The progress of most areas largely has been documented in words. But some relatively young regions, such as the Permian Basin, also have had early events recorded on film. Sunday's West Texas Life reveals a source Midlanders can use to obtain copies of early West Texas photographs.

Rape investigations

Midland law enforcement and medical officials have a plan for getting medical evidence in rape cases without inconveniencing gynecologists, who contend they have been burdened unnecessarily with the task. In Sunday's R-T, staff writer Linda Hill eyes the newly-devised plan.

Racing world split

On Sunday, sports writer Terry Williamson will glance ahead at the 1979 Indianapolis 500 as Midlanders Jim Hall and Bobby Hillin prepare for another run. For Saturday's edition, Williamson has written on another aspect: the USAC-CART split that could shake up the racing world.

Hance says energy bill doubtful

By LINDA HILL Staff Writer

Americans should know within 60 days whether gasoline will be rationed, U.S. Rep. Kent Hance said

Hance, in Midland at the noon meeting of the Downtown Rotary Club, said no one knows yet what the effect will be of disruption in Iranian oil supplies.

The congressman said he believes the Administration is letting rumors about gas rationing circulate so Americans will not be shocked if that step becomes necessary

A new energy bill to loosen governmental controls on energy producers is almost out of the question this year, said Hance, because legislators are "tired" from the two-year battle that preceded enactment of the natural gas bill last year.

But, he said, he expects the president this spring to order phased-in deregulation of domestic crude oil prices.

THE PRESIDENT HAS that authority under law, subject to override by two-thirds vote in Congress. A congressional override of the move, Hance said, is unlikely.

Also on the topic of energy, Hance said the Department of Energy "would have to rank in the top 10" mistakes Congress has made in recent years. He cited the department as one example of why some sort of 'sunset' legislation is needed at the federal level.

This is Hance's first trip back to Midland since he took office in January, replacing 44-year veteran George Mahon, who retired at the end

Hance said one of his biggest surprises upon arriving in Washington was finding out most people there criticize President Carter because they think he's too conservative.

HAVING BEEN IN Midland and the rest of West Texas, the new congressman had become accustomed to hearing criticism directed at Carter for being too liberal. When a Rotarian asked Hance why he is in Midland when "his farmers" are in Washington protesting, he responded he didn't want to stay away so long nobody recognized him.

Hance quoted a friend who blamed Congress' problems on air conditioning. Before the Capitol was air conditioned, the logic goes, Congress recessed at Easter and didn't come back until fall. With air conditioning, they stay in session all year long and aren't back home to hear complaints, Hance

Midland hospital gift tied with costly ribbon

Staff Writer

Midland Memorial Hospital received a $300,000 gift wrapped in $25,000 worth of red tape Thursday.

A group of Midland citizens donated $323,400 to the hospital district to buy a sophisticated CAT scanner, a machine that x-rays the brain.

The machine was free. But convincing the state agency charged with holding down hospital costs that the machine is needed here cost hospital district taxpayers about $25,000.

The Texas Health Facilities Commission granted a certificate of need for the scanner Thursday.

The $25,000 figure is only an estimate, hospital officials stress. But the nine-month process of form-filing, public hearings, printed notices and paperwork does add up.

In addition to man-hours spent completing forms and gathering maps, charts, graphs and statistical data, there were attorneys' fees for interpreting regulations, architects' fees for renderings of hospital modifications, auditing fees for the expense data and filing fees

Also, there were the costs of travel and lodging during the public hearing in Austin.

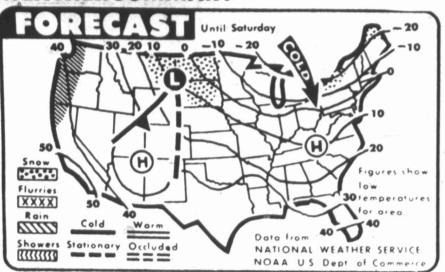

And, of course, incidentals like reproducing each item in triplicate for the state, with an extra copy to the regional planning commission and two for the hospital files, are not free.

Some of the required data already was on hand, since the same information has to be refiled each time the hospital district spends $100,000 or more on a piece of equipment.

The $25,000 figure does not include state taxes paid to fund the $675,000 budget of the Texas Health Facilities Commission - whose job it is to keep down the high cost of hospital care.

Bazargan plans reforms for Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's choice to take over the government of Iran declared today he will introduce God into all phases of Iranian life, revamp the economy and hold free elections before resigning to make way for an Islamic regime

Speaking to 100,000 of the religious leader's supporters at a mosque overlooking Tehran University, Mehdi Bazargan also made an implied new appeal to the armed forces to support him and abandon Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar.

"The army is the heart of the people and should not be used as a tool of imperialism for the benefit of other countries," he said. "Most of the soldiers want the same things we do."

But Bazargan said there were army officers "still suffering from the sickness of sadism who plan to take revenge" and plot the return of the shah, now waiting out events from a guest palace in Marrakech, Moroc-

To thunderous approval from his audience, Bazargan declared, "No, the shah will not return." Bazargan again urged Bakhtiar to quit and said, 'As long as you are in power, strikes will continue.

As Bazargan spoke, about 20,000 Bakhtiar supporters filled a soccer stadium nearby to demonstrate support for the royalist constitution which Khomeini vows to replace.

In contrast to the smaller pro-Bakhtiar crowd, Khomeini brought out a million supporters Thursday to march through Tehran in support of Bazargan, and many thousands more in other cities around the country.

Although most of the demonstrations Thursday were non-violent, Radio Tehran reported that troops opened fire on demonstrators setting fire to banks, shops and other buildings in Gurgan, on the Caspian Sea. The government station said clashes and shooting continued until 9 p.m., and by then there were 12 dead and 45 wounded in hospitals.

Western reporters counted some 200 uniformed men of the air force among the pro-Khomeini marchers, and Khomeini's aides claimed there were 2,000 to 3,000 from the army and air force. It was the largest number of uniformed military men seen among pro-Khomeini marchers so far. But even the largest estimate was less than 1 percent of the 430,000 men in the armed forces.

The loyalty of the army is considered the key to control of the nation, and both sides are vying for its support. So far the commanders remain solidly loyal to Bakhtiar, who was named prime minister by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi before he left the country three weeks ago.

Nevertheless, committee member John Traeger shook his head and whistled softly when Deputy Commissioner Alton Bowen read the 1980-81 education budget recommended by the Legislative Budget Board.

"Don't read those figures," interrupted Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, smiling.

To teach over 3 million children over the next two years, the budget board has recommended spending $6.5 billion from all funding sources. This includes $314 million in teacher salary increases and $450 million to make up for losses in local property taxes caused by the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment.

He said, however, most school districts tell the education agency 'reading, writing and arithmetic are their highest priority. I don't think anyone is missing that signal in this

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - For Luz Maria Alvarez, water is a constant problem.

When heavy rains pound down on the hillside slums overlooking this oil-rich capital of three million people, Mrs. Alvarez and her six children huddle fearfully inside their tin-andbrick shanty. Twice in the last five years, their home has been swept away by mud slides triggered by torrential rains.

Despite the rainstorms, the Alvarez family is tormented by a lack of water for its most basic needs. Every day, rain or shine, Mrs. Alvarez must send her small children with buckets down to a public tap on the valley floor.

Many days, the tap is dry. While North Americans frequently complain about water pollution, many Latin Americans do not enjoy the luxury of being able to protest the quality of their water. In fact, for millions in Latin America's teeming cities and isolated villages, the problem boils down to having sufficient water each day for drinking and cooking. A daily bath for every family member is often an unobtainable lux-

When people don't have enough water to slake their thirst or drain away foul-smelling sewage, violence is easily kindled, as Wade Sherman, a retired IBM employee from Louis-ville, Ky., learned while visiting Venezuela last year. During a drive on the outskirts of Caracas, Sherman and his wife were stoned by villagers who had thrown up a road block to protest the lack of water. Mrs. Sherman's jaw was lacerated and the car's windows shattered.

riots that broke out when public-housing projects in Caracas went without water for weeks at a time. Early this year, prolonged shortages touched off even more rioting.

In the cities, rapid population growth, including a migration from the countryside, has overstrained existing water systems. Pipelines are old and inadequate, often designed for single-family dwellings instead of high-rise apartments and industries.

Piped water is still an unrealized dream for most villages in Latin America. And the problem of drinking water in the countryside is becoming critical as rivers dry up because of destruction of forests and the remaining waterways become increasingly polluted.

No one knows exactly how many of the 330 million people from the Mexican bank Rio Grande to Tierra del Fuego at the tip of South America go without sufficient water, but the struggle for the precious liquid is continent-wide.

MidTran moves ahead

MidTran, Midland's planned public transportation system, should be rolling soon.

And this must be good news to individuals and groups who long have expressed a desire for such a system.

The Urban Mass Transportation Administration last week approved a grant of $147,840 for the Tall City of Midland to purchase the necessary vehicles to get the system on wheels.

The funds, it is said, will finance seven transit vehicles, two with wheelchair lifts, and 15 two-way mobile radios.

Midtran previously had been granted $12,936 from the City of Midland and $24,014 from the Launching of the system definitely should be a feather in the Tall City's cap.

Much of the credit for the advancement of the mass transportation project, greatly accelerated by the announcement of the federal grant, must go to John Ingram, president of MidTran, who has devoted countless hours and untiring effort, often against tremendous odds, from its talking stage to the present time.

Launched as a Midland Chamber of Commerce project, Ingram accepted its chairmanship and has been its leading light ever since. And he wouldn't call it quits when the going got tough. And now victory appears to be in sight.

Ingram expressed delight that the application for the federal grant had been approved within six-weeks time, which is most unusual. He attributes this to the fact that the MidTran request "was so uniquely attuned to Midland's needs."

Anyway, all those involved in the program are even more enthusiastic than ever now that the grant, which was termed a major hurdle, has been approved.

Date to begin actual service will depend on the delivery date of the vehicles, according to John Schafer, transportation coordinator.

MidTran, incidentally, is a nonprofit corporation, set up to implement a public transportation system designed by General Motors to meet the particular needs of Midland.

According to announced plans, MidTran will employ demandresponsive and subscription services.

Subscription service has been designated for those employees who will contract with MidTran for transportation to and from work each day. Demandresponsive is for the general public.

The new system is expected to be used extensively by Midland's social service agencies.

Cost estimates indicate that the city will be absorbing about 7 percent of the capital cost, with the state contributing 13 percent and the federal government 80 percent.

Net operating costs are to be split between the federal and local goverments, each assuming 50 percent. Officials have expressed hope that eventually the service will reach a break-even point.

Success of the project, of course, will depend on public acceptance and use.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

People of Ulster weary of war

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - One of the unhappiest cities in the Western world is Belfast, the capital of Northern Ireland. A decade of sectarian violence between Catholics and Protestants in Ulster's six counties has claimed more than 1,800 lives and left a legacy of fear and suspicion which blankets the region like the fog that rolls in from the Irish Sea.

Ten years of bombings, assassinations, demonstrations and neighborhood terror have done little to clear up the confusing political turmoil built up over a thousand years of Irish history. It's a compelling argument for halting the spread of terror tactics in the United States.

To get a ringside view we sent our associate Jack Mitchell on a fact-finding mission to Belfast and to Dublin. capital of the Irish Republic.

During a week-long investigation, Mitchell met with leaders of all shades of political opinion, as well as other sources who could shed light on the present dilemma and the future possibilities. He talked to high-ranking British and Irish officials; he huddled in clandestine sessions with grim chieftans of paramilitary organizations; he questioned the ordinary citizens of Northern Ireland who pay the ultimate price for the agony their homeland is undergoing. Our reporter concluded that the people of Ulster, weary and heartsick after the years of inconclusive violence, are turning away from the gun and the bomb. The Irish Republican Army outlaws and their Protestant counterparts are rapidly losing support for their destructive forays among the populace.

Most community leaders agreed that only a tiny fraction of the citizenry sympathizes with the more desperate terrorist tactics of the once-intimidating paramilitary organizations. The fear these groups used to inspire is losing ground to sheer emotional exhaustion. Those who have suffered most from the extremists' bloody fanaticism simply have had enough.

According to Roy Mason, Britain's secretary of state for Northern Ireland, everyday security has improved in recent months. Shootings and other incidents of sectarian violence are "on the wane;" he told Mitchell in an interview at Stormont Castle.

Mason left no doubt that the British government's hard-line, uncompromising refusal to deal with the paramilitary goups will not weaken. "We won't talk to them," the diminutive but feisty Mason declared of the I.R.A. "If we did," he explained, "the Protestant backlash would be even more serious.

One of the main sources of tension in the past, the once detested, pro-Protestant Royal Ulster Constabulary, has become more evenhanded in the execution of its police functions, most sources agree. But graffiti scrawls of "R.U.C. Thugs Out" can still be seen on walls in the workingclass Catholic neighborhoods, attesting to the fact that a minority of the population still regards the British troops and their local police force as an army of occupation, not peace-

Although the I.R.A. denies it, official Irish sources told us that the underground army's financial sup-port in the United States is drying

Meanwhile, on the other side of the paramilitary fence, the Ulster Defense Association has announced, surprisingly, that it favors complete independence from Britain. The I.R.A. might welcome this, since it views the British troops as the main obstacle to its unification policy.

Moderates on both sides, however, recognize that, at least for the present, the British army is a stablizing force which is keeping civil war from erupting between the extremist factions. Other sources expressed a strong desire for an eventual return to self-rule for the province.

Although violence has abated in recent months, even a casual visitor to Northern Ireland soon realizes that this is not a country operating under normal, peaceful conditions. Grim-faced British soldiers patrol the streets of Belfast, flagging down passing motorists to run spot-checks for bombs or other weapons.

Charley Reese

A lot of people get fooled by misunderstanding a basic fact of contemporary American politics. Decisions about almost everything are made on the basis of domestic political public relations.

Why did Carter cave in to Red China's demands to dump Taiwan? The answer is as simple as it is horrible: timing. He needed to pull off the Red China act to cover the botchup of the Camp David act and he needed to do it before the Congress got back in session. Therefore, longterm negotiating was out - just give in and get them over here.

You see, Rafshoon's problem is how to re-construct Carter into a viable candidate for 1980. Carter demolished the 1976 image. Not even as good an actor as he is could play St. George for two years. The real Carter dishonest, partisan, mean, weak and incompetent — plopped out onto the public stage like a bean out of a pod.

Rafshoon, who has to find a new pod, is pretty much stuck with foreign policy. The economy has gone to hell. The inflation is worse, the taxes are higher, and very soon unemployment will go up, too.
With Billy Carter, Bert Lance,

Peter Bourne and the crowd, Rafshoon has to scratch the piety and purity routine. After all, when the only Carter relative to apologize publicly for Billy's boorish behavior is the nephew doing hard time in a California jug - well, you can see Rafshoon's problem

Rafshoon, however, is like most advertising men. He's a hard rock optimist and a genius at ferreting out whiffs of perfume in barnyards. He's decided to make Carter the man of peace. Why not? Dick Nixon rode 'generation of peace" and "detente" neither of which actually existed, all the way to Watergate.

