Midland College receives donation of $750,000

A contribution of $750,000 has been made by Helon Y. Allison of Midland to Midland College for establishment of the James N. and Helon Y. Allison Endowment Fund.

Proceeds from the endowment gift are for the establishment of a professorial chair, which is to be designated The Allison Chair of Journalism.

"This is a most exciting gift for me to accept on behalf of Midland College," said college President Dr. Al G. Langford.

"It offers a most unique opportunity to attract a distinguished journalist-educator to help develop and enhance an outstanding journalism program at a comprehensive community college.

"We shall set out immediately to seek outstanding applicants for this position," Langford added. "With such an endowment, we should be able to attract a qualified person able to teach and write and with a widespread reputation."

The gift was made by Mrs. Allison, widow of James N. Allison Sr., longtime publisher of The Midland Reporter-Telegram and the Plainview Daily Herald.

"Journalism was always the main business force for my husband and myself," Mrs. Allison said. "It is hoped that establishment of this journalism chair at Midland College will encourage some young people to seek careers in this field, will provide outstanding training and personal example through the holder of the chair and might, in some manner, encourage the continuation of the tradition of freedom of the press with its attendant responsibilities to the public it

The contribution was to be officially accepted later today by the Midland College Board of Trustees during its regular meeting.

"The Allisons have been a vital force in this community for many years, always supporting the needy and worthy causes of Midland and the Permian Basin," noted Jack Huff, president of the Midland College Board of Trustees.

"Their influence, encouragement and constant backing were particularly helpful during the formative years of Midland College. We are most grateful and will try to measure up to their trust."

Under terms of the gift, Midland College will select a professor to hold the Allison Chair of Journalism who has credentials that are regionally recognized, would be a leader in attracting and developing men and women who will be the journalists of tomorrow, will devote a reasonable portion of his time each year to teaching at Midland College, has an established reputation in teaching or writing and has a reasonable period for high-level contribution remaining in his professional career.

The agreement also specifies that the professor appointed to the Allison Chair of Journalism will be a member of the Midland College faculty, subject to all benefits and regulations of

OPEC's price increase biggest in five years

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The OPEC oil cartel announced its biggest price increase in five years today, raising crude oil prices to between $18 and $23.50 a barrel. The boost is expected to add four cents a gallon to the cost of gasoline and heating oil in the United States.

The 13 nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries agreed on a multi-level pricing system. The base price was raised to $18 from $14.55 a barrel, a hike of 24 percent. But members can add surcharges of as much as $2 a barrel as market conditions permit, for increases of up to 37 percent.

On top of that, the maximum price was set at $23.50 per barrel, allowing for the usual differentials for higher-quality oil. The highest price currently is $21.31 for high-grade Libyan oil.

The benchmark price of $18 is for

The benchmark price of $18 is for the type of oil known as Arabian light crude. The new prices take effect July 1 and are to last until the end of the Saudi Arabia, which had held outfor a low price, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates will be the only countries actually charging $18 a barrel, Saudi Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani told a news conference.

Yamani, who described it as "a slightly confusing system," said most other OPEC nations would charge between $21 and $22 a barrel. Observers said such nations as Nigeria, Algeria and Libya, which produce OPEC's best oil, would probably set their price at the $23.50 ceiling.

How long the $23.50 ceiling lasts will depend on whether the industrialized nations cut consumption, Yamani said.

Saudi Arabia is OPEC's biggest producer, accounting for 28 percent of the cartel's oil last year.

The United States imports about half the oil it uses, and 70 percent of that comes from OPEC countries. Saudi Arabia, the UAE and Qatar account for about one-third of OPEC's exports to the United States. Nigeria, Venezuela and Indonesia are other big sources of U.S. oil.

Because of the lag in the transportation system, American consumers are not expected to feel the direct effects of the new boosts until late summer.

Economists say the higher OPEC prices will worsen U.S. inflation, heighten the possibility of a serious recession and, in the words of one, make recent increases in fuel oil, utility and gasoline prices "seem quite modest" in comparison.

"What it means is a terribly painful additional twist on the inflation screw," President Carter's chief inflation fighter, Alfred Kahn, said of President Carter's decision to end farmers' priority status on diesel fuel will not immediately effect agriculture in this area, Midland area farmer said this week.

Farmers also indicated that diesel fuel supplies for agriculture locally are adequate.

Late last week, President Carter decided to remove farmers from the priority status for diesel as a means of helping ease the situation for striking independent truckers.

Midland County Agent Charles Green said he knew of no Midland County farmer who ever had to use his priority status to obtain fuel.

Green said he has been monitoring the local situation weekly, and farmers in the county have never been that short of fuel.

"We haven't felt the real effect of it that other areas have," Green noted. Most Midland County farmers are now through the "crunch" period for

"Our next big demand for diesel will be this fall — October, November—in the harvest," Green

Vernon Chandler, a Midland County farmer, said, "We've had plenty of dissellater," but he noted he doesn't for diesel will have an adverse effect on farmers in other areas of the nation.

Jones also said the diesel situation at harvest time will be "anybody's guess."

"I haven't felt any personal effect on it," said farmer Roy Graham. He said he believes the priority status change is "just going to move us down on the priority list a little." All the farmers contacted expressed sympathy with the plight of the nation's striking independent truckers.

Those truckers have been on strike in opposition to the price and availability of diesel fuel, the 55 mph speed limit and load restrictions.

"I think they've (truckers) got several unfair things working for them, and I sympathize with them because their expenses for diesel, trucks and everything else has gone up," commented Chandler.

He said farmers and independent truckers have much in common because both are independent businessmen and neither has control over prices nor profits.

The farmers also noted that truckers haul equipment and parts which farmers need, and then haul farmers' crops to market.

"I'm in sympathy with their plight," noted Jones. He said neither group will benefit if farmers cannot get the diesel fuel necessary to plant or harvest crops or if truckers can't get the fuel to haul the harvested crops to market.

"It's just a never-ending circle that comes back to square one," Jones

The action on refugees was the first concrete result of the seven-nation meeting that was pictured as moving toward a compromise on its No. 1 agenda item, energy:

American officials, who asked not to be identified,

In addition to the U.S. action, the other summit participants not only called for a U.N. conference on refugees, but also pledged to set aside more money for relief and resettlement efforts and admit more refugees.

Japanese chief cabinet secretary Rokusuke Tanaka told a news conference that specifics "would probably be decided in the course of the international conference ... the leaders did not go into specifics."

Most of today's summit talks focused on energy, with the aim of restraining oil imports by the seven nations represented here — the United States, Japan, France, Britain, Germany, Canada and Italy.

Fund drive under way for drug abuse program

By PATSY GORDON Staff Writer

The Palmer Drug Abuse Program is closer to reality for Midland because of a fund-raising campaign now under way in the city, with $16,000 in pledges already in toward the goal of $50,000, said Giffert Alstrin, general chairman of PDAP's organizational board.

PDAP is a treatment program in the field of drug and alcohol rehabilitation for teenagers and young people, begun in 1971 by Bob Meehan of Houston, a former user of marijuana, heroin and cocaine and an alcoholic.

The program presently is operating successfully in 15 cities, including San Angelo, Houston and Dallas, and has helped more than 21,000 persons since its inception, Meehan said. Odessa also is attempting to gain the services of PDAP.

The $50,000 goal, Midland's budget for the first year, is earmarked for initial operating expenses, including the training of four counselors and

Persons wishing to assist with PDAP coming to Midland have five levels of contributions to consider.

Donations of from $25 to $100 constitutes a friend, while $350 is an advocate gift; $1,000, a sponsor; $2,500, a benefactor, and $5,000, a patron. All contributions are tax deductible, and $350 supports one individual for one year in PDAP.

Checks can be made payable to PDAP-Midland, C/O Western State Bank, Giffert Alstrin, trustee, P.O. Box 4147, Midland 79701.

Meehan started the first PDAP facility when he decided there should be a way for young people to keep from going through all of the misery he said he went through with the problems of drug and alcohol abuse.

"In the last few years, drug abuse has become a world-wide problem," Meehan said. "It is a plague no longer contained in low socio-economic areas, but has found its popularity in affluent areas, where funds for the purchase of narcotics are easily available.

ODESSA — Gasoline has exceeded $1 a gallon at two Ector County serice stations.

Mars Service Station, 3722 Andrews Highway, raised the price of its gasoline from 99.9 cents per gallon across the board Tuesday morning. The new prices place the cost of gasoline at the station at $1.058 per gallon for regular, $1.118 for unleaded and $1.138 for premium.

the OPEC increase in Washington. 'Perhaps even worse, it will push all the economies in the direction of recession.... The only real solution has got to be curbing our purchases of Energy Secretary James Schle-singer said Wednesday that a boost to $20 a barrel would mean a U.S. bill for imported oil next year of $65 billion to $70 billion. The United States spent $42 billion on imported oil in 1978 and $5 billion in 1972.

At their Tokyo summit, Carter and the leaders of six other major industrialized nations are trying to set specific oil-import ceilings for their countries for the rest of this year and all of 1980, American officials said.

The agreement was worked out late Wednesday night, prolonging the meeting into a third day, after moderate and radical members "narrowed the gap gradually until they got where they are," said Cyrus Ebrahimzadeh of the Iranian delegation.

Libya, Iran and Iraq had demanded that the price of OPEC's benchmark crude oil be raised to between $23 to $27 per 42-gallon barrel from $14.55.

The increases in the base price are the largest since 1974, when prices quadrupled during the Arab oil embargo. Analysts estimate that retailprices of gasoline and heating oil in the United States rise a penny per gallon for each 5 per cent rise in the base price of crude oil. But because the surcharges in the past three months have raised the average price of OPEC oil to $17, experts say the rise at the gas pump and on heating bills will work out to about 4 cents a gallon:

The OPEC oil ministers will meet again in Caracas, Venezuela, in December. But delegates would not rule out the possibility of another meeting before that if market conditions changed

The price structure approved by OPEC represents a little something for each of the cartel's 13 members. Saudi Arabia got the $18 price it wanted, but had to give some ground to more radical members.

In doing so, however, the Saudis did not, as some experts had predicted, make any immediate change in their production policy. There had been speculation before the meeting that Saudi Arabia would raise its production, alleviating the world oil shortage and undermining higher OPEC prices, if it felt the price decided by the cartel was too high.

Yamani did say, however, that Saudi Arabia plans to bring maximum capacity over several years to 14 million barrels a day from about 10.5 million barrels daily at present.

The Saudi minister apparently had been backing a lower price out of fear that a massive increase would seriously damage the world economy. But he said a worldwide recession is still in the offing unless energy consumption is cut.

Randy Martin, where are you? Midland College officials would be happier today if they knew the answer to that question. Martin, representing R.L. Martin Construction Co., was awarded a $70,000 contract to build the Midland Tennis Center on the college campus several months

But last month, according to college officials, Martin walked off the job and disappeared. No one has seen him since

Of course, the college will get its tennis center, but it may be four months late and could cost county taxpayers an additional $20,000.

According to Midland College President Al Langford, the center will consist of a single-story enclosed structure with a concession, restrooms and a small pro shop. to sell items such as tennis balls.

"It will be a first-class facility," Langford said. The first-class facility has experienced some firstorder problems, however.

For one, the structure does not conform to architectural specifications, and sections of the roof and some of the inside partitions will have to be removed and redone, Langford said. Metal bracing will be added to the roof for additional support.

A little more than a week ago, the college hired HBF Construction Co., a local firm, to finish the project,

HBF agreed to finish the job - estimated at 20 percent complete - for $75,000, associate architect Bill Babb

Company employees were busy this week dismantling much of the work Martin's crew had completed. Costs on the project will increase an estimated $20,-000, Langford said.

Who will pay? "I don't know," Langford said. "We'll either lose tax money or private gift money, one of the two."

Langford said the college was considering a lawsuit in "We are looking at it (a law suit) and seeing what the ramifications are;" Langford said.

According to the college president, Martin had been asked to correct some structural deficiencies in the building before he left.

