Herman the Gator turns up in the most unlikely place

Alligators in West Texas?

Unlikely as it seems, E. N. Becket, 804 Palomino St. in Saddle Club North, found one of the aquatic reptiles sunbathing in his front yard Wednesday

Herman, as the gator has been dubbed by 8-yearold Chris Becket, is only a foot long and unable to tackle any sizeable prey.

The gater showed up just after recent rains, but where he came from is anybody's guess, Becket

It doesn't seem to matter now though, since Herman seems quite content making an occasional barking sound or hissing while swimming in the family's built-in fish pond.

But next time it rains, Midlanders might want to watch their bare-footed steps.

Carter approves full development of new, mobile MX missile system

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter has approved full-scale development of a big new mobile MX intercontinental ballistic missile designed to elude any Soviet surprise attack, the administration announced today.

Deputy White House press secretary Rex Granum made the announcement, in response to a reporter's question, a week before Carter travels to Vienna to sign the new SALT II nuclear arms control agreement with the Soviet Union.

Granum said a decision on how the new missiles would be based, which would involve both "mobility and shelters," would be made "over the summer months.'

The Carter spokesman said the president "will be prepared to discuss his decision" at Vienna with Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev. But he emphasized Carter would not consider changing his mind because of anything said at the summit. Granum said the decision would add to global stability because Carter 'doesn't believe we can have serious discussions with the Russians if they have any advantage in the arms

The White House spokesman said the new missile would be a match for anything the Russians can deploy.

And, he said, the ultimate extent of deployment of American MX missiles could be tailored to any further arms control moves as a result of planned SALT III negotiations.

Other administration sources, who declined to be identified, said Carter had decided to base the new 190,000pound MX missile in what was called a "mobile land system" involving a pattern of some 200 missiles scattered among an estimated 8,000 to 9,000 shelters or "hardened" launch

They said Carter was not prepared to announce the precise basing mode, which has been the subject of intense debate within the administration, the deployment plan with officials in four Western states, where the missiles would be spread over government-owned land in sparsely settled

According to sources, the system now contemplated would be deployed on Defense Department-owned land in New Mexico and Arizona but also would require additional land in Utah and Nevada now under control of the federal Bureau of Land Manage-

Carter apparently wants to touch base with state governors before announcing the plan in hopes of heading off local opposition. The sources said the consensus called for a "hardened horizontal shelter" system in which the missiles, each armed with 10 nuclear warheads, would be deployed on tracks by which they could be moved from one launch point to another in less than 30 minutes if necessary to avoid an impending Soviet strike.

Prices of some food may actually decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers buffeted by rising costs may finally be getting a break with one key drain on the pocketbook - the grocery store.

Two government departments had encouraging news Thursday. The Agriculture Department said soaring retail meat prices are finally leveling off and should actually decline in coming months. Labor officials say wholesale food prices already are dropping.

About 2 billion pounds more pork, chicken and turkey on the market as a substitute for almost 1 billion pounds less beef than a year ago should bring the slight decline in retail meat prices, the Agriculture Department

Consumers with relatively smaller amounts of cash to spend also should dampen food-store price hikes through the rest of the year, the department said.

The Labor Department reported that last month's decline in wholesale food prices was the biggest in more than three years. The monthly report said food prices declined 1.3 percent in May, led by a 6.9 percent decline in the price of beef and year.

Prices paid to cattle producers have been dropping in recent months as shoppers have found greater supplies of pork and poultry available and have chosen to substitute them for beef on the dinner table, Agriculture Department specialists say.

The wholesale decline is "bound to have some effect at the retail level," said John Early, chief of the Labor Department's division of industrial prices.

And President Carter, speaking at a labor union convention Thursday, had an upbeat forecast about inflation in general: "It can be controlled if we are determined, patient, persistent and fiscally responsible," he said

The Agriculture Department's report on meat prices noted that a "slowing in the rate of growth in consumers" disposable income will moderate retail prices during the second half of 1979.

It said "retail beef prices (should) slow their rate of increase during the third quarter ... and decline season-

Nonetheless, charts accompanying the report showed that department economists expect consumers to buy more meat between now and December than they have in the last three years.

The department maintains that "high demand" because of rising personal incomes is partly responsible for soaring meat prices.

Protesters hog spotlight nuclear waste hearing

By RICHARD MASON Staff Writer

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. - Officials representing several federal agencies Thursday fought to keep a public hearing on the draft environmental impact statement for a proposed nuclear waste facility-in southeastern New Mexico from degenerating into a political forum on the pros and cons of nuclear energy

By nightfall, they were unsuccess-

The hearings, which were to continue through today in Albuquerque, were organized to seek public input into the environmental statement on the nuclear waste experiment, tabbed the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant.

Not all comment was confined to the speaker's podium Thursday.

Both pro- and anti-nuclear advocates picketed outside Albuquerque's Convention Center, site of the hearings nents staged a counter-hearing, contending the Department of Energy was trying to prevent public comment by rushing the hearings. Following the counter-hearing, opponents to the WIPP project filled the DOE hearing room - occasionally chanting, sometimes singing, usually applauding and frequently interrupt ing speakers.

Tempers flared repeatedly as the hearings dragged on into the evening, and pro- and anti-WIPP spectators occasionaly became involved in shouting matches,

At one point, about 15 spectators, most wearing Stop WIPP buttons, walked out, contending the hearings were rigged by the DOE. Anti-WIPP spectators began arriving during the afternoon session. By nightfall, the audience of 350 was predominantly anti-WIPP oriented. During the Thursday morning session, however, several pro-WIPP speakers presented comments on behalf of the project. On Thursday morning, representatives from two Texas governmental agencies spoke during the first ses-David Priester, an assistant attorney general for the state of Texas, told the 150 in attendance that Texas was interested in the waste facility because of the probability that radioactive material would be transported through the state.

Priester said later that Texas Atty. Gen. Mark White wanted to reserve comment on the waste facility until public hearings are held in West

Priester said White had received tentative confirmation" from Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger for a public hearing in mid-July or sometime in August in the West Texas

According to the attorney, the state is seeking to have the hearing held in

Meanwhile, John Gordon, an engineer with the Texas Energy Advisory Council, an intergovernmental agency organized to define Texas' interests in energy matters, told the audience that current U.S. Department of Transportation regulations were sufficient to cover transportation of highly radioactive materials through the state to the WIPP site. The DOE proposes to locate the facility 25 miles southeast of Carlsbad, N.M. Midland and Odessa are on the rail transportation route for any nuclear waste originating from the East

Gordon said a TEAC committee has endorsed construction of the WIPP site, asking only that the federal government notify the Texas Department of Health when and if shipments occur in the state.

Under questioning from Dr. John Cumberland, a member of the hearing panel, Gordon suggested that indemnities in the case of accidents be paid for on a pro rata basis by those agencies using the WIPP site.

Several anti-nuclear, anti-WIPP audience members questioned connections between pro-WIPP proponents and the nuclear industry, prompting panel member Dr. Irwin Remson to remark that the hearings "should not be a political arena for debates on nuclear energy.

"This is a forum for public input on the environmental statement," Rem-

Magnatex Corp. may be able to clear a final hurdle in the way of its proposed shopping center and housing development in early July.

That possibility arose Thursday when the Midland City Council approved a zone change and preliminary plat.

The council met in City Hall for a regular session, moved up from Tuesday of next week because of council members' vacations

The zone change request was from single family district to Planned District on 57.398 acres on the southeastern corner of FM 868 and Midkiff Road. The shopping center will take 43.3 acres with housing to be on 14.1

Changes were recommended by the Planning and Community Development Director Richard Hennessy on various details. Joe Nuessle, city attorney, commented that, "I think we've got the thing (plan) in pretty good shape. It's something we (city) can enforce.

A second reading on the zone change will be on the council's June 19 agenda. The plat will be submitted in a final form to the Planning and Zoning Commission in the last step, and Hennessy said the earliest it could be considered is at that panel's July 2 session.

If that is approved, Magnatex canbegin actual work on the development, Hennessy said.

In other action Thursday, council members voted to suspend Texas Electric Service Co.'s 16.1 percent proposed revenue increase 120 days in order to study the request.

TESCO has asked for the rate increase to become effective June 21. Earlier this week, hearings on the (See CITY COUNCIL, Page 2A)

Midland man charged with assault

An 18-year-old Midland man remained in Midland City Jail today after being charged with aggravated assault in connection with an incident early Thursday morning.

Peter Daniel Virgil remained jailed in lieu of $15,000 bond set by Peace Justice Robert Pine.

Another man has been charged in connection with the incident, according to police, but is not in custody at this time.

Frank Piccolo, 18, 4815 W. Storey Ave., told police Thursday he had just gotten off work at Furr's Cafeteria at Midkiff Road and Cuthbert Street about 1:20 a.m. when he was assaulted by five men. Piccolo said he fell to the ground when the men began hitting him. He said he then pulled a knife and began fighting back. Police arrived and took Piccolo to the emergency room at Midland Memorial Hospital. There, he saw the five men who allegedly assaulted him and pointed them out to police. Two of the five alleged assailants were treated for superficial knife wounds, according to police. Piccolo was treated and released.

Truckers seek organized shutdown

By The Associated Press

Independent truckers who blocked highways in more than a dozen states to protest rising diesel fuel prices want to organize their scattered groups for a nationwide effort to be sure Washington takes them serious-

Demonstrations, including some that began Wednesday, choked highways Thursday from Florida to Oregon, where organizer Dave Crandall said "the whole West Coast" would be shut down by the weekend.

No incidents of violence were reported. In most cases, a threatened court order or an appearance by police and tow trucks was enough to send the truckers on their way.

The shutdowns by owner-opera have not been sanctioned by the Independent Truckers Association, but there were indications that could change.

In Los Angeles today, the ITA planned to show off a communication center that would enable it to coordinate strike efforts nationwide.

"Basically, people are in a holding pattern," said ITA spokesman Mike Parkhurst. "The pressure's been building up so we've had to re-activate our national communications center ... There are a few guys that are straining at the bit and want to kick up a little dust.'

Parkhurst said the ITA, while not planning a strike, will determine if one is necessary "so we can then formulate our position over the week-

The independents, who pay for their contracts to haul freight, are upset by rapidly rising diesel fuel prices. Many say they can no longer meet truck mortgage payments. They also want the 55 mph speed limit lifted, so they can travel faster, and make more trips and money. Among the larger demonstrations Thursday:

-A convoy of trucks crawled through Seattle's rush hour traffic, creating a mile-long traffic jam.

-Several Utah motorists found themselves fixing flat tires after somebody scattered roofing nails on four major highways. -Six truck drivers were arrested for trespassing in Milford, Conn., after they parked their rigs in front of diesel pumps at a truck stop and locked them. -About 300 big rigs blocked the

Indiana Toll Road near Gary after officials put a 25-gallon limit on diesel fuel purchases. Police diverted traffic around the blockade and no arrests were made -An estimated 100 truckers shut down most of the fuel stops in the central part of North Dakota. However, organizer Don Hausaur said they need help.

"We need cattle and produce haulers," he said. "When we get people hungry, they'll finally realize we're not kidding and start calling congressmen and senators.

Meanwhile, in Minnesota, where truckers claim commercial hauling is off by 50 percent, food industry officials said delivery shortages could begin by Monday, if the shutdown continues

Other incidents were reported Thursday in Missouri, Iowa, Wyoming, Montana, Oregon and Colo

NASA preparing team of Skylab lawyers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Skylab space station's plunge back to earth, now expected between July 4 and July 28, has prompted U.S. officials to prepare plans for sending lawyers to any spot on the planet where debris from the space craft might cause injury, damage or death.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has calculated the odds at 152-to-1 against a falling piece of Skylab harming human life anywhere in the world. The agency says the odds go up to 600 billion-to-1. on a particular individual being hurt when the 77-ton space station tumbles out of orbit and crashes to earth.

However, the agency does "want to be prepared in case any claims are filed," said Richard G. Smith, who heads the NASA Skylab re-entry task

The North American Air Defense Command (NORAD), which is following the orbit of the satellite from its command center in Colorado Springs, Colo., predicted Thursday in its weekly Skylab report there is a 95 percent probability the station will fall to earth between July 4 and July 28. NORAD added there is a 50-50 chance it will come down by July 16. It was the second successive week

NORAD has added a week to Skylab's expected life. Last week it predicted re-entry between June 28 and July

If Skylab does cause harm, foreign claimants will have an easier time recovering losses than those living in the United States.

Under a 1972 treaty, the United States is liable to citizens of foreign countries for any damage caused by U.S. space vehicles. Fifty-two nations signed the treaty.

U.S. citizens though, must file their claims under the Federal Tort Claims Act, which requires a showing of neg-

However, a 1958 law, and NASA contingency plans, provide for the government to pay U.S. space vehicle claims up to $5,000.

Claims exceeding $5,000 would require congressional action for a nofault recovery, Smith said.

He said lawyers from NASA and the State and Justice Departments will be ready the day Skylab falls and will go to any country which requests their aid through various U.S. embassies. Smith added that includes countries which did not sign the 1972 treaty or do not have diplomatic relations with the United States.

his worst punishment. "(This case) has caused more of an uproar than a crime against a human," Judge Robert Tredinnick said Thursday as he sentenced Robert Lockhoff of Norristown for stealing the carcass of the buck.

Lockhoff, 21, told investigatrs he had been unsuccessful at hunting and, after consuming more than a pint of rum sneaked into the zoo and fired more than five times at the deer in their outdoor pen.

Lockhoff said he removed the buck, butchered it and parceled it out among friends, according to court records. He said he didn't know he shot the doe, which died a few days later.

"People today may in some ways accept cruelty to our kind," said Tredinnick, "But they feel it is particularly dastardly to take the life of an animal.

The incident occurred on Nev. 29, the day after a newspaper had published a photograph of the two animals and a caption saying that the animals would be safe during deer hunting sea-

Lockhoff has received harassing telephone calls and death threats mailed to his home since his arrest and guilty plea. The judge also castigated Lockhoff for violating the hunter's code and ordered him to pay a $100 fine, in addition to contributing $300 to the zoo. Since the incident, two more completed a delicate 16-hour operation today to restore life to the severed right hand of a talented teenage musician who was pushed under a subway train amid a horrified crowd of rush-hour commuters.

Jane Ash, night administrator of Bellevue Hospital, said the operation ended at 2:30 a.m. She said the patient, 17-year-old Renee Katz, was awake and conscious at 6 a.m. and asked to see her parents.

Miss Ash said the girl told physicians she could not feel her hand yet, but the doctors who worked on the "microsurgery-implantation team" were optimistic the hand would regain some function.

The administrator quoted the surgeons as saying Miss Katz will eventually be able to move her fingers, but

She said the nurses on the case worked in shifts but the same surgical team led by Drs. William Shaw and Daniel Baker stayed on the job until the end. Earlier, doctors had reported that the hand was reattached and was live with blood supply.

Miss Katz, a flutist and pianist with near perfect grades, was to graduate in two weeks from the city's prestigious High School of Music and Art in Harlem. She was on her way to the school and was waiting for a train at a youth shoved her from behind, police

She fell to the tracks just as a train pulled into the station, and it struck her at a speed of 20 miles an hour, officals said.

It was the latest of several such incidents in the city. Authorities said they were looking for the youth, who fled after pushing Miss Katz.

