Crisis 'more serious' than '73-74 possible

WASHINGTON (AP) - The continuing political strife in Iran raises the possibility that the United States could be hit with an oil crisis "more serious" than the 1973-74 Arab embargo, a top official says.

Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger said Wednesday the cutoff of Iranian oil is forcing the United States to draw on reserves to make up for part of the 900,000 barrels a day once supplied by that country.

"Unless we are able to restock for next winter, our inventories could be dangerously low," he testified before the Senate Energy Committee. He said he had seen no indication "that the slide of Iran toward chaos has been arrested.

Although the Carter administration hopes voluntary fuel conservation will solve the problem, Schlesinger said officials were studying a package of mandatory controls, including Sunday closings of gasoline stations. He ruled out gas rationing

Schlesinger's testimony was considered the most pessimistic assess ment of the oil situation so far. Analysts blamed his remarks for a decline in stock market prices Wednesday and for a sharp drop in the value of the dollar on foreign

The energy secretary also said the United States was better prepared today to manage in an oil crisis than it was during the embargo. The nation now has a 70-day supply of oil in reserve, he said. At the time of the embargo, the normal reserve was 54 of Agriculture Bob Bergland should do the American farmer a favor and resign, urged a Texas congressman.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The federal government will begin a gas rationing program within 90 days, Texas Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace predicted Wednesday.

Rep. Marvin Leath, a freshman Democrat from Marlin, referred to 'insulting' comments made by Bergland in demanding the resignation.

'The farmers, many of them ac companied by their wives, came to Washington in an attempt to get the attention of the government to their plight," said Leath. "When they arrived in their capital they were greet ed by a Secretary of Agriculture who went on national television to call them 'driven by greed.

Secretary Bergland has now repeated that insult," added Leath referring to Bergland's testimony Wednesday before the House Agricul ture Committee.

The farmers are hard working, sincere men and women who are concerned about making a living while providing all of us with food and fiber," continued Leath. "They are not here out of greed, but out of a need for help just to survive.

'Secretary Bergland's attitude is insulting.

More than 500 farmers lustily cheered Leath's move when it was announced during an American Agriculture Movement gathering Wednes day night at a Lutheran church near the Capitol.

Leath said he was aware of Bergland's apology during his testimony but added: "That doesn't make any difference to me. Lintended to ask for his resignation Tuesday but got up to my ears in alligators. The Agriculture Secretary is supposed to represent a healthy farm program.

City sued in death of youth

The city of Midland and a Midland policeman were named defendants Wednesday in a suit which alleged negligence in the death of 18-year-old Joe Bearden.

Luann Bearden, the youth's mother, filed the civil suit in district court Wednesday against the city and Terry Garner, the officer who was driving the car which struck and fatally injured Bearden June 28.

Mrs. Bearden is seeking $150,000. A police department investigation of the incident absolved Garner of Police said at the time of the accident that Garner and an officer in another car were answering a call on the unpaved portion of A Street north of Wadley Avenue, and that dust from the vehicles during the nighttime incident kept Garner from seeing Bearden lying in the road.

Mrs. Bearden is represented by Tom Snead of Odessa. Bearden's father, Midland attorney Bobby Bearden, is not a party to the suit.

Housing Authority suggests bonds to help families purchase homes

By LINDA HILL Staff Writer

Midland's Housing Authority voted Wednesday to ask the City Council for permission to consider a plan to make it easier for moderate-income families to buy homes.

At their regular meeting, Housing Authority directors discussed the Single Family Mortgage Revenue Financing Program, a federally sanctioned program under which housing authorities can issue revenue bonds to be used for home mortgages.

Authority Chairman Harry Clark said the current rate for such bonds. with a AA rating, is about 7 percent.

Under the program, up to 11/2 percent could be added to that for administration costs, making a mortgage available for 81/2 percent, instead of the effective 10 percent rate currently charged by lending institutions.

Clark said the program would make it possible for persons in the $16,000 to $25,000 income range to afford new

The bonds would be handled by a trustee, with savings and loan associations actually dispensing the money to home buyers. Both agencies would receive a service charge from the 11/2 percent administration fee. Also included in that amount would be mortgage insurance, which Clark said would, in effect, guarantee the Clark emphasized there would be no

federal money involved, nor would the Department of Housing and Urban Development be involved

Clark also said no final determination has been made as to whether the plan is legal under Texas law. A clarifying bill is before the Legislature, he said.

Commission members said their vote to ask the council to change their contract with the city is not a vote for the program. Rather, it is a request to expand the authority's jurisdiction so they can look into the program.

Clark said informal queries of council members and the city attor ney indicate they are receptive to the The chairman said he personally would like to delay implementation until a larger authority, such as the one in El Paso, works out the procedure and legality for the program. Also at Wednesday's meeting, the board members agreed to spend the last $1,146 from the Midland Commission for Local Community Development to do additional work on it's last

Under the privately funded program, 36 homes were repaired.

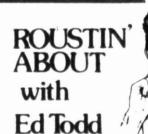

In other action, the board voted to purchase an "exercycle" for the Hillcrest Manor community room and to hold its next meeting at that apartment complex.

Ginger Rogers proves they can't take away her delightful talents

At the end of her performance Wednesday night in Midland College's Chaparral Center, legendary Hollywood star Ginger Rogers sang what she described as her "very, very favorite song of them all. It was "They Can't Take That Away From Me," and it occurs to this writer that for Miss Rogers it is an apt choice.

The fast-paced show she put on here certainly demonstrated the fact that, even with the passage of time and a good many years after she made her final movie musical, this gracious lady still possesses formidable song and dance talent - something "they" can't take away from her,

And, certainly, "they" can't take away the memories of a long and lustrous career - the nostalgic recollections, the witty glimpses into the long-gone "golden era" of Hollywood in the 1930s and '40s — which the actress shared with her audience here.

Mind you, though, while the program was nostalgic on occasion, it was not stickily-sweet — but warm and witty and "fun" nostalgia. Miss Rogers knows how to serve up a few anecdotes, share a few memories, lightly and happily.

There wasn't as large a crowd on hand to catch Miss Rogers' show as I had thought there would be. But it was a sizeable audience, and definitely a responsive and appreciative one.

Her Midland appearance was under auspices of the Midland Symphony Guild, with proceeds to benefit the Midland-Odessa Symphony Orches-A group of instrumentalists from the symphony made up the small orchestra which accompanied Miss Rogers in her song and dance numbers. The orchestra was conducted by Miss Rogers' musical director, Hal With the aid of projectors, photo slides and film clips, the actress traced her career from its very beginning in the 1920s in Texas, after she won the statewide Charleston contest, on to the New York stage for her first singing and dancing role in the Gershwin musical, "Girl Crazy;" next to Hollywood for a longlasting film career, during which she made 73 pictures; then, finally, back to the legitimate stage in New York and London for starring roles in "Hello, Dolly!" and "Mame."

Miss Rogers presented many of the songs which she sang in Broadway shows or movies in which she appeared.

Such songs include "Embraceable You," "But Not For Me," "We're In the Money," "A Fine Romance," "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off," "Did You Ever See A Dream Walking?," "I'm Looking For An Angel," 'It's A Lovely Day," I'm Putting All My Eggs in One Basket," "The Continental," "Dancing Cheek to Cheek," "I Never Knew," "Hello, Dolly" and "If He Walked Into My Life. Although she and famous singer-hoofer Fred Astaire made 10 song-and-dance musicals together (among them such classics as "Top Hat, 'The Barkleys of Broadway" and "Follow the Fleet") the exuberant Miss Rogers Wednesday night pointed out that in her long career she had made six non-musicals for every musical she had been in. The list of straight movies would include "Vivacious Lady," "Once

Upon A Honeymoon," "Lucky Partners," "Magnificent Doll" and "Roxie Hart," not to forget the picture that won her an Oscar, "Kitty Foyle," filmed in the early 1940s. Miss Rogers showed a film segment from "Kitty Foyle," in which she starred with Dennis Morgan, and another segment from "Roxie Hart," which co-starred George Montgomery. Joining Miss Rogers in several sequences in last night's show was singer and dancer Larry Merrett.

Not the least of the charms of Miss Rogers' show here were the star's costumes. Colorful and frequently elaborate, suggestive of the grand tradition of Hollywood, they definitely added to the splendor of the

Jan. 16 death of an Odessa woman has The woman, 34-year-old Geraldine Temple, was charged Wednesday night with two counts of second-degree murder, Detective Lt. Louis Campanozzi said. She was held overnight without bail.

Autopsies were scheduled for today, but police said the babies apparently had been strangled.

He said the inquest is a basic part of Campanozzi, head of Rochester's Physical Crime Squad, said he went to the home after two investigators from the Monroe County district attorney's office telephoned him to say a woman told them there was a body in the basement.

He said he found the "semi-buried" body of a male infant with pressure marks on its neck.

After detectives spoke with Ms. Temple at police headquarters, they returned to discover the girl's decomposed body, partially hidden in rags and papers in the attic, he said.

Campanozzi said a county medical examiner decided the male's birthdate and ruled that the infant had lived only a few minutes. The female had lived long enough to be given the name "Anita," he said.

Ms. Temple had long been in contact with the welfare agency, Kurlander said, but he did not say why. Kurlander said the agency became concerned and contacted his office

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) - A 27-year-old Argyle truck driver has been sentenced to death for the rapestrangulation slaying last June of a Lewisville High School girl. A state court jury deliberated one hour and 20 minutes Wednesday before recommending the punishment for John W. McCrory. The same jury on Tuesday convicted McCrory of capital murder in the death of Jeana Melissa Walker of Roanoke. The minimum sentence for the offense was life imprisonment. McCrory showed no emotion when the death sentence was announced. District Judge Stanley Kirk informed McCrory that an appeal was automatic in death penalty cases. Miss Walker's partially nude body was found in a rural Denton County field. A medical examination showed she had been raped and strangled.

Ice and snow knocked down power lines to more than 175,000 homes in Georgia and South Carolina as a winter storm rolled up the East Coast, contributing to six deaths before rolling out to sea.

The storm — the first major wallop for much of the Wednesday as scientists region this winter season — arrived a year and a day after a blizzard that paralyzed much of the North-

Memory is a thing of the past with the Olympus OM-2. That's because unlike other automatic SLR cameras that "remember" exposure information just before taking a photo, the OM-2 has a unique metering system that measures light directly at the film plane, during the actual exposure.

So, without a "memory," the OM-2 automatically takes accurate exposures every time. Used with our Quick Auto Flash 310, the OM-2 renders perfect flash photographs since the camera actually controls the duration of the flash by cutting the flash unit off when the proper amount of light has reached the film plane.

And the complete OM system has over 200 accessories. Remember the name. Olympus OM-2. It's unforgettable.

Let this be a lesson

Strange things can and do happen, and it seems that the United States has a way of getting involved in some of the most unusual, at least to the American way of thinking. And this may appear all the more strange to other countries.