Babb said Martin was aware of the deficiencies and said he would correct them. Repeated attempts to contact Martin were unsuccess-

According to various sources, Martin was "in the great Northwest.

Babb said it took almost a month just to discover that the contractor had left the job.

Extra costs on the project, designed by Preston Geren and Associates of Fort Worth, include a $10,000 fee for HBF Construction, which has accepted the job on a cost-plus basis, and "$8,000-$10,000" in additional repairs on the facility, Langford said.

While Midland College is a taxing entity, most of the funds for the tennis center were provided by Midland College Foundation, a private, non-profit corporation that raises money for the school, Langford said. Langford said that Martin "came with recommendations that he could do the job." R.L. Martin Construction Co. was formed for the Midland College project, Babb said. No one knew the location of other work Martin had done in the city, however, Additional bids were not requested on the project. Langford said that bids need only be requested one

Jim Allison, employed with the state accounting division of the Texas Attorney General's office in Austin, said that bids can be foregone if the second firm is hired to fulfill the terms of the first firm's contract. Construction on the tennis complex at Midland College is part of a joint agreement with the city of Midland. Both entities contributed funds to construct the 12 tennis courts in the northeast portion of the campus. The city has agreed to install lighting for the courts. Wayne Kohout, director for the city's Parks and Recreation Department said that lighting for four courts is in this year's budget and that additional funds are being requested for the courts next year. "We're in the budget stage right now," he said.

When finished, the facility will be open to the public whenever Midland College is not conducting physical education classes.

Tank trucks escorted by National Guard

By The Associated Press

National Guardsmen armed with bayonet-tipped rifles escorted tank trucks from oil terminals in North Carolina today as independent haulers resumed picketing at a large terminal in Alabama. Truckers in Iowa and Tennessee began returning to work Wednesday as Maine drivers camped out at a National Guard Armory in Augusta to await Gov. Joseph Brennan's return from a meeting in Canada.

There were renewed incidents of violence, with firebombs and sniper shootings aimed at trucks on the road. Thousands of nails were dumped Wednesday on Interstate 5, one of California's busiest truck routes, but they were quickly cleaned up and tire damage was reported to be minimal.

Shots from high-powered rifles were fired at two trucks on U.S. 301 near Cecilton, Md., and one driver suffered superficial wounds. Three trucks were fired upon in widely scattered areas of Alabama Wednesday night and early today, but no one was hurt. And nails were scattered along interstate highways 85 and 77 in North

Food stocks generally remined adequate at supermrkets in the Midwest and East, but grocers predicted higher prices and shortages within days. Some meat and poultry wholesalers in New York closed early due to reduced supplies. Independent drivers have been on strike for three weeks in protest of high diesel fuel prices, the 55 mph speed limit and weight limits that vary from state to state.

On Wednesday, Vice President Walter Mondale asked independent truckers to "get the country moving again." He warned that the strike would soon disrupt the nation's economy, promised safe passage for drivers who wanted to return to work.

"The action by some truckers is putting jobs in jeopardy and threatening food shortages and the economy in general at a moment when we can least afford it," he said.

Presidential assistant Jack Watson said the federal government was working with state officials to arrange "safe corridors of movement on major arteries." However, he said, the use of federal troops would be "an absolutely last resort.'

While a lack of trucks has forced some farmers to plow rotting crops back into the ground, targets in the often-violent shutdown primarily have been fuel terminals. North Carolina Gov. Jim Hunt put the National Guard on alert Wednesday to protect terminals.

"Much of the truckers' peaceful leadership has been repudiated and threats of violence to life and property have increased at petroleum terminals in Greensboro and Charlotte," he said. "They are threatening the safety and welfare of the people of North Carolina, which it is my sworn duty to protect '

Bob Perry, one of seven drivers arrested earlier in the day for allegedly blocking a truck leaving the Charlotte terminal, called Hunt's action "totally irresponsible."

Asked if he thought the presence of guardsmen could lead to violence, he said, "That's what I'm afraid of. Anytime you get this large a group doing something like this to try to keep from starving, it's more or less like pouring gasoline on the fire."

In Illinois, 50 National Guardsmen were ordered to patrol two truck routes where violence has flared. Two Illinois men were arrested Wednesday and charged with armed violence for three sniping incidents in which one trucker was injured by flying

Henley convicted again; Third trial predicted

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Even before Elmer Wayne Henley's second murder trial ended in a conviction, the defendant's mother was talking about a third trial.

"We'll have our trial and put on our defense," she said as jurors deliberated here Wednesday. "Until they suppress those confessions, there's no sense in putting on a defense.

'Those confessions" formed the crux of the state case as prosecutors convinced an eight-man, fourwoman jury to find Henley, 23, guilty of six murders in the Houston mass slaying of the early

The jury took two hours and 20 minutes to deliberate on the guilt questions. They then returned to the jury room for 40 minutes before recommending six concurrent life sentences

The confession Mary Henley spoke about was a written statement the then teen-aged Henley gave police in August 1973. He had called the Pasadena, Texas, police and said he had shot Dean Corll he didn't want any money. The defense, which did not offer witnesses nor evidence, tried to prevent the jury from hearing the detailed statement Henley gave police after his arrest. The statement was given as Henley led investigators to 26 buried bodies. Gray tried to convince State District Judge Noah Kennedy that Henley's rights were violated. But witnesses here testified that Henley was aware of his rights and chose not to have a lawyer present. After the trial, prosecutors admitted that without the statement, the state might have had a tough time getting a conviction.

One lawyer also said the extent of the mass murders may never have been discovered if Henley had not led police to the three burial sites. Vance made an impassioned plea for the maxi-

Let's strike back now

It's ridiculous, it's scandalous - the action of the OPEC countries in advancing the price of their crude oil to around $20 per barrel. The oil sheiks apparently have one thing in mind, to bring the industrialized nations, particularly the United States, to their knees.

And the unfortunate part about it is that they have the weapon to accomplish their goal, unless prompt steps are taken to overcome a bad situation.

It is time - way past time, in fact - for the United States to curb its dependence on foreign oil as a means of survival.

The unbridling of the domestic petroleum industry with a "go" signal to find and produce all the oil and gas possible as an emergency measure, should be the very first step.

Efforts then should be directed to the production and use of coal, the environmental extremists notwithstanding. The same thing holds for stepped-up construction of nuclear power plants. Pipelines and refineries should be rushed to completion when and where necessary, and synthetics should be researched, developed and put into use as rapidly as possible. And, of course, conservation must be practiced to the fullest extent.

It is a doggone shame for this nation, with its abundance of oil and gas in the ground, with an almost unlimited supply of coal and with other energy-producing potentials, to sit idly by and let the OPEC nations take full advantage of a situation without at least trying to do something about it. Now is the time for action. Hopefully, it yet isn't too late.

The United States today is in one of its most hazardous positions ever, due to the energy crisis and to other causes, some of which have been brought about because of the energy shortage. Washington certainly should be aware of the critical situation facing the nation in what could very well be another long, hot summer in more ways than one. Prompt action in meeting the problems is essential.

Violence in the wake of the widdespread strike of many independent truckers, along with the frustration of motorists seeking gasoline, could develop into one of the most pressing problems of the day. A shooting incident which reportedly occurred near Midland Saturday night brought the seriousness of the situation much closer to home.

Regardless of the right or wrong of the truckers' situation, law and order must prevail in all such matters if America is to survive. Otherwise, anarchy takes over. This is not the American way. And in reviewing the overall situation in which the nation finds itself, one cannot help but wonder who is to blame for the violence, the gasoline shortages and other problems which are straining the social fabric.

We agree wholeheartedly with a Dallas Morning News editorial which said, "We would not have these gasoline shortages now and without the shortages, there would be no violence - were it not for the stupidity of federal policy. Government policy, not the nature of Fallen Man, has contrived the gasoline shortage."

The editorial went on to say that "Price controls on crude oil and on gasoline are the original cause, because they depressed production. Of this there is no doubt whatever....

"Is any thought meantime being given to decontrolling prices and letting the free market ration our supplies in the short term and in the long term build them back up again?"

And the answer to that certainly is a resounding "NO," insofar as can be noted from this vantage

But again, something must be done NOW to start meeting these major challenges. The United States can do the job IF unnecessary rules and regulations are lifted and the free enterprise system is permitted to work, without government interference. Let's get with it before the OPEC nations take charge completely.

Threat could become a reality

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - On the eve of President Carter's visit to South Korea, we have disturbing evidence that our Korean ally has in the past tried to force the United States to protect it by threatening to develop its own nuclear bombs. They may still be employing this form of international

According to a secret report by the Central Intelligence Agency, South Korea's President Park Chung Hee regarded in many circles as a puppet dependent on U.S. military might for his survival - warned that "if the United States withdraws its nuclear. umbrella, South Korea would have to begin developing its own nuclear weapons.

This instance of the tail wagging the dog would be laughable if it weren't for the hair-raising possiblity that Park could make his threat a reality. In fact, another CIA report noted that Park was trying to buy from France a nuclear fuel reprocessing plant that could produce plutonium, an essential ingredient of nuclear weapons. Pressure from the United States and Canada led Park to cancel the order. but the CIA reported that this would "not foreclose Seoul's program to develop nuclear weapons.

"The South Koreans will probably continue to work clandestinely on other less important aspects of the weapons plan," the CIA reported. 'Seoul, of course, could try again to obtain a reprocessing facility either openly or in secret.'

The CIA refused to comment on the report. "The whole subject of South Korea and nuclear weapons is classified," an official told our associate Frank Washington, "so I can't even give you any hints.' However, he did not deny that Park had made the statement attributed to him, or that the CIA had theorized that South Korea would try to develop nuclear weapons secretly.

On the other hand, State Department officials told us that the United States and South Korea have indeed discussed nuclear weapons, and "we have their assurance" that they will not develop a nuclear arsenal. Though the officials expressed confidence that there is no imminent threat that Park will go back on this assurance, they conceded that the South Koreans 'still have the scientific capability.' One official added: "They will not use (the capability) except in an extreme

But another State Department official pointed out that the memory of a million deaths in the Korean War and the realization that Seoul is only 25 miles from the Demilitarized Zone are a constant reminder that "South Korea is always facing the enemy. In other words, a situation that the United States might not consider "extreme" may well be deemed so by the South Koreans.

Meanwhile, there is little doubt among our intelligence experts that South Korea has the know-how and the resources to produce nuclear bombs. In fact, a secret intelligence estimate warned that Seoul could have a nuclear device ready to go some time this year. There is no doubt whatever that the South Koreans are engaged in an ambitious program of industrial nuclear development. They have a 564-megawatt reactor going into operation this year, a 629-megawatt reactor under construction that will be operational in 1982 and a 605megawatt reactor scheduled to go on line in 1983. A Department of Energy official told us two more reactors - 994 megawatts each - have been ordered and the Park regime is considering from the United States, France and Germany

A nation with peaceful nuclear capability can always turn its knowledge to military production. This sobering fact, when taken in light of Park's threat, may have influenced President Carter's decision not to withdraw American troops from South Korea as he at first indicated he

Keeping our troops - and our nuclear weapons - in South Korea may be the only way the United States can prevent membership in the "nuclear club" from getting out of Park's blackmail, in short, is no idle threat.

FISCAL FINAGLERS: When is a $2 million saving not a saving? When clever bureaucrats are juggling taxpayers' money, that's when.

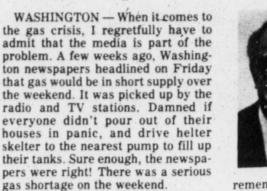

Paper shufflers at the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH), a relatively modest government agency (current budget about $140 million a year), have found a way to keep from turning back money to the Treasury on the rare occasions when a program costs less than they thought it would. An internal memo to NEH Chairman Joe Duffey from his deputy Jack Whitelaw spells it out.

