COMING SUNDAY

Mexican Oil Surge

An oil boom in Mexico seems likely to have ramifications in the Permian Basin. Is the "Mexico surge" going to benefit or hurt local companies? Or will the effect be minimal? Staff writer Mark Vogler's article — will appear in Sunday's Reporter-Telegram.

Drainage Difficulties

Some say drainage problems in Midland have not always been resolved in the best manner. The city engineer reviews the background on drainage difficulties in the Tall City and discusses alternatives for future work in a story set for Sunday.

Different Collections

Sometimes deliberately, sometimes by accident, the collectors of this world began accumulating private museums. Sunday's West Texas Life reveals four Midlanders with very different collections, including one most people don't want to talk about.

The Rowan brothers were admitted to the Hall of Fame as a team. Their Rowan Drilling Co. #### New Iran regime gets U.S. recognition WASHINGTON (AP) — The United power passed from the shah to Prime ister Andrei A. Gromyko. Usually, diplomatic discussions are Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar and then States today granted full diplomatic recognition to the new Khomeini government in Iran and accused the Soviet Union of spreading anti-American propaganda there

Soviet broadcasts and other unspe cified actions in Iran could damage relations between Washington and Moscow as well has have a negative effect on Iran itself, the State Department said.

The decision to accept the government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini as in control of Iran has the practical effect of withdrawing recognition of the Shah of Iran as head of state. The shah left Iran Jan. 16 for what is expected to be permanent exile.

William H. Sullivan, the U.S. ambassador in Tehran, "has relayed to the government in Iran our intention to maintain diplomatic relations with that government," department spokesman Hodding Carter said. This is the formal declaration that our relations do continue.

Carter said Sullivan had requested a meeting with Prime Minister Mehdi

The State Department's announcement came as the United States prepared to evacuate 800 Americans from Iran Saturday aboard at least two airliners chartered from Pan American World Airways. The Khomeini government has promised to cooperate.

U.S. officials expressed concern that Iranian leftists might try to disrupt the evacuation. "There are a lot of losse guns around," said one State Department official who asked not to be identified.

'Great progress,' reports Carter

MEXICO CITY (AP) - President Carter wound up a troubled three-day visit here today claiming "great progress" and announcing that a new U.S. Mexico summit is planned soon.

But Carter's goodwill visit left unresolved the basic problems dividing the two nations - energy, trade and illegal migration. The strains caused by those issues had Carter and Mexico's President Jose Lopez Portillo lecturing each other publicly during the visit.

The troubles continued right to the end, with Lopez Portillo saying in a midnight exchange of toasts that poor Mexicans are often treated like slaves in the United States

Carter, conceding that solutions will take years to find, announced that working groups would be set up to continue negotiations.

Addressing Mexican legislators, Carter said he would meet Mexico's President Jose Lopez Portillo "very soon," probably this summer. Mexinever broke relations with Iran as co's foreign minister Santiago Roel said later the meeting would take place somethere in the United States.

Carter said newfound oil and gas riches in time will provide the solution to the migrant problem by lifting the Mexican standard of living closer to that of the United States. In the meantime, he said he will enforce U.S. immigration laws "as fairly and as humanely as I can" and would "protect the basic human rights of all people within the borders of my country. That remark drew applause from the legislators, who applauded again when Carter praised Mexico's liberator Benito Juarez as "one of the greatest figures in the history of human liberty.

After the address, Carter boarded Air Force One at Mexico City's Benito Juarez airport and began the flight back to Washington. Carter's visit was troubled right up to the end by public disagreements

In a midnight exchange of toasts Lopez Portillo said his countrymen often "have to sell themselves" in the United States, but Carter insisted 'The people of the United States are fair and decent people...in dealing with people of other nations.'

Carter told the Mexican legislators that a "common vision of the future" had begun to emerge from the talks with Lopez Portillo, but conceded that difficult problems remain in the areas of trade, energy and migration that will take years to resolve.

Carter's goodwill visit got off to a shaky start with a relatively cool public welcome Wednesday, when

Rain possibly mixed with snow or Midland's 1978 crime hit hardest in the homes

By MARK VOGLER Staff Writer

Midland's crime was felt hardest in the home during 1978 as residential burglaries hit a record high, according to city figures released Thursday by Police Chief Wayne Gideon.

Meanwhile, the number of rape cases went from 15 in 1977 to 19 in

There were 395 house break-ins reported last year, 135 more than in the previous year and two more than the record set in 1971.

Overall, crime in Midland cost its victims nearly $500,000 more during 1978 than in the previous year, according to the 26-page report presented to Midland City Council.

Property loss of residential burglaries amounted to $315,748 compared to $261,123 during the previous year. Of the property stolen from homes. only $77,088 was recovered while $139, 732 in property had been recovered in

Officials of the police department's Crime Prevention Unit have said a major emphasis will be placed on a campaign this year to educate city residents on crime prevention at home, largely because of the dramat-probably more housewives are working now than in past years. More than half of the burglaries occur during daylight hours.

The police department currently offers at no charge to the homeowner a residential security inspection in which the Crime Prevention Unit examines a home to spot places which are most vulnerable to break-ins.

After the inspection, police officers advise homeowners on what precautions can be taken to make the home a more difficult target for burglars.

The crime report also noted that auto theft cost Midlanders $789,471 or more than half of the total $1,-552.959 in property loss during 1978.

There were 214 auto thefts reported, an increase of 59 over the previous

While the total number of robberies (25) was three less than in 1977, the amount of property taken in the incidents reached $20,608 - an increase of almost $8,000.

There were 547 theft incidents reported in 1978, resulting in a total property loss valued at $427,132 compared to $265,723 the previous year. Of the property stolen in theft incidents, $115,035 was recovered. Police

Oil crisis costs Texans more than anyone else

By LINDA HILL

The current national energy situation is "more expensive to each Texan...than (to) any people on earth." Attorney General Mark White said in Midland Thursday

White spoke to district judges at the West Texas Judicial Conference in the Midland Hilton. The attorney general accused the federal government of promoting

"regionalism," and setting one area of the country against others. White promised to fight the inequities visited on Texas on several

First, he pledged to continue a suit begun_before he took office against the federal natural gas pricing bill, which regulates intrastate gas prices. The new attorney general also promised to pursue means to cut down the price of coal from Montana and Wyoming.

'There are very few people in Montana who voted in these elections,' said White, referring to his campaign promise to sue Montana on its 30 percent severance tax on coal.

"It's worked pretty well so far, so we will continue to sue Montana every chance we get," White quipped. However, the city of Austin and the Lower Colorado River Authority already have filed that suit against Montana. White said he has joined in that suit, and will file a separate one if necessary to protect the interest of the entire state. In a related area, he said Texas also will try to block an increase in the cost of shipping coal from Montana to Texas from $6 to $16 a ton. That increase exceeds all inflation control guidelines, he contended, and is not justified as "reasonable return on investment," either. In fact, he added, customers in Texas had to purchase the railroad cars to get the coal down to Texas. White also pledged to take other action as it becomes appropriate to try to stop federal "over-regulation" of energy industries.

After his speech, White said a decision on whether Texas should try to find a way to collect a larger proportionate share of energy taxes from out-of-state customers is up to the Legislature. Gov. William P. Clements has proposed a natural gas export tax. "I don't think it's right to set one state against another. We've got an American problem," said White. The new attorney general, who took

Solons favor bypassing federal rationing plans

charged The senator, in proposing a National Emergency Energy Production

Deregulation of the price of all domestically produced crude oil,

Act, said the legislation should in-phased over three years. Immediate deregulation of the price of newly-discovered domestic natural gas.

- IMMEDIATE FIVE-YEAR suspension of the promulgation and enforcement of nonessential regulations related to crude oil and natural gas exploration, production and distribu-

Consolidation of all federal oil and gas drilling and pipeline permitting authority in a single agency with automatic permit approval unless denied within 30 days of filing.

- Retroactive institution of full first-year depreciation of all costs for equipment made necessary under federal or state environmental regu-

- Institution of full first-year depreciation of the cost of equipment giving at least a 10 percent increase in energy conversion efficiency.

'The passage of such emergency legislation related to oil, natural gas, and conservation would encourage a rapid increase in domestic supply and would generate the investment capital necessary to undertake such an increase." Schmitt said

HE NOTED that as a geologist he is confident "these measures for encouraging the domestic oil and gas industry would rapidly begin the discovery and production of an undiscovered resource base of at least 300 billion barrels of oil and 700 trillion cubic feet of natural gas, not including secondary or tertiary recovery or our immense geopressured methane

"That would provide several decades of low cost supply while we develop alternatives as fast as we can, but without the threat to national survival we now face.

The former astronaut warned that "the Congress should not allow federally administered rationing or allocations until it is clear that the market place and increased domestic producton cannot handle foreign supply interruptions, such as that related to Iran. I know of no evidence that the Department of Energy could handle rationing or allocations any better than the market place, in fact, all evidence is to the contrary."

Before presenting his proposals for a National Emergency Energy Production Act, the senator criticized the U.S. for its failure to devise a true national energy policy.

"How a country with the resources and technology of the United States could have let things get so fouled up is beyond me," he said. "Without the existence of a true energy policy and a commitment to its implementation, the solution to our other problems is impossible."

He attributed over-priced foreign oil and gas as major contributors to the crippling inflation that infects the nation's economy

DEPENDENCY ON UNCERTAIN foreign supplies of oil makes it impossible to conduct a rational Middle Eastern policy or to bargain from a position of strength on other international issues, he said.

"Dependency on foreign supplies of oil and susceptibility to the loss of those supplies severely compromise the defense options of this country,'

He pointed out that unreasonable regulatory restrictions on the production and use of natural gas and nuclear power are "preventing the protection and enhancement of our environmental heritage.

"Inadequate and uncoordinated research and development of more efficient energy conversion systems and new energy sources is prolonging the number of years we will face the peril of a catastrophic interruption of energy imports," he warned.

Schmitt said oil imports have increased from 28 percent of the nation's requirements in 1973 to about 50 percent in 1979.

"Our bill for these over-priced im ports will be about $45 billion in 1979," he said. "This is an intolerable drain on our capital resources as well as on our personal pocketbooks."

THE REPUBLICAN SENATOR added that "the development of new domestic energy capacity whether in oil, gas, coal or nuclear is in a regulatory shambles. Our sources of foreign supply and those of our potential allies are under increasing threat of Soviet domination or neutralization.

"And, worst of all, the Carter Administration seems incapable of understanding or analyzing the quantitative and economic facts of energy supply or of honestly reporting those facts to the American people or the Congress

U.S. military secrets in hands of Iranians

officials, who refuse to be identified WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite administration assurances, some U.S. officials say they are convinced key U.S. military technology in Iran has been compromised during the chaos there in recent weeks.