For instance, the government of any less developed, less powerful country which becomes a client of the United States may be in for a difficult time.

This is the lesson of the crisis in Iran as it was a lesson of the collapse of South Vietnam.

The United States is strong the most powerful nation on earth. But it is not very sensitive or sophisticated when it comes to understanding the feelings of the common people of other cultures.

For foreign regimes which have become too dependent on the U.S., it is somewhat like climbing into bed with an elephant, if you can imagine such a thing.

It is clear that the United States did not sense the depth of resentment in Iran against a shah who spent billions of the country's oil revenues on sophisticated modern weapons made in the U.S.A., while neglecting his people's social and economic needs.

A recent Rand Corporation study of the fall of South Vietnam showed that surviving Vietnamese military and civilian leaders tend to blame the Americans for the debacle.

"The American role was seen as that of a gigantic but somewhat blind and often oppressive 'super-ally' who did not clearly understand the nature of the war, the nature of the South Vietnamese society, the nature of the enemy, or the needs of South Vietnam if it was ever to become socially viable and militarily able to face the enemy at the same time," the report said.

In other words, the United States simply did not understand, according to the Vietnamese way of thinking.

Nevertheless the Vietnamese leaders had such faith in the power of the United States that they failed to make the tough decisions and take the necessary independent actions which might have made it possible for South Vietnam to survive. Right up to the end, they expected America to "do something" to save them from collapse.

"Uncle Sam had overwhelmed their national identity and had made them into puppets, or at least into men who were perceived by their own people as puppets, which is just as bad," is the way a Copley News Service writer described the situation.

And in Iran, a similar fate overtook the shah.

The United States should be on guard in the future to respect the pride and independence of all friendly countries, no matter how underdeveloped, small and poor - and to maintain an arm'slength relationship with their governments.

To overwhelm any government with U.S. attention, advice and aid is no act of friendship.

Even if "wage insurance" never becomes a reality, it is felt by many Americans that workers owe it to their country and to themselves to abide by the guideline. This is a reasonable,

But the "wage insurance"

ART BUCHWALD Conserve paper, please, but make multiple copies

WASHINGTON — They've been trying to keep it a secret, but there is a serious paper shortage in Washington. A strike of Western paper workers, which is expected to be taken up by workers on the East Coast, has caused a paper deficit in Washington. The reason the government has been keeping it a secret is it fears that if the word gets out, panic will set in and different departments and agencies will start hoarding paper, while others might resort to some very dirty tricks to ensure that its memo flow is not turned off.

One department, which shall remain anonymous, got wind of the shortage and has already held 27 meetings on the crisis.

At the last meeting it was decided to alert all employees to the situation. In a memo, which was sent to the agency's 27,500 workers, a deputy director wrote: "It has been brought to my attention that we can expect a serious paper shortage in the next few months, which could affect productivity and the morale of this agency. Therefore, I am asking everyone to conserve every sheet of paper possible, even if it involves such dire emergencies as using both sides of the paper. I am also requesting all employees to submit to me in writing how the agency can conserve paper. These suggestions should be made out in triplicate with one copy for me, one for your supervisors and one to keep for yourself in case any action is taken.

"Supervisors are requested to submit weekly reports to the Administrative Supply Office as to how many employees are following this directive, and if this memorandum has increased or decreased the use of present supplies. If an employee does not send in a suggestion, his or her supervisor must put in writing to the personnel director why he or she failed to do so. The personnel director will evaluate and report on Form 2-D to his superior whether or not the excuse is valid.

"What we plan to do with the suggestions is have the public affairs division compile a collection of the most interesting ones, which will then be distributed to all personnel - not only from this agency but from corresponding agencies, which find themselves in the same shortfall position.

"It is my hope that this compilation can be published by the General Printing Office and sold to the public. A steering committee has been appointed to study the best methods of distribution, as well as costs, and the report should be on my desk by the early part of next month. Each department head will receive a copy of the report comments as well as additional thoughts.

"To facilitate matters on the book project, it is suggested that all departmental correspondence concerning conservation be submitted on yellow 8x10 Memorandum Sheets (G-234 forms), while those regarding distribution be written on the blue double carbon pads (K-677). If you do not have these colors in stock, you can obtain them from the supply room by filling out Form 2323.

"It goes without saying that this agency will be out of business if it is unable to supply the documentation to justify the written decisions it makes. Therefore, everyone from the top agency officials to the mail-room personnel must comply with all regulations regarding the conservation of our paper supply

"The first of these regulations is now being distributed. If you do not receive it in a week, please notify this office on Green Form 1456, using the White No. 10 envelope

"Anyone who does not have a Green Form 1456 may apply for a written waiver by using the Manila Folder 10-DC in which this memo is being distributed." - A. Clancy, Acting Chief Deputy Counsel, Paper Conservation Committee.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Is the job too big for one man?

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - Jimmy Carter, besieged by a balky Congress, an uncontrollable economy and a critical press, has had cause to reflect ruefulupon Mark Twain's frustrations in asking directions to a friend's farm in New Hampshire.

"How far is it to Henderson's place?" Twain inquired. The farmer said it was "about a mile and a half." Twain continued along the road until he met another farmer and again asked the distance to the Henderson farm. "About a mile and a half," replied the second farmer.

Still farther down the road, Twain asked another passing farmer the distance and was told, "about a mile and a half." Mark Twain replied:

'Thank God, I am holding my own.' The president is beginning to wonder whether he is holding his own. He puts in about two working days every 24 hours. He is usually at his desk by 6:30 a.m. Often he keeps plugging away not merely from dawn to dark but, in times of crisis, from dawn to

Archaic laws and traditions also impose upon him a thousand and one minor chores, many of them requiring his personal signature. He is supposed to be the nation's chief greeter, civic pitchman and father-confessor. He has to serve as host at banquets raises an urgent question: has the world's biggest job become too big for any single person to handle?

Not only is Carter expected to comprehend the full significance of the thousands of words and figures that pour across his desk each day; not only must he decide immediate issues and cope with each new crisis; but he must also give constant thought to the future and chart a reliable course for the ship of state to follow.

WATCH ON WASTE: It may seem hard to believe, but federal agencies are not supposed to spend taxpayers' money on publicity and other forms of self-promotion. It is, in fact, against the law.

But under the slick fiction of "public information" and "public affairs," the bureaucrats spend a substantial amount of their time - and a substantial amount of public funds - blowing their own horns. The cloak they use for this multimillion-dollar puffery is their duty to inform the public and Congress what their agency is doing with our money Uncle Sam's flacks frequently overdo it; far less frequently do they get caught. One bunch of hype artists who did was the Federal Highway Administration team that put together a Bicentennial salute to government road builders - a 553-page book with 120 color photographs, titled, "America's Highways, 1776-1976.' Through the mysterious but inevitable workings of government boondoggles the budget for the commemorative volume rose from a modest $7,000 in 1974 to a stunning $327,534 when the books finally rolled off the presses. The 5,000 copies cost the taxpayers $65.50 apiece, rivaling (at least in price) the fanciest of coffee-table art

Unfortunately for the highwaymen, one of the target coffee tables was Sen. Lowell Weicker's. When the Connecticut Republican saw the obvious expense that had gone into his gift from the highway flacks, he odered an investigation.

Although the investigation showed that FHWA's self-serving project was initiated without informing either Congress or the secretary of transportation, the puff artists were let off with a tsk-tsk, a shake of the head and a stern warning not to do it again.

NICK THIMMESCH Chairman Frank Church blundered on first 'outing'

WASHINGTON - Senator Frank Church (D-Idaho) made a mistake in choosing a Jewish forum and delivering a pro-Israeli speech in his first public appearance as chairman of the prestigious Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and others at the State Department are not exactly pleased with what I would call Church's impropriety.

One would hope that any new chairman of this powerful committee would deal with the Middle East in an even-handed manner — at least on his first outing - and thus give Israelis and Arabs alike the notion that a fair-minded man was in charge.

Instead, Chairman Church's debut was an address to the Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai Brith last week where he generally echoed the Israeli line on the Camp David negotiations. He criticized any move to include Jordan and representatives of the Palestinians in the talks, and also scored the Carter Administration for not pressuring the Saudis to use their influence on Egypt to get a settle-

Whatever the merits of his arguments, and they are in dispute here by those souls who believe in even-hanledness. Church erred in two important respects:

almost inevitable.

-By going to a Jewish-interest audience and giving a pro-Israeli speech, he raised the suspicions of Arab nations who do want a peace settlement. Church also encouraged the Israeli lobby to believe it has a sure thing in Congress when Middle East decisions must be made.

-By accepting expenses plus a $500 honorarium (admittedly modest) from A.D.L., Church leaves himself open to criticism of conflict of interest. By taking money from the A.D.L. which has a very special interest in the Middle East, Church is wrong just as he would be if he gave his first speech as chairman to a special-interest Arab group, say, the American Ramallah Federation or the National Association of Arab Americans. A spokesman for Church says he has no regrets about speaking to A.D.L. in this context because, "It is a group with an intimate involvement with the Middle East, and wanted to hear what Sen. Church's thoughts

Maybe so, but if he had to get into the Middle East situation theme and in his first speech, why didn't he choose a more neutral forum? If he wants to express his pro-Israeli views, fine, but couldn't he wait a few

The Idaho senator has made some good money from speeches delivered to Jewish groups. He refuses to disclose how much he earned from his 1978 speeches, until he is required to next year. But Senate records show he earned $5,000 in 1977 from four speeches to Jewish interest organizations. In 1976, he earned $3,000 this way, and in 1975, it was $7,500. Sen. Church is not alone in accepting speech fees from Jewish and other special interest groups. But just as the chairman of the Senate Banking Committee is wise not to accept honorariums from banking organizations, so should the Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman refrain from taking honorariums from groups with a special interest in this nation or that. The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee should reprethe small society

The major exception to Jarvis' otherwise impressive record was the Los Angeles County assessor's race. Jarvis donated $15,000 to challenger Frank Hill, who was defeated by in-

Not reflected in the report were those race in which Jarvis authorized use of his name in letters used to attack incumbents for their position.

For instance, letters using Jarvis' name cropped up in about 20 hotly. contested Assembly races, and Democrats credit Jarvis with beating their candidates in 11 of those races.

Court allows retarded girl to donate kidney

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) -Anne Little, 15, is retarded, and doctors say she doesn't really understand what a transplant is. But they also say she loves her brother, and a court has decided she can donate a kidney to save his life.

The 4th Court of Civil Appeals ruled Wednesday that Anne, who suffers from Down's Syndrome, is legally able to give the kidney to her 14-yearold brother Steve.

"We're relieved and grateful," said Margaret Little, the children's mother, from Steve's San Antonio hospital room. "Steve's very happy about it....He had almost given up hope I think.

