Sohio still seeking all its permits

By RICHARD MASON

Although Standard Oil Co. of Ohio officials have expressed pessimism about the future of a crude oil pipeline between Long Beach, Calif. and Midland, the company has gone ahead with all the necessary permit applications, it was learned Thursday.

A spokesman for the Texas Air Control Board in Austin confirmed Thursday that Sohio has received an extension to July 5, 1979, for its permit to begin construction of four crude oil holding tanks in Midland.

That permit originally expired in

Meanwhile, information supplied in an environmental impact statement concerning construction in Midland indicates that the four 500,000-barrel facilities will emit between 40 and 80 tons of hydrocarbons into the air each

That amount is equivalent to the hydrocarbon output of 2,000 automobiles over the same period, the statement indicates.

Crowther said Thursday that Sohio had received its second extension on the permit to begin construction of the holding facilities in Midland.

DEL RIO - A Midkiff farmer on an outing on the Rio Grande drowned late Thursday afternoon when his 16foot boat was swamped by water following a motor failure at a weir

Board accused of covering up hospital's ills

By SUSAN TOTH

Maverick hospital Director Dr. Michael Burleson, in a less-than-friendly exchange with board President Ed Magruder, Thursday accused Midland Memorial Hospital's district directors, trustees and management of "covering up" problems rather than solving them.

Magruder opened the 3 p.m. meeting of the Midland County Hospital District board of directors with a response to charges made by Burleson about the operating efficiency of the hospital and to questions raised by The Taxpayer's Association of Midland, a group which had purchased advertising urging people to attend Thursday's meeting.

Some 40 persons, including several hospital employees, crowded into the hospital board room for the meeting. In the past, most such board meetings have attracted few visitors.

MAGRUDER'S written statement, passed out to members of the audience as they entered, included statistics which showed the cost per stay at Midland Memorial Hospital is $75 to $110 lower on the average than for other hospitals in Texas and across the country despite a higher per-day

Burleson had criticized hospital management earlier for what he termed cost overruns and inefficiency.

"Hospital management constantly monitors length of stay statistics in a continuing effort to provide quality hospital care on the one hand, but for such a length of time as not to unnecessarily run up the cost to the patient on the other," the statement said.

THE STATEMENT SAID the true rate of turnover in nursing personnel was 26.5 percent rather than the 78 percent rate cited by Dr. Burleson and noted that two transfers of tax funds to hospital operating accounts totaling $169,000 previously approved would not be needed, but that a transfer of $105,000 would be made on or before June 10.

"The directors and trustees are well aware of the high cost of providing health care. We are aware, and we care, and we are working very hard to solve all the problems that go with the operation of your primary health care facility here in Midland," the statement concluded.

Citing statistics showing higher-than-average labor costs in many areas of the hospital, Burleson Thursday blasted the "keep quiet and we'll take care of it" attitude he said was prevalent in the hospital management.

"YOU'RE TRYING to give statistics that show there are no problems when there are," he said. "The people making the decisions should be looking for problems and trying to solve them instead of trying to cover up.

"I'm not after anybody," Burleson, a proponent of hiring an outside hospital management firm, said. "I don't care who does it, but we've got to stop talking platitudes. That's not going to work.'

In a heated exchange, Magruder denied the board or administration is covering up problems of the hospital and pointed to new personnel added to increase collections and improve management.

"THE WHOLE THRUST of your performance here today," Burleson responded, "is to prove there is no problem and if we'll all just be quiet and go away, it will be taken care of. "We don't deny there are problems," Magruder replied, "we just don't agree with your way to hire a firm and cut our employment in After that brief flurry between the two elected officials, Magruder reminded the audience that questions to the board had to be submitted in writing 10 days in advance of meetings so items to be discussed could be placed on the agenda in compliance with open meetings laws. After a short recess, held apparently to allow tempers to cool and members of the audience not interested in the remainder of the agenda to leave. directors heard a report on the construction and renovation program from Mickey Cappadonna, immediate past president of the board of trustees. The board of trustees consists of appointed volunteers who serve as an administrative board for the hospital. AFTER A REVIEW of the process behind the original decision to form the hospital district and remodel the existing building rather than build a completely new facility, Cappadonna noted some of the budget problems

Unlike other Basin cities, Midland refuses federal aid

EDITOR'S NOTE: Obtaining housing in Midland, whether by buying a home or renting an apartment, is becoming an increasingly complex problem, and one not easily solved. This is the sixth in a seven part series examining the issue.

To the people in the north part of Midland, it's a necessity and accepted

To those in south or southeast Midland, it's a luxury.

Though the two subjects may seem unrelated, paved streets can be linked in direct fashion to the quality of housing in some parts of the Tall

Those sections of Midland which have the poorest housing conditions also have the fewest paved streets. Funds to ease both situations no longer are available in the Midland

For the third consecutive year, the Midland City Council in December 1978 refused to apply for a Community Development Block Grant which would have gone for a variety of projects, including housing and pav-

By now, it's become almost a matter of principle - and habit: The council refuses to be told by the federal government what to do.

MEANWHILE, THOSE who need some type of housing help are left with scant, if any, assistance.

They continue to fight the dust from the roads which blows through the cracks in their houses. Relations between the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Midland City Council were shaky even before 1977, but they all but dissipated that spring.

In its application for CD funds, the city refused to include a rental subsidy program, also known as Section

VIII. Without that program, HUD rejected the city's application for $946,-That meant the loss of $310,000 for paving and curbing, $220,000 for housing rehabilitation, $140,000 for a senior citizens cen-Home ter, $114,000 for park improve-$weet ments, $56,000 for planning, $28,000 Home for administration and $23,000 for contigencies.

The following year the council part six of a series

Then in 1978, the item was placed on the agenda by a councilman. After a lengthy discussion by residents who cited a need for the funds and by some on the council who cited reasons for turning the money down, the measure to apply barely failed. Interestingly, the vote was 3-3.

THE LAST YEAR the city received the funding, in 1977, $160,000 had gone to rehabilitate 47 homes, primarily for the elderly and handicapped.

Section 8, in brief, would have meant $66,000 allotted for a rental subsidy program for low income people of all ages, not just the elderly and

That lack of "discrimination" was one reason the City Council said it did not like the program.

In a move to ease the sudden withdrawal of funding for housing rehabilitation, Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. set up a housing commission. While that commission gathered $100,000 in local funds for rehabilitation, the monies now are depleted and no plans have been announced to continue the Midland Commission for Local Housing.

When the City Council refused to apply for the funds this last time, it wasn't just the lower income people who felt the panel may have taken a Don Hellinghausen is a member of a relatively new organization called Midland Housing Association. He commented that "we (residents) don't talk about the good that could be done with the nearly $1 million that we could have applied for this year. Of that, $400,000 of it would have been used to rehabilitate homes. Some more money would have gone to paving streets in those sections of

"We take federal funds for everything else here," he said. "Why draw a line for the poor?" Money funding the CD grants is tax money paid into the federal government by the municipalities. The program was set up to channel money back to the cities and to the areas where money is needed.

WHEN MIDLAND doesn't apply, the funds the city would have received go elsewhere. "It doesn't go back to the Treasury and help reduce the national debt," Hellinghausen

And the funds Midlanders gave for the local housing commission only meant that some people were paying twice to get the same thing done, but with fewer homes fixed, he said.

And all the while Midland keeps turning down the funds, the city of Odessa — well-known as is Midland for its conservative approach - continues to apply for more and get it.

The neighboring city not only has a rental subsidy program, but also a recently opened apartment complex for low income Odessans.

Jack Dillard, director of planning and community development for the city of Odessa, said his city has a .4

percent vacancy rate in available housing

"HUD says when you have less that s percent, you have insufficient housing," he said.

"When you compare those figures (6 percent) to less than half of 1 percent, you realize what an awful housing shortage we have here."

The Odessa City Council makes the ultimate decision on participating in the HUD program. In 1975, Odessa applied for CD funds and was told by HUD to participate in a related housing program.

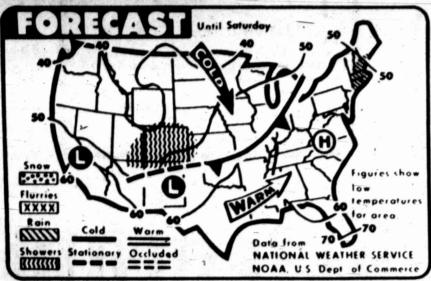

'The council determined there was need, and that we would pursue the funds," Dillard said.

BIG SPRING, to the east, also takes CD funds and has a rental subsidy program. Terry White, now with the Texas Department of Human Re-sources in Midland, formerly worked with that housing program in Big Spring.

"Rental subsidy was started by HUD when they realized their several-storied complexes were creating

In other business, the board approved an increase in daily rates for the newly opened critical care and post-critical care facilities effective June 1. New rate for critical care patients will be $205 a day, up from the current charge of $175 a day. Rate for the post critical care patients will increase from $125 a day to $140 a day.

THE INCREASES are needed to cover the higher costs of new sophisticated monitoring equipment and higher housekeeping and utility bills, Magruder said. The new rates are well within limits for the services set by Blue Cross, Assistant Administrator Robert Abernethy noted. Air conditioning in the hospital is expected to be off beginning this afternoon through Saturday morning while workmen install a new 600-ton chiller to the system, Hospital Administrator Wayne Ulrich told direc-

A switch from the current 300-ton unit was scheduled to be made earlier in the year when the air conditioning was not in use, but delivery delays made weekend installation necessary, he said.

Slight chance of moisture remains in Basin forecast through Saturday

Skies should be cloudy with a chance of afternoon and evening thunderstorms Saturday, according to the weatherman. The National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport is forecasting an overnight low in the low 60s with winds at 10 to 15 mph.

Saturday's high is expected by the weathermen to be in the mid-80s. Andrews reported a two-minute shower early today, but other area towns reported no rainfall.

Chances of rain in the Permian Basin, said the weatherman, are 30 percent tonight and 20 percent Satur-

Although rainfall amounts were not immediately available, the National Weather Service said heavy showers fell east of Amarillo during the night.

The only shower activity in the state during the pre-dawn hours today was in the Guadalupe Mountains of Southwest Texas.

Highs today were expected to range from the middle 70s in the Panhandle to the 80s in Northeast Texas to the 90s in South Texas.

ghetto environments in some cities," White said.

Under rental subsidy, people are given a chance to go out and look for their own place to rent. The stipulation is that the apartment or house must fit HUD guidelines for rental assistance, White added

In Odessa, the City Council got its rental subsidy program started in October 1975 by lending the Housing Authority about $20,000, which was paid back by HUD.

Odessa now has 552 units on contract authority as the maximum, Dillard said. About 505 families are living under that program. The annual contract with HUD results in Odessa receiving $869,000.

THE CITY of Odessa recently opened a $2.7 million facility having 108 units for the elderly. In addition, Odessa is preparing to sell about $5.5 million of bonds to construct 136 units for low income families

At the end of February, a preliminary proposal was submitted to HUD for another 100 units of low income housing. Of that, 20 Odessa units will be reserved for elderly and handicapped persons. The remaining 80 will go for low income families. Income and family size are the major determining factors in eligibility for any of the programs. In some cases, Dillard said, unusual expenses such as medical or child care, is considered for eligibility. Those who qualify are allowed a "fair market rent" when looking for a place to live. Dillard said that term represents the maximum amount a place can rent for to be under the

The schedule allows Odessans $124 a month for an efficiency; $142, one bedroom; $168, two bedroom; $188, three bedroom, and $205, four bed-

The renter will pay no less than 15 percent or more than 25 percent of his income toward that amount. HUD will pay the remainder. For example, if someone could pay only $100 a month on a one bedroom apartment, HUD would pay the remaining $42. "This is only enough to rent mar-ginal housing," Dillard said.

"FINDING SUCH a rental in an upper class section of town will be pretty remote, " he said, addressing those in Midland who have voiced doubts about the program. White noted HUD will not pay for someone to rent a $600 a month dwell-

In Odessa, 84 percent of the people on rental subsidy reside on the south side of Odessa, where most of the marginal housing is located. The remainder have located housing outside that area, but close to its edge, according to Dillard.

Although the housing may be considered "marginal," White said, the contract the landlord must sign to participate in the program stipulates the landlord must maintain the house on a certain level of liveability.

Landlords are not required to participate or sign a contract, according to Dillard. The main reason landlords at first were reluctant to sign contracts is that the rent stays frozen at that point for a year, said the Odessa housing official.

Castro blasts United States' treatment of illegal aliens

COZUMEL, Mexico (AP) - Fidel Castro, visiting Mexico to "tighten the bonds of friendship," blasted the United States for its treatment of illegal Mexican immigrants and praised his host, President Jose Lopez Portillo, for refusing to tailor his oil policy to suit Washington.