Basically, the little shell game involves budgetary devices known as "one-year" and "no-year" ap-propriations. Any money left over from one-year appropriations must by law be turned over to the Treasury's general fund; no-year money can be carried over indefinitely. So, as Whitelaw explains, when surplus funds turn up in the one-year column, "we would adjust our records" to show that the money came from the no-year pot. They then find another program that had been funded from the no-year account and 'adjust the records" again to show that it came from the one-year kitty. That way, nothing has to be given back to the Treasury.

'Although this may have the appearance of questionable tampering with the books, it is perfectly legal, Whitelaw assured his boss. It could, he said, save the agency $2 million a year, by which he means they would have that much more to spend. It would of course save the taxpayers absolutely nothing.

you give me?" Nat told him, "I can let you have 12 from my present shipment, but you can't tell anyone.

My father carried the heavy package home and unloaded the mustard in the closet. He happened to mention to a neighbor on the same floor what Nat had told him, and within a week it seemed everyone in Forest Hills had heard that there would be a mustard crisis in the United States, the likes of which the country had never seen.

Mustard started disappearing from shelves all over the area. But my father was secure because he had his connection with Nat, who managed to save a dozen jars for him every time he went into the store.

The food closet in the apartment was jammed, and pretty soon the mustard took over space in the dish closet, and even the broom closet.

My sisters protested that there was no way they could eat all the mustard, even if the war lasted another ten

But Pop told them Nat knew more than they did.

Once the mustard crisis died down, Nat tipped off my father that Washington was going to cut back oatmeal production by 50 percent. Pop immediately bought every box of oatmeal in Another time it was tapioca, and then it was canned Argentinian corned beef. By some coincidence whatever wasn't moving in Nat's store, suddenly was going to be in short supply.

I guess Nat's greatest triumph came the day he put a sign in his window saying: "Only Two Cans of Rhubarb to a Customer." There was a run on canned rhubarb in Forest Hills that old-timers remember to this

In fairness to Nat, he always took care of his old customers first, and my father managed to wangle two cases of rhubarb out of him, without anybody in the town finding out about

While the rest of the family thought Pop had been taken for a ride, he refused to hear one bad thing about his grocer. Years later when we were kidding him, he said indignantly. "Don't make fun of Nat, he gave us mustard during the war.

Landmen 'very bullish' on America's oil potential

EL PASO, Texas - The petroleum "landmen," those optimistic people who acquire and manage land to explore for oil and gas, are predicting that the grievous oil import problem can be turned around in a few years if the federal government will only let them cut loose.

'We're very bullish," says Harold D. Carter, 1978-79 president of the American Association of Petroleum Landmen. "President Carter's move to deregulate is a very bold step, and he's to be commended

"If we can get better prices, we'll find more oil and gas. It's there to be found. It's harder to get at, but there's @ plenty left in North America and we'll find it.

"If our oil goes to world prices, I promise that the industry will narrow that import gap significantly. That's better for our balance of payments and means more jobs and business here. Even if we went to $40 oil, at least the money won't be going to Saudi Arabia.

"Practically speaking, 10 years from now, we'll be at 65 percent domestic and 35 percent imported. But it could go to 75 percent domestic, if they'll give us the chance." With the United States currently dependent on imports for 45 percent of its petroleum, Carter's statements amount to good news. But there's a catch. As a dedicated member of the oil fraternity, Carter says that the President's "excise tax is an unfortunate political trade-off' which could inhibit capital expansion in the oil

Whatever the merits of the argument over "windfall profits" or "excise tax," there's no question that domestic oil exploration and production has only come out of the doldrums in recent years.

Until the Fifties, the United States imported very little oil, but then the cheap prices of Arabian crude accelerated imports. As imports increased, exploration for new oil in the United States declined.

'When I graduated from the University of Texas in 1962," Carter says, "there was such a fear of not getting a job in geology, that there was only one freshman majoring in geology. By the late Sixties, domestic rig and drilling companies were going broke. The international outfits were doing all right, though. But oil people were leaving the business by the thou-

After the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo. landmen and others in oil were hopeful for recovery of domestic production. But they discovered that a squeeze in capital, the prevalence of obsolete equipment, the end of the depletion allowance, a wad of new environmental and safety regulations issued by the federal government, plus domestic oil controlled at onethird less than the world level, discouraged new exploration and reworking of old wells. Deregulation has already caused a boomlet. "The inventory of acreage under lease for exploration is the highest it's been in 20 years," Carter says. "The big companies are spending more money back here than they have in five years. The majors are going into frontiers like the Overthrust Belt (Wyoming).

'The acquisition of land isn't as difficult as getting permits to drill. It used to take us two or three days for permits, now it's up to 55 days. There are too many petty bureaucrats who fancy themselves as environmentalists. One such guy in Alaska cost a company $1.5 million in delay time because he kept saying, 'Nobody is going to set foot on my tundra!' His tundra?

Last month Dalton J. Woods, an independent oil and gas producer from Louisiana, testified in Congress that producers are "blocked at every turn by a hostile government and an army of federal regulators," and that "independents now spend more time coping with regulations than they do in searching for new oil and gas. In a time of crisis, this tremendous waste of skill and manpower is tragic."

He cited statistics showing that the costs of drilling and equipping new wells increased far more than the return from this new oil. Woods says it is a misconception to confuse the profits of major integrated oil companies - which have many other enterprises - with those of independents whose only pursuit is additional oil sources in the United States. Still, one senses the domestic oil produce's - including the enterprising landmen - have some very good years ahead. The United States does have enormous proven petroleum reserves, and one estimate holds that their value has increased $800 billion since the first crisis in 1974.

With imports climbing from 29 percent in 1972 to 43 percent last year and threatening to climb to nearly 50 percent next year, while domestic producers crank up, there might be new pressures put on Congress and the Administration to let the oil explorers

"One of our problems is image," says Carter, a neatly dressed Texan from Dallas. "People have been made to think that we drive around in big Cadillacs, wear cowboy boots and are big spenders. With that image, it's no wonder that Washington has been beating on us for 20 years. Why, the hypocrisy of 'Scoop' Jackson, attacking us for asking for depleteion allowance. # Goldsmith survives between boomtown, ghost town

GOLDSMITH - Goldsmith is one of those boomtowns out of the 1930s that neither got on the progress bandwagon to stay nor died a ghost town.

It's somewhere in between. "It's had its ups and downs," said Mary Nell Young.

"It had a little more then than it does now," said her husband, Warren Young, as he was about to drive off in his pickup truck.

"Oh, I wish there was some place to eat out tonight," sighed Liz Laughlin, as she looked over an invoice at the Town & Country grocery store, which she and her husband Bill operate seven days a week.

'There's not much to know (about Goldsmith)," said Connie Mitchell, a clerk in the store.

Most of the store's business comes from oil field crews stopping by for lunch, colds drinks, this 'n' that and beer after their workday is done.

They do now. Most drive into Odessa or Midland to shop

NOW, T.S. "SI" Cranfill and his wife Bernice remember when Goldsmith was a thriving community. He's 70. She's 66. Both are retired.

'He worked in the oil field, and I fed all the people who worked in it," said Mrs. Cranfill, who operated a cafe with Beulah McLeaish for 20 years.

They moved here to stay in 1938 three years after oil was discovered

And what was just "open fields" suddenly became covered with tarpaper shacks, trailer houses, tents, steam-powered cable-tool drilling rigs, pumping units and tanks to hold the crude oil.

'There wasn't a paved road in this part of the country then," recalled Cranfill, who works in the oil field. "This was just open field," Mrs. Cranfill recalled.

Though Goldsmith certainly is not the outwardly booming town it was, it does have some of the features of larger communities. However, it's missing a bank, hospital, funeral home and pool hall.

"WE USED TO HAVE a chamber of commerce, but it fizzled out," said Mrs. Laughlin.

Though it's not exactly a has-been, Goldsmith did have two motion-picture theaters, three hotels (the Texas, Belle and Goldsmith), an arcade, mercantile-hardware store, ice house, dry goods store, Potts hospital, variety store, lumber yard, barber shop, drug store and far more beer joints and filling stations and grocery stores than it has now

"This was a busy little town," said Betty Fife, city secretary. "It's still a busy town." Goldsmith today has "a lot of things - (oil field-related) businesses - around here...a lodge and churches and all the things that go with the good things.

But "back then" in Goldsmith's heydays in the 1930s and 1940s, "People never thought about going to town to buy groceries" and do other shopping, Mrs. Fife said.

"Odessa wasn't nothing, really wasn't," she said. "Lots of people thinks that's funny now, but it's

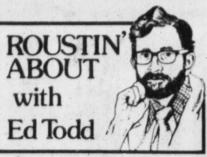

FACT IS, OIL FIELD crews fled places such as Odessa and other towns to live and work at Goldsmith to develop the oil fields.

The rush was on. "And then all of a sudden, people moved to the boomtown," Mrs. Cranfill said. "They didn't drive like they do now. They (oil companies) wanted you to be near your work.

"It was a little boomtown," she said. "They all hailed in here overnight and just moved in anything they Goldsmith blossomed. Oil companies, both majors and minors, plugged away for their share of the black gold.

Gulf set up pipeline and production camps. Stanolind (now. Amoco) moved in. So did Shell, Humble (Exxon) The Texas Co. (Texaco), Phillips and others

Independents such as John W. Herbert Oil Co. of Fort Worth got into production.

El Paso Natural Gas Co., back in Goldsmith's heyday, built a plant next to Phillips and turned Phillips' 'waste' (sour) gas into marketable gases and shipped much of the natural gas to California

Oil companies formed little villages called camps and built houses for their workers to live in.

THEN, ALONG CAME 1941 and World War II, which served as a catalyst for the oil field camps and, like the oil, helped Odessa grow from a "nothing" town to an over-grown country town to a city of about 100,-

U.S. Army Air Force bombardier bases were put in at Big Spring and Midland; an Air bomber-crew trainig base was set up at Pyote. Other pilot training bases set up across West

"During the war, we had gasoline rationing, and people couldn't go anywhere," she said.

Petroleum production was increased to fuel the war effort.

'And surging production gave rise to camps. Since oil company production was crucial to "the cause," oil companies got all the material, such as lumber and other building supplies, they needed; individuals could not. Camps, such as those of El Paso

Natural Gas Co., grew after the war. Though production kept up, camps started dying off in later years; oil field crews could commute to work over the maze of hard-topped roads and highways.

THOUGH GOLDSMITH certainly is not the outwardly booming town it was, it does have some of the features of larger communities. However, it's missing a bank, hospital, funeral home and pool hall.

It does have, though, a volunteer fire department, free ambulance service, two cafes (one closes at 2 p.m. daily and the other is shut down right now while the boss is on vacation), three churches, a Masonic lodge, two burger places, post office, elementary school, swimming pool, tennis court, paved streets, barking dogs, a mayor, fire chief and a deputy sher-here anymore, said Mrs. Laughlin. That doesn't matter for many - as long as there's a living to be made. Some, like Mrs. Cranfill, get deeply attached to the country.

Little Leaguer booted out when mom won't sell food

JACKSON TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Twelve-year-old outfielder Jeffrey Howarden has retired from the The commission Yankees after being benched because his mother refused to work at the Little League concession

Local bylaws require parents to donate four hours' work during the season to league operations. Otherwise, their children may lose the right to play.
"The junk they sell isn't good for children," said

Jeffrey's mother, Florence Howarden, of her refusal to work at the stand.

But Lud DePasquale, local league president, said Mrs. Howarden never objected to any specific food at the stand, which sells hot dogs, hamburgers, cheese, steak sandwiches, french fries and candy.

"She thinks she's too good to work in the stand," said DePasquale. "She said she wanted to be an umpire. I asked her what she knew about baseball rules and she said 'nothing.' ... I said 'come down, put on the equipment and we'll put you behind the plate.' She never showed."

DePasquale said the league hated to bench Jeffrey, but "I don't think we're being unreasonable to ask parents to work the concession stand one night in

MO-FI Receivers, Decks, 79

The commissioner's office disagrees. Joe Losch, the Little League's Eastern Region director, said the league soon will get a letter of reprimand.

"A child may be benched for normal disciplinary action," Losch said. "He should not be benched for a mother's refusal to work a concession stand."