The boy was hospitalized Tuesday with extremely high blood pressure brought on by kidney disease. His only kidney is "deteriorating badly," and will probably be removed Friday, doctors said.

One of Steve's kidneys never developed and had to be removed when he was 5. The other kidney failed about three years ago, and he stopped growing at that time.

Doctors say Anne is the only acceptable donor for Steve among his parents and six brothers and sisters. Anne does not fully comprehend a kidney transplant, but is "quite devoted" to Steve and wants her beloved brother to be healthy, a psychiatrist who examined the girl

The Guadalupe County probate court ruled Nov. 17 that Mrs. Little, Anne's legal guardian, could consent to the operation.

But Attorney R.H. Wester Jr. was named to protect the girl's legal interests, and - against the family's wishes - filed an appeal.

Doctors, who say Steve has a 95 percent chance for a normal life with one of his sister's kidneys, had refused to perform the transplant pending resolution of the legal issue.

"I won't be making any further appeals," said Wester. "I have just signed a joint motion to allow the transplant to take place. I believe my Wester, who argued that Texas lacked a legal process for removing organs from mental incompetents, could have delayed and, in effect, blocked the transplant by appealing the latest ruling to the Texas Supreme Court. In its decision, the appellate court urged the Legislature to resolve the legal issue Wester raised.

Midland College's Dance-a-thon to begin Friday

Feet, legs and heads willing, 30 couples are primed to start dancing Friday night at Midland College.

Their goal is to dance from 7 p.m. Friday until 9 p.m. Sunday as part of the third annual Midland College-American Heart Association Dance-

The Midland College Student Center will vibrate to music provided by records and occasional live bands as the entrants keep moving.

The dancers' goal is to last as long as possible and raise as much money as possible for the American Heart Association. Grand prize is a weekend ski trip to Ruidoso with lodging in the swank Inn of the Mountain Gods.

"In past years, visitors have added to the encouragement of the dancers, and we invite the public to come out again this year," noted Dr. David Caffey, director of student activities.

No admission charge is made, although visitors are asked to make a contribution at the door.

Although the Dance-a-thon is definitely an endurance event, there are specified rest periods. Dancers rest for 15 minutes after each 105 minutes and get one hour off each eight hours.

First hour of the Dance-a-thon will be broadcast live by KCRS radio to kick off the event. Records that will be played during the weekend are being furnished by KCRS and KMND radio stations.

Goal for the Dance-a-thon is $3,000. In the event's first year, students raised more than $1,500, and last year they collected more than $2,600.

Most of the money is raised by sponsors, who agreed to pay a specific amount for each hour that a couple one or more couples may do so by calling 684-7851, extension 187, or by visiting the Student Center at the start of the event.

During the first two breaks Saturday night, there will be special appearances by belly dancers, led by Karen Sharma, who teaches the Oriental dance form at Midland College. The belly dancers are slated to perform at 8:45 p.m. and 10:45 p.m. Friday. A different type of dancing will be displayed at 4 p.m. Sunday, when a square dance club will perform during the hour-long breaks.

Live rock band appearances also are slated during the marathon

In addition, U.S. District Judge Robert Porter granted a temporary restraining order sought by the Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders Inc., to halt the showing of the film. A hearing on their request for a temporary injunction was set for Friday.

The film, which stars Bambi Woods as Debbie, has been shown in New York and Washington. It premiered here at noon Wednesday.

"A movie of this type only comes along once every five years," said theater operator Mike Nash. "The last one was 'Deep Throat.'"

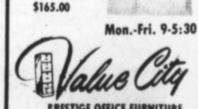

The cheerleaders seek a preliminary injunction against the movie, claiming the film falsely represents Ms. Woods as a former Cowboys cheerleader. Their petition says the film used the common law trademarks of the cheerleader organization - its name and uniform - without permission.

Nash said the only appearance of the facsimile cheerleader's uniform was in the movie's last scene.

The film was confiscated after an undercover officer viewed the first showing and swore out an affidavit claiming the movie was obscene. Lt. W.A. Craven said a hearing will be held to determine if the film is

This has become the major event for students during the spring each year," pointed out Caffey.

"They work hard to organize the event, recruit students to dance and obtain sponsors. Most importantly, they are doing this for others and not for themselves.

"It's something that has become a tradition on campus, and all the students look forward to it each February. I just hope others in the community will come out sometime during the weekend and offer these students some encouragement.

"After all, they are going to dance their hearts out to help others'

HOBBS, N.M. — Throngs of people were gazing skyward in fanciful anticipation of air feats, which came and went.

Recorded band music, "The Caissons Go Rolling Along," was playing over and over so often that it became like the droning sound of squadrons of B-17 Flying Fortress bombers passing over in their last flight before scrapping after the end of the war.

Barnstorming was in the air. But suddenly, out of the clear blue, there came the sight and sound of the 'utlimate' flying machine, or at least what some suppose to be the zenith in piston-powered flight.

It's the North American P-51D Mustang.

"Zoom" went the swift, sleek, tempestuous lady of the sky. She's a rare bird.

The bull horn, manned by Dr. Bill McCollough, overrode the patriotic marching music. No one was stomping around or, perish the idea, doing the goose step.

"IT'S ONE OF THE finest - the finest - combat aircraft ever built," asserted McCollough, as the Mustang zipped by.

McCollough, chief judge of the International Aerobatic Club, knows the value and worth of an airplane, particularly if it doesn't fall apart from all those G stresses of rolls, loops, dives, pull ups, bouncy weather and hard landings.

Robb Satterfield was the fellow flying that Mustang and shoving the throttle forward, while the 1,490-horsepower Rolls-Royce Merlin engine and its 12 pistons cracked sharply 18,000 times per minute like overlapping cannon fire.

He pulled off some aerobatics, but by no means did he "red line" the old warbird for the aviation fans.

Sam Holloman, who had flown his far-slower Stolp Starduster Too, an experimental aerobatic biplane, to the air show, was "tied down" in the Mustang's jump seat.

Holloman, an Odessa building contractor and a stunt - make that 'precision" - flier, was snuggly fitted in the P-51's jump seat, which had displaced an 85-gallon auxiliary fuel

Satterfield, a Midland corporate jet pilot and a former prop and jet test pilot for the U.S. Air Force, had flown the Mustang out of Midland Air Park to the Hobbs "Aero-Fest."

BELTED DOWN IN THE jump seat behind Satterfield in that Midland-to-Hobbs flight was Roustin' About. who's a fancier of aircraft from the myth of Icarus to the pipe dreams of Leonardo da Vinci to the Wright brothers' biplane and on to the Jenny, to the lumbering Gooney Bird and to all the reality of winged flight to and beyond the Mustang.

Satterfield, who deems the Mustang the "ultimate" in prop flight, had cautiously pulled the pampered plane from its snug hangar at Midland Air Park with a towing tug.

He was committed to flying the 34-year-old Mustang to the Aero-

Just the sight of the old but ever-robust, youthful looking and feisty flying machine is a show in itself. The Mustang dares to be tamed.

The shattering sounds of the firing pistons unsettles the air but excites and awes the spirit.

The Mustang was designed in 1940 to replace Curtiss P-40 Warhawk and to fight alongside the proven British Spitfire in World War II. Later, the fighter was modified as a long-range bomber escort.

At the Aero-Fest, Satterfield, Roustin' About and hundreds of air buffs would watch brothers Jim and Steve Franklin fly their aerobatic Waco (wah-co) JMF-7 and Bucker Jungmeister biplanes in barnstorm and dog-fight fashion.

Too, they would see pilot-"daredevil" Terry Taylor do some wing walking on the Waco. And Jim Franklin, taking on the appearance and antics of a drunken farmer, would fly the high-wing Super Cub as if the lightweight plane were a waggling wad of crumpled paper.

IN THE MEANTIME, Satterfield locked the tow bars onto the Mustang's landing gear, and eased the aircraft forward. Its four-bladed, 11foot-2-inch prop barely cleared the hangar. He pulled the spirited aircraft to the flight line.

The airplane, which is one of some 16,000 Mustangs built by North American Aviation and is only one of about 80 now airworthy, came off the assembly line in March 1945 and never saw action in World War II.

Later, the aircraft was assigned to a National Guard unit but somehow missed combat action in the Korean Many of those thousands of P-51s tang grew into an antique and admired warbird, the airplane became increasingly more valuable and coveted by aviators who like to do the Pilot Robb Satterfield of Midland sits in the cockpit of his "fiery lady" — a P-51D Mustang — before cranking up and lifting off.

Smith and Aaron Giebel, a Midland oil producer and an aviation enthusiast-pilot, got themselves "halfway in hock" by coming up with the money to latch onto that mint-condition Mustang out of California.

Why fork over the money for an aircraft made for warring and so expensive to maintain?

"BECAUSE WE THINK IT is the ultimate in piston-engine flying," explained Satterfield. "It has no vices. It's an honest airplane; it'll kill you...if you do something wrong."

"It's got a lot of power," allowed Smith, who, after he had taken the craft for a spin, proudly declared, "It's a blast.

TO WORK

To say Smith, like Satterfield, was impressed by flying the Mustang is an understatement

"For me, I'll never complain," said Smith. "I've flown the ultimate machine There's nothing else. Yeah, there's nothing left."

"And using it (power) right is some advantage," said Smith.

Such as speed and torque Satterfield and Smith have christened the Mustang "Miss Torque, for this fiery lady can be a deadly Siren in the hands of an unwary pilot or a spirited angel to a deft airman. Satterfield is the latter.

He found other virtues in the aircraft: It's supposed economy, for one. Cruising at 300 mph, the Mustang's fuel rate is 43 gallons per hour or "Clear!"

seven miles to the gallon. The Mustang can reach 505 mph. Undoubtedly, an appeal of the Mustang is its rarity and value. (An airworthy Mustang today commands $100,000 upwards).

"That's the American way," said Satterfield. "If it's scarce, you've got, from that volcano of an engine. to have it.

ONCE PLANE AND PILOT were on the flight line, Satterfield had the warbird fueled. He carried out the pre-flight check Parachutes were fitted on. And seat and harness belts were pulled snug. "Are you ready?" yelled the pilot.

Roustin' About was.

The engine began to whine and spat out puffs of dark smoke, as the pistons started firing.

Suddenly, all 12 cylinders exploded. The spinning prop became a fury. The air quaked. The noise of the whole world seemed to be issuing Satterfield taxied the tail-dragging Mustang to the runway's threshold. He revved up the engine and checked and rechecked the instruments.

He sensed all was okay. He released the brakes, poured on the power, the aircraft accelerated and the miracle of flight was born

Getty Oil Co., based in Los Angeles, Calif., said it agreed in principle to acquire interests in 15 oil and gas properties and support facilities from Ashland Exploration for $267 million.

The properties - offshore of Louisiana and Texas — currently produce 6,500 barrels of oil and about 25.6 million cubic feet of gas a day.