The Cuban president said the unemployment that sends, Mexicans across the U.S.-Mexican border in search of work is the result of 'the bitter and inevitable mutilation of the national territory and the underdevelopment imposed by the force, the arrogance and the domination of the United States in the past." Cuba supports the demands of the Mexicans for "just, civilized and humane treatment in the United States," Castro said in a toast Thursday following his arrival on this resort island off the Yucatan coast for his first visit to Mexico since his exile here 23 years ago.

Turning to the recent discovery of vast new oil reserves in southern Mexico, he told Lopez Portillo: "We are pleased...you have clearly expressed that you do not propose to view Mexico's oil development as a part of North American oil needs but as an instrument for the development of your own country. The Mexican leader in his toast to his visitor said that oil was one of the chief topics discussed at their first conference Thursday. There was continuing speculation that they would arrange to replace some of Cuba's oil imports from the Soviet Union with Mexican oil. But Lopez Portillo indicated the emphasis was on oil policy in general.

He said Mexico views its oil as "a vehicle to achieve peace, harmoy and progress." He reviewed his proposal for a United Nations meeting in September to work out a global energy plan and said it was needed by "all poor countries who, cornered by the powerful, seek rules for reciprocal and commmitted order,' Castro on his arrival said he came to "tighten the bonds of friendship," not "to solicit anything material or to ask for oil or gas.

However, he was expected to discuss the possibility of increasing Cuba's exports of rum, cigars and nickel to reduce Cuba's unfavorable balance of trade with Mexico. It was $20 million last year.

Both White and Dillard agree that one fear clearly is unfounded: Subsidy does not keep more people on welfare. They admitted there is a certain amount of cheating on the part of both tenants and landlords. But the ratio is very low in comparison to the overall number of people who participate, the two men said. 'We can't use our value judgment

"The program has taken away the fear people had of not being able to pay their rent and being kicked out with no place to go.

The county will be allotted enough money to subsidize 20 units. And, county commissioners were told, if not enough applicants for the program are found, the county still will get its CD funds.

The program will be administered by the Midland Housing Association with people volunteering their time, and an office space donated by Casa de Amigos.

Of the City Council's continuing decision not to apply for the CD funds, White said, "Integrity is great. But it doesn't mean much to someone who doesn't have adequate housing."

It's status quo for State Bar under present bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Openly risking a veto, the House has tentatively approved a bill preserving the State Bar of Texas in essentially its present form, including mandatory membership by all lawyers.

The bill advanced, 118-17, on Thursday. Final passage was expected today. That would return the bill to the Senate for action on changes

But House members overwhelmingly voted, in effect, to ignore Gov. Bill Clements' threat to veto the bill if it failed to do two things:

- Force the bar to put its money in the state treasury, where it could be spent only as appropriated by the Legislature. - Make the bar an agency of the executive branch, with a nine-mem ber board of directors entirely appointed by the governor. If the bill does not become law, the bar would go out of business as a state agency in 1980. It probably could continue as a voluntary association. Some believe the Texas Supreme Court can re-establish it as it now exists and require all lawyers to belong. Rep. W.S. Heatly, D-Paducah, tried to compel the bar to deposit its members' $65-a-year dues in the treasury. His amendment was trounced, 101

"There has been criticism of the salary of the executive director, his expense accounts in the saloons of Texas; his transportation," Heatly said.

Former executive director H.C. Pittman made $54,000 a year, plus an expense account and a Lincoln Continental. When Tom Hanna replaced him last year, the bar said the salary would be smaller and the fringe benefits less elaborate.

The House also refused, 112-23, to enable the governor to appoint the bar's directors, who now are elected by lawyers.

An amendment by Rep. Fred Head, D-Troup, repealing the requirement that attorneys belong to the bar was tabled, 111-25. "I belong to the bar association and I will continue to belong to it but I don't think I should have to ... If you believe in the right-to-work law, you'll vote 'no' on the motion to table," Head said.

The bill ratifies the bar's control of its $6 million Texas Law Center northwest of the state Capitol and allows the bar to go into debt. For the first time, six non-lawyers would be members of the bar's board

The Texas Supreme Court would pass on the bar's budget, taking ultimate control of finances from the board of directors. The directors would have to hold a public hearing before sending their budget request to the Supreme Court.

House members passed and returned to the Senate for action on changes several other bills resulting from the Sunset process.

They would: Merge the Board of Landscape Architects with the State Board of Architectural Examiners.

Continue the State Board of Barber Examiners.

 Extend the life of the Texas Turnpike Authority. - Preserve the State Structural Pest Control Board, but connect it administratively to the Texas Department of Agriculture.

The House also voted tentative approval to Senate-passed Sunset bills that would: - Extend the State Board of Public Accountancy.

- Continue the State Board of Morticians but include four non-mortician members on the nine-member board and add numerous consumer protection features to the law governing undertakers.

- Extend the life of the Texas Cosmetology Commission. Keep the Battleship Texas Commission in existence as a state agen-

Projects receive favorable comment

Two Midland area projects including the Head Start program for the Midland Independent School District received favorable comment during the regular monthly meeting of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission Wednesday.

The commission granted favorable comment to grant applications from the Human Resources Advisory Committee on Head Start programs in Midland and Big Spring schools.

MISD has submitted an application to the Department of Health Education and Welfare for $175,107 to continue the Head Start Program beyond Sept. 1. The program employs eight teachers and teacher aides to work with 155 children.

Midland schools will supply an additional $71,000 to the project.

Under the program, students and their parents participate in classroom activities four hours a week at the Enrichment Center at Carver Elementary

The measure must be considered one more time by the House. Final passage would return it to the Senate for action on House amendments.

If the bill becomes law, the commission would be reorganized. Three of its members would be deaf persons, two would be parents of deaf children, two would be professionals who work with the deaf and two would be from the general public.

The board has been wracked with controversy in recent months, following its dismissal of Carl Ro-

Salute to museums

Today marks the second annual commemoration of "Texas Museum Day," as proclaimed by Gov. Bill Clements.

And if ever a community should join wholeheartedly in such an observance, it is Midland, which is fortunate in having outstanding museums which add materially to the overall betterment of the com munity.

There is no doubt that Midland's museum community is a civic and economic asset. It is estimated that annual visitation at three Midland institutions-Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame; Museum of the Southwest, and Midland County Historical Museum-is 70,000, including thousands from other states and foreign lands. The total could, should and undoubtedly will be more in the future as word of their fame spreads across the land and abroad.

Those in the know call attention to vastly increased interest in museums, nationwide, pointing out that today's museum, more than ever before, is where the action is.

It is significant also that many communities throughout the Permian Basin Empire have museums which are worthy of note and visitation. The West of the Pecos Museum at Pecos, the Presidential Museum at Odessa. the Diamond M and the Scurry County museums at Snyder, and the Fort Concho Preservation & Museum at San Angelo are outstanding examples.

at Stanton, Lamesa, Big Spring, Crane, Rankin, Iraan, Seagraves, O'Donnell, Gail, Sweetwater, Abilene, Colorado City, Kermit, Van Horn, Fort Davis, Alpine and El Paso. All are affilated with the Permian Basin Museums Institute, which coordinates the programs and efforts of the region's museums Someone has said that some of the museums are larger and more complete than others, but that each offers something of interest to all persons.

Gov. Clements, in his proclamation, said that museums "hold in trust for future generations a substantial part of the material patrimony of Texas produced by the skills of our predecessors and contemporaries.'

He said further that museums "encourage curiosity in the very young, offer enlightenment and education to the student, and provide a continuing source of enjoyment, cultural enrichment and lifelong learning for all."

They also are centers for research for scholars and "contribute significantly to our knowledge of history, science and the arts.

And while traveling closer to home on weekends and vacations as a result of the gasoline shortage, why not consider visiting some or all of the fine museums in West Texas? You will be glad that you did.

Meanwhile, museums throughout West Texas and beyond merit a snappy salute

Permian Basin Petroleum Association is in full swing here today, and the Tall City once again is delighted to have members of the fine and influential organization from throughout the Basin and beyond here on this particular occasion.

The association has been favored with a vastly enlarged membership during the past year and it is hoped that many of the new members will be on hand, along with members of longer duration, at today's sessions.

Communism can't defeat morality and spirituality

By CHARLEY REESE Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. - I have a friend who is fighting a cold war with an oil company. He leases a station from one of the majors and they want him to convert to a self-service operation and he wants to stay full service. So they fight. There is no need to mention names because the dispute itself is neither unique nor important to anyone except the people involved. What is important for the rest of us is the example it provides of a society that has substituted legality for morality. You can guess, if you have had any experience inside a large corporation, what has happened. Way up at the top a perfectly rational and responsible decision is made: let's cut down on the number of leased full service stations and move toward more self-service, corporate owned and operated

Nothing wrong with that decision. Directors of corporations have a responsibility to make decisions that will result in more efficient and more profitable operations. I would bet a lot that at the top the orders go out as a statement of the new policy and instructions to encourage conversion as leases expire.

Unfortunately as it trickles down the corporate levels, the little men who are obsessed with climbing to the top pounce on the new policy as a way to make themselves look good in the eyes of the big shots. Each manager puts the pressure on the guys below him who respond by squeezing the guys below them until by the time you reach the people who actually deal with the station operators, the word "encourage" has been entirely forgotten. The word is now, "push."

In my friend's case, the moment he frustrated the objective things began to go wrong. The pumps are not repaired so quickly; the rent goes up; the credit terms get tougher; his gasoline allocation gets cut; prices get higher; and there are regular visits to the office where he is browbeaten and threatened.

Everything is perfectly legal; it's just that people who have become obsessed with materialism and people who have substituted the legal brief for their moral values forget that they are human beings.

I guess I'm trying to make a subtle point, but I'm sure you can think of similar cases where the human element gets crushed by the efficiency expert or the sound accounting prineiple or the legal interpretation.

My soul is thirsty for a man who says, "I know I can do it legally but I

If our goal is simply more and more at any price, then our society is ready for a bankruptcy sale. Our materialism cannot compete with the more ruthless and realistic materialism of the communists.

If it's to be merely system versus system, bureaucracy versus bureaucracy, then communism will win because the communists will do what we shrink from doing. They will kill however many they have to kill, keep their population in poverty for however long they have to, and channel as much of their resources into guns as they need.

But what communism cannot defeat is morality and spirituality. That is why it hates the church. The communists know they cannot conquer the soul; they must convince their victims souls don't exist. I am not trying to preach a sermon but rather to figure out why we keep getting weaker; why our people sell technology to communists; why we make the compromises and concessions; and why the West is shrinking and the East is expanding.

I think it's connected to what my friend is going through with the oil company. We've gotten so greedy for a buck we're stepping all over each other, guging each other, and not caring for each other and the Russians are just laughing.

Another distaff reporter who outwitted the urbane professor was Sally Quinn of The Washington Post. don't know anyone who has survived Alas for Dr. K., he had already learned to his sorrow the perils of a clever woman reporter - Oriana Fallaci. He later ruefully described the taped interview he gave the Italian journalist in 1972 as the 'stupidest thing' he had ever done.

While this self-assessment may be Fallaci interview, with its "lone cowboy" reference, didn't exactly enhance Kissinger's reputation, either among world leaders or the reputation as a tough interviewer even Quinn warned him - Kissinger evidently thought he could handle her with no trouble. "Why I agreed to it, I'll never know," he later moaned to Actually, he did know. According to a secret transcript, Kissinger told a friend three years after the Fallaci interview, "She really got me in trouble. The only reason I agreed to an interview was that I saw a picture of her in a book and she looked attractive, so I wanted to meet her."

Reached by our associate Dale Van Atta by phone in Milan, Fallaci was surprised to learn how she had been granted the famous interview. "It's unbelievable," she said. "Were our lives in the hands of such an individual who accepted to see a journalist because of a photo?" Kissinger had told her, she said, that he agreed because of her interview with North Vietnamese Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap.

As for the ex-secretary's undiplomatic description of her, Fallaci said smoothly: "Forget the painful words Dr. Kissinger uses in judging my physical appearance. Being judged unattractive by such a tasteless man is a relief ... Besides, it is difficult to discuss my stature, which is short, as short as Dr. Kissinger, with the difference that am very thin and he is very fat."

Informed that Kissinger told his friends it would have been all right if Fallaci "had described me as a combination of Charles de Gaulle and Disraeli," she confessed that "it never occurred to me ... out of respect for de Gaulle or Disraeli." They would, she said, "turn in their graves.'

Explained Fallaci: "I described Dr. Kissinger as a cowboy because this was the way he described himself ... If I were a cowboy, I would be very offended."

Footnote: At this writing, Kissinger is traveling overseas and cannot be reached for comment.