Mrs. Howarden has baked cakes for league sales the past three years and also serves as a Girl Scout leader, remedial math tutor and Sunday school teacher. Her husband, John, has been a league umpire in past seasons, but he was injured at work in December and was on crutches until recently.

In a similar case, a Little League requirement that youngsters meet a candy-selling quota prompted an Indianapolis father to file a $20,000 lawsuit earlier this month.

Charles W. Ponsler Jr. filed suit against the Edgewood Athletic Association Inc. Little League, charging that his two children were kicked off teams because they didn't sell enough candy.

Ponsler said his children were not told about the requirement when they signed up in February. A hearing is scheduled Aug. 2.

Somoza calls special session

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) -President Anastasio Somoza called a special session of the Nicaraguan Congress today amid widespread rumors that it would seek a formula for his departure from office. Meanwhile, the national guard announced it launched a counter-offensive against Sandinista rebels occupying territory north of the Costa Rican border, and the new U.S. ambassador, Lawrence Pezzullo, arrived in Managua.

The government was making a major effort to round up members of Congress from across the strife-torn country. It chartered private planes and used national guard helicopters to bring the congressmen and their alternates to the Intercontinental Hotel, where the session was to be held because it could be protected better than the government palace.

Despite the expectations of action on the president's future, Somoza's private secretary, Max Kelly, claimed the session would be a routine meeting only.

'You guys are going to be surprised when nothing unusual happens," he told foreign reporters.

U.S. officials said the State Department instructed Pezzullo not to present his credentials to Somoza to demonstrate the Carter administration's opposition to his continuing in office. But they said the ambassador was expected to call on Somoza shortly. and would urge him to resign.

On the southern battlefront where Leftist takeover appears probable in Nicaragua

WASHINGTON (AP)- State Department officials say a left-wing takeover in Nicaragua appears highly probable despite an intense U.S. effort to promote the country's moderate political forces. The officials, expressing their thoughts on the condition they not be identified by name, believe the regime of President Anastasio Somoza is on the way out and that the only remaining question is just how far left the successor government will be.

A new U.S. ambassador, Lawrence Pezzullo, has assumed his duties in Managua with a mandate to do what he can to implement an Organization of American States resolution approved last Saturday

The main features of the resolution include a call for an immediate end to the Somoza regime and its replacement by a democratic government.

But the Carter administration is clearly disturbed by the prospect that the country's political future may be dictated by a provisional government appointed by the Sandinista guerrilla movement 10 days ago

Administration officials do not believe the junta represents a broad spectrum of Nicaraguan opinion, pointing out that three of its five members are regarded as leftists.

The United States has been steadily disassociating itself from the Somoza government for the past several months. But the Sandinista movement and the Cuban government believe the United States actually is maneuvering to maintain Somoza's forces in power. The Cuban foreign ministry, for example, issued a statement last week saying the United States sought

To convince skeptics its anti-Somoza statements are not a subterfuge, the State Department dispatched Pezzullo to Managua with instructions not to present his diplomatic credentials to Somoza

In this way, the administration softened the impact of its decision to send an ambassador to Nicaragua at a time when other Latin American countries are breaking diplomatic relations with the Somoza regime.

Asked why the administration sent Pezzullo, State Department spokesman Thomas Reston said, "It is useful to have a senior and respected diplomat on the scene.

The administration appears to be pinning its hopes for a moderate solution on the influence of other non-communist Latin American countries.

Since the OAS resolution was approved, U.S. diplomats have been engaged in intense discussions with such countries as Argentina, Brazil, Mexico, Panama, Costa Rica, Panama and the five-nation Andean Pact.

silent about the nature of these negotiations but Assistant Secretary of State Viron Vaky, in congressional testimony Tuesday, suggested the objective is to ensure a moderate solu tion in Nicaragua. 'Nicaraguans and our democratic friends in Latin America," he said, "have no intention of seeing Nicaragua turned into a second Cuba, and are determined to prevent the subversion of their anti-Somoza cause by Castro. We join them in that important objective.'

at least 1,000 guerrillas have pushed several miles into the country from Costa Rica, radio reports from Costa Rica said the border town of Penas Blancas on the Pan American Highway came under mortar fire Wednesday from national guard positions.

Radio Sandino, the guerrilla station, claimed the rebel forces in the south advanced several miles toward Rivas, the provincial capital which the Sandinista Liberation Front said it would proclaim the provisional capital of Nicaragua when it drove the national guard north of it.

The national guard's planes and helicopters continued to bomb and strafe rebel-held slums of Managua, and the guerrillas fought back with rockets and automatic weapons from foxholes and from behind paving stone barricades Foreign journalists who visited

Syria hangs 14 in crackdown

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) - President Hassan Assad's government hanged 14 terrorists and executed another one by firing squad at dawn today in a crackdown on the right-wing Moslem Brotherhood.

The executions came less than a day after Syrian and Israeli jets dueled in the skies over southern Lebanon in the first aerial combat between the two nations since 1974. # Is forcing music lessons on kids child abuse?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: LONG-SUFFERING DAD, critical of parents who force their children to take music lessons, said; "I think forcing music lessons on a child is a form of child abuse!"

You let that go by without com-ments, Abby. For the record, I'm among those who resisted music lessons, preferring football, basketball, baseball - anything to an hour's daily practice. But my mother forced me to continue taking piano lessons and to practice an hour a day.

After about 10 years I got pretty good at it, and have enjoyed playing the piano for much of my life. I also learned a great deal about discipline, poise under pressure at recitals, as well as the joy of music.

If forcing music lessons on a child is

Sign this, "Forced to Learn and Glad of It"...or... - BOB L. IN BLACK BUTTE

DEAR BOB: My mail ran about 50to-l against "forcing music lessons on kids." Now hear this: DEAR ABBY: I read with special interest the letters on forcing children to study music; I was a part of that scene for many years.

I taught piano for over 50 years. When I first started I charged 50 cents a lesson, and in those days that was a lot of money to most people.

Some of my beginners hated piano from the start and wanted to quit, but their parents wouldn't hear of it, so they'd come for lessons week after week without having looked at their music books. What a waste of time! Theirs and mine.

A few of my students were so hopeless I threatened to quit giving them lessons, then their parents would beg me to keep them, and of course I did — partly because I needed the $2 a month and partly because I reasoned that what little they learned would be better than total ignorance. There are some parents who use a musical education as a form of discipline. They are convinced that it builds a child's character to do something he hates! - FORMER PIANO TEACHER (Now 84)

DEAR TEACHER: Most kids are forced to do two things they "hate" every day; 1) get up in the morning; go to sleep at night.

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago our small gift shop was robbed.

A few days ago a young man came into the shop, introduced himself and asked to meet the owners. We identified ourselves as the owners, then he told us that he and two other boys had committed the robbery. He apologized and made full restitution for the merchandise stolen, plus 8 percent interest for the 10 years!

Peggy Pletcher, home economist. Along with John Miller, meat specialist and barbecuer par excellence, she's running a series of three classes to make men more at home in the kitchen. If they're successful, the classes will be made a regular feature of extension services.

The first session presented an overview of food preparation and buying. Cooks and would-be master chefs were given ideas on how to stretch food dollars, put the budget and menu together and provide good nutrition.

The next meeting focuses on barbecuing, with Miller putting on a demonstration of his specialty. The last session is concerned with food processors, microwave ovens and ways of preparing meals on the run.

Both Miller and the home economist say the classes aren't courses in gourmet cooking. "We're not getting into elaborate saucery or exotic foods that are hard to find

Although we won't "go metric" tomorrow, the metric in our future is faced with shuddering by many. We will change from Farenheit to Celsius, inches to centimeters, yards to meters, ounces to grams, pounds to kilograms, teaspoons to millimeters,

It has taken an enterprising couple, Cheryl and Leonard Yablon of Philadelphia, to develop a precise guide for cooks and food shoppers. It is called "Gourmet's Metric Guide."

The guide is the metric equivelent of the slide rule, but it is in the round, a 4.5-inch, plastic-coated double circle with a dial. Set a dark pointer (one of 13) to the conversion desired at the English measure on the top circle scale. Like magic the answer appears in metric measure at a white pointer.

On the other side are a temperature conversion scale and a dial that tells at what heat and for how long to roast 13 meats, and to bake seven breadstuffs as well as pie crust and

Congressman's wife plots murder for novel

WASHINGTON - Among the guests in the presidential box at the Kennedy Center Opera House a few weeks ago was a congressman's wife taking notes on the physical layout with the intent of committing mur-

Kay-Kay Sharp already has murdered victims in a White House men's room, the subterranean crypt under the capitol Rotunda and a Capitol Hill restaurant. She also has managed to kidnap the president's daughter and confront a treasonous CIA official in the labyrinthine ruins of Knossos.

All these dibolical schemes have been plotted in a quiet, sunny corner of an enclosed porch of a suburban Arlington, Va., home by a lively woman with incredibly blue and inno-

In the midst of corpses, treachery and intrigue, Kay-Kay Sharp has been having great fun concocting plot sur-

And apparently half the fun is shared by the readers of her first novel, "Sunflower," a non-serious spy thriller that has sold nearly 50,000 hardback copies, brought $500,000 for the paperback rights, been selected by two book clubs and is being considered for a movie.

"It's fun looking for places to kill off people," Sharp says with a smile. There was the time she and her husband, Indiana Rep. Philip Sharp, now in his third term, were invited to the White House for a social func-

"I was concerned about a killing for the 'Sunflower' plot. It has to occur in the White House, Sharp recalls. "The restrooms seemed to be the only place where you could escape the eyes of the Secret Service or the social aides. So I sent Phil into the men's room and told him to notice details and not to come out and just say the room is

So, with a little help from the Democratic congressman, a House murder was plotted.

At the cluttered desk at the backyard end of her sun-lighted porch office, Sharp talks cheerfully about new treachery and murder. She's at work on her second book, which the publisher "optimisticlly believes is half-way done.

Scattered over the floor are blocks left by Jeremy, her 3-year-old son. A neighbor, with baby daughter in arms, is leaving. Over coffee cups, the talk turns to liquidation of enemy agents and dirty tricks. 'The new book doesn't have Richard Owen the hero of 'Sunflower',' Sharp says with a trace of regret. "I've had requests for his return and want to go back to him in another novel. Richard Owen has to be completely in charge. If there is any luck involved, he has created it.

"It was difficult for me to keep up with Owen's ingenuity. I sat there in the living room staring into the fireplace for three hours before I could figure out a way for Owen to kidnap the president's 4-year-old daughter and make his escape.

It would be treason to reveal such secrets in a thriller that piles up one surprise atop another to a corker of a conclusion

'One reviewer had a body count of 25," Sharp noted. "I know there aren't that many. Some murders you only hear about and are not described

Such a body count would be unfair to "Sunflower," which doesn't dwell on violence but dazzling plot twists as Owen, a loner and CIA agent with a selective amorality unravels a cunning scheme involving the president, the CIA director, foreign spies and treason in high places.

'I'm not trying to reflect the reality of spy work or philosophize about the moral issues," Sharp emphasizes. 'I'm not Graham Greene or Le Carrer. I write for fun and entertainment and for escape.

"I know a few people who work at the CIA - not agents in the field," the author says. "They said they had fun reading it. I'm naive about spy operations. I read a few books with such details as how difficult it is for secret. agents to file for medical benefits for work injuries.

The seed for "Sunflower" goes back 20 years or more, long before the author came to Washington in 1974 as the wife of the congressman. She remembers "reading my way through the Muncie (Ind.) library" and coming upon Graham Greene's

"The Ministry of Fear."
She started taking notes on overheard conversations, people's faces, plot ideas, descriptions of places. The notes fill boxes stored in the basement of the Sharps' Arlington Home. The note-taking continued through De-Pauw University and a job as a researcher at the New Yorker magazine after graduation in 1963.

The closest that I ever came to Katharine White (the New Yorker's late fiction editor and discoverer of literary talent) was when friends came to town and I would go to Mrs. White's empty office," Sharp re-

"I would spread galleys over the desk and pretend to be talking on the phone to J.D. Salinger when my friend was brought in.

