Lester Flatt

Lester Flatt dies

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer-guitarist Lester Flatt, who teamed with banjo-picker Earl Scruggs to spearhead the rise of honky bluegrass music, died Friday. He was 64.

Flatt, a soft-spoken man who usually wore a white cowboy hat, died of heart failure at Baptist Hospital at 1:20 p.m., hospital spokesman Paul Moore said.

Flatt was hospitalized April 23. He suffered a brain hemorrhage late last year and had undergone open heart surgery in 1975.

Flatt and Scruggs teamed up in 1948 and called their group "The Foggy Mountain Boys." They were best-known for "Foggy Mountain Breakdown," which they played during a chase scene in the movie "Bonnie and Clyde," and for "The Ballad of Jed Clampett" from "The Beverly Hillbillies."

Music historians credit the pair with preserving pure bluegrass music and with leading the music to new popularity in the 1960s.

Trains collide

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Two passenger trains collided north of here Friday and up to 30 persons were slightly injured, police said.

A Red Cross spokesman on the scene told reporters "we are digging through the wreckage but as far as we can determine there are no dead."

Reports on the number of injuries varied from 20 to 30. Most were treated at a hospital and released and one was admitted, officials said.

Pledge lacking

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state of Louisiana, the cities of Cincinnati and San Diego and three counties in New Jersey, Michigan and California have yet to pledge compliance with anti-inflation guidelines, the Carter administration said Friday.

All states and every city and county with at least 5,000 employees had been asked by the Council on Wage and Price Stability to indicate whether they would comply with the administration's voluntary wage and price standards.

Pledges received to date show that every state but Louisiana is prepared to meet the ceilings, while 95 percent of all cities and 92 percent of the counties will comply, the council said.

Block pledged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and George McGovern, D-S.D., said Friday they plan to work actively to block legislation to lift U.S. economic sanctions against Rhodesia.

Weekend travel may be inhibited

By The Associated Press

Car owners prepared on Friday for another weekend of service station closings, as state energy officials across the nation drew up emergency plans for use if the gasoline shortage gets worse.

President Carter accused the House of Representatives of "political timidity" for turning down a bill that would have given him the power to ration fuel if necessary.

An Associated Press spot check showed that some motorists will find it almost impossible to get gasoline this Sunday. Other drivers will find it relatively easy. It all depends on where you live.

In California, where gasoline purchases in many areas already are limited under an odd-even sales system, weekend closings appear to be the rule rather than the exception. The Automobile Club of Southern California said 92.5 percent of all metropolitan service stations will be closed on Sunday; almost two out of three will be closed on Saturday.

In Colorado, officials of the Automobile Association of America said they didn't expect any real problems. Spokesman Doug Damerst said about 75 percent of the service stations in the Denver area would be closed Sunday, but added that those in the rest of the state would be operating as normal.

And less than half the stations checked by the AAA in Wisconsin planned to close Sunday and only a few said they were limiting sales.

Among Friday's gasoline developments: —Carter said the rejection of the rationing plan caused him to be "shocked and...embarrassed for our nation's government." He challenged Congress to come up with its own rationing plan in 90 days, promising to give the lawmakers "every possible assistance."

—The Justice Department said it will investigate the possibility of anti-trust violations in connection with the gasoline station shutdown that has been threatened for May 17 through May 20. The drive for a shutdown is being led by California dealers who want to protest Energy Department regulations that limit their profit margins.

—State officials urged voluntary conservation of gasoline, but said they were ready to impose mandatory measures — including rationing in some cases — if necessary.

Chuck Clinton, energy planner for the District of Columbia, said the district's mayor and the governor of Maryland had agreed on an odd-even sales system that could be implemented on 48-hours notice. Virginia officials were discussing the possibility of joining the agreement.

Pennsylvania officials also said they had a standby rationing program ready. "We do not anticipate that we would need it, but we're ready," said Nat Goldhaber, executive assistant to Lt. Gov. William Scranton III. "Our supplies are tight, but adequate. We feel there are sufficient supplies to get us through the summer, but we are urging voluntary conservation at every possible step," he said.

Gov. Ella Grasso of Connecticut said earlier this week she believed conservation would work. "We've got to start thinking in these (conservation terms). If this would not be sufficient, we could have to go to some distribution problems."

In neighboring New York, officials said there was no serious shortage in most of the state and no talk about rationing.

Tourist areas were particularly concerned about gasoline. The Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce urged local residents to buy their gasoline between Monday and Thursday, leaving the weekend supply for visitors.

There have been predictions that the real crunch will come during the Memorial Day weekend, both because of increased travel and because dealers will be near the end of their monthly allocations.

Next weekend also could pose a problem if the call for a service station shutdown picks up steam. So far, the picture is mixed. The 400-member Iowa Gasoline Dealers Association put off for a week a decision on whether to join the shutdown. Larry Blixt, the association director, said many members "think it's selfish to do something like that to consumers."

The AAA in Colorado said its survey showed 10 percent of the dealers in that state want to shut down, while 90 percent are either undecided or against the idea.

'Timid' Congress blasted for nixing rationing program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, his nearly 2½ years in office marked by fierce confrontations with Congress over energy policy, lambasted the House Friday for "political timidity" in rejecting his standby gasoline rationing plan.

"I was shocked and I was embarrassed for our nation's government," Carter said in challenging the lawmakers to write a plan of their own within 90 days.

But while the president said he won't submit another standby rationing plan, White House planners reportedly were considering a less drastic gasoline-conservation plan for possible use this summer.

Officials were at work on a proposal for a national odd-even rationing plan like the one now being used in California, administration sources said.

Reacting to Thursday's 246-159 House defeat of his twice-revised standby plan gasoline rationing, Carter accused members of Congress of bowing to "local and parochial interests."

Speaking to reporters and photographers in the Oval Office, the president said House members who voted against the plan "apparently put their heads in the sand" in refusing to give him the tools needed to cope with a major oil shortage.

"If we should have a serious interruption of gasoline and oil supplies, our nation would be unprepared to deal with it," Carter said.

"I challenge the Congress within the next 90 days to develop their own rationing plan, fair, equitable and balanced," Carter said, adding:

"Obviously, I will give them every possible assistance if and when they are willing to exhibit the willingness to take this necessary action in the interest of our country."

A law passed in 1975 required the president to send a standby rationing plan to Congress. That was the plan that has been rejected. Carter indicated Friday he has now complied with the 1975 law and is not required — nor does he intend — to submit another plan.

A number of congressional energy aides claimed Friday that there was little real chance that Congress would take the president up on his challenge.

While the rejected standby plan was intended to be held in reserve for a major emergency like another Arab oil embargo, the odd-even plan now said to be under consideration is designed for more immediate use.

The plan is still being "toyed around with" by officials of the Office of Management and Budget and the White House Domestic Council and has not been formally submitted to the president, said one source.

Under the plan, the sale of gasoline would probably be restricted to vehicles with even-number license plates on even-numbered days of the month and to vehicles with odd-number plates on odd-numbered days.

California instituted such a plan earlier this week. And a number of other states and metropolitan areas are considering similar plans.

Carter, Brezhnev to meet in Vienna

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev will sign a new arms treaty next month in Vienna at a conference that U.S. officials hope will pave the way for more frequent summits between U.S. and Soviet leaders.

The June 15-18 summit conference will be the first between the U.S. president and the ailing Soviet leader.

The conference plans were announced at the White House by Carter's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, and in Moscow.

Shortly after the simultaneous announcement was made, Carter continued his battle to win Senate ratification of the pact by arguing that its rejection would be devastating to the U.S.-Soviet relationship and to efforts to control nuclear arms.

While the treaty will be the central theme of the meeting, the talks are also expected to deal with subsequent arms negotiations, the possibility of regular summit conferences and the overall scope of U.S.-Soviet relations, a U.S. official said.

The administration official, who addressed reporters in the White House press room on the grounds that he not be identified by name, refused to comment on the state of Brezhnev's health or what impact it would have on the Vienna meetings.

But he said the conference, which would last 2½ to 3 days, would include joint meetings of the U.S. and Soviet delegations, "some private time for the two leaders to get together and have private discussions on a one-on-one basis," and more social occasions.

