. 29. Defense attorney Rusty Duncan complained Monday that a magazine found in the jurors' sleeping quarters included an article titled "The Terrible Trauma of Rape" and said it would be one argument for an appeal of the case. The jury asked the bailiff to leave the courthouse chapel unlocked overnight.

During deliberations Monday, jurors asked to see all the physical evidence. Judge Stanley Kirk ordered the material delivered to the jurors. The state attempted to prove McCrory, acting alone, raped, beat and strangled Miss Walker and left her partially nude body in a rural field. Prosecutor George Preston, in closing arguments to the jury, said the evidence tied McCrory to the scene of the death in several ways. He said foam recovered from the dead girl's clothes matched foam in the torn back seat of McCrory's car, and a strand of fiber attached to a piece of foam matched a sample taken from a seat cover in McCrory's car.

Defense lawyers said McCrory was at the scene of the slaying, but was not involved in her death and did nothing more than stop to offer aid to a stranded

The defense lawyer argued McCrory's behavior was "inconsistent" with the behavior of a guilty man. He said the defendant voluntarily gave his fingerprints and samples of his saliva and hair to

McCrory also voluntarily went to the Denton County sheriff and told him his fingerprints would be found on the car and engine because he saw the car parked beside the road and stopped to see if there was something wrong with it, Duncan said. The defense attorney pointed out that an FBI fingerprint expert testified he could not identify 18 fingerprints on the car Miss Walker was driving. Police failed to compare the fingerprints of four persons arrested as suspects in the case with fingerprints found on the car, Duncan said.

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) - After a comic joked about Elizabeth Taylor's string of marriages during a party in her honor, the audience booed and Miss Taylor got the last word, the Daily News reports.

The News, in today's editions, gave this account of the incident: Comic Larry Best, addressing the audience gathered at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, said, "It's a pleasure to be here to honor Mrs. Warner — Hilton, Todd, Fisher, Burton, Burton, Warner." He left out her second husband, the late actor Michael Wilding.

The audience booed and hissed and someone velled. "Why don't you apologize?" Miss Taylor, the wife of U.S. Sen. John Warner of Virginia, just stared.

When she got to the microphone, the Academy Award-winning actress modified the final line from the movie "A Star Is-Born," saying, "After that last little performance I must say 'This is Mrs. Norman Maine' my name is Elizabeth Taylor Warner.

Then she left early.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - The signing of slugger Rod Carew by the California Angels has made a true believer out of former President Richard Nixon, who has purchased a pair of season tickets.

'Since you've obtained Carew we know you are making every effort to bring a winner here and we want to support you," Nixon was quoted as saying in his ticket request.

Some 250 season tickets requests were received by the Angels after: they signed Carew for a reported $800,000 a year. The requests represent about $90,000 in ticket sales.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Bianca Jagger wants a $10 million settlement and $14,000 a month in alimony from Rolling Stones lead Singer Mick Jagger, and she's hired Michelle Triola Marvin's lawyer to get it for her.

"Although Bianca has been hoping for a reconciliation these past couple of months, the lawsuit was necessary because Mick has made it clear that it is not possible - because he has been living with another lady," said Marvin Mitchelson, who filed the petition Monday on behalf of Mrs. Jagger, who was in London.

Jagger was unavailable for comment. The petition said he had been living in Los Angeles with model Jerry Hall.

OLTEN, Switzerland (AP) - Anatoly Karpov of the Soviet Union is still the world's best chess player, the International Chess Federation says. The federation has rejected challenger Viktor Korchnoi's protest of the decisive 32nd game of last fall's title match in the Philippines, the Swiss Chess Association announced Monday.

Korchnoi claimed the match organizers made him play under "intolerable conditions" but the federation decided at a closed meeting in Graz, Austria, that the protest by the expatriate Russian grandmaster was filed too late to be accepted.