The game plan was to present Carter in 1980 as the man who negotiated the Panama Canal Treaty, the SALT II Treaty, achieved peace in the Middle East and ushered in a new era of cooperation with Red China.

So the Jews didn't cooperate. He can still get three out of the four. At least, Teng is more understanding than Menachem Begin, who is laboring under the illusion that the survival of Israel is more important than Carter's winning the 1980 election. And, as Carter said in 1976, he's got the Christian vote anyway.

We live in a sad world. Human lives and human values have become pawns in the game of petty, partisan politics. I cannot imagine a Thomas Jefferson or Andrew Jackson grinning like a donkey and toasting mass murderers at a state dinner.

Somehow we need to regain our honor as a nation before a'disgusted Almighty decides to hit his gong and yank us off the stage of history.

Henley trial to Corpus Christi

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - The new trial of Elmer Wayne Henley, whose 1974 convictions in six of the 27 grisly Houston homosexual torture slayings were reversed, has been moved to Corpus Christi.

Henley's retrial is tentatively scheduled to begin June 4 in State District Judge Noah Kennedy's 148th District court, Kennedy said Thursday.

State District Judge Preston Dial, whom the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals said erred in Henley's first trial here, granted the change of venue Thursday morning in a brief hearing in the well-guarded Bexar County Courthouse.

Numerous Bexar County sheriff's deputies and bailiffs escorted Henley to the courtroom and stood guard in the outside halls. The courthouse was the scene two weeks ago of a wild stabbing spree in which a man wounded three persons, including a

A prisoner was also fatally shot last summer during a prisoner transfer at the courthouse

Henley, 22, had been moved to the Bexar County Jail on Tuesday and confined to an isolation cell. During his 1974 trial here, a metal detector was used to screen those going into the courtroom. Such a device was not used Thursday, Garza said.

Henley was sentenced to six consecutive 99-year prison sentences after his first trial.

The appeals court, however, ordered a new trial last December after ruling that Dial should have agreed to hear evidence on a defense motion for a second change of venue.

The highly-publicized trial had originally been moved from Houston. Henley was returned to the Harris County Jail to await his retrial.

His face pale and his once-long hair trimmed short from his stay in prison, Henley wore a leisure-suit jacket and tie for his courtroom appearance that lasted less than 10 minutes.

During the proceedings, Dial asked Henley if he agreed to the change of venue. "Yes, sir," Henley replied

Kennedy had feared Thursday afternoon that a crowded docket might force him to turn over the case to a visiting judge from Harris County. But he said later in the day that he would be able to preside in the case. Asked if how he felt about accepting such a highly-publicized case, Kennedy said, "I'll try it just like any Outside the San Antonio courtroom, Henley's mother, Mary, said of her son, "God won't let him stay in there (prison) for the rest of his life for something he didn't do. He (Henley) accepts it as that and goes on and does the best he can. "God is preparing him for something. He has to suffer through things to be strong for whatever God wants him to do," she added.

In August 1973, Henley, then 17, called police in the Houston suburb of Pasadena and told them he had fatally shot Dean Allen Corll, the leader of the homosexual torture ring. Henley then led officers to the burial sites of 27 slain youths in and around Hous-

Scarred girl walks to stranger's house to flee mother's beatings

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) - A small, scarred 9-year-old girl walked a mile to a stranger's house, fleeing her mother because "she didn't want to be beaten any longer," authorities

The child, Tracy Crewl, cannot read or write, and has never been to school. Her skin is scarred, officials say, her arms cut, and her head covered with

She came from a family of four children, and although the others had apparently not been beaten, "the home was in such terrible condition, with food going bad," all four were neglected, said Riverside County Deputy District Attorney Thomas Hollenhorst.

'She is smaller than a 9-year-old and doesn't function as a 9-year-old," said Hollenhorst of Tracy. "She is very timid, very shy and doesn't relate at all to outsiders."

Tracy left home Tuesday, authorities said, turning up at a stranger's house a mile from her rural Pedley home. She "asked the residents if she could live with them because she didn't awant to be beaten any longer by her mother," said sheriff's investigator Harvey Shapiro.

She apparently had been hit with a table leg, Hollenhorst said, and "that weapon has been recovered.'

Authorities later arrested Tracy's a hospital spokeswoman. The girl has mother, Mary Crewl, 41, in a home they said was filthy. The three other children were placed in shelter homes. Mrs. Crewl's husband, William, 51, surrendered Thursday.

A complaint was being prepared, the deputy district attorney said, charging both parents with felony neglect of the four children and charging Mrs. Crewl with inflicting physical injury on Tracy.

Tracy was admitted to a hospital, where she was being treated for "possible fractures and contusions," said older fractures which never properly healed, officials said.

The deputy district attorney said there was no evidence the other three children - aged 8 months, 3 and 7 were beaten, adding Tracy was Mrs. Crewl's daughter from a previous

Wholesale prices up

WASHINGTON (AP) - Wholesale If the January increase continued for prices, spurred by soaring prices for beef and veal, rose by 1.3 percent in January — the biggest monthly increase in four years, the Labor Department reported today.

The report means consumers can expect hefty increases in grocery prices in the next few months.

Last month alone, wholesale beef and veal prices rose 13 percent, the department said. That was equal to about half the beef and veal increases in all of 1978.

Wholesale price boosts last month were widespread and included sharp gains in gasoline, fuel oil, cosmetics, tobacco, autos, tires, machinery and a variety of other products.

Not since November 1974, when the increase was 1.8 percent, have wholesale prices risen so rapidly in one month. Those prices usually are harbingers of trends in retail prices in following months.

Last November and December, wholesale prices were climbing rapidly but at a slower rate of 0.8 percent. January.

a year, the rate would be more than 16 percent.

The report was a not-unexpected disappointment to the Carter administration, which is soliciting help from consumers in its anti-inflation fight.

Alfred Kahn, director of President Carter's four-month-old anti-inflation program, said Thursday, "We have to depend on alert consumers to monitor prices." He suggested that consumers demand explanations from retailers for stiff price boosts that seem unjustified, and that they refuse to buy products that seem to be overIn the R

The administration has cautioned that results of its program to curb wage and price increases probably will not become evident until late spring or summer.

HAVE A FUN VISIT! THE CAVAIRY POST

Make it a fun trip when you come to see the new model homes at Lajitas On The Rio Grande.

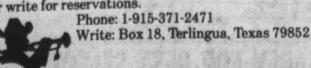

The Cavalry Post Motor Inn and Restaurant is one of the finest motels in Texas, even if it is located in the middle of the great Chihuahuan Desert, the remote Texas "badlands". It is built solidly on the foundations of the old cavalry post founded by Gen. John J. Pershing when his troops chased after Pancho Villa in 1915-16. You will have a big comfortable room, a fine bar and restaurant, great service.

Singles are from $22 a night, doubles from $26. The Cavalry Post is at the center of things for you to do in Big Bend Country. There's a swimming pool, too. And other things to do. Call or write for reservations.

Three classic Texas pioneer homes are now open for your inspection at Lajitas On the Rio Grande, the fun center of Big Bend Country.

They are the first model homes to be built in the development of Lajitas into a Western desert recreational community comparable to such Sun Belt oases as Palm Springs, Phoenix-Scotts-

Even the names of these first three homes capture the romance of the Chihuahuan Desert and the Texas big country.

And your living is easy in the Texas Sun. Many recreational facilities and activities already have been built and organized for your pleasure at Lajitas-The Cavalry Post Motor Inn, with its restaurant and bar; a swimming pool, tennis courts, an artist's studio, an RV park, pack and raft trips. More recreational features are planned for your carefree days.

CLASSIC STYLE, MODERN CONVENIENCE

These pioneer homes at Lajitas On The Rio Grande, are fullyfurnished decorator models. They were inspired by the simplicity and order that characterizes many early Texas buildings.

Prize-winning architect John Mitchell based each model at Lajitas on an outstanding early dwelling, joined with the clean basic lines that most efficiently provide shelter.

Robert Salgado, who has been building homes in West Texas for 30 years, used native materials-rock from the creek beds, adobe from Terlingua, river cane, many other items-and blended these with the necessary imported materials and modern features to construct a sturdy and handsome retreat for those who want to bask on the river in healthy year-round sunshine amid mountains and great scenes of natural splendor.

You will find that the only liberty taken with these classic homes is a pleasant one: the addition of modern conveniences such as kitchen equipment, mechanical heating and cooling equipment, plumbing and insulation. A famous Texas interior decorator, Jody Bell of Houston, has dressed these model homes with carefully chosen furniture and fixtures to make your inspection trip a pleasant and rewarding

Jones' will excludes relatives, fails to give amount of estate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Peoples Temple leader Jim Jones' will makes no mention of John Victor Stoen, the boy the cult leader claimed in a bitter custody dispute.

And the handwritten will also excludes two of his daughters, one of whom died with Jones and more than 900 of his followers in a murder-suicide ritual in Jonestown, Guyana.

The will makes no reference to the amount of the estate, although the cult reportedly had assets of more than $10 million.

"It says a lot, doesn't it," Grace Stoen said about the will's omission of John Victor Stoen, whom she insisted was fathered by her husband, Tim Stoen. Jones claimed he was the fa-

After the will was publicized in Thursday's editions of the San Francisco Examiner, Tim Stoen said the boy was left out because "Jones" claim to be the father was recently

The child was taken to Guyana by Jones in 1977 and died there in the death ritual last November.

The will, dated Aug. 6, 1977, excluded daughters Suzanne and Agnes with the statement, "I have intentionally omitted to make any provision for my daughters Suzanne and Agnes."

Agnes died in Jonestown. Suzanne reportedly had left the cult earlier. She survives, as does Jones' natural son Stephan, and adopted sons Jim Jr. and Tim.

The will left 10 percent of the estate to an adopted son who died in Jonestown and the remaining 90 percent was to have been divided equally among Jones' wife and the five children he named as inheritors. In the event of all their deaths, the property was to go to the Communist Party

Judge J.H. Starley will preside at the next hearing on the case, set for Feb. 19, McKim said.

The citizens' group contends in its petition that school officials acted improperly before and on the day of the election. One contention is that the district used incorrect teacher-pupil ratios to convince the voters new classrooms were needed.

Bee Gees are tops on police charts as well

NEW YORK (AP) — The Bee Gees, a popular music trio idolized by thousands of adolescents, are tops on the police charts as well.

The brothers - Barry, Maurice and Robin Gibb — became the Police Athletic League's 1979 Superstars Thursday night, the first musicians to win the organization's annual award.

A $150-a-plate dinner at the Sheraton Center attracted sports celebrities and a swarm of misty-eyed young people who descended on the dais for autographs between the chicken kiev and peaches flambe. The Bee Gees obliged.

'We all have children," said Maurice, twin of Robin, at a reception before the dinner. "There's a lot to do and we would like to do a lot more for kids. They helped make us and we'd like to pay them back.'

The Bee Gees, in a continuing commitment to the Police Athletic League, have so far contributed $100,-000, including the proceeds from a Madison Square Garden concert and the New York premiere of "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band.' "We make more money than we need and we can give some of it up," said Barry. Gov. Hugh Carey made a brief appearance, declaring "Bee Gee night in New York." The brothers Gibb were also presented with honorary New York City police shields, and doffed their midnight-blue velvet dinner coats in favor of green Police Athletic League jackets and matching caps.

El Paso detectives won't be prosecuted

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Prosecutors say they won't try a group of police detectives whom a court of inquiry says broke the law investigating the death of a prominent El Paso lawyer.

El Paso County Attorney George Rodriguez Jr. said Thursday he would not prosecute the detectives, whose investigation into the death of attorney Lee Chagra raised criticism from the El Paso Bar.

The lawyers charged that police went through confidential files in Chagra's office following his murder Dec. 23. State District Judge Woodrow Bean II, sitting as a court of inquiry, concluded last week that there were criminal violations during the search that "disturbed the court."

Bean said El Paso detectives had committed misdemeanor criminal violations of Texas law by conducting unauthorized searches of client files in the slain attorney's office between Dec. 23-28.

Rodriguez said Thursday, however, that his office would not prosecute the six detectives involved in the investigation.

Meeting set by theater

The Production Board of Midland Community Theatre is planning a special meeting for 5:15 p.m. Sunday to make plans for MCT's next production, "Prisoner of Second Avenue." The Neil Simon comedy is now in rehearsal and will open in March.

Sunday's meeting in the upstairs Moody Room at Theatre Midland, 2000 W. Wadley Ave., will be open to all persons interested in working in some phase of production of the upcoming show, such as lighting, sound, props, costumes, sets or publicity.

Newcomers to the city and area who have had backstage experience elsewhere, as well as those who would like to learn more about stagecraft, have a special in-vitation to attend the meeting. No previous theater experience is necessary, production board chairman Jim Salners empha-sized. Additional information on the meeting may be obtained from the Midland Community Theatre office, 682-2544.

Who reported Rockefeller's death?

NEW YORK (AP) — The woman who called police after Nelson Rockefeller's fatal heart attack is not the woman who reportedly was with him when he collapsed, The New York Times reports.

Family spokesmen, in the latest of several versions of the incident, had said that the call was made by Megan Marshack and that Miss Marshack. 25, had been working with Rockefeller on an art book at the time of his

Notrees citizens to keep gas distributing system

By GUY SULLIVAN Staff Writer

NOTREES - The 46 residents of this west Ector County hamlet will be able to keep their locally owned and operated natural gas distributing company after all.

In fact, citizens here said they now have their own water distribution company, too.

In early January, Notrees residents were told by Texas Railroad Commission officials improvements in underground natural gas lines were required if the system was to continue

When estimates of the cost of replacing 3,000 feet of the line came in as high as $20,000, citizens in a January town meeting voted to buy butane or propane gas rather than spend the money for repairs.

But Midland-based Texas Railroad Commission officials told citizens only 60 feet of natural gas lines in Notrees require either repair or replacement, and the cost will be about

"We have got to replace a certain length of these lines," said Bill Green, owner-operator of the town's only filling station. "And I think that work involves putting in about four anodes which are supposed to deteriorate instead of the pipe."

Before the latest development, the beleaguered company was threatened with going out of existence because of $500 in debts.

Postmaster Millsie King said she is happy water distribution will be a local responsibility.

Robert Bragg of Notrees took over distribution. The water previously had been purchased individually by residents here from State Transmission Water Co. of Breckenridge.

Said Mrs. Bragg, "The Breck-enridge firm was selling water to us here as individuals. We took it over so everybody can keep the water here. People in town pay us for the water, and we pay the water company in Breckenridge."

