Eisenhower Urges Nation Support March of Dimes

President-elect Eisenhower meets 1953 March of Dimes Poster Girls Pamela (left) and Patricia O'Neil, of Raleigh, N. C.

NEW YORK CITY—Presidentelect Dwight D. Eisenhower called on the American public to support the 1953 March of Dimes being conducted throughout the nation during all of January.

He joined in the annual appeal after meeting the two Raleigh, N.C., sisters who are pictured on the 1953 March of Dimes poster. They are Patricia, 6, and five-year-old Pamela O'Neil, both of whom were stricken with polio but now are recovered completely.

"It's hard to believe that these are the same little girls whose pictures are on the March of Dimes chapters."

they're completely recovered from polio, thanks to the generosity of the American people."

He urged all Americans "to help the others like them by joining the March of Dimes."

Later, he joined the poster girls in making a short film which is being shown by television stations throughout the nation.

This year's March of Dimes follows the all-time record polio epidemic of 1952 in which more than 55,000 were stricken. At the beginning of 1953, there were $8,000 polio victims of former years still undergoing treatment, with financial help from local March of Dimes chapters.

Recreation For Texas Folks

Recreation leaders and wouldbe leaders from all walks of life will soon be gathering for a week of training at Longhorn Recreation Laboratory. At the end of their training period they will be able to direct outdoor cooking, silk screening, block printing, square dancing, folk dancing, ceramics, nature study, group singing, games for indoors and outdoors in small groups and in large groups photography, leather and metal craft and other small crafts.

This will be the fourth year of operation for the Laboratory. It is conducted on the Christian Youth Foundaton site near Athens, Texas. The Lab begins February 15 and lasts through February 22. It is a non-profit get-together of folks interested in recreation. For a week they live together as they plan, work play, pray and share experiences, abilities and problems.

The best of information can be obtained because the resource people are specialists in their fields. These folks are ex-

The idea for the Lab came about when a group of Texans attended a similar laboratory in the Dakotas in 1949. They were so impressed with the activities that they arranged a meeting in Texas inviting representatives from the Boy and Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Farm Bureau, the Grange, 4-H Clubs, the Extension Service, the rural Ministers and others. People from all these organizations and others attend regularly now.

Any adult interested in recreation may attend. There is a registration fee to cover cost of insurance, meals and lodging. For complete information write to Captain W. P. Two Hardest

Lesson for January 25, 1953

WHEN YOU see a pole-vaulter sailing like a bird over the high bar, it looks like the easiest thing in the world. When you see a watchmaker putting a hairspring into place, or a good cook whipping a cake together, it looks simple. But the simple things are seldom as easy as they look. So it is in the Christian life. It can be made to sound absolutely simple; but it never is. And it never is easy, either. Perhaps the two hardest things sound the easiest. Jesus made it plain that without them one cannot call oneself a true Christian. One is humility and the other is forgiveness. How easy they sound! But try them. They will test your spiritual muscle.

Can This Be Right?

There is another paradox about these two indispensable qualities of Christian living. They are not only much harder to practice than they sound, but they sound worse than they are. What is the quality which all Americans advise, imitate and practice with all their might? Isn't Dr. Foreman it aggressiveness, the go-getting spirit? Humility sounds like the opposite of that, and so we seldom hear it praised, at Rotary luncheons, in political speeches or in school textbooks. Even in church we don't hear much about it. Advising people to be humble sounds like advising them to aim for the bottom of the ladder, not the top.

As for forgiveness, this too goes against the natural grain. We can forgive people for mistakes, we can forgive them with good grace when they haven't hurt us particularly. But when other people have actually done wrong, serious wrong, and done it to me or to some one I love, how then can I forgive them? Won't I be lowering myself to their level if I forgive? Won't it be the same as saying that what they did was quite right after all? Shan't I be calling wrong, right? Isn't forgiveness turning right and wrong upside down?

Humble Like a Child

Let us look into these matters a moment. Take humility first. Jesus' illustration of humility is not some down-and-out lazy person without dreams, desires or ambiis the humility of a child? It is the quality of teachableness. The child is not set in his ways. He is trustful. Even the liveliest child, even the most stubborn, will believe what he is told, and has a neversatisfied curiosity about everything. You can't tell the college sophomore much: he thinks he knows enough as it is. But no child thinks he knows everything. He is not suspicious, cynical, sophisticated, superior. He can grow.

Call the roll of the world's truly great men; they all have this quality of childlikeness, whether a greatly daring person like Scott, the explorer of the Antarctic, or a greatly wise person like Abraham Lincoln, or a greatly imaginative person like John Bunyan. All forms of greatness have in them the quality of the childlike. And the special humbleness that is essential for Christians is not only this, but humility before God. For the one sin that keeps one farthest away from God is the very opposite of childlikeness, namely pride.

Seventy Times Seven

Consider that other quality, the forgiving spirit. Does this really mean calling wrong, right? We should remember that forgiving is not the same thing as condoning. You condone a wrong when you act as if it were not a wrong at all, really. When God forgives us he does not pretend that we have done no wrong, and when we forgive others we should not confuse wrong with right. Condoning means approving; forgiving does not. You can condone without love; it takes love to forgive.

But nowhere in the Bible is it said that God forgives, or that we are expected to forgive, apart from repentance. The hard and unrepenting spirit makes forgiveness impossible. Forgiveness is not a one-sided affair. It calls for humility on both sides, for forgiveness is a restoring of fellowship, and that cannot be done in pride. But is forgiveness a sign of weakness? Wait till you have been insulted, injured or wronged, and you will learn the truth about it. Like all the rest, we are having some absences due to ill-But none, so far as we know, have been seriously ill.

Besides the Presidential inauguration, the big event of dent's inaugural speech over this week is report card day — Wednesday. We get semester averages at this time, which show how well we are getting ready for the Third grade. Our teacher says we have some good grades in this class, even though we do not have honor roll until we reach the fourth grade.

This new semester we take up more difficult arithmetic, cursive writing, (in place of manuscript) and a broader variety of reading and language work.

Everyone is happy about that. We used manuscript so long that some of us thought we were never going to start "writing." But the manuscript type of Elaine Crabtree, Ernest Dyess letters is more like that in our Karl Kirkwood, La Ruth Kenreaders, and is supposed to help us get started in reading.

Mrs. Barker's Room

It is almost time to get our report cards again, and we are looking forward to seeing them. This time our semester grades will be on them.

A few have been out because of sickness. However, no one was absent more than a day or two. At this time Johnny Winchell and Roy Combs are the only ones who are not present.

In Phonics we enjoyed the story, about the monkeys, that our teacher read to us. Later some of the boys named themselves the same name as the monkeys. Our teacher thought that was very clever for us to do that.