Included in the support facilities are four natural gas plants in Louisiana and pipelines connected to the various properties being sold. Getty said it expected to complete the transaction in April, retroactive to Jan. 1. Petro-Lewis Corp. of Denver, Colo., said it agreed in principle to purchase the producing oil and gas properties of Ashland Exploration's Rocky Mountain Southeast and Southwest regions for about $120.5 million.

AMARILLO - Mesa Petroleum Co., announced commencement of production from the company's first 100 percent interest platform on West Delta 61 in the Gulf of Mexico offshore Louisiana at a rate of 13 million cubic feet of gas per day.

This nine-well platform will produce reserves from West Delta 61 and 62 (Mesa 100 percent). Production is expected to increase to 30 million cubic feet of gas per day by the second quarter of 1979 and ultimately should exceed 40 million cubic feet of gas per day upon the completion of additional wells.

The West Delta platform is the second of 13 platforms in which Mesa has an interest which are scheduled to commence production during 1979. Production began last month from a sixwell platform on South Pelto 13 (Mesa 25 percent).

Mesa Petroleum Co., with headquarters in Amarillo, is engaged in the exploration for and the production of oil and natural gas in the United States (including offshore areas of Louisiana and Texas), western Canada and the North Sea,

Defector says security guards poorly trained the special guards brought in for strike security at the Tenneco Oil Co. plant here are poorly screened, poorly trained irregulars recruited from the seamy side of Houston, a defector from the security force said Wednes-

"Three quarters of the people recruited are winos," said John Rose, one of five guards who quit Wednesday and sought shelter at the union's strike headquarters. "The only reason they're out there is for the money, and they might not even get that."

One of the five former guards said he had a criminal record, but that nobody checked his background. All five said their training for the security job consisted of watching two short films, after which they were armed with night sticks and a chemical eye irritant in aerosol cans. Sunday night, during the first hours of the strike by Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union members at the Tenneco refinery here, one of the security guards was taken to a hospital with a head injury. It was reported that he had been hit in the head by a pipe-wielding picket, although union officials deny that.

British Shell ups gas price

LONDON (AP) - British Shell raised gasoline prices the equivalent of 6.7 cents a U.S. gallon today, increasing the price of premium fuel to $1.40 a gallon.

The government price commission approved the increase and other companies were expected to follow suit.

'We were brought out to beef up security, but we're going to end up blowing up the place," he said.

Rose said he and the other guards were promised $4.50 an hour for a guaranteed 56 hours of work a week. He said that when he complained about conditions at the plant, he and the others were dumped at the front gate and told they could pick up their checks in Houston after they quit.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Justice Department's antitrust division has agreed to support a move to force the oil companies to divest themselves of oil pipelines. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., that, a Kennedy aide said today that the senator had received a letter of support from John H. Shenefield, the assistant attorney general for antitrust matters. In his letter, Shenefield indicated the Justice Department would take an active role in any FTC antitrust proceedings on the pipeline question.

> A minority of seven senators prevented action on a bill that would have cleared the way for the Texas Department of Corrections to build a new prison anywhere in the state.

Sen. Bill Moore, D-Bryan, got 22 votes to bring up the measure but needed 25. He said he would try again in a month when Senate rules will permit 21 senators to bring up a bill

"I've got the votes to pass it. It's no sweat," Moore said.

Former Attorney General John Hill blocked acquisition of land near Edinburg for a new prison last year by ruling that current law limited the possible locations to a 75-mile radius around Huntsville.

Moore's bill would allow the prison system to sell its Blue Ridge Farm in Fort Bend County and use the proceeds to buy other property anywhere in Texas. It also would allow the system to trade the land for other property.

Sen. Raul Longoria, D-Edinburg, wants to amend the bill to make sure no prison is built in or near his hometown, where city officials say they don't want it.

Senators also passed a bill allowing temporary members of a private club to bring as many as three guests to the club at one time.

Italy restoring Last Supper'

Knapp's land sets stage for fight

By TOM DeCOLA

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Residents and tourists alike turn their heads toward the Franklin Mountains at sunset, when the peaks glow orange and exert their dominance over the city of which they are

But only one person can stare with the pride of ownership - developer Dick Knapp. Knapp owns six square miles of the range that is the lower edge of the Rockies, including the highest peak at 7,200 feet. His intent to build homes and hotels, apartments and shops, has touched off howls of protest from civic leaders and environmentalists who view such development as desecration.

Knapp's land is surrounded by public property city, state and federal.

But it's still Knapp's land.

'There will probably be a big fight, but we'll win either way," Knapp said in a recent interview. 'We'll either build on it, or the city will buy it."

Mayor Ray Salazar said the city doesn't have the money to buy it (a more than $7 million price tag has been estimated.)

But Knapp was prophetic in his next statement: "I don't think the city needs it. I might trade my higher land for some city-owned lower land."

Two days later, Texas Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong announced that he would visit the Franklins Feb. 16 to look into the possibility of the state buying or trading the land for a wilderness park.

Knapp caught people's attention when he cut roads through the untouched wilderness, constructed an earthen dam in hopes of creating a lake and brought bulldozers onto the land inhabited only by snakes, snails, roadrunners and Fort Bliss soldiers who put up signs warning that trespassers are wandering around in an artillery range.

Knapp's actions brought about a series of legal maneuvers that all resulted in his gaining zone board permission to go ahead. That zone board decision came after a scandal in which one man was charged with offering Knapp a favorable decision in ex-

Chaps try to brake slide tonight

The Midland College Chaparrals will be attempting to slam the brakes on a two-game slump that has dropped them from first place to a tie for third place in less than two weeks time, but then that's the kind of race the Western Junior College Conference has developed into this winter.

The Chaps tip off against Amarillo College at 8 p.m. in the Chaparral Center, their first home game since beating South Plains College, 76-71, three games ago. In between, Midland has lost twice in New Mexico, to NMJC, 83-76. at Hobbs and to New Mexico Military Institute, 71-62, at Roswell Monday. If it's any consolation, the Chaps aren't the only team finding there's no place like home, even if it isn't so humble.

NMJC took it on the chin from Amarillo, 79-75, Monday, which dropped MC and NMJC into third place, a game behind NMMI and its 8-3 record. Western Texas College, meanwhile, just keeps rolling along, going 9-2 after levelling Odessa College, 97-86, on a 44-point, 21 rebound, seven blocked shot effort by 6-8 Greg Stewart out of the Bronx. That dropped OC, despite a 32-point spree by Midland Lee ex Billy Ray Ennis, to 6-4, a half game out of third.

South Plains propelled itself back into the thick of things by downing Howard College, 92-82, Monday to raise its record to 6-5. In fact, the only two teams out of the running for one of the four regionals berths are Clarendon and Howard.

BEFORE TONIGHT'S game, six coaches will conduct a basketball clinic for area students in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. The clinic begins at 6:15 p.m. at the Center and will be followed by free hot dogs and soft drinks for those participating in the clinic.

Conducting the clinic will be: Delnor Poss, MC athletic director; Jerry Stone, MC coach; Paul Stueckler and Greg Wright, Midland Lee basketball coaches; and Don Humphrey and Eddie Shirley, Midland High coaches.

Thos attending are asked to wear rubber-sole shoes. Following the clinic and feed, they will be guests at the MC-AC game. IN THE first meeting between MC and Amarillo, the Chaps took an 83-76 decision in a game at Amarillo.

Monday, it's back on the road again to Big Spring where the Chaps face Howard College, against whom they've split this season, winning 102-77 in WJCC, but losing 59-56 in the ABC Classic at Big Spring when the Hawks threw a four-corner offense at MC.

Although the Chaps have lost four WJCC games on the road, they are undefeated at the Center, nine straight, including five conference games.

No. 1 Irish cool off Pack with slow down

By DICK JOYCE AP Sports Writer

Digger Phelps' top-ranked Notre Dame basketball team has dug North Carolina State a little deeper. But it wasn't easy.

Sophomore Kelly Tripucka's two free throws sealed the Fighting Irish's 53-52 victory over the Wolfpack Wednesday night, handing N.C. State's its first non-conference loss at home since 1968.

Employing a slowdown game in the second half, the Notre Dame coach patted himself on the back after ending the Wolfpack's 13-game streak against non-conference foes.

"We played a smart game plan," Phelps said. "We didn't want to get in a running game with them."

Tripucka went to the free throw line with the Irish leading 51-50 in six seconds remaining. He calmy sank the foul tosses, which put his point total at 16, tops for Notre Dame.

"Hitting the first free throw kind of took the pressure off," said Tripucka. "Once you hit the first one, you kind of feel like the second will go."

IN OTHER games involving Top Ten college teams, No. 6 North Carolina downed Maryland 76-67 and seventh-rated Syracuse topped South Carolina 71-64.

While Notre Dame boosted its record to 17-2, N.C. State dropped to 15-8 overall. The Wolfpack, last beaten by Georgia at home in a non-conference game, stand last in the Atlantic Coast Conference with a 1-6 mark.

After Tripucka hit his free throws, N.C. State's Hawkeye Whitney scored a field goal, but the Irish ran out the

"We're having a hard time getting the right bounces," said N.C. State Coach Norm Sloan. "At the end, we had exactly the right shot with the right guy (Whitney). We just can't seem to get over the hump. I think we still will." Clyde Austin paced N.C. State with 16 points, 14 in the first half when the Irish led 31-29.

Meantime, host North Carolina, getting 23 points from Al Wood and 19 from Mike O'Koren, increased its ACC record to 7-2 and 17-4 overall and dropped Maryland to 3-5 in league play, 14-8 overall. It marked the Terrapins' eighth straight loss to the Tar

North Carolina, leading 61-57 with 6:50 left, shifted into their four corners offense to withstand the Terps. Greg Manning's 19 points led Maryland.

IN THE nightcap of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader, Syracuse, which led South Carolina by 19 points late in the first half, hung on for its 19th triumph against two losses.

Jim Boeheim, the Orangemen's coach, felt his team's 10-day layoff caused it to tire late in the second half when South Carolina reduced Syracuse's lead to four, 64-60, with six minutes remaining.

Hal Cohen then scored four of his team-leading 18 points to clinch the victory. Louis Orr added 17 and Roosevelt Bouie 14 for the Orangemen while Mike Doyle's 15 points paced the Gamecocks, 11-8.

In the opening game of the Garden twinbill, Iona, 16-5, edged Holy Cross 64-62 on Jeff Ruland's field goal with 21 seconds remaining. Ruland had 17 points while Ronnie Perry paced the Crusaders, 13-7, with 19 points.

In other games involving the Top Twenty, No. 17 Vanderbilt dumped visiting Kentucky 68-58 in a Southeastern Conference game; No. 18 Georgetown nipped host St. Peter's 62-60 and 19th-rated Temple scored a 54-43 homecourt victory over Penn much fun, Midland Cubs General Manager Bill Rigney, Jr., hopes to do it again next year. However, he may have a tough time finding an act to follow Vernon "Lefty" Gomez, who left the Midland Country Club crowd clutching their ribs.