DOLLAR DIPLOMACY: Dollar diplomacy is not dead. The Carter administration recently wrote off $10 million the Thai government had agreed to pay for munitions left behind when American forces were withdrawn from Thailand. A State Department official explained that it would have cost more to ship the material back home than to let the Thais have it - and technological advances have made the stuff worthless to our troops anyway. But another source told us the main purpose of the gift was to cement our ties to the Thais.

Not only is Church a senator, he hasn't been chairman of the Senate committee for four months. A member of the committee, Sen. The president has said he wants to boost the ratios of women, blacks and Hispanics on the federal bench with his appointments to more than 150 new seats created by Congress.

As Carter was announcing his five new nominations Thursday, the Judicial Selection Project, which is devoted to increasing the representation of women and minorities on the bench, said six of his previous nominees belong to clubs that have no black members.

Carter told a White House reception honoring the 25th anniversary of the Supreme Court ruling outlawing racial segregation in public schools that he would appoint Nat Jones, a black who is general counsel of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, to a judgeship in the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, covering Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio and Tennessee.

Meanwhile, the White House press office issued printed announcements of four other nominations:

Former Rep. William L. Hugate, 56, of Town and Country, Mo., was named a district judge in his home state. Hungate gained some national notice as a member of the House judiciary committee when it held televised impeachment procedings against Richard Nixon.

Howard F. Sachs, 53, a Kansas City lawyer, also was named to a district court judgeship in Missouri.

Thomas M. Reavley, 57, a former member of the Texas Supreme Court who is now in private law practice in Austin, was nominated to an appellate-judgeship in the 5th Circuit.

Also named to the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals was Florida Supreme Court Justice Joseph - W. Hatchett, 46, who is black.

Ann McCrory, the judicial project's director, said the information about club membership of the nominees was based on their responses to questionnaires from the Senate Judiciary Committee.

One nominee, David Belew of Fort Worth, Texas, has already been confirmed by the Senate and taken office as a U.S. Dis-

Shortly before taking office this month, Belew was quoted by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram as saying his membership in an all-white country club did not become an issue during his confirmation hearings because "no nigger — no black — ever applied for membership.

Belew later apologized for the remark, but the black caucus of the Texas Legislature asked Carter to demand that Belew

Commenting Thursday, Belew said, "I just happen to belong to a club that has no blacks, but I didn't join it because there were no blacks. That had nothing to do with it." The other five nominees singled out by the Judicial Selection Project are awaiting confirmation. Three said they assumed or understood that blacks were excluded or at any rate did not think they would be admitted if they applied.

Desegregation report not issued because of educators' disagreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter scholastic achievements. administration shelved plans to issue a report on school desegregation after sharply divided educators could agree on little more than the need for President Carter to speak out more forcefully against discrimination.

The panel of 19 educators and social scientists was commissioned by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to assess the impact of the Supreme Court's May 17, 1954, ruling outlawing school segregation.

The National Academy of Education report was to have been released Thursday at a White House ceremony marking the 25th anniversary of the ruling. But it was held up, reportedly amid objections from some top offi-cials in HEW, including civil rights director David S. Tatel.

A copy of the $35,000 report, "Prejudice and Pride: The Brown Decision story on stock After Twenty-five Years," was obtained by The Associated Press.

Carter told a predominantly black crowd of 600 in the East Room of the White House he is committed to eradicating discrimination and that "too many doors are still locked."

The academy's panel was "deeply divided over the historical reality, the contemporary meaning and the future portent" of the Brown decision, according to academy president Ste-

As for the future, Bailey said the panelists "are sophisticated enough to know that there is no single elixir which will cure the patent manifestations of continuing prejudice in our society.

Bailey said there was nearly a consensus on these points:

-The president and other national leaders should "remind all American citizens of the continuing, baneful effect of prejudice upon domestic tranquility, the nation's economic strength" and self-respect.

-State and local governments should play a bigger role in negotiating and settling discrimination prob-

Guideline violators notified

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Council on Wage and Price Stability, which has been stepping up its activities in the wake of persistent, high inflation rates, says five more companies have been told they may be violating the voluntary price guidelines.

At the same time, five companies were removed from the list of "probable non-compliance," the council said in a statement Thurs-

The five added to the list were Amerada Hess Corp. of New York; Warner-Lambert Co. of Morris Plains, N.J.; American Hoechst Corp. of Somerville, N.J.; Laclede Steel Co Louis; and the Williams

YMCA plans swim lessons

Alamo YMCA is an nouncing a special summer swim program in its effort to "drownproof" Midland's youth.

Classes are planned for all people, starting with 6-months and going up through adult, according to Guy Fish, Alamo's new director of health and physical education.

Infants 6 months through two years will be in a class along with their mothers or fathers. Classes for beginners and advanced beginner pre-schoolers will include those down to three

School age children will find classes for nonswimmers through to advanced swimmers who will learn the butterfly and side strokes.

Pre-registration for the five two-week summer sessions will be from 8: 30 to 11 a.m. and 4: 30 to 7:30 p.m. May 31-June 1 for Alamo members already in the instructional program. Members and non-members may preregister from 8:30 to 11 a.m. June 2. Course fee is $4 for members and $14 for non-members.

Slow, steady struggle begun

WASHINGTON (AP) - As if it weren't busy enough with arms treaties with the Soviets and peace negotiations in the Middle East, the State Depart ment has called the first world conference on saving the sea turtle.

It has invited 65 countries to a week-long meeting in Washington starting Nov. 26 and will help pay the expenses of delegates from poor governments which don't care enough about the fate of the turtles to bear

Sea turtles, despite their size and ungainliness some weigh 1,500 pounds — are migratory animals and it will take a lot of international coordination to save the endangered ones

In addition to the State Department, the hosts will include other government and private agencies, including the World Wildlife Fund.

One problem is that shrimp fishermen from Japan. South Korea and Taiwan often catch the big turtles in their nets. Although the State Department now wants to help conservation, its Agency for International Development financed a turtle slaughtering plant in Mexico, where a sizeable industry supplies turtle leather to western Europe, Japan and the United States.

The Kemp Ridley variety, which nests largely at Rancho Nuevo, Mexico, is said to be near extinction after surviving almost unchanged for a period that scientists estimate at 125 million years.

Of an estimated 40,000 females in 1947, there are only a few hundred left. The Kemp Ridleys are among the smallest sea turtles, only about two feet long and usually weighing less than 100 pounds

Other reasons for the decline in the turtle population include

-Popularity of canned turtle soup and meat.

-The attraction of jewelry from the Hawksbil

-Demand for turtle leather now that crocodile hides are growing scarcer.

-Destruction of beaches where the turtles nest. They spend most of their lives at sea but have to come ashore to lay their eggs.

Clements says override of his veto 'feels good'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - After suffering the first legislative override of a veto in 38 years, Gov. Bill Clements says he would not mind doing it

"It feels good," the Republican said Thursday after senators followed the House in defying his veto of a local bill and voting the measure into-

"It was probably coming sooner or later but I think they've chosen the wrong issue," Clements said of the bill that will exempt Comal County commissioners from statewide hunting regulations.

Gov. W. Lee "Pappy" O'Daniel, a former flour salesman, was the last governor to have a veto overturned. He vetoed 12 measures in vain during his administration. During the 1941 Legislature alone, O'Daniel saw 10 bills become law over his protest.

Until Thursday, override attempts have failed since July 3, 1941, when the Legislature sent two vetoed bills to the lawbooks. The last bills to survive a veto established the Texas Commission on Interstate Commerce and allowed Laredo and Robstown to pay off old bond debts.

The local game bill by Rep. Bennie Bock, D-New Braunfels, passed both chambers without opposition — 130-0 in the House and 31-0 in the Senate. Senators voted 25-6 to override after the House decided 90-42 on Tuesday to annul the governor's action.

Clements objected to allowing counties to escape state rules. "If we allowed each county to regulate health regulations applicable to the whole state and establish their own, we'd have 254 different 'state' health regulations," the governor said in his veto message.

He admitted at a news conference Thursday he was tangling with a sensitive tradition of the overwhelmingly Democratic Legislature.

The attack, involving machine guns, grenades and armor-piercing rockets, came as Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin offered to meet with Jordan's King Hussein for peace talks and an Israeli Cabinet committee endorsed Begin's plan for Palestinian autonomy despite Defense Minister Ezer Weizman's opposition Guerrilla commanders in this Palestinian-controlled town said the fighting occurred Thursday night in guerrilla-held areas between the towns of Insariyeh and Adloun overlooking southern Lebanon's Mediterranean highway 21 miles north of the Israeli frontier. The scene was two miles south of Sarafand and 40 miles south of Beirut.

The Israeli command in Tel Aviv said the commandos blew up a Palestinian training camp near Adloun, destroyed buildings and ammunition stockpiles, killed an undisclosed number of guerrillas, and that all of the attackers returned safely. The guerrillas reported a Palestinian and a Lebanese were wounded and said "many" Israelis were

Exercise proper skin care

By PATSY GORDON Lifestyle Writer

Proper skin care should be exercised during the summer months when the emphasis on outdoor sports and the beauty appeal of suntans encourages people to spend more time in the sun, said Dr. Robert Bugg,

Midland skin specialist. Exposure to the sun can not only produce sunburn, said Dr. Bugg, but it also causes skin to age faster and increases the chance of skin cancer. Damage caused by sun exposure is irreversible, and the results may not occur immediately, but will become apparent in later years, he added. Products are available on the market to screen or block harmful ultraviolet radiation which can cause sunburn. A sun screen can block 95 percent or more of the ultraviolet Asbestos has been shown to cause cancer in humans if breathed.

The commission was expected to vote sometime today on whether to accept the plans, a step that would rule out legal action against the companies.

Commissioner R. David Pittle announced he would vote to accept the plans.

Commission Chairman Susan King said: "There has been such a worry on the part of consumers. Our main concern is to alleviate that."

Ms. Cook said the firms reject the term "recall" on their actions. She recommended commission acceptance, saying, "We think these

DEAR ABBY Virgin in mind if not in body

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old high school junior. A year ago I was raped on my way to school. I believe I have dealt with the situation very well, but my problem is this: Am I still considered a virgin?

I realize that technically and physically I probably am not, but since this was done without my consent and cooperation, in another way of looking at it I'm still a virgin. (I never "gave" myself to anyone. My virginity was taken from me.)

This question has bothered me a lot and I hope you can give me an answer since I respect your opinion very much.

I am signing my real name, but if you print this, please sign it. . . -WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Putting the physical and technical aspects aside, you are as virtuous as a virgin. And you certainly may consider yourself virginal. DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman, expecting my first child in three months.

Last month my husband's grandfather died. He was loved and respected by all who knew him. The entire family felt a tremendous loss.

My husband's family has let me know that our child is to be named after Grandpa Albert. If the baby is a girl, she will be named Alberta, I am

I, too, loved Grandpa Albert, but I hate that name. I offered a compromise, saying I will use Albert or Alberta for the child's middle name, but not for the first name.

My husband and his family insist that it has to be Albert or Alberta. Can you help me? — EXPECTING

DEAR EXPECTING: It appears to be you against your husband and his family. I think they are unfair to demand that you give your child a name that you dislike. Your compromise seems fair enough to me. Stick to your guns. If you lose, your child will bear the name of one of the world's most brilliant scientists.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday our 4year-old daughter disappeared suddenly. One minute she was beside me in the kitchen, and the next minute she was gone. I nearly went crazy looking for her in the yard, in and out of the neighbors' houses, searching frantically with tears in my eyes and a lump in my throat.

Finally just before sundown, when I was nearly exhausted and hysterical, a neighbor spotted an old refrigrator stored in the corner of our garage! He opened the door and out tumbled my daughter, blue and practically lifeless. With the help of a quickthinking neighbor and the fire department, the child was revived, and thank God, now she is all right.

Abby, please urge parents to position discarded refrigerators with the doors turned toward the wall so kids can't open them. If anything had happened to my child, I'd never have forgiven myself. - THANKING GOD

DEAR THANKING: I appreciate the timely reminder. Parents, please REMOVE the doors from stored refrigerators, cabinets or other potential "coffins" for curious and adventuresome children.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements, in a Thursday news conference, says voters should decide if state college building plans are reviewed each two years or tied to an automatic tax financing program. (AP Laserphoto)

Clements has alternate plan for state college construction

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements likes the idea of state property tax repeal but he is not hot on House plans to tie it to an automatic financing plan for state college con-

Clements told a news conference Thursday he has an alternate plan to present voters in November.

The House approved and sent to the Senate Wednesday a proposed constitutional amendment that would repeal the 10 cent state property tax but at the same time guarantee state colleges and universities from $41 million to $65 million a year for build

Clements proposed Thursday that voters be given a chance at the same time to do away with the state property tax, without creating the automatic college building fund.

"Let's give the voters a choice either way," Clements said. "I, personally, am for a clean bill with no dedicated fund.