Motorman Justo Barreiro said he leaped from his cab, ran to where Miss Katz was pinned under the second car of the train, and tried to "calm her down,"

'She was screaming, 'Mother, Mother, I've got to go to college," "the motorman said.

Her brother Robert said the girl, described as a "brilliant student" by officials of her high school, had been at Tufts University in Medford, Mass:, and the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston next fall.

Barreiro said the girl "didn't jump, she didn't slip; she was maliciously 'He pushed her from behind," he said. "She didn't see it coming. She was just standing there on the southbound platform.

"I was glad when I heard her screaming," the motorman added. "I knew she was alive.

On April 21, 1977, a car swerved to avoid a group of youngsters on a Vero Beach, Fla., street and smashed into Sybelle, leaving her in a coma. She recovered, but still carried a tube that had been inserted into her trachea to help her breathe.

Her parents moved to Miami in March 1978, where the father went to work for an exporting firm. Mrs. Da-Silva took Sybelle to Dade County's Jackson Memorial Hospital soon after they arrived to have the tube removed. By then, the girl seemed fully recovered, said Pat Ford, the parents' attorney.

Dr. A.J. Maniglia, who operated on Sybelle at the hospital, said she was discharged after a preliminary phase of the tube removal procedure was completed. The

Plague kills · man from New Mexico

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) - A 19-year-old Las Vegas, N.M., man who had contracted pneumonic plague - the only form of plague transmissible from human to human has died, health officials say.

The state's chief health officer, Dr. Jonathan Mann, said the victim contracted the illness Tuesday. He died at an Albuquerque hospital.

Mann said state health officials have identified about 70 persons who had come in contact with the man since Tuesday, and all have been placed under medical surveillance.

"We will be maintaining strict surveillance of all his contacts for the next seven days," Mann said. "We are assuring ourselves they are healthy, and in some cases administering preventative medicine and observing all of them for one week."

The state Environmental Improvement Division was investigating to determine the source of the plague.

Decline in power

Recent news from Turkey demonstrates: (a) The relative decline in American power in the world, and (b) the continuing havoc wrought in the Turkish-American relations by the illadvised arms embargo imposed against Ankara by Congress in 1975.

The Turks, once unshakable allies, now feel obliged to seek Soviet approval before permitting U.S. reconnaissance planes to use Turkish airspace in electronic monitoring of Moscow's compliance with the prospective SALT II treaty.

The Soviets, evidently oblivious to the spirit of detente and of arms-control agreements, have suggested that their answer may be "nyet."

There was a time when Turkey felt sufficiently shielded by the United States against the expansionist designs of the Soviet Union to reject any accommodation with the Russians. Thus bolstered, Turkey served its own and American interests by standing firm on NATO's southern flank.

That was before events in South Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, Taiwan, South Korea, Iran and elsewhere called into question the worth of American guarantees.

Congress, spurred by the socalled Greek lobby, effected a big jump in Turkey's nervousness with the infamous arms embargo enacted after the Turkish intervention in Cyprus.

Now Turkey hedges its bets. That the Turks do so even after President Carter succeeded in persuading Congress to lift the embargo and provide new economic and military assistance only underscores the exent of the original damage.

As for the Soviets, their characteristic harshness threatens to undermine chances for Senate ratification of the SALT II treaty. But then Moscow may be less interested in ratification now that President Carter has pledged to observe the treaty even if the Senate rejects it.

Meanwhile, Ankara may be forgiven its doubts about America's will and wisdom.

The United Nations Commission on Human Rights lost much of its credibility and effectiveness when Third World nations succeeded in politicizing its activities.

It is hoped the same fate does not befall one of the most valuable agencies under U.N. auspices, the World Health Organization (WHO).

The hard-line Arab states are trying to use the health organization as a weapon in their vendetta against Israel and Egypt, who have dared to make peace. The Arabs are demanding that Israel be stripped of its voting rights in the agency, and that a regional office of the health organization in Egypt be moved elsewhere.

The resolution against Israel advances the preposterous claim that Israeli occupation since 1967 has "gravely affected" the health of Arabs living on the West Bank and in Gaza. The health organization's own investigators, however, have amassed data showing that public sanitation, control of infectious diseases and child care have improved in the occupied territories. The number of doctors and nurses has increased. Where health is concerned, the occupied territories never had it so good.

The United States is in a position to help save the World Health Organization from the plunge into fantasy which the Arab "rejectionists" have in mind. The U.S. delegation has served notice that if the Third World bloc goes along with the anti-Israel, anti-Egypt policy and injects Middle Eastern politics into the health agency's administration, the United States will withdraw from the agency. This is as it should be.

This is strong medicine, inasmuch as the World Health Organization would not amount to much without the participation and financial support of the United States.

But an agency representing 151 nations has to make up its mind whether it is going to fight illness and disease or become the political tool of a few members fighting a political battle in the Middle East.

Who says parents cannot control their children?

By CHARLEY REESE Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. — The United States of America is surely the only nation on earth which readily admits that it cannot control the behavior of the children in the public school system.

A great deal has been written about this and even the Congress has "studied" the problem and viewed with alarm crimes committed against teachers. In my own community recently, a high school principal called on the police department to clean out the pot smokers on the campus.

You know something? This is crazy. Are we actually ready to concede that we adults cannot control our children? My God, we're bigger than they are. There isn't a fly-infested, backwater pseudo-nation on the earth that doesn't make the children behave themselves while they sit in what classrooms exist.

There are many things a public school system cannot do. It cannot change the culture in which it operates. It cannot do anything about irresponsible parents. It cannot stop the international drug traffic.

But it could, if school administrators and school board members had the nerve, control the behavior of children on the campus.

And administrators and school boards must bear the blame. You can't expect a classroom teacher to control her pupils if the administration will not back her up.

There are a number of reasons besides simple cowardice for many administrators and school boards opting to play the ostrich and presenting the spectacle of their tail feathers blowing in the wind.

One contributing factor is compulsory attendance laws. They should be another there is no reason for a school system to be stuck with an incorrigible delinquent because the law mandates his presence and not his education.

his education.

Another contributing factor is the body count financing schemes so widely used. This gives an educational bureaucrat a financial incentive to keep the troublemakers enroll-

It is always the easiest course to avoid controversy and the easy way to do that is to bottle the problem up in the classroom and keep it out of the administrator's office and off the school board agenda.

There are plenty of pressure groups. Some irresponsible black leaders scream discrimination every time a black student is suspended. Well, it's time white liberals quit flinching every time a black brother cries discrimination.

cries discrimination.

It's a simple matter to see that rules are fairly applied without regard to race and if they are and more blacks than whites are getting in trouble, then it's time to force black parents to face the fact that they got a problem with their children, not with the school system.

It is not kind or loving to allow a child to destroy his chance for a decent life just because you're afraid to offend him. In fact, the best evidence of a non-racist attitude are the expectation and demand that all children meet the same standard of behavior.

The American Civil Liberties Union is another outfit which has contributed to the problem by going into court and agitating in the name of students' rights. The effects of the ACLU's actions has been to weaken the authority of the school system and to complicate the disciplinary process.

The ACLU is one of the most misguided and befuddled organizations in America and anybody who contributes a penny to its support ought to have his IQ checked.

For an organization with such good intentions, it has caused more harm than a runaway 18-wheeler in Times Square on New Year's Eve.

Finally there are parents. Some parents don't give a hoot about their children. Some parents view the school systems as a taxpayer-provided baby-sitting service. Some parents automatically side with their kids in any dispute and some parents not only don't teach good behavoir at home, but, on the contrary, teach bad behavior.

Well, it's time the school system saddled the parents with those kids whose presence disrupts the classroom. Send them home with notes which say, "Either shape your kid up or you live with him; we can't."

Yes, schools have all kinds of problems, but one problem that is clearly capable of being solved is maintaining discipline on the campus and in the school room. We must demand it. It's embarrassing to be the only nation in the world intimidated by its own children.

INSIDE REPORT:

President strikes back at Transportation secretary

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Stung by criticism of his well-known leniency, President Carter gave a sharp back-of-hishand to Transportation Secretary Brock Adams in full view of his entire cabinet and top White House staff May 21.

Adams affronted Carter and undercut his beleaguered oil decontrol decision, under heavy attack from liberal Democrats, by publicly debunking the effect of decontrol on new oil production. It is not news that Carter was angry; but that he showed his anger on May 21 and let his entire cabinet share in it was very much news and might conceivably mean the president is finally deciding to change his nice-guy image.

Carter raised the matter at the outset of the cabinet session, calmly but emphatically expressing concern and pain that one of his top aides would publicly dispute him. He ordered Adams to send him a transcript of his May 19 remark knocking decontrol.

Then, looking squarely at Adams, Carter said it "does not help" when a cabinet member or anyone else in the administration publicly disputes a presidential decision. When I make a decision, Carter said in effect, I want it to stick! He implied, but did not quite say, that if Adams or some other cabinet member feels constrained to take an anti-Carter position, he should first resign.

Such talk does not comport with Carter's original promise of an "open" administration, but that concept long ago died a natural death. The president's new hard line on critics within his official family pleased almost everyone inside the White House and most officials outside.

Evans - Novak
A footnote: Adams replied that he had been misunderstood by the press and that in fact his own feeling about decontrol was not all that different

CONNALLY BUTTONS

The latest evidence of John B. Connally's popularity in the corporate boardrooms of America came in a private poll taken by 10 top corporate executives at the Agusta National Golf Club, an exclusive hangout of business and industrial moguls. After agreeing to keep their names confidential, seven of the 10 executives including Robert Baldwin, chief executive officer of Morgan Stanley, the big New York banking house, and George Love, former president of Consolidation Coal Co., one of the nation's biggest - wrote Connally's name on a piece of paper as their first choice for president next year.

A few weeks later, 22 corporate executives at an economic conference in the famed Homestead Hotel at Hot Springs, Va., took a similar not-for-attribution poll. Connally got 19 votes — but not that of Melvin Laird, the former secretary of defense under Gerald Ford, who was present, but has never been a corporate execu-

CARTER VERSUS THATCHER

Although Zimbabwe-Rhodesia looks like the center of greatest controversy between the Carter administration and the new Conservative government of British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, the Middle East—and particularly Israel—is a strong contender for that honor.

The difference is that although Mrs. Thatcher has not tried to camouflage her much softer line on Zimbabwe-Rhodesia than existed in the Labor government she displaced, she has not yet revealed her hard line on Israel

The Conservative government has quietly notified the White House that Britain will push much harder for Israeli concessions on the West Bank than Carter or the Labor government have done. A hint of what is expected was found in the May 12 issue of the conservative and highly respected British journal, the Economist, with Sadat on the cover. The lead article in the magazine was unusually tough criticism of Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin.

What makes this somewhat surprising is that Israel's hard-line position against returning territories to Syria and Jordan has generally had more support from Conservatives than Laborites, and from the conservative press than more liberal newspapers.

If Mrs. Thatcher's insistence that Israel be more forthcoming goes as far as top U.S. officials say it will, the U.S. could find itself isolated from western Europe in pushing the Israeli-Egyptian treaty while England and France press for a comprehensive Arab-Israeli agreement. ZBIG'S LOSS, JOHN'S GAIN

When National Security Council (NSC) Director Zbigniew Brzezinski offered long-time NSC staff aide Sam Hoskinson an important promotion, Hoskinson asked for time to think it over. When he returned to his boss with a negative response, the reply astonished Brzezinski: Hoskinson has signed up as top research director for Republican presidential contender John B. Connally.

That dramatic job switch by the 41-year-old native Midwesterner resulted from his work as an occasional adviser to Connally during his trips around the world as scretary of treasury for Richard Nixon. Hoskinson liked what he saw then, and apparently Connally did too.

Probers study DC-10s

WASHINGTON (AP) - With the U.S. fleet of DC-10s grounded indefinitely, investigators are studying the plane's design in hopes of learning why an engine fell off one in Chicago last month and why cracks keep appearing in the engine mounting pylons of others.

Federal Aviation Administration inspectors concentrated their efforts at the McDonnell Douglas Corp. plant in Long Beach, Calif., where the DC-10 is manufactured. They are studying closely the documents used in the process that led to certification of the DC-10 as airworthy in 1971.

Langhorne M. Bond, the FAA chief, has said the agency wants to learn if a design defect might have slipped through the process.

Meanwhile, National Transportation Safety Board specialists also worked on the investigation in Long Beach, Washington, Tulsa, Okla., and in Texas.

'We're trying to find out what happened, what is causing the cracks in the engine mounts, was something overlooked in the certification process, is there a basic flaw in the system?" said Fred Farrar, an FAA spokesman. "It's arduous work."

In Washington Thursday, U.S. District Judge Aubrey E. Robinson Jr. extended from June 11 to June 15 his order that U.S.-registered DC-10s be grounded until the cause of the Chicago crash has been found and correct-

The planes cannot fly while the restraining order is in effect, regardless of FAA action. The Airline Passengers Association, a consumer organization, filed the original suit to ground the planes. Also Thursday, Western Air Lines, Northwest Airlines and World Ailways filed motions to intervene in the grounding case, saying they will seek to win permission for their DC-10s to resume flying because the cracks found in other planes have not appeared in their fleets.

Bond said DC-10s will remain on the ground "until the problem is found, analyzed and cured." He said that would take at least a week, and perhaps several weeks or months if a major redesign is required.

Bond suspended the certificate of the DC-10 Wednesday, saying there might be a design defect in the engine mounting assembly.

All 138 DC-10s operated by U.S. airlines are grounded and the FAA crack existed before the accident.

said Thursday toreign carriers that operate the 143 foreign-registered DC-10s have voluntarily taken them out of service.

This is the fourth grounding for the plane since the May 25 crash of an American Airlines DC-10 in Chicago that killed 275 persons in the nation's worst aviation accident. An engine fell off the plane as it was taking off and the aircraft plunged to the ground and burned.

The investigation has centered primarily on the two under-wing engine mounts, or pylons, where cracks have been found.

The pylon that fell off the Chicago plane, taking the engine with it, had a 10-inch crack in its aft bulkhead. Investigators have determined that the

It managed to find another site that Superintendent in the state's central area, Continental Oil Co. reo-John Tynon said is "above where two geological faults meet, so they can't mine there.

In Weston County, near the South Dakota border, twenty-six 100-car Burlington Northern coal trains rumble through the county seat of Newcastle every day, tying up traffic as they haul Wyoming's coal wealth to midwestern power plants. Local officials say the railroad is doing all it can to reduce the impact of the trains.

Wyoming's population is estimated at 459,000, and while that may not seem like a lot, it grew by 9.8 percent last year, state planners say. State legislators fondly call Wyoming the nation's "energy breadbasket," because it is the nation's No. 2 uranium producer, ranks fourth in coal, fifth in oil and seventh in natural gas.

Wyoming's unemployment rate is below 3 percent. the lowest in the nation, and its per capita income of $9,096 is second highest in the nation behind Alaska. Wyoming's mineral industries employ 45,000 persons and miners earn the state's highest average wage at almost $22,000 a year.

WHAT ALL THAT means to Jim Slattery is that an oil well sits 300 feet from his rural home east of Gillette in Campbell County. Slattery, a state brand inspector, said he was not thinking about growth statistics when he moved onto his 80 acres, though he knew the federal government owned the mineral rights under his land.

