House votes for new plan to import Arkansas water

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Arkansas water could travel through canals across Oklahoma to the Texas High Plains under authority of a new taxing body tentatively approved Monday by the House.

Representatives approved the Ogallala Water Import Authority on voice vote. A final vote is needed to send the 45-page measure to the Senate.

Land covering the Ogallala aquifer would be included in the authority's jurisdiction, except Crosby, Dickens and Garza counties. The underground reservoir stretches under more than 40 counties, from Midland north to the Panhandle border with Oklahoma.

Supporters say the water authority is needed because the vast agriculture lands of the High Plains will face a critical water shortage within the next 10 to 20 years.

Arkansas has more than enough water to meet needs in the Panhandle, proponents add. The bill does not specify where the water would come from.

If approved by High Plains voters, the district would have authority to tax property and sell bonds.

Opponents have claimed large-scale water importation would be a financial disaster because the district could not raise enough money through taxes to support it.

House members voted to limit the body's power to expropriate private land to areas within its district, instead of the entire state.

Rep. Pete Patterson, D-Brookston, said people in his Northeast Texas district should not be subject to broad powers of a West Texas water authority.

"This will make them come back to the Legislature before they dig a ditch in our district," said Rep. Bill Sullivan, D-Gainesville.

son, D-Amarillo, at first resisted attempts to limit the district's eminent domain to the High Plains area but later relented.

Patterson also won approval of an amendment that would require the water authority to pay local property taxes on all land leased or owned outside its jurisdiction. He and others from outside West Texas said local tax bases would suffer unless that stipulation was included.

Speaker Bill Clayton of Spring Lake, most of whose seven-county district would be within the authority's jurisdiction, cast the tie-breaker in a 64-63 vote on one unsuccessful amendment to exempt Ector County and Odessa.

U.S. House to vote on bill to speed up Sohio's pipeline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House will get a chance to vote on a bill designed to speed up construction of a $1 billion dollar pipeline that would carry Alaskan oil from California to Texas.

The House Commerce Committee on Monday voted unanimously to approve legislation aimed at waiving regulations that hinder construction of the pipeline by Standard Oil Co. (Ohio).

Sohio said in March that it was abandoning the proposed pipeline because it was caught in a "quagmire of federal and state regulations."

The committee-approved bill would give the president authority to identify and ask Congress to waive state or federal laws that hamper construction.

California officials had disputed the company's claims of delay in granting the necessary permits. Last month, the South Coast Air Quality Management District tentatively issued a permit. The state's Air Resources Board is expected to give final approval to the permit this month.

JP precinct boundaries attacked; Citizen says he's filed complaint

Midland County's justice of the peace precinct boundaries drew fire Monday from a county citizen who contends he filed a complaint with the U.S. Department of Justice in the matter.

Bob Coonce, who said he is prohibited from seeking office because he does not reside within the boundaries of JP precincts 2, 3, or 4, attacked the current arrangement because it "discriminates" against his right to hold office, he said Monday.

Under a plan drawn several years ago, the boundaries of those precincts encompass pastureland which does not have a single inhabitant.

State law requires only that the county have four precincts. A spokesman for the Texas Attorney General's Office said previously that it is "not an uncommon practice among the counties" to have peace justice precincts without any people in them.

"There's not a one man-one vote requirement for peace justice precincts so you don't have to have an equal population," the spokesman said.

All county residents reside within the boundaries of Precinct 1 and vote for two JP places.

Commissioner Durward Wright said Monday that there were only two JPs because there was only enough work available for two officials.

"We haven't felt the need for four JPs," he explained following the commissioners meeting.

Commissioner Jack Leonard said more peace justices would cost the county additional money.

An attempt to contact a Justice Department official who Coonce said is handling the federal complaint proved unsuccessful Monday.

Coonce, a former constable from what used to be Precinct 4, has appeared several times before commissioners to discuss the boundaries.

County tussles with redistricting

By RICHARD MASON
Staff Writer

Midland county commissioners Monday resumed discussion on redistricting commissioner precincts to comply with state and federal laws.

Commissioners heard a proposal from Precinct 1 commissioner Durward Wright to take voting box 4, which currently includes the Midland Regional Airport, out of Precinct 4, and place it in Precinct 1 in an attempt to keep the boundaries of the precincts contiguous.

The proposal would return the island of land — currently designated part of Precinct 1 — to the Precinct 4 district.

Additional plans for redistricting will be submitted at a later date by commissioners Charlie Welch and Jack Leonard.

Commissioner Win Brown suggested that voting boxes be reassigned in each precinct.

Commissioners began discussing redistricting in March, but split over whether the court or the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission should do it.

County Judge William Ahders subsequently instructed the commissioners to submit their own plans to the court.

The county has until August to file a redistricting plan with the Secretary of State's office in Austin, and until the next election in 1980 to file a plan with the U.S. Department of Justice, Wright said.

Complaints about precinct boundaries allege that the districts are not contiguous, that minority populations have been split and that the population is not equally divided between precincts.

Wright's proposal, which met with support from Republican Commissioner Brown, would eliminate the problem of noncontiguous boundaries.

However, in discussion Monday, commissioners indicated they would await the results of the 1980 census before redrawing boundaries to more accurately reflect population figures.

Commissioners Welch and Wright contend that the current boundaries adequately reflect population distribution in the four precincts.

"The imbalance is minimal — if any," Wright said following Monday's meeting. Wright said there is an imbalance reflected in the number of registered voters.

Brown contends the imbalance in registered voters reflects an imbalance in population distribution among the precincts.

Brown pointed out Monday that he

Apartments, mobile homes housing alternatives

EDITOR'S NOTE: Obtaining housing in Midland, whether by buying a home or renting an apartment, is becoming an increasingly complex problem and one that will not be easily solved. This is the third in a seven part series examining the issue.

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

When mobs of people thronged to the Permian Basin during one of its early boom periods in the late 1930s and early 1940s, not much in the way of housing could be found.

The best solution was the "shotgun" house, where no walls barred the way from the front door to the back door.

The Permian Basin is experiencing another boom period. But what Midlanders want today are castles compared to the houses of 30 and 40 years ago.

Midland is well known for its high standard of living. Giving credence to that reputation is a report — released last summer — by the U.S. Department of Commerce. That report placed Midland ninth nationally among metropolitan cities in per capita income.

In a recent issue of the magazine "Sales Management," a survey of buying power for 1977 showed Midland's per household median income at $17,059.

The Tall City ranked 57th nationally on this level, tying with Dallas. For the state of Texas, Houston was first with $18,921. Odessa was 77th nationally and fourth in the state with $16,510 per household median income.

BECAUSE OF A continuing influx of population and relatively high "average" income, experts are predicting more Midlanders will become homeowners.

In fact, generally, Dr. R.L. Skrabank of the Texas Real Estate Research Center at Texas A&M University has said there will be a noticeable increase in the number of young adults — people in their 20s, 30s and 40s — buying houses between 1977 and 1985. The number of new households is expected to jump by 12.5 million, the demographer added.

Such an increase will spawn not only a vigorous market for single family residences, he said, but also a market for apartments and mobile homes — the two most viable alternatives to conventional home ownership.

Not everyone, even in Midland, can afford to start with conventional housing at an early age. The fast-rising costs of buying a home keep putting the realization of many people's dream about an inch beyond the reach of their fingertips. It's like adding 2 plus 2 and getting 3½.

FOCUSING ON THE inflationary rise in housing costs, the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission published a report in August 1978 which showed that a new home purchased in 1972 for $18,000 cost about $30,000 to replace in 1977. In 1979, that cost undoubtedly is even higher.

However, the report noted incomes have not increased as fast as housing costs.

Home Sweet Home
part three of a series

"Assuming that a family would pay no more than 25 percent of its monthly income toward principal and interest payments for a housing unit, a family earning the median income in 1972 of $7,300 would pay $152 a month for a unit. This would have purchased a $20,000 home on 8½ percent interest.

"In 1976, this $20,000 home would cost $30,300. Based on the same mortgage, the family would be paying 29 percent of their income." And that was not figuring it on an interest rate near 10 percent.

According to Joan Ramey, president of the Midland Board of Realtors, new housing is hard to find for under $32,000.

Houses at even that price are small, have all the built-in appliances, refrigerated air and a brick front. And those, she noted, are usually for first-time buyers.

A new trend — consisting of young executives and single professional women buying homes — has developed in Midland. "It's a good investment and they (the young buyer) are needing real estate to reduce their taxes and get a write-off," Mrs. Ramey said.

MANY YOUNG COUPLES also are looking for single family housing not long after they get married.

The problem sometimes in this case, Mrs. Ramey said, is "they want what Mom and Dad have now. They fail to realize how long it took Mom and Dad to reach that point."

She noted that "it is amazing the price of homes young executives can afford here."

But not all Midlanders fall into the "executive" category, and those persons find it difficult to obtain housing.

Mike Nance of Citizens Savings & Loan Association said he sees a need for moderate homes to be developed here.

"There isn't much cheaper housing in Midland. If a couple can get past the down payment and closing costs, they can enjoy the (financial) appreciation of the house."

HE SUGGESTED a development with brick veneer homes, smaller square footages and possibly with a fireplace. Expenses could be cut further by installing evaporative air conditioning instead of refrigerated air.

Another solution for some people could be pre-fabricated housing.

"We already are seeing more pre-fab housing in this area coming from a Lubbock manufacturer," he said.

Harry Clark, senior vice president of First National Bank, also suggested this type of home, saying the key to its success would be volume.