Clements said he agreed that the 10-cent state tax should be repealed but "I also feel that the colleges should justify their building needs to the Legislature on a biennial basis. The proposed State Higher Education Assistance Fund would earmark between $41 million and $65 million a year for construction and rehabilitation from general tax revenue. The Legislature and the governor would have no say over it, and I do not think this is good fiscal procedure. The voters should be given a choice between simply repealing the tax and repeal coupled with creation of a new earmarked fund.

Beef prices: 'I won't apologize

By TENA ANDERSEN

CHAMBERLAIN, S.D. (AP) - Half a dozen people will try to make a profit on a baby calf in its 18-month life, from birth to the supermarket

A full-grown steer provides meat and by-products valued at about $1,-150, out of which must come the costs of feeding, transporting and processing it - along with hoped-for profit at each step.

The president of one large meat packing company claims he is losing money on beef, and supermarkets say they are only breaking even on it. But these are prosperous days for the rancher.

"I would not apologize for the price of meat," said Bob Healey, a Chamberlain rancher. "Cattle are just getting to the level where they should be. Ranchers have to have profit incentive or we'll just say to hell with it.' Many ranchers called it quits five years ago when prices were low. Drought in the next three years decimated feed supplies and more ranchers sold off their herds. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates beef supplies will be far below demand for at least two years But ranchers make the most money these days on a calf, investing about $360 until the day it leaves its mother's side. At prices earlier this week, they stand to make about $80 a head at that stage. Here are Healy's costs to raise one weaned calf: Yearly taxes, interest and depreciation on one cow, $99.52; feed, $193.00; breeding and veterinary services $22.00; marketing and transportation $10.00; buildings and equipment, $10.95; and $25 for his labor at $5 an hour for a total of

"I'd need 81 cents a pound for a 440-pound calf to break even - figuring a 100 percent calf crop. And you can't count on every cow having a calf or all of them living," he said. On Monday, calves sold for about $1 a

Healey's calf sells for $440 to another rancher called a backgrounder, who spends $80 to raise the animal to 650 pounds. And he can sell it to a feedlot for $559, turning a $39 profit.

The feeder spends $147 fattening the steer to 1,000-pound market weight and sells it for about $715, making $9 a head.

Jim Woster of the Sioux Falls Stockyards; the nation's third-largest livestock market, said the high beef demand is profitable for the rancher but low supply hurts the processor. "Feeders want to point the finger at the packer and say, 'Boy!, they're really raking it in," Woster said. "But really, they're losing money on cattle kills to the point that some of them are closing down. John Morrell and Qo., one of the five largest meat packers in the nation, has no plans to close down. But its president, Donald Slotkin, said the cattle operation is losing money.

'The farmer is making a lot of money on his cattle right now with low prices for feed grain and record high prices for cattle. But at the time we need the cattle the most to meet consumer demand, they're holding cattle back for breeding," Slotkin said.

Morrell's kills cattle at 10 of its 17 plants nationwide with the slaughter rate down 60 percent in recent weeks.

'We don't project ourselves as a friend of the farmer or of the consumer. We don't like to see these high prices either. It gets to the point where people won't buy beef anymore," Slotkin said.

Neither Slotkin - nor retail grocers - would discuss precise details of their operations, but this is the way it works out generally. On Monday, Morrell's could buy Healey's 1,000-pound steer in Sioux Falls for $715. Only about 600 pounds of edible meat is left after slaughter and that sells wholesale for about $1.12 a pound or $672. Morrell's also sells the waste products — blood, bone, hide, organs — for about $113 for each 1,000-pound animal. That leaves the packer a slim $70 to pay for labor and equipment and to

Group to try to 'psyche up' falling Skylab

BROOKLINE, Mass. which is hooking up a (AP) - In an attempt to vail over matter — not to mention the force of gravity - a group of psychokinesis adherents is planning a mass meditation to keep Skylab from falling.

An official with a Florida radio station participating in the project says he hopes millions of people participate.

The mass meditation. scheduled to begin May 25 at 1 p.m. EDT, is designed to prove psychokinesis works and to keep the 85-ton satellite from plunging to Earth and causing "a lot of damage," says Chris Kilham, spokesman for the Brookline Psychoenergetics Institute, which is organizing the event.

Psychokinesis is the say, to move physical objects through mental processes.

"Our experiment is to see if the powers of the mind are strong enough to raise Skylab in its orbit," said Kilham. "This is a bona fide scientific experiment."

"We want people to visualize Skylab in their minds and then visualize sending their mental energy up to it and see that mental energy put it (Skylab) into a higher orbit," said Kilham.

To bolster the meditation effort, the institute enlisted help from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., radio station WFTL-AM,

On the other hand, WFTL program director Mike Harvey is taking the event very seriously and has gotten psychics Uri Geller and Page Bryant to lead the medi-

> NASA says most of the satellite's pieces will burn up during their plunge through the atmosphere, but about 400 will reach Earth along a path 4,000 miles long and 100 miles wide

Scientists originally hoped to keep the space station orbiting until the early 1980s, but unanticipated atmospheric turbulence caused by solar activity increased its "drag," pulling it toward Earth sooner.

Harvey said the British Broadcasting Corp. and the Austrailian Broadcasting Co. have expressed interest in linking up with his station's program.

"It started as a "tongue-and-cheek promotion," said Harvey, 'but there have been some very respectable people who have told us that with this many people participating, anything could happen.

Punishment debated

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) - The "vampire killer," who drank the blood of some of his six victims, deserves to die in San Quentin's gas chamber for his crimes, says the jury that convicted him.

But Superior Court Judge John Schatz, who set sentencing for June 8, is not bound to impose the death penalty on Richard Chase, as decided Thursday by the eightwoman, four-man panel. The judge could sentence Chase to life in prison without possibility of pa-

The jury last week found the burly, 28-yearold Chase guilty of the 1978 Sacramento murders and deliberated for 41/2 hours in the penalty phase. The trial site was moved because of pretrial publicity.

In the penalty phase, the jury found Chase's crimes fit the definition of the special circumstances provision of state law, which deals with multiple murder. The section permits either a sentence of death, or life imprisonment without a chance for parole.

Earlier this week, the jury found Chase was sane when he did away with his victims, who included a pregnant woman and two children. He had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity. Psychiatrists testified

ALL WOOD DINING BEAUTY

BOSTON (AP) - Tony Ciulla returned to the witness stand for the seventh day today, banking on federal government guarantees that a new identity and a new home for his family were enough to protect him from underworld vengeance.

On the basis of Ciulla's testimony, the federal government believes it can convict a Somerville, Mass. man, Howard T. Winter, and seven other associates on trial in U.S. District Court on charges of farflung fixing of horse races at five tracks.

Attorneys for the defendants tried again to shake confidence in his tale of race track fixings directed from gambling casinos in Las Vegas, to east coast tracks, to a garage in Somerville, where payoffs Ciulla, 35, from Everett, Mass., claimed he earned up to $30,000 per fixed race. Now, he said Wednesday, he gets a $900 a month allowance for testifying as the government's chief witness.

"Tremendous," he remarked ironically on the stand about his stipend.

Ciulla was serving time in 1977 in New Jersey's Rahway State Prison for fixing horse races. A five-year sentence for drugging horses in Rhode Island was waiting for him and other charges were pending.

"Big Tony," at 6-foot-3, 280 pounds, said he summoned the New Jersey state police. He wanted to make a deal.

In exchange for immunity to all charges, a new identity, a new home for his family and a monthly stipend, Ciulla agreed to spill in court all he knew.

He has testified that his world revolved around race track stables up and down the East Coast, where trainers had their heads opened "like cantaloupes," and his surroundings included pay telephones, bookies, runners and backroom payoffs.

MIDLAND'S FRIENDLIEST FURNITURE STORE!

Ciulla said he first noticed the state police tailing him in New Jersey on July 17, 1975.

Guilty plea entered by Larry Lucas

HOUSTON (AP) -The last vestiges of the Cullen Davis murderfor-hire case disappeared from Harris County when Larry Lucas pleaded guilty to misdemeanor perjury for lying during the trial.

Lucas, a 38-year-old former convict, was sentenced to 100 days in jail Wednesday. He was charged with lying for the Fort Worth millionaire during the marathon trial, which ended in Lucas testified during the trial that the state's star witness, David McCrory, had tried to hire him to kill Davis.

The sentence meant immediate release for Lucas, who has been in jail 126 days since his indictment on a charge of aggravated perjury, a felony.

Davis', first trial on charges that he solicited the murder of the judge then presiding in his divorce case was moved to Houston on a change of venue and ended in a mistrial after the jury deadlocked at 8-4.

It has since been shifted back to Fort Worth where a retrial is sche duled this summer.

Prosecutor Corky Roberts said he allowed Lucas to plead guilty to a misdemeanor rather than a felony because he apparently didn't do much damage to the Davis trial.

Roberts said he has no evidence Davis or his defense attorney, Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, knew Lucas was committing perjury while saying he had been offerred $20,000 to have Davis killed.

"Lucas dreamed it up on his own from all the evidence I have," Roberts said.

Firm must clean up toxic roads

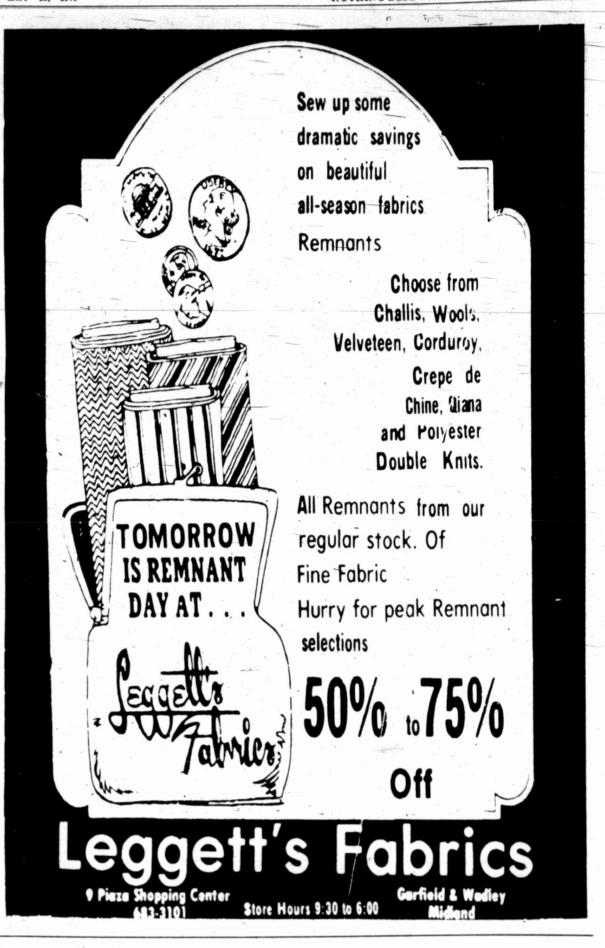

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) An order requiring cleanup of toxic materials on roads in five subdivisions in East Texas was reaffirmed Wednesday by the Texas Water Commission.

The commission ruled May 4 that Browning-Ferris Industries Chemcial-Services Inc., would have to remove hazardous materials from 1.7 miles of road in Reiley's Village, a subdivision in Polk County.

Five days later, the commission added four other subdivisions to the order: Town Bluff Estates, Ivanhoe Land of Lakes and Barlow Lake Estates in Tyler County, and Shelter Cove subdivison in Polk County.

The commission also issued an order May 9 prohibiting the Houstonbased company from disposing of hazardous wastes at unauthorized disposal sites.

The Texas Department of Water Resources and the Environmental Protection Agency found hazardous levels of nitrobenzene and traces of cyanide in the Polk County subdivision.

Roy McLemore from Houston sits on a bench in Riohacha, Colombia, Thursday with Colombian soldiers guarding him at rear. McLemore was held for ransom for 17 days, escaped and was arrested by Colombian troops. (AP Laserphoto)

I thought we were goners

Texan tells bizarre story of kidnapping in Columbia

RIOHACHA, Colombia (AP) - Texas pilot Roy McLemore says he was certain his kidnappers were going to kill him, but God saved him and he's ready for church after being robbed, shot at and held nine days in the broiling desert and seven more in a house full of screaming McLemore wept after he escaped from the house in the northern Colombian town of Maicao and jumped into an army jeep.

"I've never been a religious man," he said, "but I think I'm going to start going to church.

McLemore's escape Tuesday didn't mean the end of his problems. He was put in a steaming, fly-infested jail in this waterfront hangout for Colombian dope smugglers and charged with illegally entering the country's airspace. His co-pilot, Houston fireman William Spradley, is hospitalized with a bullet in the back and faces the same charge.

McLemore was interviewed Thursday by The Associated Press in the back of a pickup truck while being taken from an army base to the jail. This was his story:

He and Spradley, who flies in his spare time to make extra money, were en route from Miami to Venezuela April 29 to pick up some oil-drilling bits when engine trouble forced them to land on Colombia's Guajira Peninsula.