These officials acknowledge they have no firm evidence, but say it must be assumed vital American military secrets are in the hands of dissident

The officials say the Soviet KGB intelligence service long has been active in Iran, next door to Russia, and that they believe some of the Iranian groups in the fragmented revolutionary structure have links with the Soviets.

Almost like a litany, Defense and State Department spokesmen answer questions daily about 78 U.S.-supplied F-14 fighters and their Phoenix missiles by saying, "We believe that the planes and equipment are safely in the hands of the Iranian air force, which is the representative of the government that owns them.' But some deeply concerned U.S.

by name, challenged the basis for such statements. They say the Iranian air force was the first to disintegrate as an effective military organization. The Iranian army, too, has virtually fallen apart, they said.

Sources said a major cause for concern is the whereabouts of technical manuals on the F-14, its Phoenix missile system and highly-sensitive electronic devices. Such manuals, it was said, would be invaluable in learning about the systems. The fear among U.S. officials is that the Soviets will acquire, through leftist Iranian dissidents, enough knowledge of the F-14 to devise ways of defeating it.

The F-14 has the unique capability of firing missiles simultaneously at as many as six separate targets. Each of the missiles has a range of more than 100 miles. The plane is regarded by the U.S. Navy as essential to air defense of the fleet.

The UFW negotiating team is headed by union leader Cesar Chavez.

Roland Kemp, SunHarvest's executive vice president, said Chavez sought the meeting. "Our primary objective is to get the conflict out of the fields and back to the negotiating table," he said.

Last week, Chavez threatened a national boycott if growers did not ease their bargaining stance. A boycott also would affect United Brands - a huge food-growing, processing and sales conglomerate that includes Chiquita bananas, Morrell meats and the A&W fast-food chain.

Growers' spokesman Fred Karger said his group feels SunHarvest is "trying to stave off a possible boycott by the UFW

'Card counters' winning big at blackjack

By CAROLE FELDMAN

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - For income tax purposes, Kenneth S. Uston describes himself as an "applied probability analyst."

Uston is a professional gambler — a card counter who wins at blackiack by keeping track of the cards played.

For the ex-senior vice president of the Pacific Stock Exchange, gambling is a business with employees, schedules, wage incentives and lots of capital.

As any enterprising businessman might do when there's new territory to conquer, Uston brought his blackjack teams here, hoping to capitalize on this resort's entry into casino gam-

The Resorts International Hotel Casino was quick to feel Uston's touch after he and his teams spent nine days there. Uston estimated his winning at Resorts International averaged between $700 and $900 an hour.

Raymond M. Gore, Restorts International's senior vice president for finance, says casino revenues dropped 8 percent in January for an average daily win of $439,638.

Gore attributed the decrease to card counters who had been playing the casino's blackjack tables. "All other aspects of our casino operations held up well," he says.

To kidnappers: Let us meet you

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - We have an urgent message for the kidnappers of William Niehous, the Owens-Illinois executive who was seized at gunpoint in his Caracas home by Venezuelan guerrillas three years ago.

The message is this; do not let the recent killing of Pedro Celestino Calcurian, known among the guerrillas as "Commander Tuqueque," keep you from contacting and release.

Calcurian, a reputed guerrilla leader, died in a shootout with Venezuelan police a few months ago. On his body, say our sources, they found a snapshot of Niehous' three sons at their Caracas-swimming pool taken years ago. The dead man could have obtained the snapshot only from

We have received no word from the kidnappers since that shootout, and it's possible they feel the need of reassurance from us. We want the guerrillas to know that we are still willing to go anywhere in the world to meet with their representatives, and that we act independently of the Venezuelan and United States governments - or, for that matter, the Owens-Illinois company.

Our only contact in this matter is Donna Niehous, who with her three sons waits in never-ending anxiety at their home in Ohio, hoping for word of her husband and praying for his safe

We reported in earlier columns how the guerrillas' attempts to contact Owens-Illinois to negotiate Niehous' ransom were thwarted by mischance.

After reading our accounts, the kidnappers secretly contacted us to ask if we were willing to become part of the negotiations.

Assured that we were willing, the guerrillas recently provided us with solid proof that Niehous was still alive as recently as last May 8.

We believe the 48-year-old American businessman is still alive: we hope the kidnappers will overcome their suspicions and renew their contact with us. We will resume them at a time and place of their

The son, a 25-year-old Navy flyer. was hit by Viet Cong ground fire in July 1965, and his Crusader jet exploded in flames. No remains were ever found Under VA rules, his mother could obtain a free memorial marker - but only to be placed in a national, local or private cemetery. "There is no authority under which a memorial marker may be furnished for installation outside of these areas," the VA advised Mrs. Carr.

What Mrs. Carr wanted was to have a memorial marker placed on the wall of the ROTC building at! Notice Dame, her son's aima matter. Site rejected the VA's offer to provide a marker for a cemetery on the South Bend campus where faculty mentions and special students are turried.

"It makes no sense to have a memorial over an empty grave," sine explained to us. "It would be a bollow gesture without any meaning. Il know they have to have rules; that Ifm not going to desecrate the hoster II'm

From what we learned from once WA source, Mrs. Carr's only mistakle was letting the agency know what site planned to do with the memorial marker. This source said the WA sends out the markers by the ousands, and never cheetiss whether the cemetery-only rule is observed.

By recognizing what the customers' needs and wants are, Bell Telephone 'will be able to do a better job. We'll update our technology and find out what the customer feels he needs,"

In this reorganization, Bell Tele-phone will be spending about $1.002 billion in Texas.

"Texas is the second largest growing state for our service. It ranks behind California," the vice president

For the first time, Bell will be in the arena of competition against all the smaller firms trying to take business away from the "mother" company. As a result, the firm will focus not only on telephones; but will enter the world of "telecommunications," Todd Interconnecting telephone companies are providing competition and may give more, heat in the future if the government deregulates the system as it did the airplance industry, according to Todd.

Texas "is standing on its own two feet" within the Bell system and will be more of an entity in the near future, he predicted.

"The growth in Texas is astronomical," Todd noted. "We just passed the eight million mark on number of phones. The forecasts are that Texas is going straight up.

"And Midland enjoys a reputation throughout the state as being very rich," the Bell vice president said, adding that the city always comes up in a conversation at meetings.

Henryetta upholds dance ban

HENRYETTA, Okla. (AP) — The City Council has voted 3-2 against rescinding this north-eastern Oklahoma city's controversial ban on public dancing despite legal advice that it probably won't withstand coming court tests.

A proposal drawn up by City Attorney Ernest Smith would have scrapped the 1957 ordinance and replaced it with another that would have established strict licensing provisions regulating the establishment of public dance halls in the community.

Smith also told the council his research indicated the current ordinance "will be ruled unconstitutional or invalid and overturned when it comes up for consideration in City Court later this month."

The dance ban drew strong public endorsement in an advisory referendum last fall and the council voted not to repeal

The showdown on the ordinance is expected later this month when trial is scheduled for Gary Moores and James Whitman, who are charged with sponsoring separate dances last fall in violation of the ordi-

Americans rediscovering barter

By TIMOTHY HARPER

MADISON, Wis. (AP) - Doug Bradley isn't looking for any bargains like swapping $24 worth of beads for Manhattan Island, but that won't keep him from doing what he can to help promote a barter

"Everybody has something they can give and there's always something they need," said Bradley, who is trying to set up a community barter center here.

Whether it's a dentist trading fillings to a bricklay-Americans are rediscovering barter, Bradley said.

The current resurgence, he said, is born of inflation and unemployment, much as it was during the Depression era "barter boom" when swap systems and exchange centers became the economic heart of many rural towns and big city neighbor-

"Barter is a system whose time has come and gone and come again," Bradley said.

He said barter can help anyone in these days of the incredible shrinking dollar, but it is particularly practical for the unemployed, underemployed and those on fixed incomes.

Bradley, who said he hopes to trade janitorial services for office space so his planned nonprofit swap center can open in a couple months, has collected examples of working barter systems,

Dawson County having trouble keeping someone in JP post

LAMESA — Dawson County commissioners have had a hard time finding someone who will stay put in the area's justice of the peace job.

John Parchman, elected to the position in a fiveway write-in contest, announced earlier this week he was withdrawing from the job after 42 days.

Fred Vera, runner-up to Parchman in the election last fall, announced he was upset because commissioners didn't call him this week to determine if he was still interested in the job.

Parchman resigned Monday in an executive session of the Dawson County Commissioners Court. During the same session K.D. Smith, 70, retired North Elementary School principal, was appointed as the new justice of the peace.

But Smith withdrew immediately after the announcement "to avoid any possible litigation against the commissioners.'

Just before noon Wednesday, attorneys for Leon Cohorn and Dale Newberry, Dawson County's Democratic and Republican chairman, asked commissioners to declare Monday's executive session and Smith's appointment void in violation of the public notice requirements of the Open Meetings Law or they would file suit.

Over the past eight months, three people have held the position of peace justice in Dawson County. They include Barbara Harris, appointed to serve on an interim basis until the November election, plus Parchman and now Smith.

Richard Don Nelson, peace justice until last July, was suspended in connection with a criminal matter, tried and convicted. He now is serving a prison

Meanwhile, Dawson County commissioners plan a 10 a.m. Monday meeting at which they intend to consider all qualified applicants for the peace justice

Parchman said in submitting his resignation, "I'm not at ease at doing the job. Expansion of the small claims court has added an enormous workload, and though I feel I could do the job... I feel it best to step Parchman received 1,535 votes in the November election to Vera's 1,373 votes.

Dawson County Commissioners Court Judge Leslie Pratt said Thursday: "John Parchman has turned in his resignation effective as soon as we can find a replacement for him. He said he couldn't be happy in Judge Pratt also said Parchman formerly was an oil distributor in the Lamesa area and that he owns some farmland in the vicinity.

"He doesn't have to work," said Pratt.

Parchman will, however, remain active in his job until a replacement is announced, perhaps on Monday, said Pratt.

The news farmers got Thursday from Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland wasn't good either.

Bergland told another House panel that talks among wheat producers have ended in Geneva, Switzerland, without agreement on new international wheat marketing standards that would have raised world wheat prices.

Bergland previously has said that ratification of the pact — which now has been put in limbo for year — might have allowed him to raise wheat

Agriculture Committee Chairman Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., told the last of the farm witnesses Thursday that their friends in Congress don't know yet "what we can effectively do."

The main issues the farmers raised — survival of family farms and the impact of inflation on their business expenses - "are longstanding, troubling issues of public policy that we have tried to wrestle with for many years," Foley said.

The committee has scheduled three days of hearings next week to hear views on farm programs from other groups and the general public.

About 150 protesters booed Bergland when he told the appropriations subcommittee that high wheat price supports would mean "wheat coming out of our ears.'

Besides, Bergland said, a provision of the 1977 farm bill prohibits him from raising price supports

een-age tathers need love, too

By MICHAEL SCOTT-BLAIR Copley News Service

Teen-age boys who make teen-age girls pregnant are often unjustly villainized as being inconsiderate, thoughtless and uncaring, according to a survey of nearly 50 teen-age fathers.

