Stratford P-TA Will Meet Tuesday

Stratford Parent-Teacher Association members will hold their first meeting of the fall season in the school cafeteria at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, September 30. A covered dish luncheon will be served. Teachers and their families will be guests.

Study Club Has Guest Day Luncheon

The guest day luncheon given by the Prospectus Study Club last Friday started the year work on a high note. The nearly 60 members and their guests were presented with an autumn corsage of hazelnuts and pecans, tied to a green leaf with green and gold ribbons. Also at each place setting was a parchment-like paper with quotations from the Bible, Declaration of Independence, Bill of Rights and the Golden Rule.

Preceding the luncheon, Mrs. M. E. Upchurch gave the invocation. Mrs. C. C. Plunk, president, gave the welcome. Mrs. Jim Taylor introduced Mrs. Dolly Lynch, who gave a most interesting and enjoyable book review on "The Short Summer", by Louella Grace Erdman. Miss Erdman is a professor of English at West Texas State College. Although the setting for the book is a small town in southern Missouri, it could very well have been any small town in this section of the country. The story spans many years of one family, but especially the events of one "Short Summer" and its effects on the family. Mrs. Lynch reviewed the book through the eyes of the grandmother, "Miss B". She whetted the appetite of those present. As soon as the book is released, it will be found on many bookshelves in Stratford.

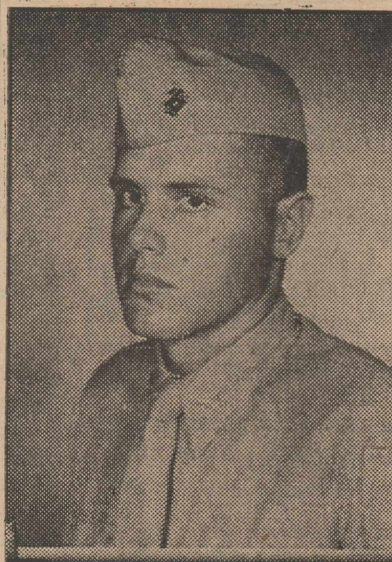

Hostesses for the occasion were: Mrs. Cone Donelson, Mrs. Kenneth Kendrick, Mrs. C. C. Plunk and Mrs. Dwight Hester.

Commercial Club Selects New Club Name

GOVERNMENT budget officials have their work cut out for them during the final four months of this year. September is the Budget Bureau's deadline for submission of the individual agencies' 1960 spending programs. The Bureau will cull these figures until January, battling with the agencies for economy, and then the proposed new budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1960 will be submitted to the 86th Congress by the President.

While all this is going on government economists and Budget Bureau officials will be keeping a weather eye on fiscal 1959 spending. Looking square into the prospect of an estimated budget deficit of at least $12 billion for fiscal 1959, and the possibility of a widening gap between future federal income and outgo, some observers hint at inflation, higher wages and prices, and perhaps an increase in taxes. Others are suggesting that perhaps fiscal 1959 will not reach authorized levels; if they are right, and business improvement boosts tax revenue in coming months, the deficit this fiscal year could be trimmed to $3 billion or $4 billion. Should this happen, it could set the pattern for continued economy, some experts point out.

A deficit of less than $4 billion would be considered a victory for the budget officials.

When Congress adjourned last month, some important items were left in the "unfinished business" category. Outstanding, of course, is the issue of Hawaiian statehood. Congress next January will find this matter high on its list of things to do. Hawaiian statehood forces in the period between now and then will set the stage for what should be a successful effort to exploit the success achieved this year by Alaska.

Labor reform, federal aid for schools, minerals subsidies, new housing, a banking code, limitations on the courts, "fair trade," prior notification of mergers, and science scholarships will also provide Congress with material for debate and action.

Labor forces, smarting from bad publicity, will strongly seek passage of moderate legislation to fend off more serious attacks, while industry forces are certain to demand real reforms. Western states will want payment, in the form of minerals subsidies, for permitting the President's liberal trade program to go through this year.

