Carter-Begin talks go on

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter and Menachem Begin, publicly ignoring the Israeli prime minister's tough arrival statement, are casting their efforts at reviving stalled Mideast peace talks in a hopeful light.

After meeting alone for nearly two hours Thursday night, Carter and Begin got together again in midmorning today, with the prime minister driving to the White House a few minutes ahead of schedule.

The two leaders also planned an afternoon session in crucial talks that could lead to a new Camp David summit, and agreed to a festive evening dinner with their wives at the start of the Jewish Sabbath.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance also arranged a luncheon meeting with the prime minister at the State Department.

The encouraging tone was in sharp contrast to the blunt thrust of Begin's vow, voiced upon arrival at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., that his government "cannot be pressed into signing a sham document" with Egypt.

Mincing no words, Begin said, "We are asked to sign documents which are in contradiction of the Camp David peace agreements (reached last September) and enabling our southern neighbor (Egypt)- at any moment to declare the treaty null and void and to make war against Isra-

Before their discussions in the White House Oval Office, Carter and Begin stood shoulder to shoulder and talked with muted optimism about the task before them.

"There may be ups and downs," Begin told reporters, "but when it comes to a time of crisis, we make another intellectual effort and we overcome the difficulties. Hopefully, this will be the case also during my several days in Washington." There has been no indication when the talks will conclude.

Although Carter acknowledged "we still have some way to go," he declared: "We're determined to succeed. We'll be tenacious in our efforts . hopefully leading to the conclusion of a comprehensive peace in the Mid-

Before Begin's arrival, diplomatic sources made it clear the United States backs Egypt on issues blocking completion of a treaty which once was expected to be signed by last December at the latest.

As he left Israel, Begin expressed unhappiness with the U.S. position, saying "the American delegation should think again and change their attitude." He said U.S. officials also should work to change Egypt's

New beer ordinances coming

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Hints of spring in the air often spark memories of favorite things to do on a warm day when a slight breeze blows and only a few fluffy clouds mar the otherwise clear sky.

To many people, one of those things consists of going to a city park, stretching out under a shade tree with a can of beer in one hand and slowly becoming "one with the earth."

Beginning next Thursday, Midlanders still can stretch out under a tree and let their minds wander, but it will have to be without that container

Two city ordinances passed Tuesday by Midland City Council will become effective on that date. One prohibits drinking alcoholic beverages in parks, and the other prohibits having it in possession in vehicles on city

The only exceptions will be Hogan and Cole parks, but the city may take a look at imposing restrictions there if trouble breaks out, said Wayne Kohout, director of Parks and Recreation Department, Thursday.

Those two parks were exempted to allow families or large picnic gatherings to have alcoholic beverages, he

I am wanting a and enforcement of the rules are secondary for the officers, Kohout said. 'But for someone who lives across from parks, he sees no differences in the importance, especially when there is trouble," he said.

During the summer months when park use is high, police officers often work overtime to provide extra security in park areas, Kohout said. But temperance union setting morals for residents. The ordinances are an effort to control what he called the unreasonable behavior of people who have abused the privilege of drinking in public.

Before having to take this step, the director said, he wanted the city to initiate a parks patrol, and the idea almost made gained the City Council's nod of approval. But that notion got shot down at the last minute.

A PARK PATROL would consist of a few regular policemen whose primary duty would be to watch over the parks. Secondary duties would be to answer other calls when needed.

"I realize, of course, the price tag that goes with this and that it would mean increasing the budget," Kohout said. "As a taxpayer, I'd hate to see the budget increased, too.'

He admitted that increasing surveillance duty for those already on duty is "trying to get too much mileage out of a few men.'

Because these officers have many higher priorities, they have a tendency to take care of the immediate trouble and leave. "It's like a fire," Kohout said, using an analogy. "As soon as you get it out, you leave, but there are still some sparks that flare up later.'

Kohout will wait to see how these new ordinances - and the old - are enforced before he makes another request for a park patrol.

AFTER STAYING INSIDE most of the winter, residents also have a tendency to forget those ordinances which applied the year before.