Ninety-nine percent of the concern and attention in teen-age pregnancies is lavished on the mother and child mostly the mother - while the young father is cast aside as a cavalier wretch who enjoyed the pleasures of the moment and cared nothing for the responsibilities, the research indicates. But that is untrue and unfair. Teenage fathers need love, too, according to Richard D. Pancost, executive director of the 'Children's Home Society of America.

The society is a California nonprofit agency offering adoption and counseling services to unmarried parents, and family counseling work. The society's two films, "I'm 17, I'm Pregnant ... And I Don't Know What To Do" and "Growing Up

Together: Four Teen Mothers and Their Babies," have circulated schools and service clubs for almost 10 years, but they concentrate on the problems of the mother. "It was the students who made us realize that the fathers have problems which are completely ignored because everyone considered it was only the girl's problem," said Pan-"The young father is caught in a

Catch 22 situation in which society condemns him as being unfeeling, at the same time denying him an opportunity to express his true feelings. "It is not my intent to defend the actions of the adolescent male involved in unplanned and premature pregnancy. Rather, it is to plead for more understanding of the young male involved in such situations. There is very little research on unmarried fathers."

Pancost said in an interview that the fathers of adolescent boys are responsible for much of the sexual confusion in their sons. The society's interviews, he said showed the typical teen-age father to be "close to his own mother who, he felt, knew and understood him. He did not have a close relationship with his father, who rarely had time for him.

"The young man learned about sex from his peers, resented the fact that' his mother discussed sex with his sisters but not with him, and his father only made jokes about the subject," Pancost said.

Joking by fathers is "a cover for their own embarrassment and in-

'We have found the greatest resistance from fathers of teen-age sons in accepting the need and importance of an educational film on unmarried teen-age fathers."

Teen-agers do not get pregnant out of ignorance. They are well informed on preventive measures, but little thought is given to the possibility of pregnancy before they become involved in sexual activity, the survey

Clitsome, 26, began research on her subject in 1977 as president of the "Peak Busters," a group of female runners aged 8 to 64 who work at running up Pikes Peak, a run which starts at the 6,500 foot level and goes to 14,100 feet.

"I studied the women, through psychological tests which measure a person's personality type, to see the way people prefer to interact with the world around them," Clitsome said.

"I'm a running therapist; I work with patients in running therapy, and I know that the physiological route of running has been studied, but not the psychological.

"Maybe not during the running." she said, explaining that the "feeling great" benefits of running usually come later, when the run is completed.

> Mrs Eugene Richardson, newly elcted president of Alpha Kappa Alpha, gave Dr. Morris a plaque on behalf of the club. Morris, also past president of the sorority, received an award for outstanding new graduate member in the sorority's south central region during her first year of membership. The region incudes Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana and Arkansas. Dr. Morris initiated a program of completing one service project each month during her term of leadership.

Ruth Jackson, president of the Social-Lites, presented Dr. Morris an inscribed silver tray from the club. Dr. Morris is a charter member of the Social-Lites and has served the club as president, secretary, business manager, junior club supervisor and treasurer. During her presidency, the club received one of several awards from the Stokes-Parker district for outstanding community service.

Dr. Morris was also recipient of a special award from Callie Mae York of the Community Service Organization for her work in the community. Dr. Morris has been secretary for the Midland Community Day Nursery Board and has been involved in numerous community civic and charity activities.

In addition, a plaque inscribed with the words "We're proud of you" was presented to Dr. Morris by her husband, R. J. Morris, and their children, including Carol, Robert Jr. and

Women charge Army on entrance requirements

WASHINGTON (AP) - Six women service, training and professional opfiled a class action suit today charging that Army entrance requirements are more stringent for women than men and asking that the regulations be declared unconstitutional.

The six women all tried to join the Army, but were turned down because they either scored too low on a women's entrance test or lacked high school diplomas.

The women said the entrance requirements discriminate "against non-high school graduates and lowscoring women on the basis of their sex by denying them the employment, portunities which are available to similarly situated men.

The suit also asks for an injunction to stop enforcement of the entrance requirement; an injunction requiring the Army to process the applications of the six women and a judgment directing the Army to pay the six women and all women similarly rejected for service the earnings and benefits they lost because of the Army's refusal to accept them.

Secretary of Defense Harold Brown and Army Secretary Clifford Alexander were named defendants.

Holbrook, Ross star in top television mystery puzzle

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - If you're a mystery fan you must see "Murder by Natural Causes." Even if you're not, you'll enjoy this movie airing Saturday night on CBS.

It's the twistingest, cleverest, most convoluted conundrum since "Sleuth." Like that play and movie, it's a cat and mouse game - ah, but who is the cat and who is the mouse?

It's a puzzle within a puzzle within a puzzle, down to the surprise ending. It's smooth and stylish, goes down like buttermilk, and has a kick like bourbon.

Hal Holbrook stars as the intended murder victim, a mentalist who's more into show business than wizardry. He's had a heart attack, wears a pacemaker,... and his wife, played by Katharine Ross, hatches a plot to frighten him into a fatal seizure.

Richard Anderson and Barry Bostwick also star in this battle of wits. Anderson is Holbrook's lawyer and business adviser, and Bostwick is Miss Ross' lover and partner in crime - when he's not a

Elvis Costello isn't afraid to take risks

The Los Angeles Times

BERKELEY, Calif. - Hold everything! What's Elvis Costello trying to do — sabotage his career? It seemed foolhardy enough two years ago when he (nee Declan McManus) adopted the sacred Presley first name, a move that could have caused rock audiences ot dismiss him as a kook or opportunist.

But Costello has cleared that hurdle. Already hailed by critics, he is making strong commercial inroads. Even without the helpful exposure of an AM hit yet, his new "Armed Forces" album is in the national Top 20. His current tour is also doing turnaway business.

Costello, a 24-year-old Englishman who looks like a rock equivalent of Woody Allen, mixes the energy of the Bitish new wave with the biting lyrics and commanding viewpoint associated with Bob Dylan and John Lennon. It's a bold, captivating ap-

But even the most adventurous forces in rock normally hedge their bets once mass acceptance seems within their reach. So, the predictable thing for Costello to do on this, his "breakthrough" tour would have been to ease up a bit. The joy of his recent concert at the sold-out, 3,500-seat Berkeley community Center was that Costello did the opposite. He showed even more independence. The result was the most stirring rock performance I've seen since last year's Bruce Springsteen triumphs. Walking on stage without the usual rock star fanfare ("Ladies and gentlemen.. direct from England...rock's hottest new act..."), Costello showed he wasn't even afrad to push the old Elvis association further than his use of the name.

His wardrobe could have been lifted from Presley's Graceland closet two decades ago: a silver lame jacket (Presley wore a gold lame suit in his most famous publicity photo) and baggy, black checkered pants.

Costello's perkiness, however, wasn't limited to his clothes.

Rock audiences usually respond best to familiar material, so even the most confident acts normally avoid using more than two or three tunes from their latest album. And, they always find room for their signature tunes. In Costello's case, the latter would include "Radio, Radio," his anthem-ish atack on conservative AM programming tendencies; "Alison," the beautifully designed ballad that Linda Ronstadt included on her latest album, and "(What's So Funny 'Bout) Peace, Love & Understanding," the track that Columbia Records is eyeing as Costello's next single.

But he didn't do any of them. In fact, he only included six songs from his first two albums in the 19-song, 65-minute set. Nine songs were from "Armed Forces," and four others haven't appeared on any of Costello's U.S. albums.

So, how much did this daring bit of song selection cost Costello in crowd response? Nothing.

and each role is meaty enough to give the performer plenty of leverage. You sense they are having fun, enjoying every delicious diabolical twist, and that fun is transmitted across the screen.

Each actor delivers a tremendous performance,

'Murder by Natural Causes' is from those two masters of mayhem, Richard Levinson and William Link. It is a tightly plotted show that hangs together well, yet offers interesting character studies and intelligent dialogue.

Into the mysteries, Levinson and Link slyly insert a private joke. Bostwick is in a play called "Prescription: Murder." This is the play the pair wrote in the early 1960s that gave birth to the raincoat-clad detective who became Lt. Columbo. In the movie, the play gets panned by the critics.

Holbrook plays a fabulously successful psychic and mentalist who has more tricks up his sleeve than he did in his days as a magician. Part of the joy is seeing how each of his mental feats is accom-

The mentalist says, "Everyone suspects I'm fraud, but they're not quite sure. The possibility that I might be real is what makes it intriguing.'

The role was Holbrook's first for television since the miniseries "The Awakening Land" a year ago. It was his second TV film with Levinson and Link. A few years back, he and Martin Sheen played homosexuals in "That Certain Summer."

"I stopped working last May and started turning down everything so I could sail to Hawaii," said Holbrook, owner of a 40-foot sloop with a fiberglass hull.

He sailed to Hawaii with a crew of two last August, left the boat there and flew back to do this film and other work until December.

Billy Goldenberg gets break to realize dream

NEW YORK (AP) - The late Stanley Wilson ran the music works at Universal TV in Hollywood. He wasn't a Broadway man. But he enabled Billy Goldenberg to realize a dream of composing for Broadway. Billy, a short, pleasant guy with pepper-gray hair, wrote the score of 'Ballroom." The musical is based on a television special for which he also wrote the score, "Queen of the Stardust Ballroom.

But none of it might have happened, he says, had not Stan Wilson given him a chance in TV back in 1967, when he hired him to write music cues, the scores, for TV series, and to arrange and conduct.

'No question, it was the big break," he said, ticking off other now-famed composers Wilson also helped -Henry Mancini, John "Star Wars" Williams, Quincy Jones and Lalo Goldenberg, 42, didn't start his career in Hollywood. He began in his native New York, as a Broadway rehearsal pianist, then as a composer for "An Evening with Mike Nichols and Elaine May.

He also became known as a top writer of dance music for Broadway shows, a specialty apart from the folks who get the major credit for writing the words and tunes sung by the stars of the shows.

But he wanted to write an entire score, not just dance music. So he gave it a try with a workshop musical based on Ray Bradbury's "Dandelion Wine." But nothing Broadway came of it. He was "typed" in dance

"I got pretty depressed, because I'd

When he met Wilson, he confessed he knew zero, nothing about writing

'Stan said, 'It's okay, it's not that hard. You'll learn, no big mystery,' he recalled with a smile. "He said, You just follow me around the lot. You'll help me and I'll help you."

It led to full-fledged scoring for TV dramas, themes for such series as "Kojak" and "Harry O," and scores for films like "Play It Again, Sam" and "Up the Sandbox." In short, suc-

In 1975, another turning point: An assignment to write the score - with Alan and Marilyn Bergman doing the lyrics - for a CBS musical drama starring Maureen Stapleton and Charles Durning.

