Veteran Grocer Marvin Seaman Dies Suddenly

Marvin C. Seaman, age 52, died suddenly this morning at 2:00 o'clock at the family home in Stratford. Mr. Seaman was stricken with a heart attack at his place of business in Stratford Wednesday afternoon. He was taken home and seemed to be responding to treatment. His death came as a shock to the entire community as he was a man who seemingly enjoyed the best of health.

Marvin C. Seaman moved to Stratford with his wife and six children in January of 1950. He took over the active management of the store which had been formerly operated as Brown's Food Store. He continued operation of the firm under the name of Seaman Grocery, conducting his business in a manner which won the admiration of his fellow business men.

Marvin Seaman had been engaged in the retail food business for about 33 years.

Final arrangements for the funeral are awaiting the arrival of relatives living at distant points.

School Bond Election To Be Held September 12

An election which is more or less a formality for the consolidation of the Colony School District with the Stratford Independent School District will be held Saturday, September 12 in the courthouse at Stratford. The election, if it carries, will make the Colony district responsible for its share of the Stratford Independent School Districts bonded indebtedness and establish a tax rate of $1.50 in the Colony part of the district which is the same as that used in the present Stratford Independent School District.

Arthur Folsom has been named election judge. J. G. Cummings, E. F. Spurlock and Mrs. B. E. Dovel have been appointed election clerks.

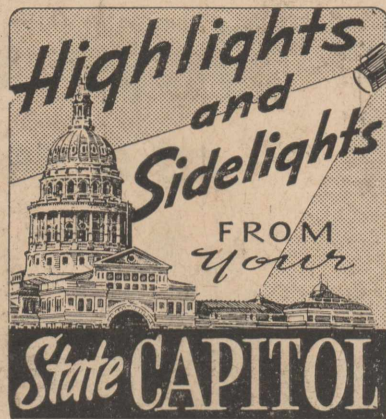

The Salvation Army was established in the U. S. in 1880.

THE STRATFORD STAR

Volume 48.

Stratford, Sherman County, Texas, Thursday, September 3, 1953.

No. 48.

Teachers are in the limelight again. This time they are petitioning Sen. A. M. Aikin, Jr., to run for governor come 1954.

Aikin co-authored the Gilmer-Aikin school bill two years ago and led the fight in the recent legislature for the teacher's pay-raise bill. The bill passed both houses, then died because there was not enough state revenue incoming to pay the salary increases.

Teachers are miffed over Governor Shivers' stand on the pay-raise measure; and the current petition is undoubtedly the result of widespread comment relative to the governor's plans to run for re-election.

Aikin says: "I'm not running for or from anything."

Should Aikin run it would be the first time that the school teachers as a group have entered the political field with a candidate and a platform of educational improvement and teacher-pay-raises.

Speaking of candidates, the Rev. T. E. Womack of Austin, a campaigner for the office of Lieutenant Governor in 1952, now has the police searching for two men who robbed him of $255.00.

Hijackers held up the 61-year old negro preacher on a lonely road outside the capitol city. They helped him start his stalled car, then pulled a pistol on him.

Dr. George W. Cox is calling upon the public to aid health officials in improving sanitary conditions in public eating places.

Public reacting could be one of the most forceful influences in effecting adherence to health regulations, the state health officer contends.

Cox asks that the public observe unsanitary practices and express unfavorable reaction to restaurants and cafes which do not measure up to standards.

He calls particular attention to the serving of milk in other than the original container, prevalence of flies, cleanliness of walls, floors and counters, as well as the appearance of the waiters and waitresses.

Governor Allan Shivers got quick reaction to his accusation that the FBI is violating States' rights by secret snooping in some civil liberties cases.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover commented that he was "amazed you could be so misinformed."

Such investigations are made by the FBI only when so ordered by the Department of Justice. Hoover said, and the head of the state institution concerned is always told about it. Hoover asked Shivers for more details.