Even then, Sharp remembers, she must have been serious about writing a book. A few jobs later, she quit to try. In 1972, she worked in the campaign of a former political science professor at Ball State University. Phil Sharp lost that campaign but married Kay-Kay that fall. In 1974, the Sharps tried again and won the congressional seat.

For some reason, Americans cannot work up a scrap of compassion for (a) a Mercedes with a flat tire, (b) a price increase in polo scorecards, (c) the woman who holds down the homefront while her husband travels.

The first two I could understand, but why pick on a woman who is bravely shouldering the responsibilities of both mother and father? The women assure me it is true. A friend of mine kept a log of her week just to prove a point.

On Tuesday, the dog got hit by a motorcycle, the house payment got lost in the mail and her daughter tried to crush a tin can with her hand like the bionic woman and required a tetanus shot. She told the doctor her husband travelled a lot and he said she was lucky she had a car.

Obesity causes female problems

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Extremely overweight women may be more likely than other women to be infertile and have menstrual abnormalities, a study by Medical College of Wisconsin researchers

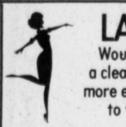

The researchers found that menstrual problems increased with the degree of obesity of women in the Women of child-bearing age who were 50 percent to 74 percent over their ideal weight were twice as likely to have long, irregular cycles as women of normal weight, the researchers said. Women more than 74 percent overweight were found to be three times as likely to have menstrual abnormalities as women who were not obese.

The researchers studied data gathered in 1969-70 from 26,638 women aged 20 to 44 who were members of Take Off Pounds Sensibly (TOPS).

Women with cycles longer than 36 days, irregular cycles, heavier than normal blood flow, excess hair and facial hair were significantly heavier for their frames than women with no menstrual abnormalities, the study found. A regular cycle ranging from 24 to 33 days and no excess hair was considered

"Since long, irregular cycles and excess facial hair are associated with anovulatory or non-ovulating menstrual cycles, we hypothesized that obesity may be associated with infertility," said Arthur J. Hartz, assistant professor of preventive medicine at the Medical College and one of the researchers.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON About strokes

Dear Dr. Solomon: What is meant by a stroke, and how is it related to heart attacks? - Gus

Dear Gus: Both stroke and heart attacks may be the result of a process called arteriosclerosis - that is, the deposit of fats, mainly cholesterol, on the inner wall of an artery. Whether a person has a stroke or a heart attack or neither depends on which artery is affected. Stroke may occur when one or more of the arteries feeding the brain becomes blocked by the build-up of these deposits or, possibly, by clots (emboli) that formed elsewhere in the circulatory system. A stroke may also occur if a blood vessel feeding the brain ruptures.

Just as a portion of the heart muscle may be destroyed or damaged after a heart attack, so, too, a portion of the brain may be damaged as the result of a stroke. The patient's symptoms then will depend on the part of the brain affected. They may include some degree of paralysis, slurred speech or loss of consciousness, and may last for only a brief period of time or be permanent.

Although there has been progress in the treatment of stroke, a major one is as likely to be fatal as is a heart attack, and it is more likely to cause permanent disability.

Dear Dr. Solmon: Is it possible that other diseases may be wiped out in the same way that smallpox has been eliminated. — Jesse

Dear Jesse: That possibility does exist. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has launched a campaign to vaccinate preschool children against preventable childhood diseases, and has a plan to eradicate measles within the next few

Dr. William Foege, head of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, says that experimental programs in Rhode Island and West Africa suggest that the HEW plan is feasible. The idea would be to vaccinate susceptible persons, while isolating those who contract measles because they failed to get the necessary shots.

An immunization drive against childhood illnesses has already been effective with school-age children. However, many infants and preschool children still are not protected. HEW plans to offer help to states and localities in educating new mothers about the importance of inoculations and in identifying newborns for followup. The goal is to have at least 90 percent of the children complete the series of shots against measles, diphtheria, tetanus, polio, mumps and German measles by the age of two years. The average cost of the inoculations will be about $6 per child, with the government assisting parents who are unable to pay.

Measles has been selected as a special target because it can have serious consequences. It sometimes results in death and may cause pneumonia, deafness and mental retardation. The drive to eradicate measles is supported by President and Mrs. Carter and by HEW Secretary Joseph A.

Cheap vacation tours available in costly places

EDITOR'S NOTE - Don't let high prices in Paris, Geneva or London keep you from a European vacation this summer. There are ways to get around them, as you will see in this second of three articles on getting the most out of a vacation abroad.

By MAUREEN JOHNSON

LONDON (AP) - It may take nerves of steel at times, but visitors to Britain can whisk through the sights and traffic of London on a hired moped, crash helmet included, for the equivalent of 90 cents a day - the price of a snack.

In expensive Denmark, it is possible to get by on $18 a day by staying with a farm family.

And Sweden this summer is trying to get rid of a reputation as a place of high prices and poor service. The tourist people there are offering a program of cut rates for air and rail travel, car rentals, hotels, campsites and meal vouchers. It's called "The Whole of Sweden at Half the Price.'

Past vacationers whose lasting memory of Switzerland is not the Alps but a $10 cocktail may feel that even at half-price, Europe's high-cost countries are only for the rich.

But there are ways to tour Britain, Scandinavia, Switzerland and many other European countries where the prices are high without speding $100 a day or going into debt.

But this takes planning ahead and spending as little time as possible in the big cities — or avoiding them completely.

For example, a night in a single room at London's smart Savoy Hotel — by no means the city's most expensive — is $80 and up.

The same kind of money buys 10 days on a farm near the Welsh border, including all meals and a heated swimming pool. Golf courses and horseback riding are comparatively reasonable extras.

Another vacation possibility, more expensive than farms but cheaper than middle-grade hotels, is to hire a canal barge or boat. A major British firm that leases boats, Hoseasons, says a complete novice needs only brief instructions to become a vacation sailor on Britain's 2,000 miles of canals and navigable rivers. The boats and barges provide lodging and serve as bases for day trips to cities and other

British boat itineraries vary from the busy upper reaches of the River Thames, the network of waterways in the Norfolk Broads, the windmill-dotted fenland on England's east coast, to the canals of the industrial Midlands.

Sleek yachts also can be hired for flotilla cruising around the Greek isles while barges are available for traveling the inland waterways of France. In peak summer months, a four-berth vessel can cost about $300 a week, with the renters supplying their own provisions. It is advisable to book several months in advance to assure a good vessel and the time you want to use it.

Trains can also save you money on hotel bills. For example, a bargain-hunting vacationer who doesn't fancy a farm at any price can have five days of rail travel through Denmark on a $77 open ticket. Spend a full day in and around one center, hop on a train in the evening and sleep your way to the next.

It's even cheaper in the Netherlands to hire a bicycle and explore just with the family or join a guided tour for cyclists. Under a program called "Get in touch with the Dutch," tour offices will arrange for visitors to spend an evening with a Dutch family at no cost.

Sweden is selling its new package of vouehers most of which are not available to native Scandinavians - through agents in Europe and abroad.

Vouchers for hotels cost $17 to $26 a night for a double, $4.50 a night for one of the country's 350 campsites, and about $12 for a four-bed cabin. The package also includes a "tourist menu" available all over the country at $5 for each full meal.

Sweden's domestic airline, Linjeflyg, offers 10 trips for a total of $194, while a voucher for three weeks' unlimited rail travel throughout the Nordic area costs $150.

In Switzerland, where the top-class hotels are so expensive they don't advertise charges, but discreetly inform the guests, a tourist can still get by on about $35 a day. The cheap Swiss way is to rent a chalet or stay with a private family - there are about 500,000 beds in private homes available for rent to tourists.

But the cheapest meal in a Swiss restaurant will cost between $6 and $10 and it's not a lot cheaper to buy the ingredients in supermarkets. A glass of whiskey in a modest bar is $4 and more than double that in luxury places.

Tourists who can't resist capital cities and who haven't booked in advance should not try to look themselves for a place to stay or eat. Tour offices in all cities supply detailed information on hotels and restaurants — with prices — and will make onthe-spot hotel bookings.

Through booking offices at London's Heathrow Airport and Victoria Station, for example, the lowbudget tourist can find a room with three beds for $4 a person per night, and double rooms in better hotels with private baths for about $20 per person.

South won and led a low spade. West stepped up with the king and led a third heart, thinking that his partner had started with only two.

South had stolen the game. South discarded a club on dummy's queen of hearts, led a trump to the ace and ran the diamonds. True, the debut success of "Prime Time" is subject to qualification - it was far behind "60 Minutes," which rated No. 5, ard many viewers may have tuned in out of curiosity. But it was an improvement, and has the advantage of gathering steam this summer while the other networks are playing reruns.

The debut show drew heavily on style rather than substance, relying on Snyder-as-personality and studio gimmicks for its "look." # House orders HEW to cut waste

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House is telling the government's largest domestic agency it isn't doing enough to reduce fraud, waste and abuse and that it must cut its spending by $500 million next year.

The vote ordering the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to redouble its efforts to root out waste came late Wednesday.

Congress and the agency are still wrangling over whether HEW must adhere to a similar directive to cut $1 billion from this year's spending. Unless HEW is granted a reprieve, there may be a severe funding shortfall for various benefit programs this

The House also decided Wednesday to tighten the restrictions on federal funding of Medicaid abortions despite the fact that limits placed on abortions last year cut out more than 99

The new standards call for federal abortion payments only in cases where a woman's life is in danger. Both actions preceded passage of a $73.6 billion appropriations bill for the departments of Labor and HEW for fiscal year 1980, which starts Oct. 1.

The bill was passed 327-84 and sent to the Senate, raising the possibility of another in the annual series of fights between the House and Senate over abortion policy.

Since Congress began placing restrictions on federal payments for Medicaid abortions for poor women, the Senate has generally taken a more lenient stance on the question than has the House. The Supreme Court ruled in 1973 that abortions are legal in the first three months of pregnancy.

The 241-180 vote to tighten restrictions on abortion funding came despite pleas by Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., that the House return to the compromise accepted by the House and Senate last year.

That compromise provides abortion payments when a woman's life is in danger, in promptly reported cases of rape or incest or where two doctors say a woman would suffer severe and long-lasting physical health damage.

Obey predicted that in the end, the House will return to this position because the Senate won't go along with a more stringent one. He said members could save time by adopting his

Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, said the number of abortions has been reduced so dramatically by the compromise language the government is only reimbursing states about $100,000 to cover the cost.

HEW once funded as many as 300, 000 Medicaid abortions a year. Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., successfully promoted an amendment to spend $4 million on counseling for incest victims and their families. The $500 million cut in HEW's budget was suggested by Rep. Bob Michel, R-Ill., who successfully offered a resolution last year that HEW shave $1 billion from its spending for this

Cubs wallop Gold Sox

R-T Sports Editor

When you win 15-4 and rattle the fences with 19 hits, including a homer and nine doubles, singling out the stars of the game is a little bit like picking a standout Colorado aspen or a unique maple in Vermont.

However, it's hard to ignore Henry Mack, who with relief help from Lee Smith, became Midland's first sevengame winner and outfielder Brian Rosinski, who lashed out three doubles and knocked in four runs, on the way to the Texas League batting

Mack still is looking for his first complete game, but the Winchester, Ky., rifle turned in seven strong innings before Manager Randy Hundley decided he had thrown pitches enough for one night.

The win was his fourth in five decisions this month and gave Midland a 2-1 edge in the series with the Amarillo Gold Sox going into today's 7:30 p.m. Ladies Night game at Cubs Sta-

"Tonight was encouraging," Hundley said in reference to Mack's fourhit pitching, "He showed his potential tonight. Now we are looking for consistency. He has been up and down this season, good one game off the next. We are looking for the three good games in a row and maybe one

AS FOR Mack, the 6-2 righthander acquired from the Phillies organization is looking for his concentration. Last year he completed nine games in compiling a 15-4 record in Class A ball and "that's the only explanation I can give this year. I just lose my concentration, like in the fifth inning when I walked three and they scored two

It was the only inning in which the Gold Sox mounted a serious threat as Mack went 2-0 for the season against the Padres' farmhands.