"I never gave up the dream of doing a musical," Goldenberg said. "I thought, 'Well, if I can't do it in New York, I'll do it in Hollywood.' And that's the way 'Queen of the Stardust Ballroom' happened.'

Lauren Bacall's book carries no false notes

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - There's a spate of new books about one of the most popular subjects of recent years - the movies and the stars who make them. Some of the books:

In "Lauren Bacall By Myself," she reveals to the reading public what her friends have known for years: That Lauren Bacall is a classy lady.

The actress says she wrote her autobiography with no outside help, and it shows. There isn't a false note. The book is surprisingly mellow, considering Bacall's frequently tart tongue. (Did you see her fluster Dick Cavett in a recent interview?)

She has little ill to write of anyone. She gives her father a few knocks for walking out on the family. She respected her possesive mentor, Howard Hawks, though his anti-semetic remarks frightened her (he didn't know she was Jewish). Although Jack L. Warner treated her and the rest of his stars shabbily, she only says he "was one of the most ill-at-ease human beings I'd ever encountered.

Yet Bacall can call a spade a spade. She writes that Frank Sinatra "behaved like a complete s---" after having planned marriage with the widow Bogart. He not only abandoned the idea but was able to ignore her totally when they met at a party. Even so, she says that she and Sinatra are now somewhat friends, adding: "I'll always have a special feeling for him the good times we had were awfully mentaries by her husband, mother, sister, etc.

The device worked with "Doris Day: Her Own Story," which offered a number of revelations. But, except for her much publicized "romance" with Cary Grant (was he serious or simply excercising the Grant charm?), there is little surprise in Loren's story. Perhaps that is because she has always been free to discuss her illegitimacy, the harsh times during the war, the scandal of her romance with Carlo Ponti, etc.

The Wasps' dominate Lithuanian disco scene

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. (AP) — By day, they are housewives. But at night, the six women slip into sequined blouses or tight jeans and turn into "The Wasps," Lithuania's all-female pop rock band.

The group is the main attraction at the Aerfortas restaurant-discotheque, one of the hottest nightspots in this Lithuanian capital. Romantic cellar restaurants in the old quarter. easy-going coffee bars and cafes and a lively disco life help wile away the hours on cold and snowy Baltic winter nights.

On the Aerfortas dance floor, young couples in Saturday night fever garb are twisting and dipping with the sounds of The Wasps, who play everything from Abba to Boney M to the Beatles.

And what do their husbands do while The Wasps are at work? "They watch hockey games on television all night long," said 26-year-old drummer Luda, who sports a modish-looking pageboy hairdo. "That keeps them busy and then we don't have to worry about them.' The Wasps range in age from piano-player Louisa, 47, to bass guitarist Larissa, 19. Vita, 25 plays the flute, Lida, 26, the organ and band-leader Jurate, 43, accompanies on the violin. The group was formed seven years ago when Jurate decided to get together several women whom she knew from music school and form a band. But as older members dropped out and younger ones came aboard, their music became more and more rock 'n' roll in sound.

It is also a sign of the times here, since the Baltic states usually lead the rest of the Soviet Union in adopting Western trends because of the region's proximity to Europe and Scandinavia.

Even two years ago, Western rock music was forced underground by Soviet authorities worried about its "decadent" influence on young people. But now, the official press has stopped denouncing pop and is dancing along with the rest of the nation.

Town's unrecognized cold makes 'weatherman' hot

OLD FORGE, N.Y. (AP) — Every morning Daryl Carman bundles up and trudges out in waist-deep snow to check his weather instruments in this frigid Adirondacks mountain hamlet.

And time and again in his 12 years of dutifully reporting to the National Weather Service, Carman's thermometers have shown that Old Forge was the coldest place in the nation, such as this week when the mercury hovered at almost 50 below zero.

But the television weathermen always give the credit to some other town, and Carman is getting hot under the collar about it all.

The problem is, the weather service says a town must have a population of at least 1,000 to be an official reporting station. Old Forge had only 850 at the time of the last census in 1970.

"What the devil have I been doing this for 12 years for if this is not an official station?" asks Carman, a policemen in this town which has more snowmobiles than cars in the winter.

On two successive days this week Carman reported readings of minus 48 and minus 47, but still no mention in the national news. "That's when I got a little hot under the collar," said Carman, who gets no pay for his

But there is a good chance that Old Forge will find its place in the news reports. When Carman started complaining this week, the weather serchange the status of Old Forge to an official station.

But counting the number of people in Old Forge could depend on when you do the counting.

During the snow season, the town is teeming with snowmobile enthusiasts taking advantage of about 500 miles of well-groomed trails. "There's more snowmobiles than cars on a weekend here," Carman said.

In the summer, it's a typical mountain resort, luring tourists to the surrounding mountains, lakes and campsites.

"I'd just as soon not have the publicity myself, but if the town has the low in the nation, then let's get the recognition."

Ongoing fight in Ireland takes toll on language

By ED BLANCHE

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - "Going for your tea." In Belfast that can mean being dragged out by a terrorist punishment squad to get a bullet in the legs.

The chilling ghetto euphemism originated from a dockland cafe in Belfast where Protestant "hard men" have carried out the grisley punishment known as "kneecapping."

It's part of a macabre language in Northern Ireland that has grown out of a decade of sectarian violence and is used by feuding Protestants and Roman Catholics to describe their conflict in a unique way.

The arcane argot is incomprehensible to an

An example overheard in a Belfast bar: "Jimmy was lifted by the Huns after he'd ventilated a Stickie. But he was always a cowboy. The sojjers came up in a pig and found his piece and some blowey gear in Translation: Jimmy (a member of the Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing) was picked up by the British army after he had shot a member of the IRA's rival Official wing. But he always was trigger happy. The soldiers came up in an armored personnel carrier and found his gun and some explosives in his car.

The almost exclusively Catholic Provisionals are fighting a guerrilla war to force the British out of Protestant-dominated Ulster and reunite it with the neighboring Irish Republic, which is overwhelmingly Catholic. Ireland was partitioned in 1922.

Catholics disparagingly call British soldiers "Huns," "Japs" or "Brits." Getting "ventilated" means stopping a bullet and a "Stickie" is a member of the IRA's Marxist-oriented "official" wing, the nationalist Provisionals' ideological enemies. They frequently shoot each other up.

'Cowboys" are the trigger-happy extremists on either side of the rogue gunslingers, that guerrilla chieftains find hard to control.

To be sure, Belfast has often resembled Dodge City or Tombstone in their wildest days. The Irish Republican Socialist Party, (IRSP) another IRA faction, is colloquially known as the "Earps," a play on their initials and derived from the name of one of the Old West's legendary gunfighter, Wyatt "pig" is ghetto slang for a military armored personnel carrier, symbol of what many Catholics consider an army of occupation. A "piece,"

a "rod" or a "shooter" is a gun.
"Blowey gear" is what the IRA calls explosives, either gelignite or "co-op mix," the deadly home-made mixture terrorists use when they can't get Bombs are often unstable and their handlers inexperienced and some have blown themselves up. The army terms a terrorists' death this way as an "own goal" - a soccer term for a player putting the ball in his own team's net to score for the other side.

The slang echoes the black humor of Belfast's Victorian slums and betrays a cynical acceptance of the brutal realities of life in Ulster — the daily tension, the terror of a gunfight or an army raid, the spirit-sapping grind of unemployment. Some other examples of this lurid lexicon:

-A "head job" means a bullet in the back of the head, a standard terrorist method for executing "touts," meaning informers or anyone who gets in

-"Branchmen" are plainclothes agents of the Royal Ulster Constabulary's Special Branch, the IRA's traditional nemisis in the province.

A news correspondent once was told that an IRA contact he wanted to interview had "gone a wee message." That meant he was out doing anything from holding up a neighborhood grocery store to planning a "snipe," ambushing an army

Like many innocuous-seeming words. "Romper Room," the title of a children's TV show, has come to have a more sinister meaning. In Belfast parlance, a "romper room" is where the hea-vies of the ultra-Protestant Ulster Defense Association allegedly torture captives.

Even standard English words have new meanings after years of bloodshed. Belfast police have become so hardened to sectarian brutaility and killings that one detective described a recent fatal stabbing during a drunken Saturday night brawl as

They had practiced and practiced after receiving an invitation to hoof it with other bands and then attend the rodeo.

Then school officials said Wednesday there would be no marching in any parade. Kirby principal David Smolik said there is a school

When asked who made the decision to deny participation in the parade, Smolik answered, "I'm not resing to comment as your market."

Dear Dr. Solomon: Has there really been a substantial increase in the number of teen-age pregnancies, or is there simply more publicity about them? Are most of these pregnancies accidental or deliberate?-Mrs. L.I.

Dear Mrs. T.: The answer to your first question is "both." A question is great deal has been written recently about the problem of teen-age pregnancies, largely because they have reached epidemic proportions.

On the basis of two surveys they conducted, Drs. Melvin Zelnik and John F. Kantner, Johns Hopkins University sociologists, reported that the proportion of 15 to 19-yearold girls who became pregnant in 1976 was one-third higher than in 1971. And the National Center for Health Statistics estimates that more than one million teen-agers will become pregnant in 1978.

These facts have implications for both mother and child. The teen-age mother often has physical, emotional and social problemsimmaturity, poor diet, inadequate education, failure to seek and follow medical advice, and poor relationships with family and friends. Moreover, the incidence of prematurity and low

Life of test pilot is like fiction

By JOHN M. BOGERT Copley News Service

LOS ANGELES - If Bob Hoover's life were a movie, he'd be played by a Gary Cooper type.

Of course, if his life were a movie the bullets from that squadron of German Focke Wulfs wouldn't have torn the wings off his Spitfire over France and he wouldn't have spent two very real years in Stalag

Neither would his flying a stalled F-86 fighter into the ground at 350 mph have broken his back, or an ejection from another failed jet smashed both his

Pain separates his life from fiction. But pain, like many other things in the test pilot's life, is put rather casually in its place: "Pain has a threshold; once you're past it, it doesn't get any worse." Even now at age 57, when you think Hoover would be slowing down to a quiet life in his Palos Verdes young buck on his way up. But, you realize, it is this sense of direction, control and invincibility that cuts him away from the herd. "From the beginning I knew the worst thing that could happen in the air would be a spin, and since I knew how to get out of a spin, I knew there would be

He began exercising this philosophy in open cockpit planes outside his home town of Nashville, Tenn.,

Problem was, back then there was nobody to teach him the things he wanted to do with airplanes. You know, fun things, like your average killer feats of one-wheel landings, octagonal loops and 150 mph gutwrenching roll-overs.

So to learn, Hoover hunkered down, studied and taught himself. When the war came along, he volunteered for duty in the air corps, but by that time there wasn't much the instructors could teach the 18-year-old flyer. "I spent the first four months of the program giving acrobatic flight demonstrations for the instructors, waiting for a change in the law that would allow me to fly combat."

