So much for the Republican side. To turn to the Democrats, the feeling grows in Washington circles that the President is fed up with his job, that he is disillusioned over friends who let him down, and that he will not run again. Graduates are advised: Never address the interviewer by his first name unless he asks you

Take a bath beforehand.

Don't chew gum. Smile as you enter the office, give your first name distinctly and shake hands firmly.

Don't hang up your hat and coat. Let the company decide if you're going to stay awhile.

Don't beg for a position. Be poised and relaxed. The book says a deep breath taken before going in for the interview often calms the nerves.

Women are cautioned to avoid wearing gaudy lipstick, fancy shoes, too much perfume or crooked hose

Men, the book says, should wear a pressed suit, a hat, garters and a fresh haircut.

New Life for Linoleum

If your linoleum is badly worn in spots or if you wish to change its coloring, it's not at all difficult to apply new color. A base coat of floor enamel is easily applied and dries quickly. ### Safety Is Your Business

Safe living should be the objective of every citizen. The frightfull toll of human life taken annually by accidents can be reduced only when safe living is actually practiced by every one. Every day during 1952, funeral services may be held somewhere in Texas for a farm accident victim. The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Committee headed by J. Walter Hammond, president of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation, and E. C. Martin, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, strongly believe that Texans will do something about the situation.

The committee met in Waco on January 19 to hear reports Come and Bring Your Friends and to make additional plans Funds Will Be Used For Class for conducting educational programs that will carry the message of safe living to all Tex-Martin told the group

Understanding

Lesson for February 3, 1952

PEOPLE are like books. Some can read them, some can't. You can put a thing down in black and white and still some people will not understand, simply because they can't read. If a person is illiterate it makes no difference how plainly a book is printed or how big the type is or how clear the author's sentences. So a person can be read by some of his neighbors, like a book in plain English; to others who are just as close to him (close, that is, measured by a foot-rule) he might oglyphics for anything they can make out of him.

Strange Dinner Party

TRUE of all men, this was and is true of Jesus. Luke tells of a dinner party where he was a guest, and puts the spotlight on three persons there: Jesus, the host Simon, and an un-named woman.

The woman was not supposed to be there; she just wandered in off the street. Not that she was a stranger, exactly; she was well enough known in the village so that the host knew what sort of woman she was, even if (being a respectable man) he did not know her name.

Like all guests in those days, Jesus had taken off his sandals and was reclining on the couch beside the dinner table. This woman stood behind him and wept. Her tears feel on his bare feet and she wiped them dry with her long hair.

Jesus at first paid no attention, but the host was scandalized. How could Jesus take it so calmly? How could he let such a woman touch

The conversation that went on, as Luke reports it, between Jesus and Simon, shows that the poor woman of the street understood Jesus' heart, while the leading citizen, whose house it was, did not understand Jesus at all. One could read Jesus, the other found him a closed book. Why?

A Door Barred

THE MAN could not read Jesus' I mind and heart because, for one thing, his own mind was made up as to the kind of person Jesus ought to be. He supposed Jesus was the same sort of person as himself-proud, sensitive, careful of his social standing, unwilling to associate with the "lower classes," wanting to be respectable much more than he wanted to be helpful. In his mind he carried a readymade pattern of what a "Prophet" ought to be, and so when one who was greater than all the prophets sat at his own dinner table, he could not see him for what he was.

His eyes were blinded, he could not read Jesus, the door to understanding him was closed. He had never learned to read the kind of language which Jesus' life wrote large.

Then there was another reason why this man could not "see" Jesus. It was his own pride, Simon looked down on Jesus so much that he could not even treat him with ordinary politeness.

A Door Open

BUT the woman understood. She did not know all there was to know about Jesus. And still she understood the depth of his heart.

The door of his heart opened to her-she could read the clear writing of his spirit. She understood him because she was humble. She did not try to fit him into her pattern; in his presence she knew, as the host Simon did not, that his was the true pattern of life and hers the false. She understood him too because of her love.

And so in spite of the immense difference between them, there flowed the light of understanding, even before a word had been spoken. She could read the bright word FORGIVENESS which to Simon was only a blank.

* * * And So Today

To this very day, some people can read Jesus while others cannot. And in between are uncounted people who can read him only more or less dimly as through glasses that are not clean, or through the smoke of a city twilight.

But it is still true that pride and prejudice not only keep us from reading the lives of those around us, they keep us from reading the mind of Jesus. And it is still true that humility and love are the great teachers; they show us how to read the lives of those around us every day, and best of all they teach us how to read the word "Forgiveness" in the mind and heart of Jesus . . . which is the heart of God.

But from the opposition came such statements as: "The same broken record . . ." "The President's speech could be characterized as follows: spend more, waste more, socialize more, give more away, control more, talk more, and blame the other fellow for all the ills of the United States and the world."

PRESIDENT TRUMAN

The fire and stubborn fight of the Truman of old was so obviously lacking that it seemed almost apathetic to many home towners who heard the address.

PRODUCTION-Production of civilian goods for the second quarter of 1952 has been cut back sharply. Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson announced the government has ordered home building slashed by 23 per cent for the months of April, May and June. Automobile output was slashed by 7 per cent and other consumer goods using scarce materials were trimmed 10 per cent.

This is the general picture for the second quarter: Construction-Home building, now at a rate of 850,000 a year, will be slashed to a rate of 660,000. Only factories vitally needed for defense production will be built, and little material will be available for office buildings, stores, and other commercial construction

Autos-The industry will get enough copper and aluminum to make 800,000 cars and enough steel to make 900,000. Civilian Goods-Most consumer goods, including refrigerators, lng each addition until smooth.

14 per cent below the 20,000-car output for the first quarter. Roads--Only the most urgent road building will be permitted. Ships-Allotments to the Maritime Administration will be increased.

TAX EVADERS—The Treasury department has launched a new policy that should receive wide approval of the average home town tax payer. The Treasury will no longer let tax evaders escape criminal prosecution if they voluntarily confess their fraud and pay up.

The department also took steps to speed up its prosecution of tax evaders, including: (1) Reducing the number of conferences with taxpayers about their cases, although taxpayers still will be heard when payers about their cases, although taxpayers still will be heard when necessary to develop actual facts; (2) The only persons who can repremoderate oven (350°F.) 40 to 50 sent taxpayers in these conferences must have duly certified powers of minutes. attorney to speak for the taxpayer.

CLEANUP—President Truman's long awaited plan to clean up graft in government is under way, although it drew considerable fire from Republican critics

The President dropped his plan for a special commission and handed the job to Attorney General McGrath. Republicans immediately began their criticism. The general charge was that "a whitewash is coming" The President did not indicate how extensive the clean-up measures will go. A number of administration leaders are known to want action