Davis Oil Co. acquired those rights and last March began drilling an exploration oil and natural gas well on an access road near Slattery's house. Slattery is suing the Denver-based energy company, saying his 10-year-old daughter has a heart condition and is suffering from "fumes and loud and disturbing

Voyager I photos show lo volcanos

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) - New Voyager I photographs of Jupiter's moon Io showing eight volcanos belching out sulfur gas have surprised scientists attending a national geologists convention here.

"It's the most incredible thing ever seen in the space program," an amazed planetary geologist, Donald E. Wilhelms of the U.S. Geological Survey said Thursday. "It's like '2001,' only this is real."

Joseph Boyce, a planetary geologist with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington, D.C., described the progress of the Voyager mission at the 10th Annual Planetary Geologists Principal Investigators meeting at Brown University

Most of the planet and moons in the solar system are cold and inctive, so geologists were thrilled by the turbulent activity on Io, he said. The first photos of the volcanos were sent back to Earth in March.

"It's the most exciting discovery we've ever had in planetary geology," Boyce said. "If you flew over Earth, you'd be lucky if you saw one volcano erupt-

The Voyager I saw eight on the yellow-orange surface of Io, the closet of four moons to Jupiter. "We also have things that look like lava lakes," Boyce said. "This is a crazy place."

What causes the volcanos? Boyce believes the strong gravitational fields of Jupiter and three outer moons are tugging Io in different directions, creating enormous heat and distorting the surface of the

He said tides on Earth are caused by similar gravitational pull from the Earth's moon, but the effect is much less pronounced. Studying lo may give scientists clues about the history of the Earth's moon, Boyce said. The Voyager I, launched Sept. 5, 1977, reached its closest point to Jupiter in March.

Virginia governor making commercial pitch to China

HONG KONG - It was an important moment in U.S. China relations. One of Hong Kong's leading pro-Peking newspapers, The Wen Wei Po, rushed the story onto its

'Just arrived in Peking is John Dalton, governor of the American state of Georgia.

Few who have met the governor of the commonwealth of Virginia, in his determined and well-organized 17-day blitz of the Far East, would make that mistake again. Dalton has brought mountains of material on the potential of Virginia products and Virginia industrial opportunities to Japan and Hong Kong, and Wednesday he climaxed the trip with an unusual two-hour meeting in Peking's Great Hall of the People.

Listening to the governor's detailed sales talk was Yu Qiuli, China's chief economic planner and a member of the ruling politburo of the Chinese Communist Party. Yu is not the sort of man with whom a true son of the Virginia Republican Party like Dalton would be expected to find much in common, but the governor saw it as two planners interested in trade and agriculture discussing how they might help each other.

"We talked about the agricultural commodities that Virginia is in a position to export, the coal we produce in Virginia and we talked about power operations in Virginia and what is going to happen in China in the years to come and what they are going to be needing in assistance," Dalton said in a telephone interview from his Peking hotel.

nor, to Europe last year, but he has evidently pre pared for this trip as if it were a campaign swing through Virginia. Without being asked, he carefully spelled for the benefit of a reporter the name of each Chinese official he had met. He used the complicated new Pinyin spelling system and pronounced the names correctly

At a commune Tuesday, he also had a chance to recall his days as a Virginia cattleman and swap tips with commune director Yu Suiho, who was dressed in the usual Mao suit and cap. The governor eyed a vat of kernelless corn-fodder in the commune cow barns. "We let the feed corn grow until it begins to harden," he said. His host confessed the Chinese peasants had to cut the corn before kernels grew because they needed the land

Dalton is only the second U.S. governor to visit China since the normalization of relations between Peking and Washington on Jan. 1. Jay Hammond of Alaska came earlier in the year, and Ohio Gov. John Rhodes is expected to follow. President Carter, Dalton said, encouraged governors at a recent conference to visit China once during their terms in order to stimulate trade and improve relations.

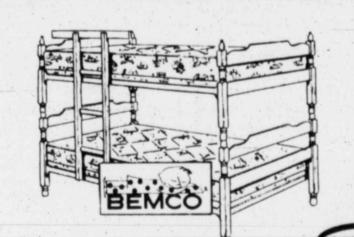

"We decided about four months ago that we were going to go to the Far East," Dalton said. He had told Chinese Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping of his interest in visiting China, when Deng dined with several state governors in Atlanta during his U.S. visit earlier this year. After another chat with Chinese Ambassador Chai Zemin, the

Senators vow sanctions battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators opposing U.S. trade sanctions against Rhodesia vow a "bitter, bloody fight" to end the 14-year old embargo despite President Carter's decision to

The president announced Thursday he believes the sanctions should be retained as a matter of principle on grounds the recent Rhodesian elecions were neither free nor fair and that Rhodesia has not made sufficient progress "toward legitimate majori-

Bishop Abel Muzorewa, Rhodesia's first black prime minister, said today he was shocked and astonished by Carter's decision.

David Mukome, foreign affairs minister, said the U.S. decision was 'designed to please such African states as Nigeria and retain the support of black Americans.

But Carter, saying Rhodesia's constitution retains "extraordinary" powers in the hands of the African nation's tiny white minority, said the United States is determined to do 'what is right, what is decent, what is

Carter said the Rhodesian constitution had been approved only by the country's white minority, that it reserves for whites control of the security forces, courts and civil service, and gives whites a "vastly disproportionate vote" in Parliament that amounts to veto power over significant reforms. The president also noted that political representatives of the opposition Patriotic Front had been excluded from the election campaign.

Carter said a U.S. diplomatic observer will be sent to Rhodesia to report on what progress is being made toward achieving genuine ma-

Carter said he will do all he can to see that his decision is not reversed but acknowleged that his position does not now command majorities in either the Senate or the House.

The first test will come Monday in the Senate where an amendment lifting the trade sanctions has been added to the military procurement

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., said the amendment will be offered to every piece of foreign policy legislation to come before the Senate until it is nailed into law

'I think we have the votes to win in the Senate but its going to be a bloody, bitter fight," Schweiker said.

And he said that the fight likely will continue down to a final struggle to overturn a presidential veto.

'The president has gone back to the original hardest line position this country has ever had on Rhodesia,' Schweiker said. "He ignores the progress that has been made. He sets new conditions that go beyond the requirements set by law. He has left no room for compromise. This is going to lead to a bitter, prolonged and divisive battle between Congress and the White House.

Schweiker was echoed by many other leaders of the fight to lift sanctions including Sens. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., Robert Dole, R-Kns., and S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif.

Carter made his decision under the terms of the 1978 Case-Javits amendment which required him to lift sanctions if he determined that a government had been installed in Rhodesia based on free and fair elections and if a good faith effort had been made to convene and all-parties conference to settle Rhodesia's continuing guerilla

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., a cosponsor of the amendment, said Carter's decision is likely to draw bipartisan support. But he said it is too early to predict whether the president will be overruled or whether he himself will support him.

But the president was not lacking for allies. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., often viewed as a potential presidential rival of Carter, hailed the president for taking a "principled" position Rep. Stephen J. Solarz, D-N.Y.

Prime minister 'shocked'

(AP) - Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa said today he was astonished and shocked by President Carter's decision not to lift sanctions against Zimbabwe Rhodesia, calling it a 'blatant example of political expediency and of double standards" by the self-proclaimed U.S. champion of human rights.

'I am deeply shocked by the decision of President Carter to maintain punitive sanctions against my government and the people of Zimbabwe Rhodesia," Muzorewa told reporters outside his office.

'It would be hard to think of a more blatant example of political expediency and of double standards and it is astonishing that it should come from a president of the United States, who claims to be a champion of human

The U.S.-educated Methodist bishop denounced Carter's statement on Thursday that it would not be in the interests of the government and people of Zimbabwe Rhodesia to lift the 13-year-old trade embargo.

Carter said he believed the sanctions should be retained as a matter of principle on grounds the recent Rhodesian elections were neither free nor fair and that Rhodesia has not made sufficient progress "toward legitimate majority rule. "I wonder in what way it is in the interests of the people of my country to be subjected to sanctions which deny them the right to trade freely, which deny them employment opportunities and which deny them increased educational opportunities,' Muzorewa asked.

The bishop took issue with Carter's criticism that the new constitution for the black-led state was approved by * white voters only. Carter also said the constitution "preserves an extraordinary power for the white minority."

European vote turnout light for parliament

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) - Believers in a united Europe were disheartened today by the light voter turnout at the start of the first direct election of a European Parliament. Observers blamed apathy and voter ignorance for the light turnout in Thursday's balloting in Britain, Ireland, the Netherlands and Denmark. Opinion surveys indicated less than half the voters in Britain and Denmark went to the polls and the turnout in Ireland and the Netherlands was far below that of recent national elections.

Denmark's strong anti-Common Market movement, which is widely expected to win a big share of the country,' 16 allotted Parliament seats, heralded the low turnout as "a powerful demonstration that the European Parliament has no popular backing.

Israel blasts guerrilla bases

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - Israeli warplanes and artillery blasted Palestinian guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon today for the first time in 16 days, the Israeli military said.

First reports from Lebanon said five persons were wounded. In Beirut, Yasser Arafat's Palestinian high command said Israeli jets rained bombs and rockets on the guerrilla controlled town of Nabatiyeh and three adjacent villages 12 to 14 miles north of the Israeli frontier, as well as guerrilla outposts in the wooded hills north of Nabatiyeh.

Witnesses said smoke billowed from the guerrillas bases as ambulances raced from the coastal town of Sidon to pic un casualties Police in Side said five persons had been brought in suffering burns and shrapnel wounds.

A guerrilla-communique said Israeli and Lebanese Christian militiamen followed up the air raids with a massive artillery barrage.

Thais return refugees to Cambodia

ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand (AP) - Thai army officers loaded about 7,000 Cambodian refugees, most of them ethnic Chinese, into buses today and sent them toward the border to be returned to their embattled

An army officer said the refugees would be delivered to a "safe place" inside Cambodia. Western refugee officials said they did not know where the refugees were being taken, but they expected them to be pushed back into Cambodia in a day or two.

The 7,000 fled into Thailand over the past month and were kept in temporary shelters north of this border town. Some of the refugees told reporters they had paid members of the Vietnamese army for permission to

Schmidt warns of Soviet threat

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt says a new generation of Soviet medium-range nuclear missiles threatens the security of Western Europeans and must be countered by NATO.

Schmidt, who addressed Harvard graduates Thursday, said even though the alliance has rejected strategic superiority as a military goal, its members cannot idly watch the Soviets leap ahead.

"Its (NATO's) renunciation of superiority does not mean that it is. prepared to jeopardize its own security through a position of inferiority," Schmidt said at Harvard's 328th commencement

PEKING (AP) - The National People's Congress is expected to meet soon and there are indications it will provide China with its first criminal and commercial legal codes since the Communists took over 30 years

Peking Radio reported that the Congress' Standing Committee met Thursday to prepare for the opening of the 2,885-member parliament. The broadcast gave no date for the opening of the Congress, but it generally follows immediately after the Standing Committee finishes its business.

Iran takes over bank management

TEHRAN, Iran (A) - The revolutionary government today took over the management of all private banks in Iran, the state radio announced. The announcement appeared to stop just short of outright nationalization, according to banking sources here. Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan, in a statement read over Iran Radio, said the government still "believes in private ownership," and said bank deposits will be guaranteed. His statement indicated the government was not taking over the assets of the banks.

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) - Susan Domingo says she didn't recognize the tall black man when he found her crying in a Miami airport. It wasn't until just before he gave her $260 to continue a trip to Trinidad that she realized he was Muhammad Ali.

Miss Domingo, 19, was going to Trinidad as part of a church crusade late last month when she met Ali - just after someone stole her carry-on bag containing her plane fare. Then, a man she thought worked for airline approached her and asked: "What's wrong, why are you crying? It's too early in the morning for

Miss Domingo told him her story and the heavyweight boxing champion peeled off the needed cash from a large roll of bills.

ANDOVER, Mass. (AP) - Sixteen years ago, he was John-John, a toddler at the White House often pictured with his father and surrounded by reporters and photographers.

But on Thursday, at Phillips Academy's graduation ceremonies, it was John F. Kennedy Jr.'s turn to cope with the limelight. However, school officials said young John declined to be interviewed.

'He says he just wants to go through graduation like everyone else," said Helen Eccles, a school spokesman. Kennedy, 18, was one of 358 seniors who graduated from the 201-year-old preparatory school north of Boston. His mother Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis was in the audience, as were CHADDS FORD, Pa. (AP) — Chip Carter mixed praise for Sen. Edward Kennedy with a good-natured warning that the Massachusetts Democrat would not — indeed, had better not — run against his father's bid for re-election. "He's a good guy," Carter said of Kennedy on Thursday. "He voted with us on 18 of 21 pieces of major legislation, but we'd like him to know we will beat him if he runs. Carter said he doubted Kennedy would run against his father, adding,

"He has a lot to lose." He cited Kennedy's recently acquired chairmanship of the Senate Judiciary Committee and the divisions a Kennedy candidacy-would create in the party.

CARBONDALE, Ill. - Rosalynn Carter has asked delegates of the American Baptist Convention to help create "a more caring society." Mrs. Carter spoke by telephone hookup from the White House on hursday to 5,000 delegates attending the campus of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

NEW YORK (AP) — A few days before he was named pope, a computer that analyzed the papal candidates reported that Polish Cardinal Karol Wojtyla was closest in thinking and style to the deceased Italian, Pope John Paul, says a noted Vatican observer.

The Rev. Andrew M. Greeley, a sociologist and prominent Roman Catholic commentator, told reporters Thursday that conclave observers, himself included, discounted the computer's findings, thinking the line of Italian succession would be maintained.

But Wojtyla became Pope John Paul II, taking his name in tribute to his friend and predecessor, Albino Luciani, and becoming the first non-Italian pope in 400 years

Fifty named in Lubbock sealed drug indictments

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Fifty persons have been named in sealed indictments returned by a Lubbock County grand jury for conspiracy in an alleged scheme to distribute millions of dollars worth of smuggled Mexican heroin.

"This is the largest group ever charged at one time under the Texas organized crime statute," said Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford, who announced the indictments Thursday.

Federal grand jurors in Lubbock who have been investigating wide spread cocaine trafficking on the South Plains, returned seven indictments - six of them sealed - but federal authorities declined to specify the charges.

Indictments returned by the county grand jury culminated a 10 month investigation by Federal Drug Enforcement Administration, the attorney general's Office, the Department of Public Safety, the Lubbock County sheriff's office and Lubbock and Slaton police.

"It is hoped this joint effort of law enforcement agencies will have a significant impact on the distribution of narcotics in Lubbock and other areas of Texas," said Montford.

DEA spokesman David Hoover said 15 to 20 of the persons charged in the alleged $175,000 a month scheme have been arrested. He said seven were already in custody when the indictments were announced.

Officials would not speculate on how long it would take to round up the remainder of the defendants.

Hoover said the investigation is still under way and additional indictments are possible.

All of the indicted persons are Lubbock County residents except for one person Hoover said was from Corpus Christi. He said if convicted, the defendants could be sentenced to from five to 99 years in prison.

Jury being selected for Henley trial

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) - Defense and prosecution attorneys have qualified 18 of the 32 persons they need for a jury panel for the capital murder trial of Elmer Wayne Henley.