Kohout listed those which are least apparent to residents and which most often are forgotten: Sales of goods or merchandise and tent anhydrous ammonia tanks as collateral. He was convicted of fraud in 1963, sentenced to 15 years in prison and paroled in 1971. One of the new indictments spells out a similar scheme to bilk investors using non-existent oil field steam cleaners. The alleged scheme involved companies which, on paper at least, were controlled by Horton. Another indictment charges that companies in Horton's name actually belonged to Estes, in violation of Estes' parole conditions. Co-defendants Sue Goolsby of Abi-

Midland borrowing up, saving down

By GUY SULLIVAN

Midland consumers are borrowing more and saving less these days. Three Midland banking executives speculated Thursday that Tall City citizens may be borrowing more money because they are buying more

The other side of the proverbial coin, however, is that fewer Midlanders are putting money into savings, said the bankers. The situation is caused partly by what federal government officials call a national trend: inflation. And one local bank executive termed the situation a "debt society." Federal officials have said that American consumers are saving only a small fraction of their incomes, while they keep borrowing to buy more merchandise. The local bankers agreed the situation is about the same in Midland. "I wouldn't think that there would be very many people buying on borrowed money," said Bill Milby, vice president of First National Bank in

"I think the borrowers are still spending a lot of money. But here in Midland they are making a lot of money, too." He said increased salaries and wages, "spendable income," make borrowing easier here. "I think borrowing is on the increase all the

Asked why, he replied, "I think inflation has a lot to do with it. I don't think consumer borrowing shows any signs of going down." He admitted increased consumer borrowing has been a strong cause of inflation. But, he said, more people with additional spendable income is another reason for more borrowing. "In the 1960s to early 1970s, people were really operating on less spendable income," said Milby. "Now consumer borrowing is growing because there are more people who can afford to do it.'

Commercial Bank & Trust Company's Tom Stovall, senior vice president, agreed that people are borrowing more and saving less. "People are anticipating that inflation is going to become worse in the future," he reasoned. "I think people ought to save their money. You know, debt is not a desirable thing, compared to saving. "For people to go into debt to buy things at this time - thinking that to buy now is to beat inflation - is not smart thinking." He said such actions help fuel inflation, rather than beat it. An example, said the banker, is people who buy what they do not need.

'That's bad for the economy and it's bad for the individuals who do it," he said. "We live in a debt society. But Midland now has a nice cashflow, compared to the rest of the nation." Still, Stovall indicated that in his opinion there is too much borrowing in Midland because of inflationary pressures. Dale Byrom, vice president of Midland National Bank, said people unable to make payments on new products they buy become a part of a situation which is "bad for the economy." Yet, said Byrom, the Midland economy is "good" because "right now it shows no signs of slowing down. But if the Midland economy does slow down, some people who have over-bought, or over-extended themselves, will be caught short."

National figures on consumer debt are growing each year, he said. "I'm sure the debt of Midland citizens has increased in relation to their

"I'm also sure people who keep buying when their income cannot catch up to what they're spending — these people will have trouble making their payments," Byrom said.

Jimmy Dean pork plant will reopen

PLAINVIEW - Plans to reopen the Jimmy Dean pork plant here were announced Thursday by the entertainer-owner who said between 8,000 and 12,000 head of butcher hogs will be processed per week as soon as operations resume

The plant, which closed in early 1978, will reopen sometime in June. Dean announced at a news conference at Plainview-Hale County Airport.

Although the plant had closed because it was losing approximately $27,000 per week, Dean pointed out that "with us spending almost $1 million for impovements, I can truly say that we are coming back to stay.'

Dean, a native of Plainview, said the plant will employ between 110 and 120 people and will have an annual payroll of $1.3 million.

"We will be buying about $40 million worth of hogs each year," he

Board approves purchase of gamma camera

By ED TODD Staff Writer

Midland Memorial Hospital's board of directors in an emergency session Thursday unanimously approved the purchase of a $99,350 radioisotope gamma camera and $26,711 in components for use in scanning and "imaging" parts of the human body. The hospital's existing gamma camera, which the institution acquired as a re-conditioned unit 10 years ago, sustained a "complete breakdown" Tuesday, said Dr. James McGee, a hospital radiologist, who presented the hospital's case for a replacement of the camera and complementing computer and formatter for recording the images on film.

The electronic unit, which is a "thousand times more sensitive than what we take on X-rays," is used in diagnosis and patient care," McGee

McGee said the camera is "essential for nuclear medicine technolo-

"Often scanning is the only indication of an abnormality," said McGee

"Basically, it is an extremely useful tool...that is used everywhere.'

For example, the scanning tool is a "very quick, easy and accurate way to determine if a person has injury to the spleen," McGee said. The unit is also used in detecting abnormalities in the brain, heart, fiver and other organs and bones. The unit produces images on film.

McGee said representatives of the re-conditioned unit's manufacturer, Picker X-Ray Corp. of Fort Worth, 'pronounced it terminal."

But for 10 years, "We have had extremely good luck with this instrument," McGee said. After the unit's breakdown, the images produced by the unit were "totally unintelligible," he said.