He also has shortened his swing so that it is under better control and concentrated on reducing the strikeouts. The results have been dramatic. In his 11 game streak he has 23 hits in 41 trips for a .561 average.

Angry Rigney lodges protest of first half

Midland Cubs' General Manager Bill Rigney, Jr., now that he has had time to study the Texas League constitutuion, is hot under the collar.

The first half Texas League race may be tabulated, in the records, another chapter in the continuing TL saga, but Rig is treating it like a suspect election. He wants a re-

In what could be interprided as an angry missile, Rigney has launched a in Little Rock in which he points out that "Second 14.01 of the Texas League Consitution clearly states the proper procedure for replaying of a postponed game (i.e "shall be replayed...as part of a doubleheader within the same series or as soon thereafter as possible").

According to Rigney, the San Antonio Dodgers violated the rule when their April 19 game against El Paso was rained out and not rescheduled the next night, the final night of the series and the final night the Diablos would be in San Antonio in the first half race.

What makes the neglect of the rules so criminal in Rigney's eyes is the manner in which the first half race ended. Midland finished .003 percentage points behind the Dodgers. The Cubs won two more games than San Antonio, but played four more than the Dodgers.

Of course, had the game with El Paso been played April 20, as the rules indicate it should have been, the

Dodgers quite possibly could have won and thereby clinched the pennant

Rigney says he would be willing to take his chances. What he objects to is that the pennant was not decided on the playing field, as it should have been, further noting that the only thing decided on the field was Midland's superiority to the Dodgers, 11-7

Realistically, Rigney isn't too optimistic about a favorable ruling, or that that matter any ruling, from Sawatski's office that would change the outcome of the first half race. He does suggest that the first half could yet be determined on the field if any sense of fair play exists in either Little Rock or San Antonio.

Bill points out there is a gap in the schedule August 2 that would enable the Dodgers and Cubs together either in Midland or San Antonio for a decisive one-game playoff.

"This appears to be an equitable solution to an obviously unjust situation," concludes Rigney, although he is aware he has about as much chance of winning that debate as Randy Hundley has of winning a "ballstrike" argument with a near-sighted

However, Rigney feels a howl of righteous indignation might bring about a rule with a clear cut procedure for rescheduling rained out games and the explicit penalty for neglecting to do so if it influences a tight pennant race.

"In these first two rounds all you want to do is be among the top 32 players," said LeVeque, who helped the University of Miami win two Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women golf championships in 1977

"The thing that pleased me the most was that I was able to be four or five holes from the finish, know that I was even par, and get in with an even-par round.

"A lot of times I'd be saying to myself, 'Don't make a bogey or a double bogey and spoil the round.' I didn't do that and that made me feel good.'

The second and final qualifying round was to be held today at the 6,099-yard, par-73 Braemar Golf Course in suburban Minneapolis. A 32-player field begins match play Friday, with the quarterfinals scheduled for Saturday and the semifinals and finals Sunday.

LeVeque, who will be 22 on Saturday, had already returned to her hotel room when reporters arrived at the press area for interviews. She was recalled to the course and sheepishly explained: "I just don't like sitting around the golf course."

LeVeque, a quarterfinalist in 1977 and a semifinalist last year, made the turn at 38, but birdied the 10th and 14th holes on her way to a 1-under 35 on the back nine.

Relaxed or not, Borg moved into top gear to come back and take the fourth set tiebreaker 7-2. The final set was much smoother sailing

When I get relaxed I take a few more chances," said the 23-year-old champion. "I tried to hit winners on service return and mostly I made those shots. I feel I am a better player when I am down a break than when I am level or in front.

Borg, who says this is the toughest draw he has ever had at Wimbledon, has a day to ease a slight leg strain before he meets American Hank Pfister in the third round Friday.

Second-seeded American John McEnroe also had a bumpy ride into the third round. The aggressive 20year-old New Yorker dropped the first set to Britain's Buster Mottram, but went on to win 6-7, 6-2, 7-6, 6-2.

Only one seed fell in the men's singles. Ameriican John Sadri downed Spaniard Jose Higueras 6-3, 5-7, 6-4, 7-5. Sadri is ranked just 35th in the United States, but the 12th-seeded Higueras plays very little on grass. He was the fifth of the 16 men's seeds

Palmer well, alive following four-hitter

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

As if things weren't bad enough for the ret of the American Leage East, Jim Palmer is alive and well in Baltimore once again.

"It looks like the master's back. Jim Palmer is a master and he pitched a masterpiece," Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver crowed after his ace right-hander, recently sidelined for 20 days with tendinitis in his pitching arm, baffled Cleveland with a four-hitter to give the Orioles a 3-1

"My arm still has a little pain," said Palmer, "but it felt a lot better than it did the last time I pitched."

The triumph kept Boston from cutting into Baltimore's four-game division lead. The Red Sox defeated Detroit 3-1. In the rest of the AL, Texas and Kansas City moved into a firstplace tie in the West, one percentage point ahead of California. The Rangers beat the Angels 4-2 and Kansas City bombed Oakland 10-3. Milwaukee outlasted Minnesota 9-8 and Seattle edged Chicago 4-3 in two other games

"We did everything right," said Palmer, after his five-strikeout, twowalk performance enabled the Orioles to chalk up their 18th victory in the last 20 games. "I even got away with walking two batters in one inning.

The only thing he didn't get away with was feeding a fastball to Toby Harrah leading off the ninth inning Harrah sent it over the fence for his ninth home run of the season. Still, Palmer, 7-3, a 20-game winner eight of the previous nine seasons, wound up with his first victory since May 29 and first complete game since April

"Harrah hit a low fastball and he's not supposed to be able to hit that kind of pitch out," said Weaver. "But Palmer had to go after them in the ninth and he did. He is an experienced pitcher who really knows what he's doing ... He didn't get behind many hitters and that's the way you have to Baltimore's first run off Mike Paxton came in the third inning on singles by Rich Dauer, Rick Dempsey and Kiko Garcia. They made it 3-0 in the seventh on Garcia's single and Pat Kelly's double off Paxton and Ken Singleton's single off Sid Monge.

Red Sox 3, Tigers 1 Boston outwaited Pat Underwood, who hurled 71-3 innings of three-hit, eight-strikeout ball, and a 43-minute rain delay in the pivotal ninth inning to beat the Tigers.

Champ Summers' homer for De troit in the seventh inning and Rick Burleson's sacrifice fly in the eighth sent the teams into the ninth tied 1-1. Jim Rice led off with a double off

Dave Tobik, Bob Watson walked and, one out later, Butch Hobson doubled Rice home. Then the rains came, but not hard enough or long enough for the Tigers. When the skies cleared, Tom Poquette hit a sacrifice fly for an insurance run.

Bob Stanley got the victory in relief of starter Joel Finch, who went the first 61-3 innings. Two guys pitched good tnight," said Stanley. "Too bad make up ground that fast." only one of them could win."

Royals 10, A's 3

Pete LaCock and Al Cowens each drove in three runs apiece as the Royals battered Oakland for their fifth straight victory. Fred Patek had a two-run single in a four-run fourth inning and Cowens doubled for two runs in a four-run seventh.1

Most of the Royals shrugged off Kansas City's charge into a share of first place. "What's to get excited about?" said Darrell Porter. "It's June, not September. We've been there before and there's a long way to go." And Manager Whitey Herzog added: "It's too early to worry about first place.

But winning pitcher Steve Busby commented: "It's better than being in second place. It means a lot, considering that five days ago we were five games out. I didn't expect us to Brewers 9, Twins 8

Ben Oglivie's 13th and 14th homers of the year, both with the bases empty, and Gorman Thomas' 18th, a two-run shot, helped Milwaukee beat the Twins. Charlie Moore added three runs batted in for the Brewers, who chalked up their eighth victory in 10

Mike Caldwell was staked to a 9-0 lead but needed relief help. Minnesota got three runs in the sixth inning, two on Willie Norwood's single, three more in the seventh, two on Roy Roy Smalley's double, and two in the ninth on Glenn Adams' homer. Mariners 4, White Sox 3 After Bill Stein tripled with one out in the bottom of the ninth, Chicago's Ken Kravec walked Bobby Valentine and Leon Roberts on purpose to load the bases. But he also walked Ruppert Jones to force in Seattle's winning MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - Gil Morgan's 3-under-par 69 in the pro-am preliminary to today's start of the Danny Thomas Memphis Classic led him to think about how things have changed since 1972.

Larry Laub captures lead in Seattle Open

SEATTLE (AP) - Larry Laub of Santa Rosa, Calif.,, averaging 242 pins for the first 12 games, took the second-round lead in the $70,000 Seattle Open bowling tournament.

Laub, winner of 11 Professional Bowlers Association titles, began the second round Wednesday in fifth place. He rolled games of 212, 268, 236, 210, 279 and 279 to score 1,484 for the round and 2,913 for the tournament at Leilani Lanes.

First-round leader Tommy Hudson, an eight-time PBA champion, dropped into second place at 2,867 after rolling a 160 in the fourth game of the second round.

After his pro-am round over the sunny Colonial Country Club course, Morgan was relaxed and happy with his score. But he refused to see his game as a forerunner of things to come.

"It was a strong day, but it could have been better," he said. "The greens were fairly quick and fairly true.'

But Morgan said he was still feeling the effects of an old wrist injury and a back problem he picked up several weeks ago. And then there's the big lake at the 18th green.

"I always seem to knock it in the water here," he said.

In 1976 Morgan fired his tee shot in the lake on No. 18 about the same time Gibby Gilbert - a stroke ahead was sinking a 40-foot putt on 17 in the final round. Gilbert finally won by 4

Morgan hit the lake twice last year when he finished at 280, three strokes behind winner Andy Bean.

"A win here would sure be nice ... now if we could just get them to drain the lake," Morgan said.

Bowa tops NL ballots at short

NEW YORK (AP) - Larry Bowa of Philadelphia moved back in front of Cincinnati's Dave Concepcion in their race to be the National League starter at shortstop in the 50th All-Star Game to be held July 17 in Seattle.

Other close races in the fan balloting announced today are for catcher, first base and the outfield

Besides Bowa, other tentative starters for the NL with the balloting deadline just a week away include Philadelphia's Pete Rose, first base; Dave Lopes of Los Angeles, second base; the Phillies' Mike Schmidt, third base; Ted Simmons of St. Louis, catcher, and outfielders Dave Parker of Pittsburgh, Greg Luzinski of Philadelphia and Dave Winfield of San Winfield is in an extremely tight battle with George Foster of Cincinnati for the third starting outfield spot while Simmons moved ahead of Cincinnati's Johnny Bench as catcher.

Either Bowa or Concepcion has started at shortstop for the National League since 1974. Concepcion, who was No.2 behind Bowa in the balloting two weeks ago and was the leader last week by a slim 2,279 votes, once again trails. The latest count shows Bowa with 904,495 votes to 894,261 for Con-

Bench has been the National League starter behind the plate each year since fan balloting was initiated in 1970. But the latest tally shows Simmons, who is among the league leaders in homers, runs batted and batting average, with 989,664 votes to Bench's 911,728.

Simmons, however, is not expected to play because of a broken left wrist suffered last Sunday. He will be sidelined at least six weeks.

Rose leads Steve Garvey of Los Angeles by 131,010 votes at first base. Garvey is attempting to start for the sixth straight time at a position he has dominated since he was a write-in winner in 1974.

In the outfield, Parker, No.3 a week ago, has jumped into the lead with 1,095,582 votes, trailed by Luzinski (948,878), also No.2 a week ago, and Winfield (862,911). The San Diego star is just 688 votes ahead of Foster (862,223), the outfield leader last Chicago's Dave Kingman, the major league home run leader, and Philadelphia's Garry Maddox are fifth and sixth, respectively.

Lopes is bidding for his first starting role. He holds a 333,044-vote lead over Cincinnati's Joe Morgan, who has been the NL second base electee every year since 1972.