The law changed and off Hoover went, but not exactly where he wanted to go. He was sent to source. Casablanca to test planes. And he tested them by the thousands, day in and day out.

Consequently, he began what was to become a massive backlogging of knowledge that he credits with saving his life numerous times.

After some haggling between commanders, he was finally allowed into combat and was shot down on his 59th mission when he was jumped by an enemy

A model plane company built a replica of the Spitfire he lost that day in 1943 and enclosed in the box a printed description of its demise at the hands of the Germans. What might be the honor of a lifetime for some is no big deal for this man who stands as the Ted Williams of the model airplane autographing world. In fact, the model business is small change when you consider what Hoover's name is worth to the aircraft industry.

Putting it simply, his graduation from both the Navy and Air Force test pilot schools, stacked atop a reputation built over the last 34 years, adds up to big money in his field.

At the prestigious Paris Air Show, people have been known to drop what they're doing to watch Hoover's breathtaking air demonstrations of North American Aviation planes.

So big is this ex-team captain of the International U.S. Aerobatic Team and twice president of the Society of Experimental Test Pilots, that another manufacturer once paid a fantastic insurance premium to "borrow" Hoover for a show test flight.

At Rockwell, where the pilot is assistant to the firm's president, it is reported that his air show performances in their Shrike Commander increased sales of the craft 50 percent during one year alone.

But there's more at stake here than sales. Hoover is, in fact, promoting his life-long love of flying and flight safety. Back during the Korean conflict, he spent a good deal of time in that country lifting the sagging morale of combat fliers by putting on the type show with which he still wows the public.

One of his tricks was to take an F-100 fighter plane up and within seconds have it upside down, the canopy and his head whizzing along a few feet off the ground at 400 mph

When you ask Hoover the purpose of his life-long dance with death, he typically points to an outside

In this case, it's Airplane Pilot Magazine editor

Lou Davis... "How can you estimate or even evaluate the military lives that weren't lost by Hoover's testing?" Davis asks. "How can you place a dollar sign on the pleasure a private pilot receives from flying a Hoover-tested plane?" Airmotive News, after considering the pilot's accomplishments, called him a "gentleman, a man's man and an unselfish promoter of flying." Hoover himself, tall and rangy, laughs at all this, saying, "I was just luckier than most pilots." Looking back on his luck, on the crashes and the long hours of testing and study, he says it's been worth it because it's made flying safer. Then again, Hoover has always been armored with brilliant survival instinct. After injury himself, he says he wasn't afraid to fly, "only a bit apprehensive about flying the plane I cracked up in." Mind you, this life has put a load on wife Colleen, but "she's long since become adjusted to the danger and my being away." But, he says, he really no longer needs to think to survive. That huge backlog of information and engineering experience he's stored has a way of springing forth in emergencies. A good example was an incident at last year's San Diego benefit air show. "Someone had filled our high-octane-burning plane with jet fuel and we stalled at 300 feet. "I brought her nose up and headed for the upside of a hill. By the time I laid her down, we were almost stopped dead in the air." They landed without injury, but the two pilots with him said none would have survived had either of them been at the controls.

Then again, Hoover doesn't leave a lot to chance. He keeps his body in shape by running and swim-

Deputy Sheriff Bill Whitton said a member of the Jordan family found the rest of the figurine.

He said Jordan had been missing since June 5, 1974.

Whitton said the man "just walked away from his home in 1974."

He added, "At this point no foul play is suspected."

Judge West said the official cause of death "will be natural causes."

What's in a name? Your history!

Lou Stein is a walking dictionary of family names. He says he has some 10,000 stored away in his memory

At the slightest encouragement, he will recall the derivation and history of scores of names common in this country - and others that aren't so

Stein, who refers to himself as a "name historian," has been caught up for years in the fascinating search for the origins of family names.

An authority in the field of onomatology (a study of the origin of names), he has written several books on the subject. He lectures widely and teaches at the university level.

Stein said his students don't have any problems locating a textbook for advises them. It's all they will need.

He picked up a nearby phone book leafed through the pages and stopped at the J's.

"Just open the book to any page and go down the list," he said. "There they are. Johnson. Means son of John. Incidentally, it is the second most common name we have. Smith is No.

Stein said that by the middle of the 16th century, the majority of the names we know today had been fixed and became a pattern for generations that followed. Has he had much trouble tracing surnames? Stein has had to settle for about 50 percent success, he admits.

He attributes the difficulty to the fact that when immigrants landed in this country from Europe, they spoke little or no English and had trouble spelling their names to customs officials at Ellis Island.

"The clerks taking their names didn't understand many of them, and spelled the names phonetically," he said. "As a result, many of the early settlers in this country had their names misspelled, and often didn't bother to correct them.

"So we can only guess at the derivation of many of the family names we know today.

Stein said he is frequently asked the origin of a person's name. He is successful a good number of times, but sometimes had to admit he doesn't know.

As for the name Thesken, he was stumped.

"I haven't been able to find anything like that in my reference books," he said, with some regret.

"The closest I can come is Theisen, which is the son of Theis. That is a pet form of Matthias. But I really don't know if that is right.'

This is what makes the search for family names so fascinating for Stein. It's like a mystery novel. He gets certain clues, but sometimes he reaches a blind alley in his investigation.

"We were going to get married. He was going to come and get me. But he never had enough money or work to come back," Elsie said.

Eventually, Elsie began dating again and in 1932 married someone else. She wrote Frank about her marriage. He replied wishing her hap-piness and added, "Just forget that I ever existed. I guess this will be the last time you'll ever hear from me."

The early morning call for expanded negotiations was the latest in a series of developments which started Thursday with a union demand for binding arbitration.

A standby plan had been set up earlier in the week by Gov. Edwin Edwards for the state police and guardsmen to be sent to New Orleans in case of a strike.

But orders went out from the state Capitol at Baton Rouge today for the reinforcements to move out earlier than planned.

Mayor Ernest Morial had said Thursday he would cancel this year's Mardi Gras parades, but later said he would wait until tonight before making a decision on whether to cancel the first parades of the festival, now scheduled to begin

Everything about it says luxury... except the price!

One look tells you that the new 1979 AMC Concord DL 2-Door is a very luxurious car Formal Landau vinyl roof, opera windows white sidewall tires, color-keyed styled wheel covers and a striking new formal grille with quad rectangular headlamps neatly accentuate the Concord's clean, elegant lines. Inside the impression continues. Because you're surrounded by velveteen crush velour upholstery, plush cut-pile carpeting, digitial

And on the road, that feeling of luxury is even stronger. The ride is uncommonly smooth, stable and quiet. And Concord's size makes handling and maneuvering a breeze.
In every way, the Concord DL is like an expensive luxury car. Except one. It isn't expensive at all. The sticker price is surprisingly low. Come in and see for yourself.

Midland downed Lee, 43-40, in the first half of the race in the Lee Gymnasium, but Lee turned the tables on Midland four days ago by blistering the Bulldogs, 43-23, in the MHS Gymnasium to win the second half.

Midland jumped off to a 10-5 first period lead, but Abilene came back to cut the lead to 16-15 at intermission. Young's team then outscored the Eagles, 10-4, in the third stanza for a 26-19 advantage going into the final Margaret Christian paced Midland's attack with 14 points and she was the only Bulldog in the double figures. Sandra Rock was next with eight points while the big gun for Abilene was Rose Baldwin with 10 points. Rene Washington and Debra Grant followed with eight points each as Abilene's season comes to an aburpt end.

Running, gunning Chaps put juice back in attack

BY TED BATTLES Sports Editor

When the Midland College Chaparrals are going good, they play like they did Thursday night in blowing Frank Phillips Junior College off the Chaparral Center court, 99-73, and that had to be good news for Coach Jerry Stone with two of the biggest games of the season coming up next

MC hosts Odessa College Monday and travels to Snyder for Western Texas College Thursday, both teams ahead of the Chaps in the Western Junior College Conference standings. By winning Thursday, Midland boosted its WJCC record to 9-5 and at the same time dropped Frank Phillips, one of the teams yapping at their heels, to 6-7.

But more important, perhaps, was the return to the flamboyant, freewheeling style that had deserted them the last couple of weeks. The Chaps hadn't looked this good since, since, well, that upset of Western Texas College back in January.

They were thieving, rebounding, fast-breaking demons, hitting the open man with just the right touch, not adding that extra pass that blows the beautifully executed manevuer.

WHEN THE Chaps play this kind of game, one of the ring leaders is going to be 5-9 Cullen Mayfield, the sharpshooting floor general, who led the way with 30 points. And when the Chaps play like this, they are going to have several folks in su stantial fig-ures, like Luis Alvarato with 17 points, Robert Tate with 15, and, welcome back, Kenneth Young 15.

But it was a game in which everybody made contributions. Midway through the first half when it was a still a game and Frank Phillips led 12-10, a couple of big thefts and basket feeds by James Hicks, the former Midland High cager, helped snapped the Chaps out of the doldrums. His steals set up Tim Shelby and Tate on successive fast breaks that seemed to pick up the team.

The Chaps really began to break things open with Frank Phillips clinging to a 20-19 lead with eight minutes left in the half, outscoring the Plains men, 19-8, to retire at intermission with a 38-28 lead as Alvarado's three field goals and free throw set the

IT WAS still only 46-38 Midland four minutes into the second half when the

Dodgers gain Thomasson with trade

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Los Angeles Dodgers, who lost four players since the 1978 season ended, have since made up for it, at least in terms

Pitcher Tommy John and utility players Lee Lacy and Bill North played out their options and catcher Jerry Grote retired, but since that time the Dodgers have added infielder-outfielder Derrel Thomas, outfielder Von Joshua, pitcher Andy Messersmith and outfielder Gary Tho-

Thomasson was the latest addition. The 27-year-old outfielder was acquired Thursday from the New York Yankees in exchange for catcher Brad Gulden, who hit .300 with the Dodgers' Albuquerque club of the Pacific Coast League last season.

Although Thomasson hasn't signed a contract with Los Angeles, both he and club officials indicated that might be just a formality. Thomasson said the new pact was a four-year extension of the contract he had with New Otherwise, terms were not announced.

Thomasson, a high school star at Oceanside in southern California, first played major league baseball with the San Francisco Giants. They traded him to Oakland last spring and he was sent to the Yankees shortly

In six National League seasons. Thomasson hit .254 and wound up with a .233 mark in the American League last season.

Dodgers' General Manager Al Campanis said Thomasson can play any of the outfield positions and "is an outstanding addition to our club."

Thomasson indicated that he expected to be in a utility role when he said, "I could play if Rick Monday is hurt or if Reggie Smith is hurt. I want to play regularly, but I do think there will be more opportunity to play in Los Angeles than there would have been in New York."

Monday plays regularly in center field and Smith in right.

Had he stayed with the Yankees, Thomasson indicated he would have played out his option during the 1979 season and become a free agent.