He said repairing and upgrading the already re-conditioned unit, which he characterized as "five generations behind the state of the art," would cost $40,000 and "would not be a prudent" alternative.

He likened the older unit to a B-29 Superfortress airplane of the 1940s, as compared with today's supersonic

Renting a replacement would cost $20,000 a month, said Wayne Ulrich, hospital administrator.

And without a scanning unit, We're out of business," McGee

McGee said Ohio-Nuclear of Solon, Ohio, manufacturer of the scanner the board authorized the hospital to order, could deliver the $126,061 package within 30 days.

In the meantime, patients needing radioisotope diagnosis are referred to hospitals such as Odessa's Medical Center for scanning, McGee said. .

Board director L. Decker Dawson asked if similar units were at other area hospitals, such as in Andrews.

"I just don't want (patients) to go to Odessa if they (scanners) are in Andrews," Dawson said.

Board President Ed Magruder said similar scanners were also in Big Spring, San Angelo and Lubbock.

"There are others available in West Texas," McGee said.

The radiologist said the Midland hospital charges between $100 and $120 per scan and said between 80 and 90 scans are made each month.

Tevis Herd, president of the hospital's board of trustees, recommended purchase of the equipment. He said the trustees, who had viewed the reconditioned scanner as obsolescent, were planning for a replacement in the 1979-80 budget. This was before the scanner broke down, he said. Dr. Michael Burleson, a physician on the board of directors, also cited need for the scanner.

"The alternative isn't very pleasant," Burleson said. Later, he said he was referring to catheterizing and Director Frank Cowden made the motion, seconded by Robert Pendleton, to purchase the equipment.

Ulrich said the hospital had money in reserve, largely from donations, to purchase the equipment.

Attorney Mike Morgan, representing hospital attorney Ted Kerr, said state statutes provide for a public entity to bypass the normal bidding for major purchases in cases of "public calamity," the necessity "to preserve or protect the public health' and "unforeseen damage." He said the latter two seemed to apply to the hospital's case.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - Vietnam today rejected a Chinese proposal for talks to end their two-week-old war, calling it a "trick" to hide Peking's "war intensification." Sources here said Chinese troops meanwhile were closing a vise on the Vietnamese defenders of Lang Son. In a televised address in Moscow today, Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev demanded that China immediately halt its invasion of Sovietallied Vietnam and withdraw its troops "to the last soldier." Brezhnev threatened no specific action, howevand elsewhere have been expecting the war's major battle to be fought around Lang Son, a strategic crossroads town 80 miles northeast of Hanoi and 10 miles south of the Chinese border.

Bangkok sources said today the Chinese have virtually encircled the Lang Son and cut off its highway arteries.

Parents seek better education for deaf children

By SUSAN TOTH Staff Writer

"We've got a group of lost kids, and I don't think the city even knows they're here. "We just want to bring our kids back home and educate them here." That was the primary concern Thursday night of some 25 parents of deaf children who gathered at Lamar Elementary School to discuss ways to improve the education provided for their children. The parents assigned top priority to changing the structure of the regional deaf education program to allow Midland's students to stay in Midland for their secondary education and to be "mainstreamed" into fifth and sixth grade classes in Midland. The regional program - centered in Odessa - allows students from age 3 through the sixth grade to attend classes in Midland, then moves all children to Odessa for junior and senior high school. The Midland primary classes are taught in Lamar Elementary school. where regular classes go only through the fourth grade. All deaf students are "mainstreamed" into as many regular classes as possible, but fifth and sixth grade deaf students at the school are 'mainstreamed" into fourth grade classes. Two other priorities decided on by the parents were: to insist on a separate speech therapy room and to ask for more equipment for the students. Speech therapy for students in the regional day school at Lamar has been conducted behind a partition in one of the regular classrooms this year because there is not enough room for both hearing and deaf students in the school's regular speech room.

With the new voice amplification system the speech therapist uses, the noise distracts students with partial hearing who are working with another group in the same classroom, the parents said. Parents plan to inform directors of the regional program of their priorities and meet with them to find possible solutions. Alternatives, they said, include going to the Midland school board and demanding teachers be hired here to serve their students.

"The federal law says my deaf child will ge the same edu-cation as my hearing child," Melvin Dunn, one of the parents, said. "I don't consider having to drive 50 miles round-trip to school equal education. "I say I want more choices. Right now my choices are to send my kid to Odessa or to send my kid to Austin (to the state residential school). I won't accept either of those without a fight," Dunn said.