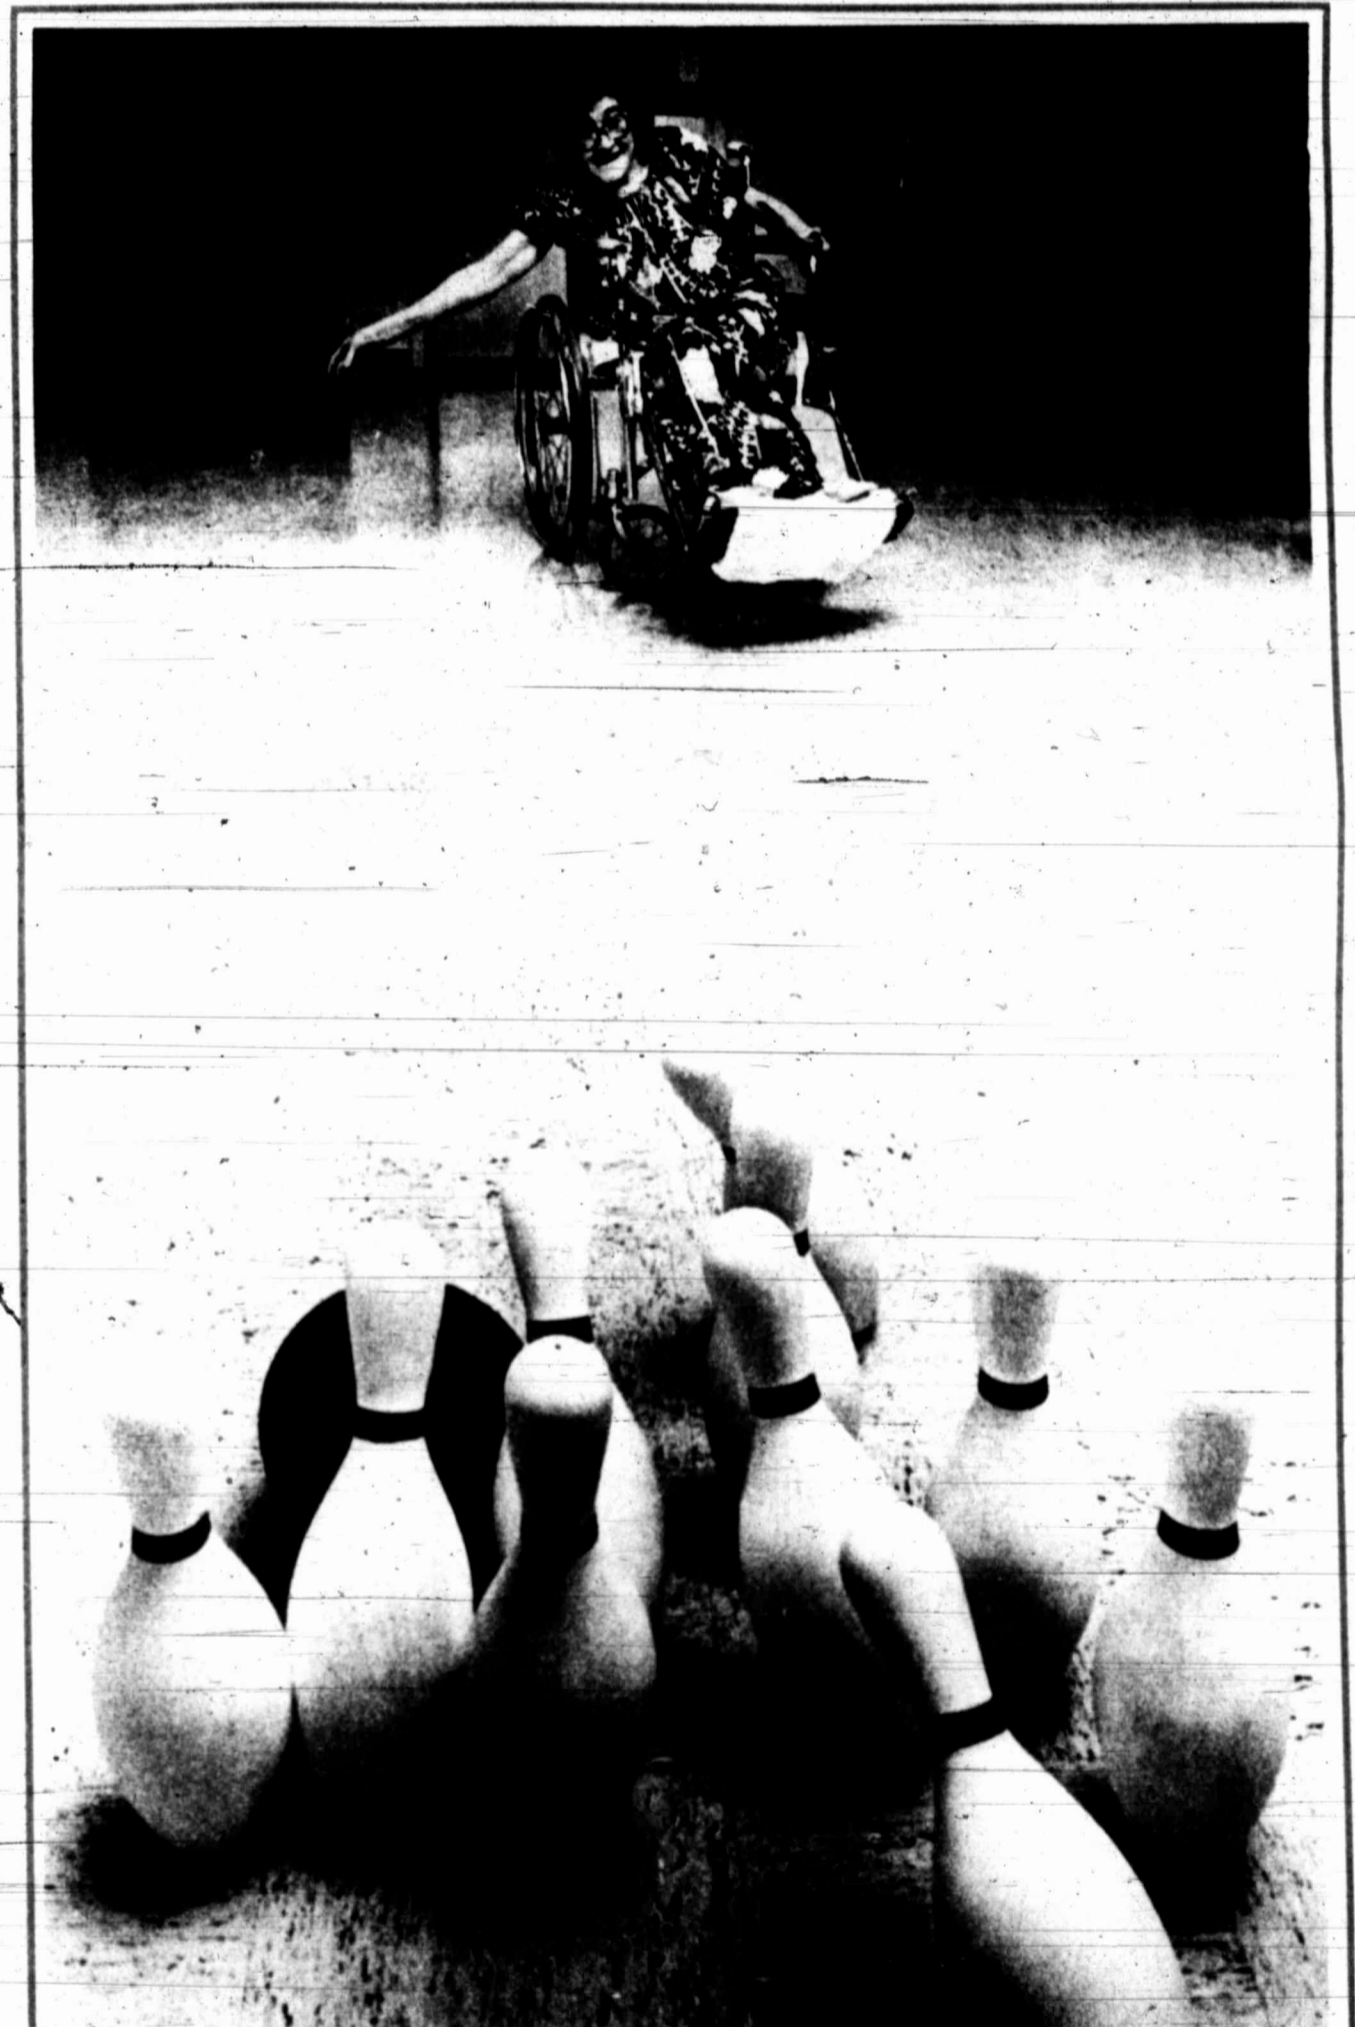

The summit conference will be the first between the United States and the Soviet Union since Brezhnev and President Gerald R. Ford met in Vladivostok in late 1974.

Agreement on the treaty, and some of the pact's details, were revealed Wednesday. During the five weeks leading up to the weekend conference, U.S. and Soviet officials will complete work on the agenda for the talks and work on approved translations of the pact.

It has not been determined whether the treaty will be signed at the start or conclusion of the talks.

The Senate must ratify the treaty by a two-thirds vote before it can go into effect. The final outcome of the Senate voting, which may not take place until next year, is far from certain.

Speaking to visiting editors at the White House Friday afternoon, Carter said that "rejection of this treaty would have a devastating adverse effect on our nation's relationship with the Soviet Union and the control of nuclear weaponry."

Westgate residents strike out

Table games 'bowled over' by pin set

On a recent afternoon, residents of Westgate Manor Nursing Home set aside their check-boards and called a strike.

Not only did they strike, but they spared, scratched and would have rolled "gutter balls" if they had only had an regulation bowling alley.

"I've set up table games for them, but they got tired of them pretty fast," said Rosemary McClaren, activities director for the home.

"This bowling tournament got them pretty excited," Mrs. McClaren said Westgate purchased the lightweight bowling set-up for $50, using donations given during Christmas. Tables are cleared away in the dining area to make room for the "alley."

Lee High School students helped set pins for a recent tournament, which was won by E. X. Hill and Dorothy Scott.

Mrs. Scott easily out-kegled her opponents, even though she is wheelchair-bound.

"I used to bowl quite a lot back in San Francisco," said Mrs. Scott. "I was the best bowler on our team."

Mrs. McClaren said many of the residents have lived strict, disciplined lives and are only now being introduced to recreational activities.

"Some have never learned to play checkers or cards, so we're teaching that," she said.

Dance lessons are next among major activities, as residents will be learning folk, country and disco steps.

That last category will take a little revising, according to Mrs. McClaren.

"I'm going to have someone teach it to me," she said, "then I'll slow it on down to a little more of our speed."

Panel agrees to nibble at bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Writers of the 1980-81 state spending bill agreed Friday to take individual bites out of the multi-billion dollar measure but no broad across-the-board cuts.

After a short first session of the House-Senate conference committee on general appropriations, the 10 members recessed until Monday morning.

The committee is attempting to iron out the differences between the $20.67 billion House bill and the $20.79 billion bill passed by the Senate.

"The Senate is not going to agree on specific figures then come back later and make a broad percentage cut," said Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, head of the Senate conferees.

"I don't think we are ready to give up any rider (special provision) at this point," said Rep. Bill Prenal, D-Bryan, head of the House group.

The negotiators finally agreed to a motion that would "dispense with the 4 percent cut except when conferees adopt a resolution on individual items."

After the House passed its bill, a provision was attached cutting all appropriations in the measure by 4 percent, across-the-board.

The 4 percent cut was one of four major differences to be settled between the House and Senate versions.

The other major differences include the 7 percent salary increase given most school teachers and the 5.1 percent increase by the Senate, and the $269 million difference in the Senate bill for school financing.

Conferees agreed to approach those two problems after completion of debate in both houses on school financing.

The fourth main difference is the 7 percent salary increase for state employees in the House bill and the 5.1 percent in the Senate.

The first state agency considered was the Texas Commission for the Blind. The Senate version was taken on all issues, for a total $397,194 above the House bill.

The conferees accepted a House provision that all funds received by the commission from operations of food vending stands must go in the State Treasury. About $500,000 would be transferred from present private bank accounts.

The conferees agreed to give the Commission on the Deaf about $27,000 for moving expenses but cut out $14,000 for a new accountant.

It's Clements' primary focus

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says the Texas Legislature will make a "terrible mistake" if it does not provide a presidential primary for voters in 1980.

"The people of Texas want a presidential primary," he told a news conference Friday.

"There is no question about that."

Clements added that if the Legislature is waiting to hear his stand on a presidential primary bill "they'll just have to wait."

"I'm not going to give them any direction. If they are waiting on me, they are in deep trouble...and if they are waiting on me on this it's the only thing they're waiting on me for. On everything else they just go ahead."

A Senate bill calling for a presidential primary in March before the May primary elections has been approved by committee but has not been brought up for full Senate debate.