Pitcher Gomez proves big hit in Tall City Midland's Sports Banquet was so much fun, Midland Cubs General

The one-time New York Yankees' pitching great regaled the crowd of 300 with tales, true and maybe a little tainted, of his pitching days with the Yankees and his managerial stints in Venezuela, Havana and Binghamton, N.Y.

Gomez was just one of many sports

Gomez was just one of many sports celebrities that made the evening an autograph collector's paradise. Baseball and football Hall of Famers Ernie Banks and Bobby Layne, along with Gomez, gave the night a legendary atmosphere, but it was a program blended nicely with the present, too.

JIM HALL and Al Unser, the architect and artist of Chaparral Inc., winners of the 1978 Indianapolis 500 were there, along with Bobby Hillin, Longhorn Racing Team, another 500 aspirant; Midland's Tom Brahaney, the St. Louis Cardinals' offensive lineman who is enjoying his free agent status more than last year; Houston Astros infielder Art Howe, and Jack Hiatt, Midland Cubs' new manager.

But the night's star, of course, was Gomez, who represents Wilson Sporting Goods Company, fulfilling speaking engagements and serving as a goodwill ambassador for baseball.

appearances a year, but after undergoing open-heart surgery last year, I've cut it down to less than half that number," Gomez related.

Gomez walks five miles a day and.

"I used to make 200 to 250 speaking

Gomez walks five miles a day and, if he's much over his playing weight, it isn't apparent.

Gomez won 189 games in a 14-year career, once posting a 26-5 record, the top winning percentage ever posted by a Yankee pitcher until Ron Guidry came along last year.

"It was a pleasure playing for the Yankees in the Ruth-Gehrig era. It gave you confidence when the Babe would tell you before the game, 'Hold 'em to five runs, kid, and we'll beat 'em."

But then Gomez would point out it

But then, Gomez would point out, it was sometimes hard to pitch when a comedian like second baseman Tony Lazzeri was at work behind you. "Just as I would reach the top of my motion, Tony would come up with something like, 'Boy, would I like to be hitting against the kind stuff you're throwing."

Gomez assumes some of the credit for the Designated Hitter rule now being used in the American League. "As a hitter, I never broke a bat in my life, until the other day when I was backing out of the driveway. I had just two doubles in my career." After one of them late in his career, Gomez ventured an "inch" off second and was immediately picked off.

Back in the dugout, Manager Joe McCarthy asked increduously, "What happened?" Gomez responded, "How the hell do I know, I've never been out there before."

ful merger with Hall, admitted it was a gamble, but he felt Hall's organization represented the best. "He stuck his neck out in picking me as his driver, and I stuck out my neck in going with Jim. As it turned out, we came home from Indy with all the marbles and we've been laughing ever since"...

Hillin, head of the Longhorn Racing Team, the first Midlander ever to qualify for the Indy, commented the Chaparral, Hall and Unser team has brought Midland fame all over the world. "I read about their success everywhere I go. It makes me proud to be the Avis of Midland auto racing."...

Layne was introduced by Jay Haney, who managed the Midland Indians to a Longhorn League pennant back in 1951, recalling he and Layne were baseball teammates at the University of Texas in 1942, "And I'm probably the only man who ever hit two home runs off Bobby in one game," referring to Layne, who was almost as good a baseball pitcher was he was a football passer... Layne, now a Lubbock resident, took the opportunity to blast the "bad reports that I ran the only x-rated huddle in pro football." Bobby had a reputation for tongue-lashing receiver's guilty of muffing perfectly thrown passes when they returned to the huddle. And he requested that if Midland ever held one of these things again, he'd like to be invited back, "Invitations are getting few and far between and I really do enjoy it."...

For Gomez, Brahaney and Hiatt, it was a busy day. Each made a brief talk earlier at the Downtown Lions Club noon luncheon in the Midland Hilton, relating interesting experiences and then answering questions from the floor...Gomez was introduced as "Lefty Grove" to which Vernon later responded, "I thought I looked better than that. After all, Grove has been dead five years."...Hiatt departed for Los Angeles early Wednesday and will report to the Chicago Cubs spring training camp at Mesa, Ariz., with the first group to help work with pitchers and catchers...Jack got his first look at Cubs Stadium and can't wait to get back for the season...

Midland is on a 14-game winning streak and is shooting for an unbeaten 5-4A season and is just two victories away from that accomplishment.

THE BULLDOGS downed the Cougars, 70-69, the first time around during the 5-4A race on their way to a 7-0 reading. The Pack is 5-0 and Cooper 3-1 since the Cougs had their game with Big Spring postponed Tuesday. That game will be made up Saturday. Cooper stands 16-12 on the season.

while Midland is trying to nail down the championship Friday on the MC campus, District 6-4A already has crowned its champion, the Wichita Falls Coyotes. Wichita Falls defeated Lewisville, 66-54 Tuesday while cross-town rival Rider was losing to Carrolton-Turner, 66-62, to eliminate the Raiders from contention. The Coyotes and Raiders tangle Friday night, but that game will just be a tuneup for the Red River crew who will have to wait a week before taking on the 5-4A kings in bi-district play.

THE COYOTES are 21-9 going into Friday's game and have won 10 out of their last 11 games, including a seven-game winning streak. Wichita Falls High has faced two common opponets of Midland. It defeated Abilene High, 64-52 and Abilene Cooper, 53-52.

Ricky Cobb, 6-foot-7 junior center, leads the Coyote attack with a 15.9 average while teammates Mike Nixon and Dick Woodruff follow with 14.1 and 14.2 averages, respectively. Nixon is a 6-0 senior and Woodruff a 6-4 senior Wichita Falls was last in the playoffs in 1976 when the Coyotes beat Abilene High in bi-district and then lost to El Paso Eastwood in the regional finals. Eastwood went on to win the Class AAAA state championship that year.

"Our expenses were well into six figures," said Steelers' publicist Joe Gordon. "The league gives you into six figures for expenses, but it's not nearly enough. We won't be specific, but we'll tell you we lost plenty. We lost. Any team does," he added. The Cowboys were a little more specific about their debt, saying their losses were at least $100,000. "As far as the bottom line of our profit and loss statement, it would have been more favorable if we hadn't entered the playoffs," Cowboys President Tex Schramm said before his team was beaten 35-31.

Off-season earnings are only part of the story. Each of the 45 Steelers' players received $18,-000 as members of the winning Super Bowl team. Each Dallas player got $9,000. There also was $5,000 for each Steelers' player for getting past the Denver Broncos in the first round of the American Football Conference playoffs and $9,000 for beating the Houston Oilers for the AFC title.

Golden Gloves opening tough on Midland lads

ODESSA - Midland boxers took it on the chin, so to speak, here Wednesday night in the opening night of the Golden Gloves tournament at the Ector County Coliseum.

Midland fighters were involved in 10 bouts Wednesday, and came away with only one victory. Action continues today at 7:30 p.m.

Monty Earl, a 141-pounder from Alamo, won a Junior High Football Division decision over 110-pound Richard Flores of Odessa Crockett. That was the only Midland victory of the night.

In other junior high action involving Midlanders, Keith Brown, 68, Alamo, lost on a first round TKO to Romeo Trevion, 68, Crockett; Ricky Sanchez, 91, San Jacinto, lost a decision to Robert Prater, 90, Bonham; and Alfredo Jimenez, 117, Edison, lost a decision to Cov Brown, 116, Hood. In the High School Football Division, Midland fighters lost in all five bouts. Midland Lee's Mark Thompson, a 188-pounder, lost a decision to Brian Lambert, 182, Permian, in one of the closest matches of the night.

In other high school bouts involving Midlanders, Lee's Larry Linne, 180, lost a decision to Mike Goode, 181, Pecos-Barstow; Flo Munoz, 121, Midland High, lost a decision to Willie Baker, 124, Permian; Tony Mata, 141, Midland High, lost a decision to Daniel Harrell, 142, Odessa High; and Lee's Joe Minter was knocked out in the first round by Odessa High's Arthur Powell, 138.

In the only Open Division fight of the night, Midland's Jimbo Elliott, a 145-pound unattached fighter, lost a decision to Tony Pillado, 144, Fort Stockton.

Celtics fed up with Barnes' antics

BOSTON (AP) - Less than five years ago, after earning All-America honors at Providence College, Marvin Barnes became an "instant millionaire," signing a multiyear contract for $2.1 million with the Spirits of St. Louis in the old American Basketball Association.

Today, at the age of 26, he can be had for a mere $1,000, the National Basketball Association waiver price plus, of course, his fat contract that runs through 1981.

The Boston Celtics, fed up with Barnes' antics the last few weeks, gave up Wednesday, asking waivers on the 6-foot-9 forward. If not claimed within 48 hours, Barnes will become a free agent.

"Barnes has failed to live up to his contractual obligations," Celtics President and General Manager Red Auerbach said. "He hasn't contributed competitively to the ball club. He has not maintained himself in first class condition to play and has materially breached his contract."

BARNES REFUSED to talk even to close friends, saying he wanted to see a lawyer. Auerbach's statement and Barnes' decision to confer with an attorney appeared to pave the way for a possible legal fight.

"There are a number of legal questions involved," Boston Assistant General Manager Jeff Cohen admit-

"We'll pay him what we owe him," Auerbach said tersely when pressed about Barnes' contract.

In the dispersal draft after the ABA folded in 1976, the Detroit Pistons picked Barnes after two fine years with the Spirits. However, Barnes encountered various problems, on and off the court, and was traded to Buffalo Nov. 23, 1977. He came to Boston last summer when John Y. Brown swapped the Buffalo franchise to Irv Levin for the BARNES THEN negotiated a new three-year contract with Brown, allegedly asking that guaranteed salary provisions be eliminated to "make me hungry and play to my full potential." Sources say Barnes got $240,000 a year under a new agreement.

Barnes' troubles began early this year when he missed a practice on the West Coast and was fined. Later he missed another practice in Boston and was suspended for one game.

Asked to take a complete physical in a hospital recently, he balked. Then he flew to St. Louis and missed a practice the next day. That cost him a two-game suspension, with Player-Coach Dave Cowens saying he didn't want Barnes even in the same building with the Celtics.

"I'VE SEEN an attitude change from St. Louis to Detroit to Buffalo and then to here," said Boston assistant coach Bob MacKinnon, Barnes' first pro coach at St. Louis. "Here he started out well, but the last couple of weeks he missed practices and games. There wasn't anything else the Celtics could do."

"At St. Louis Marvin always came ready to play," said Boston veteran Don Chaney, a former teammate with the Spirits. "Here it seemed he had other things on his mind."

"He's really not a bad guy, just not responsible, the same as he was in college," Woolf said, "However, he has tremendous talent. I would think some team would pick him up and hope he matures."