"We didn't have it (volume) earlier because of the base of vacant houses and availability of middle-income homes." That backlog of vacant homes was eliminated around 1973-74, he added.

One financing plan to help moderate-income families wanting to purchase single family housing is known as the Single Family Mortgage Revenue Financing Plan and is being researched by the Midland Housing Authority.

Under this program, the Housing Authority would sell revenue bonds with interest exempt from income tax.

The money then would go to the savings and loan associations who would distribute it for home loans. Interest rate, including handling

'Roadside inn' makes room for stray, castaway animals

GARDENDALE — A stray animal is a sad, sometimes maddening sight. Mary Jane Harris can tell you that. And it's doubly sad — or, cruel — when you consider that a human probably chose to turn an unwanted pet into a stray by dumping it in the country.

And the country is where Mrs. Harris lives with her husband, Melvin, her teen-aged sons and a bunch of formerly abandoned animals.

It's here, too, where her kindness causes her to "adopt" the castaway pets. And it's also where other dogs, perhaps strays or descendants of strays, run wild.

"We have just been over run by animals," said Mrs. Harris, who has organized the partisan A Voice for Animals (AVA) to benefit the dumped dogs, cats and other creatures...and to slow down the dumping rate.

"We have even seen them (people) kick the little animals out of their cars" and then drive off. "Every animal that people don't want, they drive out in the country and dump them."

Mrs. Harris takes in many of them, including dogs, cats, raccoons and, once each, a pony and a goat. She then tries to find homes for them.

THOSE REJECTED dogs that aren't befriended sometimes become wild, travel in packs, attack other creatures and disturb people in this north Ector County community and in the country.

"It's hideous," said Mrs. Harris. Recently, six dogs, including greyhounds and terriers, attacked and slaughtered six Barbado sheep and a Spanish goat belonging to Laymon Baker of Andrews.

"They just ran them down and chewed on them until they died," Baker said. His friend, Mike Gibson, who lives near Baker's double-fenced acreage here, killed two of the dogs with blasts from his 12-gauge shotgun.

Baker hung the dogs on a fence for public view on the off chance somebody might claim them and so he could collect on his sheep and the goat.

Nobody claimed ownership, and Baker didn't get reimbursed. "But those dogs (probably) don't have owners," Mrs. Harris speculated.

And she is trying to keep other animals from being dumped out here (or anywhere) and being pests and pathetic sights.

She doesn't find fault with the animals, however. Rather, it is the people who dump the animals who are the culprits.

"PEOPLE DON'T feel any responsibility for the animals. They take them when they're young, cute and loveable," and when they're grown, they "dump the dogs...kick them out" and apparently figure that somebody in the country will take care of them.

Unfortunately, though, there are far more stray dogs and cats than there are "animal lovers."

"People think it's cruel to have an animal spayed or neutered. It's not. What's cruel is to turn against the little innocent puppy or kitten and dump them."

The animals either become wild, starve to death, get "squashed" on the highway, pick up diseases, disturb the peace or, if they're lucky, find a home.

"THE POOR THING is so scared and scared out of its mind" after dumping, she said. Some of the animals are so frightened "that they won't even come up to me."

The menagerie kept by Mrs. Harris and her husband, Melvin, a tool pusher, ranges from dogs to cats to raccoons.

"This one was 'donated' to me last year," Mrs. Harris said of a big, lumbering dog called Angel. "We've found her a home in San Angelo."

Angel seems contented out here.

"She puts those big ears up, and I think she could fly," Mrs. Harris noted.

The Harrises also have a Dalmatian, a "donation" via the dumping process.

"THEY DUMPED HER out here while she was in labor," Mrs. Harris recalled. "She was lying in a ditch crying." That was on Feb. 9. Since then, the Harrises have found homes for seven of the eight pups in the litter.

They have another dog, one that's mostly a basset hound.

"We watched her get run over on 42nd Street (in Odessa)," picked her up and brought her home, Mrs. Harris recalled.

"She's uncontrollable, but she's sweet."

Among their pets is big, black Stormy who, unlike the other canines, was born into the Harris family of pets.

In the four years in which the Harrises have been inn-keepers for forsaken creatures, they've also taken in a pony and a goat.

"We found a home for the horse, sold the goat and settled down and had five coons," Mrs. Harris said.

APPARENTLY, the raccoons have a permanent home here. They live, play, eat, fight and hiss in two monkey-size cages Harris built around trees.

They're fond of the critters with the "masked" eyes.

"Oh, they hiss like a rattlesnake," Mrs. Harris said. "They huff and puff and grunt like a pig."

And like the dogs and cats, the raccoons were innocent victims of dumping.

Mrs. Harris' "little sister," Rita Smart of San Angelo, found them in a child's shoebox in a roadside park last July.

The Harrises eventually adopted the baby raccoons, "thinking we'd keep them long enough to return them to wild."

That, however, may never happen even though the ringed-tailed, furry critters probably could survive in the wilderness.

"Once they have been humanized, they'll come up to anyone, and they'll blow their heads off" in fearing the animals might be rabid.

Three persons injured as sniper fires on taxis

IRVING, Texas (AP) — A sniper, firing a high-powered rifle from at least two vantage points, shot out the window of a taxi late Monday on Texas 114, then fired at occupants of six other taxis that came to the first one's aid, police said.

Three persons were injured, none seriously. An 18-year-old Irving man was arrested early today.

About five months ago, a sniper shot and killed two persons in cars driving on Texas 183 in Irving, only a few miles from where Monday night's shootings occurred.

Nathaniel Lewis and his passenger suffered cuts from flying glass when his windshield was shattered while he took his fare to Dallas from Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

Authorities said Leon Benny McGriff drove his taxi to the scene of the shooting, at the highway's intersection with O'Connor Road, and was shot in the right forearm about 10 to 15 minutes after he arrived.

ROUSTIN' ABOUT with Ed Todd

So, the Harrises are keeping the coons. Even so, when she views a creek in the wilderness, she thinks of her friendly raccoons and wishes them their freedom. "(Then) I see these out here, and my heart goes out to them," she said of her "docile" pets.

THEY'RE NOT for sale.

"We had a guy come out and wanted to buy one to make him a coonskin cap." She was not pleased with his intent. "Talk about not wanting someone to come back!"

They've named three of the coons after Charles Schulz' "Peanuts" cartoon characters, Charlie Brown, Linus and Sally. The two others are Bandit and Herman.

"Yeah," she said, "I just love them. We enjoy them. They sure are a headache."

Even her husband, who is not what you would call an "animal lover," apparently has been won over by the animals, especially the coons.

"My husband, God bless him, has never cared for animals," Mrs. Harris said. "But he has put up with me for 21 years."

And he good-heartedly lets her have her way with the adopted strays.

"Well," Harris said, "it appears I don't have a choice."

Herman the pet raccoon finds life in a cage is not all that stifling, especially when his keepers, Mary Jane and Melvin Harris, enjoy his company — along with that of Herman's sister, Sally, and brothers, Charlie Brown, Linus and Bandit. (Staff Photo by Ed Todd)

Peace aid vote soon not likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is unlikely to complete action on a special aid package designed to shore up the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty before the two nations open their next round of negotiations May 25.

The $4.8 billion combination of economic and military aid passed the Senate Monday by a 73-11 vote. The measure received strong endorsement by the House Foreign Affairs Committee last week, but isn't expected to reach the floor for action before May 30.

House approval by a substantial margin is expected.

The Senate easily overrode objections of members who argued against the military aid in the package or who cited the failure of either Egypt or Israel to ratify the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty.

While the Senate debated the measure, the ambassadors of Israel and Egypt, in separate speeches, appealed for support for the positions their countries will take into the next round of talks.

Ashraf Ghorbal, the Egyptian ambassador, told the Women's National Democratic Club that Israel must surrender its settlements on the West Bank of the Jordan River.

"They gave up their settlements in Sinai," said Ghorbal. "The time has come to do the same on the West Bank."

Ephraim Evron, the Israeli envoy, said his government seeks a way to coexist with the Palestinians and be certain its security is protected.

Speaking at a luncheon of the American Israel Public Affairs Committee, Evron also appealed for a chance to work out solutions without interference from other parties.

In another speech at the dinner, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said the new strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union could lessen Soviet meddling in the Middle East.

Fund requests top PBRPC agenda

Applications to continue funding for area Head Start programs and to fund various housing programs constitute most of the agenda planned for the board of directors of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission. The panel should meet at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Air Terminal Office Building.

Ector County, Big Spring and Midland school districts are requesting continued funding for their Head Start programs. Ector County is asking for $128,738; Midland, $175,107, and Big Spring, $220,678.

The city of Odessa is applying for 100 units for elderly and low income families. The housing would consist of quadruplex and duplex units and would be constructed in south Odessa near Travis Elementary School.

In a separate application, Odessa is requesting $100,000 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development for a housing rehabilitation loan program.

The money would be used to rehabilitate homes of low and moderate-income families on the south side.

A partnership consisting of four couples in Fort Stockton is asking for financing from the Farmers Home Administration to build a 48-unit housing complex.

The loan would be for $1,045,182 with the applicants supplying an additional $78,520. The project would be placed under a Section 515 program with some units going under HUD's Section 8 rental subsidy.

The Permian Basin Community Centers for Mental Health-Mental Retardation is asking for continuation of funding for the Odessa Center. Total project budget is $981,209 with $294,363 of that planned from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The remaining comes from state and local sources.