The last session marked the first time in 10 years that Congress failed to enact new housing legislation. But officials say the Housing & Finance Agency has more than enough money to complete its programs, and will have new requests to submit to Congress come January.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Go 'Back To School' To Really Learn

By Clare D. Smith

September brings more than a little chill in the air . . . it means the return to school and, for most teenagers, more dates with the books than with the "steady."

The teenager with ambitions and plans, who has the desire to make a place for himself or herself in the adult world that looms ever closer, will put schoolwork first and social life in the second position. And, the wise parent will exercise whatever parental authority is necessary to see that this is done. The school term need not be an exile in "Siberia." There is fun as well as work to be found in school activities and associations. It would be difficult today to find a school that does not offer its students the opportunity to participate in sports, debating groups, and various other activities. Most students take part in these activities or belong to a school group or association of one type or another. It is an unusual student who cannot find some school activity that appeals to him.

With it all, however, the forward-looking teenager should remember that he goes to school to get an education. The school term is a stepping stone along the pathway of life and each student makes his own path as the term moves along. The student who is interested only in "getting by" will one day find that his school efforts do not look so appealing in the plain black and white report that will be a part of his credentials when he starts job hunting.

In school work, as in life, one always gets a return for the efforts put forth. Getting the most out of school requires the proper mixture of study activity and social activity. Both have a job to do in preparing for the future . . . and every teenager, whether willing to admit it or not, knows whether he or she is just trying to "get by" or is seriously putting forth an effort.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

WE HAVE said many derogatory things about Elvis Presley, his style and his singing—and we use the word loosely . . . However, we have to mourn with the teenage idol on the untimely loss of his mother . . . The two were always very close and while Elvis had no education, Mrs. Presley worked hard all her life to just raise him and make sure he at least could play an instrument so life wouldn't be as grim for him as it was for her . . . The insistence on music in his life made a millionaire out of him and she was able to retire on his laurels and start taking life easy.

At the age of 42, she should have been set for a comfortable time in the next few decades but, unfortunately, it seems that the cards are just stacked against certain individuals and she was one of them . . . It is tragic that she couldn't live to further enjoy the fruits of their labor but since she couldn't, it's nice that she lived long enough to see him become an idol—though controversial—and paid a colossal sum wherever he went . . . Few parents enjoy this luxury, so Presley may find some solace in that he made her last few years unbelievably happy ones for her.

Increased wheat yield
24 bushels per acre

Leon Billingsley, successful High Plains farmer, says: "I applied 100 pounds per acre of Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia pre-plant to my irrigated wheat and increased my yield from 18 bushels to 42 bushels per acre. I figure my net profit increase to be around $40 per acre."

Other successful Southwestern farmers use Phillips 66 ammonia to give them higher grain yields . . . and more profitable grazing. The 82% nitrogen in Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia gives young wheat a fast start, supplies plenty of lush, protein-rich forage that puts on more beef at less cost per pound.

Many of these farmers plow down Phillips 66 ammonia in the fall on maize land. They know that the 82% nitrogen helps decompose crop residue, to provide extra plant food and make the soil more productive. Remember, Phillips 66 ammonia gives you more nitrogen per dollar than any other form of fertilizer—a full 82%.

Test your knowledge—or your guessing ability: See how far you must read before you can identify the famous home above. It is well known to practically every American.

The modest home shown above was a favorite retreat for one of America's most famous and distinguished citizens. Pine trees in the photograph indicate that it is located in the Southern part of the United States. Built on the slopes of Pine Mountain, by a man who during his lifetime lived in many sumptuous residences, the home shown above is small but impressive.

An attraction that draws many visitors to the State of Georgia, the home and its interior have been retained substantially as they were when the famous owner died there April 12, 1945.