The firm had complained of losing money, according to some Notrees

The paper quoted the sources as saying Miss Pierce placed the call from Rockefeller's townhouse at 13 West 54th Street. Miss Pierce, 36, lives in the same building as Miss Marshack, at 25 West 54th Street, a few doors away.

The Times said Miss Marshack called Miss Pierce, and Miss Pierce went to the Rockefeller townhouse and made the emergency call.

The family's only official statement
Thursday said that Rockefeller's last will would be filed today - making it public — with the Westchester County Surrogate's Court in White Plains,

On Wednesday, the newspaper quoted unidentified family sources as saying Rockefeller suffered the heart attack at 10: 15 p.m., an hour and one minute earlier than family spokes-men had reported. Miss Marshack, they said, had delayed an hour in calling police and instead summoned Miss Pierce who got the doorman in their building to call Rockefeller's

Gun discharges, killing 11-year-old boy

DENVER (AP) - Bobby Carroll was trying to trace the outline of his policeman father's service revolver when the gun accidentally discharged, killing him, his father says.

Bobby Carroll, 11, had removed five bullets from the .38-caliber revolver before he began his drawing, but another one was apparently in the chamber at the time, according to his father, Edward Carroll.

The accident occurred Wednesday night when Carroll was at a church meeting and his wife was shopping for

"Apparently he took the five bullets out before he started tracing the gun," Carroll said. "One of the bullets must have stuck in the chamber. That's the only thing I think could have happened."

Bobby's 14-year-old brother, who was home at the time, summoned neighbors for help, but police said Bobby died instantly.

Struggle to obtain patent protection can be problem

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID

WASHINGTON (AP) - Superman's x-ray vision, flying ability and other powers may eliminate his need for most modern inventions, but he at least owes a debt to the work of Thomas Watson.

You remember Watson. He was made famous by Alexander Graham Bell's remark: "Mr. Watson, come here, I want you.'

Bell, of course, invented the telephone, landing him in the National Inventors Hall of Fame, where Inventors Day is being marked Sunday. Watson may seem less famous, but his work involved more than just taking calls from Bell. He invented the phone booth.

Not everyone uses a phone booth to change into a caped crusader outfit, but most are still benefitted by the work of inventors.

THE INVENTORS DAY exhibits include a robot lawn mower, stop smoking ashtrays, heat convection devices, luminescent writing paper, solar energy devices and a host of other items.

More than 100,000 applications are made to the U.S. Patent Office yearly, and in 1977 — the last year for which a tally is completed - 72,832 patents were granted for new inventions. The number of patents varies each year, said the patent office's Oscar Masden, ranging from 86,000 in 1972 to Patents are granted only for applied technology, not scientific principles. For example, Albert Einstein did his most famous work in theoretical physics. His patents, however, are on a self-adjusting camera and a refrigeration system.

The intent of a patent is to give the inventor some protection for his work. It allows the patent holder exclusive use of the invention for 17 years. He can license others to use it during that

This provides inventors with income and incentive to do research, while getting their work on the public

A PATENT MUST INCLUDE enough information to allow a skilled this allows others a wider base of information for future inventions.

From 1790 until World War II this seems to have worked just fine, with most inventors working privately or for business, and receiving patent protection. But recently more research money has come from government, leading to conflict over the resulting patents.

Howard W. Bremer of the University of Wisconsin reports that various government agencies and departments have some 22 different patent policies ranging from the "title" to the "license" policy.

The title policy gives the government title to all patent rights, even to inventions only incidental to the research. These patents are then made available without charge to anyone who wants to use them. The argument is that the inventions were paid for by the government.

By contrast, the "license" policy allows the inventor to keep title to his patent, while giving the government use of it. The argument here is that inventions are incidental to research and that the government only needs the right to use the patent. The inventor can still receive royalties from others he licenses to use the idea.

Separate examinations of the application are done by each country, but an international search is provided to see if a similar idea has been patented

President Carter's proclamation of person to duplicate the invention, and Inventors Day noted this is the 100th anniversary of Thomas Edison's invention of the electric light.

Edison, the all-time inventing champ with more than 1,000 patents, was the first person honored in the National Inventor's Hall of Fame when it was established at the patent office in 1973.

BELL FOLLOWED A year later, along with Eli Whitney of cotton gin fame and and three men credited with inventing the transistor, John Bardeen, Walter H. Brattain and William Shockley.

The government issued more than 4,000,000 patents beginning on July 31, 1790, with a patent for an improved system of making potash, a fertilizer. The patent went to Samuel Hopkins of Pittsford, Vt.

While that was the first U.S. patent, individual states and colonies issued earlier patents, dating back to 1641 when Samuel Winslow was granted a Massachusetts patent for a novel method of making salt.

Being added to the gall of fame this year are rocket pioneer Robert H. Goddard, computer expert Jay W. Forrester, and Charles J. Plank and Edward J. Rosinski, who developed a system for making gasoline.

In addition Barbara S. Askins of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is being honored as the 1978 Inventor of the Year. She developed a system for improving the image on severely underexposed pho-

Female author says some images of blacks a myth

By SUSAN LINNEE Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - The title of the book Michelle Wallace wanted to write since she was 18 could come straight from a black exploitation movie. But the subject could not be further from the celluloid world of the super cool "Super Fly."

"Black Macho and the Myth of the Superwoman" is a discussion of myths Ms. Wallace said she feels have made black men think of freedom in terms of sexual politics. And this thinking, she said, has in turn kept many black women powerless and dependent out of guilt over what black men have been through.

The 27-year-old writer said in a recent interview that the book is based on her own experiences and took form after she became involved

Through it, she said, she would like to encourage dialogue between black women and men which she said she hopes would "strengthen the black community and perpetuate black cul-

"There is a tremendous problem of getting black women to deal with their situation, to get them to talk to one another," she said. "There is a lot of competition among us - for men, for jobs, for security.

Many black women, she said, have not felt comfortable with the feminist movement, "primarily because they see it as something white and are afraid of being ripped off again."

The "again" refers to the disillusion she said many black women felt when they repressed their own desire for freedom in favor of "the needs of the revolution" preached by the men in the black power movement of the

She said she feels the central point is that black women are not the pillars of strength they have been made out to be, and that many of them and their children - are among the most powerless, lowest-paid, most neglected people in this country.

Just trying to do research for a book on black women is an exercise in frustration, Ms. Wallace said. "There is little solid information - some papers and articles but no real scholarly work.

'A subject like black women and the kind of medical care they receive is a blank page," she said. "Black women seem to have all sorts of high blood pressure and tension and gynecological problems that no one ever writes about."

How can black women — and men - go beyond what she sees as myths? By dealing with the problem openly, she said, through community organizations and discussions - through consciousness-raising, a technique it-

More childhood programs are recommended

WASHINGTON (AP) - The General Accounting Office says the government should expand its childhood and family development programs because they diminish later needs for health and rehabilitation services. The GAO, in a report released of Tuesday, concluded that programs such as Headstart "can result in reduced health, social and educational problems in young children that are expensive and difficult to overcome in later years.' The GAO, Congress' auditing and investigative agency, said 3.7 million children such need assistance.

The approach GAO endorsed would provide health care and nutrition services, developmental and educational programs and projects that involve parents in planning and managing the programs.

The report was presented during a Senate Human Resources subcommittee hearing on legislation to provide the states with block grants for a variety of child-care programs. Headstart, the largest federal comprehensive child development program, served about 402,000 children in fiscal 1978, most between ages 3 and 5, the GAO said in its evaluation of the programs, which are aimed at low-income families and their chil-

Such programs can lead to a reduction in spending for overcoming children's educational and health deficiencies, a long-term reduction in dependency on public welfare, more jobs, increased tax revenues and reduced costs associated with crime, the agency said.

Xi Alpha Mu chooses theme

Members of the Xi Alpha Mu chapter, Beta Sigma Phi met in the home of Mary Ann Schumann for a regular bimonthly meeting. Attending were 12 members and three guests, including Jill Arthur, Judy Jhering and Beverly Acker.

The chapter chose the theme "The Homes We Make" for their cultural programs this year.

Final plans were made to attend the ciy-wide Beta Sigma Phi Valentine dance at the Hilton Hotel Saturday. A pre-dance party will be held in the home of Genell Emerson.

Helen tinnin presented a program on historic places to visit in Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina. Next meeting will be held in the home of Linda Moffatt Feb. 20.

World's largest gold supply lies beneath New York streets

NEW YORK (AP) - Five stories beneath the streets of the world's financial center lies the largest storehouse of gold on Earth.

Traders in London, Zurich, Tokyo and a few blocks away at New York's World Trade Center bid the price of bullion to a record of more than $250 an ounce Wednesday. But down among the riches of Midas there was scarcely a shrug.

Eighty feet below the street in the vaults of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York lies about 13,000 tons of gold, worth some $101 billion at the going rate. That's more than twice as much as is stored at Fort Knox.

"The first week I was here I was impressed. I don't think about it any more," said a dark haired woman guard, robed in a yellow smock.

She was on duty as keeper of one of three keys in the inner vault.

Not that people take gold casually at the Federal Reserve Bank. But one gets used to most things after a

These days, as the subway rumbles above the vaults, there is even some mild grumbling about large trunks of cash temporarily stashed in one of the two gold rooms. Painting and other ance work in and area has crowded things a bit.

But gold has its lure and the work that goes on here has its own aura of

To get to the gold storehouse, half the size of a football field, one must walk through a 90-ton steel cylinder door set in a 140-ton frame. Inside, past two more gates, are 122 compartments of various sizes, many with gold bricks stacked floor to ceiling. The largest - bank officials won't say whose it is - has 107,000 bricks forming what workers call "the wall of gold."

All the gold here belongs to foreign governments, their agencies and international organizations - about 80 in all. While shipments sometimes leave the bank, often the work that goldkeepers do amounts to moving stacks of gold from one compartment to another. In that way, one country can pay another in gold without shipping the bullion across any border.

But it is slow and laborious work. And it can take days to complete a transactation involving several hundred bricks of gold, even if the new owner has a compartment next door to that of the old owner.

The construction-sized bricks weigh 400 troy ounces each, about 27 pounds. Workers wear metal covers on their shoes to protect toes against an accident. Each brick must also be checked by serial number. Not just any gold brick — but the precise numbered brick involved in the order must be delivered.

A metal balance scale, about 8 feet tall, is used to weigh the bars. It is so sensitive that the weight of a single dollar bill is triple what it takes to register one notch.

The bank first began accepting deposits in 1916, when the dollar was backed by gold. But the fearful years before World War II brought the largest permanent gold deposits to the ank from foreign governments.

Foreign deposits jumped from around $10 million in 1936 to about $4 billion by 1945 from war-torn countries. These days, bank spokesmen estimate the value at $15.5 billion, based on the government's "official" gold price of $42.22 an ounce.

But a change in the use of gold in the world monetary system has made major changes in the system. In 1971, the United States stopped converting dollars into gold for foreign governments, and recently its deposits for international currency transactions have dwindled to nothing.

The bulk of the United States' 267 million ounces of gold is stored at Fort Knox in Kentucky and at the U.S. Assay Office in New York. In line with its decision to no longer base the dollar on gold, close to 5 million ounces of gold have been sold at auctions since last May.

Yugoslavia and Bulgaria stoking up old feud over Macedonia

By STEPHEN H. MILLER

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) -Yugoslavia and neighboring Bulgaria have stoked up their old feud over Macedonia, one of the touchiest disputes in the Balkans.

The Bulgarians accuse the Yugoslavs of future territorial expansion while the Yugoslavs charge the Bulgarians ignore a national minority group - Macedonians - within their Ancient Macedonia now is divided among Greece, with 13,000 square miles; Bulgaria, with about 2,500 square miles, and Yugoslavia, with 9,930 square miles. Yugoslav Macedonia is one of the nation's six semiautonomous repubics.

"It can be said without any doubt that what is involved is a gross and insolent slander of our country," said a Yugoslav Foreign Ministry spokesman, Mirko Kalezic. He added that the insult extended to the Yugoslav Communist Party and "the highest leaders of our country," who would include President Josip Broz

Bulgaria has been publishing memoirs of veteran party functionary Tsola Dragoicheva, who contends among other things that Tito and the Yugoslavs once wanted to annex part of what is now Bulgaria.

At issue are parts of southwestern Bulgaria bordering Yugoslav Mace-

The territory was left in Bulgarian hands after World War I, and Tito's government has argued ever since World War II that Bulgaria should admit that a "national minority" of Macedonians live there.

Bulgaria refused, saying no one lives there but Bulgarians.

Tito's government has had no more success in trying to press a similar statement from Greece, where it says there is also a Macedonian "national minority.

In what Western analysts think may be one of the passages most irritating to Belgrade, Dragoicheva says the first Yugoslav demands during World War II were part of Titoist plans to annex the territory. Yugoslavia has long depicted its

Bulgaria's last official position paper on the issue came out last summer. It said Yugoslav efforts to be guardians for purported Macedonians amounted to interference in Bulgarian affairs.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices turned upward today in a mild technical rally after the broad decline of the past week and a half.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had fallen 43.74 points over the last eight sessions, managed a 1.56 gain to 817.57 by noontime today.

Gainers opened up a 3-2 ead over losers among bnew York Stock Exchange-listed ssues Analysts said the sharp decline of prices in recent days had reached the point where it was attracting buyers looking for "bargains" and covering previous short sales. But they said the advance was limited by continued concern over the political upheaval in Iran. Energy Secretary James

Schlesinger said Wednesday the shutoff of oil supplies from Iran could have more serious effects than did the Arab oil embargo five years Also confronting the market was the prospect of unpleasant inflation news Friday when the government makes its monthly report on the trend of producer prices. Analysts, in fact, said a rise in the producer price index at anything less than a two-digit annual rate for January would be surprising.

Gulf Oil led the active list, up ¼ at 23%. A 174,300-share block traded at 24.

The NYSE's composite index rose .16 to 54.63. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .72 at 157.71.

Volume on the Big Board slowed to 10.18 million shares as of noontime from 12.86 million at the same point Wednesday

Power to regulate might also be power to destroy

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — When he was 19, Maxie Anderson prospected for uranium near the Arctic Circle. Two years later he founded a uranium company that is now part of Kerr-McKee Corp. Now he neads another company.

He took over the top job in the latter, Ranchers Exploration and Development Corp., in 1963, when he was 29. At the time, the company had sales of about $1 million. Now it grosses $35 million a year.

Late last summer, you might recall, Maxie Anderson and his friends, Ben Abruzzo and Larry Newman, all of Albuquerque, sailed the air currents aross the Atlantic in a small gondola hung from a big Says Anderson the achiever: "The assumption that you can attain without great effort is not consistent. If you want to do something right you have to work at it." Seventy hours a week, maybe even 90.

But sometimes, he said, he wonders if effort alone is sufficient. You need freedom too, he said. When he opened his first mine he took out no license; when he sailed the balloon to France he had none either.