The House Elections Committee has not been able to agree on a presidential primary bill for House debate.

The governor said he could "guarantee" the Texas Republican Party will have its own presidential primary. "I don't know what the Democrats will do."

The state Republican convention voted earlier to hold a presidential primary in connection with its May primary election.

State Democratic Party leaders oppose a presidential primary on any other date than the regular May primary election but have made no move toward ordering a presidential primary poll in the Democratic primary.

Clements also said: — He is "reasonably certain" the Legislature will leave "close to the $1 billion I have been looking for," so it can be returned to taxpayers.

— He generally approved of the usury bill that passed the House increasing home loan interest rates from 10 percent to a cap of 12 percent. He said he saw no need of a two-year automatic "sunset" or cancellation provision.

— He had not changed his mind in recommending only a 5.1 percent salary increase for public school teachers, as for other state employees.

— He thinks the failure of President Carter's gas rationing plan in the U.S. House "is just another sign that the Congress and the people have lost confidence in his handling of the oil crisis." He said it would be at least another week before Texas has a plan for allocation of supplies is ready. "We are not in the rationing business," he said.

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Leftist terrorists fired on two U.S. servicemen in suburban Istanbul on Friday, killing one and wounding the other.

An anonymous caller claimed responsibility for an underground Marxist group which killed another U.S. military man in Izmir in April.

The two servicemen were waiting for a bus to reach a NATO ammunition depot at nearby Cakmakli when gunmen from a cruising car shot at them and sped away, authorities said.

One of the two, identified by Turkish police as Thomas Mosley, died on the way to the hospital. The other, Dwight Muir, suffered slight wounds.

In a call to a daily newspaper, an anonymous person said the attack was the work of the "Turkish People's Liberation Army-Front and Marxist-Leninist Armed Propaganda Squad."

The caller said the targets were "mercenaries serving at U.S. installations in Turkey" and pledged "the struggle will continue until we phase out imperialism in our country."

American Embassy officials refused to give further confirmation of the victims before next of kin were notified.

Official sources in Istanbul said the servicemen were attached to a NATO munitions supply depot jointly run by Turkish and American military in Cakmakli, north of Istanbul and close to Atakoy.

A month ago Master Sgt. Edward E. Claypool, 43, was slain in a similar attack in the Aegean port city of Izmir. His companion, Staff Sgt. Jeffrey P. Vail, was wounded.

Violence between rightists and leftists in Turkey claims about five lives a day despite four months of martial law.

In March, a bomb was thrown into the garden of the American Embassy in Ankara. Some diplomats said at that time that they feared the incident might indicate a new confrontation between right and left over the presence of allied

Europe's first female prime minister 'no soft touch,' Schmidt tells press

LONDON (AP)—Margaret Thatcher, first woman to head a government in Europe, is no "soft touch," West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt told reporters Friday after two days of talks with her.

He added to laughter at a London news conference: "I guess she would not consider the Germans to be a soft touch either."

Schmidt, sitting alongside Mrs. Thatcher, said he didn't expect to have any problems dealing with the woman whose Conservatives ousted the Labor government in Britain's May 3 election.

He said the fact that he is a Socialist leader involved in talks with a Conservative prime minister "was not a problem in the slightest."

The chancellor was asked whether he would have the same personal relationship with Mrs. Thatcher that he had with James Callaghan, the former Labor prime minister whom he usually called "my friend Jim."

"In international politics," Schmidt replied, "it does not really matter so much whether you are Republican or a Democrat, Labor or Conservative, a Social Democrat or a Liberal or a Christian Democrat.

"What really does matter," he said, "is whether you are a reliable person and whether you have got judgment. I have no doubt that on that basis we will be able to get on with each other."

The ash-blond Mrs. Thatcher, wearing a light-gray, two-piece suit with a blue enamel brooch, seemed very much in command at the news conference, choosing the questioners and calling some of them by name. She spoke in a relaxed voice, lacking the stridency of some of her campaign speeches, and some British reporters spoke of a "new Mrs. Thatcher."

On another question, Schmidt said today's rapidly rising oil prices are every nation's concern, and predicted some may soon be paying out 40 percent of their export revenues to pay for oil.

Dallas has until June 13 to woo party

WASHINGTON (AP) - Dallas representatives left a meeting to choose the site for the 1980 Democratic National Committee on Friday with their mission to prove that up to $3 million can be raised privately without running afoul of federal election laws. Their deadline is June 13 and 14, the dates the convention site selection committee will visit Texas. The field visit will follow the committee's trips to Dallas' competitors - New York City, Philadelphia and Detroit.

Dallas' bid is different because its host committee is the only group proposing to bear the costs of the convention without help from public funds. The other bids are spearheaded by the city governments. "It's a real test here of whether the private sector can compete with the public sector for the world's greatest political convention," said Ron Kessler, Dallas County Democratic chairman. The site selection group will decide June 28 where to hold the August 1980 convention. The group was scheduled to narrow the field to two Friday, but strong presentations by all four prompted the decision to make four field trips. "There are restrictions on the amount of money that corporations or unincorporated businesses like labor unions can give the host committee for local conveniences," Cecil Cheves, the Democratic National Committee's legal counsel, said. Questions must be resolved on how individual donations can be made to the Dallas Host Committee as well, he said.

Ted Strauss, the host committee's chairman, said "rich Republicans, rich Democrats" are among its members trying to bring the convention to Texas. The committee can raise as much as $3 million if necessary to allow the Democrats to enter the 1980 presidential campaign clear of convention debts, he said. A national political convention has not been held in Texas since 1928 when the Democrats nominated Al Smith in Houston.

Mayor fights Customs fine

TULSA, Okla. (AP) - Mayor James Inhofe is battling with U.S. customs officials over a $500 fine levied against him that he thinks was unfair. Inhofe said he was fined for violating a new customs law which, to his knowledge, had never been enforced. Customs officials in Washington also appeared unfamiliar with the law and are checking into the fine, the mayor indicated.

The law requires pilots of private planes to file with the Customs Bureau a notice of intent to fly to Mexico, telling the purpose of the trip, 60 days in advance.

Inhofe, who frequently flies to Mexico with his family, returned to San Antonio, Texas, from Mazatlan, Mexico, last month, arriving about four hours after the custom officials' usual quitting time. "I think they were mad because I kept them awake," he said Friday. "There is not one pilot I know of in Oklahoma who is aware of a 60-day limit."

When he arrived in Texas, officials read him the law and fined him $500, which he paid under protest.

Inhofe said the law could present major problems for a group of Tulsans attempting to set up a "sister city" arrangement with some oil-producing community in Mexico. The group, comprised of doctors, dentists, librarians and teachers, hopes to establish a cultural exchange. "We could never prepare meetings 60 days in advance," the mayor said.

Inhofe said he wants to appeal the charge but does not know what legal recourse there is. "I am lost in the bureaucracy.... It's a very helpless feeling," he said.

Warm weather to stick around

That ever-changing old man weather is supposed to "stay put" today and Sunday.

The weatherman is calling for fair skies with no chance for frowning clouds that bring coolness and rain to the dry earth. Accompanying today's and Sunday's fair skies will be temperatures in the mid-70s, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Winds will be light and variable today and tonight, unless a landlubber's "gale" blows in.

Low tonight will be in the upper 40s. The high Sunday will be in the lower 80s. Temperatures to the north, in the Lamesa area, are to be two or three degrees lower tonight and Sunday, the weatherman said.

Overcast skies and cool breezes Friday morning yielded only a trace of moisture. But old man weather let the sun shine by early afternoon, putting the brakes on the wind and letting temperatures rise.

Friday's high of 71 was far below the record high of 100 degrees for a May 11 set in 1962. The record low for today is 41 degrees in 1931.

Displaying medals awarded them by John J. Redfern, center, vice-chairman of Rensselaer College, are Paul Raymond Jr. and Paige Humes. The medals are presented for academic excellence in math and science. Raymond, a senior Lee High School, is the son of Mrs. Paul C. Raymond and Miss Humes, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parker Humes, is a senior at Midland High. (Staff Photo)

Doggett accepts House-passed deceptive trade practices bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Business-supported changes to the state's law against deceptive trade practices passed the House Friday on an 89-40 vote. After the House action, Sen. Lloyd Doggett, the bill's leading Senate critic, said he would accept the House version and not filibuster it when the measure returns to the Senate.

Critics claim the bill would hurt a consumer's chances of collecting damages against deceptive and fraudulent businessmen. The Senate sponsor Bill Meier, D-Eules, said Friday after preliminary House voting that it was too early to decide if he would accept House changes or request appointment of a conference committee.

"It very much remains the consumer destruction act," Doggett, D-Austin, said of the House version. "But unless somebody was able to talk until May 28, it wouldn't do much good to try to kill it," he said, ruling out another filibuster. "I agreed I would not filibuster the bill in return for those technical changes," he added.

The House tentatively approved the bill Thursday on an 80-32 vote following five hours of debate. Representatives took out some provisions of the Senate-passed bill but not enough to stop critics claims that the measure would make it harder to win a deceptive-trade practice lawsuit.

Among the House changes in the bill were: - Mandating tripling of the first $1,000 in actual damages in all cases. If the defendant's conduct was knowingly deceptive, judges and juries could decide whether triple damages should be imposed past the first $1,000.

- Removal of "unconscionable act" as a required court finding before triple damages could be ordered. - Elimination of a ban on consumer-filed class action suits.

- Revising the definition of actual damages to include physical pain and mental anguish - as in current law.

Inclusion of a provision allowing a consumer to sue a defendant whenever an alleged deception occurred. A plaintiff could file suit in his own county even if the action involved an broadcast ad originating in another town.

Joe Longley, an Austin attorney and former chief of the attorney general's consumer protection division, decried the House-passed bill. "Stick a fork in it. It's done," Longley said. "Where was (Attorney General) Mark White when that was going on? He should have been in there fighting."

Senate opponents of the bill staged two filibusters a week apart, including a 15-hour talkathon. Meier said he does not agree with all the House amendments but is optimistic about finding a version both houses can approve.

"It's not something I feel real comfortable with," Meier said of the House version. "There's some middle ground we can work on," he added.

Gasoline shortage boosts threat of recession, Fed chairman says

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) - A gasoline shortage which is likely to spread across the nation this summer "increases the risk of recession," Federal Reserve Board Chairman G. William Miller said Friday.

Miller discussed his views of the economy with the Business Council, a prestigious group of 100 top corporate leaders whose own analysts are predicting a mild recession starting at mid-year.

The council meets four times a year to exchange views with government officials. Opponents of the treaties, unable to prevent their ratification by the Senate a year ago, now hope to block implementation of the accords by changing legislation to achieve that goal.