Not all the parents at the meeting agreed a Midland-centered program was essential, however. "We fought for years to get a county-wide program so kids in the outlying areas could go to school," Gay Hathaway noted. Her 16-year-old daughter attends the Austin school for the deaf, and Mrs. Hathaway feels it is the best education she can get.

"No deaf child will ever be head cheerleader here," she said. "Education is more than classrooms." Others noted that more extracurricular programs might be offered in Odessa with larger numbers of deaf students in school "But our kids can't stay after school for activities unless the parents can pick them up, because they have to be bused to Odessa,' another pointed out.

Names in the news

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd is wrestling with a problem that has nothing to do with inflation, energy policy or foreign affairs.

The West Virginia Democrat has to decide what tunes to play on his fiddle when he appears Saturday night on a nationally televised edition of the Grand Ole Opry.

Byrd, a fiddler since childhood, will be a guest on a special Public Broadcasting Service telecast of the 53-year-old country music show.

"I haven't decided what to play," he said in a telephone interview from his Washington home. But he said it's likely that "Turkey in the Straw," "Red Bird" or "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" will be among the WASHINGTON (AP) Sen. Herman Talmadge rose time and again to acknowledge the tributes of his colleagues. The last time he appeared on the Senate floor, he'd had trouble standing at all.

Talmadge returned to the Senate on Thursday after five weeks of treatment for alcohol abuse.

"I am overwhelmed by the warm, generous and eloquent remarks ... I shall always cherish your friendship," the 65-year-old Georgia Democrat said after nearly a score of senators offered public greeting.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Actor Ed Asner is everyone's city editor; he might even be able to ride roughshod over the Washington press corps. Asner, the star of the "The Lou Grant Show" in which he plays the city editor of the mythical "Los Angeles Tribune," appeared Thursday at a National Press Club luncheon, where a number of reporters said he looked like their first city editor.

Asner said he thought he looked like a city editor because he was "bald, had the bulk, and a boss' stance. But then I could also be the foreman of a factory or the owner of a used-car dealership. It's that bossist atti-

The actor also confessed he once really was a newspaper reporter. He held up a yellowed, wrinkled copy of the Wyandotte High School Pantograph in Kansas City, Kan., and read his contribution to the feature page: a column called "The Question Box," in which years ago he asked, "What do you want for graduation and what do you think you'll get?"

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - A brief reference to a new movie about a potential disaster at a nuclear power plant is not brief enough for General Electric Corp., which says it withdrew its sponsorship of a Barbara Walters television special because of it.

General Electric, which has sponsored Miss Walters' specials since 1976, said it is withdrawing because the show "contains material that could cause undue public concern about nuclear power.'

In the show, scheduled for airing March 13 on ABC, Miss Walters interviews Jane Fonda, who stars in the soon-to-be released film "The China Syndrome." Miss Walters introduces Miss Fonda by saying she plays "a television reporter trying to expose an accident at a nuclear

Toxic fire fumes force evacuation

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) - Toxic fumes from an industrial fire prompted the evacuation of hundreds of persons early today.

The fire, which broke out Thursday night in a plastics factory warehouse and spread rapidly, was brought under control shortly after midnight. At one point, the fire had spread over a half-mile area.

Three persons were injured during the fire, but their identities and conditions were not available early today.

Fumes from hydrochloric acid and phosgene gas spread through the area, forcing the evacuation of about 250 to 300 persons, said city Civil Defense director Melvin Ruhl. An emergency center was set up about eight blocks upwind from the fire, he added.

Several buildings were destroyed in the blaze, officials said.

Siamese twins separated in court-ordered operation

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Four tiny hands flailed in the air as surgeons separated Siamese twins in a courtordered operation, taking the life of one so her sister could have the heart they shared since birth.

The surviving infant, called "Baby A" or "Twin A" since she was delivered first by Caesarean section on Feb. 20, was listed in critical condi-

The six-hour operation - performed Thursday at St. Christopher's Hospital for Children - commanded the skills of eight doctors, six nurses and three heart pump technicians.

"Twin B was sacrificed in order to save another life," Dr. Laurence Somers, the chief surgeon, told reporters an hour after the operation. 'Im quite optimistic. Twin A...is doing as well as can be expected."

The surgical team knew from the start that one girl would have to die if the other was to live.

After an anesthetic was administered, the team gingerly positioned the lone, six-chambered heart and a common liver in the chest and abdominal cavities of Twin A.

At 1:28 p.m., Dr. R.K. Balsara clamped off Twin B's primary heart

"The baby was then taken out of the operating room, dead," Somers said. 'It wasn't difficult to detect an emotional upheaval among the nurses when the life support systems were unhooked.