Lawyers passed the halfway point in jury selection Thursday because they need 32 members on the panel. After 32 are qualified, defense and prosecution lawyers can then delete 10 names each. The first 12 not scratched from the list will then serve as jurors in the second trial of Henley, accused in connection with the sex-torture slayings of 27 Houston area youths.

Henley's trial was moved to State District Judge Noah Kennedy's court here after an appeals court overturned his earlier conviction because he was not given a change of venue hear-

Get warranty in writing for 'as is' cars

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

What are you really getting when you buy a product "as is?" The Federal Trade Commission says many people are confused by the term, particularly when it comes

In most states, the FTC says, if you buy a car marked "as is," the dealer is not legally responsible for any repairs needed later on. And later on ing to the FTC can come as quickly as five minutes after you drive

"Most consumers either don't realize they've purchased their car "as is" or they can't understand what the term means," the FTC said. The agency said a survey showed more than one out of three consumers thought that even if a car was purchased "as is," the dealer still would have to pay for at least some of the repairs if the car broke down within 25 days.

Other people believed "as is" meant "as equipped," without additional accessories. Some any more reconditioning. And some thought an "as flexibility when it comes to some other types of car came with the defects they had been told about; they thought that hidden defects would be covered by the dealer.

'Unless a consumer is assertive and persistent." the FTC said, "he or she will generally not receive any detailed warranty coverage information until after the decision to buy has been made. It is easy to overlook the warranty - or lack of one - when you have to sign several papers at once. The terms of the sale may be described in confusing legal The warranty clause might read like this, accord-

'Merchant X hereby expressly disclaims all warranties either expressed or implied, including any implied warranties of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose, and neither assumes nor authorizes any other person to assume for (it) liability in connecton with the sale of this vehicle.

The translation would read like this: "We won't make any repairs after the car leaves the lot." Do not take a dealer's word about a warranty. Get the promise in writing. A court will look only at the written contract. Once you have signed the papers for an "as is' said the term implied that the dealer would not do car, you can't change your mind. You have greater purchases, however.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A mother asked you to please write something to persuade her pretty, intelligent, 23year-old daughter to end her love affair with a married man. You wisely told her that any advice from you would probably be useless, but perhaps a word from someone who had been down that road might help.

Well I've been there. May 1 try? Dear Pretty, Intelligent and 23:

I, too, was young, pretty and intelligent when I fell in love with my married man. We were madly in love and talked of being married "someday." We were together whenever possible. And always discreet. Before I knew it, years had gone by. Then I pressured him for some kind of commitment. That's when he told me he could never leave his wife and family and I'd be better off with a man wno was

Facing rejection from the man I had loved for so many years was almost too much to bear. Not to mention the broken dates, the secrecy, the hiding, never being able to share one holiday with him. Working with him and not being able to tell anymore about "us" because of his respected position in his profession and the community. But the greatest humiliation of all was having him leave our bed after lovemaking to go home to his wife because our time

While I was involved with this man I had no social life because I wanted to be home in case he called to say he could see me for an hour. I didn't keep up friendships with others - or even my family, so now I am having trouble rebuilding my life.

And I'm now too old to have the children I've always wanted.

Please, stop and consider where this deadend relationship is going. Don't cut yourself off from others to concentrate on your married man. And if you're not strong enough to break it off now, think about it, and break it off the moment you get the strength to do so.

And don't be too hard on yourself. Given the right time, and set of circumstances, any woman can find herself entangled in a relationship she would never

AT WIT'S END

Children who won't be bluffed

By ERMA BOMBECK

This is a fact. There are some children born into this world who cannot be bluffed. You can threaten them, intimidate them, or make them an offer they cannot refuse. But in the end, they won't, you can't and they do whatever they please.

I have one child who used to rearrange her food on the plate like it was an abacus. When all the combinations had been tried on the plate, she would lay the peas end to end under her plate, braid the french frieds and build bridges from broccoli. She would do everything with food but eat

One afternoon as she opened her mouth to protest, I janimed a spoonful of peas into the opening and squeezed her lips together. She refused to swallow. It was time for my "You aren't going to leave this table until you clean up your plate if you have to grow up here." It's a classic. Have you ever imagined what it is like to raise a child at a dinner table with a mouthful of green peas? She becomes a toddler with no place to toddle to, goes through puberty in an eating seat, approaches womanhood with green teeth and has no one to talk with about her mid-life crisis, but a plate full of dried food.

is to get yourself in a position where you cannot make good your threat. Examples:

"You shape up or I am going to mail you to a post office box in Kearney, Nebraska. "If you don't put that baby back in his mother's cart, I will never take you to the store with me again ... ever!" "Mommy is leaving the room. If I come back in and it is not cleaned up, I am packing my bags and running off to follow Rolling Stones concerts."

"I can stop this car any time I want to and give you what for." (This on the San Diego freeway without my glasses during rush hour.) It's like raising a poker player. The other night I warned, "If you're late for dinner one more time I'm throwing it away." She wandered in late as usual.

She studied me for a moment. "Where's dinner?" (I returned her gaze.) "It's in the oven, isn't it?" 'Are you raising or calling?

"It's in the refrigerator." (I continued to stare without expression.) "Oh, well," she said, "I'm not hungry

Herbie cuts disco album

By DAVID N. ROSENTHAL

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Herbie Hancock's gone disco? Herbie Hancock, disciple of Miles Davis, cohort of Chick Corea, creator of the legendary "Headhunters" album? Say it ain't so, Herbie.

"The new album is disco," the wizard of the keyboards confirms. "And I like it. One of these days the idea will get around that Herbie Hancock is all kinds of music and people will stop trying to pigeonhole me.

'I'm not saying that 'Feets Don't Fail Me Now' is the definitive whatever it is. But I like the tunes and I like the words - it seems to be balanced in all different areas.'

Okay, but why do you like disco? For a man who often has been on the cutting edge of musical change, it's certainly not much of a switch from what everyone else is doing.

"It excites me to have people dance to my music," the 39-year-old Han-cock replies. "I've always been interested in different types of music not just jazz - but in the past I was only interested in how they applied to jazz. Now I am exploring those areas If you like the music, it makes sense to do it.

"Nobody made me do it. In fact, some people at the record company were against the switch. So that ought to dispel the myth I'm going disco because of commerical pressure."

Besides being the jazzman's first venture into the world of thumping drums, danceable rhythms and simple lyrics, the "Feets Don't Fail Me Now" album is notable for another reason - it features his voice for the first time.

At least it's his voice after it has gone through an electronic gizmo called a vocorder, which feeds the words he sings through the synthesizer. They come out sounding like a warrior from "Battlestar Galacti-

"I'm not a singer," Hancock readily admits. "The quality is fine, but the vibrato is awful. Sometimes I'm flat and sometimes I'm sharp. The vocoder synthesizes my voice and it comes out according to what I play, not what I sing.

Actress gets spaced-out role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Moviegoers fascination with outer space seems insatiable, so Universal Pictures is releasing another space adventure, this one slightly used.

"Battlestar Galactica" was hailed as the most expensive television series ever made, the most promising new offering for the 1978-79 season. Alas, the Universal-ABC show ran out of gas after 23 segments, and will not be returning next season.

Movie patrons will be able to see "Battlestar Galactica" this summer, thanks to merchandizing strategy of the Universal salesmen. They achieved good results with a theatrical release of "Buck Rogers in the 25th Century," a television pilot for a series which will appear on NBC next season. So why not a theater go-round with the pilot film of "Galactica"?

The movie has Sensurround to jolt viewers with the vibrations of space vehicles. It also has Jane Seymour, an English actress with delicate beauty and rare sensitivity.

Her feelings about "Battlestar Gadactica" are mixed.

"I did the two-hour pilot film a long time ago," she remarked. "I thought the role was rather promising: A kind of Jane Fonda character who leaves her son with her husband and goes of to pursue her career as a television newscaster (on the planet Caprica). The lady was clying of cancer, and I had some poignant scenes.

"But when the pilot was tested before sample audiences, the kids cried and said, 'You can't do this to us.' So instead of having the character die, the role was cut down so it was hardly visible.

She returned to the series to appear in another two-hour adventure, but she declined to be one of the regulars. They were Lorne Greene, Dirk Benedict and Richard Hatch. Making guest appearances in the movie are Ray Milland, Lew Ayres and Wilfred Hyde-White.

For Jane Seymour, "Battlestar Galactica" marks another boost in a career that started 15 years ago in England. Born in Bristol the daughter of a surgeon, she started dancing ballet at 13, made her acting debut shortly afterward in a Chef Boyardee commercial aimed at American TV.

She enjoyed some success in Britsh-made films "Oh What a Lovely War," "Young Winston" and "Frankenstein. The True Story" with Michael Sarrazin and James Mason. Her biggest attention came as the virginal Solotaire in the first of the Roger Moore-James Bond epics, "Live and Let Die." The exposure was good, but she realized that not much happens to the careers of the Bond beauties.

American showing Chinese art

by JOHN RODERICK

PEKING (AP) - An American who gave up the space age nine years ago to collect art is showing seldom seen Chinese folk art to the United States. George J. Goodstadt of Plattsburg, N.Y., also has introduced representative American artists to the Chinese art world.

In 1970, he decided that 12 years with the Goddard Institute for Space Study, where he was a space scientist, was enough. Although he had no previous experience and didn't paint, he embarked on a totally different career as a buyer and seller of pairit-

Five years later he made his first trip to China and has been back a dozen times since.

At the Canton Trade Fair, where he hoped to pick up some Chinese oil paintings for his Manhattan gallery, he stumbled across a pile of water colors and sketches on the floor, done by little-known Chinese peasant artists.

"The oil paintings were terrible," he said recently in an interview here. "But these were great. They were wonderful. They caught the spirit, I thought, of

He picked up a batch and the New China Arts Corp., which he set up in New York City, was born. His search for new works by peasant artists takes. him by train, car and bus to some of China's remotest rural areas. He comes back exhausted, but happy with his finds.

He admits frankly his object is to make money, and he is doing quite well at it. But he has been fired with enthusiasm for the primitive, colorful wood cent," he said.

He has helped popularize in the United States the locally famous Weifang New Year woodblock prints, vividly cheerful portrayals of country life which Chinese paste over their doors during the lunar new year festival.

The prints come from Weifang in Santung Province, Yangliuching in Hopei and Taohuawu in Kiangsu. The custom began in the middle of the 17th century and has been continued ever since.

Besides the doorways, peasant put them on windows, over stoves, in stables, pigsties and on carts. The colors used are red, yellow, green, purple and rose, the scenes show harvests, peasant side occupations, fishing and, on the political side, agricultural mechanization, irrigation and improvements in Another source of peasant art is Huhsien in Shensi Province, near Sian. Goodstadt has commissioned woodblocks from talented artists there which have been shown around the United States.

On his last trip to China, he stopped by the Central Art Institute here and found an exhibition of paintings by its students which so impressed him he will show it around America on a non-commercial basis.

Carter, union pitch woo

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter and the AFL-CIO's largest union, embracing each other like new-found lovers, are teaming up to woo organized labor's support for Carter's expected re-election bid.

Carter won a thunderous reception Thursday from more than 1,000 delegates attending the founding convention of the AFL-CIO's newest and biggest affiliate - the 1.3-millionmember United Food and Commercial Workers.

The delegates, many of them wearing Carter campaign buttons, were celebrating the UFCW's official founding out of the merger of the Retail Clerks International Union and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen UFCW President William H. Wynn, who is spearheading a drive to marshall labor support behind the president, hailed Carter as "a friend of this union and every working person in the United States.

Wynn also noted that no president had ever addressed conventions of the clerks or meat cutters during their more than 80-year histories.

In return, Carter hailed the merger as a "notable achievement ... for our country," and added, "I guarantee ... your voice will always be heard in the office of the president of the United

Carter also complained in a speech interrupted 24 times by applause that the government "is being twisted and pulled in every direction by hundreds of well-financed, powerful special in-terest groups," but he mentiioned no specific names.

Carter's relations with organized labor, particularly AFL-CIO President George Meany, have ranged from lukewarm to cold. That is why Wynn, at the request of the White House, is attempting to patch up Carter's differences with labor in time for the 1980 election.

Like Wynn, a number of other labor leaders are edging back into Carter's camp in the belief that their preferred Democratic candidate, Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, will not run, leaving Carter as their only viable alternative.

In an appearance that suggested a campaign stop, Carter said difficult political decisions must be made to solve the nation's energy and economic problems. Invoking familiar themes, he called on Americans to put aside their selfish concerns and find the courage to work together toward

Students design space project

By ED TODD Staff Writer

Students in the Junior Engineering Technical Society in the Midland publie school system are in the preliminary stages of designing some sort of experimental project to fly aboard the Space Shuttle early in the 1980s, astro-science teacher John M. Hicks told the Midland Downtown Rotary Club Thursday noon in the Midland

The experiment could fall under biological, electronic or mechanical categories

'Anyhow, the experiment gets very elaborate and very involved," said Hicks. "It has pretty stringent specifications. It has to be safe. It has to be more or less worthwhile; you can't just send up a hamburger.'

Hicks said the science-oriented students are consulting with members of the "scientific community" to formulate a workable, worthwhile project to be put aboard the National Aeronau tics and Space Administration's. Space Shuttle.

"We're hoping to come up with something that hasn't been done" in space, he said.

Hicks said the experiment to be devised by the students must take up no more than five cubic feet of space, be fitted in a canister and must be relatively easy for the astronauts or others on the one-to-eight-day space flight to operate. NASA's specifications also call for only three external levers or switches — on, off and "that leaves it with one other."

The experimental project must function without external power and must stay aboard the shuttle and not be cast out into outer space. "I get the feeling that they're reaching the point where they don't want to leave too many things out there (in space)," Hicks said. Hicks is the Midland coordinator of the "Get Away Special" educational program which NASA sponsors and which provides for academic and experiment projects on the shuttle. On related subjects, Hicks, who is

Governor won't ink bank machine bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements says he wants Texas voters to decide about unmanned bank tellers without being influenced by him.

Clements refused Thursday to sign a legislatureapproved bill for unmanned bank tellers, letting the measure become law without his signature.

"House Bill 1510 is anticipatory legislation for a proposed constitutional amendment which will permit a bank or group of banks to maintain, operate or utilize unmanned teller machines at locations away from their principal place of business within the county or city of their domicile," Clements said in a statement. "I do not wish to express an opinion on this matter as this is a matter the people of Texas will decide for themselves.

The House bill will not become effective unless voters approve the proposed state constitutional amendment (SJR35) in the 1980 general election.

Clements also let another measure become law without his signature Thursday and vetoed four

He said he let HB2252 become law because he did not want to approve a sale that may have been made without authority. The bill allows the Terry Memorial Hospital District to sell or dispose of real estate at the discretion of board members. But it also validated sales of land prior to enactment of the law. The bills vetoed, with Clements' reasons, includ-

- HB2167, removing Houston County from the Uniform Wildlife Regulatory Act. "If we continue to remove counties from the Uniform Wildlife Act, then before long there is no uniform act," Clements said. He previously vetoed another bill removing Comal County from the act, but the Legislature overrode SB517, requiring that school bus drivers give bond. "This bill is exactly the same as HB155 ... which I have already signed.'

- HB1228, allowing Texas Employment Commission to sell state-owned land. "This is a companion bill to SB755 which passed first and is identical ... I intend to sign SB755.