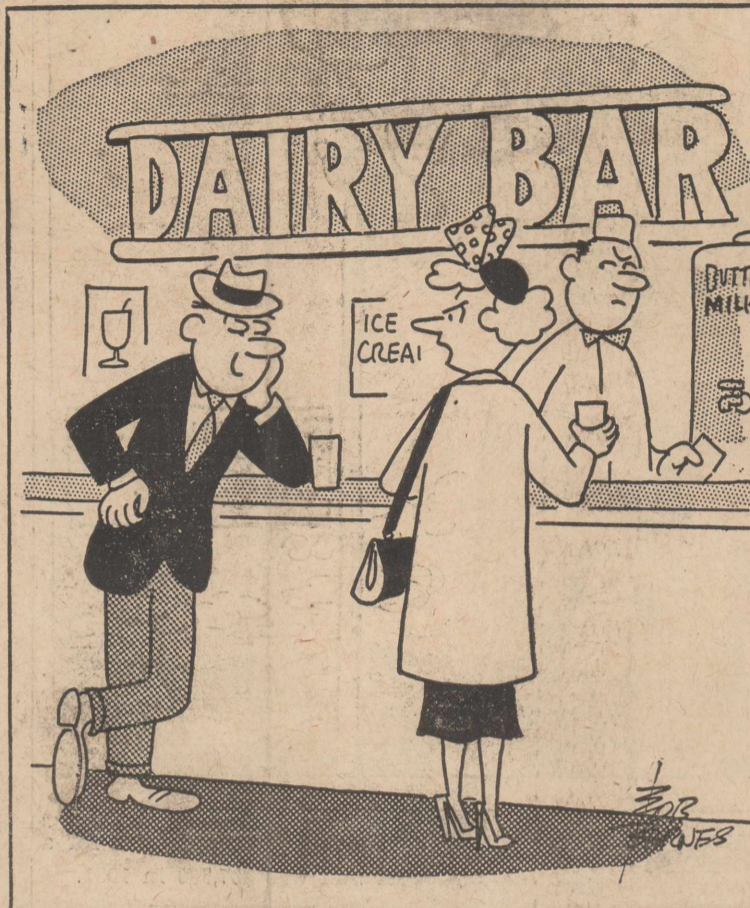

In response, the governor said his remarks were in line "with the general discussion at the last three National Governors Conferences." He invited Hoover to look at the minutes.

Into the hassle came State Representative William H. Kugle of Galveston, who asserted that Shivers had shown "a complete misconception of the problems of law enforcement and the protection of civil liberties."

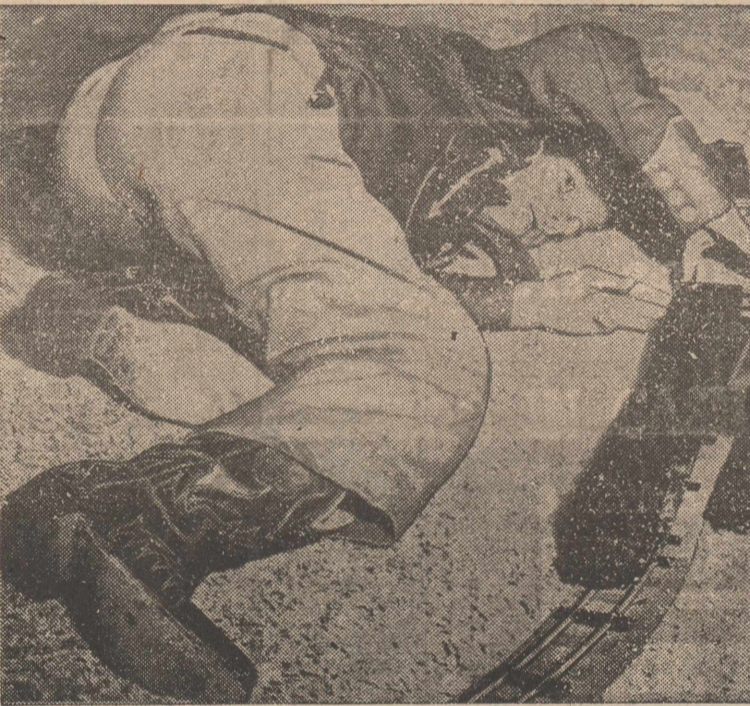

Somebody, Kugle thought, should send the governor a seventh grade textbook on government.