Other items include an application for funding a monitoring and closed circuit television system for the Upton County Jail, an application for a fingerprint project for Midland and Winkler County Sheriff's Department and a grant request to the Federal Aviation Administration for improvements to Schlemeyer Field.

Holmes says he hired man to kill Scott

LONDON (AP) — The Liberal Party's former deputy treasurer, David Holmes, said he hired a professional killer he met in a bar to murder Jeremy Thorpe's alleged homosexual lover, the prosecution's star witness claims.

Peter Bessell, a former member of Parliament who lives in Oceanside, Calif., testified Monday that Holmes visited him in Oceanside in 1976 and told him of the plot that failed to kill former model Norman Scott and killed his dog instead.

Bessell said Holmes told him he met Andrew Newton, a former airline pilot, in a Cnelsea tavern and paid him $10,000 to kill Scott in 1975, and that Thorpe, then leader of the Liberal Party, was aware Newton had been hired.

Bessell said Holmes at first told him the reason the dog got shot was that Newton and Scott were arguing over a photograph Scott had showing Newton in a compromising situation with a woman. Newton was married at the time.

There's talk about whether the oil shortage is a hoax.

The President of the United States believes the shortage is real...

Experts in Congress, government and industry believe it is real...

Twenty nations are reducing consumption because they believe the shortage is real.

Even before Iran shut down, gasoline supplies were tight. Demand continues to grow. But government has limited the use of octane improvers. So refiners need more crude, and more complex refining facilities, to make the same amount of gasoline.

Since 1975 U.S. oil production including Alaska increased only 3%. But consumption went up 16%. Industry efforts to add production were impeded by regulations, red tape and price controls.

Iran has resumed exports, but at a reduced volume. Free world oil supplies are short of demand by more than a million barrels daily.

For now—we must conserve because the shortage is real! For the future—we must develop all U.S. energy resources—because the shortage is real!

Thank you for listening.

They're learning things they don't teach in school.

It's fine to get knowledge from the text books. All of us need to. But there's something more.... Learning what needs to be put in!

One of the best ways to learn some of these priceless lessons is to be a newspaper carrier.

Carriers learn how good it feels just to have a job. That people sometimes really do slam doors in your face (no matter how nice you are). They learn how to handle money, including the responsibility of handling someone else's. They learn that a job, unlike a ball game, is not called off because of bad weather.

And they learn the eminent fulfillment that comes from a job well done.

They learn the way to REAL security.

If you know of a young person who might like to try being a carrier for this newspaper, have them call our circulation department, or come in to talk it over.

Rags are raw materials for little riches

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The trash collector finds poor pickings at the home of two sisters who create objects ranging from art to wallets out of discards.

The ragbag is a source of riches for Linda and Stella Allison, who have been turning old T-shirts, worn-out socks and scraps of fabric into useful items ever since they were youngsters.

Now they've written a book, "Rags," which explains, as the subtitle notes, about "Making a Little Something Out of Almost Nothing."

What they make out of almost nothing is slippers, accessories, games and toys, rugs, baskets, woolly animals, blouses, skirts, coats, hats and a host of other wacky, decorative or functional articles.

"Every rag has a style of its own and a story to tell," the authors say. "The book is an invitation to reach into your scrap pile and let the rags speak to you."

If you're sentimental about some of those bits of cloth that have "been lived in and grown out of... loved a lot and worn to death," they add, you can preserve family history in a quilt. Or you can make patch pockets out of bits and pieces, to tie over a skirt or pants.

Need a new skirt? Old ties, collected from garage sales, junk stores and gentlemen's friends, and sewed together from a waistband, will make a colorful and unusual addition to your wardrobe.

From old sweaters the two women make new hats, and "salvage slippers" can be made from bits of velveteen, denim, corduroy, old brocades, or what have you. "Let your imagination be your guide," they urge.

The authors tell how to make a variety of rag rugs — knit, hooked, knotted and crocheted — and explain how to transform a derelict T-shirt into yarn that has a variety of uses, including sturdy twine.

Lengths of it can even be sewed into a feather-like jacket. "We call it a chicken coat because the T-shirt 'fur' feels a lot like feathers," they explain. "It's warm and fun to wear — and causes folks to stare. If you're chicken about looking conspicuous, you won't want one."

If you prefer something to look at, rather than wear, consider applying the authors' suggestions.

"Cloth lends itself well to making pictures and designs," they point out. "Since it already has color and texture, all you have to do is cut and shape it. Satiny, lumpy, nubby, velvety, furry, fuzzy — compare pieces for texture and allow your imagination to guide your scissors and designs."

For gifts with the personal touch, the Allisons tell how to make sock-stick animals, juggling balls, sachet bags, stuffed dolls, glove people, button chokers, covered books and other items.

Stella Allison, 27, lives in Davis, Calif., and designs and handmakes articles for sale in stores. Linda, 30, lives in Berkeley, Calif., and is an author and illustrator of children's books, but continues to sew in her spare time.

BROWNSVILLE — Karen Lynn Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wood of Midland, and Dale Edward Stevenson were united in marriage April 28 in the First United Methodist Church here.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stevenson of Brownsville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of quiana knit and reembodyered Alençon lace accented with bridal pearls. The empire bodice was overlaid with lace that formed a scalloped U neckline and cap sleeves, and traced the waistline.

The full pleated skirt formed a chapel train in the back, and the entire hemline was traced with lace. Her veil of imported French illusion was edged in lace, finger-tip in length and gathered to a lace and pearl Juliet cap.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Michael Myers of Midland, was matron of honor. Another sister, Mrs. David Kimmons of Brownsville, was a bridesmaid, as was Mary Berndt of Houston.

Best man was Jeff Gerdes of Muskogee, Okla., and groomsmen were Stan Kubenka of Beeville and Bill Buck of Brownsville. The bride's brother, David Wood, escorted the two grandmothers.

Along with her bridal bouquet, the bride carried an heirloom white lace handkerchief of the bridegroom's great-grandmother, which had been carried in the weddings of his mother and his sister.

The reception was held in the courtyard and garden patio at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Assisting at the reception were the grandmothers, Mrs. Catherine Draper of Lewisville and Mrs. Marie Stevenson.

Lisa Stevenson, cousin of the bridegroom, distributed ricebags.

The couple will have a delayed honeymoon in Hawaii in October.

DEAR ABBY

Time doesn't heal all old wounds

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I was adopted as an infant. All my life I have wanted to know my natural mother. About two years ago I began my search. Fortunately, my adoptive parents willingly gave me what little information they had. With that, plus what I gathered from various other sources, I located my mother in Iowa. I was so thrilled and excited that I couldn't wait to phone her! I didn't realize what a shock it would be for her to hear from the child she had given away 32 years before. After a brief conversation she suggested that I write to her, so I wrote immediately, telling her all about myself, my life, and how I was ready to fly to Iowa to meet her as soon as she gave the word. A week later I received this reply — no date, no salutation and no signature: "You now have a life that adoption made possible, so count your blessings. I don't understand how you could believe that contacting me would not make trouble. I have had guilt and shame all my days — and now this whole mess has been reopened. "Count your blessings. No need for further communication!" Abby, I can understand her shame, guilt, suffering and sorrow. The entire episode involving me is like an open wound that has been festering for 32 years. Obviously she has never learned to deal with those feelings. But what about MY feelings? Abby, my mother wasn't an innocent teenager who "got caught." She was a 27-year-old Navy nurse in World War II. I want to know who my natural father was, and all about the relationship between him and my mother. I can find out only through her. I don't want to disrupt anybody's life. I just want the facts that I feel I have a right to know. Am I asking too much? I am not a bored, neurotic housewife. I've been happily married for 14 years and have an 11-year-old daughter and 7-year-old son. I'm active in volunteer work and have returned to college, so I'm no kook out to make trouble. Your advice and the opinions of others who have been through this would be deeply appreciated. — MRS. G. IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR MRS. G.: I understand your feelings and appreciate your "right" to know your natural parents, but they, too, have rights. And one of those rights is the right to be left alone if they so choose. (Many girls gave up their babies for adoption only because they were assured their identities would never be revealed.) Many natural parents would be thrilled to reunite with their children, but we cannot assume that ALL are. I fully approve of searching for one's natural parents, but I think a go-between should make the contact and the reunion should be effected only if all parties want it.

Kylene Barker: Miss America '79

By WANDA MOUTON Lifestyle Editor

Her ambition had always been to open her own ladies' apparel shop in Galax, Virginia. But winning the Miss America title changed that. She broadened her ambitions and now plans to open a chain of shops throughout the state of Florida next year. Kylene Barker, Miss America 1979, stopped in Midland on a whirlwind tour of West Texas recently and visited with members of the press during her brief stay. The 22-year-old green-eyed blonde explained that she is entering the summer with a full schedule, making appearances on behalf of the Miss America Pageant, sponsors of the pageant, and meeting other civic and commercial obligations. Her current tour is being made for the Gillette Company, a sponsor of the pageant. She has traveled through 30 states this past year, promoting the pageant at the local and state level. This is her fifth trip to Texas, one of her favorite states, she says. Though hectic, her travel experiences have been a challenge for her, she admits. "I have good days and bad days, and it can be a strain continually having to look good," she said.