Thomasson had his best major league season in 1977 with the Giants, where he established career-highs in games with 145, hits with 114, doubles with 24, triples with 6, home runs with 17 and runs-batted-in with-71. He stole 16 bases and hit .256.

Chaps really got it rolling. With Mayfield riddling the rim with four baskets and the Chaps completely demoralizing the FPJC offense with aggressive, ball-grabbing defense, Midland reeled off 14 points while holding the Plainsmen scoreless for five minutes for a 62-38 lead.

Shelby, who had a modest seven points, set up 13 other baskets with assists and Mayfield, in addition to hitting 15 of 25 shots from the field, handed out eight assists and came up with four steals.

Actually, the difference in thefts was only 29-21, but what made it seem greater was that Midland was turning its swipes into buckets on the Midland's win moved the Chaps into sole possession of fourth place as New Mexico Junior College lost to South Plains, 73-72, at Hobbs, N.M., dropping the Thunderbirds to 8-6 and raising SPC to 8-6. Western Texas is now 12-2 after walloping Amarillo College, 91-76, and Odessa College is 9-4, but barely, after squeaking by Howard College, 68-67.

Walker withdraws from mile

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Eamonn Coghlan, favored to win the mile in tonight's San Diego Invitational track meet, says New Zealander John Walker withdrew because he's tired of losing to the nearly unbeatable

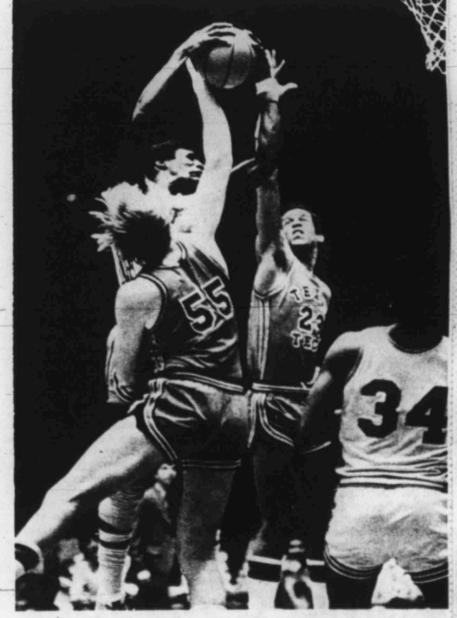

Even without Walker and injured Wilson Waigwa of Kenya, the mile field is still a promoter's dream. And with the steep-sloped Sports Arena track one of the world's fastest, odds are that Dick Buerkle's indoor mile mark of 3:54.9 is in danger.

Walker, who holds the outdoor record for the mile, declared Wednesday, 'I'm sick. what can I say? I have the flu and my lungs are congested. I'm going home to New Zealand."

Coghlan, who ran a blurring 3:55 in last week's Millrose Games, one-tenth of a second off Buerkle's record, has his own version of Walker's troubles.

"Sick? Ah, he's sick in the head. maybe," Coghlan said. "I don't know what's wrong with that guy. There's no reason for him not to compete. Walker changes like the Irish weather every day.
"I still wouldn't be surprised if he sticks around and competes in the AAU meet next week in New York," Coghlan continued. "Of course, maybe he doesn't like to compete against me. Maybe he's getting tired of getting beat all the time."

Texas Tech players Joe Baxter (55) and Thad Sanders (23) go for the ball that was rebounded by Houston's Ralph Hamilton. The Cougars! George Walker (34) looks on as the three work for the ball. (AP Laserphoto)

Texas Tech cagers didn't get message

HOUSTON (AP) - Texas Tech Coach Gerald Myers says he knew his Red Raiders would have a tough game against the Houston Cougarsbut his players apparently didn't get the message. The underdog Cougars hit nine of their first 10 shots from the field and finished the game with their best shooting percentage of the season, 63.2 per cent, en route to a 103-89 victory in the lone Southwest Conference basketball game scheduled Thursday night.

"Instead of coming out real dedicated, we seemed to be kind of satisfied tonight," said Myers, whose Raiders suffered-their worst loss of the season. "Houston started out great, like they were ready to play.

"Our guys just didn't realize what they were getting into. This was the last home game for Houston's seniors and I knew they would have a lot of

Kuhn to review sale of players

NEW YORK (AP) - Two years ago, Bowie Kuhn publicly warned owner Charles O. Finley that he would carefully review "any player assignments of the Oakland club which involve substantial payments of cash to the Oakland club.

That's why Kuhn has called Finley and the New York Yankees on the carpet today to explain the attempted sale this week of two minor league players by Oakland to the world champions for a cool half million dol-

Finley's explanation will be simple.

"I did it because I need that money to meet my payroll," the A's owner said Thursday, explaining the sale of catcher Bruce Robinson and pitcher Greg Cochran for $500,000.

'These two players are minor leaguers. Losing them won't hurt my club at all. When George Steinbrenner offered me $500,000 for these two, I had to accept it. I thought I made a pretty good deal.'

It would certainly seem that way. Robinson's major league experience is limited to 84 at bats with Oakland last season when he hit .250. He spent most of the year playing at Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League and batted .299. "I got $400,000 for him," said Finley. Cochran, who was not even on the A's major league roster, spent 1978 at Jersey City of the East-ern League where he was 10-13 with a 3.41 earned run average. The Yankees paid the other $100,000 for him.

"When George Steinbrenner asked me what I wanted for these two. I told him $500,000, not expecting him to agree," said Finley. "But he did. I accepted immediately, before he had a chance to change his mind. I needed the money and George had it. I spent $228,500 on players in the June, 1978 free agent draft (of high school and college prospects).' The sale was completed on Feb. 3, the day the Yankee deal with Minnesota for Rod Carew fell through. Carew was subsequently traded to California and Steinbrenner, finding himself with some excess cash, turned to Finley's shop, where he has done business before.

In June, 1976, Steinbrenner attempted to purchase Vida Blue from Finley for $1.5 million. Kuhn blocked that deal as well as Finley's sales of Joe Rudi and Rollie Fingers to Boston

In February 1977, the commissioner approved the sale of Paul Lindblad by Oakland to Texas for $400,000 but warned that he would carefully scrutinize future player sales by the Oakland owner. Last January, Kuhn blocked the sale of Blue to Cincinnati for $1.75 million and at the time cited his earlier warning. Blue eventually was traded to San Francisco last March for seven players.

Ironically, one of the players Finley received from the Giants in the Blue deal was outfielder Gary Thomasson, who later was traded to the Yankees. On Thursday, New York swapped Thomasson to the Los Angeles Dodgers for catcher Brad Gulden, who, like Robinson, was a standout receiver in the Pacific Coast League

Finley said he hoped for Kuhn's approval after today's hearing. "I need that money to keep my checks from bouncing," he explained.

"Permian is getting better and better. They have a fine feeder program from the junior highs that we do not have, and we are beginning to feel the pinch a little bit as a result," Whytlaw

Whytlaw also stated that several swimming teams were improving and it is not as easy as in the past when Midland Lee and Midland High dominated swimming in this part of the country, "Amarillo has a strong team and they will probably give everyone fits in the regional meet," Whytlaw

Heart not in reprimand

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Kansas Athletic Director Bob Marcum has publicly reprimanded basketball Coach Ted Owens, but he made it clear his heart wasn't in it.

Owens was reprimanded for storming onto the court Saturday during KU's Big Eight game against Oklaho-

Owens went into a rage of protest when Darnell Valentine, his prize sophomore guard, was knocked into the goal support while going up for a layup. Owens later said Valentine was being "knocked down" in every Big Eight game and complained bitterly that neither the officials nor the conference commissioner was doing anything about it.

Marcum said the reprimand was dictated by Big Eight policy which states that coaches will act at all times "in a dignified manner" and will "remain on the bench or in the designated area."

"We are totally supportive of Coach Owens," Marcum said Thursday.

Hollywood endings all the same

By The Associated Press

Those Hollywood endings are all the same: It's UCLA every time, it

Hard to beat anywhere - but almost impossible at home - the second-ranked Bruins turned an apparent loss into a victory at Pauley Pavilion Thursday night, beating Arizona State 85-83 with some late-game

'We had the game absolutely won," said Arizona State Coach Ned Wulk, stunned by the dramatic turn of events. "It was completely disheartening to lose. Everything was happening at the other end of the court and we couldn't get any information

What happened was certainly enough to frustrate any coach.

THE SUN Devils had an 83-79 lead with nine seconds left, but fouled Roy Hamilton at this point and the UCLA guard made two free throws. Then UCLA's Kiki Vandeweghe stole the inbounds pass from Arizona State's Tony Zeno and was fouled by Zeno in the resulting action. Vandeweghe made two shots to tie the game at 83 with seven seconds to play.

Blake Taylor missed a 20-foot shot for the Sun Devils with five seconds to play and Zeno fouled Holland on the

"There was no doubt that Brad Holland was fouled," said UCLA Coach Gary Cunningham. "The only question was, had time expired?"

It hadn't - and the call went UCLA's way. Whereupon, Holland converted both shots with many UCLA fans hanging expectantly at the rim of the court. Holland sank the first shot of the one-and-one situation for the winning point, then put in the other while the UCLA fans swarmed around him at the foul line.

"We just have to make it exciting, I guess," said Vandeweghe.

Elsewhere, top-ranked Indiana State remained undefeated after 24 games, beating Southern Illinois 69-68; third-ranked Notre Dame blasted Mahattan 86-63; No. 8 Michigan State stopped Indiana 59-47; No. 9 Louisville tripped St. Louis 78-62; No. 14 Iowa turned back No. 13 Purdue 75-72 and No. 17 Ohio State stopped Minnesota 74-68.

UCLA, THE Pac-10 leader with an 11-2 record and 19-3 overall, trailed 40-27 at halftime before rallying to take the lead late in the game. Then the Bruins lost it for a while before year.

their heart-stopping finish.

"Luck was just with us tonight," said Cunningham. "I felt my team thought the game was over (when they were down by four points in the last nine seconds.) But I never felt we were out of the game. I never do. I've seen teams win like that in the last seconds. For one of the few times this year, everything I planned in the end worked out.

"It was one of the greatest victories I've ever experienced in college.' Larry Bird scored 20 points and Steve Reid sank two free throws in the final 14 seconds to seal Indiana State's victory over Southern Illi-

"We feel we are as good as anyone on a given night and on a neutral court and, on this night, better than UCLA," said Indiana State Coach Bill Hodges after the game at Carbondale, Hodges said the criticism his team has received about playing a soft schedule is unjustified.

'The people who are saying that haven't done their research." he stated. "Purdue is as tough as anyone in the nation to beat on its home court, a task we accomplished early in the Earvin "Magic" Johnson scored 15 points to lead Michigan State past Indiana. The Spartans scored eight straight points to break a 30-30 halftime tie and never were headed.

Darrell Griffith scored 15 points and Larry Williams added 14, leading Louisville over St. Louis, nailing down the Metro Conference title for the Cardinals.