The legislation faces a showdown on the House floor next week. At a news conference, Royo said he couldn't predict if Panamanians would react violently if the legislation "flagrantly violated" the terms or meaning of the treaties. "But if it goes against the treaty, I will be at the head of the line of protest...if the people of Panama get moved, I will be in the lead. We are a peaceful country and I would prefer to believe in the worth and honor of the United States. All other maps we will study when the moment comes," he said.

Panama's president doesn't believe treaties threatened

WASHINGTON (AP) - Panamanian President Aristides Royo said Friday he sees a "50-50" chance that Congress will reject new attempts by opponents of the Panama Canal treaties to prevent the pacts from being implemented.

Royo added that he would make every effort to keep Panamanians from reacting violently should the anti-treaty maneuvering succeed in the House of Representatives. However, he added that if the treaties were blocked, he would join in the protests. "We hope and we will continue to hope that the U.S. will honor the settlement of the treaties. I will ask my people to keep an open compass until we see what happens," Royo said in an interview just before leaving for Panama at the end of a two-day private visit here, which included

Miller forecast a slowdown, not a recession. He added, however, that the tight world oil market and the gas shortage already in evidence on the West Coast are putting pressure on the economy.

Either a slowdown or recession should help dampen the rapid price increases that have pushed the annual rate of inflation to more than 13 percent so far this year. At the same time, a business downturn could throw thousands out of work.

Miller and Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal - who also predicted "a slowdown" - made their comments after the Business Council released a dreary quarterly report on the economy. The report, prepared by corporate economists, foresees a "pronounced, although mild, recession."

A 1 percent drop in the nation's output over two or three quarters, it says, would make the recession among "the mildest of the post-war period."

Although the corporate consultants expect inflation to taper to a 7.5 percent annual rate by the end of the year, they predict that "little further progress is expected in 1980." And they expect unemployment to rise and corporate profits to be "squeezed" as President Carter's voluntary anti-inflation guidelines prohibit businesses from raising prices to cover rising raw material costs.

The Business Council's economic forecasts are more negative than those provided thus far by the Carter administration, which has argued that monetary and budget restraints and the guidelines can help check inflation yet not push the economy into recession.

However, the administration's forecasts were made before Iran suspended, then cut back, its oil production and before the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) raised prices more than 9 percent in April.

The Business Council's meeting concludes Saturday with further discussions on the economy and debate on the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation treaty.

State Department criticizes Somoza for jailing of opposition leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) - The State Department again criticized the Nicaraguan government of Anastasio Somoza on Friday for the arrest of two opposition leaders. The detention of Alfonso Robelo and Rafael Cordoba Rivas "may be seen as an effort to stifle moderate opposition," Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher informed Guillermo Sevilla Sacasa, the Nicaraguan ambassador here.

Christopher called the envoy to the State Department to tell him the Carter administration hopes the arrests are not part of a campaign to throttle opponents of Somoza. The administration already has halted a number of aid programs to Managua to try to force Somoza to agree to an internationally supervised plebiscite of his rule and to abide by the results.

Robelo and Cordoba Rivas are members of the Broad Opposition Front, a coalition of political forces opposed to Somoza. The State Department has condemned their detention as arbitrary and called for their speedy release or "full protection of due process."

Today's South took the top diamonds, got to his hand with the ace of spades and ruffed a diamond in dummy. Then he led a club from dummy.

East produced the ace but then led the queen of diamonds, and South had to ruff to shut West out.

SHREWD DISCARD

West could have overruffed but he shrewdly discarded his remaining spade. East won the next trick with the ace of trumps and led a spade, giving West a ruff. West's king of hearts then took the setting trick.

South should avoid the fatal ruff by cashing the king of spades early—either before taking the ace of spades or before leading a club.

If the defenders will have a chance to discard, cash your side aces and kings while the cashing is good.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S-QJ63; H-A; D-Q7642; C-AQ9. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. You plan to show the spades next and then bid game in notrump unless partner shows great enthusiasm for one of your suits.

'King, queen of church' kill priest, take their own lives

LITTLETON, N.H. (AP) — A man and woman claiming to be the "king and queen of the church" shot and killed a Roman Catholic priest Friday before taking their own lives, police said.

Details were sketchy, but police said the drama was played out in rectory of the St. Rose of Lima Church in this small northern New Hampshire community of 5,400 persons.

Four shots were fired inside the church rectory, police said. The Rev. Joseph Sands was mortally wounded, the unidentified assailants committed suicide, and a state trooper received a minor flesh wound, authorities said.

"We heard shots at 5:22 and 20 minutes later, we sent in the SWAT team and found them all dead," said state police Major Richard Campbell.

The wounded state trooper, Sgt. Benjamin Mozrall, was hit by a shot fired from the church just seven minutes before the gunfire that killed Sands and his captors, police said.

"They couldn't have seen him, they shot through two doors," said Campbell of the wounding of the trooper. Mozrall received a minor wound in the arm and was treated at a local hospital. His condition was not immediately available.

Campbell said police fired no shots during the incident.

People at the scene said Sands was called to the church when the couple demanded to see a priest. After he was taken hostage, police fired for nearly five hours to persuade the couple to give up.

Gov. Hugh Gallen, who is a member of the parish, flew to Littleton and was at the church during negotiations.

Earlier, dozens of people had been removed from schools and houses near the church.

Police had said they believed they knew the identity of the couple, and that the man and woman had lived in New Hampshire for two years.

Officers at the scene said the man and woman claimed to be "king and queen of the church" and said they took the church "in the name of God."

Police said Sands was taken hostage at noon. The 46-year-old priest was founder and director of Alpha House, a home for about 180 delinquent boys from northern New Hampshire.

Church officials said Sands was filling in at the church for the pastor, the Rev. Stephen Scruton, who is on vacation in Ireland.

Sands had been a priest since 1958. A native of Dover, N.H., he was formerly a Trappist monk at St. Joseph's Abbey in Spencer, Mass., where his Trappist name was Brother John.

Search for eight men thought trapped in oil rig suspended

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Divers, hampered by heavy seas, rain and 45-knot winds, temporarily suspended their search late Friday for eight men believed trapped when an oil drilling platform in the Gulf of Mexico toppled over on a collapsed support leg.

Coast Guard and private vessels plucked 26 men from the dark Gulf waters 12 miles off the Galveston coast. Four required hospitalization, including one with an arm sheared off and others with burns.

Divers withdrew from the water Friday afternoon when it became apparent they would need more air hoses to allow them to get into the mostly submerged wreckage, said Tommy Clemmons, Coast Guard operations duty officer. Although the extra equipment arrived Friday evening, the rescue operation was suspended while divers waited for a break in the weather.

Coast Guard officials said earlier that the search for the missing men would continue into the night.

"Since it is dark inside there it doesn't make any difference if it is day time or night time," said Clemmons, adding that he did not know when the needed equipment would arrive.

Divers had waited for the go-ahead from officials worried that the three-fourths submerged platform could sink further and endanger would-be rescuers.

Another Coast Guard spokesman said 700 barrels of diesel fuel were on the platform. He said the fuel was leaking, affecting diving operations but not posing any serious threat of fire.

There were 31 men aboard the rig, which was being prepared for drilling when one leg of its tripod stand gave way late Thursday, tilting the platform at a 45-degree angle.

"I was just standing there when all of a sudden there was a 'boom' and there was water coming in everywhere," said Timothy Stout, 21, who escaped with nothing more than a finger injury.

Coast Guard Lt. Gabriel Kinney, operations officer for the Galveston base, said there were reports some of the men may have been welding on the platform and were electrocuted.

Survivor Paul Fromberg, 26, an employee of IMCO Service Co., was in the galley of the crew quarters when the rig sank. "I didn't hear any crash, there was a sensation of dropping," he said. "I was in the galley when it suddenly dropped and we were up in the air with the furniture flying."

He said he could not get out of a door because of the water pushing against it but managed to escape through a galley porthole that was not under water and found a floating raft.

"I dragged another guy into the raft, Fromberg said. "He was complaining about his arm and when I got him into the raft, I saw that it was gone, just cut off."

The rig is owned by the Atlantic Pacific Marine Corp. and leased by Mitchell Energy and Development Corp.

The eight missing men are employees of five different companies doing offshore drilling and consulting work, the owners and operators of the rig said.

The platform and its housing separated from its legs holding it 58 feet above the ocean floor and was floating, Kinney said.

"One of the reports we got from survivors was that there was some motion to the rig early in the evening. Then the rig just collapsed—all of a sudden," Kinney said.

Mass to mark St. Pat's 100th

By MARC ROSENWASSER

NEW YORK (AP) — It is a monument to the enduring vitality of the Roman Catholic Church, a symbol of unyielding conservatism to critics, an oasis from the madness of midtown Manhattan, a tourist attraction and perhaps the nation's best-known cathedral.

A Mass of Thanksgiving was to be said today to mark the 100th anniversary of St. Patrick's Cathedral, described by its pastor as "steady, sturdy and secure ... the ecclesiastical side of the rock."

"I would imagine that everyone back home knows about it," said Mary Noblitt, of Jasper, Tenn., who visited St. Patrick's last week. "After all, it is THE Catholic cathedral." It is so recognized, in part, because of its location, according to its 56-year-old rector, Monsignor James F. Rigney.

The cathedral, designed by James Renwick Jr. and completed at a cost of $2 million, was opened in a semi-rural portion of the city. But the site chosen by Archbishop John Hughes has since become the heart of midtown Manhattan, across Fifth Avenue from Rockefeller Center and within blocks of the three television networks.

As Rigney said: "An awful lot of people know what it is, if they see a quick picture of the front of the church."

MILLIONS DO EXACTLY that. For the past quarter century, the Christmas Eve Mass at St. Patrick's has been televised live, nationwide. New York's St. Patrick's Day Parade — also televised — passes in front of the cathedral.

And on a given Sunday, Rigney said, 90 percent of the 6,000 persons who attend one of eight Masses are out-of-towners.

"I still get a big kick out of watching people come into church," said Rigney. "The initial impact is great. They really almost draw in their breath. But after spending a while inside, so many say: 'There's so much more here.' It's much more than a building. It's a mood. It's a climate."

The three million visitors who pass between the cathedral's 330-foot spires each year enter a hushed, cool sanctuary. The first impression is one of immensity — towering, white marble columns; row after row of pews, seating a total of 2,500, and a great stained glass rose window at the Fifth Avenue entrance of the church that measures 26 feet across.

The tiered stained glass windows on each side of the cathedral usher in a burst of color, the blues and reds leaping at the eye. The bottom row of windows tells the history of Christianity.