Schmidt is the league's top votegetter with 1,300,971 tallies.

And Wednesday night in Toronto, Martin said that his "door is always open" and he hopes Jackson will come in for a talk to settle their differences.

The two protagonists will be in the same clubhouse Friday night when the Yankees return home for a weekend series with the Boston Red Sox. "I think Reggie will come in so we can have a talk and settle the whole thing," Martin said.

That would suit Steinbrenner just fine. He would like to see the longrunning dispute between the manager and the right fielder come to an end and the sooner the better.

"Things can be worked out and things had better be worked out," the owner said. Or else, was what he implied but didn't say.

At the same time, Steinbrenner said it was "very doubtful" that Jackson would be traded and disclosed that Jackson's lawyer asked to have the slugger's contract extended when his request for a trade was turned down. Steinbrenner said his "door is open," too, but hoped he would not have to serve as the peacemaker. But he said it was necessary for Jackson and Martin to "get together and resolve any differences.

"These are grown men," he went on. "A guy can do his job and he doesn't have to have Christmas dinner with his boss. But go out and do the job you're paid for. Reggie's got to understand he's got a contract to play baseball for the Yankees.

"I think Reggie is truly troubled by the fact that Billy came back as manager, but he has no reason to be. Billy is a different individual this time. He has gone further down the road. What Reggie's gonna do to make it right remains to be seen, but I think he'll do it. He's not gonna let New York down or let his temammates down. He's still a hell of a Jackson, who has been sidelined for more than three weeks with a calf injury, took special batting practice again in New York on Wednesday and Steinbrenner said it was reported to him that Reggie "was hitting like hell out there. He's working. He's not dogging it."

Jackson could return to action this weekend as the designated hitter, although he won't play the outfield until his leg is completely healed.

Earlier, Steinbrenner said that Steve Kay, Jackson's lawyer, told him Reggie "might not be in the right frame of mind" the rest of the season unless the Yankees promise to trade Steinbrnner said he turned down that request and Kay promptly changed tactics and "asked me to consider an extension of Reggie's contract. I told him I'm not gonna talk that kind of stuff now.

Jackson is in the third year of a five-year $3.5 million contract.

Jackson, who has been quoted as saying he doesn't think he can play for Martin, has yet another problem. On Tuesday, the Yankees reacquired right fielder Bobby Murcer, who starred in New York from 1969-74. "Murcer is the one ingredient we really needed - a No.3 hitter," Steinbrenner said. "But we can't make a run and win again without Reggie. He's a great baseball player and we

Indianapolis may become NFL choice

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Indianapolis is a top choice of National Football League officials for a new franchise if a domed stadium is constructed here, said Hoosier businessman Robert C. Welch.

Welch, the leader of an effort to have Indianapolis included in the NFL's next expansion, said he will head a citizens' group aimed at hav-ing the stadium built by 1982.

"The NFL, at 28 teams, is committed to building to 30 teams and subsequently to 32," said Welch at a Rotary Club luncheon Tuesday. "The only question is the timing.

He predicted the NFL would increase to 30 teams by 1982 and no later than 1983. Last year, Welch and others interested in locating an NFL franchise in Indiana's capital city invited officials from most NFL teams here for the Indianapolis 500-mile race activi-

Representatives of the league and 16 teams made the trip and heard a proposal for locating a franchise

"It was a most successful affair," said Welch about the weekend. "We told them plans for a domed stadium were real and one way or another, it would be accomplished.'

Birmingham, Memphis, Phoenix, Montreal, Hawaii, Chicago and New York were mentioned by Welch as other cities he considers competitors in the NFL's expansion plans. He said there are groups who hope to add a second team in Chicago and a third team in the New York City area.

"I feel Indianapolis is the leading city for the 29th team and I think our chances of getting a team are excel-

Welch hopes to have the domed stadium included in a downtown park currently being developed. He predicted such a stadium would cost between $33 and $36 million and said it would take "22 to 28 months from the time financial arrangements are worked out" to complete construction.

The State Budget Committee on Wednesday released $5 million in public funds for development of the White River Park as matching funds to a grant from the Lilly Endowment. The funds are from a $10 million state appropriation by the General Assem-

Gov. Otis R. Bowen recently appointed the White River Park Development Commission to supervise plans for the park, as required in the legislation.

The citizens' group will go before the commission to urge construction of the domed stadium, Welch said. "I will make a presentation on the benefits a domed stadium will bring to the city, and not just from football. I will tell them it will tie right in with conventions.

Welch cited the Pontiac Silverdome, home of the NFL's Detroit Lions, to illustrate his idea.

"The Silverdome is reserved over 250 days a year, 11 for football," he

San Francisco downs Astros on North's hit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - "Hopefully," said San Francisco Giants' leadoff batter Bill North, "this will be a turning point. Psychologically, you don't want to fall too far back.

"If we lost this one, we would have been nine-and-a-half games behind," noted North, whose two-run single helped the Giants score six runs in the eighth inning for a dramatic 6-3 victory over the division-leading Houston Astros Wednesday night.

North, who leads the national league with 52 walks and is second in runs scored with 56, tied the game with his single off reliever Tom Dixon, 1-2, and then scored the goahead run on Willie McCovey's basesloaded single off Joe Sambito.

Houston right-hander Ken Forsch, making his first appearance since May 17 after coming off the disabled list, sailed into the eighth with a three-hitter and a 3-0 lead.

One-out singles by Johnnie LeMaster and Marc Hill got the Giants going. Pinch-batter Mike Ivie followed with a run-scoring double chasing Forsch. North greeted Dixon with his tworun single, then stole second and went to third on catcher Bruce Bochy's throwing error. Terry Whitfield walked and Jack Clark slapped a grounder to third baseman Enos Ca-

North was trapped between third and home, but managed to beat Bochy's throw back to Cabell, leaving bases loaded. Sambito took over and McCovey grounded an off-field single to left. Darrell Evans added a two-run dou-

"North has been amazing," offered Evans. "He should be in the All-Star Game. Bill give us an element we never had before. He's easily been our most valuable player.' North shrugged off the praise, but fully realizes his value to the Giants. "I don't think the A's would have won without me, but I think I'm more important to this club than I was to

McCovey, noramlly a pull hitter, simply went with Sambito's outside pitch on his winning hit. "When a guy is pitching away, you'd be a fool to pull it," McCovey told a cluster of

All was not lost for Houston, which has won eight of its last 10 games. Forsch's successful return was a bright spot bolstering the pitching

Who will replace Rams?

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - A measure to force the National Football League into permitting another team to move to Los Angeles when the Rams move out has won California Assembly approval.

"This is an effort to restore some 700 jobs when the Rams leave the Coliseum," Assemblywoman Teresa Hughes, sponsor of the bill, said before the vote Wednesday.

Ms. Hughes represents the portion of Los Angeles that includes the Coliseum, which will be without a professional football team after the 1979 season when the Rams move to Anaheim Stadium in Orange Coun-

The 43-26 vote sent the bill to the Senate.

The bill would let the state Athletic Commission take legal action against the National Football League if NFL owners prevent a replacement team from coming to Los Angeles,

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - For the Texas Rangers, Oscar Gamble couldn't have caught fire at a better

With Texas' two key sluggers on the bench, Gamble killed Ranger opponents last week and kept the pace going Wednesday against Nolan Ryan, the American League's strikeout king.

Gamble singled in a run in the first and smashed a two-run homer in the third as the Rangers defeated California, 4-2, and knocked the Angels out of th Western Division lead in the American League.

Seven days earlier, the Rangers lost to California in Anaheim to fall 51/2 games off the Angels' pace. But since then, with Gamble hitting at a .680 pace, Texas has won five straight and California has lost six straight.

California, which had been in first since June 4.

"You get more psyched up, pitching against Nolan Ryan. The California Angels in first place, that psyches you. And 28,000 fans, that helps too,' said Comer, who matched Ryan by striking out six and walking six.

Gamble was "up" too. "When you know Nolan is going to be pitching, you do try to get your rest. You be aware, because you know he is going to throw the ball hard," said Gamble

Somebody pointed out to Gamble that Texas' surge in the past week came with Al Oliver out of the lineup with an injury and Richie Zisk on the bench because of a batting slump.

"When we need somebody to pick the team up, it's important that we've got somebody to do it," said Gamble, who raised his season average to .418 with Wednesday's performance.

role of leading the team right now. I'm just going up there, trying to do what I can do. When you're in a groove, you see the ball good. I hope this one lasts and lasts and lasts."

Carney Lansford's first-inning homer gave California a 1-0 lead. But Bump Wills singled, moved up on Ryan's wild pickoff throw and scored on Gamble's single to tie the game in the bottom of the inning.

Gamble's homer, behind Buddy Bell's walk, made it 3-1 in the third, and Brian Downing's RBI single cut the lead to 3-2 in the fourth.

Billy Sample walked in the sixth and raced home on John Grubb's double off the leftfield wall for Texas' other runs.

CART war still goes unsolved

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - The dispute between the U.S. Auto Club and Championship Auto Racing Teams will apparently go unresolved through 1979, with each organization conducting its own races.

Pat Patrick, president of CART, said Wednesday his organization had rejected USAC's latest offer and planned to conduct its own races for the balance of the season.

On Sunday, USAC President Dick King said he didn't expect further talks concerning the split that has left his organization without most of the sport's top drivers.

Patrick announced CART's decision in a statement from his office in Jackson, Mich. He said the decision was reached after a meeting Tuesday of CART's board of directors.

The feud, which led to the formation of CART last year when USAC's board rejected demands from the car owners who formed the group, has been a bitter one. In April, 19 entries from six CART teams for the Indianapolis 500 were rejected by USAC, which sanctions and conducts the race. However, they were restored after practice began under court order.

Ray Smartis, general manager of the Ontario, Calif., Motor Speedway, which hosts a USAC-sanctioned 500mile race in September, acted as mediator in the latest effort to end the stalemate

He met with CART and USAC officials this month in an effort to have drivers like veterans A.J. Foyt, Johnny Rutherford, and Al and Bobby Unser competing in the Sept. 2 race along with Danny Ongais, Tom Sneva and Indy 500 winner Rick Mears.

However, this now appears unlikely since Foyt is aligned with USAC while the others are driving for CART.

Rookie catcher Terry Kennedy was getting ready to retire his mitt after only two games with the St. Louis Cardinals.

But then, with two out in the eighth inning, Montreal's Duffy Dyer lined a 1-2 pitch over first baseman Keith Hernandez's head, and Cards righthander Silvio Martinez had lost his no-hitter.

Consumers urged to strike to protest inaction in fight against inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) - Consumers are being urged to strike for one day this fall to protest the government's failure to dampen inflation, which has skyrocketed to an annual rate of 13.4 percent.

"Unless consumers stand up in an organized manner...they will never be able to deal with the deterioriating and fast crumbling" economy, consumer advocate Ralph Nader told a coalition of 70 consumer, labor, religious and senior citizen groups here Wednesday.

The coalition - Consumers Opposed to Inflation in the Necessities launched what its leaders hope will be a series of teach-ins reminiscent of the grassroots protest of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The group, calling itself COIN, unveiled a 100-page anti-inflation program, highlighted by immediate calls to reimpose oil price controls, place a clamp on health care costs, subsidize consumers' food bills and lower mortgage rates. All but the health-care proposal came under strong criticism from Alfred Kahn, the Carter administration's chief inflation fighter, who participated in one of the many sessions during the day-long teach-in. While applauding many of the coalition's long-term proposals - including efforts to expand and diversify the nation's energy supply and to deregulate the trucking industry - Kahn said controlling oil prices is "pretending" about

Such a move back to energy price controls, he said, would discourage conservation and intensify demand for the fast-diminishing product. And that, he said, would only feed inflation.

Similarly, Kahn said subsidizing food and cutting mortgage rates would increase demand and cause prices to rise even more if the supply of foodstuffs and housing can't be increased fast enough. COIN is focusing its campaign on the acute impact inflation has on necessities - energy, food, housing and health care. Those areas comprise two-thirds of an average family's budget and have increased at more than double the rate of all other goods and services this year.