Law enforcement is a matter of local option according to Shivers' position, Kugle declared, and because of that policy Galveston County "has provided a haven for hoodlums for many years."

Defense testimony began in a hearing to develop evidence for the State Supreme Court as to whether District Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of Alice should be ousted from his job.

Prosecutors, meanwhile, had produced witnesses who testified that strong-arm tactics and economic pressure were brought against them when they opposed George Parr, Duval County political boss who helped Laughlin in his race for judge last year.

Donato Serna, San Diego drug store operator, said Parr and others tried to drive customers away from a drug store operated by Serna's brother.

Serna testified that when he began taking pictures of the scene he was arrested and taken to jail, where Parr hit him a hard blow over the head with a flashlight.

Serna was but one of many witnesses whose testimony, in bits and pieces, will fit together to provide a picture, not only of Laughlin's administration, but of South Texas politics generally.

There was wrangling, too, about the awarding of the big state tire and tube contract.

It went, by a 2 to 1 vote of the State Board of Control, to General Tire and Rubber Company.

Jack Ritter, distributor for Pennsylvania Tire Company, dropped his suit for an injunction to prevent the Board from awarding the contract to any company other than his.

Pennsylvania's bid was low, but other factors came into consideration in awarding the contract.

James A. Lands, a member of the board, said State Senator (Continued on Page 8)

J. B. Wallace Is Surgical Patient

J. B. Wallace is in Dumas Memorial Hospital recovering from a major operation performed Thursday evening. His condition had been serious, but last reports indicated his condition has improved.

From The Independent, Fugauy Springs, N. C.: The owner of a mongrel dog was recently summoned to court in England. It was charged that his pet had nipped a six-year-old girl. In defense the man replied that the dog had been quietly gnawing on a bone when the little girl began annoying him. The court ruled that if a dog believes it is being attacked or deprived of a bone it has a right to protect itself.

We intend to keep the verdict of the British Court a secret from our own dog. He is difficult enough to live with now—what with all that talk about his being man's best friend. We refuse to admit that there is any legal similarity between a dog's right to chew on a bone and our dog's desire to chew our carpet slipper. If necessary we will take the case to the Supreme Court.

From The Calumet Weekly Citizen, Calumet, Oklahoma: Tuesday evening we had the pleasure of seeing a premier showing of the movie, "It Happens Every Thursday." Since no one in the audience of invited guests had ever seen the movie until that time, cards were distributed for the purpose of passing judgement on this story of the small-town newspaper.

"It Happens Every Thursday" is a lifelike story of the country newspaper publisher, and one that every individual would benefit from seeing. There are a few minor details left out . . . possibly for the good of all. As publishers of The Citizen, printed in the smallest town in Oklahoma with a Linotype-equipped shop, we not only recommend that you see the show, but urge that you do so.

From The Tallahassee Tribune, Tallahassee, Alabama: A recent Associated Press dispatch reports that the occupation has brought about something new in Japan . . . the hen-pecked husband. He is not called by that name however, but by the high-sounding title of "honorable wife fearer."

The story went on to say that before the occupation husbands were lords and master of the home, but that the occupation brought woman suffrage, hen-pecked husbands and "kyosalbyo clubs." A new Japanese term for wife fearer.

While we are on the subject, it might be interesting to point out how the Pilot International Club honestly solves the problem of who is boss. This club merely designates husbands of its members as "co-pilots" and that's that.

Q—How much red tape—literally—does the federal government use?
A—The General Services Administration has reported that the government bought slightly more than 366 miles of five-sixteenths inch cotton red tape, paying $4,700 for the 8,950 spools, last year. The tape is used mainly to tie up documents for storage.

Q—Does the term "senior Senator" apply to age, or to length of service?
A—It refers to relative length of service of the Senators from the same state. The one with the longest continuous service is known as his state's "senior" Senator; his colleague is the "junior" Senator.

Q—What happened to the resolution to impeach Supreme Court Justice Douglas?
A—The House Judiciary Committee July 7 tabled the resolution, after holding a one-day hearing. The impeachment measure was introduced by Rep. W. M. (Don) Wheeler (D., Ga.) after Justice William O. Douglas stayed the execution of atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, pending settlement of a legal question. The Court set aside the stay, June 19, and the Rosenbergs were executed.