Her secret to constant beauty lies in her attitude, she added. "I have to stay alert and be on my toes. And I strive for an upbeat feeling," she said. "It gets a little trying sometimes, but it's worth it." She says that she doesn't mind the commercialism involved with the pageant because she feels it is for a good cause. "Many people confuse the Miss America Pageant, a scholarship pageant, with other well-known pageants which are strictly beauty contests," she said. "Beauty and talent are equally important in the Miss America Pageant," she added. She first competed in the pageant because the contest created a challenge for her. "I wanted to see how far I could go. She is the first contestant from Virginia to win the national title. She said that her parents didn't push her to make the decision to enter the contest, but were very supportive throughout the entire competition, a fact that she believes was important to her win. She plans to visit all fifty states this year, completing her pageant obligations by fall. She will then plunge full force into pursuing her fashion merchandising career with the opening of her dress shop chain.

Even small hole in screen can create itchy problem

By ANDY LANG AP Newsfeatures

Even a small hole in a screen can be troublesome, especially during certain times of the year in certain areas. Mosquitoes and other insects have an uncanny way of finding even the tiniest opening and communicating that information to others of their kind. While it is possible to take an old piece of screening and attach it so that it covers the hole, it is much easier — and usually neater — to buy a ready-made patch in a hardware store. The patch won't be entirely invisible, but it won't be an eyesore and it definitely will prevent the entrance of unwelcome visitors. If the hole is very small and you don't have a patch on hand, it can be covered effectively with a little adhesive, especially the household cement type. Merely spread it across the opening and allow it to dry without too much fussing around. If it's anywhere near eye level, it will be noticeable, but it's a quick solution in an emergency. Should the repaired area be in some inconspicuous corner of the screen and you wish to let it remain, the cement will stay in place for a long time. When a screen is in such bad shape that it needs replacement, the procedure is not as difficult as some persons imagine. The work can be done by anyone who merely observes how the screening was put in place originally. There are two things that should be known, however, to get a good result. One is that, when the mesh is held in place with a flexible spline material, usually rope-like plastic but sometimes rubber, the job becomes easier with the use of a small tool that has one or two wheels on it. Just tell the hardware dealer from whom you buy the mesh that you want the tool that sets the spline material in place. The other thing you should know is a little trick for getting the new screening to fit tightly when splineing is not used. Lay the frame on a sturdy flat surface. Place a board about one-inch thick under each end of the frame. Fasten clamps on the frame at the center. You will know it is correct when both ends of the frame are slightly higher than the center. Now attach the mesh, using either staples or nails, preferably staples.

There is no need to stretch the mesh, since it will become taut as soon as you remove the clamps. Trim the ragged edges and replace the mauling. In buying screening, allow an extra inch or two on each side. Also, you probably will want to use the same kind of mesh that was there in the first place so that it will match the other window and doors. If you aren't sure whether it is aluminum or fiberglass or whatever, take a piece of it with you to the hardware store. (Do-it-yourselfers will get much help from Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1.50 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Mother Dole confident of son's chance to win

RUSSELL, Kan. (AP) — Bina Dole says she was never very confident about her son's chances of winning the vice presidency in 1976. But now Robert Dole is aiming at the White House and his mother has no doubts about the outcome. "There's no way he can lose," the Kansas senator's 76-year-old mother declared Monday after he returned home to formally announce his candidacy for the GOP presidential nomination. Mrs. Dole said she never felt "really sure" about the election three years ago when Dole lost along with Gerald Ford, the first political defeat for the Kansaser after 14 straight victories.

"But I have a different feeling about this campaign," she said. "I have a different feeling that I've always had in his other campaigns and I hope to continue to feel this way because he's always won before." A crystal ball or women's intuition? "You call it what you will, but I do have that feeling this time," she replied. While Dole, the seventh Republican to enter the race, took off to campaign in Iowa and Virginia, most of his family relaxed in their mother's neat, shaded brick home. Outside, an American flag flew in the brisk western Kansas wind.

Bell show again plays Tall City

Bill Haehnel is proving that a good show keeps people coming back for more.

Haehnel, Southwestern Bell's science demonstrator for three years, is back in the city to show recent Bell System innovations in his new science presentation before Midland service clubs.

He will appear before the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday noon and the Downtown Rotary Club Thursday noon. Both meetings are held in the Midland Hilton. He will present the program at the meeting of the Southside Lions Club Friday noon in its building at 111 E. New York St.

The 1979 show is titled "Through the Looking Glass Lightly."

"More than 2,500 changes have been made in the basic telephone over the last 25 years," Haehnel said. "In fact, virtually every component has been changed in the past six years to increase efficiency and fidelity as soundwaves are converted to electrical waves and reconverted into the sound of voice."

He said the Bell System now handles 500 million calls a day. "Ten years from now, we'll double that to a billion calls a day. That's why new technologies are being developed to handle those calls."

Using a century-old device invented by Alexander Graham Bell, Haehnel demonstrates in his show the practicality of converting soundwaves into electrical waves and transmitting them over lightwaves. He demonstrates Bell's principal with a replica of the 1880 photophone.

Fire at dump site

'no major hazard'

BEATTY, Nev. (AP) — There appears to have been no major health hazard as a result of a fire that exposed about 10 people to low-level radiation, says Gov. Bob List.

A truck carrying radioactive medical waste caught fire Monday at a nuclear dump site about 10 miles south of the desert town of Beatty.

State Health Officer Dr. John Carr said the maximum exposure that showed up on monitoring badges was about 5 millirems, a fifth of the exposure a person receives from the average chest X-ray.

Fire at dump site

The incident occurred at 5:30 a.m. when the truck was waiting to enter the dump site near Beatty, which lies within several miles of the Nevada Test Site, the nation's only underground nuclear test facility. Carr said the truck's driver disconnected the trailer and went to report the blaze, and the truck was hauled into the dump area.

List said part of the shipment apparently had come from a California storage facility where workers Monday found one canister of uranium 238 burst and others bulging. He ordered that no materials be accepted from the firm until he determined what had happened.

Carr said about 10 workers were exposed as they unloaded the burning truck. A spokesman for Nuclear Engineering Co. Inc., operators of the dump, said no one was injured in the fire and there was no airborne contamination.

But List said he was concerned that smoke from the fire could carry U-238. He dispatched state monitoring teams to the area and said federal teams from the Nevada Test Site were also enroute.

List also said the state could wind up changing the policy which has allowed the NECO facility to operate under a state contract since 1972. "We're just not going to have the risks," he said.

Earthquake hits in Mediterranean

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—An earthquake measuring 5.9 on the Richter scale hit 50 miles south of the Greek Mediterranean island of Crete today, the Athens Seismological Service announced. It said there were no immediate reports of damage or casualties, but that a tidal wave could result and threaten small vessels in the area. The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. Thus a reading of 7.5 reflects an earthquake 10 times stronger than one of 6.5. An earthquake of 5 on the Richter scale can cause considerable damage and 6 severe damage. A 7 reading is a "major" earthquake, capable of widespread heavy damage.

Pets have low risk of rabies

Dear Dr. Solomon: My 10-year-old son can't pass by a dog or cat without petting it, and occasionally he gets nipped. How serious is the threat of rabies in such instances?—Mrs. E.G.

Dear Mrs. G.: Bites by dogs or cats generally carry a low risk of rabies. If the animal appears healthy, it should be observed for 10 days. Should the animal show any illness during this period, the dog or cat should be examined. Only if the illness suggests rabies will the animal have to be killed.

In cases where the cat or dog escapes and cannot be confined for observation, the circumstances surrounding the incident and any report of rabies in the area must be assessed to determine the need for rabies prevention treatment.

For example, if your son was bitten because he teased an animal—in other words, the bite was provoked—and if you live in an area that has been free of rabies, treatment may not be indicated. However, if you live in a rural area where the potential for rabies is greater, and if the animal was not provoked to bite, rabies prophylactic treatment may be advisable.

Dear Dr. Solomon: As a faithful reader of your column, I thank you for your numerous articles related to traffic safety.

First, about the drinking driver and the increased chance of being involved in an accident. Recently, two politicians in our area were arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol. When they appeared in court, the city prosecutor reduced the charges to careless driving. Reason: first offense. Until the judicial system upholds the laws that are established, the drinking driver will usually get off with a fine and a lesser charge. When almost half of the traffic accidents on the highways are alcohol-related, the public must take a stand against this practice.

Second, about the motorcyclists and ways to protect themselves. The Motorcycle Safety Foundation provides excellent materials for the motorcyclist. This includes instruction, literature, and audio visual aids. Readers can obtain a listing by writing the Foundation at 6755 Elkridge Landing Road, Linthicum, Md. 21090.

Finally, about child restraints and other protection for passengers within the motor vehicle. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has conducted research and hearings to improve the current child restraints standard. Also, the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety conducted a survey to see what consumers thought of protective devices within cars.

The public has got to assume the responsibility for their actions. If they don't, then governmental agencies should protect their citizens. Most people will not appreciate that statement. However, with the increase of injuries that occur in traffic accidents, something must be done. Thank you again for all the good information you provide in your column.—Linda Cooley, vice president, Missouri Drive and Safety Education Assn., Warrensburg, Mo.

Svelte ballet dancers may have poor health

CHICAGO (AP) — Young female students of ballet, which may be the nation's "most obsessively weight-conscious subculture," sometimes show similarities to women who suffer from anorexia nervosa as they fight to stay thin, two New York psychiatrists reported today.

Dr. Eugene L. Lowenkopf of New York Medical College and Dr. Lawrence M. Vincent, author of a dancers' health book, reported a study of 55 female student ballet dancers aged 16 to 20.

In a text prepared for the meeting of the American Psychiatric Association here, the two psychiatrists said a majority of the dancers weighed significantly below the national average for women of their age and height and "engage in patterns of eating and hyperactivity seen in patients with anorexia nervosa," a disorder which leads to starvation and emaciation.