-SB457, filing of briefs in criminal cases. "This bill was a companion bill to HB1565 which also passed in a slightly more refined version . both authors have agreed that I should veto this bill and let HB1565 become law.'

But he does sign bill hiking interest rates

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Lending institutions will be able to charge 18 percent interest on non-mortgage loans of $250,000 or more under a bill signed into law Thursday by Gov. Bill Clements.

The law takes effect Sept. 27. Under current law, loans of $500,000 or more are subject to 18 percent interest. Sen. Ike Harris, R-Dallas, sponsored legislation to lower the loan ceiling for higher interest rates. Farm and ranch land purchases are exempt from the 18 percent interest and would come under the new floating loan limit passed this year.

Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, led an unsuccessful fight against the Harris bill, saying, "People will be hunting down with dogs the members of the Legisla-ture who voted for this legislation."

Clements claims success with legislative program

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) - Texas Gov. Bill Clements, measuring by his own standard of success, figures he batted an impressive .760

during the recently completed legislative session. "I wouldn't want to be the one to rate myself," the governor told the Harlingen Area Chamber of Commerce and Texas Association of Business annual meeting here Thursday night.

"But I can say that of the 17 items which I worked on as priorities during the final two months of the session, a total of 13 passed. That's a batting average of .760 and that isn't bad for a rookie.

However, the governor told the businessmen that two of his top priorities did not win legislative approval during the session. He vowed to continue his fight for initiative and referendum rights for Texas voters and for the use of electronic surveillance to curtail drug trafficking.

When certain bleeding hearts tell me that electronic surveillance is an invasion of privacy, my hackles rise, because yes, I agree this is an invasion of privacy - the privacy of the criminal who is using the telephone to hide his insidious and cancerous business. And I intend to lock him up," he said, drawing a loud ovation.

Clements, wearing a red apron symbolic of membership in the TAB, also promised a special legislative session to deal with tax relief.

Reading from a prepared text, Clements also spoke about his upcoming meeting with governors from three other border states. The governors of Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and California are scheduled to discuss common problems at a meeting in Brownsville in two weeks. The governor said Texas and the other border states should take the initiative in hammering out a new relationship with Mexico. "The bureaucrats in Washington just don't seem to adequately comprehend or understand that Mexico is indeed changing and that our attitude toward Mexico must also change," he said. "Far too long, we in the Southwest have let Washington dictate to us on issues on which we are much more experienced and time after time this has caused problems. Well, no more. We are not trying to usurp the duties of the State Department, but we plan to speak up and let them know what

After his speech, Clements signed a pair of bills aimed at clearing the way for production of gasohol in Texas. A gasohol plant has been proposed for

125 bills signed into law

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements Compact. released a list Thursday of 125 bills he signed into law this week Among the bills were:

- SB10. lowering limit on nonmortgage loans subject to 18 percent interest from $500,000 to $250,000.

- SB102, defining hazardous toys.

- SB1266, allowing state to establish conservatorship for mismanaged agencies - HB1368, uranium surface mining

The cuts, by attrition, would require 2 percent cuts during each of the next five years.

Loeffler said his stint as former President Gerald Ford's special assistant for legislative affairs gave him first-hand knowledge of the bureaucracy's workload.

"They don't need all those people," he said. "Somewhere in there can be some tightening.

Loeffler said his Federal Civillian Employment Reduction Act is an extension of the freeze congress placed on the work force last year when it set a 2.2 million employee ceiling to last until 1981. The cuts use the 1977 work force as a base figure

If Loeffler's proposal were adopted, a 1.95 million employee level would be reached by Sept. 30, 1984. The bill then would require the lower ceiling to remain in effect

He estimated that each 2 percent cut would save about $1 billion a year in salaries alone.

The reductions would have to be made in the executive and legislative branches of government, including congressional office and committee

"This is not a process to end all gives a good goal. It was not a meat ax approach, which would not have anopportunity to pass in congress and which basically would not be fair to people who work in government.' He said the proposal exempts the judicial branch because of the backlog of cases, but a report on possible would be required by 1983.

cuts in judges' administrative staff

Each agency or department would be responsible for a proportionate share of the work force reductions, deciding for itself where the cuts should fall. The bill would require that all cuts not be in lower level civil service positions but be spread throughout the hierarchy.

Loeffler said the bureaucracy's size and unwieldiness leads to inefficiency and self-perpetuation, helping to cause the nation's frustration with

'The left arm doesn't know what the right arm is doing when perhaps one person could be doing it," he said. The bill exempts the CIA, the FBI, the National Security Agency, health care facilities operated by the Veterans Administration, the Postal Rate Commission and the Postal Service.

Catholic Diocese to get $2.8 million share of estate

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) -Almost two decades after Sarita Kenedy East's death, the Catholic Diocese of Corpus Christi has received its $2.8 million share of the wealthy South Texas woman's estate.

Mrs. East's death in February 1961 set off a series of complicated legal battles concerning her will. At one point, more than 200 persons were involved in the court battles over the more than $100 million estate left by the last direct descendent of Mifflin Kenedy, a pioneer South Texas ranch-

The estate remained tied up in the courts until last year, when the Texas Supreme Court upheld a district judge's ruling that a pair of distant cousins could not challenge the will.

Kenneth Oden, an attorney for the Alice National Bank, executors of the will, confirmed that several settlements are now being paid.

The local diocese was one of 135 heirs named in the will. Joe Feist, public relations director for the digcese, said the money will be divided among church charities. The funds will benefit the diocese's refugee resettlement program, a halfway house for alcoholics in Laredo and other

While much of the estate is being divided among the heirs, the courts are not finished with the case.

Brother Leo, a Trappist monk from Massachusetts, challenged Mrs. East's creation of a foundation bearing her parents' names. Brother Leo had been named as one of the trustees of the foundation. But he later produced a document he said shows he was to be the lone trustee of the foundation. The suit is still pending in state court. Oden said.

Carter's 'peek-a-boo trust' meets ethics standards

By BROOKS JACKSON

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jimmy Carter's farming wealth isn't in a blind trust anymore. Call it a "peek-a-boo trust."

The public, including Carter, now has a fairly detailed idea of what is in the trust and how Carter's old friend Charles Kirbo is managing it.

The fuller disclosure could be better than a blind trust's total secrecy for protecting against conflict of interest, although in Carter's case neither one totally eliminates the built-in conflict of a farmer president making farm

In any case the new disclosures provide a fuller and more fascinating view of Carter's farming and peanut warehouse business. Actually, Carter has always had a pretty fair idea of what was in the supposedly "blind" trust and roughly how it was being managed. He told Kirbo in writing not to sell off Carter farm land and to give his brother Billy, who is also his warehouse partner, every possible considera-

Since any land sale would be recorded publicly, the president could assume correctly that he was still in the farming and peanut warehouse business so long as he didn't read any news stories to the contrary.

And in Plains, Ga., it is difficult to keep anybody's business very secret. "You can drive down the road and tell who's renting the farm by seeing whose tractor is in the field," concedes presidential counsel Robert Lipshutz.

ernment act requiring Carter and other high federal officials to make general financial disclosures. Carter could have avoided revealing details of his peanut business and farm, but only if they were sealed up in a truly blind trust that met standards set out

Now the trust is even less blind than before because of a new ethics-in-gov-

It did not. Carter would have had to remove his instructions against selling his land, and might have had to pick a trustee more independent than his old

Controversy, still raging on Washington portraits

By JULES LOH

SAUNDERSTOWN, R.I. (AP) -Neither side in The Great Controversy has asked her opinion, but if either should, Mrs. Kenneth Pettigrew, a Yankee through and through, would vote for New England. Gilbert Stuart, she feels, would have wanted it that way, too. Americans west of either the Charles River or the Potomac might be less familiar with The Controversy than those in this part of the country. It rages over where Gilbert Stuart's portraits of George and Martha Washington ought to hang, Boston or Nobody has yet suggested a third site, Saunderstown, on the banks of the Mettatuxet, where Mrs. Pettigrew is curator of the old snuff mill that was Gilbert Stuart's birthplace. "We really don't have the facilities here to keep the pictures," Mrs. Pet-tigrew said. Then she added, "But if they were offered, I think we could make accommodations. The portrait of George Washington is the familiar one on the dollar bill. It and a companion portrait of Martha now hang in Boston's Museum of Fine Arts, on loan from the Boston Athe-

Tae Athenaeum, in great need of dollar bills, wants to sell the pictures and the Smihsonian Institution's National Portrait Gallery, in Washing ton, wants to buy them, for $5 mil-

"The Athenaeum bought them through public subscriptions," Mrs. Pettigrew said. "They raised $1,500 for Gilbert Stuart's widow, in 1831, just to help her out. The portraits-were really all he left her."

Again through public subscriptions, Bostonians are now trying to raise the money to match Washington's offer and keep the portraits in their city.

Mrs. Pettigrew, for her part, stays

"My husband and I are busy enough watching over the place and showing people through," she said. "Did you know we have begun restoration of the grist mill? It should be finished

The snuff mill, vintage 1750, and the nearby grist mill are themselves testimonials to local concern for keeping local heritage where it belongs.

Fifty years ago the old homesite, with its living quarters above and snuff mill below, was falling apart.

-The neighbors, alarmed, got together to save it. They formed the Gilbert Stuart Memorial Association, Inc., and raised the money themselves. A board of directors sees to the up-

Today it is a place of chapel-like serenity. You reach it by turning off the highway onto leafy aisles flanked by rock fences and wild violets. The millpond, the mill with its worn, wooden gears, the mossy millwheel, make a scene almost fancifully idyllic, a page from a Currier and Ives

"Gilbert Stuart lived here until he was somewhere between six and 10 years old, just a boy," Mrs. Pettigrew

"His father's mill prospered, then went out of business because of the Revolution. His father was a loyalist, a Tory. I always thought it ironic that his son should have painted so many pictures of the Founding Father - at least 111 of them, maybe more."

An added irony is that the heirs of two of his most notable paintings should be plagued by money problems; Gilbert Stuart himself once had to flee the country to escape his credi-

"His talent," Mrs. Pettigrew sighed, "was perhaps his most admirable quality.

Carter chose fuller disclosure.

The new information, combined with the net worth statement and federal income tax returns Carter voluntarily makes public, reveal such facts as

-The 2,038-acre Carter farm is rented to Don Tanner, Triple H Farms and

An analysis

Leonard Wright of Sumter County, Ga., and is making a modest profit. It paid Carter more than $5,000 in dividends last year and netted $15,000 to $50,000

-The Carter peanut warehouse, which ran into hard times under his brother's management, is now rented to Gold Kist Inc. and is worse than broke. Its $500,000 in debts exceeds the value of the land, buildings and equipment. Carter, who owns 62 percent, lost $48,785 on the warehouse last

-Billy Carter couldn't pay off a loan of more than $250,000 from the Carter farm, owned 91 percent by the president. The president now owns a 175-acre lot which his brother had pledged as security, liquidating the loan and taking over payments on Billy Carter's earlier mortgages.

Intriguing, but no big deal It remains true that President Carter has pushed for federal programs that increase farm income. He promised as much in his 1976 campaign.

Those policies help explain why his own farm land rose enough to push him into millionaire status last year. Carter has no intention of selling his land, the only way of eliminating that built-in conflict. But the voters knew Carter was a farmer, and bent on helping other farmers,

The disclosures do raise a theoretical possibility which Lipshutz acknowledges. Carter, now that he knows who his tenants are, could benefit himself by taking special actions to favor Gold Kist, Triple H Farms or the others. But that very disclosure also discourages any such self-serving move by making it more likely the public would catch Carter if he should try.

The whole business raises questions about whether a "blind" trust ever served any useful purpose in Carter's case, other than providing a public relations device to ward off charges of conflict.

Make sure of proper tests

Dear Dr. Solomon: Our 9-year-old son, although of normal intelligence, has learning problems. His pediatrician has told me he has minimal brain dysfunction, and may need medication. I don't like the idea of starting a child on medication that he might have to take for several years. Any advice?-Mrs. L.S.

Dear Mrs. S.: I assume that the pediatrician has already evaluated, or plans to evaluate, your son before prescribing any drugs. This is something you and your husband should discuss with him. The diagnostic evaluation consists of a social and developmental history, a clinical examination and laboratory examinations, including psychological testing. The need for medica-tion can be determined only on the basis of these tests.

If drug therapy is indicated, the physician will then have to determine the appropriate drug and the proper dosage-that is, the lowest dosage needed to do the job. Your son would then have to be followed carefully to detect any changes in his behavior. and to note any side effects that might

Bill signed outlawing searches of newsrooms

AUSTIN (AP) - Law enforcement officers will be prohibited from ransacking newspaper, magazine and broadcast station offices for evidence of crimes under a bill signed into law Thursday by Gov. Bill Clements.

Under the new law, police can obtain search warrants only if they have evidence that newsroom employees were connected to criminal activity aside from their newsgathering functions. Judges cannot authorize searches of notes, files, photographs and the like.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled last year that freedom of the press did not prevent search warrants for items in a news room.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am 43 years old and I've been on insulin for diabetes for several months. Although my urine tests normal, I've been feeling tired and listless lately. What can be the cause since my diabetes is under control?-Mr. K.M.

Dear Mr. M .: Although the urine test is an important indicator for the diabetic patient, and very valuable in maintaining the disease under control, it is not infallible. The urine test provides only a general picture of what is happening in your body, and results can be misleading for a variety of reasons.

Remember that how you feel is at least as important as the test result—and probably even more significant. If you feel tired, are losing weight, experience excessive thirst or urination, or have any of the other symptoms of uncontrolled diabetes, see your doctor-immediately.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Are men really bigger babies than women? I've just spent three days catering to my husband who was in bed with a cold, even though I couldn't understand why he didn't go to work. I've had worse colds and never stayed in bed. Is his reaction unusual?-Mrs. R.C.

Dear Mrs. Ca: For many people, a cold is a good excuse to say home from work, remain in bed, and, as you say, be babied. Best of all, the patient really isn't dangerously sick. It provides and excuse for a sort of minivacation, and we all like vacations.

Dr. Robert H. Waldman, chairman of medicine at the West Virginia University School of Medicine, feels that the common cold probably serves a purpose in permitting a brief escape from daily pressures. If not for the cold, Dr. Waldman says, we might see an increase in hypertension, depression, and related problems.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A 30-year-old California woman who once thought she was hopelessly obese is starting a new and much thinner life after doctors removed a gigantic tumor that had bloated her abdomen with 200 pounds of tissue and fluid. Although the tumor must have been growing at least 15 years, doctors said the woman never suspected it was there. When it was diagnosed, "She was very excited and pleased at the idea that 'I'm not just fat,'" said Dr. Russell K. Laros Jr. of the University of California Medical School in San Francisco. Laros headed a surgical team which last month removed a "very common type of ovarian tumor" that had grown into one of the largest in medical history. He said Thursday the tumor was benign - it contained no cancer — and apparently caused no permanent health problems. The unidentified woman weighed 380 pounds when she entered the operating room on May 24. She weighed 180 after surgeons worked 41/2 hours to remove the tumor, which "would fill a large wash-basin." Laros said in a telephone interview.