One window depicts the Virgin Mary being told by the angel Gabriel that she is the mother of Christ. Hundreds of statues line each side of the cathedral.

BUT BEAUTY HAS a price. The cathedral is located on some of the most expensive land in the world. Rigney says its exact value can not be determined because the church does not pay property taxes. The cathedral itself is insured for $35 million in fire damage.

There has been criticism of how the church's considerable fortune is used and of causes which church leaders have supported.

Joan Harriman, president of Catholic Alternatives, a New York-based group dedicated to "educate and support Catholics in their right to a free choice of family planning," said: "St. Patrick's represents the very conservative, rigid part of the church: the ornate splendor and the wealth and power that has been part of the church, as opposed to the more liberal element of the church, which is closer to God and not to money."

Throughout the late 1960s and early 1970s, several demonstrations against the war in Vietnam were staged in front of the church, in part because of the late Cardinal Francis Spellman's trips to Southeast Asia to boost troop morale during the war's early days.

"It seems the archbishop of New York winds up being the bishop for the military chaplains and their parishioners," Rigney acknowledged. In its early days, the cathedral served a different community: the Catholic immigrants who flocked to New York from Ireland and elsewhere in Europe in the 1800s. Rigney noted, "If it was some other era, the cathedral might have been named after some other patron saint" — not Ireland's.

The cathedral's opening — actually May 25 a century ago but being marked early — was a cause for great celebration. The New York Times reported in 1879 that: "A dense mass of people in holiday attire crowded sidewalks and stood opposite the front and sides of the new Roman Catholic Cathedral yesterday morning and all the windows of the houses were filled with ladies and gents."

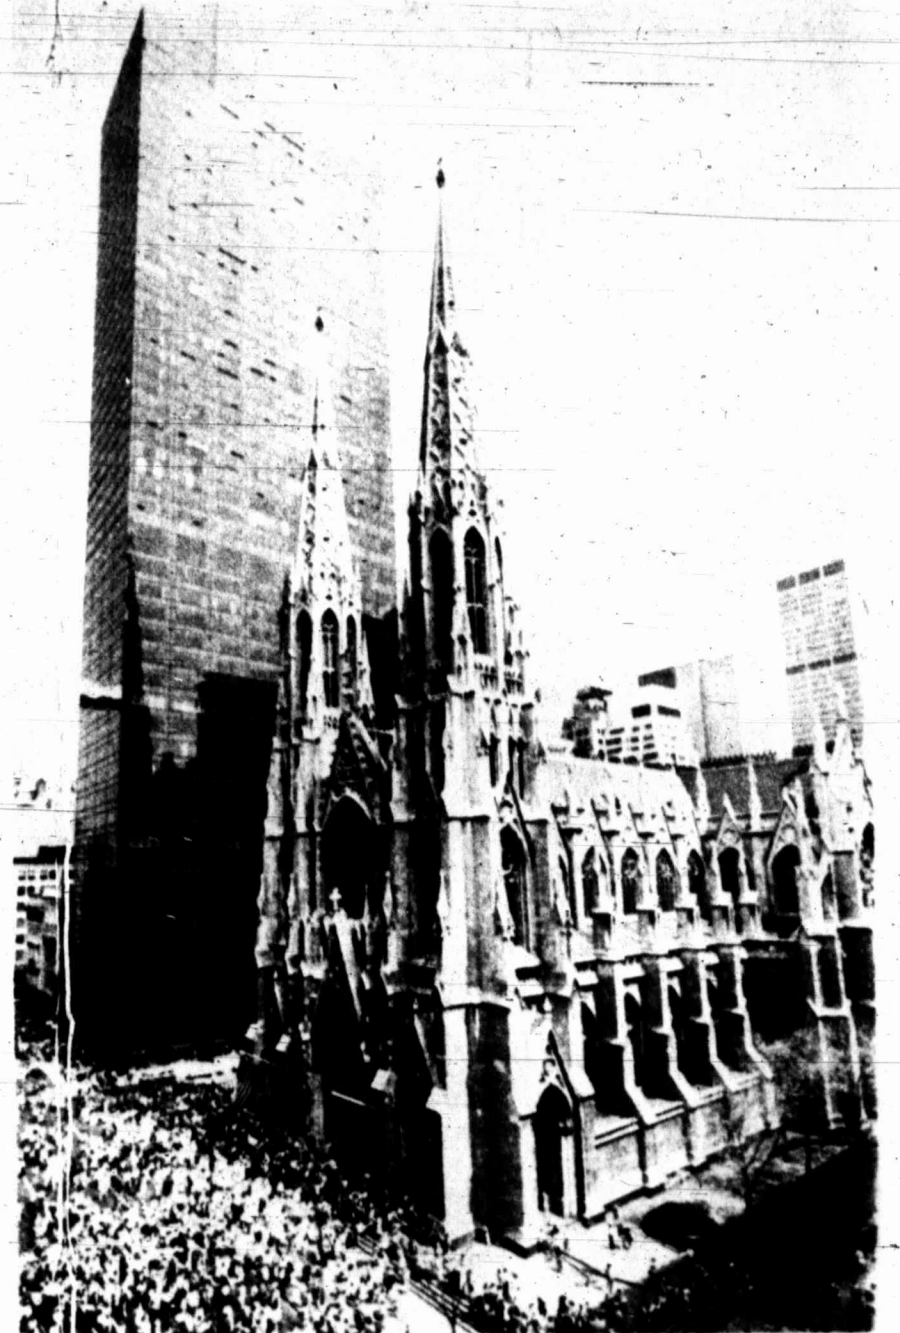

Ever since, St. Patrick's has enjoyed its share of historic moments.

POPE PAUL V prayed there during the first-ever visit by a pope to the Western Hemisphere. Pope John Paul II celebrated Mass there twice prior to his investiture.

And the altar from which Saturday's ceremony was to be performed is built over the crypt containing the remains of the seven archbishops of New York preceding the current cardinal, Terence Cooke. One of those archbishops, John McCloskey, was America's first cardinal.

When Hughes laid the cornerstone for St. Patrick's on Aug. 15, 1858, nearly 21 years prior to its completion, he prayed: "May this cathedral ever be worthy of God, worthy of this Catholic religion, and an honor to this great city."

Said Cooke, as if responding to Hughes' prayer nearly 121 years later: "For 100 years, this magnificent edifice has been a sacred place, a place of hope, where millions have prayed and experienced the awesome presence of a loving, caring God."

Rev. Wallace Chappell

First Methodist to have guest

The Rev. Wallace Chappell of Dallas will be a visitor Sunday at Midland's First United Methodist Church.

He will be a guest speaker and resource leader for a Family Life Workshop scheduled at the church Sunday afternoon. He also will preach during special Family Day celebration services at the local church at 9:30 and 11:35 a.m. Sunday.

Chappell presently is pastor of Cochran Chapel United Methodist Church at Dallas. Formerly, he served as state director of the Methodist student movement, as a staff member of the former General Board of Education of the United Methodist denomination, and as a pastor of Methodist churches in Georgetown, Dallas and Wichita Falls.

The visitor is a graduate of Rice University, Houston, and of Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

Chappell is in demand as a teacher and worship leader in Christian education conferences and similar events. During his Sunday visit here, he will be leading adults in a study of private and family devotions during a workshop scheduled for 6 to 7 p.m. At 7 p.m., the minister and his wife, Stell, will lead a closing worship service in First UMC's Glass Memorial Chapel, planned for persons of all ages, from children through senior citizens.

The church-family workshop will begin at 4 p.m. Sunday with a film presentation and a discussion session. A meal will be served beginning at 5:15 p.m., followed by the age-level workshops scheduled from 6 to 7 p.m. and followed by the service in the chapel. The various events will be open to the public.

Pope moves toward two beatifications

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John Paul II Thursday approved the miracles attributed to two Spanish and Dutch priests, the last step for their proclamation as blessed of the Roman Catholic Church, the Vatican announced.

The priests were Enrique de Osso y Cervello of Spain, founder of the Order of St. Therese, and Peter Donders, a Dutch Redemptorist missionary. They both lived in the past century.

The Vatican did not disclose the nature of the miracles attributed to the two priests. Beatification is the last step toward possible sainthood of the Roman Catholic Church.

The Vatican announcement said the pope also approved the heroic virtues of Vitricio of Eggenfelden, a German priest of the Capuchin Order, and of Jan Andrews Houben, a Dutch member of the Passionist Order.

With the approval of the heroic virtues the two priest became venerable, the step before blessed.

He new German venerable was born at Eggenfelden in 1842 and died in 1924. The Dutch venerable was born at Munstergeleen in 1821 and died in 1924 in Dublin, Ireland.

Papal approval of the four decrees took place during a session of the Vatican Congregation for the Causes of Saints.

RELIGION IN THE NEWS

Baha'i members celebrate reaching goals

Members of the Baha'i faith around the world, including Baha'i members in Midland, are celebrating the successful completion of a five-year plan designed to help spread the Baha'i teachings.

Among several goals in the U.S. were the establishment of Baha'i centers in 7,000 localities where Baha'i members reside, and the formation of some 1,400 local administrative bodies which require at least nine members at each locality. These goals were met and exceeded.

Midland spokesmen for the Baha'i faith noted that throughout the world, most goals of expansion were met even though the past year has been one that saw decreases in religious freedom in many parts of the world. In particular, they pointed out, Baha'i members in Iran have suffered persecution, repression and even death as a result of the continuing unrest and upheaval in that country.

The local spokesmen said that some of the basic principles of the Baha'i faith include the oneness of mankind, the essential unity of religion and the basic necessity for independent investigation of truth — that one might see truth with his own eyes and not through the eyes of others.

The Midland Baha'i group holds weekly discussions on the Baha'i faith and other topics. The meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday at 15 Stutz Court and are open to all interested residents of the city and surrounding area. Additional information on the Baha'i faith may be obtained by dialing 682-0708.

Missions topic

Gardens Assembly of God is making plans for its annual Foreign Missions Convention.

The mission emphasis will begin Wednesday and continue through May 20 at the church, 2901 W. Kansas Ave. The public has an invitation to attend the daily services.

Missionaries to Kenya, Tanzania, Malawi and Singapore will be attending the convention, telling about work in their respective fields and displaying artifacts and native costumes from the various nations.

The opening service at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday will feature the Rev. and Mrs. Jimmy Beggs. Thursday's 7:30 service will have the Rev. Sandra Goodwin as speaker, and Friday's service will feature the Rev. and Mrs. Warren Newberry.

Speaking at the Sunday morning service on May 20 will be the Rev. and Mrs. Glenn Stafford. The concluding service at 7 p.m. on May 20 will have all the visiting missionaries participating.