Tons of marijuana are flown out daily to the United States from desert airstrips on the peninsula, and rival gangs there frequently shoot American pilots if they land at the wrong airstrip and rob them of the thousands of dollars in cash they carry to pay for the drug.

"People came from every direction, grabbing our billfolds, watches, and things out of the plane, too, even the spare oil. They were like starving people who find some meat.

"Bill and I jumped into one of the trucks these people had and took off. I was driving and two other trucks were chasing us. Ours got bogged down and one of the men ran up to Bill's side and fired four shots - bam, bam, bam, bam. Bill got hit. There was blood all over the place. Then they pulled us out and threw us down on the sand. Bill's blood was all over me so I guess they thought they had shot me, too, but I wasn't hit. Anyway they drove off and left us there to die, they thought They lay in the desert for 30 or 45 minutes when they saw vehicle lights approaching. "I thought it was them coming back to finish the job. I thought we were goners for sure. These people got out and stood around us jabbering for maybe half an hour and it finally dawned on me that they weren't the same people.'

The people were Indians, and McLemore used the few words of Spanish he knew trying to get Spradley to a hospital. The Indians loaded the wounded man into the back of a pickup truck and took him to a clinic in a village about two hours way. Then they took McLemore to "a hut, a little shack made out of sticks. They gave me water and put up a hammock for me that night.

'The next day three tough-looking characters showed up and in some broken English told me they wanted to know who in the United States they could call to demand a ransom. Then they took me to another shack about an hour and a half away and stuck me in a goat-killing pen with nothing but cactus around as far as you could see.'

McLemore said he was there nine days. Whenever his two guards heard one of the army helicopters that make regular trips over the desert "they would whip out their guns and make me run into cactus and hide as long as half an hour. I got cactus spines into me all over, and God, it was hot.'

But McLemore said in general he was treated and fed well. His captors brought him ice water from a nearby shack, cold soft drinks, cans of meat, crackers, bread and cigarettes.

"Then some men came and gave me back everything from my billfold except the money,' he went on. "There was a blank check of mine and they made me sign it for $100,000.

After nine days he was taken to a house about two hours away in the small town of Maicao, another haven for smugglers close to the Venezuelan border.

"It was three rooms and there were 10 people living there. I guess six of them were kids and there was one old woman. They were very nice to me and I think the kidnappers, at least from the way they seemed to be threatening the family, had threatened to kill all of them if they didn't keep me there.

"Two of the people would sleep in the kitchen and the other eight slept on pieces of cardboard in my room. There was a sheet they draped from the ceiling to separate my part of the room from theirs. I never saw any guns among the people who were living there. It was only the other men who came almost every day and threatened to kill me if something wasn't done to ransom me

Youngest Congressman' title does have compensations

By RUDY MAXA The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - His mother said, "Oh, my God!" when she heard he intended to run for Congress, but now Mrs. Shannon's little boy James has his own office on Capitol Hill. And as the youngest federal legislator, Shannon doesn't mind the title 'Kid Congresman.''

'You stand out; people know who you are," says the Andover and Johns Hopkins-educated congressman who turned 27 earlier this month. Shannon a Democrat from a district near Boston — is the only congressman born since 1950. When elected last year at age 26, he was a mere year over the minimum constitutional age for his office.

Since he was 8 years old, when his father, a physician, took him to rallies for John Kennedy, Shannon has been drawn toward politics. The magnet was Washington, which is why he attended college in Baltimore. Impatient to get his name on a ballot somewhere, he earned his degree in political science in three years and immediately pursued a law degree at George Washington University.

Shannon was a political junkie on Capitol Hill who spent his free hours lobbying against America's involvement in Vietnam, interviewing members of the Masschusetts congressional delegation, and writing a thesis on Tip O'Neill. In that last project Shannon predicted O'Neill would never become House speaker; it was, of course, Speaker O'Neill who this year made Shannon the youngest member of the House Ways and Means Committee since

"I had kind of been thinking of how to get elected to the House," says Shannon of his student days in the Washington-Baltimore area. He returned to his hometown of Lawrence, set up a law practice that never did very well, and began thinking politics. "I keyed on a state senate seat and in 1976 lost by nine votes to the incumbent (who was 50 years older than Shannon). I thought I was the unluckiest guy in the world."

His luck changed. A House seat opened unexpectedly when Paul Tsongas decided to run for Edward Brooke's Senate spot. Shannon won in a crowded primary and then handily defeated the mayor of Lowell in the general election. While his age was agreeing that state law not a major issue, his stand against Proposition ington Post Photo) prohibits removal from 13-like proposals, his belief that the government office for acts committed ought not meddle in the abortion issue, and his during a previous term advocacy of mandatory wage-price controls did set him apart.

Shannon does not have a lean and hungry look posed and reelected last despite his lifelong lust for office. He is serious and amiable and his early success surprises him

"I arrived here never having done anything longer Shannon's wife of six years, who's completing her qualified from office than a stretch of four years," he says. TVA workers hushed up

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - The Tennessee Valley Authority ordered its employees to quit speaking publicly about its nuclear power program after the Three Mile Island nuclear accident, TVA officials say.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said Thursday the order was sent down last week by the government utility's two directors, Chairman S. David Freeman and Richard M. Freeman.

The officials said the two directors, who are not related, reportedly were upset about news stories quoting officials on how the March 28 accident at the Pennsylvania plant affects TVA's nuclear commitment.

Richard Freeman defended the directive but said it was issued it much earlier than last week

"It's not a gag order," he said. 'Simply, we just don't have anything to say until we have our own analysis of Three Mile Island, what when wrong there and the impact on our own operation.

TVA's directors have ordered a staff study of the Three Mile Island accident and its implications for TVA, which has the largest nuclear commitment of any utility in the nation. Freeman said the report should be completed by the end of May.

"It's a matter of timing, that's all," he said. "We're not going to be popping off on things we don't know anything about until we have some confidence that we know what we're

Silkwood jury awards damages

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - A federal court jury today awarded the Karen Silkwood estate $10.5 million in damages in connection with the plutonium contamination suit against Kerr-McGee Corp.

The jury awarded $505,000 in actual damages and $10 million in punitive damages.

District Court Judge Frank G. Theis had ordered the courtroom sealed when the jury returned this morning after sending word that it had reached a verdict.

The jurors had resumed deliberations this morning just under two hours before they reached the verdict. On Thursday, they asked a question that touched off heated in-chambers debate, then decided to work through the evening. But they retired without announcing a decision and returned to the jury room shortly after 9 a.m. today.

The three-man, three-woman jury passed a note to the judge Thursday that said: "In instruction number 18, what does physical injury mean?"

Several witnesses during the 10week trial testified Miss Silkwood told them she felt she was dying. Her survivors are uing the Kerr-McGee Corp., alleging negligence in connection with her contamination with plutonium from the company's nuclear fuel plant, where she worked as a lab

Kerr-McGee claims Miss Silkwood stole the plutonium and contaminated herself, probably while attempting to spike her urine samples to embarrass the company. She died in a Nov. 13, 1974, car crash.

Cubs return for Travelers

BY TED BATTLES R-T Sports editor

SECTION C

It shapes as the classic duel of good pitching against good hitting as Arkansas' Travelers, tied for the Texas League East Division lead, square off against the Midland Cubs, out in front in the West by 2 1/2 games, in a five-game series, starting at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Cubs Stadium.

And perhaps to celebrate the long Cubs Stadium drought without baseball, 13 nights, to be exact, it will be Two-Bit Beer Night.

Manager Randy Hundley's Cubs bring a .309 team batting average into the game while Arkansas Manager Tommy Thompson will counter with a pitching staff that has a 2.74 earnedrun-average, the kind Midland pitchers will never see in high altitude West Texas, home of the jack rabbit base hits and the windblown home

Tom Chamberlain heads the Arkansas staff with a 1.29 followed by Hector Eduardo 1.69, John Littlefield 1.72 and Ray Williams 1.80. Chamberlain is 3-1, Eduardo 3-0 and Williams 2-0. Littlefield, off to an 0-2 start, was with the club last year and had a 9-8

THE ST. Louis Cardinals farmhands are led at the plate by Neil Fiala with a .306 average while Phil Roof and George Desa also are over the .300 mark. Second baseman Fiala, who batted 272 in 1978, is one of several players back from last year. Others include Outfielder Fred Tisdale, .288 in 1978; outfielder Jim Riggleman, .293, shortstop Randall Thomas, .255, and third baseman Jorge Aranzamendi, .260.

The Cubs return home from an 8-4 trip to San Antonio and El Paso with a .309 team batting average, which is a drop off from the .342 back on April 26, still it's respectable.

First baseman Jim Tracy is setting a torrid .402 pace and is batting a cool .500 for his last nine games. Also way up there are shortstop Jesus Alfaro at .359; outfielder Brian Rosinski, .354; and outfielder Carlos Lezcano, .351 and the team home run leader with baseman Mike Turgeon is a shade under at .299.

Second baseman Dan Rohn at .326 and outfielder Eric Grandy at .310

Herman Segelke, who didn't get a starting assignement until April 29 has reeled off four straight victories, including two complete games and a 3-0 shutout at San Antonio. Vinnie Valentini, who joined the club late from Wichita, had an impressive road trip with two wins while Lee Smith, Henry Mack and Mark Parker all have 2-1 records.

Shutouts—Segelke (3-0 vs. SA, May 9); Valentini (6-0 vs. SA, May 5). M-Cubs in best TL start ever

After playing 18 of their first 24 games at home, the Midland Cubs were just 13-11, not the kind of hay one expects to make when the beneficiary of so blessed a schedule. And with a 12-game road trip looming, things really didn't look too good.

First, there was the trip to San Antonio, where Midland went 0-for-6 in its first series last year. After that, there was the invasion of El Paso, where ambushes have been commonplace in recent years.

A break even trip would have been more than acceptable. Few anticipated an 8-4 triumphant sweep, one that would return the Cubs to the Tall City with a 21-15 record and a 2 1/2 game lead in the Texas League West.

In fact, it's the best start the Cubs have enjoyed since coming to Midland back in 1972. A year ago at the mid-May point, the Cubs were 16-16 and seven games out of first place, largely a result of that 0-6 disaster in San Antonio at the season's start.

In 1977, Midland was a modest 12-14, 4 1/2 games off the pace, and in 1976, the Cubs were 11-11 and three out. In 1974, Midland was 13-12 and three back, in 1973 it was 15-16 and in 1972 the Cubs were 12-16.

LEST, ONE hails a promising start as a cure-all for all all :the aches and pains of a pennant race and a guarantee of a successful season, recall 1975. Midland was 16-21 at mid-May and a distant 8 1/2 back. What's more the Cubs were to fall 16 1/2 back of Shreveport before it was over.

Last Chaparral is eliminated

WACO — The last Midland College hope died here Thursday as the doubles team of Kathy Bovell and Karen Young lost 6-3, 6-3 to Patterson and Kobs of Odessa College in the semifinals of the National Junior College tennis tournament.

Midland College clinched third place with three doubles victories Wednesday. Heading into Friday's final round of play, OC had a slim lead over Schreiner for the team title.

Debbie Smith and Leslie Miller defeated Smith-Agular of Mesa, Ariz., 6-2, 6-2, before losing in the quarterfinals to Tyler's Kniffen-Neutz, 6-4, 6-1, to fall out of the tournament. Bovell and Young advanced to the semifinals for MC with a double victory Wednesday. The MC pair defeated O'Malley-Pierez of Indian River, Fla., 6-2, 6-4, in their first match and then earned the right to meet OC's Patterson-Kobs with a 6-3, 7-6 win over Beggs-Wishand of Palm Beach,

It was the worst start ever by a Midland team, but the Cubs recovered and caught the Captains in the final series of the season to win the pennant in the days before the advent of the split season.

Of course, that was the year that the Cubs had Dennis Lamp, Mike Krukow and Donnie Moore, all now with Chicago, in their starting rotation and, perhaps even more importantly, it was the year that Bruce Sutter mastered his split-finger fast ball and was Johnny-on-the-spot whenever a starter plodded into lateinning trouble.