"The ballet world is possibly the most obsessively weight-conscious subculture in our country today," said the psychiatrists.

"The emphasis on svelte that dominates current fashion is taken to the extreme in contemporary ballet; the conception of ideal womanliness is long-necked, long-legged and small-breasted," they said.

Student ballerinas must exercise in class for five to seven hours a day, yet their "preoccupation with thinness" leads some of them to try to exist on just a few hundred calories a day, they said.

Anorexia nervosa, a life-threatening disorder, is considered to have an emotional basis. Those who suffer from it, usually women, scarcely eat and become emaciated.

The psychiatrists added, however, that the ballet students "only rarely reach the low weight seen in true anorexics and appear to be more amenable to treatment."

Civil servants strike in Italy

ROME (AP) — An estimated 2 million Italian civil servants staged a one-day nationwide strike today that closed airports, schools, courts, and most government offices.

Unions called the walkout to urge the government to approve legislation to provide higher pay and improved benefits for 1979.

Tickets for the concert will be for sale at the doors tonight.

Congress nears vote lifting sanctions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is being urged to retain economic sanctions against Rhodesia as a "moral lever" to encourage further progress toward creating a genuine black-majority government.

In the Senate, a vote was nearing on lifting the sanctions immediately in view of last month's elections, which saw a Methodist bishop, Abel Muzorewa, chosen as Rhodesia's first black prime minister.

Witnesses before a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee were sharply divided Monday over the questions of whether the elections were free, fair and open and of whether the United States should end its sanctions.

Allard Lowenstein, a liberal Democrat and former congressman from New York, said he believes the blacks who voted genuinely want majority-rule government.

Lowenstein, who observed the elections for Freedom House, a human rights monitoring group, said the sanctions should be retained while the United States seeks to convince the Muzorewa government further progress is needed.

One appropriate step, Lowenstein said, would be a national referendum on the Rhodesian constitution, approved by the country's tiny white minority without the participation of black Rhodesians.

Lowenstein said it is unfair to contend the elections are invalid because, he said, it is obvious the great majority of those who voted want the transfer of power to continue, want further elections and want an end to the current civil war.

A representative of the American Conservative Union who observed the elections, M. Stanton Evans, took the position that they were completely fair and said the sanctions should be lifted now.

Here's why it takes fuel to make electricity.

It takes fuel to make electricity. A lot of people don't understand that, but it's true. Most of the power plants in this country require steam to generate electricity. To make steam you must boil water, and that requires a lot of heat. That's why we have to buy and burn large amounts of fuel, such as lignite coal and natural gas, every month. The steam we make with it turns the generators that make your electricity, which we distribute to you right when you need it. The fuel we use costs money, more all the time, which is why we show it separately on your bill. At Texas Electric, we want you to know what you're paying for. And to remember: it takes fuel to make electricity.

Tougher rule on ag land

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A land owner must use the land as a farm or ranch for five out of the past seven years in order to qualify for tax breaks as agriculture land, House and Senate negotiators decided Monday.

The conference committee working on House and Senate differences in the enabling act for the Tax Relief Amendment made a preliminary decision to accept the Senate version. The House version would allow a tax break if the land had been in agriculture use for the past two preceding years.

"The House version means that a man could put a small number of animals on a plot of land and in two years it would be taxed as agriculture land," protested Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, head of the Senate conferees.

Clements won't get power

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate has refused to give Gov. Bill Clements the extra budget control he wants, but it voted to give him more power within his office and over his own state appointees.

It also voted Monday to set up a special state fund to pay for the governor's inaugural now paid for by private donors.

Twice now, the Senate has refused to debate Sen. O.H. Harris' proposal that would authorize the governor to reduce appropriations and to veto special provisions known as "riders."

Currently, the governor must approve or veto money appropriated for a program. He cannot reduce funding to a level he likes.

On April 23, when Harris first tried to bring up the measure, the vote was 18-13. He needed 21 votes or two-thirds.

Monday, he again asked his colleagues to consider the proposed constitutional amendment, stating he had removed the proposed authority to reduce line-item appropriations.

All that remained, said Harris, R-Dallas, would be the governor's power to veto riders and general language directing the governor, or a committee appointed by the governor, to "exercise fiscal control" over funds appropriated by the Legislature.

The measure also would make it easier for the Legislature to override a gubernatorial veto.

The vote to suspend Senate rules and debate the proposal was 17-10, so Harris again was three votes shy of two-thirds.

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, objected to a bill to implement Harris' proposed constitutional amendment because he said it "would give the governor complete and total control after we (legislators) are away from here — it's a dangerous precedent."

The Senate tentatively approved a bill that would allow the governor to transfer "any program of an agency or office under his control to any agency in the executive department that he considers qualified to administer the program."

The purpose of the transfer, the bill states, is greater efficiency and effectiveness.

"Every governor wants to run his office a little differently," said the sponsor, Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin.

Sen. Raul Longoria, D-Edinburg, said he feared the governor "might want to abolish an agency just because it's not popular with him."

Brooks amended the bill to exclude the Texas

Department of Labor and Standards, which oversees labor and safety programs, mobile homes, boxing and wrestling and auctioneers.

Traeger also exempted the Governor's Commission on Physical Fitness — one of 24 agencies under the governor's control — from provisions of the bill.

Hall's 'sucker' racer goes wild in Indy 500 warmup

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Last year Midland's Jim Hall decided it was time to go Indianapolis car racing. After a long, illustrious career in road racing, Hall put together a car and a crew, hired Al Unser and headed for the Indianapolis 500 — all within the space of a few months.

Given little chance of immediate success, Hall's team proceeded to win not only the Indianapolis 500 "right out of the box" but also the Pocono 500 and California 500 for an unprecedented sweep of Indy-style racing's Triple Crown.

But the 500s were only three of 18 races. In the other 15, Hall's Chaparral Lola lost — sometimes decisively.

So the question was asked: Why was Hall's car a world beater in the Triple Crown races and an egg beater in the rest?

"It's really isn't so hard to figure out," said the intense but congenial Texan. "We had time to sort out the car at those three races. The others we didn't. There were some other considerations, sure, but it's basically as simple as that."

For Indianapolis, there are nearly three weeks worth of practice days. Pocono and California have almost a full week for preparations. But for many other events, there was less than one day of practice.

"That's where we really were at a disadvantage," Hall said of the other events. "We'd show up and just start figuring out what our problems were and it was time to race. The other teams were just about race-ready, because they've been to those places before and already have the answers to the problems."

"We were so busy trying to keep our heads above water we didn't have time for the luxury of testing."

A couple of severe crashes also set the team behind.

"We only had one car most of the year, so we were continually patching it back together," Hall added.

But if anybody expected this year, the second time around, to be easier for Hall, they just don't know him or understand the competitive forces that drive him.

Hall used last year to gain enough background knowledge about the Indy-car circuit to prepare him for dropping a big surprise this year. Hall has resurrected his radical "sucker" or "ground effects" car idea from his road racing days to build what probably ranks as the most innovative car entered in this or any recent Indianapolis 500.

"In a lot of respects, this car is like going back to square one," Hall said. "To make it work to its potential, we are going to have to put in as much or more effort this month than we did last year with the Lola."

Even though the new Chaparral was almost immediately one of the fastest cars in practice for the May 27 classic, and even though it comfortably earned a front row starting position in last weekend's time trials, Hall's team is still the busiest here.

Unser put in almost as many miles Monday in practice as the other two dozen or so cars practicing did combined. And more testing is planned for the week ahead.

"We're still working toward the optimum combination of speed and drag, wing and power settings," Hall said.

If the "optimum" for the Chaparral is much better than the level it's already at, the competition may not see much of Unser after the green flag drops in the race.

His practice speeds Monday were more than 4 mph faster than anyone else. And although most of those practicing in the session were obviously cars without a chance for victory, some were the cars of strong contenders like Tom Sneva, Gordon Johncock, Johnny Rutherford, Bobby Unser and Mike Mosley.

Segelke gets help to gain fourth win

EL PASO — Herman Segelke has run his unbeaten record in the Texas League to 4-0, but it took a heap of runs and late pitching help from Mike Allen to do it.

Segelke's Midland Cubs outscored El Paso 10-9 Monday night to keep its 2½-game edge over San Antonio, which beat Amarillo 5-3. In other Texas League games, Shreveport beat Jackson 3-1 and Tulsa beat Arkansas 3-1.

Dan Rohn scored the winning run for Midland in the seventh. After he singled, Mike Turgeon advanced him to second with another single and Brian Rosinski was hit by a pitch to load the bases.

El Paso then turned a double play on a grounder, but Rohn came in with what proved to be the winning run. His score gave Midland a 10-7 edge, and two runs by El Paso in the bottom of the eighth just narrowed the margin.

Jim Tracy led the Cubs' 14-hit attack with three singles while Rosinski and Carlos Lezcano each drove in two runs. Lezcano homered in the game.

Segelke went 6½ innings and gave up 12 hits and seven runs, six of them earned, but he still remained unbeaten this year with his 4-0 record.

The two teams play here again tonight.

Indy drops pace lights

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The basic concept under which the Indianapolis 500 is run has been changed.

Officials of the U.S. Auto Club and Indianapolis Motor Speedway decided Monday to do away with the controversial pacer light system under which the race cars have been controlled during a caution period on the track.

The sequential lights are to be replaced by the familiar pace car system; the field packs up behind the pace car until the caution period is over.