The tumor included about 40 pounds of overgrown tissue and more than 160 pounds of water and other fluids - some 20 gallons of liquid. He said the woman, who is recovering at her San Francisco Bay-area home, is still excited with the results but somewhat overwhelmed by her much-thinner body that is no longer shared by the huge, balloon-like "It's apparent to her now that this change is going to have a very major.

impact on her life - on her social life, in what she can do physically and in how she relates to people," Laros said. "She is still working that When the patient was a teen-ager, Laros said, a few cells somehow went awry inside one of her ovaries - female organs that usually are not much larger than a peanut.

The cells began to divide and grow as a single mass, trapping liquids and shoving nearby organs aside.

SPORTS IN BRIEF Larry Bird signs with Celtics

BOSTON (AP) — Blond giant Larry Bird, hailed as one of the great college basketball players in a generation, signed a $3.25 million, five-year Boston Celtics contract today, making him the highest paid rookie in sports

The 6-foot-9 Indiana State star. billed as a savior of the once-powerful National Basketball Association franchise, shucked his low profile at a packed Boston Garden news conference as he agreed to a pact worth $650,000 a year, including salary and

The deal was hammered out during two months of often-bitter bartering by Celtics President Red Auerbach and Bird's lawyer, Bob Woolf, while the college player-of-the-year stayed home in French Lick, Ind.

"Larry's contract is large," said Auerbach, "but is in line with his talent and the prevailing market. There is no doubt in my mind that with another team, and under different circumstances, Larry could have signed for much more than this con-

PARIS (AP) - Chris Evert Lloyd of the United States and Wendy Turnbull of Australia gained the women's singles final of the French Open Tennis Championships

Lloyd defeated Australia's Dianne Fromholtz 6-1, 6-3, while Turnbull beat Czechoslovakia's Regina Marsikova, 6-4, 6-3.

BECKENHAM, England (AP) -Australia's John James defeated Nick Saviano 6-3, 7-6 in the men's quarter-finals and South African Yvonne Vermaak downed Lea Antonoplis 6-2, 2-6, 6-3 in a women's quarter-final match in the rain-shortened Beckenham Grass Court Tennis Championships.

Tanya Harford of South Africa beat Britain's Michele Tyler 6-2, 6-3 in the only other match of the day.

HARTFORD, Conn (AP) - Tournament sponsors announced that the annual World Cup tennis competition between the United States and Australia will end after the 1980 event, chiefly because of the domination of U.S. players in men's professional

Lye storms Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) - Mark Lye shot a 9-under-par 63 and established a 4stroke lead in the weather-delayed first round of the $300,000 Atlanta Golf Classic. His effort was within a single stroke of the record on the Atlanta Country Club course.

Britz goes 8-under

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Jerilyn Britz, who did not qualify for the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour until she was 31, shot an opening 8-under-par 64 for a 4-shot lead in the LPGA Championship.

Britz was nine shots in front of defending champion Nancy Lopez, who struggled to a 1-over-par 73, well back in the pack.

Penny Pulz, with a 4-under-par 68, was the closest challenger for Britz. JoAnne Carner, Donna Caponi Young, Amy Alcott, Amelia Rorer, Shelley Hamlin and Bonnie Bryant all shared third place at 69, 3 under

Fate takes Cubs' Tracy by hand

hadn't dropped its football program a few years ago, Midland Cubs first baseman Jim Tracy might not be contending for the Texas League batting title this

"After I graduated from high school, I received a couple of football and basketball scholarship offers and had accepted a full-ride scholarship to Xavier in football when they decided to drop the sport," he explained his close call. If he had gone to Xavier, he probably wouldn't have played baseball.

Instead, Tracy wound up at non-scholarship Marietta, Ohio, College, largely through the persuasiveness of the dad of Kent Tekulve (the Pittsburgh Pirates' pitcher), a neighbor. Kent had gone there and "his dad sold me on it."

"I didn't go out for football ecause they treat their baseball program like a sophisticated semipro program. They had 106 candidates for baseball and I felt I had to participate in the fall program to stand a chance. They divide their squad into six teams and play a regular sched-

It turned out to be a wise move. Jim batted .325 as a freshman, made the all-regional and all-Division III World Series tournament team at Springfield, Ill., as Marietta finished runnerup and 44-6 for the year.

As a sophomore, he hit .411 in Ohio Conference play and .391 overall, going 5-for-9 in the regular gionals. That summer, his development was hastened by a season with Chatham in the fast Cape Cod League.

That fall he decided to work rather than go back to college and was drafted by Chicago in January. After one and a half years at Pompano Beach, he was promoted to Midland late last season and for a while the Texas League was a struggle.

"In Midland I was seeing pitches I never saw for strikes in Class A ball," the 6-3, 190-pound lefthanded swinger recalled. "But Billy Williams (Chicago's roving batting instructor) was a big help. He backed me off the plate, turned my front foot in and it helped me keep my eye on the pitch better. Jack Hiatt, who was my manager at Pompano, was another big help. He got me out of my crouch and had me standing up straighter. I didn't have a good year, but Jack stayed with me. I guess you'd have to say that Billy, Jack and Jim Saul are the reasons I'm here today.' trated on putting into practice everything I've been taught and knowing the strike zone has tience and Tracy responded after a dismal Midland begin-

"This year I have just concenbeen a big help," he adds. Saul also had faith and pa-homers, 29 rbi and a climbing .259 batting average last year. And this year, it has paid off, but it has not been without its trials and tribulations, this time

Always an outfielder, Tracy is learning the intricacies of first base play this year, "but it helped this spring when Randy (Midland manager Randy Hundley) told me to get a first baseman's glove and get lots of work, because that's where I was going to play.'

To the casual observer. Tracy's play around the bag is no giveaway that it's a foreign position, but he knows. "The toughest play for me is holding a man on first with a left-handed batter at the plate. I can't get used to the idea of that big hole the batter has to hit through."

And while his football career went up in smoke when Xavier dropped the sport, his high school days as a wide receiver were not without their value. Tracy contends the experience. and things he learned from high school coaches Terry Malone and Dean Wright have carried over. "They taught me how to win and to be a competitor and that's something that stays with you no matter what the sport."

And, strangely enough, Tracy took the baseball route without any pushing from his father, Jim, Sr., who might have harbored an understandable prejudice toward baseball, since he once pitched in the Phillies and Giants organizations.

"My parents have been in my corner all the way, but my dad didn't do any pushing, although he was upset the year I decided not to go back to college. My mother told him that it might not be a decision they agreed with, but it was my decision to make.'

Since turning pro, Tracy rates his biggest thrill as the night he hit two homers and knocked in six runs against the Miami Orioles in the Florida State League. Toughest pitcher? "Mark Clear, who was with El Paso last year and is with California this year. He had good heat and a tough slider. I'm also very impressed with this year's Jackson staff. They throw strikes and make vou think at the plate."

And while Tracy took a holiday from college, he intends to finish. During the offseason he goes to Xavier. "I'm 45 credits short of a degree, and if I'm invited to play winter ball, say in Puerto Rico, Mexico or Venezuela, that would mean a further delay. But I am majoring in English and hope to teach and coach on the high school level when my baseball days are over. The way things are going for Tracy this season, that may be some very distant time in the

Mack, Martin mash Mets; Cubs return in second

Henry Mack and Mike Allen combined for a five-hitter while rightfielder Jared Martin lashed out four hits in five trips as the Midland Cubs concluded their Texas League East swing with a 6-1 win over Jackson's Mets in Jackson Thursday night. The win gave Midland a 3-2 edge in the final series against the Mets and left the. Chicago farmhands 5-5 on the road trip.

Still, it wasn't enough to keep Midland in first place in the Texas League West. While the Cubs were splitting in the East, San Antonio was mopping up the diamond with Tulsa and Shreveport in the Alamo City and with Thursday's doubleheader sweep nudged four percentage points in front of the Cubs. When Midland left for the East, it led the TL by 4 1/2

So it's back to Square One when the Cubs return home tonight to open a five-game showdown series with the Dodgers at Cubs Stadium.

Mack, now 5-2, won his third game on the road trip Thursday, fanning nine and walking only two in a 7 1/3 inning stint, but it may have been a costly win, Mack pulled something in his pitching arm in the eighth and Allen had to finish up.

MACK OPENED the game with three perfect innings and Jackson's

SA Dodgers take over first place

Mark Bradley's three-run homer and a triple by hot hitting Ed Santos Thursday night helped the San Antonio Dodgers sweep a Texas League baseball doubleheader from the Shreveport Captains, 3-2 and 1-0.

By The Associated Press

The doubleheader sweep also allowed the Dodgers, who have won eight games in a row, to move into a narrow lead in the Texas League West. The Dodgers took over first place by percentage points over the Midland Cubs.

In other Texas League action, El Paso clubbed Tulsa, 12-7, Amarillo beat Arkansas, 7-5, and Midland beat Jackson, 6-1.

Bradley's three-run homer in the bottom of the third inning of the firs game helped Doug Harrison raise his pitching record to 4-2. Scott Budner was the losing Shreveport pitcher. Santos tripled to open the fifth inning of the second game and came home with the game's only run when Hilario Soriano beat out an infield hit. Rusty McDonald, who struggled throughout the early part of the game, picked up the victory, his fourth against a single loss. McDonald gave up five hits and allowed several Captains to reach base before the Dodgers grabbed the lead. He retired the last five batters in order. Steve Cline was the losing pitcher. Santos now has 21 RBI, nine doubles, a triple and two homers.

The Tulsa Drillers jumped out to an early lead an appeared to be coasting toward victory, leading the El Paso Diablos, 7-5, going into the bottom of the seventh. The Diablos exploded for seven runs on three homers and took seventh, after Mack had fanned four straight. Taco Perez double and Sergio Beltre singled in the run. In the eighth, Mack hurt his arm on a pitch to Hubie Brooks. However, he pitched again and got Brooks on a rap back to the box, but threw wildly to first and string. Both players left the game. Midland got two third-inning runs off Jackson starter Rick Anderson, who is noted for his control, but walked Bill Hayes and Dan Rohn. Martin then singled to left for a run and a second came in when the return

Brooks came up with a pulled ham-off the wall. Mike Turgeon then got the run in with a fly ball

In the eighth, Martin doubled and scored on a single by Jesus Alfaro. Russell Clark relieved Anderson and after Grandy walked, Lezcano singled home two runs.

The Cubs final run came in the ninth when Hayes singled, was forced at second by Dan Rohn's grounder. Rohn stole second and then Martin plated the run with his fourth hit. That gave Jared 4-for-5 for the night and 21-for-43 against Jackson pitching this

Segelke to face Dodgers tonight

Righthanded Herman Segelke, 5-2, who started with five straight, wins, will be trying to snap a two-game lose streak when he takes the mound for Midland at 7:30 p.m. today when the Cubs open a five-game homestand against the San Antonio Dodgers at Cubs Stadium. ### Ken Spinks indicted

ST. LOUIS (AP) - An Series by officers of the NAIA Baseball Coaches indictment charging Kenneth Spinks, younger brother of former heavyweight champion Leon Spinks, with attempted robbery and assault has been returned by a St. Louis Circuit Court grand jury. Assistant Circuit Attorney Rick Meyers said the indictment received Thursday by Judge Floyd McBride charging the 19-year-old Spinks was in connection with the attempted holdup of a 67-year-old man last month

Meyers said Spinks was accused of driving the getaway car in the incident. He said Samuel Lee Conley, 23, and Larry Lee, 20, were also indicted on attempted robbery and assault charges in the case.

Pecos loses

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - First baseman Scotty Self cracked three straight hits, including a two-run triple, as Cleburne defeated Pecos, 5-2, Thursday in the Class 3A semifinals of schoolboy baseball.

Lefthander Eddy Pruitt had a no-hitter for Cleburne for three innings and finished with a six-hitter to win his 14th game against a single loss this season. The loser was Genardo Rodriguez, who lasted only 3 1/3 innings and was pulled following Self's triple down the rightfield

Who's afraid of Connors?

PARIS (AP)-Who's afraid of big, bad Connors? Not Paraguay's Victor Pecci.

"Jimmy Connors is a great player," Pecci said Thursday after a tuneup session for his French Open semifinal match against Connors today. "But I'm playing with complete confidence, serving well and I'm going all out to win."

The 6-foot-4 Paraguayan stunned this $485,000 tournament Wednesday by completely overwhelming No.3 seed and former French champion Guillermo Vilas of Argentina.

The upset set the stage for one of the most exciting finishes here in years for the $49,000 men's title, which Sweden's Bjorn Borg has won three of the last five years.

classic last year at Roland Garros stadium, has been getting steadily stronger in his matches here following a layoff with a strained groin muscle.

The 23-year-old Swede faced newly crowned Italian Open champion Vitas Gerulaitis of the United States in today's other semifinal match, with the finals slated for Sunday. In the women's competition, which has generated little enthusiasm among French fans this year, Chris Evert Lloyd continued her relentless march toward the $30,000 women's crown, defeating Australia's Dianne Fromholtz 6-1, 6-3, in a semifinal match.

In the finals Saturday, Evert Lloyd will face another Australian, Wendy Turnbull, who outclassed Regina Marsikova of Czechoslovakia 6-4, 6-3, in the other women's semifinals match played in cold. overcast weather Thursday. So far, Connors has generated the most excitement here, with his aggressive style, on-court clowning and impressive victories, making many Frenchmen regret he had skipped the French Open for the past five years.

Winter golf tour turns out to be PGA's best TV friend

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Sports Writer

Winter, the golf tour's best friend, is long gone, which means we can expect the sport's ratings to sink even further into the nearest sand trap. This time of the year, golfers would rather be outside knocking around the dimpled white ball instead of watching the pros do it on television. Ray Volpe, the commissioner of the Ladies Professional Golf Association, says ways must be found to enliven golf broadcasting. "I think you'll agree that it can often be pretty dull," he said in a recent interview. "There is a great deal of room for improvement in the telecasting of Susic Hagey, Stanford, def. Ann Hen * PGA and LPGA events, and the decline in ratings is drickson, 61, 64.

> Volpe has several suggestions to improve the sport's flagging ratings. He says the networks should grad. do tournaments on a taped delay of approximately 15 minutes, so the dead time in the telecasts could be edited out. And he thinks players should be wired for sound so the viewer can get inside the sport and better understand the thinking behind various shots and club selections. The initial feeling of the networks is that golf events should be telecast live without any tamper, once this weekend - in the 800 at the Meet of ing, but NBC apparently likes the idea of miking golfers: NBC did it for a Legends of Golf broadcast last month and will be wiring Nancy Lopez and JoAnne Carner this weekend at the LPGA Championship from Mason, Ohio Saturday and Sunday A FREE golf clinic by Lopez and Carner sounds like good television, and it can't hurt NBC's ratings. When NBC had the women's Kemper Open earlier this year, it drew a small 11 and 14 percent share of the audience watching television at the time: The same weekend of the Kemper Open, CBS had the Sea Pines Heritage Classic, which picked up shares of 14 and 15. The Dinah Shore Classic on NBC had the best

Taylor, who also is retiring: audience reaction, gaining shares of 19 and 20 earlier this year. But that event had the advantages of a big promotion and no competing men's event on TV. There will be competition for the women's golf event with CBS' coverage of the Atlanta Golf Classic on Saturday and Sunday. The big event this weekend is the Belmont Stakes on CBS Saturday, with Spectacular Bid expected to stretch his legs for 21/2 minutes and become the third straight Triple Crown winner. Besides golf, NBC will have baseball on Saturday the American League game between New York and Kansas City or a National League contest between Los Angeles and Chicago. It will be a day of NCAA championships on ABC, which will have taped highlights-of the collegiate finals in volleyball from Los Angeles, track and field from Champaign, Ill., and gymnastics from Baton Rouge, La.