IT WAS also the year of Wayne Tyrone, Joe Wallis, Ed Putman, Julio Gonzales, Jerry Tabb, but strangely enough the guy wno was the catalyst of that team is no longer in baseball. Called up from Pompano Beach in May, catcher Steve Clancy, a product of the University of Texas, was the glue, as it turned out, who made it all stick. He was the take charge guy on the field and it was with his arrival

The Cubs' quick start this year is somewhat surprising in that there aren't really too many everyday players around from the club that finished second last year. The entire infield was laboring in Class A a year ago, although first baseman Jim Tracy was called up late in the season. But second baseman Dan Rohn, shortstop Jesus Alfaro and third baseman Mike Turgeon were in Pompano or Geneva, or college. The lone experienced in-

In the outfield, Brian Rosinski played here a year ago and Eric Grandy batted .311 for the Cubs, but Carlos Lezcano was wondering about his baseball future after having a finger severed in spring training and Jared Martin was spending a summer of exile in Bakersfield, Calif., a loan out from Chicago. Still, it was a profitable exile, one in which he batted

The pitching staff is radically changed. A year ago, Randy Martz was the first-half meal ticket, and Herman Segelke and Lee Smith were starters, but Henry Mack was still in the Phils' organization and no one in Midland had yet heard of Vinnie Valentini, Mark Parker, Mike Allen, Bill Earley, and chances are most of them

Rebels conclude grid drills tonight

What started three weeks ago comes to an end tonight as the Midland Lee Rebels cap spring football drills with their annual Maroon and White game at 7:30 at Memorial Sta-Rebel sophomores-to-be will participate in a controlled scrimmage at 5:30 p.m. Coach Gil Bartosh said because of an enrollment decline among incoming freshmen, "we just don't have enough kids for a ballgame.

For Bartosh and his staff, the Maroon and White game will be a chance to view this year's candidates under battle conditions. "Most of these guys haven't been under fire," said Bartosh of his youthful squad. "We're looking for execution under a little pressure. This will help us experience-wise. We're anxious to see what these players can do under pressure.'

According to Bartosh, squads for the game were determined by dividing the coaches and having them draft two teams. He said the coaches then flipped a coin to see which unit

Returning starting quarterback Gary Butler will direct one squad and junior Barry Corley will handle the other. Bartosh also has three more junior signal-callers that should see duty. He said he was "pleased" with the quarterback situation, adding "this is going to be a pretty good battle in the spring game."

Bartosh has some gifted athletes at the skill spots. He said senior Butler, "had a real good spring, he improved an awful lot." Of his fullbacks, Bartosh said Mark Thompson "has had a real fine spring," adding that Scott Collins "has been a pleasant surprise

Then there's returning tailback Steve Waldron, flankers Joe Windsor and Larry Linne and tight end-defensive end Tom Williams, who Bartosh said, "is really blossoming out pretty and James McGarrity were cited for their efforts.

Overall, Bartosh likes the competitive aspects of his team. "Most of the positions are still up for grabs," said Bartosh. "I imagine it will be pretty competitive into the first couple or three games of the season.

"We've had an enjoyable group, a real coachable group," he continued. 'We've had a lot of competition out there. Overall, we had a real fine spring. We feel like we reached most of our objectives."

Bartosh said much of this week was used to polish the passing game and incorporate goalline offenses and de-

Suns agree, Sonics have it all

SEATTLE (AP) — Power, poise. balance, a good bench and luck.

The Phoenix Suns agree that Seattle has all those ingredients and that's why the SuperSonics are in the National Basketball Association finals and not the Suns

"It just shows you it takes more than one or two men to make a basketball team. If you have 11 men playing in harmony, you can be successful," said a happy Seattle forward John Johnson after the Sonics edged the Suns 114-110 Thursday night to win their second straight Western Conference title.

The triumph gave the Sonics a 4-3 edge in the best-of-seven series and sends them into the NBA final series against the winner of tonight's Eastern Conference championship game between the defending champion Washington Bullets and the San Antonio Spurs.

In their first appearance in the championship finals last season, the Sonics lost to the Bullets in seven

It took a pair of Jack Sikma free throws with two seconds remaining Thursday night to preserve Seattle's win in the rugged and emotional series finale before a Kingdome crowd of 37,552 — the second biggest in NBA playoff history. 'Wow, what a nightmare that would have been if we lost it," said Sikma, the Sonics's 6-foot-11, secondyear center who finished with a game and career-high 33 points and 11 re-

Sikma was referring to a seemingly insurmountable 100-85 Sonic lead with 6:04 left in the game that dwindled to just two points before it was over.

An 8-0 Suns run cut Seattle's lead to 105-101 with 2:07 to play. Dennis Johnson followed with seven straight free throws for a 112-104 Sonic cushion with just 20 seconds left.

WALTER DAVIS hit a basket for Phoenix and then stole the ball from Sonic reserve Joe Hassett and fed Paul Westphal for a jumper with eight seconds left. Another Seattle reserve, Wally Walker, lost the next possession, again to Davis. Westphal scored again to cut the lead to two points and was fouled by Walker.

Trevino trails Thompson by one

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - A delightfully hedonistic Lee Trevino, suggesting there is no tomorrow, set out today to erase a one-shot deficit in defense of his Colonial National Invitational golf title.

If necessary, said Trevino, he would putt with a banana.

Trevino's 4-under-par 66 trailed Leonard Thompson by a stroke Thursday as the tricky cross winds failed to command their normal toll on the rose-rimmed Trinity River

An astounding 23 golfers bettered Colonial's par-70, and 16 others matched it on a sunny afternoon in which Trevino reeled off four straight birdies to tie Bruce Lietzke for sec-

"It's unbelievable how crazy I am," confessed Trevino, admitting that he pounded himself out a new putter in a midnight workshop session at his home across the Trinity River in Dal-

"Tomorrow, I might come out here with a banana and putt with it ... golf will drive you crazy, I'll tell you. But I

The man with the notorious back problems said he would abandoned his once extensive exercise program. "I don't do anything but pick up a 12 ounce can of ber," he quipped.

'I quit exercising. I'm too old. I'm 40 years old (he's 39). I want to live a little. I don't want to look good when I die. I want to look bad. When people look at me in an open casket, I want them to say, 'Boy, he needed to go!' It was vintage Trevino, twice a winner here, including a record 12under-par 268 a year ago. A victory this year is worth $54,000 from a purse of $300,000.

Thompson, a chunky, affable twotime winner in his eight years on the circuit, hit birdie putts of 4, 10, 15, 2 and 15 feet in a bogey-less round that he called "nothing but spectacular."

"It ain't no snap to go out and shoot 65 here," he conceded. "There's a whole lot of people who never shot 65 here, including me, until today — but when I got it close, I made it.

Umpires' strike may be over by nightfall

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball's 52 umpires gathered in Philadelphia today with the expectation that all but four of them would be out of the city before nightfall.

Richie Phillips, the umpires' lawyer and negotiator, was hopeful of presenting his out-of-work clients with a settlement of their contract dispute with the National and American leagues that would send 48 of them off to other major league cities to officiate tomorrow's games. How does Caracas A's sound?

CHICAGO (AP) — Is major league baseball ready for the Caracas A's? How about the Caracas Maracas?

Roberto Weill, president of the Caracas, Venezuela club of the fledgling Inter-American baseball league, met with Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland A's, Wednesday to discuss possible purchase of the American League team.

"We had dinner," Finley said Thursday. "I don't really know what he has in mind, possibly to keep the team in Oakland, possibly to move it eventually to Caracas.

"I explained to him that couldn't be done automatically," said Finley. "I told him that it wasn't just academic and that it involved a lot of problems.'

"If they want to buy it and take the chance of moving, it's their business, not mine," Finley said. "I just told them to make sure of two things. One, that it would be possible to move, and two, that it has a place to play.

Koosman finds life can be beautiful with Twins

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

Jerry Koosman says he doesn't mind those late-inning walks to the dugout these days - although he might have had second thoughts about leaving the mound Thursday

Koosman, who has found a second life with the Minnesota Twins, was cruising along with a four-hitter and a 7-1 lead over Kansas City after seven innings. Then the Royals nicked him for a couple of hits and runs in the eighth, but things still seemed well in

However, when John Wathan and Clint Hurdle singled to start the ninth (with Wathan scoring on center fielder Willie Norwood's error, cutting the Twins' lead to 7-4), Manager Gene Mauch called on Mike Marshall to throw some cold water on Kansas

Instead, the Minnesota reliever, having his troubles lately, brought in a bucket of gasoline from the bullpen. With one out, Pete LaCock doubled to score Hurdle and Tom Poquette's single scored LaCock.

DESPITE THE shaky relief job, Koosman couldn't say enough about Marshall. "I've never had a relief pitcher like him. I'm sleeping better at night and I enjoy my walks to the dugout a lot more," said Kooz, who spent 11 full seasons with the New York Mets — including last year's horrendous 3-15 campaign - before being traded to the Twins.

Bringing Koosman "home" was one reason the Twins traded for him, Mauch confirmed. "That was a lingering thought when we were trying to get him. The real factor was a conversation I had with Tom Seaver. He told me Koosman was pitching as well as he had in his whole life — but we did think spending more time with his family might settle him down."

But Kemeny's nine years as president have not been without controversy as the 210-year-old college underwent a number of changes, including for the first time enrolling women. Just days after taking over in 1970, Kemeny headed off a confrontation by dismissing formal classes for a week because of the killing of four students at Kent State and urging professors to hold seminars to discuss the Vietnam war and the Kent State shootings.

"He turned a political crisis into an education experience," recalled Dartmouth spokesman Bob Graham. Other associates cite the action as an example of Kemeny's ability to think clearly under Kemeny came to Dartmouth in 1954 and was named to head the mathematics department a year later at the age of 29. Over the years he distinguished himself as one of the country's foremost authorities on computers. Among his 13 books is one, written with another professor, which has enabled thousands of novices to "talk" with computers by using written

He is fascinated by computer games and years ago had a computer terminal installed in his house. And, he said in an interview the other day in his still barren commission office in downtown Washington, the games and detective stories are not unlike the Three Mile Island investigation.

"In some of the best detective stories you get halfway through the book and they get you to the point where you're totally confused and you don't know what to believe. I think that's where we're starting in this investigation.'

Kemeny said he agreed with some reluctance to head the commission and after the job is finished will look forward to returning full time to Dartmouth where "I hope to spend the rest of my life." But Kemeny's origins could not have been farther from the Ivy League. Born May 31, 1926, in Budapest, Hungary, he came to the United States in 1940 as a youth fascinated with mathematics. His parents, fleeing the Nazis, had left almost everything behind, even their luggage. Like many children of immigrants, young Kemeny attended New York City's George Washington High School where at the same time another famous refugee of Nazi Europe, Henry Kissinger, also was a student. The two did not know each other.

A quick learner, Kemeny was first in his high school graduating class. Later at Princeton University he served as a graduate assistant to Albert Einstein — an experience he today calls "probably the single most wonderful year of my life.

It's said circus music is the most difficult of all, particularly for trumpeters. You need chops of steel to handle the extremes in range and tempo. You've got to play long, loud and often very high.

"There's nothing to compare with it," agrees Greene, who on "Feelings" soars up to a C above high C, which for lesser trumpeters cancause hernias, or at least a lip blowout.

NEW YORK (AP) - "But you gotta know the territory" is more than a, slogan for "The Music Man." It would be a good one for theater in general, as two plays which opened off-Broadway Wednesday night show.

"Festival," which is sophomoric, might be relished in a setting where sophomores roam naturally, like a fraternity-sorority campus show or a summer resort staff putting on an evening for the guests. Instead it opened at Downstairs at City Center, where its air of amateurism, young energy and humor based on such devices as Elizabethan sentences alternated with slang don't add up to "Wake Up, It's Time To Go to Bed," an avant-garde "experiment in sound theater," opened at Joseph Papp's Public Theater complex. Keith Carradine, best known as a movie actor although he won an Academy Award for a song he wrote, "I'm Easy," was in the second half of the play.

Carradine is not a performer who can be accused of spending all his time being "commercial." At the preview we saw, 19 people left during the first half and of 37 who went out at intermission, 12 didn't come back

The first half was two avant-garde classical music pieces, the first featuring jangling piano placed on a high, swaying platform. The second was a 25-minute percussion work, with four percussionists playing a variety of drums in a circle and turning to play glasses and crockery on a round table inside the circle. Their timing was terrific. Four string players on side platforms played and

The percussionists ended by donning masks as European, Arab, Chinese and Russian and dueling with drum sticks - in time - while handling money as a comment on the world. Like the hour and 45-minute "Festival," this seemed longer than it

Carradine was Orpheus and Michael Pearlman wonderfully spouted long speeches full of big words as Boy Orpheus in a 45-minute avant-garde play. If we understood it, Orpheus, who starts as a briefcase-toting businessman, has hangups because his mother didn't do right and he can't get over losing Eurydice. He cries out to be able to love again. If others decipher something else, we wouldn't say they're wrong. We think it's fun to tackle the atonal and the obscure. Carson Kievman "conceived, wrote and directed" the evening, which was commissioned by the Boston Symphony and Fromm Foundation for a concert at Tanglewood last summer.

Performers resort to earplugs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — When 40 Philadelphia Orchestra string players donned earplugs during rehearsals of George Crumb's cantata "Star Child," it wasn't that they didn't like the music. They just thought it was too loud.