Q—Does Congress set the boundaries of Congressional Districts?
A—No. After each decennial census, Congress apportions the membership of the House—in other words, says how many seats each state shall have. But each state's legislature determines whether the state will be re-districted, and when and how. If a state is entitled to more representation but does not re-district, a Representative is elected from the state at large.

A TICKET TO TIMBUKTU

By Orme F. Lathrop

SAM BENSON had just settled himself in his easy chair with the evening paper when a car swung into the drive.

"Oh, oh, here comes trouble with a capital T," he moaned. His wife, Bernice, looked up from her darning. "Who's that?"

"I hate to tell you, but it's your illustrious brother, Brad."

He went and unlatched the door.

Brad Williams stalked in. He proceeded to make himself at home—in Sam's easy chair. He laid his Panama over Bernice's pet violet plant, brushed his thick mop of grey hair back carefully, and lighted up a big strong cigar.

"Glad you folks are home. Have a little matter to discuss with you. Mind if I move in here? Flossy and I have had another disagreement."

"As a matter of fact, Brad, I don't believe we've got room. That is, since my arthritis has been so bad, Bernice is sleeping in the other room."

"Oh, that's all right. I'll just park here on the sofa. I'll bring in my bags." And out he went.

"Now see here," Sam began, but Bernice silenced him. "We'll have to let him stay. And I can't have him messing up the living-room."

"That's all right," he heard her say. "Until you and Flossy patch it up. What's the matter now?"

"I'm afraid this time it's for keeps. Flossy had a lawyer out. Fact is, I don't care too much. I can't stand Flossy's nagging about keeping the house neat any longer. And I've been let out of my job again. She has a case all right."

In their room that night, Sam delivered an ultimatum. "Bernice, I love you, but that doesn't mean I'll put up with your good-for-nothing brother. Either he goes or I do. That's that!"

Bernice, creaming her face, was in tears. "You know I can't turn out my own flesh and blood."

"Then I will," he announced. The next day he made his proposition. He was going on a fishing trip up north. Why didn't Brad come along? Brad agreed.

At the lake Sam set up his rods and unpacked the groceries. "I'll do the cooking and you can do the washing up," he told Brad.

"Fine, fine. That suits me to a T. I hate to cook."

Sam managed to dirty every pan and skillet in the cabin at every meal. He broke the eggs at the sink and drizzled them across the floor to the stove. He slopped grease about like a plasterer. He scaled the fish in every conceivable corner. He swiped his muddy boots across the floors. He knocked out his pipe on the tables.

At first Brad took it uncomplainingly.

Sam got him up before dawn every morning, and they tried the twilight and midnight fishing.

"Think I'll pass tonight," Brad sighed after two nights of it.

"Oh no you don't," Sam growled. "I never go out in a boat alone."

Brad glared. "When you figuring on going home?"

"Think I'll stay another week, if our luck holds," Sam gloated.

"Not me," Brad grumbled. "I'll take the train back Saturday."

By the end of the week Brad looked like a case for a sanatorium.

"Man, I've got to get some sleep," he announced. "I'm not getting up in the morning if you drown your fool self in that lake. I'm going to bed and sleep a week."

Sam chuckled to himself. That was all he needed. The next morning while Brad was still snoring, he wrote a note and propped it on the mantel, packed up and slipped out.

The note said, "Sleep all you like. The cabin's paid for for another week. Here's a check—it will buy you a ticket to Timbuktu, or a ticket back to Floss. Think it over. A clean house might not be so bad, eh? And if you come back with a clean slate, she'll probably be glad to take you back. Guess you can take a hint. Your loving brother-in-law, Sam."

Handle Insecticides With Caution

Here is a word of caution on handling insecticides on the farm. Miss Lucile King, County Home Demonstration Agent, warns that many insecticides are harmful to humans and farm animals.