Poer to perform

Robert Poer, formerly the choir-master and organist for Midland's First Presbyterian Church, will play an organ recital there Sunday evening.

The 7:30 p.m. event in the sanctuary at West Texas avenue and North B street will be open to the public at no charge.

Poer became organist-choirmaster at FPC about 10 years ago and remained in that post until his recent resignation. He now teaches organ and piano privately here. He is a member of the West Texas chapter, American Guild of Organists, and the Midland Music Teachers Association.

Youth to rally

A Youth Day rally will be held today at the Westside Church of Christ, 4410 W. Illinois Ave., from 2 to 8:30 p.m.

Speakers from Midland, Odessa and "Aggies For Christ" from Texas A&M University will be present.

The Four R's of Christianity will be the main theme of the rally.

Junior high and high school students are welcome to attend, according to Wanda Brasher, spokesman.

Mormons build N.J. warehouse

LOGAN TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Needy Mormons willing to participate in church projects will soon be able to help themselves to a warehouse full of food and clothing produced by their more prosperous brethren.

"Any Mormon who accepts government welfare doesn't understand his church," says George Downing, the First Counselor in the Wilmington, Del., Stake, the church territory. "About 1 percent of the Mormon population needs assistance and we believe in taking care of our own."

In its version of various "workfare" programs, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is building a 4,500-square-foot storehouse for Deseret products, which are made by Mormons to be given away.

The warehouse, the first in the area, will supply food and clothing to Mormons in portions of New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania. There are 3,200 Mormons in the Wilmington Stake.

Anyone accepting goods from the warehouse must be willing to participate in various church projects, Downing said on Tuesday. The products are intended for the needy — widows, the elderly, struggling young couples and the temporarily unemployed.

"And it must be done on a voluntary basis," said Downing. "When you assist a person, it must be done according to the Lord's way — by preserving his

Revival slated

Revival services will be held next week at the Tall City Baptist Church, 3500 Anetta Dr.

The outreach will begin Monday and continue through Friday with the Rev. Larry Neely of Hughes Springs as guest evangelist. Dean Langston of Odessa will serve as music director.

Services will begin at 7:30 p.m. daily and the public has an invitation from Bill Simpson, host pastor, to attend any or all the special events.

'Gideon' slated

"Gideon," a religious musical, will be presented at 7 p.m. Sunday in the sanctuary of First Baptist Church, West Louisiana Avenue and North Garfield Street.

The musical by Grace Hawthorne and Charles F. Brown is based on the life of Gideon, from the Old Testament.

The Sunday evening presentation here will feature the Concord Choir of First Baptist Church. Doris Bruce is directing the production.

Featured in the cast are David Storrie as Gideon, David Sneed as Joash, and Toby Todd, Vicki Upham, Emily George and Mark Page as narrators.

The presentation will be open without charge to all residents of the community.

Home service set

The Midland Society of Friends (Quakers) will meet at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Smith, 1000 Lanham St.

The group, whose meetings for worship are open to the public, are usually held in the library at Trinity School, 3500 W. Wadley Ave.

Peter Clark, clerk of the society, said that the worship meeting was moved for this weekend because of the school's Mayfair activities under way there.

Pact negotiated

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the first labor union pacts ever negotiated with a national religious organization has been ratified in principle by employees of the National Council of Churches.

The breakthrough contract worked out in eight months of negotiations may have an impact on other U.S. religious organizations, long considered out of bounds for labor union activity.

The contract covers about 170 "appointed" workers — mostly clerical and secretarial employees — of the cooperative organization of Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations.

Spring revival set

South Memorial Baptist Church at 1700 W. Carter St., will hold a spring revival next week.

According to the Rev. Jimmy Stovall, pastor, the revival will begin Sunday and continue through May 20.

Daytime services Tuesday through Friday will begin at 10 a.m. Night services are scheduled for 7:45 p.m. each day. All will be open to residents of the city and surrounding area.

Jim Goins will be the revival evangelist and Terry Easley will be the singer and music leader.

Seniors to tour

Senior citizens of First Baptist Church will make a sight-seeing trip next week to points of interest in Texas.

The bus tour will take the group to San Angelo, Austin, Corpus Christi and San Antonio. Persons interested in joining the group on the tour may obtain additional information from Charles Elliott at First Baptist Church, 682-7669.

Jackson had doubled off Sid Mungo, 1-3, with two outs. Then Randall's hit sailed over the head of Cleveland left-fielder Paul Dade, who was drawn in against the weak-hitting Randall.

Mike Marshall pitched the last two innings in relief of Twins' starter Paul Hartzell and raised his record to 6-1. The 36-year-old Marshall has appeared in 17 games and with nine saves, and had a hand in 15 of the 21 victories by Minnesota.

Cubs beat Astros as Sutter saves

HOUSTON (AP) — Barry Foote's run-scoring double highlighted a three-run second inning for Chicago and carried the Cubs to a 5-3 victory over the Houston Astros Friday night. Foote's double followed a run-scoring single by Jerry Martin and preceded Ted Sizemore's RBI groundout as the Cubs handed the Astros their sixth loss in their last eight games.

Reds bag Pirates, 8-4

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dave Concepcion drove in four runs with a homer and a triple, and reserve infielder John Kennedy rapped four hits and scored four runs Friday night to pace the surging Cincinnati Reds to an 8-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. George Foster clouted a tape-measure solo homer for the Reds as they notched their eighth victory in 10 games.

Braves blank Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jeff Burroughs' leadoff home run in the seventh inning Friday night broke up Bob Forsch's no-hit bid and triggered Adrian Devine and the Atlanta Braves to a 3-0 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals. Burroughs' homer, his second of the season and second against St. Louis, came on a 2-0 delivery after Forsch had retired 16 of the first 18 batters he faced.

Chisox deck Royals, 5-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Nahorodny and Ralph Garr cracked two-run homers to lead Ken Kravec and the Chicago White Sox to a 5-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals Friday night. Nahorodny's third homer of the season capped a three-run second. Garr's fifth inning homer, his fourth of the year, snapped a 3-3 tie after the Royals had scored twice without the aid of a hit in the top of the inning.

Matlack's back with 3-1 victory

TORONTO (AP) — Bill Sample scored one run and drove in another to help left-hander Jon Matlack gain his first victory of the season as the Texas Rangers beat the Toronto Blue Jays 3-1 Friday night. Matlack, 1-2, scattered six hits in only his third start of the season after being plagued by floating bone chips in his pitching elbow. Sample led-off the game with a bloop double to right. He was sacrificed to third and scored on a ground-out by Al Oliver to give Texas a 1-0 lead.

Baylor's blast paces Angels over Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Baylor hit a three-run homer in the fourth inning and Jim Barr scattered eight hits for his first American League victory as the California Angels defeated the New York Yankees 4-1 Friday night. Baylor's fifth homer of the season was the Angels' only hit of the inning, but it followed right fielder Reggie Jackson's two-base muff and Dan Ford's fly ball and a walk to Rod Carew. The blast boosted Baylor's major league-leading RBI total to 34 in 32 games.

Birds win

BALTIMORE (AP) — The streaking Baltimore Orioles got home runs from Al Bumbry and John Lowenstein and a six-hit pitching job from Steve Stone to defeat the Seattle Mariners 8-3 Friday night. The victory was the 18th in the last 21 games for the Orioles and their fourth in a row over Seattle this season. The Mariners, who have never won in Baltimore, dropped their 11th straight game here.

Bosox top A's, 11-2

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski and Butch Hobson had two hits apiece in an eight-run fourth inning Friday night as the Boston Red Sox breezed to an 11-2 rout of the Oakland A's. Yastrzemski ignited the uprising against Oakland starter Matt Keough, 0-4, with a single to center. He later hit a two-run single and scored for the second time in the inning. Hobson, who drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the first inning, had a single in the fourth, then capped the inning with a two-run double to center field. Jerry Remy also had a

Brewers chase The Bird

DEFROIT (AP) — Mark "The Bird" Fidrych of Detroit, making his first regular-season appearance at Tiger Stadium in more than a year, was victimized by three Milwaukee runs in the sixth inning Friday night — two on a double by Paul Molitor — and the Brewers defeated the Tigers 5-1. Lary Sorensen scattered five hits for Milwaukee to raise his record to 5-3 while Fidrych, slowly coming back from arm injuries, lost his first decision of the year. The only damage-off Sorensen was a leadoff homer in the fifth by Lance Parrish.

John feels LA Dodgers missing important 'plus'

By ROSS NEWHAN
The Los Angeles Times

One month into his first summer with the New York Yankees, Tommy John was asked if he could compare the world champions with his former team, the National League champion Dodgers.

"When you're talking about two champions," John said "you're talking about teams of obvious strength. One may have a plus on offense, the other on defense, but the results are generally the same.

"The only thing I can say is that the one plus the Dodgers had last year but don't have this year is the 17 wins out of me."

The plus now belongs to the Yankees, who may reap more than 17 wins. John's ERA is a virtually non-existent 1.78, and his record 7-0.

"I'm throwing the ball well," he said, "but no better than I did in the last three years with the Dodgers, which isn't too bad for a 35-year-old, for a guy the Dodgers thought was too old to still pitch."

THE DODGERS' reluctance to give John the long-term contract he wanted resulted in him getting it as a free agent from the Yankees.

"I'm not trying to prove anything to anyone," he said. "I don't have anything to prove, anyway. I just feel that I can pitch for another five or six years. The Dodgers don't believe it, so here I am doing it for George Steinbrenner."

And John's departure, some believe, is the key reason for the Dodgers' stumbling start.

"I'm flattered," John said, "but I'm not sure that's true. I still think the Dodgers will win the division handsdown. I don't see any other team as a threat. Cincinnati would have to play up to its maximum and in trouble if Bill Bonham can't pitch and Joe Morgan doesn't have a great year.

"The Giants? I think the Dodgers can beat them any time they have to. And despite Houston's good start, I really don't see the other three teams as being factors."

NEVERTHELESS, John said, he was surprised that the Dodgers haven't taken additional steps to strengthen their pitching, especially considering his own departure and the December elbow surgery that continues to sideline Terry Forster.

"All through our negotiations," John said, "the Dodgers kept saying that they had people to replace me, they had kids on their way up. They were really kind of demeaning what I had accomplished.

"But now I don't know where those kids are. All they've done is sign Andy (Messersmith) and trade for Jerry Reuss, who they're not starting but who really isn't cut out for relief. It was a break for Rick Rhoden (traded to Pittsburgh). He deserves to pitch regularly. He pitched well for the Dodgers, especially considering how spastically and infrequently he was used.