This home is in Warm Springs, Georgia and was built by a President of the United States who first went there in 1924 to test its pools as an aid in recovery from infantile paralysis which struck him in 1921. The most famous president, of course, is Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the famous home pictured above is "The Little White House" at Warm Springs, Georgia.

Two Students Join Sixth Grade Class

(By Kathryn Sneed)

Mrs. C. L. Teague's sixth grade class is having a lot of fun with two new students. Paulette Corbell from Pampa and Pat Neff from Silver City, New Mexico have joined the class.

September 3, a class meeting was held and new officers were elected. They are: Beth Roberts, president; Joe Boren, vice president; Milford Davis, secretary-treasurer; and Kathy Sneed, reporter.

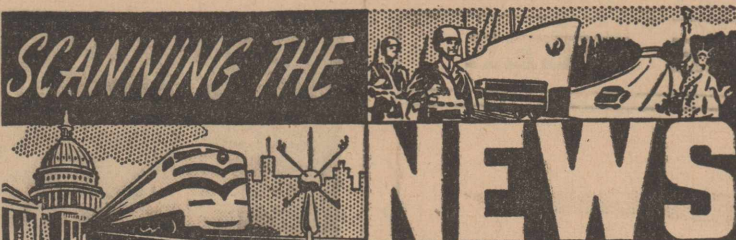

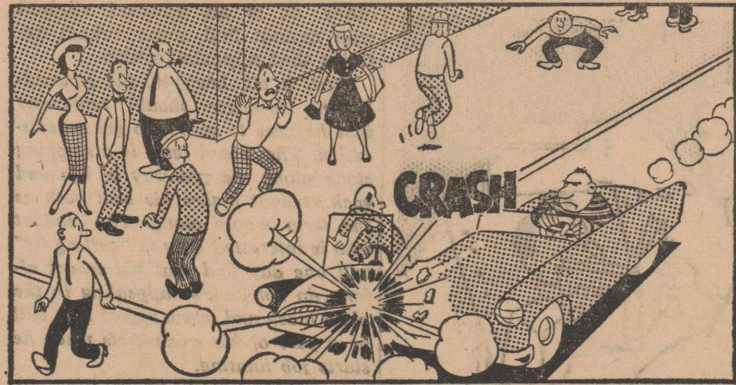

In English we are studying the eight parts of speech. It is very interesting and will help the members of the class in the higher grades. Other subjects are very interesting too. In geography the students made silhouettes of the continents.

The class art exhibit at the fair netted $1.50. Some pictures were pretty and others were unusual.

The next meeting will be October 1 at 9:30 a. m. in the church parlor.

THE BAFFLES By Mahoney

FEDERAL prisons ended the fiscal year with a prisoner population of 21,555, nearly a thousand over the same date a year ago.

The total would have climbed even higher, says Director James V. Bennett, but for the shortage of transportation funds available to United States Marshalls during June, with the result that additional scores of sentenced prisoners were held in local jails awaiting commitment to federal prisons.

Although Federal institutions had become increasingly overcrowded in recent years and the abnormal 1958 population growth complicated this situation, Bennett said the Bureau of Prisons successfully contained the additional pressures imposed upon its facilities and personnel complements. Escapes, rising slightly in number, remained proportionately at the low rate of previous years. The severe overcrowding created minor tensions among prisoner populations, but the federal prison system experienced no major disorders during the year.

Committed to federal prisons during the twelve-month period were 13,460 offenders, with auto theft cases comprising the largest single group, nearly a fourth of the total. Also represented in the commitments were 2,100 liquor law violators, 1,348 immigration cases,

1,239 forgers, and 1,096 narcotic and marijuana offenders. The Director commented that the number of juvenile delinquents received by his institutions, exclusive of those committed by the District of Columbia Juvenile Court, was exactly equal to the 1957 total, 855.