"We did something today that resulted in the death of an individual, he said. "We ended up in court yesterday to get a court order for the separation in order to protect ourselves and the hospital" from liabili-

"That's only been done once before. But we were participating in a procedure in which someone would die. In effect there was a homicide," the surgeon added. The twins' parents, a Philadelphia couple who have requested anonymity, have two other children - a boy

'They knew it would be twins, but not Siamese twins," Somers said. "It took a while for us to get consent for the operation. Birth of such twins is a shock to any parents. The prospect of surgery is another shock. But of course the biggest shock is the realization one of your children is going to

Before Thursday's surgery, four operations had been performed on Siamese twins sharing a common heart. None survived infancy.

Three more indicted by grand jury

EL PASO, Texas (AP) Three more persons have been indicted by a federal grand jury probing narcotics trafficking and other alleged crimes.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Mike McDonald said Thursday the three were named in a sealed indictment handed down earlier in the week.

The federal grand jury is conducting a wideranging investigation into parcotics trafficking, prostitution and other areas. It is an outgrowth of the shooting death last December of Chagra, whose specialty was defending persons charged with narcoticsrelated offenses.

The special agent in charge of the FBI office in El Paso has warned local businessmen who may be involved on the fringes of narcotics traffic to come forward now if they expect any help.

'We have found in this area that some of our finer businessmen have been corrupted by some of the young ladies that they have access to around here," Special Agent O. Leon Dobbs said. "They've been placed in an extortiondemand situation. All of a sudden, they're in and they're forced to give financing and other things.

Dobbs called for such persons to come forth in a speech he gave Wednesday to an El Paso civic group.

"It was more or less a pitch to businessmen who had somehow got corrupted, either with women, money or other things, to assess their situation and let us know about it," he said. Dobbs said the implication that cooperative witnesses would be dealt with sympathetically is correct. Dobbs said cooperation from citizens corrupted by organized crime would be a shortcut for his agents. "I made the point that in order to convict a prominent businessman, would have to run (interrogate) 25 'mules' people involved in drugs at the lowest level whereas if I had the witnesses, upstanding businessmen...

"We're going to make an example of a few investors."

sending whistling

PASADENA, Calif. AP) - The far-ranging Voyager 1 spacecraft, which already has produced spectacular pictures of Jupiter, is also transmitting the eerie whistling and popping sounds of space.

The sounds heard from 400 million miles away are essentially sonic booms that are made by tiny particles racing from Jupiter toward the sun, said Frederick Scarf of TRW Systems, who heads the plasma wave experiment for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration mission

Officials at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here played recordings of the space noise at a news conference Thursday, as Voyager 1 soared toward Monday morning's close encounter with Jupiter. A sistership, Voyager 2, will fly by the giant planet in about four months. Both are to continue toward

The space tapes included sounds like squealing car tires, wind whistling through a tunnel and popping popcorn. Deep, artillery-like booms were heard periodically as the spacecraft and its instruments added their noises.

Scarf said the major sounds heard so far involved the solar wind a stream of electrically charged particles, called plasma, that the sun continually flings out in all directions. The wind travels deep into the solar system at speeds of perhaps 250 miles a sec-

Jupiter's magnetic field acts as a shield that deflects the solar wind and slows it down, producing a shock wave of sorts called a bow

'The same processes also accelerate a small number of electrons and protons (subatomic particles in the plasma) to high," Scarf said. "This causes some of them to go faster than the solar wind toward the planet," where many are bounced back into the wind at supersonic speeds.

Voyager Cafe collects damages from Ma Bell for listing error

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A local barbecue restaurant will receive $14,750 in cash and $966.60 in free advertising because it was wrongly listed in the Southwestern Bell Telphone Co. Yellow Pages under Owners William G. Chapman, who has since sold his interest, and Ralph Tanasoca sued Southwestern Bell and Gulf Printing Co. of Houston for $200,000, saying the incorrect listing was libelous and damaging to their business.

ROME

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) - The year Greg went north for the winter - well, to avoid bombastic rhetoric, it just didn't set right with everyone.

The club really hasn't been the same since Fred and Sue decided that Point Barrow, Alaska, would be ideal for their February vacation.

You see, Graham and Carla, who always have been the trend-setters around here, had just gotten back from this fabulously expensive resort on the Yucatan peninsula where everyone has his own private thatched cabana on a beach like talcum powder.

"It was five below when we left O'Hare and the snow was higher than my window air conditioners," said Graham over a round of Margaritas that included his personal instructions to the bartender on how to frost the lips of the glasses with salt. "I wanted to hug the first palm tree I saw getting off the plane.'