But increasingly, he said just before accepting the Copper Club's man-of-the-year award, freedoms are restricted. To open a mine today, he said, you have to wade your way through two years of government

"Government interference in business is getting to affect even companies our size," he said softly. "We cannot tolerate it."

Everything government does, he continued, is with a broad brush, of necessity. Applied, he said, those regulations can tyrannize. "What's good for Phelps Dodge (a mining giant) is not for us, and vice versa," he said.

Anderson, a quiet, reflective person, isn't ordinariy given to oratory, but in the evening he was to address his fellow metals men, and he had thought

"I didn't sleep much last night," he said. It was partly the noise of the city, partly because he spent ime discussing with his wife, Patty, the thoughts he had been developing for years.

"In the last six, seven years," he said, "I've tried to look at the country and how I fit into it, and try to understand what makes it operate. And what caused t to not operate correctly.

Somehow, he said, we seemed to get things done fairly well before Big Government. "The government is not all bad, but it has a penchant for screwing up on a regular basis," he said. He said he understood why.

"They begin with good intentions," he conceded, but the power to regulate is the power to destroy. it's the very question of being a free man. We cannot

Another pause to consider, a trait underlying the nethodical approach his wife says he brings to any challenge and which, she said, relieves her fears and tensions when watching him go aloft in a balloon.

People have to be free, he said; they have to be ndividuals. "We all talk collectively about doing things," he said. "But the hard part is for individuals to do it." To do it as individuals, not as a group.

As you might expect, Anderson doesn't believe, as some secretly do, that the nation's, the world's, difficulties are insurmountable. The problems, he said, "are definable." The real problem, he suggested, is that "people don't want to make the (hard) choices.

Anderson has considered the condition of modern man. A reasoning man, he said "I search for the significance of things." There are thinkers and there are people of action, he said. "I try to be both."

Workshop set on stained glass

Las Manos (The Hands), volunteer service organization at the Museum of the Southwest, will sponsor special stained glass workshop in Midland Feb. 19 through 24.

To publicize the workshop, Las Manos will present Santa Fe artisan Karl Nelson, who will teach the classes, in a special stained glass demonstration Saturday afternoon in the museum's Marian Blakemore Planetarium, corner of West Indiana and K The 2 p.m. event will be open to all interested persons, said Dorothy H. Perkins, education chairman for Las Manos. Karl Nelson and his wife, the former Muriel ocke of Midland, are owners of Aquarius Glass Co., ocated on Canyon Road, the famous artists and artians street in Santa Fe. He is a former high chool teacher of Spanish from Long Island, N.Y. In his upcoming Midland workshop, which will have sessions in the parish hall of St. Nicholas' Episcopal Church, Nelson will teach leaded glass, copper foil and glass etching.

Demonstrations of these techniques will be presented at the public program Saturday afternoon in the planetarium. Persons may register for the workshop during the preliminary demonstration.

Lisa Teifer, 22, holds paw of Aqui, a small brown mongrel, who appeared at a farm in the Lake Placid, N.Y., area about two weeks after the plane in which the dog was riding crashed en route to the Adirondack Airport. Miss Teifer is leading the search for the aircraft and men aboard it who are still missing. (AP

Woman continues 'unofficial' search for missing plane

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) - In the mountainous northern corner of New York, shielded by the gentle but threatening Adirondacks and overshadowed by the 1980 Olympics, a group of people, previously strangers, have abandoned daily routines to search for one small airplane.

A month has passed since the official search stopped. The local newspaper no longer runs a story each day. The plane that disappeared Christmas night in a blinding snowstorm is no longer the main topic of conversation. The winter Olympics to be staged here next year once again takes precedence.

But a search continues, largely through the efforts of a young woman who abandoned her sunny Key West home in Florida to lead the search in the gray winter of the North Country.

That search is fueled by love, an unerring belief in man's capacity for survival, and a mongrel dog that had been on board the crashed plane and showed up here two weeks later.

FOR 22-YEAR-OLD Lisa Teifer it's a question of family - her fiancee Chris Ray, and her brother Kip were aboard the 10-seat Piper Navajo that missed the runway at Adirondack Airport in Lake Clear Dec. 25. Kip Teifer and Ray, both 26, and pilot Dick Pierce, 32, were flying to here from Key West for a ski vacation when radar lost track of them.

People living near the airport heard a plane buzz perilously close. One woman heard a "going down" report on a radio, Ms. Teifer said. But Ms. Teifer says she believes the men survived - because all were in excellent physical condition, were equipped for survival with training and the proper attitude, and had food and sleeping bags.

In addition, there's Aqui - a chocolate-brown mutt with one blue eye and one green, who appeared at a farmhouse on Bear Cub Lane 12 days after the plane went down. He had lost 10 pounds and was weak.

BUT HE WAS alive.

"Aqui is the key," says Ms. Teifer.

Jon Coughtry, a local pilot who manages a flight school, agrees. He says he has geared all operations at his school around the search with Ms. Teifer, whom he calls "tough and resilient." 'If anyone could survive, these men could," Coughtry says. "We've had people survive as long as 90 days with less. Unless they hit a ledge, these people are still alive." Starting from the farm on Bear Cub Lane and working with ground reports and the last radar sighting, 24 searchers each paid $30 a day are scouring the wilderness, Ms. Teifer said. A helicopter provides assistance She says she already has spent more than $25,000, mostly for flight time rental - money from the Key West construction company Ray owns and for which she worked. "It's Chris's money," she says, "and it should be used to help find him. After all, what good is it to him if he's dead?"

A CALIFORNIA DOG trainer who also says she is a psychic came last week to work with Aqui, hoping he will lead searchers to the plane. She is the third clairvoyant to contribute. Ms. Teifer says four dog teams have also aided the search, and Coughtry says he has prevailed on his comrades to take to the air, many on vacation from other jobs.

The Civil Air Patrol, state police and forest rangers searched on and off when the weather permitted for 21/2 weeks. 'We just didn't find anything in the area where the aircraft went down," said Lt. Col. Herman Botie, CAP wing commander for New

Citing bad weather and time of year, Botie said that their search was adequate - "given the circumstances."

"The search has not been terminated, ust suspended," said Lt. Col. Eugene McCardle, senior CAP commander for the Adirondack area. The signs indicate there is no life. There's been no radio communication, no smoke and no emission from the locater beacon."

IF NEW LEADS PROVE otherwise, or if an early thaw permits, Botie said, the official search would resume.

However, Coughtry resigned his position as commander of the Tri-Lakes Division of the CAP in protest, calling the search "insufficient." Coughtry says he and the other pilots keep up the search because "It could just as well be us or the people we train out there."
When the official search ended, Ms. Teifer's began. "If I don't do it, no-

Pn her crusade, she is backed by Jim and Valerie Deaton, pre-medical students who dropped out of Eastern Kentucky University to help.

"He's our best friend. That's no sacrifice," Deaton says of Ray. Another volunteer is a stranger to Ms. Teifer, but not to the Adirondacks, which took his younger brother three years ago and never gave him back. Bob Thomas, 29, a mason contractor with his own business, drove up from suburban Utica, N.Y., after he read about Aqui's return.

AND TOWNSPEOPLE have rallied around, going into the woods, loaning snowmobiles, opening their homes and offering suggestions and

When Lisa walks down the main street of this bustling ski resort, strangers say hello and inquire about the search.

"I am resigned to whatever is the outcome of the search," she says during a lunch interrupted by well-wishers. "I just have to know." So she keeps looking, not dwelling on what each passing day represents to those possibly waiting for rescue. "I go along day to day, thinking,

'hang in there guys, I'm doing all I can.''

She has no doubts about why: "I would hate to give up and then learn they were found dead with a diary showing they lived for 33 days and I gave up on the 32nd. I just couldn't live with myself."

Banks start check clearing house

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Midland and Odessa banks started "cleaning house" Thursday with the initiation of an official check clearing

"It went pretty good, but there are a few bugs to be worked out," said Charles Sonnenberg with Commer-cial Bank and Trust Co. He headed the rules committee which drew up the guidelines for the exchange.

The informal organization will be known as the Permian Basin Check Exchange, he said.

Common in cities the size of the two Permian Basin towns, the clearing house principle is based on representatives from all the banks gathering in a designated place and exchanging checks drawn on the other banks.

This exchange system will speed up "substantially" the collection of checks drawn on other banks between the two cities, said Sonnenherg,

By using this process, banks also can collect their money faster to be used for investment purposes. "We can't invest money until we have collected it," Sonnenberg said.

Currently, each bank has someone visit all the banks every day, delivering the checks which have been written for that particular bank. For example, all the checks written from accounts at First National Bank and cashed at another bank will be taken back to First National, and vice

A clearing house only eliminates those tedious trips to other banks, said Sonnenberg.

The checks will be totaled and First National Bank will handle the net settlement, Sonnenberg said. The difference between banks will be credited to the respective bank.

He described the method with an example: If Midland National had $2,000 worth of First National checks, and First National had $5,000 worth of Midland National checks, then First National would be credited with $3,000 from Midland National.

"The net difference between the totals of the two banks will be received or paid. Settlement totals will be wired through the Federal Reserve Bank," Sonnenberg said.

Midland banks involved will be First National Bank, Midland National Bank, Western State Bank, Commercial Bank and Trust and the Metro Bank at Midland Regional Air-

Officials of Texas National Bank now being constructed on North Garfield Street have indicated an interest in joining the clearing house when that bank opens, according to Son-

Participating from Odessa will be American Bank, First National Bank, National Bank of Odessa, Permian Bank and Trust, State National Bank and Western National Bank.

Sonnenberg said smaller banks may have one of the large banks represent them at the clearing house

Work on setting up a clearing house began last summer, according to Sonnenberg. "But we ran into a few snags last fall and just recently got rolling with it again.' He credited Olen Brock of First National Bank with getting the idea off the ground Brock initially called all the banks together, and a rules committee was formed from that group, according to Sonnenberg. "A town the size of Midland normally would have some sort of clearing agreement among the banks and would have had it for years. In the past, Midland banks have had no formal type of exchange. We would just take those checks down to the bank in the morning and settle it," Sonnenberg said.

Odessa banks have had a clearing house among themselves, he added.

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE

Carters jog, despite cold

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) - Anyone who doubts President Carter's dedication to jogging should have seen him and wife Rosalynn running in tandem in the White House Rose Garden.

She was snug in a warmup suit but the president had stripped down to tennis shorts - with the temperature about 40 degrees.

Perhaps you've seen men like that in your neigh-borhood, and wondered how they avoid head colds. Well, Carter would tell you he hasn't had the sniffles since the jogging mania struck him.

Although the president usually runs around the oval drive on the South Lawn, on the occasion in question he and Rosalynn were running back and forth in the Rose Garden, which is 100 feet long.

The sight of them brought to mind President John F. Kennedy, who was so proud of the Rose Garden turf after he had it resodded that anyone who even walked lightly there risked a presidential repri-

If Kennedy, from his vantage point in the nearby Oval Office, spotted anyone walking on his new lawn, he'd run outside himself to personally express his displeasure

When Carter first started jogging, one of his armed forces aides — we won't embarrass him by providing identification - tried to keep pace.

Alas, the effort was too much. The hapless aide pulled up short, lowered his head and became violently sick to his stomach.

The story has a happy ending. The embarrassed sidekick began a conditioning program that now permits him to match Carter stride for stride.

When Teng Hsiao-ping, the Chinese vice premier, was conferring with Carter last week, someone broached the subject of legislation intended to penalize nations that bar free emmigration.

Teng happily observed that this posed no problem for the People's Republic. Indeed, the law was aimed at the Soviet Union.

"If you want a thousand Chinese, we'll send them," Teng told Carter. "If you want 10,000, we'll send them. If you want a million, we'll send them. And if you want 10 million, we'll send them, too." Boggled by such figures, the president jokingly countered that it might be better if the United States sent 10,000 journalists to China. Teng rejected the idea.

Speaking of journalists, shouting matches occasionally break out between reporters and news pho-tographers during White House press secretary Jody Powell's daily press briefings.

While reporters strain to hear Powell's words. photographers who have no need to listen sometimes chatter noisily among themselves.

When a recent Powell briefing was interrupted by internecine recriminations within the press corps, the Carter spokesman was unruffled. "I don't know what it's all about," said Powell,

"but I'll sell arms to both sides!"

Hypnotherapy may help impotence

Dear Dr. Solomon: I never thought I'd have a problem with impotence at the age of 34. It was always something that happened to the other guy, but could not happen to me. I'm in good health but this problem has lasted for several months. I'm not interested in lying on a couch for three years while some shrink asks me how I was toilet trained, and I can't afford to go to one of those sex clinics. What do you think about the value of hypnosis?—George

Dear George: Since you say you are in good health, I assume you have had a thorough physical examination to rule out any physical basis for the problem. If that is so, you may be able to profit from hypnotherapy; however, this will depend on the origin of the problem and how deepseated it is. I should emphasize that when I speak of hypnosis, I am definitely not referring to the kind practiced at parties. If you go this physician is in order before you decide-make certain the therapist is a person who is not only skilled in hypnosis, but has the capability to treat the problem with more conventional methods. While hyp-notherapy is no cure-all and success cannot be guaranteed, it has proved useful in the treatment of many sexual dysfunctions.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Within our ministry we have a biofeedback training center and we work with many doctors. We always get pro-spective participants to get their doctor's approval if under a doc-tor's care, but if they are not and simply are attending to control some area of their lives we take them and have had many good and positive things take place. Please, Dr. Solomon, many people, including myself, respect you and your authority; in a future article you might tell that biofeedback enables some people to accomplish through control what before has only been taken care of through medications. I think that we are far better off without medications if we can achieve results without them .-Larry A. Swartz, Minister, Tucson,

Dear Dr. Solomon: I had a heart attack 10 days ago. I am now home from the hospital and resting well. I am going to see my doctor at the end of next week. When do you think I will be able to go back to work?-Mr. H.D.

Dear Mr. H.D.: That is for you and your doctor to decide. When you speak with him you will certainly want to discuss this with him. Most patients are able to continue with their usual job once they have recovered from a heart attack. Some may have to make job adjustments and changes in their manner of living.

Management of heart attack cases is an individual matter and must be planned for each patient by his doctor. In many instances, the patient is

Pocahontas Times still using hand-set type

MARLINTON, W.Va. (AP) - "We just try to tell the history of Pocahontas County week by week, as the paper has always done," said Jane Price Sharp, editor. "We don't crow about the other thing."

The "other thing," though, is surely worth crowing about, or at least not-

The Pocahontas Times, Mrs. Sharp's weekly, is the last remaining commercial newspaper in the land using hand-set type.

The scene at the print shop itself is of another era.