"I'm just surprised the Dodgers haven't traded for another pitcher."

The pitcher who got away said that he is now part of a staff that is "as good as any I've ever been on." He said, too, that as a sinkerball pitcher, he is now particularly blessed to have third baseman Graig Nettles and shortstop Bucky Dent behind him.

"They've made all the plays and then some," John said. "Nettles is simply the best third baseman in baseball. My wife complimented Graig's wife on the great plays he was making in one game I pitched and she (Ginger Nettles) said, 'They're not really that great. He does it all the time.' Which is true. Besides, he'll hit you 25 to 30 home runs and come up with some of the funniest lines you've ever heard."

In that regard, John said, he has not found the Yankee clubhouse to be the incendiary place it is so often pictured to be. He said, in fact, the atmosphere is not much different than that he experienced with the Dodgers, that he recent fight between Cliff Johnson and Rich Gossage was serious in its result (Gossage will be out eight weeks with a thumb injury) but not that different from incidents that happened at some time in every clubhouse.

DARING DAYLIGHT ROBBERY AT LOCAL DYER STORE!

The biggest stereo robbery in history occurred recently and the entire gang of Dyer Dealers was taken into protective custody. This famous group of hardcore discounters held up all their suppliers for the best possible deals and have sworn to pass on all the savings to the entire community. "Let us at em!" screamed an angry mob of stereo-suppliers. "They hit us for all the lowest prices then high-tailed it out of town!" This very professional bunch of price-cutters will be turned loose on our town this weekend and have vowed to get rid of all the loot in a gigantic three-day sale. "Those guys are wanted by every stereo bargain-hunter in two states so you'd better hurry," one high official stated. When asked why this huge caper was pulled off in broad daylight, the Dyer leader said "There ain't a one of my guys scared of any competitor in the world; but ever last one of 'em is scared to death of the dark!"

Jogging track coach dies

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Don Mitchell, track coach at Roth High School, has died of an apparent heart attack.

The 60-year-old Mitchell had just finished jogging after school Thursday when he collapsed. Attempts to revive him failed and he was pronounced dead at Good Samaritan Hospital.

Oh's homer sparks Yomuri

TOKYO (AP) — Sadaharu Oh led off with a first-inning homer and Isao Shibata knocked in the winning run with a homer in the seventh-inning Friday as the Yomuri Giants regained the lead in the Central League with a 11-5 victory over the Hiroshima Toyo Carp.

LeDoux psyches ring foe

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Scott LeDoux used psychological warfare early and aims to use his fists Saturday afternoon to prove he's not a "token white" in his heavyweight bout against Ron Lyle.

LeDoux, who weighed in at 225 pounds Friday, claims he was robbed twice in previous bouts against black heavyweights — a loss to Johnny Boudreaux and a draw with Leon Spinks.

"I don't have to say I was cheated, everybody knows it," said the outspoken former University of Minnesota-Duluth athlete.

As he arrived for the weigh-in, the 30-year-old LeDoux went to the 37-year-old Lyle and said, "Just get used to being second, because I'm weighing in first."

Lyle, a ex-con making a comeback after being acquitted of a murder charge, glowered and pushed his white foe. The pushing match quickly was quelled and LeDoux did reach the scales first and stepped on.

Hogan Park construction right on target date

BY REX WORRELL
Hogan Park Golf Pro

The nine-hole construction is looking really good. All areas are seeded or sprigged. The new grass is up and starting to grow. The contractor has scheduled the pond-sealing to begin again on May 14.

The first effort failed to satisfactorily seal the pond.

The clubhouse is in the final stages...such as ceiling installation, carpet-laying, fixture installations etc. The cart storage barn is going up on schedule. The parking area and entrance road contract was awarded to South Texas Construction and work will be starting in the near future.

The Oct. 1 opening date for the clubhouse and golf course is looking very realistic.

Steve Hendley, the golf professional, will be handling the supervision of play and normal activities for the golf course this summer, while yours truly moves over to the new area in an effort to coordinate the final stages of construction, with the help of Wayne Kohout, Parks & Recreation director.

Wayne, by the way, is deserving of a big thanks from all of us golfers for his behind-the-scenes efforts in the expansion project.

SOME SCORING highlights at Hogan Park this week were an eagle three on the par five No. 1 hole, scored by Hugh Brittain. Hugh went on to score a fine round of 82 from the red markers. Jane Long, practicing for the HPWGA Spring Fling, scored an 83 and then went on to break the 80 barrier during the tournament with a super round of 79. Congratulations High and Jane.

The Hogan Park Women's Golf Association scheduled for next week:

18-hole division—Board meeting Wednesday at the home of Alvina Hill, president, 9 a.m. General meeting Thursday at 9 a.m. in the golf shop. Playing the Handicap Champion event Thursday following the General Meeting...make your own pairings. Nine-Hole Division—Hogan Hazards Handicap Tournament will be held Wednesday and Thursday. Wednesday's play will be on the front nine holes and Thursday's play will be on the back nine holes with the following pairings and tee times.

First flight—8:30 a.m. Renee Belique, Pat Kolb, Rita Bos. 8:37—Margorie Carlwell, Mary Davis, Gerry Fesmire. 8:44 Jeanne Green, Lela Goddard, Ruby Pennington. 8:51 Char Richter, Leah Stutcliffe, Betty Williams. Second Flight—8:58 Evelyn Ballard, Wilma Allenson, Peggy Barry. 9:05 Ernestine Browning, Betty Cope, Fatty Prizall. 9:12 Barbara Larson, Peggy Mattias, Margaret Moore. 9:19 Peggy Parkins, Margaret Phelps, Jennie Pette. 9:26 Margaret Rhea, Clara King.

Soccer stars escape in jury

MIDDLESBROUGH, England (AP) — Liverpool and Middlesbrough soccer players narrowly escaped injury Friday when the floor of a sporting goods shop collapsed.

Players from both teams were attending the opening of the shop, which belongs to former Middlesbrough player Willie Maddren, who recently was forced to give up the game through injury.

Police said that about 200 soccer fans were in the shop. The floor suddenly gave way and about 50 people fell into a cellar.

Canadiens, Rangers open Stanley Cup finals Sunday

MONTREAL (AP) — The New York Rangers joined the National Hockey League for the 1926-27 season, by which time the Montreal Canadiens were an institution.

The Canadiens have won 21 Stanley Cup titles since 1916 — including the last three — and have lost nine final series since that time. The Rangers, in contrast, have won only three Cup championships — the last in 1940 — and lost the final series five times.

But the best-of-seven final this year — starting here at 3 p.m. Sunday — marks the first time the Canadiens and Rangers have met in a title showdown.

The clubs have staged 11 playoff series, with the Rangers holding a 6-5 edge over Montreal. Six were semifinal sets, and the other five were quarter-final encounters.

The most recent was in 1974, when the Rangers eliminated the Canadiens 4-2 in a best-of-seven quarter-finals. New York also won the previous series, a 1972 quarter-final, 4-2.

The last time the Canadiens beat the Rangers in a playoff series was 1969, when Montreal swept a quarter-final series in four games en route to the Cup.

"You just know that they're going to be really tough in the final," said Canadiens Coach Scotty Bowman of the Rangers. "They've beaten three teams already."

Canadiens center Doug Risebrough, who played with a cage on his helmet to protect a broken nose in Montreal's 5-4 overtime victory here Thursday night in the seventh game of their semifinal series against the Boston Bruins, said he expects the Rangers to be ready.

"They're a pretty fired-up hockey team, going in with a big lift knowing they worked hard and they're there."

"I guess you have to be surprised they made it, because the Islanders had such a super season," said Risebrough of the other New York club that the Rangers eliminated 4-2 in their semifinal.

"But I expected the Rangers to do very well in that series. I checked through the year, and they seemed to play good-style hockey against the contending teams."

Defensesman Serge Savard seemed to scoff at mention of any system installed by first-year Rangers Coach Fred Shero.

"I could never like a guy like Shero," said Savard. "Shero won the Cup twice with Philadelphia (Flyers) with strong-arm guys. His 'system' was people like Bernie Parent and Bobby Clarke. Without good players, the system won't work."

"I could never admire a coach who let his team get into brawls in every game," Savard said.

"The Rangers have a good hockey team, but it was (former General Manager) John Ferguson who built the team. It was Ferguson who got the two Swedes and all their young players."

away from the Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association at hefty salaries before the current season began. Nilsson has been skating during the last two weeks and may return soon from a broken ankle suffered Feb. 12 against the Islanders.

The Canadiens, meanwhile, waited Friday to see whether defenseman Guy Lapointe will be available after suffering stretched ligaments in his left knee in the last game against Boston.

SPORTS SCRATCHPAD

McMullen agrees to buy Astros

Execution of a substantive agreement to sell the Houston Astros to John J. McMullen, a New York naval architect and limited partner in the New York Yankee ownership, was announced Friday by the parent firm of the National League club. No sale price was revealed but other sources indicated the transaction that would include operation of the Astrodome and its adjacent convention facilities would draw from $15 to $20 million.

Australia's Evonne Goolagong moved with mechanical precision into the semifinals of the $100,000 Italian Open with a 6-3, 6-0 victory Friday over West Germany's Iris Riedel. And top-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd battled to turn back spunky Argentine Ivana Madruga 3-6, 6-1, 7-1 in the quarter-finals. Tracy Austin beat Romania's Virginia Ruzici 6-3, 6-2 Friday, and West Germany's Silvia Hanika upset fourth-seeded Dianne Fromholtz 6-3, 1-6, 6-2.

Cotton Fitzsimmons, who directed the Kansas City Kings to a first-place finish in the NBA Midwest, was selected 1978-79 Coach of the Year.

Seeking to bolster their off-injured pitching corps, the New York Yankees purchased veteran left-handed pitcher Jim Kaat from the Philadelphia. Kaat, the second-winningest active pitcher in baseball, had appeared in three games with the Phillies this season with a 1-0 record and a 4.32 earned run average. The 40-year-old Kaat has 262 career victories, which ties him for 23rd on the all-time list. Only San Diego's Gaylord Perry (270) has more victories among active major league pitchers.

Earvin "Magic" Johnson, the All American leader of Michigan State's NCAA basketball champions, decided to turn pro next season. "It was a tough decision because of all the factors — money, my team, my coach and my family. It's been a rough year. You know I've been going through a lot. I didn't have as much time to think about it as I would have liked to," he said. Despite a recent trip to Los Angeles, Johnson said he had "no commitment" from the Lakers, who draft first. "If it's not the Lakers, it'll be the next team down the line or the next team after that. I would like to play for Detroit, then all you people could come and see me."