These poisons, if kept in the house, should be in closed metal containers clearly identified by labels. Keep insecticides out of reach of small children. When mixing or applying insecticides, toxic to humans, a respirator should be worn to avoid dust drift or spray mist. Miss King says it is a good idea to bathe and change to clean clothes after applying these insecticides. See your doctor immediately if sudden illness sets in after handling insecticides. Wash all vegetables and fruits which have been treated. Allow sufficient time, two weeks or more, before harvesting vegetables that have been treated with toxic organic insecticides. Protect dishes, utensils and food when spraying insecticides in the house. Keep materials out of drinking and feeding troughs when spraying in barns. Don't store poisons in bins used for storing livestock feed.

Frijoles

Frijoles, beans mexican style, can be part of the main dish for the outdoor family meal. Miss Lucile King, County Home Demonstration Agent, says these beans served with catsup or your favorite tomato sauce are appetizing and nutritious. To prepare Frijoles, soak a cup of dry pinto beans in 3 cups of water, add salt and boil gently until tender.

Brown three slices of diced bacon in a fry pan, add a half cup chopped onion and cook five minutes. Add the beans and cooking liquid, mashing the beans. Season with 2 teaspoons of chili powder and pepper, continue cooking, stirring constantly until the mixture is thick.

Entertain With Family Dinner

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Owen Hudson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Foreman and children, Miss Grace Foreman, Miss Flora Foreman, and a friend, Miss Moore of Amarillo, and Miss Nell Foreman, who is home for a short vacation from college.

School Days And Breakfasts

How about a new look for breakfasts when the school bells begin to ring in September?

According to Miss Lucile King, County Home Demonstration Agent, this is a good time to get the entire family back into the habit of eating breakfast. Right from the start, allow time for the kind of breakfast that will see the family off on an easy schedule with high spirits. Keep the family coming to the breakfast table by making the foods as appealing as possible and varying the fruits, breads and other foods often. A big step in the right direction is to get the family to the breakfast table at the same time, but it means you must be ready with the food when they arrive.

Recipe Of The Week

Vanilla Cream Pie

2-3 cup sugar.
2-3 teaspoon salt.
4 tablespoons cornstarch.
2-3 cups milk.
3 egg yolks.
2-3 tablespoons butter or margarine.
Mix sugar, salt and cornstarch in 'stew pan. Add the milk gradually. Add slightly beaten egg yolks. Bring to a boil over low heat, stirring constantly. Cook five minutes. Add butter or margarine and vanilla. Pour into baked pie shell and cover with meringue. Variation: Add 1 box shredded coconut to cream filling after cooking is completed.

Keep Gloves Well Groomed

Gloves are an important part of your costume, so keep them well groomed. Miss Lucile King, County Home Demonstration Agent, says gloves need to be washed before they look dirty, for hard scrubbing wears them out. Wash white gloves after each wearing.

Wash only those gloves that are marked washable, and use lukewarm suds. Keep the gloves on the hands and use the same motion as when you are washing your hands. Rinse thoroughly in clear water until the last rinse is clear, then roll in a towel and knead out as much moisture as possible.

Rejuvenate Spring Plants

Some spring vegetables which have survived the hot summer weather, may produce this fall if you give them a little help. Miss Lucile King, County Home Demonstration Agent, says tomatoes, okra, pepper, and eggplant and pole butterbeans can be made more productive.

Feed them fertilizer, working and watering into the soil around the plants. The agent suggests 5-10-5, about 1-2 cupful around each plant.

If the area around these plants has not been mulched, cover the soil with three or four inches of hay about three feet around each plant.

You will need to water the old plants thoroughly every five to seven days to help them produce fall vegetables.

UNITED NATIONS AND KOREA

Armistice Is First Phase of Korean Problem; Peace Conference Must Solve Other Issues

AN ARMISTICE and cease-fire in Korea have finally been agreed to. What have been the results? And what are the problems that lie ahead?

These questions are uppermost in the minds of Americans in every walk of life—in the big towns and the little towns of the nation. And, because the nation has been so close to the situation—with its citizen-soldiers fighting and dying in a foreign land—it has been difficult for many to evaluate the situation. Approaching the subject as objectively as possible under the circumstances, this would seem to be the facts:

COLLECTIVE SECURITY. Resistance to aggression in Korea was the United Nations' first effort at collective security. Resistance was authorized by the responsible bodies of the United Nations, based upon the law of the Charter.