Lease sale approved

WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal judge said the government can proceed with Friday's scheduled bidding for oil and gas leases on 184 tracts off the California coast.

U.S. District Judge Aubrey E. Robinson Jr. ruled Wednesday there was not sufficient cause to block the bidding, as demanded by consumer groups, the cit of Long Beach and the California State Lands Commission.

James Flug, director of Energy Action, said the coalition would not appeal Robinson's order before Friday's bidding on the leases. But he added the coalition would continue to battle a bidding system that he said amounts to a "giveaway of public oil and gas to the large oil companies.

The coalition's suit attacked the so-called "cash bonus-fixed royalty" bidding system which, by law, must be applied to 40 percent to 80 percent of the acreage offered for leasing. Under the procedure, a company agrees to give the government 16 percent of the oil and gas production, plus a cash bonus that is determined by competitive bidding.

The coalition favors a profit sharing system under which the percentage of production that goes to the government is the subject of competitive bidding. According to coalition attorney John Silard, California already has been paid 60 percent of production under such a profit sharing arrangement.

Silard told Robinson during oral arguments the government could lose between $250 milliop and $500 million by using the fixed royalty system instead of profit sharing.

Robinson ruled the coalition failed to show the fixed royalty system violated federal law, which says the government must receive a fair return on the

Texas congressmen pushing for light bite

By SOLL SUSSMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some Texas congressmen who would prefer no "windfall profits" tax at all will be pushing today for the mildest version available, an estimated $23.9 billion bite on the extra profits decontrol is expected to bring the oil companies from 1980 to 1984.

"It only is attractive in a relative sense - that it is a lesser evil than what the committee has passed out. Hopefully the Senate will have better judgment," U.S. Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas, said Wednesday.

The more votes for the probable losing side they can muster as a show of strength, opponents of a windfall tax argue, the easier it will be for the tax to be decreased when it reaches the Senate

"It appears to me that we'll end up with some sort of a tax. This seems very strange to me that we are preventing the ability to produce more oil which we so desperately need,' Archer said

The Houston congressman, and others in the normally pro-oil business Texas delegation, maintain the tax will discourage the independent oil producers who make the most discoveries from looking for new sources.

The House will be voting on a bill to tax the profits which President Carter's phased decontrol of domestic production is expected to bring the oil companies. The main version would raise $29.1 billion from the $65 billion oil companies are expected to receive as a result of decontrol from 1980 to Stenholm said he would vote for the amendment to lower the tax but would prefer no tax at all. "To me this windfall profits tax (especially the stiffer version) is going to guarantee shortages and high prices if it passes.

U.S. Rep. Richard White, D-Texas, also said the windfall profits tax would counter any benefits that decontrol would bring, and he would prefer a plowback provision for producers to use their profits for exploration and development. "They should have gone to a plow-back provision. Unfortunately, that's not in the cards right now," the El Paso congressman said. U.S. Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas, said he was encouraged by a close vote Tuesday on his unsuccessful bid to exempt independent producers from the windfall profits tax. The House Rules Committee voted not to allow the amendment to be proposed during floor debate, but the tally was 7-7.

donkeys are a relatively cheap and efficient means of getting around Khartoum's sister city on the Nile, where most of the roads are unpaved. The French Foreign Ministry said Ambassador Pol le Gourrierce lost a tooth in the attack and First Secretary Jean Forlot was beaten unconscious and suffered a fractured skull in the attack Wednesday.

Police said they were searching for the attackers but had no idea of the motive for the incident

Press reports in Paris said the attackers were presumed to be Pakistani police or intelligence agents who stopped the ambassador's car at a roadblock

The incident reportedly occurred near the town of Kahuta, about 40 miles from Islamabad. Working under tight military security, the government has a major construction project underway at the site. Unusually heavy power lines have gone up along with a dam and a helicopter landing pad, all surrounded by military equipment draped in camouflage

Gen. Zia ul-Haq, Pakistan's mili tary ruler, sent a "note of regret" tethe French government and is investigating the incident, French Foreign Ministry officials said in Paris.

The officials said the Pakistani ambassador to France had been summoned to the Freign Ministry in Paris and told that the government considered the treatment of the ambassador "wholly unacceptable.

Palestinian loses battle in fight to stay in U.S.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - An outspoken Palestinian who graduated with honors from Ohio State University has lost a battle in his bid to remain in the United States as a student.

U.S. District Judge Joseph P. Kinneary refused Wednesday to issue a preliminary injunction that would have stopped deportation proceedings against Elias K. Ayoub.

Ayoub, 21, came to the United States from Israel in 1976. He received a bachelor's degree in economics in March and, according to his suit, applied for an extention of his student status to continue work toward a doctorate. Vernon Hazlett, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization

Service, said Ayoub "failed to establish a definite educational goal, (and) failed to prove that his requested extension is not merely an attempt to prolong his stay indefinitely." Ayoub's suit charged that Hazelett abused his discretion when he ordered Ayoub to leave the country. However, Kinneary ruled that Hazlett's decision "cannot be characterized as arbitrary, capricious, or an abuse of the district director's discretion. Meanwhile, the American Civil Liberties Union of Central Ohio accused

Hazlett's decision is also before the Immigration Appeals Court, which could affirm it or order a new hearing

Begin calls raids 'legitimate act'

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - Prime Minister Menachem Begin today defended Israel's air raids against Palestinian guerrillas in southern Lebanon and rejected American criticism of an Israeli attack Wednesday that turned into an air battle with Syrian warplanes, Israel Radio reported. Begin said Israel's bombing of Palestinian positions and the downing of Syrian planes was a 'legitimate act" by Israeli forces acting "for the sake of the national defense and the safety of our nation's citizens," the radio reported. Begin met with Defense Minister Ezer Weizman,

Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Raphael Eytan and air force chief Maj. Gen. David Ivri for a report on the aerial dogfights in which Israel claims its highly sophisticated U.S.-made F-15 Eagle fighters downed five Soviet-made MiG21s. Syria admitted loosing four of its MiGs, far inferior to the F-15s, but claimed to have downed two Israeli jets. Israel said all its planes returned safely. Meanwhile, Israeli and Palestinian gunners traded rocket and artillery fire across the northern Israeli border. No injuries or damage were reported this morning when Soviet-made Katyusha rockets landed on Israeli settlements in the northern Galilee area. In the Beirut today, government officials said Lebanon would seek stepped up U.S. pressure on Israel to avert further Syrian-Israeli air battles in the skies over Lebanon. Officials said Lebanese President Elias Sarkis and Prime Minister Salim El-Hoss decided upon the move after Syria warned that its air force has been ordered to intercept Israeli jets and defend Yasser Arafat's Palestinian guerrillas in Lebanon.

Syrian government officials disclosed the orders Wednesday night, officials said.

State Department officials Wednesday said the United States was "deeply concerned" by Israel's use of the F-15s, which were provided to Israel on the condition they be used for self-defense only Begin's office announced that U.S. Ambassador Samuel Lewis tried to contact him Wednesday evening to give him a State Department note expressing U.S. concern over the use of American-made aircraft in Lebanon. Begin was attending year-end ceremonies for his granddaughter in a Tel Aviv school, and Lewis rushed to the school to meet him.

a good used car. In many cases, aside from the mileage...the only difference between a new car and a late model used car is the price!

And if you'd like to pay hundreds of dollars less, we'll be glad to show you how. Here are just a few examples:

This is the largest single donation made by the foundation to a Midland organization. From left, Levi Strauss & Co. personnel manager Robert K. # Civil rights leaders see new minority gains

WASHINGTON (AP) - Elated by the Supreme court's decision occurs against a backdrop of a grow-Court's latest decision on race relations, civil rights, ing economic gap between blacks and whites. leaders are predicting new gains for racial minorities in the nation's job market.

'Now no company or union can use the excuse that it is illegal to move forward on an aggressive affirmative action policy," the Rev. Jesse Jackson said in Chicago after learning of the high court's Weber ruling Wednesday. Jackson heads Operation PUSH, a black-oriented, self-help program.

Benjamin Hooks, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the ruling "vindicates my faith" in the judicial process and the democratic system. National Urban League President Vernon Jordan said the decision "brings a little sunshine and hope to

Voting 5-2, the court ruled that employers voluntarily may give minority workers special treatment in hiring, training and promotion:

Even employers with no proven history of racial bias may offer the special preferences, the justices

They added that racial quotas may be used in the affirmative action programs, but offered little guidance to lower courts and federal agencies as to when quotas are permissible.

The court's ruling was a direct legal defeat for Brian F. Weber, a white employee of a Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Co. plant in Louisiana who claimed he had been made the victim of illegal

'reverse discrimination. Weber was excluded from a 1974 training program at Kaiser's plant in Gramercy designed to land more blacks in higher paying jobs. Weber had more seniority than some of the blacks chosen for the program under a racial quota.

The court's decision did not discuss sexual discrimination. But because it was based on a federal law banning sexual bias as well as racial bias in employment, the ruling also represents a big victory for women's rights.

"Generations of legal restrictions, limited educational opportunities and exclusionary practices by employers and unions have prohibited women and minorities from competing as equals in the job market," said Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization for Women.

"The Weber decision recognizes that an aggres sive affirmative action policy is necessary to break down employment patterns caused by these societal inequities," she said.

The Carter administration praised the ruling. Vice President Walter F. Mondale said the decision "vindicates the strong position which this administration has consistently taken in favor of affirmative action (and) removes any doubt about the legality of affirmative ation programs.

To a large extent, the practical effect of Wednes day's ruling will be determined by the psychological effect it causes

The Urban League's Jordan warned that the

"There is still massive resistance to black needs as seen in the support given Weber," he said.

Union said, "The continuing struggle now is to going to be eased" by the high court's approval of convince all employers to adopt and vigorously voluntary affirmative action in employment

Ten survivors were, pulled from the bay shortly after the P3B Orion crashed Wednesday, and the Navy said the other three men were presumed dead. Identities were withheld until relatives were notified.

Japan's visiting dignitaries facing suffocating security

By FRANK CORMIER

TOKYO (AP) - Japanese fear of terrorist incidents is so all-pervading here, with heads of seven governments gathering at the economic summit meeting, that security is nearly suffocating.

One Secret Service agent who came here in advance of President Carter's arrival found dealing with the security more than he could handle.

Poell quickly discovered that the scores of Japanese plainclothesmen who are omnipresent at the hotel would not permit reporters to visit the U.S. spokesman's suite.

Packing his bags, Powell moved to the building assigned to the press contingent.

TREASURY SECRETARY W. Michael Blumenthal faced a similar dilemma. He wanted to invite reporters who specialize in economic affairs to join him for a drink in his suite.

Very complicated logistical arrangements had to be worked out to circumvent Japanese security.

REPORTERS CONFRONTED with the mind-bog gling security have compared notes and decided they have never seen anything like it before.

When Carter traveled to Iran to usher in 1978 just a few months before the roof started falling in on the shah - security was tough. But reporters who made both trips agree the measures being taken in Tokyo are far more stringent.

The report says China's network of hospitals and clinics is built on the communist nation's tightly planned and controlled economy.

"China's health care system is a reflection of the way China has chosen to organize its national life," wrote Robert J. Blendon of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation in Princeton, N.J.

Huge underground blast reported

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Soviet Union reportedly has violated a 5-year-old agreement with the United States by setting off a giant underground nuclear test, according to a published report.

The Soviets detonated the underground test, reportedly in excess of 150 kilotons, last week, The Washington Post reported in today's editions. It said U.S. officials formally questioned the Soviets about the test on Wednesday

The newspaper said American seismologists say there was an 80 percent chance the blast exceeded 150 kilotons and that preliminary intelligence estimates put it at about 200 kilotons

A treaty that never has come into force legally limits the two nations to tests of no more than 150 kilotons.

Jim Lyman, a spokesman for the Department of Energy, refused to comfirm the report. "We don't discuss the yield of foreign tests. That is all I can