Mrs. Sharp and her typesetters perch upon high stools in front of antique type cases — upper case above, for capital letters, lower case below - and pluck from their section boxes the ongoing history of the county, letter by letter, comma by comma, space by space, as has been done at the Times for 97 years.

For a few weeks in 1901, the year the present shop was built, Mrs. Sharp's father did succumb to a newfangled typesetting device called a Linotype machine, but he didn't like it and sent it back.

"Daddy wasn't much on machine-ry," Mrs. Sharp said.

Neither, obviously, is his daughter, although she has been forced to turn to certain new methods and is quick to point out that not all the paper is hand-set, just all of page one, the important news.

In a corner of that lovely old print shop, with its smell of ink and its clutter, its brass galley trays and stone composing tables, its typecases labeled with poems — "10-point Caslon Openface," "14-point Stymie Light" — stands a slick gadget with flashing bulbs and a plastic keyboard. It is labeled, egad, "Compumatic."

"We've had to go offset," the editor said with a sigh. "That's the way it's done now. Ads are furnished us for offset, and besides, you can't even get paper anymore for a flatbed.'

A flatbed press, students, prints directly from inked lead type amid a grand commotion of pulleys and clanks and groans. Beautiful. Offset printing relies on photographically-set type, or what appears to be type, spat impersonally out of sterile boxes with names like Compumatic. Efficient.

In the trade, changing to the latter method is called "going offset." Among romantics, it is akin to going

Jane Price Sharp, who is 60, is the third generation of her family to publish the Times. Her grandfather bought it in 1882 when it was 10 years old. She took it over in 1957 when her father, Calvin Price, who had run it for 52 years, dropped dead at his editor's desk.

"We had to get a paper out," she said, "so I just stepped in. We had never missed an issue and haven't

The paper still looks much as it did in her father's day. Even its chatty, decorous prose style is quite the same. Her father, for instance, cleaned up vulgarities with dashes, as in "D----Republicans." The present editor continues the practice.

"I don't see any reason to change the way it is printed either," she said, "as long as we have the type and the people to set it. At least page one. I want page one always to be set by

"I suppose there is some sentimentality involved, but not entirely. I also like the way hand-set type looks. Ma-chines can set it faster but it doesn't look any better.' Take that, d---- Compumatic.

Environmentalists present legislative goals

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Environ-mentalists said Thursday they will ask the Legislature to reduce new highway construction, save endangered native plants and require a nickel deposit on beverage bottles and

Ned Fritz, chairman of the Texas Committee on Natural Resources, told a news conference that environmental groups place their lobbying emphasis on the "economy of saving the environment."

Fritz and others presented their legislative goals Wednesday to Gov. Bill Clements, Speaker Bill Clayton and an aide to Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

"We found the governor to be friendly and he expressed a common interest in the out-of-doors," Fritz said. "He was noncommittal on all our issues except saving tax dollars from the highway program.'

Although the state highway department requested $886 million in 1980, the Legislative Budget Board recommended $946 million for the agency, said Richard Timms of the Texas Environmental Coalition

The increased funds came from unanticipated dedicated highway money, Tims said. The funds can only be spent on highway projects, he said.

but other appropriations to the agency can be cut.

"I think the dedicated fund is grossly inequitable to the welfare of the state," Fritz added. "Why should any one agency get such vast, vast funds - far more this year than they really needed — because the highway lobby has got a source from the taxpayers or permit holders."

Unnecessary highways often are built in ecologically sensitive areas, Timms said.

Sen. Ron Clower, D-Garland, said he will introduce legislation aimed at protecting endangered plant species

Permits would be required to remove, destroy or sell plants on federal and state endangered lists under Clower's bill.

The senator said he was not trying to protect a specific plant, although some West Texas cacti, orchids in the Big Thicket and madrone trees would be considered rare and endangered.

Treasury to make recommendations

By STAN BENJAMIN

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Treasury Department, nearing the end of a year-long investigation, plans to send recommendations to President Carter by March 14 advising whether he should impose new fees, tariffs or quotas to reduce oil imports.

Department sources said Thursday the investigation was started because of concern over U.S. dollars flowing abroad at a rate of some $46 billion a year to pay for foreign oil, and also because of the weakening of international confidence in the

Since the investigation was begun, they said, the dollar has gained strength on international money markets, but meanwhile political turmoil in Iran has halted oil production there.

One Treasury Department source pointed out that the Iranian shutdown means imports are being reduced without any U.S. action. But with the United States importing more than 8 million barrels a day, the loss of Iranian oil would reduce imports only about 12 percent, leaving U.S. payments of almost $40 billion a year to other foreign pro-

And the nation might enjoy little or no savings in foreign exchange, because shortages caused by the Iranian cutoff already are driving up prices charged for the world's remaining oil.

Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal ordered the investigation March 15, 1978, under terms of the Trade Expansion Act of 1962, which requires that it be completed within one

Carter gains discretionary authority in May to let the controlled prices of U.S.-produced oil rise to match world levels, about $5 higher per barrel

Fees, tariffs, or quotas could be used in conjunction with, or in place of, such presidential price-raising action, but department attorney Leonard Santos said the deadline of the Treasury Department investigation, coming only a few months before Carter's price-lifting authority, was "coincidental," not part of any coordinated timeta-

The Carter administration has indicated a desire to try once more for legislation, rejected last year, to bring U.S. oil prices to world levels without handing excess profits to petroleum companies; a Treasury Department recommendation of fees. tariffs or quotas could strengthen Carter's hand.

Meanwhile, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., called on Carter Thursday to reject Energy Secretary James Schlesinger's advice and negotiate to buy Mexi-

Senators passed, 27-0, and sent the House a bill enabling reporters to file lawsuits to prevent violations of the Texas Open Meetings Act.

The law currently says "interested persons" can sue, but a court of civil appeals decided a newspaper in Abilene was not "an interested person." The court held that an interested person was one that would be affected economically by an action taken in

California senator backs Mexico gas

By ELLEN HUME The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - At separate press conferences Thursday, one California senator urged President Carter to buy natural gas from Mexico while the other battled federal reclamation law, "brainwashing" by the White House and a case of the flu.

Releasing a letter he sent to President Carter, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., denounced Energy Secretary James Schlesinger and urged Carter to disregard Schleinger's advice that the United States should move slowly on a natural gas agreement with Cranston said he believes Carter, who will meet next week with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo in Mexico City, has "not made a final judgment" yet on Schlesinger's advice to postpone a U.S.-Mexico natural gas agreement until the $12 billion Alaskan gas pipeline is built.

"This crisis in Iran points up the urgent need to improve our relations with Mexico and negotiate a longterm agreement for oil and gas,' Cranston said. "We have an opportunity to help develop an energy source that is closer, more reliable and less expensive than the Middle East. We should not squander this opportunity through ineptness or insensitivity."

Cranston hedged when asked if he favored accepting the Mexicans' current asking price for their natural gas, which is about $2.90 per thousand cubic feet.

But he said "the demanded price is not unreasonable," and he concluded in his letter to Carter that "Mexican gas represents a bargain, which we ought to take advantage of while it is available to us."

Midland Bulldogs shoot for 5-4A marbles tonight

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

Midland's Bulldogs shoot for all the marbles tonight.

Coach Don Humphrey's Purple Pack takes on the Abilene Cooper Cougars in the beautiful Chapparal Center on the Midland College campus at 8 p.m. and a victory will hand them the District 5-4A basketball championship and a berth in the Class AAAA state playoffs next week against the Wichita Falls Coyotes, the District 6-4A champions.

The game was moved to the 5,200set complex in order to be big enough for the big crowd that is anticipated.

While Midland and Cooper are squaring off, Midland Lee hits the road to take on the Abilene Eagles in Abilene while in other 5-4A games, Odessa Permian tangles with the San Angelo Central Bobcats and the Odessa Bronchos battle the Big Spring

Midland takes a 14-game winning streak into tonight's confrontation and stands 24-8 on the year while Cooper is 16-12 and stands 3-1 in 5-4A play with a makeup game with Big Spring to still be played Saturday night. Midland, meanwhile, is 5-0 and a win tonight no matter what the outcome is of the MHS-Lee game next Tuesday, will put the Pack into the bi-districrt round. The only way for Cooper to win the second half of the race is to beat Midland tonight, Big Spring Saturday and Abilene Tuesday. The Bulldogs would also have to lose to Lee to make all of this possible for Coach Marc Case's Cougars.

The Bulldogs downed the Cougars, 70-69, in the first half of the district Bruce Crawford, 6-2 senior; Tyler race, winding up 7-0 and Cooper was Alcorn, 5-11 senior; and Arthur Per-

Probable starters tonight for Midland will include Herbert Johnson, 6-foot-8 sophomore: Charles Johnson. 6-4 senior; Milton Sanders, 6-5 senior or Tim Spirling, a 6-6 junior along with Walter Bryson, a 6-0 senior and either Roy Lee Jefferson, 6-2 senior, or Michael Feldt, 6-1 sophomore.

Midland girls set up showdown

The Tall City girls District 5-4A showdown between Midland High and Midland Lee is now a reality after both teams ran to victories Thurs-

Midland Lee clubbed Abilene High, 57-40, in the Lee gym while Midland High drubbed Abilene Cooper, 55-42, in Abilene. That leaves both local teams with perfect 6-0 marks heading into Monday's second half showdown bout in the Midland High gym.

Abilene High's loss to Lee proved to be a good thing for the Eagles. Abilene, who tied Midland High for the first half title, would have lost a possible playoff berth by defeating Lee because that would have insured Midland High of at least a second half tie and the championship.

Now, however, Abilene High is still in the picture after the loss. Lee can now win the second half championship outright with a victory over Midland High Monday. If Lee defeats the Bulldogs, Midland High and Abilene would have to meet in a district playoff semifinal game to see which one would meet Lee for the state playoff berth. A Midland High victory Monday, however, would make everything academic. The Bulldogs would then be playoff bound without having to play in a district playoff.

"I'm sure Abilene High was aware of the fact that they would be eliminated with a loss to us, but I wouldn't want to comment about if they tried to lose to us. We played well anyway," Lee coach Shirley Stephenson said. "Both local teams are playing well right now and Monday's game should be a real good one."

Debra Ledbetter paced the Rebels over Abilene with a 16-point performance while Gale Wilson added 14 more. Also in double figures was Dee Dee Poole with 10 markers.

Lee ran to a 14-4 first quarter lead and were never threatened after the fast start.

Midland High had four players soar into double figures in their big win over Cooper. Sandra Rock and La-Shell Shrock each pumped in 14 points to lead the way. Shrock also had 20 rebounds as she performed double duty. Karen Cook added 13 markers and Margaret Christian had 12 more in the four-pronged attack.

"We had a big fourth quarter against Cooper. We led only by 37-35 going into the fourth quarter. LaShell played a real good game for us,' noted Jane Young, the Midland High cage boss. "I don't know how things are going to turn out Monday, but we would like to end it all then. If we do have to play Abilene High again, I sure want the game to be on a neutral

Monday's contest will start at 8 p.m. in the MHS gym, and a large crowd is expected for this one. Last year, Midland Lee won the last game of the season between the two teams to win the first girls 5-4A cage title. Both want the ring this year. Midland High defeated Lee in the first half to knock the Rebels out of contention for that title, and that was in the Lee

In junior varsity action, Midland Lee defeated Abilene, 42-25, as Evelyn Oudems led the way with 14 points and Midland High nipped Cooper, 32-30, as Janis McDonald and Brenda Gilchrist each scored 10 points.

on struggling Chaps but Mitchell again went to work and By TED BATTLES Sports Editor If Ed "Too Tall" Jones and Victor Mitchell were walking across campus, even a football coach would grab

Mitchell as someone of substance around whom to build a defensive line and send the "skinny one" off to the basketball court where he belonged.

When Mitchell, built more like an economy sized Harvey Martin, took the floor at Chaparral Center, the inclination was to ask, "Sure he's 6-9, but where's a guy that big gonna stand?" As it turned out, any damned place he pleased.

Like Mount Everest or the Mississippi River, he was there and there wasn't much anyone could do about him. As a result, the big inside man was the difference as Amarillo College parried late pressure by Midland College for a 69-66 "upset" of the Chaparrals at Chaparral Center Thursday night. But the way Mitchell stuffed 37 points through the hoop, it didn't look like an upset and the only mystery was how the Chaps kept him in check (22 points) in winning 83-78 at Amarillo earlier in the season.

In addition to jamming 17 of 21 shots from the floor, Mitchell ruled the boards with a game-high 15 rebounds and blocked a couple of shots to propel the Badgers back into the thick of the Western Junior College Conference race with a 6-6 record, close enough for one of the four Region V playoff berths.

MIDLAND'S third straight loss, and first in 10 games at the Center, left the Chaps 7-5 in WJCC and looking for some answers as to how to stop the opposition's big men. Monday it was a 38-point binge by Lewis Lloyd that led NMMI to a 71-62 win over Midland.

The Chaps led at half, 32-30, but that's when Mitchell began to make his presence suffocating. With 9:27 left in the game, Amarillo, which had trailed 30-20 at one point, led 57-46 and it wasn't hard to find the reason. Mitchell for the first 10 minutes of the second half was eight-of-eight from the field and three-for-three from the Coach Jerry Stone called time and went to his press as the Chaps began to whittle away on the hot shooting hand of Robert Tate. Tate drilled home four baskets, two on fast-break feeds from Cullen Mayfield, to creep to a 61-58 deficit with 3:27 left and it looked like MC might rescue the game. However, Amarillo went into a fast-moving slow-down with four minutes left to set up some easy inside penetration shots and rebuilt a sevenpoint, 65-58, margin before Midland made its last gasp bid.

It was 67-62 when Carl Lee Runnels hit from the corner and then Runnels and Kenneth Young worked some old Houston Wheatley magic for Young's inside dunk shot that left Midland behind 67-66 with 25 seconds to go. However, the Chaps couldn't get their hungry mitts on the ball and were forced to foul Tom Perry with five seconds left, Perry converting both to apply the last rites.

MITCHELL'S inside work helped the Badgers to step off to an early 14-9 lead, but Midland reeled off 10 straight points to go ahead 19-14, exploiting turnovers and fast breaks to beat the Badgers' formidable 6-8 front line height. After Runnells hit an 18footer, Midland's lead was 30-20 with less than five minutes left in the half, the Badgers were only two down at

Mount Everest topples

Mitchell, who missed four shots in the first half, was flawless in the second, sinking all 10 field goal attempts and three from the line. And it was the 6-9 Amarilo native who was responsible for AC's impressive 31 of 51 (.608) shooting percentage.