RESULTS. The majority of the delegates to the United Nations and a large section of world public opinion believe that United Nations intervention in Korea interrupted a pattern of aggression and prevented a third world war.

President Dwight Eisenhower had this to say on the subject: "In this struggle we have seen the United Nations meet the challenge of aggression, not with pathetic words of protest but with deeds of decisive purpose."

The United Nations acted in Korea on the initiative of the United States. The cooperation of its members has been of inestimable value to this country. Had the United States undertaken intervention alone, it would have been accused of imperialism; it would have been deprived of the moral authority and the economic and military assistance of the United Nations.

DEGREE OF SUPPORT. The first Security Council resolution, asking the member states to aid the United Nations in restoring peace at the 38th Parallel, had the approval of 53 out of 60 members of the United Nations. Forty-three nations sent material help. Sixteen members and the Republic of Korea furnished the military forces. Two members and one non-member furnished hospital units. Economic sanctions against the aggressors was approved by 47 members and was implemented by 45 members.

SIZE OF MILITARY CONTRIBUTIONS. The United States made the major contribution of military forces, except for the Republic of Korea. However, in all fairness it must be pointed out that some members of the U. N. were preoccupied with resistance to Communist aggression elsewhere, such as the French in Indo-China and the British in Malaya. At the end of the fighting 18 divisions were fighting for the United Nations. Of these 10 were South Korean, five were American, and approximately three were from other United Nations countries.

UNITED NATIONS IMPROVEMENTS. The Korean conflict prompted a number of steps to strengthen the United Nations in acting against aggression. In order to overcome the danger of the veto in the Security Council, the General Assembly, through the Uniting for Peace Resolution, took upon itself the responsibility for action against aggression should the Security Council be paralyzed by the veto. As a result the center of gravity of the United Nations shifted from the Security Council to the General Assembly.

THE TRAGEDY OF KOREA. The Republic of Korea has suffered many casualties; the devastation is extensive. Refugees from the north flood South Korea.

The armistice agreement leaves the hope of Korean unity to the political conference. But it should be remembered that the United Nations authorized resistance to aggression to reestablish peace at the 38th Parallel. There has been no moral obligation on the part of the U. N. to unify Korea by force. The original purpose of the United Nations to restore the integrity of the Republic of Korea has been attained.

However, the United Nations has the following obligations to the Republic of Korea and the peace settlements must encompass them: (1) To agree upon such peace terms that the Republic of Korea will not be the victim of another attack; (2) To give substantial help in reconstructing the country; (3) To make every peaceful effort to secure the unification of Korea on United Nations principles.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE. The conference is scheduled for 90 days after the signing of the armistice to consider the many problems of Korea, the withdrawal of troops, etc. It must, therefore, consider the unification, reconstruction, and integrity of Korea as a democratic state.

However, the conference could be broadened to include the problems of Indo-China, Malaya, the establishment of normal routes of trade, and the whole broad problem of peace, prosperity and democracy in Asia. The conference will undoubtedly be long and protracted, but has great possibilities if there is sufficient will for peace.

CHINESE COMMUNISTS AND THE UNITED NATIONS. The question as to the entrance of the Chinese Communist delegates to the United Nations is a highly controversial one with some nations wanting it on the agenda of the conference and the United States and others definitely opposed. The question is not, shall China be admitted to the United Nations? China is a member of the United Nations. The question is which delegation will represent China: the Nationalists from Formosa, or the Chinese Communist delegates to have been seated in the United Nations so long as their country was an aggressor.

A strong debate will be waged on the issue. One school says that despite a peace settlement the Chinese Communists will be subject to communist imperialism and their entrance into the U. N. would strengthen communism and weaken the world organization.

Another school argues that if the Chinese government makes a peace treaty with us guaranteeing peace in the Pacific, it would be much better to have that government bound by the obligations of the Charter. The answer lies in the future.

AMERICAN PUBLIC OPINION. The Korean conflict has brought the American people to a greater degree of maturity. In less than 20 years the United States has moved from the tradition of isolationism to leadership in world affairs and the United Nations.

Several times in recent years when things were going badly it was suggested that this country pull out of its U. N. commitments. Each time the American people responded with a resounding NO.

