MEET THE WINNERS

Eisenhower and Nixon: The New High Command

Few men in American history have stepped from one of the highest military posts to the highest civil post their country could offer them. Still fewer start out in politics right at the top. And, too, few men lead an army of 5,000,000 men to victory in a great and bloody world war.

Wayland Choir To Sing Here November 18

Being conductor for, dictator over and father confessor to 40 young men and women each year would wear most persons shadow thin, but not so for Prof. Shelby Collier, director of Wayland College's International A Cappella Choir which will be presented at 7:30 P. M. o'clock, at the Baptist Church, Tuesday, November 18.

Added responsibilities and loss of sleep while traveling thousands of miles annually on a bus with these exuberant Waylanders bothers him little. Only a calm disposition like his could meet the emergencies which abound once the group starts traveling. Mr. Collier is a show man who believes that "the show must go on" at the stated time, because lack of punctuality on the part of a singer can bring a near catastrophe.

"Shelby" as he is affectionatey called by his singers, who continue to write him confiding letters and to send unusual gifts years later, has made the impossible possible since he took over at Wayland College in 1948 as instructor of voice and conductor of a non-existent choral organization. The persuasive personality of President Bill Marshall had made him see visions of a choir that would rank with the best and he left conservative First Baptist Church, Austin, Texas, to pioneer on the plains of Texas.

How to Repulse Worry

JACK W. BOWEN, Cincinnati, Ohio, says he has found that worry can always be routed if you will keep physically active

His lot was once cast with the Philippine guerillas and worry could easily have been the password. As he crawled and wiggled across the beach the first night every tree branch or piece of driftwood appeared as a Japanese sentry. Every sound, he was sure, would be followed by a Japanese machine gun blast. Despite his fears, he managed to cross the beach and get well hidden in the brush beyond. There he had a talk with himself. He decided that worrying wasn't going to improve the situation. He could spend valuable time worrying about whether he would get out alive, get malaria, whether this or that, but none of this was going to solve the problem at hand. So the obvious answer was to get busy and forget worries and fears.

During the four months that followed he found that none of "his boys" were worrying. They were too busy harassing the enemy to have time for anything like worry. They were, for the most part, volunteer fighters with no formal training and, to the man, they wanted to be trained soldiers as well. He had had extensive training as a naval aviator, in military dril and procedures, so they organized and trained. During spare time he taught them the fundamentals of football. Between these activities and some night work against the Japs they were busy all the time. Looking back now he says he can honestly say that after the first night he never gave a thought to those little fears and worries that could easily have finished him in the Islands. He was much too busy to worry.

Soon thereafter, when Solomon went to worship at Gibeon, he earnestly sought divine help. God appeared unto him and asked what Benjamin Franklin introduced his request would be. Solomon asked for wisdom, for an understanding heart, that he might govern his people well. Hence arose the statement that Solomon was the wisest man who had ever lived, a statement that was amply verified in some of the decisions that he made. This fame of Solomon went abroad, so that the queen of Sheba "came from the uttermost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon."

That Solomon grew in his spiritual perceptions was shown in his prayer at the dedication of the temple, a prayer in which he recognized the might and omnipresence of God, but he rejoiced that God would condescend to come into the temple, to write his name there, and to hear his people in their needs.

Solomon thus, in his early life as king, was an example of the right use of power. Let us learn to use, by the help of God, every gift he makes to us, for his glory.

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. William Wedel, Strongsville, Ohio: Do you remember the good old days when a summer tan was a disgrace? The ladies wore mitts to the elbows, carried parasols, and oh, the time spent bathing the face and hands in a sticky mixture of sour milk and grated horseradish! Well, I rejoice now in a good healthy summer tan. ..

From S. I. McGinnis, Culloden, W. Va.: I remember how happy my father and mother used to be sitting winter nights around a large wood fire with eight children hulling dried beans.