For Midland, Tate's 16 points led the way, 14 coming in the final half when he flipped in seven of eight from the floor, but the Chaps didn't have the supporting firepower to get over

Mayfield had 13 points, nine in the first half while Young chipped in with 10 as Midland shot respectability enough with 32 of 63, better than .500

ODESSA COLLEGE levelled South

Ennis scored 22 for the Wranglers and NMMI had to go triple overtime to defeat Howard College, 45-42 at Big Spring, and Western Texas dispatched Clarendon, 119-74, in other games. Howard almost had a victory when it converted a couple of free throws with one second to go in regulation time, but the Broncos uncorked a court-length bomb to Lewis Lloyd, who stuffed it and forced the extra

Trouble brewing in Mara family

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) There's trouble brewing in East Rutherford that threatens to boil over before it subsides.

New York Giants President Wellington Mara announced Thursday that due to differences with his nephew and co-owner Tim Mara, he was making the selection of a new coach his No. 1 priority. The seven-week search for a director of operations has been relegated to the background, for the time being.

Tim Mara, who also owns 50 percent of the team, strongly objects to his uncle's new plan. The Maras have been unable to reach agreement on a replacement for Andy Robustelli, who resigned Dec. 18.

Coach John McVay was fired the same day, less than 24 hours after the Giants completed a 6-10 season and missed the playoffs for the 15th straight year.

"The only area of serious disagreement between us is in the matter of a director of operations," Wellington Mara said during a news conference in which he spoke, followed by Tim Mara. "If there is only one area that we can't agree on, it's only common sense to put that to the side and go to the area where you can agree.

"We've never had serious all-out discussions of coaches, but there is no reason to think there will be serious disagreements," he continued, "What we have to do is find the best coach available and put him in full control of the operation until we can find a director of operations.

"It's like an exam. If you can't answer the second question, you go to the third."

'Well's decision was unexpected," Tim Mara said. "I plan to confer with the commissioner on this. I think the coach is only one part of the football operation; we need a director of operations to put it all together. If we hire the coach first, we'll be back where we've been for the last 15 years."

Tim Mara feels his uncle would resume activities as director of operations he gave up five years ago in favor of Robustelli.

"I want to have a winner. Well wants to do it his way. Well's way has had us in the cellar for 15 years," he added. "If he conducts business as usual, that's what I'm afraid of."

Wellington Mara revealed that NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle had intervened last week and asked both men to submit to him a list of four suitable candidates.

'The agreement was the first name that appeared on both lists, we would both accept as the Giants director of operations," Mara said. "He informed me that the second man on my list of four had also been on Tim's

That was Monday. On Tuesday, that man, whose identity Mara refused to reveal, turned the Giants down. Wellington Mara said he felt the infighting in the Giants front office turned the man off.

Tim Mara said he objected to only one of the half dozen prospects interviewed for the job.

Keeling hired at Angelo

SAN ANGELO - Jimmie Keeling has been named as head football coach and athletic director of San Angelo Central High School to replace to replace Smitty Hill, who resigned earlier this year.

Keeling received a two-year contract, and will inherit a team that was 2-8 in 1978. Keeling comes from Lamar High School, which he guided to a 10-3 season in 1978 while winning the District 25-AAAA title before losing to San Antonio Churchill in the quarterfinals. He has had head coaching jobs at Dublin, Tulia, Lubbock Estacado, Andrews and Lubbock Coronado in addition to the Lamar post. His 1968 Estacado won the AAA state championship in its second year of competition in the UIL. Keeling attended Tarleton College and graduated from Howard Payne. Keeling's teams run a Veer-T offense and a 4-3 defense.

Franklin rampage sinks Frogs

DALLAS (AP) - Senior center Reggie Franklin scored a career-high 24 points, hauled down 20 rebounds and blocked five shots Thursday night to lead Southern Methodist to a 96-77 Southwest Conference basketball victory over outmanned Texas Chris-

Franklin was aided by the return or freshman guard Billy Allen, who missed the last three games with pneumonia. Allen scored 12 points, but doled out 13 assists as the Mustangs ran their SWC mark to 4-7.

Junior foward Brad Branson scored 22 points and collected 11 rebounds in SMU's ninth victory of the year against 12 losses.

Freshman foward Jon Mansbury scored 24 points and freshman guard Ed Wineinger added 20 points for TCU, which is now 1-10 in the SWC and 6-15 overall.

SMU jumped to a 20-point lead in the first half over the Horned Frogs, who went almost 10 minutes before they even got a rebound. The Mustangs led 49-36 at halftime and never let the Frogs get closer than 11 points in a run-and-gun second half. Branson's 11 field goals also was a career high for him at SMU. SMU outrebounded TCU 55-37 and the primary reason was the sticky 2-3 Mustang zone defense, which had the Horned Frogs shooting 20-footers

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - "Heartbreak City. That's all I can say. It hurts, boy. It hurts.'

The words came choking out of Dick Vitale like so many mouthfuls of bit-

The Detroit Pistons' coach slammed an equipment bag to the floor. He had to hit something. If there was a water cooler nearby it surely would have been dented.

His team had just blown a threepoint lead in the last 19 seconds to drop a 106-105 National Basketball Association decision Thursday night to the New Jersey Nets.

In the only other game, Moses Malone pumped in 32 points and grabbed 19 rebounds to lead host Houston to a 134-129 victory over Milwaukee.

At the Pontiac Silverdome, John Williamson - with Andre Wakefield and John Long hanging all over him — sank an 18-foot jumper with three seconds left to push the Nets past the

The game was televised back to New Jersey, Vitale's home state, and he figures his family and friends all saw the disaster for Detroit.

"I'm 0-for-6 against the Nets and Knicks," the rookie NBA coach muttered, his head hanging as he stared at the floor of the coaches' locker

"I lose too hard. I take losses too

he continued, chastizing himself. "I'm a loser. The kids played a super game, Blame it on me. "This is so crushing. This is the

A basket by Long with 19 seconds remaining put Detroit ahead 105-102. New Jersey called time out, then Bernard King took the inbounds pass from Ed Jordan under the basket to score in one second. All Detroit had to do was stall out the final 18 seconds. But Phil Jackson tied up Terry Tyler on the inbounds pass, forcing a center jump - which Jackson won, setting up the Nets' winning shot. It was reminiscent of the Pistons' debut last September in the Silverdome, when New Jersey intercepted an inbounds pass and won at the buzzer, 107-105.

hard," he said. "It's unbelievable," Carew downplays lucrative contract

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - Rod Carew was grinning like a kid who'd found everything he wanted under the Christmas tree, and he had a right to

The seven-time American League batting champion had landed where he wanted, Anaheim; he'd just signed a five-year contract calling for a reported $4 million; and he finally was in a spot he'd coveted, with a bonafide pennant contender.

During a press conference following his formal contract signing Thursday, Carew downplayed his lucrative compensation and said he just wanted to help the Angels win a pennant.

"I've told Jim Fregosi (Angel manager) that despite all the money I'm being paid, I'm going to be out there giving 110 percent all the time," Carew said. "Maybe I can help the Angels win the other five games this year that they finished out of first last season.'

The 33-year-old Carew, with the Minnesota Twins all of his 12 major league seasons, will play first base for California, adding a .334 career batting average to the free agent-studded Angel lineup.

"I'm glad you're here at this press conference rather than in Yankee Stadium with George Steinbrenner,' said Angels Owner Gene Autry. "I hope this will be the best year you've ever had; we won't ask any more than that of you.' Carew's "best year" would be something. In 1977, for instance, he flirted with a .400 batting average before finishing the campaign at

""I think one of the teams that helped stop me from hitting .400 that year was the Angels," he said. "I'm ana and Nolan Ryan anymore.' Carew's "move" to Anaheim was a somewhat circuitous one, as the Twins tried to trade him before he became a free agent at the end of the 1979 season.

Minnesota reached tentative agreement with the San Francisco Giants on a trade, but Carew turned down the deal, saying he wanted to stay in the American League. Carew then agreed to terms with California, but Twins Owner Cal Griffith was unhappy with the players the Angels were offering, so that bogged down and the New York Yankees expressed an interest in Carew. But Yankee Owner George Steinbrenner and Carew didn't exactly have a meeting of the minds, and those negotiations fell through before they started and California was back in the driver's seat. The Twins, who had coveted Angel third baseman Carney Lansford, finally settled for pitcher Paul Hartzell, outfielder Ken Landreaux and minor leaguers Brad Havens and Dave Engle. "Things got sticky for awhile, and I was worried that I might not get to play with California," Carew said.

"It's nice to be here. In a mellow mood, Carew's only negative comments concerned Steinbrenner. "I thought his remark about about the 'privilege of being a Yankee' was a downgrading thing to say," Carew said. "The players on all the teams in the majors are pros; they all do their best to provide entertainment for the fans. When we play against the Yankees, I hope I can get some key hits to sey said: "We made a lot of big shots down the stretch. Both teams did. We were lucky that we ended up with the last opportunity.'

In Houston, all five Rockets starters scored at least 20 as Houston extended the Bucks' losing streak to six games. Rudy Tomjanovich scored 26 points for Houston, Rick Barry and Calvin Murphy added 22 apiece and Mike Dunleavy chipped in with 20. The Rockets scored a club-record 77 points in the first half as they connected on 62 percent of their field goal

Incredible scores mark start of Hawaiian Open

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) - Andy Bean had just fired a 6-under-par 66spectacular in most cases - and casually shrugged it off.

"Just trying to keep my two centsworth in," he said.

In the incredible scoring that was produced in Thursday's first round of the $300,000 Hawaiian Open, that's all he did. Got his two cents worth in.

IT WASN'T good enough to lead. That spot went to a trio of 65s posted by Lanny Wadkins, Jay Haas and rookie Lindy Miller. While their scores were the same, they arrived at the lead by different routes over the beautifully conditioned, 7,234-yard Waialae Country Club course.

Miller one-putted the perfect greens 11 times. Haas — who now has led or shared the first round lead in three of five events on the Tour this year didn't make a bogey, missed only one green and chipped in for birdie that time. And Wadkins hit two drivers to the green on the 566-yard 18th and holed a 20-foot putt for a finishing

A BULKY group of 11 shared the next position at 66. Tied with Bean were Charles Coody, J.C. Snead, Fuzzy Zoeller, Gil Morgan, Wally Armstrong, Larry Nelson, Kermit Zarley, Mark Lye, Wayne Levi and Bob Gilder.

Hale Irwin and rookie Tom Chain, who was playing his first round in his first tour event, headed another large group at 67.

In all, 91 of the 144 men in the field broke par 72, believed to be the lowest overall scoring in a decade of tour competition.

Another 16 were at par on the long flat layout.

Playing conditions were perfect. The temperature was in the 80s and unusual for Hawaii - there wasn't a breath of a breeze to disturb the palms and banyan trees.

"That's the key to it," said Haas. "The wind didn't blow.

"I've played in every Hawaiian Open," said Coody, "and I've never seen it like this.'

"It's a pleasure to play in weather like this," said Bean. And, as usual, the greens were

Buckeyes' Ransey sinks Wolverines

Maybe Ohio State's football team should recruit Kelvin Ransey. He knows how to score against Michi-

However, Ransey plies his wares for Ohio State's basketball team rather than the footballers, who haven't scored a touchdown in three years against Michigan. And the 6-foot-1 junior did Michigan in Thursday night by scoring his team's last six points in the final 31/2 minutes as the 13thranked Buckeyes made off with a 63-60 triumph and regained undisputed possession of first place in the Big

Ransey's heroics included both ends of a one-and-one free throw situation with 20 seconds left among his 18 points. "The man at the line isn't a bad one to have there," said Coach Eldon

But he didn't know how nervous Ransey was with Ohio State clinging to a one-point lead.

"I started shaking when I went to the bench for the timeout," Ransey said. "I told myself, 'No, no, not now.' Then I got hold of myself. I concentrated on the rim. I put more dip, more wrist in my shot.'

OHIO STATE sits atop the Big Ten thanks to 10th-ranked Michigan State's 60-57 triumph over No. 15 Iowa as Earvin Johnson and Greg Kelser teamed up for 25 points and 26 rebounds. Iowa's Ronnie Lester, the league's scoring leader, was held to a season-low 5 points and fouled out with 11½ minutes left.

While Iowa bowed to a ranked Michigan State team, No. 20 Illinois succumbed to unranked Purdue 71-65 as 7-foot-1 Joe Barry Carroll poured in 24 points and led the Boilermakers from an early 12-4 deficit to their sixth consecutive victory.

"They killed us inside," said Illinois Coach Lou Henson. "Carroll is great - an NBA player.'

The other members of The Top Twenty survived. Fifth-ranked Louisville defeated Metro Conference rival Tulane 77-66 while No. 8 Louisiana State shaded Mississippi State 52-48 and No. 16 Alabama trimmed Mississippi 83-73 in Southeastern Conference action.

Bobby Turner scored 18 points and Louisville sank 20 of 25 free throws down the stretch to post its 13th consecutive victory. Darrell Griffith added 14 points, Scooter McCray had 12 and Larry Williams grabbed 11 rebounds as Louisville improved its LSU REMAINED atop the SEC, one-half game ahead of Alabama. Al Green's 15 points paced the Tigers over Mississippi State while Rickey Brown had 16 for the losers, who played without leading scorer Ray White and lost another starter, Greg Grim, with a sprained ankle early in the contest.

Alabama's Reggie King and Eddie Phillips put on a two-man show against Ole Miss. King scored 30 points and grabbed 10 rebounds while Phillips, a freshman, had 25 points.

'We shot well, we handled the ball well and we boarded well," said 'Bama Coach C.M. Newton. "I have to were unseeded Jeanne be pleased with the way we played." In a stunning upset, Rhode Island, ond-seeded Kiyomura 0-New England's No. 1 team, was 6, 6-4, 7-6; sixth-seeded knocked off by Boston University 75- Ruzici, who defeated 69 as Tom Channel poured in a ca- Hana Strachonova of reer-high 35 points. Rhody's Sly Williams had 26 points but only seven after the intermission.

Rounding out Big Ten play, Indiana whipped Northwestern 82-57 as guards Randy Wittman and Butch Carter combined for 31 points while Kevin McHale scored 32 points as Minnesota held off Wisconsin 74-72.

IN THE Missouri Valley Conference, Creighton's John Johnson took scoring honors with 23 points but Tulsa's Lester Johnson scored 10 of his 14 points in the second half to lead the Golden Hurricane over the Blue Jays 71-65. Slab Jones had 26 points and 11 rebounds as New Mexico State buried Wichita State 93-75.

In the Pacific-10, Peter Gudmundson's 37 points paced Washington over California 71-56. The 7-2 sophomore from Iceland connected on 13 of 18 shots from the floor and 11 of 13 at the foul line. Another sophomore center, Oregon State's Steve Johnson, tallied 36 points to lead the Beavers past Arizona 93-79 while guards John Murray and Rob Closs combined for 38 points as Oregon beat Arizona State 70-63.

Kim Goetz, a 6-7 senior, connected on 19 of 25 shots and scored a school record 42 points as San Diego State defeated Colorado State 90-83 in a Western Athletic Conference game. Eddie Hughes sank 1rland scored 22 points and Curtis Watkins added 20 as DePaul outlasted Loyola of Chicago 77-73.