THE FUTURE. The armistice and cease-fire are one phase; the political conference will deal with another. The United States wishes the political conference to produce a broad settlement of peace in the Pacific; it wishes the tide of communism arrested and democracy and prosperity enhanced. It would seem, therefore, that the only means of accomplishing these objectives is through a United Nations program.

The Christian's Use of Possessions
Lesson for September 6: 1 Timothy 6: 6-19
Golden Text: 1 Timothy 6: 10

The Christian's attitude toward money is very important. All men, in some way, are seeking contentment. If godliness is not found in a man, there will not be contentment. In nothing can a man be more deluded than in hoping to find happiness through the acquisition of things. Wealth, sought for itself alone, will destroy rather than confer happiness.

Seeking wealth, whether successful or not, can ruin character. Having wealth is nowhere condemned in the Bible. Some of the patriarchs were men of wealth. But the love of money is the root of all evil. And this love of riches can destroy the character and ruin the happiness of a man who is as poor as the proverbial "church mouse."

Timothy was urged to seek the blessed verities of faith rather than the things of the passing world. And he was bidden to charge those that were rich to use their wealth in doing good, to relieve distress and so lay up "a good foundation against the time to come." This does not mean to lay up material things for a rainy day, but to provide for a spiritual treasure. For Jesus said that we are so to use the things of this passing world that when they fall we may be received into the everlasting habitations.

ATOM WATCHERS . . . Mark Buck, 4, and his two dogs at Las Vegas, Nevada, home gaze at atomic bomb mushroom smoke 75 miles distant at Frenchman's Flat.

I HAVE found a sure-fire method of dictating business letters to my secretary. I simply lock my office door, chain her to a desk, take the telephone off the hook and stuff cotton in my ears.

There is a sound and practical reason for each of these practices, but I don't think it would work for most office people because my secretary (after much work upon my part) is thoroughly convinced she couldn't get a job elsewhere if she tried and that if she did try I would murder her before she got out of the building.

But to get back to the reasons I take such drastic steps when I am about to take care of my correspondence:

1. I lock the door to keep out the office gossip who invariably intrudes by sticking her head in the doorway and making some remark like: "Isabelle, honey, pull your skirt down."

It's distracting!
2. I chain her to the desk because she wastes pencils if I don't. In a half an hour session she will jump up fifteen times to sharpen fifteen different pencils. Now I let her chew the ends.

3. I take the telephone off the hook not to delay business calls, but so I won't have to listen to her conversations with her husband. It wouldn't be so bad if I could hear what he says, but her remarks fill me with so much curiosity I can't concentrate. I can't figure out which one is the moron.

4. And I stuff my ears with cotton so I can't hear her catty remarks about this column or some of my letters. Once I was dictating a letter to a nationally-known columnist when she up and says, "Gee, 'My Pet Peeve' wasn't up to par last week, Mr. B."

I must have exploded because an unflattering remark slipped into my dictation. As a result the columnist cancelled his contract with our syndicate and the boss has been unhappy with me every since.

"I REMEMBER"
BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Ellen A. Sewart, North Highlands, California: I remember when my father paid the grocery bill, the grocer would always give him a big bag of mixed candy in striped bags. We used to buy gum that came in small round tins, with five pieces of gum to the tin which was the size of a quarter.

From Iva C. Oliver, Perry, Florida: I remember when I was a child of about 10 my brothers, and six children who were our neighbors, took me on a "nut gathering" party. We started early one Saturday morning in October, taking baskets of lunch for a picnic at noon; a jug of water and two sacks to be filled with nuts.

I lived in southeast Missouri, and the trip was some 8 or 9 miles to the Mississippi river bottoms where there was an abundance of hickory trees and some pecan trees. On this trip we brought home enough nuts to last throughout the winter, for eating after supper and for mother to use in making delicious nut cakes and candies.

The day was soon spent, and we made the long trip back home in an old wagon pulled by two mules, reaching home after dark and ready for a good warm supper. This outing took place about 60 years ago.