ON SUNDAY, ABC presents the second installment of its much ballyhooed North American Soccer League telecasts, - Vancouver vs. Minnesota, two of the league's best teams. ABC insists that ratings don't count in soccer; the sport needs time and patience to find an audience.

or Rear Brake Shoes includes parts & labor . Midland Dayton Tires

Last time out, the Cosmos, the NASL glamour team, could only attract a 2.8 rating, so unless there are a lot of closet Vancouver and Minnesota fans, ABC will have to be even more patient.

ABC will also have the Milwaukee 150 auto race and a preview of the U.S. Open golf championships on "Wide World of Sports. CBS will have the World Invitational Racquets Championship, another one of those shows that prove you can be world class in one sport and low class in another. NBC's "SportsWorld" will have the United States telling us that something ought to be done to ton, Ohio, the English Derby from Epsom, England and Friendship Cup Weightlifting from Lenin-

Professional baseball and basketball asked the Senate on Thursday for a statutory ban against cable television outlets retransmitting the programs - particularly sports events - of distant stations without consent. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn told the Senate Commerce subcommittee on communications that cable broadcasts seriously threaten home attendance and "Congress should not await an autopsy" upon his sport before acting. A similar protest of cable television's pickup of sports programming without permission or negotiated payment was aired by a representative of NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien. But Robert Schmidt, president of the National Cable Television Association, countered to the Senate panel that "there is no business in this country that has as much control over its product as professional sports, control made possible under the terms of numerous antitrust exemptions. The fact that consumers all over this country are will to pay for the program diversity available on cable is simple proof that cable is providing a service the public wants."

Rangers' Fergie dazzles Brewers with two-hitter

MILWAUKEE (AP) - With 238 victories behind him in 14 brilliant major league seasons, Ferguson Jenkins wasn't going to be upset by so trifling a matter as a near miss of a perfect game.

"The important thing is we won," the Texas Rangers' 35-year-old pitcher said Thursday. "I know that sounds trite, but I've been lucky. I hurt my Achilles tendon in 1976, and a lot of people thought I was through then.

Jenkins had just dazzled Milwaukee with a two hit, eight strikeout, no walk effort as he faced two batters more than the minimum 27. John Ellis supplied the power with six runs batted in on two homers and a double as the Rangers whipped the Brewers 7-1.

All that separated Jenkins from a perfect game were an infield single by Cecil Cooper with two out in the first inning and a triple by Jim Gantner leading of the sevenh on a drive which Johnny Grubb appeared to misplay in right center, field.

GRUBB, WHOSE NINTH inning single ran his hitting-streak to 20 successive games, longest in the majors this season, got a late start on Gantner's drive, which skipped off his glove and rolled to the wall. A ground ball by Cooper scored Gantner to spoil Jenkins' bid for a 46th career shutout.

Cooper was credited with his first inning hit on a slow roller which third baseman Buddy Bell charged and grabbed with his bare hand. Bell's off-balance throw appeared in time to retire Cooper, but was high and pulled first baseman Pat Putnam off the

"If I went the rest of the way without giving up another hit, Buddy and I would have protested the call," Jenkins said. "On the first close play of a game, I don't think the scorer should score a hit. I think he should give the pitcher a chance. But then Grubbie lost that other ball that went for a triple," he said. "When I turned around Grubbie still hadn't started running, so the first call didn't make any difference."

"IT COULD HAVE gone either way." Bell said of the scoring on his play. "It was do or die, and the ball just died in the wet grass out there. Without the other hit, that should have been an error. But since they got the other hit later, I think the first one should stand as a hit. That's how they usually call one like that.

Grubb said he slightly misjudged Gantner's

'I might have been a little late breaking, and I made a mistake of cutting straight across instead of angling back," he said. "I knew it was a line drive, but I didn't think it would rise as much as it did."

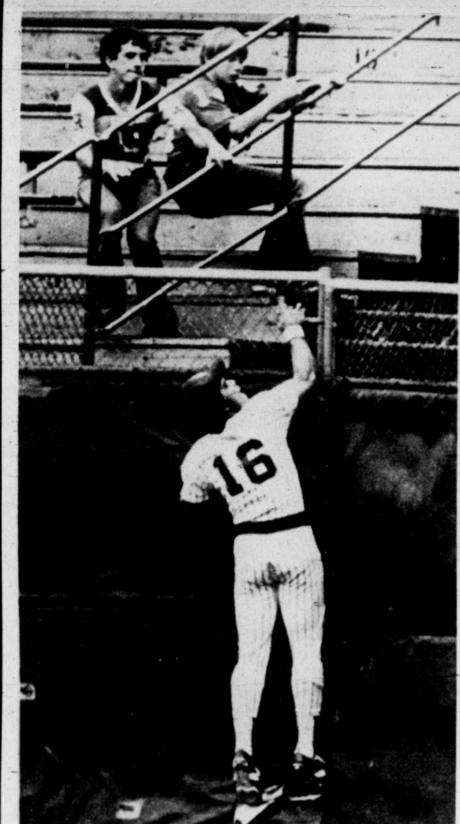

Jenkins (7-2) got the only runs he needed when Al Oliver singled with two out in the first inning and Ellis lined an opposite field homer off Moose Haas

Borg advances to finals

PARIS (AP) - Bjorn Borg destroyed Vitas Gerulaitis 6-2 6-1, 6-0 with a masterly display of clay court tennis Friday and raced into the final of the French open championships.

The slaughter on the center court of the Roland Garros Stadium was watched by 17,000 and was all over in 1 hour, 20 minutes.

It was the 11th meeting between the two men, and Borg has won every time.

Fullerton faces

erton State Coach Augie Garrido said ith Pepperdine in the College World Series would be a "dogfight," he wasn't kidding. That's exactly what took place Thursday night. When the dust finally cleared after 31/2 hours of baseball, there had been 24 hits, two players. and a coach ejected, two records tied and most important, Fullerton had an 8-5 victory. The triumph puts the Titans, 59-14, and rated third nationally, in tonight's championship game against seventh-rated Arkansas, 49-14, which had the night off. It will be a rematch of a game Wednesday night, when Fullerton outslugged the Razorbacks 13-10 to stay alive in the double elimination tournament 'That's the kind of game I was talking about," a relieved Garrido said after the battle of conference rivals. "That's what all our games with Pepperdine look like. Fullerton and Pepperdine split four games during the regular season. Fullerton won the Southern California Baseball Association title and Pepperdine, which finished the year 52-18, was second. While Fullerton and Pepperdine were going at it in an emotionally charged game, Arkansas had the luxury of resting. That could work in the Razorbacks' favor, but Pepperdine Coach Dave Gorrie said he thinks Fullerton wil win. "They're a better team," he said. Arkansas is an excellent team, but I feel Fullerton is stronger overall."

Left-hnder Steve Krueger, 10-1, the winning pitcher in Arkansas' 5-4 victory over Pepperdine in the first round, will start tonight. Garrido will go with right-hander Dave Weatherman, 14-2, who started Thursday night but lasted only one-third of an inning, giving up three runs.

"I don't know what to expect," Garrido said. "The way both teams have been hitting, it could be a fivedozen baseball game. If the wind is start hitting the ball, we might need seven ball boys to run them down.' Sam Favata drove in the go-ahead run against Pepperdine in a three-fun fifth inning and Mickey Palmer, making his first start of the series tied a record by getting five hits. Palmer hit .346 last season, but was batting only .236 coming into Thursday's game.

"I had problems staying back, I was leaning in," Palmer said, explaining his hitting difficulties: When you lean out in front of the ball, it's harder to see. "Tonight; I tried to stay back and concentrate on seeing the ball. I just tried to get on base. I think that's why I bunted so much. I wanted to get on

Two of Palmer's hits were bunts and another was a slow roller that he Pepperdine's Tim Gloyd tied a record by stealing his seventh base of the series. He was thrown out trying for his eighth by Fullerton catcher Kurt Kingsolver, who threw out two others runners and picked one off first.

Pepperdine first baseman John Lats was ejected by home plate umpire Randy Christal after arguing a called second strike in the seventh inning. Christal also banished Albert Arrieta, who had been relieved as Pepperdine's starting pitcher, from the bench and ejected third base coach Robert Damwijk.

"The batter took two good pitches, real good pitches, and griped," Christal said. "I said, 'Aw, shut up, hit the ball.' I don't know if that was exacatly the words I used. I said. Shut up, hit the ball and get back in the box." "One thing led to another and he was ejected." Tony Hudson turned in another superb relief job for Fullerton, pitching the final 21-3 innings to earn a save, his third of the series. Hudson has allowed only four hits and no earned runs in 112-3 innings of series work.

Senate retuses to kill bill on offshore records

By DAN EVEN

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - The' Senate refused Thursday to kill a bill its author says would help solve the energy crisis.

The bill by Sen. Jim Brown of Ferriday would make electric logs and electronic surveys from oil and gas wells drilled in the three-mile offshore area public records.

The logs show the underground formations and soil makeup of drillings. They are confidential, although filed with the state.

Brown said making the offshore logs and surveys available after one to four years - the policy of every other state except Louisiana - would spur oil production because independets might decide to develop marginal leases.

"It boils down to a simple issue do we need to find more energy or do we want to stand in line for gasoline,' said Sen. John Saunders of Pine Prai-

Sen. Jesse Knowles of Lake Charles, a land management supervisor for a major oil company, opposed the attempt to override the unfavorable committee report on the bill.

Knowles said independent drillers who "haven't spent a dime on exploration and want to gain all the information at no expense" were behind the bill.

Since the logs are confidential, a major oil company could see that a drilling looked promising, Brown said, but could cap the test well instead of putting it into production, and no one would ever know.

"We're not talking about private land, we're talking about land owned by the people of the state. Land the state could be getting millions in taxes from if developed," Brown

At one point, Knowles asked if Brown was implying that the major oil companies were intentionally not developing some leases.

"They aren't even coming close to developing all of them," replied

Brown noted that logs of wells in Louisiana are public records after two years and the same applies to those from wells drilled beyond the three-mile limit in federal waters. "Either Louisiana is right and everybody else is wrong, or we're wrong and everybody else is right,' said Sen. E. Edwards Barham of Oak Ridge. "I think it is in the public interest to make all logs public rec-

Meeting scheduled

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements and top Texas legislative officials plan to impress on the Texas congressional delegation Monday the "Texas position" on the energy crisis.

Clements, accompanied by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton and Texas Railroad Commission members Mack Wallace and Jim Nugent, scheduled a morning meeting in the Sam Rayburn office build-

"It is pure nonsense" that there is plenty of oil and gas left in the United States, Clements said at a news conference Thursday.

"It is just not true, no matter what all these people are saying," he said when asked about newspaper advertisements that claimed there was no real gasoline shortage. "We have a true, terrible energy crisis in this country. There is no question at all this is the No. 1 issue that is going to cause a giant economic dislocation in this nation," Clements said. We intend to talk to the energy situation.

Poerner reports gas shape good

CORPUS CHRISTI - Texas Railroad Commission Chairman John H. Poerner said the state's natural gas industry is in the strongest condition it has ever been

"Despite obstacles which were encountered early in the 1970's in the form of frequent gas shortages, now the industry is in a good position to improve the quality of service to the consumer." Poerner observed in an address before members of the Texas

Gas Association meeting here. Poerner said optimism "rather than rampant cynicism sweeping our nation today" should be commonplace in the gas industry.

"The free market place," he said. "we once enjoyed in our state quickly responded to the short supply and in five years, thr number one enemy not enough gas - was overcome."

A sign of the marked improvement in the industry's health, Poerner observed, is the fact that during the past two years there has only been one curtailment in the state which occurred on the first and second days of 1979 when bitter sub-freezing weather swept across Texas. Adding to the improved supply picture, the Texas energy official maintained, was the Commission's unanimous decision in April to eliminate the state level restrictions on the volume of natural gas used as an industrial boiler fuel.

The decision to rescind the Docket 600 boiler fuel use rule, Poerner said, served a dual purpose:

One was to keep the prime fuel available for Texas industry and citizens and hot have it siphoned off by other states, and two, to take advantage of the clean burning properties of natural gas in order to maintain clean air standards in Texas as long as

"As Texans, it's ours. We paid to develop it," Poerner asserted. "Our needs must come before those of other states, particularly California, a state. that has repeatedly thwarted the efforts of industry to link our resources from coast to coast. As far as I'm concerned, Californians may breathe the pollution of their own political bad Poerner said he believes California's own stringent clean air standards "appeared to be the major cause of their desire to switch from other fuel sources to our gas.'

The RRC Chairman noted that it has been natural gas that has provided the fuel to build Texas' vast coastal petrochemical and refining complex which, in turn, provides nearly a quarter of the national refining ability, 80 percent of the nation's synthetic rubber and 40 percent of our basic petrochemicals.

Poerner read a letter he received from the Texas Air Control Board which stated that TACB studies of Harris and surrounding counties indicate "as long as natural gas countinues to be used for most energy requirements, air quality in all but one very small portion of this very heavily industrialized area will be superior to that required by the national ambient air quality standard for sulfur dioxide.

"However, any substantial curtailment in the availability of natural gas will result in a rapid increase in sulfur dioxide emmissions.'

Poerner maintained that the continuing availability of natural gas should be applauded by coastal area inhabitants.

Tank rates increased

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Texas Railroad Commission approved a 5 percent rate increase Thursday for about 60 motor carriers of tanktrucks.

Schlesinger says gas outlook has improved

By J. P. SMITH The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger Thursday said the nation's summer energy outlook has improved and supplies of gasoline and other products will be 'tight but manageable." He also claimed the United States has met its International Energy Agency commitment to reduce oil consumption by 1 million barrels a day.

Schlesinger said the world oil market "is stretched taut and any further interruption could interfere, with the delicate balance we have today." He said the current shortage runs between 1 million and 2 million barrels a

Schlesinger's more optimistic energy outlook comes when his often controversial policies are continuing to draw criticism within some senior administration circles, as well as on

His-finding that the United States has already met its IEA goal, along with a firm statement Thursday that the United States has outperformed Western European nations in conservation, is geared, some administration sources said, to strengthen President Carter's position as he prepares to meet with other industrial nation leaders at the Tokyo summit later this month.

Future prices, he said, depend on decisions taken at the June 26 meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Geneva, "One would be rash to predict there will be

Leaders to make attempt to halt rise

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP - President Carter and leaders of six other industrial nations may seek ways to put a lid on spiraling world oil prices at their economic summit conference in Tokyo this month, a key administration official says.

He said they also will consider new measures to boost energy production, including coal, and for cutting oil imports, and thus consumption, beyond the 5 percent previously agreed

"It will be a fair test of the summit whether the leaders are going to be able to do something in both of these areas," he said at a briefing for reporters Thursday.

The official, who asked not to be identified, said the industrial nations expect another increase in boil prices from a meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Geneva June 26 Discussions at the economic sum-to be dominated by energy questions and oil prices. "If, as expected, OPEC raises the price, it will be a major, major issue," he said.