GREG DECLINED the Margarita. He ordered a Russian vodka on the rocks and asked the bartender to keep a bottle encased in a block of ice, "Siberian style," so in the future he could drink it neat. Like the North Slope oil workers.

"The drifts were higher than the aircraft hangar when we landed," he said, "and it was still snowing. I guess the wind chill factor was somewhere near 50 below. You almost expected the breath from those sled dogs to spell out A-R-F, A-R-F."

This information seemed to frost Graham, who was wearing his straw sombrero and the serape hand-woven by the local tribe in an ancient Mayan

"We brought back some fantastic pottery too," enthused Carla. "The old craftsmen are fast dying out but our guide knew a stall way back in the marketplace where this wizen old Indian woman...

"It's like scrimshaw," Sue cut her off sympathetically. "You know, carving on whale bones and walrus teeth. Not many left who still take the time to do it, but we got lucky. The missionary who flies in once a month to say Mass took us to this Eskimo vil-

THE WAITER arrived with another round of Margaritas about then, and, of course, Greg's Russian vodka-

Showing us where his sunburn was still peeling on the back of his neck. Graham got the floor long enough to tell us how the Mexican government had used a computer to locate this resort, feeding into it data on weather, humidity, texture of the sand, insects, safe, unpolluted beaches, available fresh water, etc. "Statistics showed the place had 240 days of sunshine a year," he continued, "and we hardly saw a cloud the whole time we were there. The Caribbean was so emerald green and clear, you could snorkel that reef all the way to Honduras."

Emerald green did it. Greg saw his cue as clearly as if it were flashed on an idiot card in a TV talk show.

"Funny," he said, "emerald green exactly describes a glacier on a clear sub-zero morning. Of course we only got two hours of sunshine a day, but that didn't stop us from trotting around on snow shoes and snowmobiling under the northern lights, which also, come to think of it, have kind of a greenish tinge." Right here, he showed off his frostbite blotches.

That's pretty much the way it went he rest of the evening.

CARLA SHOWED us her black coral necklace with matching earrings and described the Brazilian string bikini she never would have the courage to wear at the club pool. Sue had on her shark's teeth pendant and couldn't wait for the next cold snap to dazzle them down at the supermarket with her genuine wolverine parka that the Arctic Institute had approved for 80 below of something cochinita pibil, pork in a Yukatan hot sauce, and ceviche de caracol del Caribe, a sea snail marinated in lemon, chile and olive oil. Gregg countered with whale steaks cooked over a seal oil stove, and bannock and pemmican for hors d'ouvres.

Graham, the gourmet, raved about

Carla had learned how to play the net from this "real groovy pro who looked like Poncho Gonzales." Sue scheduled in had gone ice fishing with an Indian guide and caught a 40-pound arctic Big Spring

Graham and Carla had explored the Mayan ruins at Chichen Itza and danced the Mexican hat dance to the music of a real Mariachi band. Greg and Sue had visited the site of an old Russian whaling station and "right in flashing lights and ear the heart of downtown Barrow" had found a way-out discotheque called the Malamute Saloon, where Moo-Moo Uckluk and His sled-dog Six 'could sure shake the ice cubes from your mukluks.

TEMPERS GREW a mite strained gems and precious when they compared the bargains to be had on Isla de Mujeros, which is a free port, with the duty free shop at Nome, but we thought the whole thing a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday might still be settled in a civilized and Sunday in the Dora fashion with color slide shows at 100

Graham said for a small down payfor adults and 50 cents ment and $34 a month, he and Carla for children. had bought the use of a beach hacienda for one week out of every year for the rest of their lives on a beautiful isolated cove fringed with coconut

For less than half that price, Greg said he and Sue had bought into a condominium complex of geodesic villas, made to look like igloos, on a completely unspoiled stretch by the Bering Sea.

Old pros load up on market's big bargains

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - Yes, the stock market is still there, but like Billy Carter, it is considerably less obvious of late, exhausted after having caused another of those spasmodic commotions for which it is Too much else is going on anyway, and so its ordinarily avid fans seem to have forgotten it. In view of high interest and international uncertainties and energy shortages, they ask, where can it go? No matter that old pros claim to be loading up on bargains, as the legends tell us. No matter that the tiny, 8.1 price-earnings ratio of the Dow Jones industrial average, seems to confirm the bargain Can such tempting prospects for distant gains compete with the glossy promises of the gold pushers? Isn't the vision of gold at $300 an ounce sometime this year more thrilling than a 10-cent dividend

Gold has hardly lost its ancient luster, and every time it seems about to gather tarnish there comes a messiah proclaiming it to be the light to follow. It's a cult, the stock brokers say. But cults convert.