Miller took full advantage. Birdie putts of 15 and 30 feet got him started and he made his round with a string of seven holes in the middle of the round. He one-putted six times in that stretch. The only one he missed was from 18 inches.

Haas had a near-flawless effort. His only lapse came on the second hole, the only green he missed. And he promptly chipped it in for birdie. He got it very close on two par-5 holes, scored three times from the 8-10 foot range and holed another putt of about 18 feet.

Wadkins was only 1 shot under par at the turn, but made his move with a brilliant 30 on the back nine. He birdied three in a row at one stretch, then capped it off with the spectacular eagle on the final hole that lifted him into a share of the lead.

"I feel like I made some putts - for the first time in quite a while — on that back nine," he said.

Judge sentences player to 10 day term in jail

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — A been blown out of proportion."
judge has sentenced Virginia Tech Meanwhile, Virginia Tech of football player Michael "Chip" Keatley to 10 days in jail and fined him $100 on convictions of assaulting two Radford College students who would not let him into a dormitory party.

Montgomery County General Dis-trict Court Judge Richard Davis announced the verdict and sentence following a closed-door trial Thursday.

Keatley, a senior linebacker from Beckley, W.Va., plans to appeal the decision. Judge Davis dismissed a trespassing charge filed against senior tight end David Dolphin in connection with the Jan. 26 incident at the nearby Radford campus. A trespassing charge against Keatley also was dis-

"I don't approve of the conduct of either one of these gentlemen," said Davis after imposing sentence.

The judge said Keatley admitted assaulting the two students and said he apologized to them. He said Keatley and Dolphin "apparently had some beer" the night of incident and "things got out of hand."

The trial for both players was held in closed chambers at the request of defense attorney Max Jenkins, who said he requested the closed session because his clients "felt this thing had tery.

Meanwhile, Virginia Tech officials announced that the Tech players involved in an altercation with several Tech freshmen earlier in January were using a state-owned car.

The car had been signed out by a football coach who turned it over to sophomore offensive guard Steve Wirt, according to Jack Prater, assistant director of Tech's athletic asso-

Allowing a football player to use a state-owned vehicle is not a general practce and had never been done before, Prater said. He said the car was to be used to help transport players and potenial high school recruits to a banquet being held at a Blacksburg motel. After the banquet, Wirt picked up two other Tech players and two junior college transfer recruits, Wirt and the others apparently drove around the campus for an hour or more before becoming involved in the altercation with several Tech freshmen, Prater added.

Wirt, defensive lineman Christopher Albrittain and reserve quarterback James Simpson III received fines and suspended jail sentences earlier this month after pleading guilty to charges of assault and bat-

women's pact NEW YORK (AP) The independent TVS Television Network has signed an agreement with the governing body for women's college athletics to televise championship competition in five sports on a delayedtape basis. TVS President George Gallup said Thursday the network would present five 1-hour telecasts of Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women championship events. The schedule, with dates of telecasts, includes: Regional gymnastics championships, March 24; swimming and diving championships, April 15; track and field championships, June 10; tennis championships, June 17, and golf championships, June 24. Gallup said that TVS has a 2-year contract with the AIAW with options beyond that. The AIAW has already contracted with the NBC network for two of its other championships basketball and gymnas-

Aggies pull in Dickerson

HOUSTON (AP) - Sealy running back Eric Dickerson, citing his desire to remain close to home and the challenge of fighting for a starting job, says he's given a verbal commitment to Texas A&M Coach Tom Wilson to play for the Aggies next season. Dickerson, one of the most intensely recruited athletes in Texas this year, also said he wanted to make the commitment "to get people off my back. Sometimes I wish I'd never played football. This thing has gotten too

"I could have gone to OU (Oklahoma) for more publicity maybe but if I stay in Texas everybody knows me. I just came to a decision and I want to get it out in the open."

Dickerson said A&M would keep him close to Sealy, about 70 miles away and allow his grandmother to see him play.

The Aggies also received verbal commitment from Houston St. Pius quarterback Gary Kubiak, who led his team to the state Class 2A Catholic title and established a state passing record.

If Dickerson signs a Southwest Conference letter of intent Wednesday and a national letter Feb. 21, he will be following the lead of current Aggie runner Curtis Dickey of College Station, who made the same decision three years ago.

Dickey was the leading rusher last season when Wilson, who assumed coaching duties at mid-season when Emory Bellard resigned, installed the I-formation and put Dickey in the tailback position.

NHL overcomes Soviets

NEW YORK (AP) - The National Hockey League's all-stars overcame the obstacle of just three days' preparation, then they overcame the opening night jitters ... and then, with suprising ease, they overcame the Soviet National team in the opener of the Challenge Cup.

"There's a mystique about the Russians that they can do all these things," said Philadelphia Flyers center Bobby Clarke. "But I don't think there's anything they can do that we can't, as far as things like passing and stick-handling are con-

CLARKE PROVED that Thursday night, setting up Guy Lafleur's goal after just 16 seconds of play in the NHL's 4-2 triumph. Steve Shutt worked the puck free at the Soviet blue line and found Clarke, who drew Soviet defenseman to him before finding Lafleur - shockingly alone sprinting down right wing for a sharply angled 10-foot shot. The crowd of 17,438, which paid as much as $25 to see this event, was as astonished as the Soviets ... and, perhaps, Clarke. On the first shift, the idea is to put pressure on them, keep the puck in their end, but not necessarily to score," said Clarke, captain of the NHL stars. "You don't expect your first shot to go in, but that's how it worked out tonight."

IT WORKED because the NHL, which first practiced as a team on Monday, used determination to compensate for the lack of familiarity.

"The guys on this team are all in on this thing for the same reason," said Clark Gillies of the New York Islanders, a 6-foot-3, 220-pound left wing who scored the all-stars' fourth goal and threw his weight around at every opportunity. "The cohesion is there if everyone wants to win."

And they had Lafleur, who played with the fire of a man possessed. "We have to show them (the Russians) we're better," said Lafleur, who set up Mike Bossy's power play tally in the three-goal NHL first period that left the Soviets totally disorganized. "The Russians have nothing to lose in this series. We have to stay No. 1."

BY HOUNDING the Soviets, keeping them from forming their weaving, precision passing attack, the NHL took a big step in that direction.

"I'm sure they weren't expecting us to hit too much," said Gillies. "People thought we might spend most of the night chasing them around."

It was the reverse. It was the NHL stars who made the perfect plays. It was the NHL which had the Soviets laboring to catch up.

"The NHL players played their usual way and unfortunately, we couldn't prevent them from playing that way," observed Valentin Sytch, deputy chairman of the USSR Sports Committee. "Unfortunately our boys today played below their potential.

"The tactical plans we had were not realized," added Sytch.

They weren't realized despite the pressure, the few days of practice, and despite the Soviet reputation which preceded it here.

Six minutes after Lafleur scored, he fed Buffalo's Gil Perreault, who faked past Zinetula Bilyaletdinov and Vasili Pervukhin before feeding Bossy for a five-foot tap-in. Boris Mikhailov rapped in a rebound on a power play at 11:25, and Montreal's Bob Gainey capped a rush with a rising 20-foot shot at 15:48 for a 3-1 NHL lead.

THEN GILLIES bashed a Soviet off the puck behind the net and skated in front to backhand Bossy's pass past goalie Vladislav Tretiak at 8: 14 of the second period.

The Soviet's Victor Golikov completed the scoring from a scramble in front of the net at 3:02 of the third period. Though the NHL stars tired in that session, the outcome was never in doubt.

"We played well," said goalie Ken Dryden of Montreal. "That was partly an expectation and partly a large

The hopes couldn't have been this high. Islanders defenseman Denis Potvin was injured, New York Rangers defenseman Ron Greschner arrived on Tuesday and didn't play, and Montreal defenseman Guy Lapointe didn't arrive in time to compete.

So Coach Scotty Bowman used just four defensemen, going for size, mo-bility and puck handling skill by pairing Montreal's Serge Savard with Colorado's Barry Beck and Montreal's Larry Robinson with Toronto's Borje

It's still profitable to own major league team

CHICAGO (AP) - Despite contentions that lucrative player contracts will eventually ruin baseball finan-cially, it's probably still profitable to own a major league team, says a labor relations specialist who has studied the structure of player-management agreements.

James B. Dworkin, a professor of management at Purdue University, said that while some observers are crying that free agents and multi-million dollar contracts will some day drive owners out of business, his research indicates just the opposite.

"Taking into account the situation with arbitration and free agents, profits would appear to go down," said Dworkin. "Now it's hard to get good data in this area, but history tends to support the contention that management is in pretty good shape mon-

DWORKIN SAID that while contracts are generally more lucrative for players today than they were 10 years ago, management also has fattened its bank account.

'There used to be a big piece of pie and management did with it pretty much what they pleased," Dworkin said. "But things have changed. The players are getting a share and it's cutting into the profits, but probably not to the extent of really hurting."

"The television package is among the factors that have helped management since the 1960s," Dworkin added. "But again, teams are not required to disclose their financial condition, so it's all speculation. But if I had to speculate, I'd say they are not doing so poorly. It's probably still profitable to own a team."

Dworkin and James R. Chelius, another professor of management at Purdue's Krannert Graduate School of Management, spent more than two years researching the effects finaloffer arbitration had on the bargaining process in baseball in 1974 and

FINAL-OFFER arbitration allows a neutral third party to intervene in negotiations and resolve a contract dispute by selecting either the final demand by a player or the final offer by management

lowed a third party to work out what usually was a compromise agreement, Dworkin said.

During 1974 and 1975, a total of 1,000 players were eligible for arbitration. Of that number, 92 players invoked their right with only 43 settling for awards decided on by the neutral party. The remaining 49 settled prior to an arbitration hearing, Dworkin

It is not certain how many players received "favorable" rulings - or settlements which matched their demands - through arbitration.

Dworkin admits that his research, soon to be published, is not conclusive, partly because the effects of final-arbitration have not been tested over the long haul. Another reason is because management most often does not report the final terms of agreements, thereby making it virtually impossible to determine just how much a player was able to improve his contract.

"There's no doubt, though, that the union (Major League Players Association) headed by Marvin Miller has made great strides for the players," Dworkin said. "You only have to compare the lot of the players now and in 1966 when Miller took over. There are better salaries, pension plans, good benefits and now finaloffer arbitration and free agency have given players extra vehicles to secure better contracts.'

DWORKIN'S RESEARCH of the baseball labor market continues. He and Chelius are currently focusing on the impact free agents have had on the structure of contract negotiations in the sport

In 1976, 24 free agents signed contracts worth more than an estimated $25 million. The next year, the number of free agents agreeing to terms with new teams dropped to 14, but their contracts were worth about $24

"I've collected some data on the free agents, but I'm not ready to release any findings," said Dworkin. 'We're working with bits and pieces of information.

"But I don't expect to find that free agents are driving the owners out of business," said Dworkin. "During negotiations you never hear owners mention inability to pay.

Second Superman not sad about backseat role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Amid the onslaught of publicity for "Superman," a simple fact has been overlooked: There are two Clark Kents in the movie, Christopher Reeve and Jeff East.

Reeve, of course, is the onetime actor in soap opera who leapt onto tall buildings and magazine covers in his red and blue tights. East has had little notice, although he played the younger Kent in the farmland sequences which this reviewer found to be the most original of the $45 million extravaganza.

The unnoticed Jeff East, who turned 21 in October, exhibits no evidence of sour grapes

"It was not ethical or I should say logical to build up two Supermen," he rationalizes. "I'm delighted that Chris is getting all the attention. Sooner or later, I believe, I'll be in that position, too.

"Meanwhile, I'm happy to be in the movie. It's a big hit, and the people in the industry know that I was in it. I don't have that instant identification that Chris has, and I think I'm lucky. I don't want to build my career on a single character.'

Jeff East is constructing his career on a solid foundation. He began his career seven years ago in a starring role — as Huck Finn in the musical version of "Tom Sawyer." One of five children of a Kansas City farm realtor, Jeff and some companions auditioned for the movie as a lark when casting scouts appeared in Columbia, Mo. "Kid, you're really lousy," he was told, but he was given a second chance when he admitted heading a

'Tom Sawyer'' lead to "Huckleberry Finn" and the chance for a Hollywood career, but his parents insisted that he finish high school first. Since then he has appeared in three Walt Disney television movies, the televised "Stranger in Our House" with Linda Blair, and the forthcoming season premiere of "How the West Was

Two years ago, Jeff appeared at an audition for the role of Jimmy Olson, the boy photographer in "Superman." Director Richard Donner stared at Jeff and said, "You look enough like Chris Reeve to play the young Superman."

Jeff soon found himself in London having his hair straightened and dyed black (his own is light and wavy) and his nose built up to match Reeve's classic profile.

"I became a totally different person," Jeff recalls. "When I walked onto the set, nobody recognized me. That was good. It allowed me to get into the character.

"Chris helped a great deal, too. We had lunch together and spent a lot of time studying speech patterns of each other, so we would have a consistent portrayal. I had the easier assignment, because I was portraying the young Clark Kent, before he assumed the identity of Superman.

"I performed the same stunts that Chris did, but I didn't have to deal with the disguise of Clark Kent with the glasses.'

Jeff East spent seven months on "Superman," most of it filming the farm scenes outside Calgary, Canada. He also appeared in the Fortress of Solitude sequence which was shot at the Shepparton studios near London. That is when the boy receives his instructions from his papa, Jor-El, late of Krypton.

To Jeff's great regret, he never met the actor who played his father. Marlon Brando had already collected his kingly fee (calculated at $245,000 per work day) and run back to Tahiti.

Jeff's biggest physical challenge came on the Alberta location where he had to outrun a train. Without divulging any technical secrets, he admitted that he was suspended by wires and his toes actually touched the ground. "I ran a lot to get in shape for the stunt, and I also worked out on the trampoline," he said.

Next for Jeff East: "Long Ride on a Short Trail" (tentative title) for April filming in Texas with Strother Mar-

CBS trying to muster comeback

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's tough on CBS, this matter of being second. The network that once smilingly accepted the tag, "Tiffany Network," having to maul it out with NBC to stay out of the bottom of television's ratings.

That big CBS eye was on top of the ratings tussles for 20 years. "I Love Lucy," "Gunsmoke," "Dick Van Dyke Show," "Beverly Hillbillys," "All in the Family," "Mary Tyler Moore."

CBS was always No. 1. Its New York executives, according to an old saw, used to walk on patrician Fifth Avenue to get to their offices on plebian Sixth. That ABC surge three years ago, from television's discount basement to penthouse, hurt CBS in prestige and it hurt the network in dollars. It's no fun not being able to do fall season promotions boasting of being No. 1. But it's worse watching affiliated stations jump ship to ABC (as 17 have done in the last three years). And ABC, once the lowly "half-network" in the days of CBS's domination, has been picking up those lost CBS ratings points, at the rate of $27 million per-point each season.