Yanks seek Dallas Cowboy image

He loves the thought of a third consecutive World Series championship, but he glories in the thought going the same way as the Dallas Cowoboys," that he can rework the face of baseball into his own Steinbrenner said this week.

Suddenly, it was that time. It didn't matter that For three years, he has declared that the time was Carew had likened Steinbrenner to an ape or a coming when the Yankees would have their own gorilla.

had donned her first pair of snowshoes. Now she is preparing to try to regain her title - a la Muhammad Ali - that she lost after a nasty spill on the final day of the 1978 race.

The world championship, a mixed test for both men and women, is scheduled over the frozen terrain of northwestern Wisconsin Feb. 23-25. SNOWSHOE racing isn't part of the Winter Olym-

"It is much more demanding than cross-country skiing," she says. "There is no way to slide and glide downhill. It's over bumps and through brush and it's plodding work every inch of the way." Mrs. Gabriel, a small, wiry woman 5 feet, 2 inches tall and only 140 pounds, was in New York this week doing some advance promotion for what could be one of the least recognized sports in the entire uni-decided that was the sport for me.' The first thing Grandma Gabriel did was to go out and try to buy some snowshoes. She got only a lot of blank stares. No store had the things in stock.

Snowshoes? Whoever heard of snowshoes except Indians and maybe hunters and trappers in Alas-

DESPERATELY, Rose Mary located the name of a factory and put in a mail order for a pair of the leather-webbed, tennis racket-like foot gear. That's how it all started.

Mrs. Gabriel, who practiced on the banks of Lake Erie, entered the 1977 race and surprisngly won the women's title over a field that included scores of younger and seemingly sturdier competitors.

She raced 38 miles the first day, 21 the second and 24 the third, clocking 25 hours and 19 minutes. "You move at a pace of about 31/2 miles an hour," she explained. "It's a rigorous grind starting at daybreak and ending at after dark. There are a lot of dropouts after the first day."

THE SNOWSHOEING grandma trains year-

"I rise every morning at 7, cook breakfast for my husband and the kids and then I snowshoe to the recreation center where I swim and do some exercises before rushing off to work," she said. "I work a full day in a store that sells fireplaces and stoves. I come home about six, prepare supper and then I go out and do about six miles." The phenomenal grandma walks barefoot to toughen her feet and packs three-pound weights on her ankles to strengthen her leg muscles. She disdains tobacco and strong drink, spurns breads and sweets, subsists on soups, salads and meats. She plays in a women's basketball league, is a 12-handicapper in golf, is active in both tennis and softball. She is not, however, a living monument to "I believe a woman has a responsibility at home,"

Steinbrenner and the man does not insult easily. Steinbrenner said it mattered more than a little to him that Carew had maligned New York, and proba-

Steinbrenner has been carefully and deliberately trying to reconstruct the old image of Yankee splen-

The point Saturday was that the assembled minds decided that they did not have to take that from even a seven-time batting champion. "Three years ago, it wouldn't have mattered what he said about us," Steinbrenner said. Three years ago, Steinbrenner was grasping for the best players money could buy. First, he had to build an image as a winner. That accomplished, he now can polish the image.

STEINBRENNER went around the table soliciting opinions and encouraging devil's advocates. Lemon mentioned how Carew would look batting first or second. Rosen reminded everybody how they would be losing 90 runs batted in from Chris Chambliss. Butterfield defended the potential of the two young prospects he did not want to lose. And Steinbrenner phoned Calvin Griffith and said he was free to trade Carew to the Angels.

Bowie Kuhn's pronouncement that he did not want money changing hands irritates Griffith, because he could use $400,000 to hold good players, and it irritates Steinbrenner because it appears that the commissioner, using selective justice, was deter-Al Rosen, reluctant to give up Chambliss' 90 mined to keep the Yankees from getting Carew. This week, Kuhn's spokesman said the commissioner merely "discouraged" the exchange of cash, but Griffith and Steinbrenner say it was a prohibition. And Griffith has said "not one red cent" was involved, despite reports to the contrary. But that did not block the Yankees out of the deal. Carew had announced his own trade deadline for Monday. "It was like a gun at the head," Griffith pennant in 1977 and then had lost Lyman Bostock and

Larry Hisle to free agency. "Both became millionaires and I got nothing," Griffith said. STEINBRENNER and Griffith met in Orlando last Tuesday. Griffith backed down on his demand for the prizes in the Yankee farm system and fixed on the players to be involved: Chambliss and Juan Beniquez, and minor leaguers Rex Hudler, a shortstop, and pitcher Chris Welsh, bright prospects. "George was going to have a meeting and decide yes or no," Griffith said. But Steinbrenner was delayed by labor problems at the shipyard at Tampa, by Rockefeller's funeral in New York and the Yankee World Series film. And, in the meantime, Carew said those things about New York. "In my own stomach, I didn't feel good about the whole deal," Steinbrenner said. "I go on instincts. You never can not want a guy like Carew, but we can now afford to be a bit choosy about what we get."

Carew was making noises as if he would be a difficult sign; he said the cost of living was higher in

New York than in Anaheim, as if $200 more in rent mattered to a man making $800,000 a year. There were potential difficulties seen with Nettles, whose contract expires after this season, if another outsider was brought in at a high price. But Steinbrenner has weathered those difficulties before and Nettles is getting on in age. If he walks, Steinbrenner feels he is stockpiling replacements. He is interested in Bruce Robinson, a young catcher at Oakland, and then Steinbrenner thinks he will have a replacement part for Munson, too.

STEINBRENNER sees himself as an influential factor in the comeback New York City is enjoying in its image. Hotel rooms are hard to get and new hotels are being built, for the first time in years. "The Yankees have won three pennants and two World Series in a row," Steinbrenner said. "Point to one other thing the city has had for a rallying point." In the old days, coming to the Yankees had a special magic for a player. To him, it made him a star. Everybody knew players played better when they got to the Yankeees and less well when they left. It wouldn't serve the new image to bring in a star who knocked the image and announced he would get out of town as soon as the season was over. Not unless they needed him to win. And now the Yankees don't need even Rod Carew to win and that's what Steinbrenner always wanted.

Washington bites bullet and wins

The Washington Bullets bit the bullet Wednesday night and showed why they are the National Basketball Association's defending champs.

'We did tonight what you have to do when you're champions - adjust and utilize what you have," Elvin Hayes said after scoring 33 points and leading the banged-up Bullets to a 96-90 triumph over the Milwaukee Bucks.

'We have poise and confidence we can win," said Hayes. "We're aware of our ability and it doesn't bother us whether we're behind or ahead with the other team coming back. We just believe we can beat you.

'We caught a team with a lot of injuries and I didn't think the Bullets played very well," said Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson. "But they have experience, depth, quickness if they want it, shooters if they want it, and they always have board strength in

The Kings, hitting 13 of 17 secondquarter shots, took a 65-52 halftime lead and boosted the margin to 17 points late in the third quarter.

"I've said all along we've got to have all 11 guys doing something, and that showed tonight," said KC Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons. "The reserves came through and actually built the lead for us. They got us a 13-point lead in the first half and we played with it in the second half."

Spurs 126, Clippers 113 George Gervin scored 20 of his 28 points in the third quarter as the Spurs snapped a three-game losing streak. San Antonio led 90-84 after three periods and blew the game open by outscoring the Clippers 12-1 to start the fourth quarter. Adrian Dantley grabbed a loose ball and scored from underneath the basket with six seconds remaining to give Los Angeles its victory. Norm Nixon scored 12 points in the final period and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added eight as the Lakers came from behind to register their eighth straight victory over the Warriors, a streak which began almost two years ago. Nixon finished with 27 points, Jabbar 26 and Dantley 23. Phil Smith of the Warriors had a game-high 31 points.

76ers 114, Pistons 103

Julius Erving collected 37 points and Darryl Dawkins a career-high 25 as Philadelphia held off a final-period Detroit rally. Bob Lanier scored 31 for the Pistons, who haven't won in Philadelphia in nine games since Nov. 2, 1974. Crenshaw at peak of his golf game

Crenshaw declined to make any predictions. But the young man who resurrected his golfing career did offer an observation:

"I'm probably playing better right now than I ever did in my life. "I'm driving the ball better, striking the ball better than I ever have.

"I played real well in the last round (at the Bing Crosby) last week and shot 78. I just got it in the wrong places on the greens and when you do that there you can be in big trou-

The situation is slightly different in the $300,000 Hawaiian Open that got started today. The 7,234 yard Waialae Country Club course has probably the best, truest greens the touring pros encounter all year. And that's tailormade for Crenshaw, generally considered one of the game's best putters.

"I'm excited about playing. I'm up mentally. Winning was awfully important to me. "It rescued me at just the right time."

THE RESCUE took place in rainy Phoenix, where Crenshaw scored the sixth victory of his career and first in

"It had been too long. I was begin-ning to wonder. I think I've learned some things over the years. I think I'm a better player now than I've ever been. Now I want to go on and win. That's all I want to do - win, win,

And Crenshaw ranked among the prime title contenders in the 144-man field that may be the strongest this tournament has had.

Tom Watson, Player of the Year and leading money-winner for the past two seasons, tops the list that includes all the 1979 title-winners -Crenshaw, Fuzzy Zoeller, John Mahaffey and Lon Hinkle, who is admittedly tired and drained in the wake of his playoff victory in the Crosby.

AMONG THE other standouts are defending champion Hubert Green, U.S. Open titleholder Andy North, Lanny Wadkins, Lee Trevino, Gil Morgan, Jerry Pate, Hale Irwin, Bill Kratzert, Bruce Lietzke and Andy Bean, a playoff loser to Hinkle and a contender in two of the four previous events this year.

Arnold Palmer, still trying to recapture some of the magic that made him the most popular player golf has known, has spent hours and hours working on his game.

"Oh, I think I can get some of it back," he said. "I've been working pretty hard on it. Either it's going to improve or my appearances are going to become more infrequent.'

Palmer will combine his activities as a player with those of a television commentator for NBC, which will provide national coverage via satellite of portions of the final two

WBA ignores Ken Norton

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Top-rated challenger Ken Norton isn't included in a proposed World Boxing Association heavyweight championship tournament, and probably wouldn't participate if he were. But his advisor is unhappy about the snub.

The tournament is being planned by the Bob Arum-headed Top Rank Inc., and is designed to fill the vacancy that will be created by champion Muhammad Ali's expected retire-

Although Norton's advisor, Jack Cohen, isn't pleased his fighter wasn't asked to enter, it is doubtful he'd participate anyway two South Africans have been signed for the proposed series. Norton apparently would refuse to fight them.

Price of NCAA basketball playoff package goes up

By HOWARD SMITH AP Sports Writer

NBC and the NCAA, after several weeks of spirited fencing, are nearing agreement on an extension of the network's contract for coverage of the NCAA Basketball Tournament.

The current 3-year deal runs out at the close of this season's tournament. The extension would add another two years to the contract.