Besides Carter, others at the summit will be the leaders of Germany, France, Great Britain, Italy, Canada, and the host country, Japan. It will be the fifth time, beginning in France in 1975, leaders of these nations have met to discuss economic issues.

Although oil prices have been a prime topic before, they will command even greater attention in Tokyo because of oil shortages and skyrocketing prices, which are up more than 30 percent since the first of the year. The energy situation is much more consent orders with DOE to lower. their prices.

At his news conference, Schlesinger said there was no evidence of any collusion among refiners to hold back supplies and push prices upward.

In recent days, DOE and State Department analysts have suggested that OPEC will raise its prices - now officially $14.55 a barrel, although the average is more than $17 a barrel - to $18 or more. At the least, these officials say, U.S. gasoline prices will increase by 12 to 15 cents by Decem-

As for the improved outlook for domestic gasoline supplies, Schlesinger said it is due primarily to the increased output of refiners, who are now operating at 85 to 87 percent of capacity, compaed with about 83 percent in recent months. "There has been some excess conservatism in refining policy," Schlesinger said: As for the shift upward in the output of gasoline and other products, Schlesinger said, "We have strongly encouraged the industry to operate at these levels.

Last month, Schlesinger critics in the administration and on Capitol Hill, - such as Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn. - appealed to the secretary to force the oil companies to increase refinery production. Oil company executives, however, say the United States had a disproportionate share of the shortfall because of DOE pressure - since ended not to buy in the spot market and because companies can command higher profits for oil products in some other countries

At Thursday's Briefing, Schlesinger said the U.S. consumer is faced with a "disproportionate share" of the world shortfall due to the more-pronounced impact the Iranian shutdown had on U.S. oil companies, the tendency of oil exporting countries to break contracts in order to sell at more-lucrative spot market prices and the unwillingness, until recently, of U.S. companies to bid for oil in the high-priced spot market. Schlesinger said that, while the administration had asked Saudi Arabia to increase its oil production, "I do not know that we can state we have any expectation of an increase." Last week, there were reports from Riyadh that it would boost oil production by as much as half a million barrels a day in July.

Long blow predicted

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Officials say it will take more than three months to drill a relief well to ease the worst blowout ever in the Gulf of Mexico and stem the fiery loss of 630,000 gallons of crude oil daily.

Some 1.26 million gallons have been flooding into the Gulf from more than two miles below te seabed since Sunday. Half is being consumed by fire, but the other half is being recovered by special boats.

A Mexican team is preparing to start drilling a relief well but "that may take more than three months at least," Mexico's oil monopoly, PEMEX, said Thursday. -The Norwegian oil monopoly, Sta-toil, is sending 15 men to help the Mexicans, plus 35 tons of equipment, including pumps and 3,300 feet of oil The oil and an equal amount of

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - A four-day rally faltered today as the stock market headed

At noon, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off by 1.47 at 835.50, with advances outnumbering declines by 6-5 among New York Stock Exchange-listed

Big Board volume fell to 14.5 million shares after two hours of trading from 20.2 million at noon Thursday.

The Conference Board reported consumers' confidence in the future of the economy - and their plans to buy cars and appliances fell in May.

In Washington, a Japanese economic official said his government would like to see the yen appreciate substantially. The statement pushed the dollar sharply lower in New York and Europe.

Energy issues were mixed as the Interior Department proposed stepping up the sale of offshore oil leases on the Outer Continental Shelf off the U.S. East Coast:

The NYSE's composite common-stock index fell .13 to 57.40; the Amex market value index dropped .57 to

Current shortfall in repayment of loans noted

NEW YORK (AP) - The unprecedented slowdown in the repayment of consumer debt during April could mean two things: statistical error, or that borrowers are finding it difficult to meet repayment

The possibility of error never can be fully discounted in dealing with numbers issued by the federal government, since most of them are massaged by seasonal adjustment factors, to make them

Still, the shortfall in repayments was so marked as to suggest that many borrowers are running into problems with their finances. In an over-extended budget, loan repayments understandably become

This does not automatically mean the onset of a slowdown, however, because in this unique economy of ours there is still money available for installment loans. That being so, the inevitable can be delayed. An overextended borrower might, for example, simply renegotiate the the loan that he is unable to repay. The technique, repaying by reborrowing, is common enough. Uncle Sam has used it for many

Eventually, however, neither borrower nor lender is willing to put up with such tactics. Lenders get tougher, borrowers more realistic. The latter realize there is no other way out but to cut back on

The April debt statistics suggest we are coming to that point, but that we are still one step away, Consumers added $25.8 billion to their debts. And their repayments slowed, to only $21.7 billion.

That repayment figure was $1.2 billion less than in May, the sharpest repayments decline on record. It seems to indicate that borrowers had a tough time repaying. And a tough time is prelude to a spending

One doesn't need to rely solely on government figures to reach that conclusion. Delinquencies have shown up in several credit areas, home mortgage loans excepted. And personal bankruptcies are rising again. Anyone can extend the reasoning to the next step: A sharp spending cutback could catch sellers with too many goods for the lowered demand. Poor business, of course, means rising unemployment.

And unemployment means difficulties in repaying In short, while a downturn could correct a lot of the economies current imbalances - price increases, high interest rates, an inflation psychology among them — it could raise the dickens too.

The problem facing officials is to bring about a correction without creating a cascade of disruptions. This has always been the problem with corrections, but this time the dimensions might be larger. To begin with, the expansion has thrown interest rates, prices, expectations and other factors further out of line than in most recessions of the past few decades. And then there are the elections. But rarely are solutions reached for purely economic reasons; in most instances politics are in-

The dilemma for the Carter administration is whether to permit the economy to correct itself with a minimum of interference or to plunge into the battle with an array of political-weapons.

RRC appoints panel to study policy

AUSTIN-A 12-member advisory committee of experts in the Texas oil and gas industry has been appointed by the Railroad Commission to review and recommend alternate procedures for well operators seeking category status under the federal Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978.

Taylor Yoakum of Midland and William M. Fowler and Bill Roden, both of Odessa, were named to the panel that represent experts in the legal, transmission and production areas of the industry.

NGPA guidelines allow the state to design its own well category determinations, and commission General Counsel Rex White said the RRC was simply. exercising that option.

The commission's Well Classification Section has reportedly received and docketed approximately 9,800 applications from operators for natural gas well determinations.

White said his staff has prepared a draft that will result in less paperwork for operators and simplify the NGPA process.

Ex-Midlander nominated to be associated justice

AUSTIN - Gov. Bill Clements today nominated 84th District Judge Richard N. Countiss of Spearman and formerly of Midland to be an associate justice on the 7th Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo. ... He will succeed Associate Justice Charles L.

Reynolds who was tapped today to be chief justice of the appeals court. Countiss, 43, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Countiss of Midland. He is a graduate of Midland High School, McMurray College and Southern Methodist University Reynolds, 57, replaces Chief Justice Mary Lou Robinson of Amarillo, who resigned May 1 to become a U.S. district judge in the Northern District

Reynolds formerly was judge of the 100th District and was elected to the 7th Court of Civil Appeals in 1971

Hansford County Attorney Juan Ennis Blackburn, Spearman, was appointed to succeed Countiss as 84th District judge. The 84th District includes Hansford, Hutchinson and Ochiltree counties.

nation's largest union.

By OWEN ULLMANN

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the largest mergers in U.S. labor history is giving birth Thursday to a goliath organization that immodestly hopes to grow into the nation's No. 1 union.

At the helm of this creation is a young, little-known union leader suddenly perched at the forefront of the American labor movement.

The new union is the United Food and Commericial Workers, the product of two powerful food industry groups - the Retail Clerks International Union and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Work-

With a combined membership totaling 1.25 million and growing every day, the UFCW instantly becomes the AFL-CIO's largest union and the country's fourth largest - trailing only the Teamsters, the National Education Association and the United Auto Workers. Many labor observers believe the UFWC

THE MAN HEADING this giant is William H. Wynn, a 47-year-old Indiana native who started his career bagging groceries and unexpectedly became tme Retail Clerks' president in 1977 when his predecessor died in office.

By virtue of the UFCW's size and resources, Wynn will command the ear of both the labor movement's inner circle and the chieftains of the Democratic Party, from Jimmy Carter on down. After a good dose of planned media exposure, Wynn's aides hope he also will gain the public's attention as a major national figure.

The 735,000-member Retail Clerks and 520,000member Meat Cutters voted themselves out of existence and agreed to create the new union at separate conventions Tuesday and Wednesday. The marriage of the two, long-time organizing rivals marks the largest merger in organized labor since the AFL and CIO joined 24 years ago.

The founding of the new union will be commemorated Thursday and Friday at a convention that is scheduled to attract President Carter, Sen. Edward Kennedy, several cabinet members, United Auto Workers President Douglas Fraser and a host of other labor leaders.

The two unions had been talking about merging since 1972, but the talks kept bogging down. Labor leaders thought that when the clerks president, James Housewright, died in 1977, so did the merger

BUT WYNN, Housewright's successor, was determined to keep the merger alive, aides say. When a tentative agreement was reached late last year. Wynn's stock within the labor community soared.

Meat Cutter's President Harry Poole, who becomes a vice president of the new union, receives praise for helping pave the way to the merger, but Wynn gets most of the accolades.

"The perspective of Wynn was altered after he put together the merger," said one Carter administration official. "That accomplishment clearly has had a great impact on people.

major industrial unions has either been stagnant or declining But service unions like the Retail Clerks have thrived because of rapid job growth.

Membership in the clerks has nearly quadrupled since 1948. Now, with the Meat Cutter's merger, possible mergers with other food industry unions down the road and the huge pool of unorganized clerks, Wynn's new union seems to have unlimited boundaries

'We used to talk about someday being the largest union in the AFL-CIO," Wynn said in an interview earlier this year. "Well, now we have a million members. I'd like to see the day when we are the largest union in the United States. We have the

Norway seeking safety at sea

OSLO, Norway (AP) - About 200 pleasure boats are damaged by fires and explosions every summer in Norway, and 80 to 90 people are killed in

It's not surprising, then, that efforts to increase safety at sea for users of small boats rank high among Norwegians.

Safe design and construction have thus become increasingly important considerations in recent years with the dramatic rise in pleasure-boat

Today every fifth Norwegian family owns a small pleasure craft. They range in size from small open boats with outboard motors, medium-size wood or reinforced-plastic family boats - called "snekke" here - or speedy cabin cruisers for longer trips along the coast.

Norway also exports pleasure boats, with exports last year reaching some $40 million.

Because of the accidents and lost lives, Norwegian consumer organizations started a safety campaign

They came up with a form listing minimum standards of quality. These requirements, however, failed to satisfy everybody concerned and finally the Norwegian ship-classification society, Det Norske Veritas (DnV), was asked to develop a new

Prepared in cooperation with insurance companies as well as the national Maritime Affairs Directorate, the new rules appeared in 1969 and have since been adopted by all the Nordic countries.

Then classification of all pleasure boats began. Some 170 Norwegian manufacturers collaborated in this effort, and today a total of 185,000 boats and 450 different types have been classified in Norway.

Safety rules cover such features as hull strength, seaworthiness, fire resistance and fire prevention, fire-fighting facilities and provisions for escape in case of fire or accidents. Many pleasure boats today are made from glass-reinforced plastic, and special attention is paid to their construction requirements. Emphasis is put on thickness of the bottom, sides and the deck. Vessels are also strengthened for engine beds, mast support, mooring fitness and keel. Boats must also meet special requirements to avoid swamping. Stability is checked in relation to boarding methods and the maximum movement of people on board. Watertight bulkheads and bilgepump arrangements are specified to prevent leakage through the hull.

All decks need non-slip surfaces - as do all grips, handles and rails. An escape ladder on the outside is a must on all larger pleasure boats.

Prevention of fire and explosion is a central aim of the rules. Certified petrol-engine boats made of glass-reinforced plastic must be designed with separate and individually ventilated gas-tight engine and fuel-tank compartments. All petrol tanks need top connections with special attention being paid to the tightness of fuel pipelines and flexible hoses.

These and other precautions have significantly reduced the risk of fire and other mishaps in small boats around the coasts of Norway and other Nordie

DnV claims the odds of fire in certified boats are only 30 percent of the rate in other crafts.

When tulips come, it's Tuckerman time

By DAVID WYSOCKI

PINKHAM NOTCH, N.H. (AP) - While most residents of the Northeast enjoy spring, devoted adventurers annually trudge back into winter at an isolated area called Tuckerman Ravine.

They come from throughout the country to New Hampshire's postcard White Mountains, leaving the warmth of spring on the road below to struggle more than two hours and two rugged miles up a snow-covered, wind-driven trail — there is no lift. The reward? Skiing or riding an inner tube down the steep, dangerously icy slope. It takes only a few minutes - some say seconds - to reach the bottom.

The ritual has been going on year after year after year.

"ARE WE nuts? Yes, I guess so," said Andrew Painter, a 77-year-old retired New York banker who has undertaken the ski adventure each spring since 1938, "except for two years during the war when we couldn't get gas.

A run down the ravine is a treacherous challenge for the most expert skier, particularly this year with much of the surface ice-covered. A fall at the top of the bowl on the east side of 6,288foot Mount Washington.

the highest peak in the or ice-covered trail. Northeast, often means a harrowing slide to the base of the ravine.

A recent hike to the ravine began in 70-degree temperatures at the base of the mountain. But to the hikers walking up the trail, many of them lugging skis on their shoulders, the frozen beards and snow-covered backpacks seen on those walking back down was a warning of things to come.

Less than two hours later, after the grueling uphill walk, the temperature stood at about 25 degrees; snow was falling and the wind was howling, dropping the wind-chill factor to nearly 20 below.

ALONG THE way, hikers crammed into a small building, nicknamed "Howard Johnson's," to warm themselves while others stomped their feet out-

The uncomfortable circumstances aroused a cameraderie as some ate and others drank wine. They also tried to decide whether they had already had enough, or wanted to hike another hour or so to ski the bowl

"I think I'd rather have a snack and go back down where it's warm," said one young woman, who sat shivering on the > Others, who had completed the brief ride down the bowl, recounted the experience.

"IT WAS good. We got three runs in," said Martin Roth, 36, who drove eight hours with his wife, Joze, from Westchester County, N.Y. They said it was their ninth spring trip to the mountain.

This is our annual end-of-the-season run,' said Mrs. Roth. "Now we can hang up the skis."

"We couldn't even see where we were going, the snow was flying up so high," said Chet Davis, 21, a University of New Hampshire student who careened down the bowl on a large inner tube. "It was a lot more fun than

On a good day, as many as 2,000 skiers trudge up the mountain, said Rene LaRoche, a U.S. Forest Service ranger whose office is in a hut behind "Howard Johnson's.

Some seasons, he said, skiing continues well into

HE ATTRIBUTED the poor conditions at the time to relatively little snow and rain storms that washed away much of the snow, although 30-35 feet remained. More Enforcement than 50 feet in the bowl is not uncommon.

The tremendous snow depths in the cirque, a geological term used to describe an ancient glacier head, result from strong prevailing westerly winds that blow snow from the west side of the mountain, over the peak and into the bowl. 'You can get one inch on the ridge and a foot or more in the bowl from the same storm, LaRoche said. Geologists believe that if the annual mean temperature dropped slightly, Tuckerman would have snow year 'round and once again would be covered by a glacier.