For the first year or so of ABC's new dominance, mutterings of "It won't last" and "We'll be back" could be heard at CBS. But the kingdom-in-exile routine began to wear thin this year when it became apparent that ABC was no mere pretender, that it had found things quite comfortable at the top.

So, what is CBS doing about it? "Our main job is to come up with new, successful hit series," says CBS programming executive Bud Grant. "That's the name of the game."

The network has begun an intense campaign in program development, an area CBS neglected before its descendency. Its last few years at the front of the ratings race were years in which CBS depended on its strong series, "All in the Family" and "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," and the spinoff children of those shows, like "Maude" and

"At that time, we were not very successful at creating new shows," Grant says, "we just weren't successful at creating new series." This was partly because CBS depended too heavily on its hits and spinoffs, and partly because the network inexplicably cut back its development budget.

In its effort to make gains this midseason, though,

CBS seems to have a good shot with some of its new developments, such as the successful "Dallas" and "Incredible Hulk." And unlike NBC, CBS has enough strong shows to plant new or weaker shows in its schedule and win points on audience carryover.

For example, the successful "All in the Family" and "Alice," which used to air back-to-back on Sunday nights, will sandwich the new shows "Onward and Upward" and "The Stockard Channing Show." This lead-in tactic has made hits of mediocre series, which, if the ploy works, can be used as lead-in grabbers in their own right next season.
On Mondays, CBS split the very popular "M-A-S-H" and "One Day at a Time" with the once-canceled

"WKRP in Cincinnati," which is now giving a respectable performance.

Bill would allow states to set own speed limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling federal enforcement of a 55-mph speed limit "blackmail, pure and simple," Rep. Daniel B. Crane, R-Ill., has introduced legislation that would allow states to set their own highway speed limits.

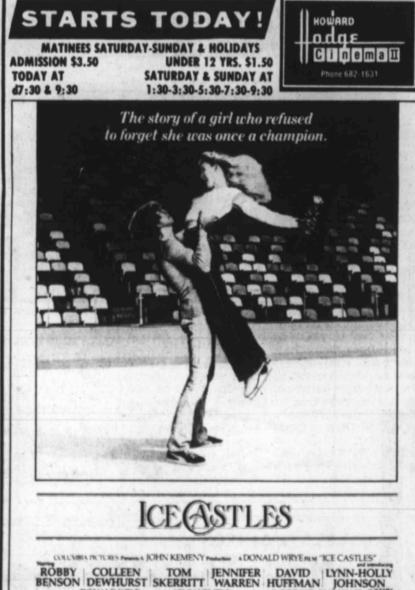

"If the people of a state want to raise the speed limit on their own highways, Washington, D.C., has no business telling them they can't do it," Crane said

States can set their own speed limits now, but federal officials, hoping the lower speed limit will conserve petroleum supplies, have threatened states that raise speed limits with the loss of federal highway funds.

Crane said, "Withholding what is rightfully their money to force the 55 mph limit is blackmail, pure and simple." At least 14 states are considering setting speed limits above 55 mph.

Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., has introduced similar legislation in the Senate.

Evening

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - The academic world sniffed in 1929 when the University of Southern California offered the country's first college course in the motion picture. "The flickers an art? Preposterous!" the pedants said.

Today, according to the American Film Institute's latest survey, 40,590 students are seeking degrees in film, television and related subjects at 1,513 colleges and universities. A total of 200,000 young Americans are enrolled in the 9,228 courses in those fields.

The USC film school, now called the division of Cinema-Television, is celebrating its 50th anniversary today with a gala dinner at the Century Plaza Hotel. The event is the start of a $15-million drive for a building to replace the ancient bungalows where the school has been located since 1940.

Significantly, co-chairing the dinner are Ted Ashley, Barry Diller, Alan Ladd, Jr., and Sidney Sheinberg, all top bosses of major studios. That testifies to Hollywood's opinion of the USC school.

And no wonder. Graduates include George Lucas 'Star Wars'') and his producer Gary Kurtz, John Milius ("The Wind and the Lion"), Randal Kleiser the job in studios. McGregor disagrees: ("Grease"), Hal Barwood and Matt Robbins ("Corvette Summer"), David Wolper (executive producer: "Roots"), Irvin Kirshner ("Eyes of Laura Mars"), Curtis Harrington ("Games"), cinematographers William Fraker and Conrad Hall, and many

It all started with a course called "Introduction to the Photoplay," originated by USC with the newly founded Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Among the lecturers were D. W. Griffith, Irving Thalberg, Milton Sills, Douglas Fairbanks, Ernst Lubitsch and William de Mille. The latter, brother of Cecil B. de Mille, headed the university's film department for many years.

In 1932, USC began offering the first cinema bachelor of arts degree in the country. The master's degree came four years later, and the Ph.D. in 1958. George Lucas' first movie, "THX-1138," and last year's "Fraternity Row" originated as campus films. Oscars have been awarded to "The Face of Lincoln" and "The Resurrection of Bronco Billy," shorts made at the university.

With such a record, you can imagine that USC is flooded with applicants seeking a sure route to the Hollywood studios.

"We can accept only one of every ten applicants," says E. Russell McGregor, co-chairman with Morton Zarcoff of the Cinema-Television Division. "We can handle a maximum of 40 students at any time.'

What does the school look for in applicants? A high grade point average — "with so many applicants we can settle for 3.7 and strength in other subjects, though we will accept 2.8 or 2.7 in special cases.' Films made by applicants are not necessary and in fact can be a drawback, said McGregor.

"We ask to see a portfolio list indicating evidence of creative activity in many fields," he added. "Also, we're interested in extra-curricular interests, say, if a person had bicycled through Bogota. What we don't want are those who are coming to school to prolong their adolescence.'

The curriculum is divided into three areas: The history, criticism and aesthetics of film, for which enrollment is usually open; the new television school; and film production, the most popular de-

The young filmmakers learn by doing, starting in their first semester making five films in super-8mm. Later, they move up to 16mm and during the entire course make a total of 10 films. Critics of film schools

"You can't teach talent, but the school offers a good arena to try out ideas, to discover what works and what doesn't work."

Another Daily Planet?

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) - The publisher of the Des Moines Daily Planet says he will not be bullied by the owner of another Daily Planet and can manage without any help from Superman.

Publisher Larry Vint, whose Daily Planet distributes 25,000 free copies daily and will mark its second anniversary in June, has been asked by D.C. Comics Inc. to give up his publication's name.

'Whatever success we've been having has nothing to do with the Superman story or movie," Vint

But Michael Davis, an attorney for the Warner Communications Inc. subsidiary which owns the only category in which Superman trademark, said in a letter that the firm may go to court if the name is not dropped. Vint, who says the tabloid format news magazine is paying its bills but is not making money, said "I completely disagree with the contention that we are infringing on trademark privileges.

Dean Rusk recalls playing 'village idiot' on China policy

By BARRY SCHWEID

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) - Dean Rusk, reminiscing about his life in politics, recalls the day John F. Kennedy told him the New Frontier would not recognition," Rusk remembered. change what was then a hard-line U.S. policy toward So Rusk went back to the State Department and, as he puts it now, "played the role of the village idiot" whenever he was approached by colleagues about easing the freeze between Washington and Peking. More than a decade later, a Republican president, Richard M. Nixon, cracked the ice, and on Jan. 1,

Jimmy Carter extended diplomatic recognition. But Rusk, the former secretary of state who marks question at all. his 70th birthday Friday, said in an interview that S. policy on China could not have been changed by the Democratic Kennedy and Johnson administrations in which he served. 'When I look back over the China question, and the role that has been played by the two major political parties, it seems to me that the Republicans earned the right to find an answer to the China question," Rusk observed. "My guess is that if President Kennedy had gone off to Peking, he would have been lacerated by the Republicans, including Richard Nixon. Sometimes there are things that one party can do that another party can't." Rusk recalled reviewing the options on China with Kennedy in 1961 when the Democrats took power.

"He had in front of him a nearly unanimous resolution that Congress had passed two or three years earlier, strongly objecting to any change in the Chinese seat at the U.N. and on the matter of

"On the day before the inauguration, President Eisenhower said to him, 'I will try to support you as much as I can on foreign policy matters, but on one matter I will have to oppose you, strongly and publicly, and that would have to be on a Chinese seat

"So President Kennedy, who was rather cautious in selecting the items on which he was prepared to do battle, decided he did not want to open up the

"As I was leaving the office, he said, 'What's more, Mr. Secretary, I don't want to read ton Post or The New York Times that the State Department is thinking about a change in the China

"So I went back to the department, and when people like Adlai Stevenson and Chester Bowles and others came to talk about China, I-just played the role of the village idiot.

"I didn't tell them about my talk with the president because we would be reading that in The Washington Post or The New York Times.

And yet, while Rusk clearly approves of the Nixon and Carter moves on China, he is apprehensive about any suggestion of setting Moscow and Peking against each other.

That, he says, would be "kid-stuff."
"I don't, myself, believe that anyone should supose we can play a childish game of maneuver between the Chinese and the Russians. "I've seen references to 'playing the China card'

"Both in Moscow and in Peking they are much too intelligent to let us get away with that kind of game. And I hope we will be intelligent enough not to let either one of them maneuver us against the other." Rusk is here at the University of Georgia, in his home state, teaching a course in international law and tutoring students. After eight years of directing foreign policy in Washington, he says he feels "an exhilirating sense of liberation" to be removed from the power and the

"My view is that when you're out, you're out," he said, chain-smoking cigarettes in his cramped office at the Rusk center. "Younger and better people should take responsibility for these matters.'

And yet Rusk is not without opinions about China, the Soviet Union, Southeast Asia, the Middle East and other global topics.

He says that despite some fundamental differences of view with Moscow, "we and they have a massive common interest, that is, the prevention of World War III." Having gone down the line in support of a hard-line policy in Southeast Asia, he would rather not be vindicated by Vietnam's domination of the area. "No one," he said, "could want the kind of justification that would come from the survivors of World War III looking at each other and saying, 'Gee, those fellows In the Middle East, he expects "further tensions" with Israel and, perhaps, Egypt, before they con-clude a peace treaty. "But," he said, "if that should happen, it will be the first significant step toward peace in 30 years."

As he talked, easily, for more than an hour, Rusk was reticent about only one subject, Iran.

Professor facing dismissal for practicing hypnosis on campus

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) - A professor facing dismissal for practicing hypnosis on campus will try it one more time today before the trustees of Manatee Junior College as they consider his case.

"We're going to recreate the dastardly offense," attorney Don Hadsock said after a dismissal hearing

Wednesday for his client, suspended Professor Arlie Lincks. "We are going to do it so the board can see exactly how ridiculous these whole proceedings

During the demonstration, to take place today, Lincks will attempt to hypnotize a woman instructor and evoke details about her childhood, Hadsock said. Lincks performed the same demonstration in November and contends that it is the source of s current troubles with the college's president, Dr.

Lincks, who has been an engineering professor at Manatee for 17 years, was suspended in December after Wetzler accused him of insubordination for continuing to practice hypnosis on students. Wetzler recommended that the white-haired teacher be fired for repeatedly refusing to obey his orders.

"We're not here to oppose hypnosis," said Wetzler's lawyer, Floyd Prince. "It boils down to one question. Simply, whether Mr. Lincks is guilty of gross insubordination for doing what he was told not to do at Manatee Junior College. And if so, we ask Lincks admits that he continued to give classroom demonstrations of hypnosis. But he maintains that the orders to stop came solely from Wetzler and never represented the trustees' official policy.

Pope's journey produces interesting, comic notes

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) -Confetti from the pages of a reporter's notebook found along the pilgrim path of a pope in Mexico:

-Some 3,000 writers, photographers, broadcasters and TV crews applied for credentials to follow Pope John Paul II on his historic journey in Mexico. In media language, this is known as a "group groupie

-In Santo Domingo, the first stop on his first trip outside Italy, the pope blessed the crowds from a mechanized platform that looked like a stripped-down bowl parade float. The vehicle was dubbed "the popemobile"by news honchos trying to keep track of the papal procession by wal-kie-talkie radios. When preceded by the two flatbed trucks fitted out with wooden bleachers to accommodate photographers, the three vehicles were designated the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria

-Mexican laws that separated church and state still forbid wearing clerical garb in public. The pope, as a distinguished if unofficial visitor, wore his white cassock everywhere. This encouraged hundreds of priests and nuns to appear on the downtown streets in religious garb. Years before his arrival, however, many young priests had adopted a mod improvised habit of dark slacks and a light turtleneck sweater, topped off by a black beret.

-Unfortunately, the karate team turned out by the security people to handle crowd control during the pope's visit also wore black slacks and berets and white turtlenecks, but their manners were hardly those of a doctor of divinity. The rugged hombres were nicknamed the "papal bulldozers" for the brisk way they karate-chopped a path for the motorcade through the masses of humanity. Reporters and photographers who insisted on holding their ground as the procession approached usually wound up credentials over-tea kettle from an adroitly administerd chop in the gizzard. Even a formidable physique like mine was Jello in their hands or rather at the side of their hands.

-In Guadalajara, a soccer stadium full of labor union members cheered Juan Pablo Segundo, as the Mexican called him. Four decades ago, on July 31, 1926, this same city saw the start of the only nationwide priests strike in the history of the Catholic Church. Angered at the strict enforcement of anti-clerical laws that brought about the deportation of 200 foreign priests, the native clergy refused for three years to say Mass, perform marriages or conduct other services.

-Besides politics and the revolution, earthquakes and shifting foundations have helped bring the old

Spanish church to its knees in Mexico. In the square by the new Basilica of our Lady of Guadalupe, in Mexico City, three old mission style churches teeter at precarious angles and lean on each other for support like the old invalids who come from all over the world seeking a cure at the shrine. Hydraulic jacks have been installed beneath the old basilica to keep it from disappearing beneath the

-In anti-clerical but overwhelmingly Catholic (93 per cent) Mexico, the pope was greeted everywhere with enthusiasm sometimes bordering on fanaticism. Wherever he visited, security guards remained on duty all night to keep the faithful from ripping up the paving stones he had trod for relics and souvenirs.

-Thousands of gringos, including a number of Polish Americans flew south of the border to see the Pope. In downtown Monterrey they shouted 'Viva la papa.'' Their message must have amazed him as much as their fervor, since they were shouting 'Long live the potato" instead of long live the Pope, which is "viva el

-All ages, races, classes and professions waited long hours to catch a glimpse of the first pope ever to visit Mexico. In Mexico City's Zocalo, the cathedral square that is not far from the red light district, a lady of the evening put on her Sunday best dress and a broad-brimmed bonnet covered with imitation roses to see the pope pass by. She identified herself with a cardboard sign "Mariamagdalena."