"It is a pollution problem, and a potential health hazard," said orchestra personnel manager Mason

The players said they took the unusual step to protect themselves from a thunderous five-minute stint by the expanded percussion section and resounding trumpets. For Crumb's composition, the strings have been moved from their usual place downstage to a spot at the rear between the percussion section and the pipes of an organ.

'This is the first time I've remembered the musicians doing this," orchestra manager Joseph Santarlasci said Thursday of the earplugs. "The strings generally sit down front — they're not accustomed to this sort of thing.

Santarlasci said he expected some of the players would wear the ear protectors during the performances, scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

'For some parts of the piece, it's quite likely," Santarlasci said. 'We handed them out because some of the strings are sitting right next to the battery (percussion) section. There's a loud period during about four or five minutes of the piece.

'The rest of it, some of it, is rather quiet, but there this apocalypse, with the battery section going full blast. They wear the earplugs during that sec-SALE AT 11:00 PM MIDNIGHT SHOW TONIGHT

Jones said the musicians were not staging an official protest, but he said the musician's union might eventually ask for protection under federal occupational health and safety regulations.

The contemporary piece by Crumb, a Pulitzer Prize-winning composer, has required considerable rearranging of the performers on the stage of the Academy of Music.

The strings, about half the orchestra's usual string section, have been moved to the rear of the stage shell. Facing the back, they've been squeezed between the pipes of an organ and a percussion section that includes drums, gongs, large sheets of metal and other noise-makers. A chorus will be in front, along with the winds and brass. At one point, two musicians will play from the audience.

Members of the brass section, usually situated in front of percussion, are blase about the ear problems encountered by the strings. "It gets loud there, but you get used to it," one said.

Stock market mixed

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market was mixed today, pausing after Thursday's sharp rally.

The Dow, Jones average o 30 industrials, which jumped 14.47 Thursday for its biggest gain in seven weeks, slipped back .09 to 842.86 by noontime today. Gainers held a 5-3 lead over losers in the broad tally of New York Stock Ex change-listed issues. Thursday's upsurge was attributed to strength in the dollar and hopes that tentative signs of slowing econom ic activity might eventually lead to lower interest rates. But a less favorable por tent on the interest-rate out look came at Thursday' close when the Federal Reserve reported a rise in the money supply. Brokers noted that an ex panding money supply tends to lessen the chance of any early move by the Federal Reserve to encourage inter est rates to decline. Squibb Corp. led the active list, down 1/8 at 28 3/4. A 250,-000-share block traded at

American Credit 11/2 t 49% following Federal Reserve approval of the company's acquisition by Barclay's Bank. The NYSE's composite common-stock index rose .09 to 56.32. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .91 at 179.75. Volume on the Big Board came to 13.30 million shares at noontime, up from 12.67 million at the same point Thursday.

BUSINESS MIRROR Machines save,

if used properly

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — What should American industry do after having spent in recent years $70 billion a year for office information systems, only to find that office productivity has barely increased at all? Spend more. Yes, more, says Harvey Poppel of Booz, Allen & Hamilton. Spend more, and within 10 years the potential savings will be hundreds of billions of dollars a year. He stakes his future on it. Laggard office productivity, he states, is not the fault of machines — the typewriters, copiers, computers and mail and telephone devices. The problem, he says, is one of proper usage, a management Office automation, says Poppel, whose background at the big consulting firm is in both management and technology, has been applied mainly to clerical procedures, where the savings potential is relatively low. Now, he maintains, industry must automate the professional and management areas, where savings could be enormous but where the target is more elusive, one of the reasons it has been ingnored to

"Considering that professional-level wages are two to three times clerical wages, even a modest improvement at this level could result in substantial economy and increased quality," Poppel reasons.

"In fact, our projections show that with better professional-level productivity, the gross savings to U.S. business could amount to more than $300 million annually by 1980," he states. Numbers of that size talk. Financed by technology producers and users, Booz, Allen has begun a 10month study to document its estimates, "to make a case that will stand the scrutiny of the business

Those are the words of Poppel, senior vice president, who says he has done enough limited, specific studies to feel confident in making this larger one. He would not have taken the step five years ago, he Since then technology has improved. "I've watched it ripen to a point where it can do most of the things we feel need to be done," he said. Manufacturers are confident too, as confident as users are Among initial supporters of the study are American Telephone & Telegraph, International Business Machines, International Telephone & Telegraph, and Xerox, potential beneficiaries as both makers and

Their interest was sharpened by those earlier studies hinting at the possibilities.

That, for instance, up to 50 percent of business travel might be eliminated by "teleconferencing." Or that professionals often don't do what they're paid for, such as to analyze and communicate, but instead spend it in search of data that should be available at the touch of a button. So much time is also spent seeking and absorbing information from print, or telephoning, or sitting in informational meetings that it leaves only 30 percent of time for analysis, Poppel has determined.

In a government office he found that of 800 professional hours, 200 were spent on clerical support work that could be handled by technology. "A 25 percent improvement right off the top," he said.

Not only can it be done, it must, he insists. "The demands on managers and professionals is increasing," he said. "They have more factors to consider, so many hurdles, like politics and environment.

You cannot overpower these problems with people, warns Poppel, "so you have to make the people more productive." Already, he observes, recently trained professionals work with machinery routinely.

How incongruous, he thinks, that there has been such an enormous growth in clerical systems high-speed copiers, computers, "smart" telephone systems, memory typewrters - and so little for professionals.

"It's time to focus greater attention on the more than 20 million managers and other professionals who populate our offices," he said. Automation must be made available to them as it was to the clerks.

Kindergarten round-up set at Fannin School

Parents of children who will be attending kindergarten at Fannin Elementary School next year should come by the school at Fannin and Lanham streets next week to pick up pre-registration forms and information, school principal Bob Watkins

The kindergarten round-up set Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day is for children who will be 5 by Sept. 1 and who live in the Fannin district, he noted.

Parents of students who will be entering Fannin for the first time for first grade also should come by the school office for pre-registration forms, he said. Before registering, students will need to have a birth certificate and immunzation records.

Car cushions busload from injuries in wreck SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A small car smashed between a fully loaded gravel truck and a stationary school bus provided a cushion that saved 52 high school students and their bus driver

from injury in a wreck Thursday, according to witnesses and authorities. The driver of the car was killed, but there were no other injuries, officials said. "If that little car hadn't been between us and the truck, there's no telling how many kids might have been killed," said Blaine Church, 55, driver of the school bus. "That car that was in between the truck and the bus acted as sort of a cushion and it really prevented a disaster," said W.H. Ferrell, a Bexar County sheriff's deputy who was first on the scene.

Brian Keith Stone, 20, was identified as the driver of the car. The driver of the truck was identified by Ferrell as 25-year-old Montgomery Hine.

The wreck occurred on the city's northeast fringe as Church stopped the bus to let off two students

"I could see them (the car and gravel truck) coming in the mirror," said Church. "I didn't know what was going to happen. They couldn't go around me because the cars in the oncoming lane were stopped for the school bus." "We're going to be hit! We're going to be hit!" Church said the students cried as they looked out the back window. "The kids looked like they were going to panic, so I yelled, 'Hang on!, Hang on!' and that's what they did," Church said.

OIME shows off vast manufacturing facilities

ODESSA - West Texas industry and civic leaders got a good look at the Oil Industries Manufacturing and Engineering (OIME) facilities Thursday in Odessa during the firm's Permian Basin Day which was designed to show off its sprawling plant.

OIME, one of world's leading manufacturers of drilling industry equipment, conducts its operations at its engineering and factrication facility which covers 54 acres of land between Insterstate 20 and U.S. 80 immediately east of Odessa

A. E. "Bud" Prince Jr., president of OIME, told the plant visitors that OIME was founded in 1957 to build drilling rig components, and now the manufacturing concern is the third largest maker of drilling industry equipment.

Since 1975, OIME has been a wholly-owned subsidiary of Parker Drill-ing Company of Tulsa, the worlds largest publicly-held, land-based drilling company.

OIME employs approximately 400 skilled professional and craft workers, including designers, engineers,

Plant bill approved

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate approved a bill Thursday providing state loans to build gasohol plants. Rep. Dan Kubiak's bill was sent to the governor on a 31-0 vote. The measure would allow the Texas Industrial Commission to make loans totaling up to 90 percent of the plant machinists, welders and assemblers. Prince said that although OIME does have a standard product line, much of its manufacturing is for what a customer needs "exactly what the customer needs, to his specifications and in an unbelievably short time. This includes drilling rig packages, rig modifications, drawworks, specialized well stimulation equipment and custom power transmission equipment." OIME engineering has developed the Heli-Hoist Rig, a complete drilling rig package which breaks down into loads that can be hauled economically into remote locations by helicopter; a completly self-contained drilling rig and living facility on wheels, specifically designed to function in severe Arctic conditions; the Hercules E-300 electric drillinfg rig - a rig which can drill deeper than man has ever drilled before; the OIME Split Level Rig, a design which OIME feels will be the drilling rig of the future, and offshore workover rigs and custon designed drawworks from 350 to 3,000 horse-

OIME's facility includes more than 110,000 square feet of working space under roof.

The Thursday visitors examined OIME's 18,000-square-foot material preparation facility, a completely integrated machine shop, the immense welding and fabrication area and the 39-acre rig up yard which is so vast of that area was by that the tour

Prince pointed out that OIME's 1978 payroll was in excess of $10 million. 'We estimate that 1,500 or more employees, and their dependents, are supported directly by OIME - and countless others indirectly

Charges considered

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Trade Commission is considering bringing antitrust charges against four companies accused of tipping each other to planned price changes through the press.

An agency official who asked not to be named said Thursday the FTC staff has recommended that formal charges be lodged against four firms making antiknock additives for gasoline.

They are: Ethyl Corp. of Richmond, Va.; Du Pont Co. of Wilmington, Del.; PPG Industries Inc. of Pittsburgh, and Nalco Chemical Co. of Oak Brook, Ill.

A spokesman for Ethyl Corp. said the company believed its actions were "proper" and would fight any charges brought by the FTC. Du Pont and Nalco officials had no comment. PPG officials were not immediately available.

If charges are filed, they would be the first alleging "price signaling."

The FTC source said such a case would not charge direct collusion, but would argue that the companies violated the law by communicating indirectly with each other through the press and by other means.

Common prices eventually could be worked out through announcements to the press and others, the official said.

The staff suggestion is for an order barring companies from giving customers and the press advance notice of price increases, the official said. He acknowledged that the commission would have to consider possible conflicts with the First Amendment guarantee of freedom of the press.

Nader blasts industry

SEATTLE (AP) - Consumer advocate Ralph Nader has leveled a double-barreled blast at the energy industry, calling the gasoline shortage is a hoax and predicting no more nuclear power plants will be built.

Speaking at the University of Washington Thursday night, Nader declared, "There is no crude oil shortage in this country today.

Figures released Wednesday by the American Petroleum Institute show less crude oil was used in the United States in April of this year than in 1978 or 1977, Nader said.

He accused oil companies of holding back production of domestic oil to push its price up to the level charged by the OPEC oil cartel.

He said the "cloistered cowards" in Congress would act only if the public lets them know "we're going to take

California board boosts lead content in gasoline

By REYNOLDS R. RAST

LOS ANGELES (AP) - California's Air Resources Board and its state Senate have moved to allow a temporary boost in the lead content of gasoline as a way to increase fuel supplies for the gas-short state.

That prompted a debate over the amount of lead that should be allowed in gasoline, while gas station lines remained long - and tempers short.

Things got so bad at one Los Angeles station Thursday a shootout resulted that left three people wound-

The effect of the ARB and Senate actions could be to move California nearer to federal lead standards now in force in the rest of the country. For several years, as a way to manage smog and other air pollution, California has enforced more stringent standards. Those who want to relax the rules now say the standards have contributed to the current severe gasoline shortage in the state.

ARB Chairman Tom Quinn said the revision would eventually mean a 5 percent increase in gas production in the state:

But Sen. David Roberti, D-Los Angeles, objected, saying "the whole shortage is contrived in the first place because they (the oil companies) want to eliminate these standards.'

The ARB resolution allows Chevron USA, Union Oil and Mobil Oil to begin production immediately under the relaxed standards, which expire Oct. 1. Other companies must separately request a lowering of lead content standards. Quinn said Chevron, Mobil and Union were the only firms attending the ARB meeting that passed the newtrules;

Mobil quits Canyon area

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) -Mobil Oil Corp. says it is giving up exploration off the mid-Atlantic coast after reporting the industry's 13th dry well in the Baltimore Canyon Trough.