From E. E. Meredith, Fairmont, W. Va.: Every family use to have hop vines in the front yard or garden from which the hops were gathered to make yeast for bread or poultices.

From Amelia Doctor, Denver: I rehouses were so cold that the children had to sit around the stove and put their feet in the oven to keep them warm.

From Jack Cox, Larkspur, Calif .: I remember the first rifle I ever saw. I watched Grandad make it. He patterned it after the Kentucky muzzle loading squirrel rifle, I learned to shoot it when I was seven, but the barrel was too heavy so he cut off 18 inches. He and Dad wound their big watches with keys. They made a sun dial for mother by sawing off the end of a log and marking the four directions on it. They put a stick in the middle to throw a shadown on large nails for the hours and small

Lesson for November 9, 1952

A RE Americans becoming bru-talized? Some thoughtful people believe we are. As Dr. Charles T. Leber reports, when his father and mother read the account of the sinking of the Lusitania back before World War I. they were so upset they could not eat. Now we can read about the destruction of an entire city and go right on eating breakfast. We in America invented and used the A-bomb and now we conceive the H-bomb. We train men to kill other men with Jaming jellied gasoline, with knives, with whatever seems to be most usable and deadly. We kill people on the highways, or we don't do enough to keep them from killing themselves, in such quantities that we don't even read the newspaper reports about it unless some friend of ours happened to be in the smash. If as many people died in your town of polio, or of typhoid fever, as die in accidents, you would all be in almost a panic.

A Word We Need

There is an old English word that is not used often nowadays. Maybe the reason it is seldom used is that the thing it means is seldom met with. It is the word "compassion." Literally, it means "suffering-with." When it is said by Matthew that Jesus had compassion on the crowds, it means literally that he knew how they felt, what they needed, where they hurt; and that in his own heart he suffered with them. Their needs were his needs, their pain his pain. That is compassion; but it is not yet the whole of it. There is something more. An artist (let us say a novelist) has to have compassion, of a sort. Many novels and stories have been written, for instance, about bull-fighters, and some of the story-tellers have shown a high degree of imaginative power. You might almost fancy they had been bullfighters themselves, as to be sure some of them have been. But few if any of these story-writers have done anything to put a stop to the brutal sport of bull-fighting. They feel the tragedy of the whole business yet they do not propose to do anything about it. Compassion, as Jesus felt it, never was a mere emotion. It was emotion harnessed to action.

Harrassed and Helpless

The Revised Standard Version translates beautifully Matthew's description of the crowds who moved Jesus to compassion. They were "harassed and helpless," he says. The interesting thing is that it took Jesus to see this. Some could see only that there were a lot of people, and they took up a lot of room, and there was hardly room or time for Jesus to eat. Others-the Pharisees-could see only their ignorance: "This multitude that knows not the law is accursed." Others (as was the case with the disciples on a later occasion) realized only that the crowd looked hungry. Well, the people were numerous, they were no doubt ignorant, and most of them were chronically ill-fed. But the point is, the people who saw them in this light did not have compasion, all they felt was annoyance. The crowds were a nuisance. Jesus felt quite different toward them. He saw them as they were, harassed and helpless. You yourself run into crowds, or you read about them. How do they strike you? Do they frighten you, amuse you, annoy you or make you angry? The masses today are very little different from the masses in Jesus' time. Can you see them as they are, harassed and helpless? And does it stir you to do something about it? Then you know something about the compassionate heart.

The Inmost Need There is another important fact about Jesus' compassion. One cannot call it unique, for the best Christians have shared it. He was able to see beneath the surface of things to people's real needs. The young man brought by his four friends to Jesus probably was thinking chiefly about his helpless arms and legs. Jesus looked and saw his helpless soul. The publican Matthew may well have felt sorry for himself because business was bad, or because he was not popular. Jesus' compassion went deeper; he felt Matthew's real need—to get away from the publican business altogether. Compassion goes even deeper than sympathy; it is spiritual interpreta-