"The strategy would be different now," Chief Steward Tom Binford acknowledged. "You could lose distance and make it up during the yellow. You could unlap yourself and get back up to the front. It might encourage someone who gets behind now to keep pushing just in case there's a yellow. In the past some have just given up when they've fallen behind."

Until now, the winner was supposedly the driver who had the fewest problems and ran the fastest for the full 500 miles. Now it will be possible to foul up and still salvage a victory.

With the pacer lights, the position of the cars was supposed to be "frozen" and regular intervals maintained during caution periods. The idea was to protect the man ahead from losing the advantage over the next guy that had been gained under racing conditions.

Before the pacer lights came in 1972, there was an "honor system." Both systems have been flagrantly abused. A steady stream of accusations of cheating have tarnished some victories here.

"The pace car system has been perfected in recent years," Binford said. "This should eliminate the abuses, and make a better race."

USAC Steward Art Meyers agreed, "Our main concern is to do it the way that it will not hurt the show."

Observers predict the change could mean one of the closest finishes ever here. Previously the slimmest victory margin here was 2.16 seconds in 1937. The eight seconds between Al Unser and Tom Sneva last year was next closest.

MC netters earn first round victories

WACO — Three Midland College players and two doubles teams advanced past the first round during Monday's action at the National Junior College women's tennis tournament here.

Chaparral netters to advance to the third round in singles were Kathy Bovell, Leslie Miller and Debbie Smith. In doubles, the pairs of Smith and Miller and Bovell and Karen Young advanced.

In singles, Bovell defeated Diane Gilbert of Mott, 6-0, 6-2, and Elaine Tolson of Peace, 6-3, 6-1. Miller defeated Marilyn Fuco of Buck's County, 6-1, 6-0, and Rhonda Harper of Dodge City, 6-2, 6-0. Smith defeated Tracie Wells of Catonsville, 6-0, 6-3, and Cathy Rice of North Idaho, 6-0, 6-2.

In doubles, Smith and Miller defeated Smith and Comet from Catonsville, 6-0, 6-1, and Bovell and Young defeated Cranford and Kelley from Jefferson State, 6-0, 6-4.

Young was the only MC victim in early round action. She won her opener 6-1, 6-1 over Helen Jones of Wallace but lost 6-1, 6-3 in the next round to Joanne Gulley of Schriener and was eliminated.

Longhorns advance to NCAA playoffs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — There seemed to be little doubt in anyone's mind, especially the Texas Longhorns, that they were going to win the third annual Southwest Conference baseball tournament.

"We expected to win it when we started and we simply went out there and won it," Horn Captain Mark Chelette said Monday after UT had sliced up Arkansas 12-6 to win the tournament title and advance to the NCAA Central Regional playoffs.

"I think we proved today that we're the better ball club. We've taken some pride in our number one ranking. Everybody has felt that we were the best and we wanted to play like it."

Texas' rowdy, cheering fans won't have to go farther than Disch-Falk Field to see the Longhorns continue in the playoffs. SWC officials announced during the game that the Central Regionals would be played here May 25-27.

Texas' deadly execution of the Razorbacks did nothing to decrease the team's confidence.

"I think we've got the kind of team that can go all the way," Chelette said. "Our pitching is unreal, and if we keep it going and don't let down, I don't see how we can't win it all."

"All" would be a fourth national championship for the Longhorns, who last won the title in 1975.

The Longhorns quickly established the trend of the game in the first inning when they scored two runs on a throwing error by starting pitcher Bob McHale. They boosted it to 6-1 in the fifth on Terry Salazar's three-run home run and Keith Walker's double.

Arkansas scored once in the fourth on John Hennell's grounder and got three more in the fifth on Hennell's double and a two-run single by Johnny Ray.

That's when the Longhorns opened the flood gates with five more runs in the seventh. The runs came on singles by Jim Tjader, Joe Bruno and Kevin Shannon and errors by Arkansas shortstop Larry Wallace and third baseman Bob Kauffman.

Arkansas got two back in the eighth on bases loaded double by slumping Ed Wallace, the regular season batting champion, but Texas still had the last word—Tjader clubbed a solo homer in the ninth.

Bullets' guards hold playoff key

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — The Washington Bullets' guards, outplayed and maligned throughout the playoffs, hold the key to the Bullets' bid to bounce back from the brink of elimination and retain their National Basketball Association championship.

Kevin Grevey, the Bullets' best shooter, finally found the range the last two games, hitting 15- and 20-footers for a total of 51 points. And Tom Henderson had his best game in Sunday's 107-103 victory over the San Antonio Spurs, penetrating to the basket for 16 points and nine assists.

They Bullets' backcourtmen will have to be just as effective Wednesday night, when the Spurs will have the home-court advantage — and some 16,000 boisterous boosters — in their second effort to wrap up the best-of-seven Eastern Conference playoff final.

The Spurs, who breezed to a 3-1 lead in the series before stumbling Sunday, are confident they can finish off Washington Wednesday. They have no intention of letting the series go to a seventh game, which would be played here Friday night.

"They've got to come to our place, and they know what to expect down there," said guard James Silas. "We've beaten them three times already, so there's no reason to think we can't beat them a fourth."

Naturally, that's not the way the Bullets see it. They view their backcourt revival as the key to the remainder of the series.

"We can win down there if we play well — like we played today," said

Grevey. "We were hitting the 15-footers and that opened up the inside lanes."

"They can't afford to double-team us because that opens the middle for Tommy and me," added Grevey. "And if they try to single-team Bobby Dandridge or Elvin Hayes, well, that's what we want."

The Spurs, often criticized for their spotty defense, have made effective use of a half-court zone trap in which they double-team the man with the ball. But Sunday that defensive tactic didn't work because Grevey was hitting the open shots and Henderson was cutting through the middle for layups and the Bullets were passing crisply.

"If they continue to double-team, we can get that slice through the middle for the layup anytime we want," said Bullets Coach Dick Motta.

"We weren't active defensively," conceded Spurs Coach Doug Moe. "We had guys standing around and that hurt us because they were able to get layups against us."

Wednesday is deadline for Junior net tourney

Wednesday is the last day to sign up for the Midland Junior Tennis Association tournament for boys and girls 15 years of age and under.

The event will be May 19-20 on the Midland Lee courts. Play will begin at 9 a.m.

Entries can be made by calling Yvonne Garton at 683-1529. Balls and trophies will be provided by MJTA.

Canadiens juggle lineup for surprising Rangers

MONTREAL (AP) — At 20 minutes past six tonight, 10 minutes before warmups, Montreal Canadiens Coach Scotty Bowman will call for the team trainer. The trainer then will become the second person to know who will tend goal for the Canadiens in the second game of their National Hockey League playoff final against the New York Rangers.

"I always want the prerogative of changing my mind," said Bowman, who has done it at least three times since the Rangers scored a 4-1 triumph in Sunday's series opener.

Ken Dryden, who gave up four goals on 13 shots in the first two periods of Sunday's loss, was replaced by Michel Larocque before the third period began. After the contest, Bowman said, "Off the third period, we'll probably start Larocque Tuesday."

Monday, the day after Larocque played in only the seventh playoff game of his six-year career, Bowman said he would use Dryden in Game 2, then change to Larocque.

Two Midland players sign to play at Tech

Oil isn't the only commodity blessing the Permian Basin. This year, several gems were found on baseball diamonds in Midland. The best of them, Midland High's Jimmy Zachry and Midland Lee's Terry Willis, were plucked by Texas Tech.

Moskau kicks off third frame blues

CINCINNATI (AP) — Paul Moskau groped for an explanation of the third inning blahs that spoiled an otherwise pretty good game for the Cincinnati Reds' sometimes starter.

"My breaking pitch was good, my fastball was good and my changeup was good. It just wasn't where I wanted it to go," he said. "I just stood out there shaking my head, wondering what was happening."

What happened was that Moskau loaded the bases on three straight walks, then cleared them by giving up a sacrifice fly and a two-run single.

After that lapse, he faced just 13 batters in the next four innings and notched his third victory, against no losses, as the Reds beat San Diego 7-4 Monday night.

The game was the only one scheduled in the National League, and the victory moved the Reds a full game ahead of Houston in the Western Division.

"I don't know what happened. It's totally confusing to me," said Moskau, whose return to the starting rotation hinges on Tom Seaver's bad back. "My motion felt fine. More than anything else, it was lack of concentration, I guess."

The Reds had given Moskau a 3-0 lead, but his third inning breakdown cancelled that. Then George Foster slammed his sixth home run of the season when the Reds came to bat in the third, and Cincinnati scored three more in the fourth to sew up their ninth victory in 11 games.

All seven runs were off loser Eric Rasmussen, 0-4.

"He's had some hard luck, and he

Chronicle reports sale

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Chronicle reported Monday the Houston Astros are being sold for $19 million.

The National League is to vote Wednesday in Chicago on the sale to John J. McMullen, a New York shipping executive, and a limited partner Dave LeFevre, a New York lawyer.

The Chronicle said the Ford Motor Credit Co., sole owners of the Astros the last two years, will receive $13 million in cash and McMullen and LeFevre will assume debts approximately $6 million.

Slight difference helps Texas win

Neither pitcher yielded an earned run. Cleveland's only run came in the first inning when McKay bobbled the throw on an attempted force play, allowing Paul Dade to score from second base.

Underwood scattered six hits in absorbing his fifth loss without a victory. Waits, 4-3, walked seven and struck out three.

Tigers 3, Yankees 1

Detroit right-hander Mill Wilcox pitched a four-hitter, holding the Yankees hitless after the third inning, and Steve Kemp singled home the winning run with two out in the eighth inning.