Operated in conjunction with the Bureau of Prisons, Federal Prisons Industries, Inc., which Director Bennett also serves as Commissioner, closed out the most successful year in its history. The Corporation, whose customers are restricted by law to government agencies, sold more than $30,000,000 in goods and services during the year. Its profits totaled $5,500,000 from which a substantial dividend will be paid into the Treasury of the United States.

The Corporation during the 1958 fiscal year employed 4,300 inmates on a full-time basis, paying them average monthly wages of $33 and furnishing them valuable vocational training which would enable them to qualify for industrial jobs upon their release. At the end of the year the Corporation was still engaged in a long-range program of constructing additional vocational and industrial facilities to accommodate a greater proportion of the swelling federal prison population.

Oil was first discovered in the United States near Cuba, New York in 1627. A Franciscan missionary was led to the site by Seneca Indians, who used the crude petroleum that bubbled up in a spring for medicine and as a paint base.

Until 1850, it was customary for playing cards to have plain white unmarked backs because card players believed these could not be as easily marked. Then the popular single color backs featuring geometric designs were introduced and caught on.

GRAMP'S KINGFISH

By Alice Wernherr

"BETTY," my brother Charlie said, "let's take Grandpa fishing on his birthday. We're both working now and can afford it."

"Fine," I answered. "I know Grandpa will just love it." Grandpa's birthday dawned sunnily and the blue sky promised a fair day. We splurged and rented a fishing boat with a motor. Grandpa was so excited he jumped into the boat before Charlie and me.

But nothing broke the water's blue smoothness for the first three hours. Grandpa took a big drink of coffee.

Suddenly he cried: "A fish! A fish! I got a fish!" True enough, Grandpa reeled up his line, the pole arched like an infuriated tomcat's back, water splashed all around and with a big bang a fish landed in our boat.

"A kingfish," Grandpa said. The fish could not have weighed more than two pounds, but he looked magnificent to us, lying there at our feet—a token of rewarded patience, skill, cunning and know-how.

"He is beautiful," I cried. "Just look at him, Charlie!" I grabbed the sleek form, holding up the fish proudly, when disaster struck.

It came as quick and unexpected, as all major catastrophes are known to happen. One moment I held the fish in my hand and the next moment my hand was empty. Something silvery glided through the air, like a bow shot from an arrow, then a big splash in the water, then—nothing.

"No—no—" Grandpa cried wildly, jumping up, entangling both feet in his line, and looking as if he was going to jump after the fish. Then he stood still and gave me a look, as if he had suddenly changed his mind and decided to throw me in instead. I said nothing, sitting there, an still staring dumbly at my empty hand.

"Fix up my line and give me your pole, meanwhile," Grandpa muttered distastefully, "maybe I can catch him again."

There's nothing like the optimism of an old fisherman. "Hand me my coffee," he said grumpily.

He took a big swallow. Suddenly, he cried "I got him—I got him again!" There was a powerful pull on the line, the pole arched again like the back of an infuriated tomcat. This time it arched even more, because my pole was not very strong.

"It's the same one—I can feel it—it's my kingfish!" Grandpa shouted.

We looked into the water, where the wild creature was fighting for life, tossing up silvery foam. The fish's head became visible, and the twitching tail.

Then, the line broke. Grandpa raged. He really talked much longer than that, adding a few ornamental adjectives before the "you" and the "cheap line."

Both Grandpa and Charlie looked at me with an expression that indicated I had violated a secret fisherman's code of ethics by not voluntarily jumping overboard, following the fish to the bottom of the sea and bringing him back in my own hands, or die in the attempt.

"Gramps," I stammered foolishly, "here's your own pole. Maybe—maybe he'll bite a third time."

"Hand me some more coffee," Grandpa said. There was a wild look in his eyes. We watched, as the line started to tremble, shake and jerk. "The kingfish, the kingfish," Grandpa roared.

"Stay away, Betty, stay far away!" Charlie cried. He did not have to tell me.