Some cult leaders, in fact, magically transmute the economic despair of their followers into gold in their own rather than client pockets. Geared to the despairing, their survival seminars are big money. But not all those who despair of the stock market switch to gold. They move to fixed income securities such as bonds, for example, or to the relatively new money market mutual funds. The latter pool the funds of their shareowners and buy into securities yielding high interest returns. In January, $13.4 billion was held by these funds A year earlier, the total was only $4.6 billion. They're still growing swiftly. In January alone, says the Investment Company Institute, an industry group, $2.5 billion was added to their assets. And indications are that the trend continued in Farsighted? Hard to say. But Merrill Lynch Economics, which has a pretty fair reputation, foresees the prime rate, the commercial paper rate and the three-month bill rate plunging in 1979. All those are short-term rates, the kind favored by the money market mutual funds. But M-L also expects declines in long term rates, such as for mortgages, and for corporate, municipal and government bonds. Other potential stock market investors have been sinking their money into six-month savings certificates at sayings institutions, earning for this minimal effort a return of more than 10 percent, pre-No matter that General Motors offers 11 percent, Ford almost 9 and Texaco more than 8. Stocks are out. The crowd crowds, as they say. They move together into the latest rage, and that's anything but Meanwhile, back on Wall Street, what are the successful professionals saying? Nothing that they haven't been saying for years: That the small investor shouldn't try to outguess the marketplace. Such an attitude seems heavy with pomposity and condescension, which is probably so. And maybe loaded with hypocrisy as well, because pros also have been known to lose their socks trying to beat the odds

But history does provide some evidence that in-out trading doesn't do much for a person's portfolio except reduce it by the size of the commissions paid. Better, it is said, to hold for the long term.

While nobody can say where the stock market is headed, it wouldn't be surprising some day to see returning to stocks the prodigal children who fled into gold, the survival cults and fixed-interest se-

Prospective buyers should be told of hurricane threat

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Northerners escaping to the South Texas coast should know before they buy a beach cottage that a hurricane might destroy it in the next three decades, a Senate committee has "As certain as we sit here, a hurricane's going to rip through there (South Padre Island)," Sen. A.R. 'Babe" Schwartz, D-Galveston, said Wednesday. "Persons investing their life savings in property need to be protected against loss of that property, he told the Senate Natural Resources Committee.

"South Padre Island today is what Galveston Island was in 1900 except the construction is pret-tier," Schwartz said, referring to a hurricane that killed 6,000 people at the turn of the century in Schwartz is sponsoring a bill that would require real estate agents to inform prospective buyers of propery hazards, including fault lines, eroding shorelines and channel washouts The next hurricane to hit the Texas coast will cost $1 billion in insurance losses, he said.

Under the statewide wind storm insurance pool, future hurricane losses eventually will be paid by policyholders throughout the state, he added. "It'll mean a 25 percent statewide rate hike when a hurricane comes, plus the 25 percent hike along the coast," the senator said. Gerhardt Schulle Jr. of the Texas Association of Realtors opposed the bill. He said it picked on real

"If you want to be a crook, you could sell your own nome and this bill wouldn't affect you," Schulle said. Under Schwartz's bill, real estate agents could lose their license for not disclosing property hazards.

Two items to be studied by Board of Appeals

Two items will be reviewed when the Board of Appeals meets at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the basement of City Hall. William T. Shaner of 301 N. Dallas St. is requesting variance to use a certain type of building in a fire district for organizational headquarters. He also is asking for a variance from the electrical codes. Quanah Construction Co. of 200 N. Loraine St. requests a variance to eliminate stops in parking garages and to use pre-cast walls as car stops.

IEA countries agree to 5 percent reduction

PARIS (AP) — The United States and 19 other leading industrial nations have agreed to reduce oil consumption by 5 percent in order to offset the shortfall of Iranian oil, he International Energy Agency announced today.

The IEA's 20 members agreed unanimously on the need to take "firm. prompt and coordinated action,' Chairman Niels Ersboll of Denmark told a news conference after a twoday meeting.

Ersboll said the oil supply situation was sufficiently serious for prompt action, but that it had not reached the point at which the organization's mandatory emergency sharing plan would have to be implemented.

"It is vital for action to be taken now when there is still time and in order to prevent a deterioration of the situation," Ersboll said.