Kemp scored the insurance run when Jason Thompson doubled and Lance Parrish followed with an infield single.

Ed Figueroa, 3-4, was the loser, succumbing to the Tigers for the first time since May 11, 1976.

Wilcox, 3-2, walked two and struck out six, including Reggie Jackson in the first inning when the Yankees had a man in scoring position.

Wilcox stopped Jackson's streak of driving in at least one run in 10 consecutive games, one short of the club record set by Babe Ruth in 1931 and two away from the major league mark held by Joe Cronin, Ted Williams and Paul Waner.

Royals 1, Mariners 0

Rich Gale notched his third straight victory with a five-hitter, and Pete LaCock drove in Kansas City's only run with an eighth-inning sacrifice fly.

Gale, 3-2, walked four and struck out one. He duelled with Seattle starter Floyd Bannister for 71-3 innings before Bannister walked George Brett on four pitches, then threw two more balls to Amos Otis. Byron McLaughlin relieved, walked Otis, and both runners advanced on a passed ball by Mariners catcher Bob Stinson.

That set the stage for LaCock, who was pinch hitting for Johnathan.

Bannister allowed just three hits in his stint.

Midland 66 proud of Phillips' TropArtic oil

MIDLAND 66 IS PROUD OF THEIR TROP-ARTIC OIL and unhesitatingly recommend it for its versatility and dependability. TropArtic is made from selected base oils and blended with carefully selected additives, including two exclusive Phillips additive developments. Phil-Ad 100 and Phil-Ad VII. Phil-Ad 100 provides excellent detergency and dispersancy. Phil-Ad VII is a Phillips-developed Viscosity Index (VI) Improver with shear stability. Protects against thinning out in service—STAYS IN GRADE.

Jack Johnson, assistant manager of Midland 66, is proud of the excellent qualities of the Phillips 66 TropArtic motor oil. The use of first-line quality TropArtic protects your engine in all temperature ranges, and is a very reasonable aid for continued service from your automobile.

Trop-Artic meets the latest requirements of auto manufacturers: GM, Ford, American Motors, Chrysler and those foreign imports for which recommendations are made.

TropArtic 10W-40 and 10W-30 exceed the rigid requirements of military specifications. TropArtic provides balanced performance and lubrication under both stop-and-go and highway driving. Improved to give extra protection against thickening in engine crankcase of cars pulling trailers, boats, etc. at high speeds. Makes for easy starts in cold weather and good lubrication in hot weather.

TropArtic All Season Motor Oil is recommended for engines of automobiles, trucks, tractors, buses and other automotive equipment operating on gasoline, diesel fuel or LP-Gas where the manufacturer suggests the use of multigrade motor oils. Also recommended for cars equipped with catalytic converters and operating with unleaded gasoline.

TropArtic is perfect for Texas use, where the temperatures soar, and where oil consumption or valve lifter leak-down can be a problem. Go to your Phillips 66 station and ask for a change to TropArtic with complete confidence. Your car's engine will thank you.

NEW YORK (AP) — Two of Wall Street's largest brokerage houses announced today they would merge to form the nation's second largest investment firm.

The combination of the two apparently will be Wall Street's second largest investment firm, ahead of E.F. Hutton, the current No. 2, but trailing giant Merrill Lynch.

Energy chief charges companies

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California's energy chief charged Monday that oil companies knew of California's impending fuel shortage months before it hit and did nothing to prepare for the problem.

Richard Maulin, head of the state Energy Commission, said at a special state Senate hearing that the companies' "inability to know what to do about it was the problem."

As Maulin testified before a joint meeting of the Senate Energy and Public Utilities and the Senate Judiciary committees, spot checks statewide indicated that lines were dwindling at some gas stations.

Fourteen counties, including most of the state's urban areas, have adopted the odd-even gas allocation program, based on license plate numbers, after approval by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

The state Board of Equalization reported that gasoline consumption continued to escalate, setting a record high for the 52nd consecutive month. The board also said the amount of gasoline purchased in California during March topped the 1-billion-gallon mark for the first time ever.

Maulin, a Brown appointee, said at the hearing, "I never heard from one oil company executive or federal regulator saying this is going to occur and you had better get ready for it."

He also criticized as "insensitive" statements by federal officials and oil company executives who blamed the gas shortage in large part on panic buying.

Maulin said the peculiarities of federal gas allocations were partly to blame for the shortage. He also said there are fewer gas stations in Los Angeles than there once were.

"The reason people are getting out (of station dealerships) is because of controls on profits," he said. "Many retailers can't make a decent living while others can charge $1.20 for gas and make a fortune."

Brown asked Maulin to draft emergency regulations by Tuesday morning to require at least half the stations in counties affected by rationing to remain open on weekends.

Maulin told reporters the state would seek voluntary compliance by station owners.

Saudi Arabian leader gives motorist advice

By CHARLOTTE PORTER

As gasoline dealers worried that supplies might not last to the end of the month and waiting lists for compact cars grew longer, a Saudi Arabian leader offered advice to gas-guzzling Americans — reduce consumption or face still higher prices.

The advice came as California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. prepared to sign an order forcing more stations to stay open on weekends and members of Congress prepared to take up Presiage of gas supplies. But more motorists may find themselves lining up for fuel as their counterparts in California have done for weeks.

"The stations have been cut 15 to 20 percent over last year's sales, and you can't take that much juice out of the marketplace and get through the month," said Tom Anderson, president of the Pennsylvania Service Dealers Association.

Ed Terkelson, operator of DX Service in Omaha, Neb., said he planned to spend Memorial Day fishing. "I'm just going to let it run out," he said of his dwindling supply of gasoline.

Some gas dealers organizations have threatened a four-day shutdown this month in protest of federal controls on their markups. The Justice Department is looking into the possibility of bringing antitrust action against such a move.

But an Energy Department spokesman said Monday the DOE has issued "a notice of intent" to take a look at its 1974 regulations, which froze markups at their 1973 levels, plus 3 cents a gallon. Ed Vilade said easing controls would help dealers "keep their heads above water" while supplies are tight.

VENEZUELA TO HIKE CRUDE PRICE
NEW YORK (AP) — Venezuela is about to add 60 cents to the price of a barrel of oil, industry sources said Monday. The move, which follows a similar one last week by Iran, puts more pressure on the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to increase the cartel's basic price of oil.

Venezuelan government sources confirmed the reports, and indicated that the price increase could be as much as 80 cents a barrel. But industry sources said they understood the increase would be 60 cents, bringing the cost of a barrel of Venezuelan oil to $16.35.

Venezuela's customers, which include many of the large oil companies, are reviewing the proposed price increase. Should they approve the terms, it would be effective immediately.

Crude hike inevitable

KUWAIT (AP) — Kuwait's oil minister, Sheikh Ali Khalifa Al Sabah, said today "a substantial increase" in the price of oil is inevitable in the fourth quarter of the year.

He refused to comment on reports that Kuwait was on the verge of announcing an additional surcharge for its oil.

Kuwait oil ministry sources, asking not to be named, said "the surcharge is under constant revision and could be raised at any time."

The current price of Kuwait oil is $15.80 a barrel and includes a $1.80 surcharge above the price fixed by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Sheik Ali explained that the fourth quarter increase will be brought on by higher demand in Western countries, the United States in particular, as they attempt to increase oil stocks before winter.

Amoco No. 9-A Grizel, testing, no gauges, through perforations from 6,422 to 6,410 feet and from 6,422 to 6,410 feet and from 6,422 to 6,410 feet, acidized with 4,246 gallons.

Bond limitation called hardship

WASHINGTON (AP) — State and city officials say an effort in Congress to limit use of tax-exempt bonds for housing would leave many Americans unable to realize their dream of owning a home.

"For many areas, tax-exempt financing is not a luxury but rather an emerging necessity to address the housing needs of its low- and moderate-income residents," Edmund D. Edelman, a Los Angeles city supervisor, told the House Ways and Means Committee Monday.

David W. Herlinger, president of the Council of Just Housing Agencies, added: "It is manifestly unjust to state housing agencies and to the low- and moderate-income families who otherwise cannot become home owners to end summarily our single-family home-ownership program because of abuses that may have occurred on the part of others."

Edelman, Herlinger and other officials were protesting a bill that would prohibit a federal tax exemption for bonds used for mortgages on owner-occupied homes. It also would strictly limit use of such bonds for rental housing. The bill is sponsored by Reps. Al Ullman, D-Ore., and Barber Conable, R-N.Y., chairman and senior Republican, respectively, on the Ways and Means Committee.

The Carter administration, while proposing a different approach, basically supports the bill. The Treasury Department fears that without limits, the existing program eventually could cost the federal treasury $3 billion or $4 billion a year in lost taxes.

Such tax-free bonds have been used for several years to help low-income families obtain lower mortgage rates so they could afford a home. But a year ago, as housing costs and mortgage rates continued to soar, state and local officials began using the same approach to help middle- and upper-income buyers. Some cases have been cited in which families with incomes of $40,000 were unable to qualify for the subsidies.

Daniel Whitehurst, mayor of Fresno, Calif., told the committee such examples are not typical. In Chicago, he said, where families earning up to $40,000 a year may qualify, the average income of participants was under $21,000. And Chicago requires that 85 percent of the loans go to those with incomes under $29,500.

"Loans were made to families of average household incomes of just over $17,000 in Denver and about $16,000 in Minneapolis," Whitehurst said. "One has been led to believe, though, that nearly all of the loans have gone to families in the $40,000 income range."