Now it's back; back to the tune of a pace-setting 7-under-par 63 in the first round of the $250,000 Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open golf tournament, His only question now is: how long will it

"If I keep on putting like this, and I have a certain amount of confidence in my putting now, it's going to be a wild weekend. And I'm talking about low numbers. Very low numbers. Maybe even lower than this."

Lietzke, the cross-handed putter who holds the Canadian Open title, one-putted nine times in the warm sunshine to establish a 1-stroke lead Thursday. Just off his shoulder at 64 were former Masters champ Tommy Aaron, rookie Mike Brannan, Curtis Strange and Jim Nelford, a left-handed putter from Canada.

Arnold Palmer struggled to a 72 only 2 over par but a relatively high number in the extremely low overall scoring — and must improve if he is to make the cut for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday. Hubert Green, the winner of last week's Hawaiian Open, had a 74 and also was in danger of failing to qualify.

Lietzke, who won the Tucson event a couple of years ago with an 80-foot birdie putt in a sudden death playoff, has emerged as one of the tour's brightest young players. He's won three times in the last two seasons and, he said, has squandered several opportunities this season.

"I've wasted a lot of good tournaments already this year, strictly on my putting" he said. "I don't even want to think about how well I could have finished.

"I've hit the ball as well or better in every round this year," he said. "The only difference was that this time I got some putts to fall.

"And I really don't know what brought it around. I wish I did. I've been trying everything. This week I've been working on putting stroke

"But it's still cross-handed. I'll never change that."

Lietzke had but a single lapse in his putting, missing a three-foot birdie effort on the third hole. He dropped three of them from the testing 3-4 foot range, holed two more from 8-10 feet, had a couple more from 15 feet and scored his last birdie with his longest putt of the day, a 20-footer on the

Rockets narrow gap on Spurs

By The Associated Press

It's only 200 miles and one game from Houston to San Antonio, but the Rockets will have to take the long road as they try to catch the frontrunning Spurs in the National Basketball Association's Central Division.

'Defense is going to win the games for us. It's going to be very important for us to play well because nine of our next 10 games are on the road," said Moses Malone, who scored 33 points and grabbed 18 rebounds in leading the Rockets to a 119-116 triumph over the Portland Trail Blazers Thursday night that left them just one game behind idle San Antonio.

Beginning tonight, the Rockets' 19day, coast-to-coast odyssey will take them to Detroit, Piscataway, N.J., Washington, San Antonio, Atlanta, Houston, Portland, Seattle, Denver and San Diego before a five-game home stand.

Elsewhere, Phoenix trimmed Washington 119-108, Cleveland whipped Philadelphia 113-100 and San Diego downed New Orleans 122-112. Houston's victory was its fifth in six games while Portland had its fivegame winning strek snapped. Malone and Rick Barry scored 10 points apiece in the third quarter when the Rockets erased a four-point halftime deficit and took a 93-83 lead.

"The biggest challenge is picking a coach and evaluating the people inside and making decisions by draft time in May," Young said. "I will have a lot to say with making a strong recommendation for a coach. But with any major decision I will have to talk with the ownership.'

The Giants have already interviewed Seattle's Jerry Rhome and Joe Restic of Harvard, Wellington Mara informally interviewed Dan Reeves of Dallas two weeks ago.

Young outlined what he would be looking for in a head coach.

"My first priority with the Giants will be finding a head coach," Young said. "I haven't even had time to think about that yet, so I really can't comment on any individuals. But basically, I'll be looking for someone with whom I can work and who has the same goals I do. To me that's the bottom line - finding people who can work together."

"If I consider any of them, I'll call them back and talk to them myself," he said. "It's as if I were scouting for an offensive tackle and had five possibilities. I'd want to see all five of them and rate them in order and not rely on someone else's report on some

Hollis Stacy grabs lead in LPGA tournament

MIAMI (AP) — Hollis Stacy leads the field with a 3-under-par 69 going into today's second round when all but 60 golfers will be pared from the $100,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament here.

Stacy, relying on her putting, held off the late-afternoon bid Thursday of Amy Alcott, who with veteran Sandra Palmer was one stroke back.

"My putter saved me," said the 25-year-old Stacy. "I wasn't hitting the ball that well, and my timing was "A tough course keeps my attention," she said after shooting five birdies and two bogies in her 35-34 totals over the 6,211-yard South Course at the Country Club Aventura. "I have a better rapport with good golf courses. Six or eight under should win the tournament.'

Susan O'Connor and Sandra Post were at 71, with six golfers bunched at 72 - Jan Stephenson, Connie Chillemi, Marlene Floyd, Donna H. White, Lynn Adams and Murle Breer. Nancy Lopez, the LPGA's 1978 leading money winner, had a firstround 76, which included a doublebogey 6 on the eighth hole.

Stacy, who has won the U.S. Open the past two years, finished strong Thursday, with birdies on her last two holes, and a 25-foot putt to finish her round. Palmer also finished with a rush, with birdies on two of her last three holes.

Alcott came on fast with birdies on the 11th, 13th and 14th holes to go 3 under par. But then she bogeyed the 16th and parred out.

"This is the kind of course where if you hit the ball good, you'll shoot a really good score," Alcott said. "But if you let one hole get away from you, the course can eat you alive."

Perhaps the most unusual round was fashioned by Stephenson. She had five birdies and five bogies.

The 72-hole tournament, sponsored by Elizabeth Arden, ends Sunday.

Ron Brewer scored a season-high 30 points to lead the Blazers and Mychal Thompson added 27.

"We have to play good defense and hustle on the road if we're going to win," said Malone. Rick Barry, who scored 20 points, said the Rockets started to play defense in the third quarter. "We weren't playing defense the first part of the game," he said. "We were playing slow-motion basketball.

In the second half, we started getting the ball into Moses more and shutting off the middle." Suns 119, Bullets 108 Led by Paul Westphal's 18 points, Phoenix outscored Washington 67-49 in the second half. Westphal, who finished with 32 points, had 11 in the Suns' 39-point third period. Walter Davis followed Westphal with 26 points while Bob Dandridge topped the Bullets with 30. "We got a lot of big plays late in the game and some big steals," said Suns Coach John MacLeod. "We had some good shots and their's were just not going in. We hit a flat spot in that second

Potter scares Navratilova

LOS ANGELES (AP) - While Martina Navratilova was winning every major tennis tournament in the world the last couple of years, Barbara Potter was attending a New England prep school and playing in the Bergen County classic doubles tournament and the Eastbourne International.

Potter, 17, threw a scare into Navratilova in their Thursday night guarter-final match in the $150,000 Los Angeles women's tournament before Navratilova, the top seed, salvaged a 6-3, 7-5 victory.

The battle of southpaws with the same serve-and-volley games left Navratilova shaking her head over the tricky kick serve that Potter used for her second serves.

Potter thought Martina's trouble returning serve reflected the rarity of two southpaws facing each other. "We don't have much of a chance to return good left-handed serves," she In other matches, Chris Evert outhit Jeanne DuVall 6-1, 6-0 and thirdseeded Tracy Austin downed fifthseeded Ann Kiyomura 6-4, 6-2. Evert plays eighth-seeded Vigginia Ruzici of Romania in a quarter-final match tonight.

Baker, Waltrip eye Daytona 500

After dominating the qualifying races here this week, Buddy Baker and Darrell Waltrip expect to see a lot of each other in Sunday's $600,000 Daytona 500 stock car classic.

They ran 1-2 in last Sunday's sprint race, 1-3 in pole qualifying, and each won in Thursday's 125-mile qualifying

"I'm glad to see my teammate won his race; he's my drafting partner," said Baker, who came back to beat Cale Yarborough by a car length in the first race before Waltrip held off A.J. Foyt by two lengths in the second

"He's kind of easy to draft because you know he's just going to put his foot on the throttle all the way,' laughed Waltrip.

Basically, his strategy and our strategy are very similar," Waltrip said. "Buddy likes to lead, and I like to lead, and we're going to be out in front on Sunday."

Waltrip, like Baker seeking his first Daytona 500 victory in an Oldsmobile this year, had to contend with another master drafter in his race.

"On that caution flag, A.J. was saying let's draft together the rest of the race," Waltrip said. "He was giving me one of those 'I won't pass you' looks. That's when I knew I was experienced, because I didn't fall for that.

"I've had to race A.J. before. He's kind of a sly old fox."

Baker, who won the pole position last Sunday at 196.049 mph, turned 197 mph laps Thursday to catch Yarborough. But he insisted that the high speeds were normal on the newly resurfaced Daytona International Speedway track.

'There is no such thing as a critical speed. The racing surface is better, we have safe racing cars. It's being overemphasized.

'Nobody out there today lost control because they were going too fast. The easiest thing is the world would be to change the rules. But they've got DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - three more days to work on their cars, and some of them who are complaining now might be up there Sunday." Baker said.

"If they didn't want us to come down here and run fast, they shouldn't have resurfaced the track.

Waltrip said. "We always run fast at Daytona and Talladega. The tracks were built to run fast. The speeds are realistic everywhere else," Waltrip said.

Baker has emerged as the favorite for Sunday's race, in which he has a history of persistently miserable luck. He's led 11 of the last 12 races before dropping out because of engine troubles or other mishaps.

'I've felt like it was my week a lot of times in the past," he reflected. 'There's a lot of variables you have to think about. I just hope I run as good a race as my car is.'

NFL faces player strike

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - National Football League owners could face a player strike because they "are refusing to talk" to free agents, Ed Garvey says. Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, claimed Thursday at the players' annual meeting that the owners are conspiring to bypass the NFL's collective bargaining agreement.

"Management is in breach of the collective bargaining agreement,' Garvey said at a news conference, "and because they are in breach we do not feel we are bound by the no-strike agreement."

Although he would not say a strike was definitely coming, Garvey remarked that it was "certainly" possibility.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market was little changed in slow pre-holiday trading today, stuck in neutral for the third straight session. Gainers just slightly outnumbered losers in the midday tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 1.21 at 827.88 at noontime.

The Dow average would have been unchanged from Thursday's close had it not been for ex-dividends, or dividend-payment adjustments, involving three of its component stocks.

McGraw-Hill rose 11/4 to 28% on word that a committee of stockholders had been formed, apparently to survey other shareowners about their views on the company's rejection of a $40-ashare offer from American Express.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks edged up .01 to 55.39. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .14 to 162.72.

Volume on the Big Board came to 9.01 million shares at noontime, against 9.42 million at the same point Thursday.

Women seek progress in corporations

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - Equality doesn't come quickly to women in corporate life, so the Financial Women's Association is having a coming out party of sorts on March 6.