So, barring a last-minute snag, NBC will be televising the tournament through 1981, which will make 13 straight years the network has covered the event.

All parties more or less concede, however, that negotiations have been more difficult than usual this time around. The main reason appears to be ABC which let it be known that it would be interested in the tournament if NBC, which has first option, failed to make a deal.

"We had reason to believe that another party had some interest," concedes Tom Jernstedt, assistant executive director of the NCAA. And whenever there is more than one network interested in something, the price goes up.

A PRIME example of that came when ABC was talking with the NCAA about college football a couple of years ago. CBS showed strong interest in getting at least a piece of the pie and ABC was forced to up the ante to retain exclusive rights. The NCAA got a 4-year, $118-million contract out of it and that was considerably more than it would have gotten had CBS not been proposition. The NCAA controls rights to the tournament but the independent TVS network has most of the regular season rights th rough a series of contracts with the major conferences. NBC deals with TVS in marketing the regular season games.

Basketball is a slightly different

ABC's interest was strictly with the tournament. The network's regular vinter programming—"Wide World "Superstars", assorted of Sports", boxing and bowling-regularly mops up the other networks, including NBC's regular season college basketball. No way ABC will pick up a property it doesn't have room for and regularly beats anyway.

NBC, for its part, is not about to televise regular-season basketball all winter and then watch ABC pick up the lucrative tournament. NBC's contract with TVS, coincidentally, also

SO THE NCAA negotiating committee has a choice:

CHOICE A-It can award ABC the rights to the tournament, in which case NBC probably would decide not to pick up the regular season from TVS. That means the major conferences stand to lose money and exposure. And the cries of anguish would rattle of the walls of NCAA headquarters in Shawnee Mission, Kan.

CHOICE B-It can award the tournament to NBC, in which case the network will doubtless come to terms with TVS for the regular season and everyone will live happily ever after, even ABC which already has more than its share of good programming are expected to announce an agreement soon?

Part of the haggling over the new contract involved exposures. For the past two years and for this year, NBC has offered 11 exposures during the tournament. A national game counts as one exposure and a series of regional games televised simultaneously also count as one. Which means that every part of the country will get 11 games although which 11 will differ from section to section.

THERE WAS some talk of expanding the exposures to 13 or more under the new contract. But NBC was not interested in more prime time games and the NCAA was not willing to stretch the tournament out to encompass another weekend because of scheduling problems. So 11 exposures

NBC, as usual, will get some help from the NCAA on setting the times for games. Once the field, expanded to 40 teams this year, is announced, NBC will select the games it wants to televise and the network will be accomodated as far as starting times go. Which is only fair considering NBC is putting up lots of money.

Another sidelight of the contract is that NBC also has to televise one NCAA championship in another sport. ABC, as part of its college football contract, has to televise five other NCAA championships.

ABC gets to pick which five it wants and NBC has to choose one from the leftovers. Sometimes the pickings are a bit lean. Last year, for example, NBC ended up with the NCAA lacrosse championship.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices turned upward today in a mild technical rally after the broad decline of the past week and a half.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had fallen 43.74 points over the last eight sessions, managed a 1.56 gain to 817.57 by noontime today.

Gainers opened up a 3-2 lead over losers among bnew York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Analysts said the sharp decline of prices in recent days had reached the point where it was attracting buyers looking for "bargains" and covering previous short sales. But they said the advance was limited by continued concern over the political ipheaval in Iran. Energy Secretary James

Schlesinger said Wednesday the shutoff of oil supplies from Iran could have more serious effects than did the Arab oil embargo five years

Also confronting the market was the prospect of unpleasant inflation news Friday when the government makes its monthly report on the trend of producer prices.

Analysts, in fact, said a ise in the producer price index at anything less than a wo-digit annual rate for January would be surprising.
Gulf Oil led the active list.

up ¼ at 23%. A 174,300-share block traded at 24.

The NYSE's composite index rose .16 to 54.63. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .72 at 157.71.

Volume on the Big Board slowed to 10.18 million shares as of noontime from 12.86 million at the same point Wednesday.

Tax cuts in 1981 may unbalance Carter's budget

WASHINGTON (AP) - Income tax cuts may be necessary in 1981, which would further delay President Carter's goal of a balanced budget. Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal said today.

But, Blumenthal told the Senate Budget Committee, a tax cut next year would be dangerous to the economy because it would set off a new round of

In future years, he added, the administration is committed to using tax cuts rather than spending increases to stimulate the economy.

Blumenthal reiterated that it would be a serious mistake to amend the Constitution or pass a law requiring a balanced budget. This, he said, would 'require very frequent and highly disruptive changes in tax laws and in federal program

"The real task before us is not to write new statutes and constitutional amendments about the need for budget balance but to use the existing legal machinery to achieve balance," he said. "The test of fiscal restraint is not what we say but what we Another Cabinet member, Labor Secretary Ray

Marshall, says the administration will have to consider loosening its wage guideline if inflation iorsens and Congress rejects a proposed tax credit for workers who comply with the guideline.

But Marshall said Wednesday he is confident inflation will ebb and hopeful Congress will approve the "real wage insurance" tax credit, making it unnecessary to relax the voluntary 7 percent ceiling on annual wage and fringe benefit increases. "If inflation gets to be 10, 11 percent and you're trying to get workers to settle for 7, you're going to have trouble" getting union compliance, Marshall said in an interview with The Associated Press. "And, if you're unable to get real wage insurance. you'll have to consider adjusting the standard (guideline) or doing some other things to try to bring the inflation rate down," Marshall said. He added that the administration never intended its wage and price guidelines to be "fixed forever." "One possibility would be to gradually grind it down as you grind inflation down," he said. "Now, if you're wrong and you don't (reduce inflation), then you've got to have a more realistic standard.

Asked if that meant raising the wage ceiling above percent, he said, "Yes, but I don't think that's going to happen because I think we are going to get real wage insurance and I think we're going to be able to hold inflation down more than people now think."

Last week, Charles L. Schultze, President Carter's chief economic adviser, said the administration may have to tighten its wage and price guidelines by 1980 if Carter's anti-inflation program is successful. But Schultze did not say whether the guidelines would be relaxed if inflation remains at the 1978 rate of 9 percent or worsens. Carter's wage-price guidelines program intends to reduce inflation to 7.4 percent this year and 6.3

To make the 7 percent wage guideline acceptable to unions worried about their members falling victim to inflation, Carter proposed the wage-insurance tax credit to protect workers who meet the guideline. Under the plan, a worker would receive a tax credit equal to 1 percent of the worker's wages for each percentage point that inflation exceed cent, but only up to a 10 percent inflation rate. Also, only the first $20,000 in wages would be eligible, limiting the maximum that any worker can receive Initial congressional reaction to the credit has een skeptical. But Marshall, who previously noted a lack of support from Congress, said he now believes the credit stands "a fair chance of passage."

He added that if the credit is rejected, the adminstration could take other steps to "relieve the inflationary pressure on workers." One possibility, with cooperation from the states, yould be to reduce sales and payroll taxes and ncrease income taxes. "You shift from a tax that is nore inflationary to one that is not," he said. Marshall also contended that the government can reduce unemployment and inflation at the same time. "Unemployment is inflationary. It's a lot less inflationary to have people working than it is to have them on welfare or unemployment insurance," he

Many private economists, however, predict unemployment will rise because of Carter's anti-inflation-

Trade slump blamed on politics in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. exports to the Soviet Union might reach $10 billion within five years if the United States made a dedicated effort, according to an authority on Soviet trade.

In the process, said James V. Forrestal, president of the US-USSR Trade and Economic Council, this country could reduce its foreign trade imbalance and essen tensions between the two great nuclear Trade between the two countries has deteriorated, however. U.S. non-grain exports that jumped from $100 million in 1972 to $800 million in 1976, dropped to less than $600 million in each of the past two years. And the United States, Forrestal indicates, is at least as much to blame as the Soviets, and perhaps more so. The Soviets are anxious to trade, he said, but have been frustrated by U.S. politics.

Hearst appoints vice president for foundations

NEW YORK - Robert M. Frehse Jr. has been appointed vice president and executive director of the Hearst Foundation, Inc., and the William Randolph Hearst Foundation.

The announcement came from Randolph A. Hearst and David W. Hearst, presidents respectively of the two foundations Frehse succeeds Charles L. Gould, who assumes the title of senior executive, continuing his activities at the San Francisco offices of the foundations. Frehse joined the foundations as assistant treasurer and director of administration in 1975. In 1978, he became vice president and managing director. Before joining the Foundations, he had spent 24 years with Citicorp, primarily with the International Banking Group of Citibank.

His last post with that group was as manager of marketing coordination for the Asia Pacific and Western Hemisphere of the Citicorp Subsidiary Group in the New York home office. He previously was director of investment services for the Asia Pacific with regional office headquarters in Hong Frehse is a graduate of Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., and the American Graduate School of International Management in Phoenix.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am a 34-year-old woman and have been told I'm a candidate for a bypass procedure for obesity. When I mentioned the subject to my husband, he became very upset. I have the feeling that if I go ahead with the operation, he will eventually be pleased at the outcome and our marriage will improve. Yet, I hate to do anything he he is so opposed to. What would you suggest?—Mrs.

Dear Mrs. A.. Although your husband's feelings on the subject should not be the sole determining factor, I would urge you not to act precipitately. Studies have shown that the substantial weight loss that follows an intestinal bypass procedure not infrequently leads to emotional conflicts, including serious marital discord, between husband and wife. One study of 14 couples, in which one member had undergone the procedure, by researchers from the University of Kentucky and the University of University of Kentucky and the University of Wisconsin, showed striking changes in the relationships of all but one of them.

According to the study, after an average of 22 months following surgery, two of the couples were divorced and one was planning a separation. For a variety of reasons, the weight loss seemed to upset whatever equilibrium had existed between the

I recommend that both you and your husband discuss between yourselves and with your physician your feelings about the contemplated loss of weight. It might even be advisable for you and your husband to obtain counseling at a community family agency both before the operation as well as after, if you finally decide to follow that course. Preparation of this kind can help assure that all you will lose is some unneeded weight, not a husband or a marriage.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My neighbor was just told he has high blood pressure. I'm worried I might have it. How do I know if I have it?—Mr. P.V.

Dear Mr. P.V.: People usually don't know when they have hypertension. Many people have no symptoms at all. Others have symptoms like headaches (oftentimes in the back of the head and upper neck, particularly early in the morning when, surprisingly, blood pressure is relatively low), dizziness or shortness of breath. People who don't have high blood pressure may have these symptoms, too. The best way to find out if you have high blood pressure is to have your blood pressure checked at least once a year. When your blood pressure is taken, the blood pressure device (called a sphygmomanometer) measures how hard the heart is working when it beats as well as how well it is relaxing between beats.

Dear Dr. Solomon: There is a lot of street talk about a drug called DOM. What do you know about it?—Ms. D.R.