Fifth Grade

Mrs. Anna S. Elliott's Room
Greetings — Parents, Friends and All Readers of "The Stratford Star," where ever you may be.
We are so glad to be back in school with our friends and classmates with whom we will share our summer experiences and fun. In our room we have eighteen unique individuals who will be practicing "Our American Way of Life," with many privileges, however, along with each privilege we will grow in the responsibility we as individuals have toward our general citizenship.
To date, we "Teachers with Pupils," have planned our daily work plan and set some desired goals to be reached through out the school year.
We invite any interested outside individual who would like to visit our room and observe our work.

Thanks for coming to general assembly with us. We saw many smiles that seemed to say, "Here's for a good year."

Highlights --

Johnnie E. Rogers of Austin, sales manager for Jack Ritter Oil Company, had told him Rogers would make enough money out of the Pennsylvania contract "to pay his expenses through two years of law school."
Rogers retorted that he would have received no commission for the contract, that he has been employed by Ritter for the past year, and that he is on a salary.

Showers around the state put a dent in the drought, if they did not end it.
After a long dry spell, this headline caught the reader's eye: "High Water Threatens Rio Towns."
Zapata County committees Falcon and Lupeno were evacuated when water began rising behind the new Falcon Dam on the Rio Grande.

Texas' share of the national draft for October will be 1,203 men, Brigadier General Paul Wakefield, state selective service director, announced.
August's quotas was 1,235 and September's is 1,232.

Plowing up of cotton began on the last day of August in the Lower Rio Grande Valley on recommendation of the International Pink Bollworm Advisory Council.

Farmers know the only way to attack the bollworm is to destroy the cotton plant as soon

This an' That

The boom has been lowered on hunting in British Columbia. The council amended the ancient firearms bylaw to permit the use of shotguns only. Formerly, the by-law allowed hunters to use guns, cannons, pistol, rifle, revolver or fowling pieces . . . Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox and big Gus Zerniall of the Philadelphia Athletics recently put on a pre-game hitting exhibition. Each slugger was allowed 10 "fair ball" smashes. Williams bombed four over the high right-field wall, 331 feet from home plate. Zerniall, currently leading the American League with 29 homers, smashed three into the upper leftfield stands . . . Ben Hogan, who is known for his lack of humor on the course, recently shocked spectators when he played an exhibition match at Jamesburg, N. J., with a smile. At one point he even impersonated comedian Bob Hope. Another tradition has been smashed!

OLD PUGS MEET . . . Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champions who fought twice for the title, met at lunch in Beverly Hills, Cal. Wonder if they discussed "long count" $3,000,000 fight in Chicago in 1927!

City Seeks New Traffic Officer

Grady Brown has resigned as night policeman. Lamoine Palmer, serving the city as City Traffic Officer, has accepted the position as Night Policeman. M. H. Harrison is serving the city temporarily as city traffic officer until a permanent officer is selected by the City Council.

MAYOR McGUP By John Jarvis

as the crop is harvested. The plow-up will continue northward as the season advances.
Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White announced that according to the council no extension of the plow-up deadline will be granted or even considered.

Attorneys for Benny Binion, Las Vegas, Nevada gambler, are scheduled to appear in federal court in Austin Friday.

They will argue a motion for continuance of the case against Binion, who is charged with evasion of $674,394.00 in income taxes during the years 1945 through 1948.

September 14 is the date set for beginning the trial. Binion claims he has not had time to prepare his defense.

U. S. District Attorney Charles Herring says he will oppose Binion's motion for a continuance.

Before moving to Las Vegas in 1946, Binion lived in Dallas, where a gambling charge is still pending against him.

Rev. Neal Announces Sermon Series

Beginning Sunday, Rev. T. Edgar Neal, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will begin a series of sermons on the "Great Doctrines of Christendom." These will cover six consecutive Sunday morning worship periods. Sunday, he will use as his subject, "Faith In God, or Making God Real." Other subjects will be: "Was Jesus Divine?"; "The What And How of the Holy Spirit," "The Holy Catholic Church," "The Forgiveness of Sin," and "Is Death The End?"
"These doctrines," said Rev. Neal, "are not peculiar to Methodism but belong to most of the evangelical churches. The series does not deal with the highly controversial doctrines of Christendom and should strengthen rather than disturb ones faith."

The movie newsreel became a daily feature during President Wilson's administration.