Only three drilling rigs presently remain in the area off New Jersey and Delaware, although a few more are expected to begin wells on new lease tracts later this summer. Mobil is the fifth oil company to give up on the mid-Atlantic drilling area, which the government predicted may hold as much as 1.02 billion barrels of oil and 13.5 trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

Mobil's dry well - its second in the mersible rig Western Pacesetter III about 100 miles east of Cape May in a little-explored area of the Baltimore Canvon Trough

The well, started on Jan. 6, reached a depth of 13,992 feet and was plugged "after tests indicated no significant quantities of hydrocarbons," Mobil spokesman James Amanna said Wednesday.

The company's statement was taken in the industry to mean that some small signs of oil or gas were found in the well, which was in 258 feet of water about 10 miles from the edge of the Continental Shelf.

Only Exxon, Tenneco and Texaco each have one rig drilling in the Baltimore Canyon Trough, clustered about 100 miles east of this resort, near where Texaco reported a "significant strike" of natural gas last August.

Texaco is drilling its third exploratory well less than three miles from its strike to "confirm" the gas reser-

The council, located at the University of Texas, said it may take a "herculean national and international effort" to keep the energy shortage from reaching a global-wide crisis.

The report said both the public and private sectors need to collaborate to keep the "sporadic energy shortages of the coming months" from exploding into something much more serious - "a protracted global shortage of energy among the oil-producing na-

An earlier attempt to relax lead standards was made Wednesday, while Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. was in Washington. Republican Lt. Gov. Mike Curb signed the order but Brown, on his return, dismissed it as "political hijinks." A spokesman said Brown wouldn't even bother to rescind it because it had no legal effect.

Police said a Los Angeles gas station owner was shot after confronting a man who was trying to collect deposits for gas from motorists waiting in line. A shootout ensued when police arrived, and the alleged assailant and a policeman were also wounded. Police said Andrew Doyle, 28, was booked for investigation of attempted murder and assault with a deadly weapon on a police officer.

Homes in New England face short fuel supply

WASHINGTON (AP) - If action isn't taken beforehand, Americans in the Northeast may face cold winter months without enough heating oil to warm their homes, a new study

But the report from the New England Economic Research Office says the potentially serious problem can be averted if action is taken immediately, including even such drastic steps as ordering refineries to cut back gasoline production now to make more heating oil available later.

"A continuation of current trends in petroleum product supply and demand will result in a major shortage of home heating oil during January and February of next winter," the study said.

It claimed, "The problem is of sufficient gravity to pose the threat of empty heating oil tanks in some New England homes next February and Another problem, according to the report, is that what heating oil is available will be much more expensive. It said oil selling now at all-time high levels of 65 to 69 cents a gallon may soar to 90 cents a gallon.

It said major heating oil suppliers are reluctant to renew contracts to wholesale and retail dealers, meaning more oil will have to be bought on the "spot market" at higher prices.

The report urged the government to use "high level jawboning" to persuade the refiners to renew contracts at "reasonable prices." The problem isn't limited to New England, the report said, because heating oil is used extensively in Midwest and Middle Atlantic states. 'This shortage...is a national economic problem as well," it said.

The office that wrote the study does research on economic matters for members of Congress from New England.

In another development Thursday, the Federal Energy Commission approved rules to allow industrial fuel users and electric utilities to purchase natural gas directly from a producer, intrastate pipeline or local distribution company. The commission says the change will encourage industry and utilities to shift from oil to natural gas, at a saving o up to 250,000 barrels of oil a day.

Class book quotes call for caution

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) - It is epigram time once again across this singing land.

In the shadow of rented mortarboards young brows are furrowed, brains are being searched and ballpoint pens are poised to write an appropriate line of endearment alongside a photograph in the high school or college yearbook for a fellow or sister graduate.

Parting is indeed one of life's sweetest sorrows, when the parchments are handed out from the podium. So the exit line written to a departing classmate in the yearbook he or she just plunked down forty or so bucks for must perforce linger until the pages turn yellow and hairlines turn gray, even if everyone will see each other next morning in the carpark and all the rest of the summer at the beach.

The line or lines penned next to the portrait must be tender, terse and take into consideration the ironic possibility that today's campus oaf may be tomorrow's Nobel laureate or the puffy-faced blonde named Norma Jean Baker might yet grow up to become Marilyn Monroe. Time has a way of tossing those kind of curve balls at epigrammatists who get too sardonic with the material at hand. A bit of obscurity in the prose might be the best way to write off the class schlepp or the one with the face like a washed out bridge, just in case the ensuing decades do produce an unlikely role reversal. Something on the order of, "Aw, ya big lug," which Wallace Beery said to Jackie Coogan in the original version of "The Champ," (or was it to Marie Dressler in "Tugboat Annie?"), might be warmly evasive enough for the class Incredible Hulk or whoever was voted most likely to go through life on the wrist of a corrections offi-

For the class ogre, who may yet turn out to be a beauty or a brain, despite the evident odds, it is best to find some obscure passage in literature that can in no way be misconstrued as affection or insult, especially if the old man owns the local bank or has a controlling hand on the summer job market. There is a line in Vladimir Nabokov's "Ada" (not "Lolita" which some bluenoses might consider inappropriate for yearbook sentiments) that seems to say more than it says without actually saying anything, which is as close to poetry as one ought to get in writing for the ages in a book that might someday be held against you:

"Let us not squander the tumescence of retrieved time on the gush of small talk.

I wish someone had written that in my college yearbook instead of the drearily materialistic: "As you wander through life, broth-Whatever be your goal, Keep your eye upon the donut And not upon the hole.'

But there was one divine womanchild of russet hair and enormous purple eyes who penned besides my graduation photo lines that I thought at the time were the most exquisite ever devised by mortal invention:

"Remember the river, Remember the brook, Remember the girl Who wrote in this book."

Those words went off to summer camp with me that year, locked in my footlocker along with my scout knife and insect repellant, and they might have been engraved in my heart forever had I not learned that she wrote the very same lines in every other boy's book in the class. Not only that, but closer inspection of my own yearbook revealed that at least four other girls had defied the law of probability and thought up the same poem.

Class yearbooks hadn't been invented when William Wordsworth went to St. John's College in Cambridge, which didn't prevent him from writing the lines that I remember most in mine:

"Bliss it was in that dawn to be

But to be young was very heav-

Unfortunately the person who inscribed this to me was a faculty member — chemistry, no less — and he gave me a "D," which shows how unpredictable this sort of commitment in poetry to posterity can be.

Looking through my own high school yearbook now, coming face to face with the friends of those thousand lovely yesterdays, I wish I had written next to all their pictures the verse from Yeats that Jim Smith, an AP colleague in Boston, quoted in response to a testimonial: "Tell where one's glory begins and ends, And say: My glory is I have such

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Cataract patients have alternatives

Dear Dr. Solomon: I recall when my father had an operation for cataracts about 20 years ago, he wound up wearing very thick glasses. At 57 years of age I am developing cataracts in both eyes and will soon be needing surgery. Are those heavy glasses still necessary? The thought of having to wear them troubles me more than the operation itself.—Ella

Dear Ella: A patient who undergoes cataract surgery today may have as many as three choices. Many patients continue to be fitted with the thick cataract glasses to which you refer. Aside from appearance, they have other drawbacks. They provide clear vision only through the center of the lens; they make objects appear about 30 percent larger than they actually are; and they may require frequent adjustments. In addition, some patients have difficulty adjusting to the distortion caused by the heavy lenses. And finally, cataract glasses are of limited value to patients who have had a cataract removed from only one eye.

replacement is with a contact lens. These provide for more natural vision than the cataract glasses, but are more difficult to handle. You are probably aware of stories of lenses being dropped, misplaced, and lost; and older patients, in particular, often have trouble handling them.

The third and newest form of replacement is the intraocular lens, or lens implant, which is placed inside the eye in almost the same position previously occupied by the natural lens. If this method is appropriate, the patient may have almost normal vision without the need to clean or handle a lens of any kind.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Several months ago my doctor prescribed pills to help control my high blood pressure. Since then, my sex life has been going in one direction-down. Is this just a coincidence? I hate to think I'm over the hill sexually at 45.-Ed

Dear Ed: First of all, 45 is not over the hill sexually. Neither is 55, 65, 75 or even 85. In fact, sexual activity in healthy persons can continue virtually throughout their lives. Secondly, some antihypertensive drugs can cause impotence in someand I emphasize "some"-men, although why this is so is not clear Whether the drug you are taking is having this effect on you is something you should discuss with your

Hike plea disappoints

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Disappointment along with understanding of the problem were expressed today by city officials over a revenue increase request filed Thursday by Texas Electric Service Co.

"I'm disappointed they're back so soon," said Mayor Pro-Tem Doris Howbert. "It seems like we just got through with it (the last rate hike request). The last one was applied for this time last year."

This is the third consecutive year TESCO has filed for a rate hike. Thusday's request is for a 16.1 percent increase in revenues.

In June 1977, TESCO asked for a 26.3 percent rate hike and got a 13.2 percent increase. Then, in May 1978, the company filed for a 24.4 percent hike and was granted an 8.4 percent increase in October. According to Fred Poe, assistant city manager, the increase requested in 1978 did not become effective until almost January of this year. And the 16.1 percent revenue request figure does not translate, as one might suppose, to a same-amount rate hike for Midlanders, said Poe. For residents, it will mean about an 18 percent in rates, along with any increase in fuel costs. Added together, the hike, if granted, could amount to as much as a 25 percent increase in rates, he said.

"I was surprised this (revenue increase request) came so soon," Poe said. "I was hoping it would be late this fall before they filed again."

As in the past, said Poe, cities served by TESCO likely will form a committee to study the request and submit a recommendation. Also, the city councils affected probably will pass resolutions to delay the effective date of the rate hike for 120 days to give the committee time to conduct a study.

Meanwhile, the cities may choose to "intervene" Public Utility Commission on rural electric rates, added.

Poe said the PUC has ordered there will be no difference between rural and city electric rates. Since the PUC sets rural rates, if the rate designated by the cities is not the same, the PUC usually changes it so it will be equal, Poe explained. assistant city manager, who was on the committee rates," Poe said.

The city councils approved the committee's recommendation of 6.7 percent, but the PUC upped the figure to the 8.4 percent it had set for rural users.

The interval between the filing of such a request and it becoming effective generally has been long 1978. and filled with hearings, Poe recalled. But Poe said if the city automatically accepted the rates, it would lose its right to appeal.

"They're (TESCO) coming back every year now and we'll see it until they get through with their construction program," Poe said.

Mrs. Howbert said she can see a need for their vearly request

"I'm aware of the problems they have (with construction and inflation). But, it's difficult for people to understand. I don't know what the solution she said. "I don't know whether a smaller increase every year is the way to do it or one larger one to last a few years.'

Poe voiced the need for a procedure in which TESCO would not have to file annually.

He suggested one method might be to look at construction costs for the previous year and then grant a rate increase based on that. 'We could give so much of an (rate) increase per

$1 million of construction work," Poe said, adding that New Mexico and Arizona have worked out "something along these lines."

By 1984, when the primary TESCO construction program is expected to be completed, Poe said he expects TESCO will not have to ask for rate increases every year.

For now, though, he said he is opposed to giving the electric company the entire increase it wants. "We would be paying them this year for something they don't need until next year," he said. Concerning 1979, the electric rate increase could in a hearing which may be held before the state mean a hike in water rates for the users, Poe

> The proposed revenue increase request calls for a 35 to 40 percent increase in water pumping rates, according to Poe. The city also has been notified the Colorado River Municipal Water District is upping its rates from 40 cents to 48 cents per thousand gallons.

"We're going to have to take our pencils to our next Last year was an example of that, according to the year's budget, and it may mean an increase in water

gets sentence

WASHINGTON (AP) Another Washington contractor has been sentenced by a federal judge to three years' probation and a $5,000 fine for paying kickbacks to General Services Administration employees.

U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch imposed the same penalty Thursday on Carmen O'Connor as he handed down last week to contractor David Harold Smith of Adelphi, Md. Gasch also told the contractors to perform 200 hours of community service as part of their sentences. Miss O'Connor and Smith had each pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy to defraud the government. Both cooperated in the continuing investigation of contractor kickbacks to GSA officials, prosecutor William S. Block said. They were the first of nine persons - six contractors and three GSA employees - to be sentenced in Washington for roles in the scandals. Both faced a maximum sentence of five years in jail and a $10,000 fine. Block said the six contractors have admitted receiving $9 million in GSA contracts and obtaining $2.5 million of that money in fraudulent schemes. The three GSA employees have admitted receiving at least $115,000 in kickbacks and gifts from contractors. The penalties imposed by Gasch contrast with Baltimore federal court proceedings where 25 of the 26 persons sentenced in connection with GSA kickback schemes went to jail.

Miss O'Connor, 39, vice president of Levcon Construction Co. Inc., admitted obtaining $1 million illegally through her contracts with the GSA to paint government buildings. Most of the $1 million was kicked back to at least a dozen GSA employees in the form of cash and gifts from Jan. 1, 1974, to Dec. 31, 1977, Block said.