"Must have gotten rid of hook and sinkers somewhere down there below," Grandpa said "but it's the same one. I'd know him anywhere."

BATTLES ON THE GRIDIRON

While we think of the wars that may ravage the world anew, battles on the gridiron have already begun. There will be claims by big teams, if they suffer defeat by smaller teams, that it is early in the season; there will be upsets of big teams because some small-teams have "pointed" for certain games, and there will be records broken. But soon after January the First, when all the bowl games have been decided, the colleges and universities will be down to their regular work.

Let us hope that the lines in the paraphrase written by some college boy years ago:

Lives of football men remind us That they write their names in blood,

And, departing leave, behind them

Half their faces in the mud," may not be true of present warriors of the gridiron, thanks to better training and conditioning, more open play, and many safeguards. And we hope the brightest memory of this or that star may be the fair way in which he played the game.

LUTHERAN EDUCATION WEEK
THE LUTHERAN CHURCH - MISSOURI SYNOD

Lutheran Education Week will be noted in Panhandle congregations of the Lutheran Church on Sunday, Sept. 28, according to Rev. H. W. Kamman, Texhoma, who is circuit leader this fall in family life education.

St. Paul Lutheran Church, Texhoma, will have a special service at 11:00 a. m. Sunday. Children will take part in the worship and the sermon will be on the subject, "The True Level of Life."

The slogan for this year's Lutheran Education Week, "Educate for Eternity," focuses on the child as an important member of the body of Christ. Our Savior's Great Commission points up the educational task of the church: "teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you," or "make disciples of all nations." It is not enough to train our children for effective living in this life. We must prepare them for everlasting fellowship with God in heaven.

We live in an age that in large part ignores the Christian heritage. Our secular culture has in the minds of many people crowded out the necessity for religion of any kind. Even within the church many persons live compartmentalized lives that are secular for the bulk of their experience and religious only in small segments and too often but for a single hour. This is not the religion of Jesus Christ; it is not the religion of the Bible. If we are serious about carrying out the educational command of our Lord and Savior, we must square up to the large educational task that is required.

Our children must know the content of the Gospel. Our children must experience the living power of the Gospel in their lives. Our children must learn to differentiate between the divine authority of God's Word and the lesser authority of reason and experience. Let us "educate for eternity" through a strong program of Christian education.

Fifth Grade Selects Three Room Mothers

(By Orland Lasley)

In a class meeting Mrs. Hudson's Fifth Grade elected Room Mothers. They are: Mrs. S. R. Lasley, Mrs. A. L. Louis and Mrs. J. D. Hester.

The class will have three parties this year. One will be December 19 for Christmas, another November 26 for Thanksgiving and one March 26 for Easter.

In Mrs. Teague's class in science, the class will get to have a few experiments each week. Members of the class think they will be very interesting.

The class drew water color pictures for the fair.

The Fifth Grade has a library in the Teacher's Lounge this year, and students get to visit it once a week.

Sixth Grade Has New Students

(By Elaine Cummings)

So far school is interesting. Mr. Hall's sixth grade room has two new students, Cathie Wood and Navor Chavez. Robert Hoffman, Jimmy Cope and Lynn Thornton, students of last year, are not in the class this year.

Lanny Harris is home from the hospital and the class is glad that he is back. Lanny has not come back to school but the class hopes that he will soon be back. Members of the class have made new maps and put them up. States which were visited by members of the class during the summer include: Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona, California, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Idaho, Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana and Utah. Members of the class were glad to get out of school Monday to attend the Tri-State Fair.

Fourteen pistols were stolen from the Van B. Boston store some time Wednesday night of last week. Their value was approximately $700.00. Entrance was made by breaking a rear window in the building and the loss of the merchandise was not discovered until Thursday afternoon.

A review of records showed that .22, .25, .32, .38 and .45 calibre pistols were taken. The smaller pistols were taken while larger and more expensive guns were left in the show case unmolested. A few boxes of shells were also missing from the store shelves.