The IEA has left policy decisions on how to achieve the 5 percent reduction to individual members, he said, adding: "But we expect contributions from individual members to be simi-

In Tokyo, officials said before the action was announced that they believed Japan can meet the target with an energy conservation program it adopted last month. The program calls on government ministries and agencies to lower their room temperatures 2 degrees and to cut the use of cars by 20 percent.

The planned 5 percent reduction, two million barrels of oil per day, compares with an estimated 4 percent shortfall because of the Iranian cutoff, which has been compensated in part by increased production by other Persian Gulf states, and use of stockpiles in consumer nations.

Ersboll-said the IEA had also informed the major international oil companies on the need for a fair distribution of available supplies to sequestered jury faced a mountain of documents today as it pondered whether four Texas oilmen and a former Florida Power Corp. executive conspired to hike prices with an illegal daisy chain of sales.

The jury of seven women and five men received the case late Thursday afternoon and recessed overnight after only a little more than one hour of deliberations.

For two days the jurors had heard attorneys for the government and the defendants argue points in summation and refer to the voluminous documentary evidence entered during the four-weeks trial.

"This is not a blood and guts case," Assistant U.S. Attorney Chris Hoyer told the jury. "It's been dull - a lot of documents - dull to you, dull to

But he said "the evidence is all there" that the five men on trial conspired to pass oil shipments through a number of intermediate companies to raise prices and take money for themselves before selling it to oil-starved Florida Power Corp. of St. Petersburg in 1973-74.

Defense attorneys contended the government put the oilmen on trial only because they took advantage of the Arab embargo of the time to make profits in the American free enter-

"Isn't that ironic - talking about the American economy, free market, competition ... When they were fixing prices," Hoyer said. He recalled the words of Angel ker Ray Granlund devised a scheme for kiting prices and taking kickbacks along with Perez and Richard Raymond, who was senior vice president of Florida Power of St. Petersburg. Granlund, 72, will go to trial later.

He was severed from the other defendants because of ill health. Raymond, 63, is on trial along with Walter L. Ballard, 59; John L. Burns, 50; James R. Clark, 49, and Ronald

Lawyer hit with fine

HOUSTON (AP) — A San Antonio lawyer has been placed on a year's probation, fined $100,000 and ordered to forfeit $842,528 federal authorities contend he received as oil brokerage commissions in excess of those allowed under oil pricing regulations.

Jack E. Guenther entered a plea of

The statement said that about Dec. 30, 1975, Guenther and James E. Fisher, representing Uni, signed an agreement to pay Guenther $1.50 for each barrel of oil he located and that Guenther received $842,528 between February 1976 and August 1977. Black ordered that the restitution payments be completed by the end of the one-year probation period. A oneyear jail sentence was suspended. *

In another Wednesday action, U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals quashed a grand jury subpoena that had requested all documents pertaining to personnel and consultants for M&A and Foremost Petroleum. Seals told prosecutors to rewrite the subpoena and be more specific.

Attorneys for the companies had argued the government was "going on a fishing expedition" while actually wanting the records of a former M&A employee.

HE SAID THE LACK of 1980 budget money doesn't mean the project will come to an immediate halt. 'We have about $65 million in the pipeline in some form or another, mostly funds that have been allocated to states for the removal of outdoor advertising signs and the screening of junkyards," he said. Some states could operate for five years with money already alloted to them; others don't have

Moeller said that in 1978 states asked for $52 million for highway beautification, "but I had only $9.5 million to give out."

The concept started in 1958 as a voluntary program, with states receiving an incentive of one-half of one percent of their federal highway funds if they controlled advertising signs within 660 feet of interstate highways.

But only about half the states participated, and in 1965, prodded by Johnson and his wife and over the objection of the outdoor ad industry, Congress passed the Highway Beautification Act.

THE ACT EXTENDED billboard control to other primary federal highways and to junkyards and offered incentives for landscaping around highways. States not complying could lose 10 percent of federal highway money.

Signs along the designated highways were allowed only in areas zoned commercial or industrial and junkyards only in industrial areas.

The act also said "just compensation" must be paid to those whose signs were removed and those who screened junkyards. However, many local governments claimed authority in this area and did not offer compensation. A 1976 amendment to the act required local governments to make such payments - which are provided by the federal government.

How is compensation determined? "It's the same as evaluating real estate," Moeller said. "We appraise the structure, the site, the number of cars which pass by and the fair market value."

HE SAID PAYMENT could range from $50 for a small sign to several thousand for an elaborate electronic billboard, with the nationwide average about $2,000 for each.

So far only four states have had federal highway money withheld because of non-compliance, and three, New York, Alabama and Oklahoma, had the funds restored when they quickly came into compli-