Ullman said the bond programs are bad public policy because Congress can exercise no direct control over how they are carried out. If such government aid to home ownership is needed, he contends, Congress should consider direct spending programs, rather than tax subsidies.

Donald Lubick, an assistant secretary of the treasury, said continued widespread use of the bonds threatens to drain the municipal bond market of money needed for such public projects as airports and parks.

In other economic developments Monday:

—Federal Reserve Board Chairman G. William Miller repeated his prediction that it would take four to seven years to bring the inflation rate down to "anything like an acceptable level."

—The Federal Reserve Board announced it would begin experimenting later this year with electronic processing of corporate checks of $100,000 and over.

Turk sky use needs Soviet OK

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — The Turkish government says the Soviet Union must agree before it will let U.S. planes use its air space to verify Soviet compliance with the new SALT treaty.

"While contributing to world peace and security, it is only natural that Turkey also takes into consideration its own security and relations with its neighbors, and takes care to base its relations with its neighbors on mutual trust," the Foreign Ministry said Monday after confirming that the United States asked Turkey to allow U-2 reconnaissance planes to monitor the Soviet Union from Turkey's skies.

The Istanbul newspaper Milliyet said the Turkish government told the Americans Soviet agreement to the flights should be made part of the new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty which President Carter and Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev are to sign in Vienna next month.

The U.S. government's comment was expected from State Department spokesman Hodding Carter today. But Milliyet said American diplomatic sources told it the Soviet government has been informed of the situation, and if the Russians did not agree to U-2 surveillance from Turkey, either Carter would not sign the treaty, or if he did sign it, the U.S. Senate would not ratify it.

U.S. U-2s now fly from bases in Cyprus, off the south coast of Turkey, but have been barred from Turkish air space since Francis Gary Powers' U-2 was shot down in the Soviet Union in 1960.

Milliyet said U.S. Undersecretary of State Warren Christopher, during a visit to Ankara last week, told Turkish officials only high-altitude observation from over Turkey, along part of the Soviet Union's southern border, could replace the information obtained from U.S. electronic surveillance stations in neighboring Iran which the revolutionary regime there shut down.

Two U.S. bases in Turkey which track Soviet nuclear and military activities plus satellite surveillance might not provide adequate observation, the paper said.

The Foreign Ministry said the United States requested permission for the overflights "in order to carry out verification (of the treaty) in an effective and credible manner." The Americans said the flights would be limited to Turkish air space, meaning they would not extend over Soviet territory, and the planes would not be based in Turkey, the statement said.

Kreps optimistic on China trade

HONG KONG (AP) — Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps arrived from China today and told reporters "all indications so far show Congress will support" the new U.S.-China trade agreement.

Richard Cooper, her undersecretary for economic affairs, said he expects Congress will approve the agreement by mid-June. He said this was an "optimistic but not unreasonable" target.

Mrs. Kreps said negotiations for the textile agreement setting quotas on Chinese textile exports to the United States will start May 20 and she expects that agreement to be concluded a few weeks later. The Carter administration has said it would not send the trade agreement to Congress until it gets the textile agreement.

The trade agreement, which opens the way to full economic relations between the two countries, was initiated by China's foreign trade minister and Mrs. Kreps on Monday, signifying their approval of its terms.

It still has to be approved by the two governments, signed and submitted to Congress for approval.

It provides for reciprocal most-favored-nation treatment, reducing U.S. duties on a number of Chinese exports, and smoothes the way for China to receive credits from the U.S. Export-Import Bank.

However, Mrs. Kreps said the agreement is not likely to reap a "bonanza" in U.S.-China trade. She called the pact "a framework within which trade can go forward."

It removes some of the possible hazards from the business point of view in doing business with China," she said.

She declined to give specifics of the agreement but said it allows trade between the two countries to "expand to full potential."

Mrs. Kreps said the textile agreement will not affect textile exports to the United States by Hong Kong, South Korea and other countries.

Family law series to end today
The final session of a 10-part videotape series on "Family Law for the General Practitioner" will be held at 7 p.m. today in the Devonian Room of the Midland Hilton, said Bill Smith, a Midland trial lawyer who is leading the sessions.

The series is sponsored by the State Bar of Texas and in part represents the work of 10 leading attorneys and law professors in Texas, Smith said.

Forty-eight percent of all civil litigation involves family matters, including divorces, child custody, child support and marital property, Smith said.

The session is open to Midland area lawyers. Smith will lead the discussion in a question-and-answer period following the taped presentation.

Federal official mulling appeal of reprimand

A federal official officially reprimanded for his involvement in an incident involving two television reporters said today he does not know whether he will appeal the reprimand.

"I don't know yet (about an appeal), I haven't decided," Floyd Jones, building manager for the George H. Mahon Federal Building, said.

Jones received a letter from a regional commissioner of the General Services Administration officially reprimanding him for his conduct in an incident outside the federal building April 4.

The building manager and KOSA-TV cameraman Gary Hopper reportedly grappled twice for control of a television camera during the encounter.

Hopper subsequently filed assault charges in Justice of the Peace Bob Fine's court. The case has been continued until June 11.

Jones said he has been out of town and has not had time to consider whether he will appeal the official reprimand which, if it stands, will be placed in his personnel file with the federal government for a period of three years.

The letter, authored by Lester Myers Jr., a regional commissioner with the General Services Administration, said Jones' actions in the incident were unwarranted.

The KOSA-TV crew was conducting a man-in-the-street interview outside the federal building when the incident occurred.

No one was injured in the confrontation.

Vasquez pleads guilty

LAMESA — A 44-year-old Terry County man pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of murder before 10th District Judge George Hansard and received a 10-year prison sentence.

Sentenced is Cipriano DeLeon Vasquez, who lives near Brownwood, according to a spokesman with the Dawson County Sheriff's Office.

Vasquez was charged with murder in the shooting death of Vincente Vasquez Sr. (no relation), 78, of Lamesa.

The incident occurred about 11:30 p.m. Sunday at Vasquez' residence on the east side of Lamesa, a police spokesman had reported.

Also injured in the shooting was Vincente Vasquez Jr., 22, who was taken to Lubbock Methodist Hospital.

The Terry County man was arrested about two hours later near the Dawson-Terry County line and charged early Monday with the shooting death. He pleaded guilty to the charge later that day.

RUB-A-DUB

As their trail boss (Glenn Ford) looks on, two of the Sackett brothers (Tom Selleck, left, and Jeff Osterhage) take a breather from a dusty cattle drive in Part I of "The Sacketts" on NBC's "The Big Event" Tuesday May 15.

The four-hour western drama tells the story of the three Sackett brothers, who go to the New Mexico Territory in the turbulent days following the Civil War in order to seek a more fruitful way of life than their home in the Tennessee mountains offers them.

Chiles OK'd as regent

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The nomination of Fort Worth oilman Harrel "Eddie" Chiles as a North Texas State University regent was approved without opposition Tuesday by the Senate Nominations Subcommittee.

Chiles is known for his recent sponsorship of one-minute radio spots encouraging voters to "fire" politicians and support "free enterprise" causes.

Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, asked Chiles if he would apply "the same philosophy" to his service on the board.

"I will be prone to ask the employees to do their job or perhaps move on," Chiles said.

Other board appointments approved for Senate floor action Tuesday included Winfred L. Brown of Midland to the North Texas State University Board of Regents; Herbert Harris Jr. of Midland as chairman of the Industrial Accident Board; William Osborn Jr. of Starr County to the Parks and Wildlife Commission; and Margot Perot of Dallas to the Commission on the Arts and Humanities.

The subcommittee also approved three nominations to the Board of Dental Examiners, including Dr. William Knight Jr. of Dallas; Dr. Neil Morgan of San Antonio; and Dr. John Wilbanks of El Paso.

Odessa man charged in death

ODESSA — Guadalupe Garcia, 29, of Odessa, charged with the shooting death Sunday of Roberto Anaya Cadena, 32, of Odessa, was in Odessa City Jail today in lieu of posting a $20,000 bond.

Odessa police said witnesses told them the shooting stemmed from a quarrel over Cadena's ex-wife.

Odessa out on bond after murder charge

ODESSA — A 21-year-old Odessa man, Larry Joey Henley Jr., was released on a $40,000 bond Monday after he was charged with murder in connection with the death Sunday night of David Benedict Demeaux, 20, also of Odessa.

Demeaux, a laborer in petroleum-related work, died of asphyxiation after he apparently was sprayed with an ether-alcohol starter used on diesel engines in a fight near 42nd Street and West County Road, said Peace Justice Jimmy Harris.

However, Odessa Detective Capt. Jack Fillyay today said he was not speculating on the cause of death because "the autopsy is not complete."

Demeaux apparently was hitchhiking when the fight broke out with a motorist.

Demeaux, a native of Bermuda, West Indies, moved to Odessa in 1978 from Ramona, Calif.

Firefighter injured

Engine cleaning solution ignited Monday at Southwestern Bell offices at 1306 N. Holiday Hill Road, damaging three trucks and injuring a Midland fireman.

Three units of the Midland Fire Department responded to the call about 6 p.m. Monday and extinguished the blaze in 90 minutes.

According to reports, the fire originated while workers at Southwestern Bell were performing maintenance on several trucks.

The report said cleaning solution ignited, destroying one truck and severely damaging two other vehicles when the flames spread.

Lt. Charles Haynie was treated and released from Midland Memorial Hospital Monday for a hand injury he sustained while fighting the fire, the report said.

Reports said Haynie received a two-inch cut in his right hand while fighting the fire.