School Bus Accidents Take Lives

"Three persons were killed and 89 injured in rural traffic accidents involving school buses in Texas during the first six months of this year," Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced today.

"These deaths and injuries were the results of 197 accidents," the state police director said.

State laws regarding traffic on highways read as follows: The driver of a vehicle upon a highway outside of the limits of any incorporated city or town upon meeting or overtaking from either direction any school bus which has stopped on the highway for the purpose of receiving or discharging any school children shall stop the vehicle immediately before passing the school bus, but may then proceed past such school bus at a speed which is prudent, not exceeding ten miles per hour, and with due caution for the safety of such children. The driver of a vehicle upon a highway with separate roadways need not stop upon meeting or passing a school bus which is on a different roadway or when upon a controlled-across highway and the school bus is stopped in a loading zone which is a part of or adjacent to such highway and where pedestrians are not permitted to cross the roadway.

"This means that the driver of the passing vehicle is responsible for taking the due caution. He is responsible for knowing that his proceeding past the bus will not result in endangering any lives", Garrison said.

"Texas drivers should drive even more carefully than usual

Support Grid Stadium Drive

Ed Raleigh, Amarillo, was a guest speaker at the meeting of the Stratford Lions Club Monday night. Later he met with a committee headed by K. Kendrick to organize a county committee to support the new West Texas State College Stadium fund drive. Early reports indicate the money raising drive in Sherman County will be successful.

West Texas State College has $400,000 to build a new football stadium and 10,000 seats. The college is attempting to raise an additional $300,000 to build an additional 10,000 seats. More than one-third of the amount has been pledged.

Stratford Elks

Defeat Texhoma In 30-20 Game

Stratford Elks won their second game of the season by defeating Texhoma 30 to 20 in a good game Friday night. During the early part of the game it looked as though the Elks might have been outmatched when Robert Hopson went around left end to carry the ball 65 yards for the first touchdown, scoring 6 points but the team failed in an attempted pass for extra points.

Stratford Elks immediately took the initiative and started driving down the field in short gains. Beginning on their own 21 yard line they plunged down the field to the 7 yard line. James Spurlock took the ball across for the touchdown and K. Kendrick carried the ball for the additional two points.

Texhoma received the ball and the Elks held them to very little gain. Texhoma Red Devils punted and Stratford fumbled the ball on their own 26 yard line. With the opening of the second quarter Texhoma scored their second touchdown on a jump pass and Stump carried the ball for the extra 2 points. The Red Devils led 14 to 8.

The Elks received the ball on their own 39 yard line and started a new drive. James Spurlock received a pass for the second Elk touchdown but the attempt for extra points failed, leaving the score 14 and 14.

Texhoma moved down the field to the Elk 20 yard line when Cagle Kendrick intercepted a pass and took the ball to the Elk 26 yard line. The Elks continued to plunge down the field but were temporarily held back by a 15 yard penalty. Bernard Spruell received a pass which placed the ball on the Red Devil 12 yard line. Bill Steinberger took the ball across for a third Elk touchdown and James Spurlock carried the ball for an additional 2 points. At the half the Elks led 22 to 14.

In the third quarter Bill Steinberger took the ball across the goal line for a fourth Elk touchdown and Cagle Kendrick carried the ball over for 2 additional points. The Elks led with a 30 to 14 score.

The ball was moved back and forth across the field for the remainder of the quarter with each side threatening, and then losing the ball.

In the last quarter Hopson scored for Texhoma but the attempt for additional points failed.

During the remainder of the game the Elks and the Red Devils gained and lost ground without scoring, leaving the final score 30 to 20 in favor of the Stratford Elks.

Half-Time Band Show
Stratford High School band members presented a marching exhibition at the half time period. Donna Boner, Natacha Morris, Sonja DeBord and Kay Spurlock were presented as the season's leaders.