Dear Ms. D.R.: DOM was first synthesized in 1964 as one of a series of psychoactive drugs referred to as "psychotomimetic anphetamines." These chemicals produce many of the effects of amphetamines but have the added capability of producing hallucinations. They are chemically related to both mescaline and the amphetamines. Under the popular street name of STP (standing for "serenity, tranquility and peace"), the drug first won acceptance on the West Coast, where for a time it was legal, inexpensive and reputed to produce longer and safer hallucinogenic experiences. It is estimated that the drug is from 30 to 50 times less potent than LSD and 100 times more potent than

Sen. Moore to wait 30 days before trying prison bill again

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Rebuffed by a Senate minority, Sen. Bill Moore says he probably will wait 30 days to try again on a bill that would allow state prison officials to swap or sell its Blue Ridge Farm in Fort Bend County for a prison site anywhere in Texas. Moore got 22 votes

Wednesday to debate the bill but needed 25. It was apparently the first time since the Legislature convened a month ago that the Senate has rejected a bill. "I've got the votes to pass it. It's no sweat," Moore told reporters after the Senate had adiouorned.

He said, however, he would probably wait until after the 60-day mark when he would need a maximum of 21 votes to bring the bill before Senate.

Current law requires any new prison to be built within 75 miles of Huntsville, which is the center of a prison system that holds nearly 25,000 inmates. Of that total, approximately 800 are said to be sleeping on the

Prior to the vote Wednesay, Moore refused to accept an amendment by Sen. Raul Longoria, D-Edinburg, to prohibit a new prison from being built near Edinburg, and his refusal touched off a brief exchange.

"You run your district and let me run mine," said Longoria.

"I personally don't know why they would want to put a prison down there," replied Moore.

Prison officials have noted that the site must be in an area with a long growing season and a sufficient water supply for farming, since prisoners grow their own food. Two West Texas sites - near Van Horn and Fort Stockton - already have been ruled out because of insufficient water reserves, officials told the Senate Finance Committee last

Longoria's amendment would prohibit offi-cials from buying land west of U.S. 281 in Hidalgo County for a prison

Asked about Longoria's objection, Moore said, "I don't understand that because it would create a lot of jobs and would be convenient for the inmates because their families, who are usually poor, have to catch a bus to Huntsville now to visit them.'

Longoria said in a statement: "I do not oppose a prison facility in the Valley, since it would create many jobs in an area of the state with a high unemployment rate. But there has been much opposition to the bill by the cities of McAllen and Edinburg, as well as by the Edinburg Consolidated Independent School would cost the Edinburg District, and such a facil- school district $28,000 a ity should not be located year, he said.

South is no better off if East has the ace of spades; the defenders never have to lead spades. They just take the trumps out of dummy and lead clubs and diamonds. South must eventually lead spades again, losing two more tricks in the suit no matter who has the ace.

The bridge player leads the right card at the second trick: the king of spades. West must win and can afford to return a trump. South wins and leads another spade.

Even moderate success for the first installment in NBC's "Backstairs at the White House" miniseries couldn't save the week for the beleaguered network. "Backstairs" won the ratings race Monday night, finishing 11th for the week, but NBC finished last overall for the 15th week in a row.

ABC, offering its regular fare, had eight of the week's 10 top-rated programs, despite losing first place to a CBS premiere movie, "Rocky." CBS had the only other Top 10 show, No. 7 '60 Minutes.

ABC's rating for the week was 21.3, followed by CBS at 21.1 and NBC a distant third at 17.6. The networks say ABC's rating means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 21.3 percent of the homes in the country were tuned to the No. 1 network.

Early rodeo chronicled in museum exhibit

The world of rodeo in its earlier, less-grandiose years is chronicled in an exhibition of photographs at the Museum of the Southwest, 1705 W.

Missouri Ave. The photographs were made by the late John A. Stryker, a longtime professional photographer in Fort Worth whose particular photographic interest was the American rodeo, that unique sport which grew out of the skills acquired by cowboys who participated in the cattle roundups of the 19th and early 20th centuries.

Stryker, in his active years and before his death in the early 1970s, traveled the Southwest and West as rodeo photographer and, occasionally, as rodeo producer.

According to Dr. Roger Olien, chairman of the history department at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin, hundreds of early rodeo photographic negatives from Stryker's collection were acquired by UTPB from the Encino Press of Austin a number of years ago.

The negatives had not been printed since their acquisition by UTPB until a group of students in a Western history course at the university decided to sort out the negatives and create a rodeo pictorial exhibit.

Olien said the students went through more than 2,400 negatives in prints before they narrowed the exhibit photographs down to 39, which were then enlarged and mounted for museum and educational purposes.

Among the history students participating in the project were Randy W. Ray, curator of exhibits at the Museum of the Southwest, and Sandra J. Hiller, who serves as registrar at the museum. Others in the history class include Jim Cavender, Patsy Fowler, Robert C. Masters, Earl Reece and Bobby Thomas, all of Odessa, and Elsa C. Esquavel of Olien pointed out that in the 1930s and '40s, rodeo was "a way of life," but that "now it's become a big business - a highly-sophisticated, highly-professional activity," he

"This collection of pictures is representative of all the events sanctioned by the Rodeo Cowboys Association bareback bronc riding, saddle bronc riding, calf roping, steer wrestling and bull riding," he pointed

"In the Permian Basin, the Pecos, Sandhills and San Angelo rodeo continue as traditional events. In the past, important rodeo contests were held in Midland, Garden City and numerous other communities. Such local shows have been part of the Southwestern American way of life since 1888," he added.

The rodeo photographs also provide behind-the-scenes glances at rodeo announcers, timekeepers, gatekeepers, pickup men and, of course, the rodeo clowns and those colorful rodeo parades, Olien said.

Olien said that the photographic exhibit would be available for us other groups or institutions after the show closes at the Museum of the Southwest several weeks hence. Interested persons may contact the UTPB Learning Resources Center.

The Museum of the Southwest is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, and from 2 to 5 p.m. each Sunday. There is never an admission charge.

Dear-Friends of the Paisano,

Everyone, cattleman, salesman, movie star and tourist, has at one time or another stayed at the old Paisano Hotel here in Marfa. Texas. It's become, in the last 50 years, one of the focal points West of the Pecos.

But times change. To save el Paisano a new direction was made

On Saturday, Feb. 10, from 1 to 5 p.m., we invite all friends of el Paisano to see how this lovely historic building is taking shape for the next half century.

You will see a very interesting shopping mall containing a bakery, a truly old fashioned soda fountain, a young-generation fashion store, a beauty shop and a cute clothing store for infants and toddlers.

Across from the mall a three-doctor medical clinic also is under construction.

On the upper floors we are building 20 condominium apartments of very unique design featuring lovely stained glass windows, courtyard balconies and gold plated fixtures.

But most exciting of all, the grand lobby, the beautiful courtyard, and the well-remembered Spanish Room have not changed. Just as they were, but completely refurbished.

When restoration began more than a year ago about 85 percent of the original furniture remained in daily use. Once again the American Furniture Co. of El Paso is furnishing el Paisano, as it did 50 years ago. You will see four model apartments in delightifully modern style by American. Another 50 years? That's our aim.

Come early.

Few pot patches in West Texas

BY GUY SULLIVAN Staff Writer

A Midland County farmer who asked to remain anonymous said Tuesday he was offered $5,000 to grow some marijuana on his land back in 1974. He turned down the offer and hasn't heard from the young man who made the suggestion since But local, state and federal lawman agree patches of pot aren't as prevalent in West Texas as they are in other parts of the state. They also agree that the cost of marijuana and other illicit drugs has jumped considerably in the last 10 years - because inflation affects dope dealers just like it does everyone else. "He said he would handle the harvesting or whatever they do with it," said the Midland County farmer. "All I had to do was build a 10 by 10 feet cover. He said that cover was supposed to keep the marijuana from being spotted from the air. That was

HE SAID HE has no idea how many other farms have been approached with similar proposals.

"As far as I know he may have been smoking the stuff," said the farmer, adding, "I couldn't tell what it smelled like.'

Midland County Sheriff Dallas Smith said his officers rarely discover fields or patches of marijuana because West Texas' dry weather and soil conditions don't make for the best of circumstances to grow such plants.

But he also added, "We do find some plants occasionally. Rarely do we see it grown here because I don't know that the area would support such plants it's too dry.

"But marijuana has become more of a problem in recent years. It's also become more dangerous than it once was because the crop has been developed," he said.

Smith said most of the marijuana confiscated in the area comes from Mexico. "The amount of marijuana we see is usually smuggled here from Mexico. We do find some homegrown plants.'

A WEST TEXAS agent for the federal Drug Enforcement Administration agreed, saying, "I don't know of any large-scale marijuana farms in the Permian Basin.

He said with so much flat land and soil "not that good," prospects would seem poor for growing the pungent weed here. A Permian Basin-based narcotics agent employed by the Texas State Department of Public Safety (DPS) also took the same position.

'We just haven't had any information on such instances," he said. "But there's no telling how many pot fields there are in the 49 counties we cover out here."

Regarding illicit drug inflation in general, he said in Midland County heroin now costs between $2,800 and $3,000 an ounce, much higher than before.

"EVERYTHING IS GOING up," said the agent "Marijuana costs anywhere from $100 to $400 per pound in West Texas, depending upon whether it's from Mexico or Columbia.

Cocaine in Midland County costs about $2,500 an ounce on the average, he said. Cocaine, marijauna and speed (amphetamines) are the most common illegal drugs in the Permian Basin, according to

"You'd be surprised what caliber of people use this (cocaine)," he said. "And for some reason lately heroin here has increased in strength, but I don't the crop is a bit more than for corn - but the risks are substantially greater," said Pruitt.

Texas reportedly is experiencing some illicit drug traffic which formerly could be found in Florida, where a continuous federal, state and local law enforcement crackdown is starting to show results.

The bulk of West Texas drugs enter the nation by land vehicles and private aircraft.

"We don't have much marijuana being grown in the Permian Basin. Our seizures come mostly from smuggling operations there.'

PRUITT CITED AS one example of drug inflation the cost of dilaudid - $20 or more per tablet, compared to $5 to $7 per tablet, cost of the drug 10 years ago.

'As you put pressure on the heroin trafficker the addict turns toward drugs such as dilaudid," said

Phencyclidine, or PCP, commonly known as "Angel Dust" used to cost $3 to $5 for a half-gram. Today the same amount of this drug costs $25,

And LSD (lysergic acid diethylamide) has doubled in price since it first hit the "market" back in the 1960s. In fact, officials said a drop of this so-called mind-blowing drug costs $3 today.

"SPEED," ALSO KNOWN as amphetamines and 'reds'' (barbituates) today amount to the "bargain specials" in the world of drug traffickers and addicts. Speed is holding steady at between 15-20 cents