Entry deadline is May 15 for the third annual David and Goliath slo-pitch softball tournament, to be played May 18-20 at Johnny Stone Memorial Park in Big Spring. There's a $75 team entry fee for the open division and $60 team entry fee for class A. To enter, call John Weeks at 263-2051 and after 6 p.m. at 267-8323.

Mike Waller, Fort Stockton, and Billy Sitton, Midland, members of the Western Texas College golf team were named to the All-Region V team.

The Alamo Y will begin its summer Adult Y basketball league May 22 with games on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Any person or group over 18 years of age can contact Steve Lane at Alamo evenings or Saturday (694-2528)...

Mayer blasts tennis pros for obscene actions

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Sandy Mayer says obscene behavior in public is illegal but that you would never know it by watching the antics of today's tennis professionals.

"The problem is that nobody has been willing to stand up to the players," the 27-year-old Mayer said. "The players have been so incredibly coddled and immature that it's ridiculous."

Mayer currently is the No. 21-ranked player in the world. He has been ranked as high as ninth in the world and fifth in the U.S.

Mayer says the problem could be solved in a few months by a sudden epidemic of "big fines and lots of defaults."

He says steps are being taken, although on a smaller scale than he would like, to correct the situation this year. And, he says, the players don't like the penalties.

"Players simply aren't used to it. It's limiting the freedom they've always had," Mayer said. "And one thing about a number of players is that they're so egotistical, they think what they're doing is funny."

"At times, some of the things (Ilie) Nastase does can be funny or at least entertaining. But when (Jimmy) Connors or (John) McEnroe do the same thing, it's vulgar, nothing more.

"The fact is, obscenity in public is illegal. Tennis players certainly aren't above the law, are they? And if they were participating in any other professional sport besides tennis, they'd never get away with it. They'd be thrown out. Maybe forever."

Mayer, here for an exhibition, says one problem in imposing large fines or defaults is that many of the problem players are some of the world's best.

"The problem characters all happen to be the five or six best draws in the game," he said in an interview Thursday.

"In my own case, I've been ninth in the world. Nobody knows who I am. I can't do those things. In fact, on several occasions when I've argued with an umpire that Nastase ought to be defaulted for walking off the court and saying he's quitting, the umpire has, in turn, threatened to default me for arguing while he's trying to get Nastase to come back and finish. All I'm trying to do is to get the umpire to follow the rules."

Mayer said he does not put all of the blame on the players, though.

Milner, Milby triumph

Nancy Milner and Evelyn Milby combined for a best ball 55 Thursday to capture the Hogan Park women's golf association annual Spring Fling partnership golf tournament at Hogan Park golf course.

Jeanne Green and Char Richter carded a 56 for second place while Jane Long and Betty Cobb took third. Fourth was the tandem of Margaret Mills and Pat Walter while the duo of Earline Wright and Betty Barb collected fifth.

In sixth place was the team of Chrystal Fouche and Diane Bowser while Jimmy White and Ruth Gregory annexed seventh. Mary Davis and Renee Belique grabbed eighth and Dode Lamkin and Madge McMabb pocketed ninth.

Florence Mailey won the closest to the pin award while Mary Robinson had the tournament's longest drive.

Seventy-two women from West Texas and New Mexico played in the event. An awards luncheon at Midland Country Club followed the tournament.

Fellini filming again

By DENNIS REDMONT

ROME (AP) — After a five-year respite, it's Fellini time in Rome again.

And eager hopefuls are rushing to the Eternal City in hopes that Federico Fellini — famous for using unknowns in his films — will pick them for his new movie, which the director says is about the current "surge" women are experiencing.

The carnival atmosphere has brought alive the back lots of the cavernous Cinecitta studio, with the buzz of carpenters' saws and the chatter of 500 costume makers and artisans.

Fellini — or "Il Mago," the magician, as he is better known here — is rifling through his legendary photo collection — he once claimed he has more photos than the FBI — to cast the movie.

A new effort by the 58-year-old Fellini is not just a film but a three-month extravaganza. It launches debates, inspires fashions and brings out movie hucksters who try to beat the director to the punch.

The four-time Oscar winner's latest film, "City of Women," began shooting this week, taking over all eight sound stages and the back lot of Cinecitta, quiet since his semi-successful "Casanova" monopolized the studios five years ago.

The film reunites Fellini with Marcello Mastroianni, after a 16-year separation. The actor played the jaded journalist of "La Dolce Vita" and the befuddled film director of "8½."

Mastroianni and Ettore Manni, a now pot-bellied star of the 1950s, are pitted against more than 170 women, most to be played by unknown actresses, streetwalkers and extras.

"I am embarrassed to talk about a creature to which I am giving birth," Fellini said in sidestepping a question about the new film. "It's something very private, like a sickness, a delirium."

"But suffice it to say that Marcello is a professor of Greek mythology who tries to understand what is happening to female psychology through goddesses like Minerva, the hardened intellectual; Diana, the huntress; Juno; Persephone; Pomona, the fruit goddess.... He sees this menacing magma of femininity, through his wife, his daughter, the concierge, his woman neighbors, and these turn into a new unified divinity."

In other words, it's all about women trying to escape the stereotypes into which they have been cast for so long.

"It is neither for or against feminism, it merely tries to understand the motives for this new surge," Fellini said.

"Marcello is an ideal companion for me in these obscure zones, and a natural choice following his portrayals in the other two films. He is a believable actor with whom the public identifies, yet whose outline is not too well defined," he said.

"Actually, he owed me a lot of money," chimed in Mastroianni.

In a return to the scene of the crime, Fellini is shooting the few exterior scenes of the film at Ponte Lago Oscuro, the beach where the aimless Marcello-the-journalist appeared in the final scene of La Dolce Vita.

Fellini's cost overruns, production delays and directorial wrangles have become legendary in the film world, and American film companies have avoided him.

But this time Fellini has found a benefactor in Europe's biggest production, distribution and exhibition company, Gaumont, which has given him a free hand and an open-ended bankroll.

Gaumont's president, Dani Toscan du Plantier, says the film will open at Christmas, "but we're not saying what year." He refused to divulge the budget of the film, which involves thousands of props, floats and a giant half-mile toboggan slide in Cinecitta's back lot.

Fellini makes up most of the story as he goes along and has his usual clique with him. Mastroianni's brother Ruggero is doing the editing, and the executive producer is Renzo Rossellini, son of director Roberto Rossellini, who gave Fellini his start as a scriptwriter in 1946.

House, Senate pass differing school finance bills

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House and Senate each passed a $1 billion school finance bill Friday, including 7 percent cost-of-living raises for teachers, but vast differences remain to be compromised.

The Senate passed its version, 28-1, with only Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, dissenting. A few hours later the House, with virtually no debate, approved its bill, 125-8.

Rep. Hamp Atkinson, D-New Boston, chairman of the House Public Education Committee, attributed easy passage to acceptance of the bill by the Texas State Teachers Association as well as by school administrators.

DESPITE Gov. Bill Clements' objections to giving teachers more than a 5.1 percent cost-of-living increase, Republican legislators made no effort to cut the raises in the House bill.

"We would have been lucky to get 25 votes to cut the teacher pay schedule. If he (Clements) wants to get out front and show us the way, maybe we could get a few more votes," said Rep. Milton Fox, R-Houston.

A House-Senate conference committee problem ably will be appointed Monday to seek a compromise that majorities in each chamber and — hopefully — Clements can accept.

The big difference is the fact that the Senate bill includes $452 million that had been earmarked for covering school districts' revenue losses from the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment.

HOUSE MEMBERS made reimbursement part of a separate bill implementing the amendment. The result is the House version of the school finance bill, taken together with the tax relief bill, is more generous to the school districts.

Atkinson said the Senate bill, in effect, gives no tax relief while the House bill does.

"I personally think we've got to get to the taxpayers something they can see and hold in their hands as tax relief," Atkinson said.

The Senate bill totals $1.03 billion for 1980-81 while the House bill amounts to $1.1 billion. Atkinson said the House bill spends $25 million to $30 million more than is available and "we'd love to have an updated projection of an increased projection from the comptroller."

BEFORE PASSING the bill, senators argued over just how much extra money teachers deserved.

"I know you've heard a lot of talk about a 5.1 percent pay increase and why teachers should not be treated differently from state employees," said Sen. Pete Snelson, D-Midland.

Snelson successfully urged a 7 percent cost-of-living raise for teachers, saying they get smaller fringe benefits than state employees. The Senate Education Committee had gone along with Clements in recommending a 5.1 percent teacher pay raise.

passed did not do as much toward equalization as the bill that came out of committee," said Maury. "The House bill as it came out of committee is more disequalizing than the Senate bill."

Senators scrapped important sections of Maury's bill and opted instead for Snelson's amendments.

IN ADDITION to raising salaries 7 percent, Snelson's changes would raise minimum teacher pay to $9,388 a year compared with $8,560 in the Maury bill.

"I believe that is psychologically important to the future of education in the state of Texas," Snelson told reporters later.

He won votes to reduce Maury's figures for educationally disadvantaged students and maintenance in order to balance the higher teacher salaries.

Both Maury and Snelson said a comptroller's estimate shows there will be enough money to fund the school spending bill as finally passed. An estimated $67 million would be left to the Legislature for other spending.

The Senate bill would raise state expenditures on public schools by $457 million for teacher salaries and benefits; $117 million for maintenance and operation; $173 million for equalization aid; and $256 million to hold local costs of the Foundation School Program at approximately today's level.

The House bill provides slightly more, $264 million, to keep local fund assignments from rising.

Other provisions include $427.8 million for increased salaries; $152 million for equalization; $117 million for maintenance and operation costs other than salaries; $10 million to help fast-growth districts cover rising enrollments and $24 million to subsidize full-day full-year kindergarten.

PROFESSIONAL INDUSTRIAL SALES

IF YOU HAVE THE PAST WE HAVE YOUR FUTURE

If you are an aggressive professional with a strong background in industrial sales, we can offer you an opportunity for high earnings and advancement to management.

Imperial is a Fortune Top 50 division, marketing a technically sophisticated approach to lubrication. Our success with the nation's leading manufacturers has made us number one in our field. The increased demand for our products and services has created a need for a representative in the Odessa and Midland areas.

To be successful, you must be able to communicate on all levels. You will have to discuss return on investment with plant managers and be able to describe technical concepts to maintenance personnel.

If you have the talent, energy and ambition, we will invest in your future. In addition to a complete benefits package, we will guarantee your income while you develop the repeat business in your territory. Call me to discuss your future at Imperial and to arrange a personal interview.