At a breakfast on March 6 at the Board Room, a private club frequented by chairmen and presidents, the ladies plan to present to corporate society the names of 10 women they feel are qualified to sit on These women, they say, have achieved high re-sponsibility within the established structure, have demonstrated broad community interest, have often been the first women in their field, and are very While those are general attributes, Marilyn Brown of the association's corporate board committee be** added, 'that a number of corporations are seeking to add women to their boards.' The association can Some correctible oversights were found in analyzing board memberships of the 1,300 largest companies, said Ms. Brown. Among the top 100, for example, 52 percent were found to have no women directors. The association feels it can help adjust that situation by presenting the names of eligible females from its own files and from a list of women directors maintained by Catalyst, a nonprofit organization.

After the breakfast, to be addressed by Thomas Murphy, chairman of General Motors (two women directors), the association intends to write chairmen throughout the country concerning their list of eligi-

On their mail list will be the chairmen of some of the country's lesser known companies whose boards, for a variety of reasons, often have fewer women directors than the larger concerns.

The largest representation of women is on boards of the 100 largest companies. In the second 100, only 31 percent have women directors. The percentage decreases to just 9 in the 900-1,000 size category. Why? "I don't know," says Ms. Brown, a securities analyst. "I think in part it's because the larger corporations have the time, energy and staff to devote to social issues." But, she says, she cannot be Other breakdowns might suggest some explanations. By industry, for example, commercial bank-ing and utilities have the highest percentage of women directors, at 54. While Ms. Brown didn't suggest it, could it be merely coincidence that both commercial banks and public utilities are among the most publicly exposed, monitored and regulated of all businesses? And that some companies in other categories have named women to their boards because they too, although less regulated, are subjected to more than the usual amount of public interest and scrutiny?

As the largest manufacturer, for example, General Motors attracts a fair degree of interest. It-also sells a lot of automobiles to women. It also has as directors Anne L. Armstrong and Catherine B. Cleary. It is not by mere chance that Murphy will keynote the meeting with 40 or 50 chairmen and presidents. He has, says Ms. Brown, "provided helpful insights into the corporate board nominating process."

And though he had already been named as speaker, it didn't damage his chances when earlier this month he named Betsy Ancker-Johnson to be General Motor's first women vice president.

Economic slowdown predicted for '79

WASHINGTON (AP) - A leading business organization Thursday predicted a sharp economic slowdown this year and little progress in dampening in-Economic consultants to the Business Council, composed of chairman of the country's largest companies, said the economy will grow by 1 per-cent all year, less than half the Carter administration's prediction of 2.5 percent. The consultants forecast the unemployment rate to jump from 5.8 percent to 6.8 percent by the end of the year. At the same time, the government issued a report showing that the nation's industrial output grew by

0.1 percent in January, the smallest increase in a year, as stormy weather interfered with production by utilities, mines and factories. The nation's industrial output rose by the smallest amount in a year last month as stormy weather interfered with production at the nation's utilities, mines and factories, the government said It was unclear whether the 0.1 percent increase for January also reflected a slowing of economic activity. Economists have been watching, government indicators to determine whether a business downturn is ahead. The January increase was the smallest since a 0.6 percent drop in January 1978, during another harsh winter. Last month, heavy snowstorms covered the Midwest and kept workers home in some areas.

The government adjusts the figures for seasonal variations, but the last three winters have been more severe than usual in many regions.

In its report, the Federal Reserve Board said 'January output was affected somewhat by weather conditions. The production of new cars declined 4 percent and steel output declined sharply, the report said. Production of energy supplies, particularly coal, dropped 7 percent. In an economic slowdown, it is usually the con-struction industry that is hit first, but the report showed no signs of that happening yet. Factories continued turning out large volumes of construction supplies, the report said. Meanwhile today, the Commerce Department reported that businesses increased their inventories by a cautious 0/6 percent in December.

The increase compared with the 1.1 percent gain the month before and was smaller than increases in sales. Total business sales increased 1 percent in December after rising 1.1 percent in November.

Businesses kept $1.38 in inventories for every $1 in products sold, one of the lowest levels on record and the same level as in November.

or Albuquerque or Peoria. Some will tell you without a hint of doubt that Washington is an Eastern city full of snobby big shots, balky bureaucrats and muggers who take what the government doesn't get.

True, sometimes. But there are levelers in life. They tend to make people pretty much alike. And that means there are times when people in Washington, believe it or not, become just as decent and helpful and considerate as people in Des Moines and Albuquerque and Peostandards, or compared to what people in the Dakotas are used to. But by Washington lights, it was extraordinary.

The storm began during the day Monday. By rush hour, Washington, D.C., was a traffic jam. Nothing moved. Cars lined the streets like tin soldiers in a frozen parade. Wheels spun. Batteries died. Gasoline tanks emptied. And commuters were stranded by the score.

In a city with a heart as cold as ice.

On a street in Georgetown, considered one of the snobbier parts of town, a couple walked from car to car, knocked on the frosted windows and offered cups of steaming tea.

How long had they been doing it? "This is our 31st pot," said the man.

His name? "We're not doing this for publicity," he said and walked away.

It would have broken a press secretary's heart. At the Francis Scott Key Bridge across the Potomac, teen-agers carrying brown shopping bags hawked cans of Budweiser to motorists stuck for eternities between inches of frustrated progress. The kids charged 50 cents a pop. Beer costs twice that much at the fancier spots in town. And they don't have curb service.

On P Street at the intersection of 21st, the jam was interminable. A woman wearing evening clothes got out of her husband's car and began directing traffic. "Altogether, there were three of us doing it," said Jayne Ikard, who is a free-lance writer when it's not snowing and the intersections are clear.

Not everyone acted with total selflessness. On M Street, a young woman held up a sign that said, "Fifty Cents for Bathroom...Fifty Cents for a Phone Call to Let Your Loved Ones Know You're Safe.

That's a bit much, even to talk to your wife. A man in a jogging suit sold Hennessy brandy to stranded commuters on K Street for $2 a shot. But he said he was willing to contest That's a bit much, even with curb service.

Applications approved

AUSTIN - The Railroad Commission has approved an additional 161 applications for gas well classification under the federal Natural Gas Policy Act

Chairman John H. Poerner and Commissioners Mack Wallace and James E. Nugent have now accepted the recommendations of the commission's well determination task force that cover a total of 322 wells in Texas.

To date the commission has received more than 2,052 applications for well classification under the pricing provisions of the federal gas policy act that were implemented last December 1.

Under the act, state agencies such as the Railroad Commission are required to receive and review applications and assign well categories. State well determinations, however, may be rejected or remanded by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

In the latest batch of applications approved by the Commission, 148 wells determined to be new onshore producers. Ten were classed as stripper gas wells and one each as a deep, high cost well (below 15,000 feet), or a new onshore gas well or a new well producing from an existing reservoir.

The Commission this week forwarded 42 of its well determinations decisions to FERC for review and further action. It was the first such shipment by the Commission to the federal agen-

James E. Nugent, the newest mem-Texas, who was in Midland Thursday on a "get-acquainted, knowledgeseeking" mission, said he will wage an all-out fight against "costly and useless regulations" that threaten to reduce oil and gas hunters to "endangered species.'

The commissioner, appointed to the RRC staff by former Governor Dolph Briscoe to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Jon Newton, was the guest of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association at a luncheon in the Petroleum Club of Midland.

Referring to himself as a "30-day wonder" on the commission (he was sworn in Jan. 4), Nugent said "we are in the middle of an energy crisis right now, one that is far more serious than the general public is willing to believe or understand."

He said he made his first public address Wednesday in Wichita Falls since being named to the regulatory board."I will visit as many oil cities as I can to get input from the industry so that I can equip myself to do the job for which I was appointed," the former member of the Texas legislature from Kerrville said.

Nugent was particularly critical of a set of proposed rules published by the federal Environmental Protection Agency which classify drilling mud and brines produced in oilfield operations as dangerous substances. "Even wellbores in which drilling muds have been left would cause the wells to be classified as hazardous waste disposal facilities and subject to compliance with requirements per-taining to such sites," Nugent said.

These regulations provide for a mountain of additional paperwork, chemical analysis of the mud, and of course, numerous reports," he said, "but that is not the most ridiculous

Crude oil price hiked

PARIS (AP) - Abu Dhabi and Qatar are increasing the price of their light crude oil 7.2 percent above the increased price put into effect by members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries on Jan. 1, Compagnie Francaise des Petroles said today.

The two small Persian Gulf sheikdoms produce about 1.8 million barrels of oil a day, or only about 6 percent of OPEC's total production. But other countries in the oil cartel are expected to announce similar price increases since there is a shortage due to the suspension of Iranian oil exports and consequently no competitive pressure to keep prices

This, according to U.S. oil experts, could result in an increase in the price of gasoline in the United States of nearly a cent a gallon. They figure that a 5 percent increase in OPEC's price means an increase of half a cent

CFP, the French government oil company, said Abu Dhabi and Qatar informed it and other customers of the increase Wednesday night. They said the price of their light crude would increase from $14.10 a barrel of 42 gallons to $15.12 a barrel.

OPEC's 13 members agreed in December to increase prices this year a total of 14.5 percent by Oct. 1. The increase is to be applied in four installments, and the first increase of 5 percent went into effect on Jan. 1. Under this schedule of increases, OPEC's base price on Oct. 1 is to be $14.54 a barrel for Saudi Arabian light crude, the cartel's "benchmark" oil. Abu Dhabi and Qatar produce a higher quality oil which commands a premium price.

Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest exporter, recently put a special 5 percent surcharge on additional oil it producing because of the Iranian shutdown. The Saudi production target for the year is 8.5 million barrels a day, but the Saudis say they are now pumping about 9.5 million. The surcharge thus is applicable to about a million barrels.

A spokesman for the owners, Esso Tanker Inc., said five tugs were sent to the scene and it was hoped they would free the 1,066-foot-long ship when the tide runs in later in the "One section of those rules requires ber of the Railroad Commission of that a six-foot fence be built around every active disposal site. The fence must have a controlled gate which means either having a guard or an electronic device which opens only on

> Nugent maintained such rules are "totally inappropriate" for the oil and gas industry, and said people willing to wrestle with regulatory burdens would become the "endangered species of oildom."

"I am determined to do everything I can to ensure that such costly and useless regulations are not imposed on the public," he vowed. 'Toward that end, I am gathering the facts and information necessary to participate in the hearings on the proposed rules,"he said. Nugent said the EPA rules would lead to another federal program that the Railroad Commission would have to administer. Nugent gave these philosophical approaches to his responsibilities as a member of the commission: -"It is my duty to do all I can to encourage the maximum eventual recovery of energy resources in this

-"I believe in a free market system because it obviously has worked.

-"I am in the habit of basing my decisions solely upon the facts put before me. I am not going to change Nugent said Texans' estimation of Energy Secretary James Slessinger is about as low as it can get. He added, though, that the Department of Energy is getting easier to talk to. "I have noticed the change even since I have been on the commission. The DOE and others in Washington seem to be more willing to talk to us and get our opinions than they were several months ago.'

Nugent told his audience Thursday that he would run for a full term on the commission when his appointed term expires.
