

Safflower Opportunity Coming To Stratford

Safflower and its many advantages will be discussed by capable authorities at a meeting to be held in the County Exhibit Building at 8:00 p. m. Wednesday, April 8.

Capable authorities will discuss the potential productivity of the crop, the potential returns, the necessary care of the soil for higher yields, and the opening of a new market for a new crop which at least has some claim on raising the financial return from high plains fields.

Dr. Wade Parkey, a former U. S. Department of Agriculture agronomist, now employed by the International Safflower Corporation, is scheduled to be present to answer many of the problems which are poised before farmers who would like to venture into the new crop if it offers a profitable means of farm operation.

If available information is correct, Safflower markets are excellent and the supply has never been able to meet the demand. It has further been stated that $62.00 a ton will be offered to the Safflower grower this year.

Since Safflower requires the same agricultural practices as grain sorghum and can be expected to yield about three-fourths of what milo averages, in dollar terms the farmer can expect about twice as much money per acre.

Safflower, a member of the thistle family, produces an oil-bearing seed head similar to the sunflower from which valuable oils may be extracted. The cholesterol-free oils are recommended for heart patients and are used in the paint and varnish industry.

The plant demands a dry climate and of the three-million acres in the world suitable for Safflower culture, the Texas Panhandle and fringe areas of Oklahoma and southwestern Kansas contain two-thirds of that acreage.

Safflower takes less water than most crops and may be planted when soil temperatures reach 40 degrees. About 90 days after planting Safflower reaches maturity. The plant grows from 28 to 36 inches in height and is an import from Asia.

Alex Dickie Jr., president of the Texas Farmers, has made arrangements for the meeting in Stratford. Contracts for the growers will be available at the meeting and seed orders will be signed.

Irrigation and plant breeding specialists will be among the principal speakers.

A goal of planting 20,000 acres of Safflower this year for seed purposes has been announced. The seed will be required to plant 100,000 acres to Safflower next year, which would, according to available information, justify the erection of a processing plant which would employ 50 or more workers and operate on a 24-hour a day basis the year around, and process about 200 tons of seed a day.

Stratford, Hereford, Lockney, Littlefield and Olton have placed bids for the location of the processing plant. It is anticipated that acreage contracts will be signed and the eventual location of the processing plant will be made in the central portion of the most productive area.

Grass and brush fires on the open range burn over an average of about 250,000 acres annually.

Pre-School Tots Guests Of First Grade Students

Pre-school children were guests of the First Grade children and their teachers, Mrs. Golden Corley and Mrs. Julia Reaves, all day March 26. Forty-seven pre-school children attended.

The first grade students counted, sang and recited the pledge of allegiance to the flag for their visitors. The first grade music class entertained by singing a skit "The Boy and Three Billy Goats." They enjoyed hamburgers, potato chips, peach pie and milk for lunch in the cafeteria.

Due to bad weather the Easter egg hunt was not held. The children played in the gymnasium and played games in the class rooms. Refreshments of Easter cookies and kool aid were served. The mothers present were: Mrs. Dale Knight, Mrs. Hugh Stewart, Mrs. Joy Smith, Mrs. Dee Howard, Mrs. Edward Smith, Mrs. Marvin Kimball, Mrs. P. J. Pronger Jr., and Mrs. Phillip Bain.

Assistance Available To Ranchers

Farmer's interest has been increasing lately in the Great Plains Conservation Program. Under this program, a complete conservation plan can be carried out on a farm or ranch with government cost share assistance.

In addition to the practices paid on under the regular ACP program, the Great Plains conservation program will assist farmers in installing cross fences, water storage facilities, and windbreaks or livestock shelterbelts on rangeland.

Government cost share on these conservation practices varies from fifty to eighty percent of the cost, with no limit on the amount of assistance received each year.

Seven applications for assistance under this program have been received in Hansford County so far and the plans have been completed for assistance on two of these farms.

Sherman County residents who think they might be interested in doing work under this program should file an application at the County ASC Office or for further information, contact the Soil Conservation Service office in Spearman. Their address is box 8, Spearman, Texas and the office is located in the County courthouse.

More About Spending

(By Walter Rogers)
One of the leading stories in a Washington newspaper last week started off as follows:

"The House last week handed President Eisenhower a second victory in as many days when it voted 315 to 57 to increase the United States' contributions to the World Bank and International Monetary Fund in the current fiscal year, rather than in 1960."

The debate brought out that the 1 billion 375 million dollars would be charged to the federal debt. The federal debt now stands at 285 billion dollars. I was among the 57 who voted against it.

The following headline heralded the other victory referred to in the above story:

"President Triumphs as House Approves Money for Aid Fund". The story began like this:

"President Eisenhower won an important victory in the House yesterday when a bipartisan majority approved 100 million dollars in new money for the Development Loan Fund by a vote of 191 to 85."

The Development Loan fund is part of the foreign aid fund.

I was among the 85 who voted "No."

These two actions cost the American taxpayer 1 billion 475 million dollars, which will be borrowed money on which interest must be paid by that same taxpayer.

The whole transaction reminded me of the story of the music critic who was given an assignment of reporting on an appearance of a string quartet. His brief but most revealing review of the performance read as follows:

"Last evening at the City Auditorium a string quartet

MAN will land on the moon, possibly within two years, a Columbia University astrophysicist predicts.

Dr. Lloyd Motz said in an interview that the landings—which most likely will be made by the Russians—will signal the beginning of life on the moon and exploration of other planets.

The scientist said the successful firing of America's Pioneer IV rocket and the earlier launching of the Russian Lunik "taught us we can land on the moon. I think it will be done within a reasonably short time, say two years."

He said his viewpoint was optimistic while others, with more conservative ideas, predicted a landing within five years.

The associate professor of Astronomy said he disagreed with the opinion of some other U. S. scientists that Pioneer IV put the U. S. in "the same league" with the Russians.

Referring to the difference between the payloads of the American and Russian moon rockets (13 pounds vs. 796 pounds), he said "The energy required to launch the Russian satellite was more than 100 times greater.

Mrs. M. Butler Dies In Sleep

Mrs. Mamie Butler, 68-year old sister-in-law of E. W. Butler, died in her sleep Sunday night at her home in Canyon. She was found dead in bed Monday morning by her daughter who decided that her mother was sleeping later than she did normally.

Mrs. Butler fractured a hip in a fall last October and had returned to Canyon about two weeks ago from a Dallas hospital. She was considered in frail health but Sunday night she had enjoyed playing games with other members of the family. Her six children had spent Easter Sunday visiting with her.

Funeral services were held in the First Baptist Church in Canyon Wednesday afternoon and burial was made in Tulla. Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Cone Donelson, Mr. and Mrs. Ray McNeal, and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler Jr. of Lamar, Colorado, went to Canyon Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Cone Donelson remained overnight and attended the funeral.

In a moment of pitch darkness Sunday evening a tornado tore a chicken house from its foundation, moved a combine and plow, and left John Lavake pinned against the side of his home located about 21 miles southeast of Stratford. The incident happened shortly before 6:00 o'clock.

The chicken house was picked up and placed on its side several feet from the concrete foundation. Three week old baby chickens were left nesting unharmed on the concrete floor where feeders, watering fountains and a cardboard box remained in their original locations.

In telling of his experience Mr. Lavake said that there did not seem to be any wind but he could see a cloud of dust approaching and went out to close the chicken house door. He then started to close the garage door. A period of almost total darkness developed and straw filled the air. As the sky began to clear Mr. Lavake discovered that he had been pinned against the wall of his home and wheat straw was hanging from the electric lines leading to his house. Several acres of wheat stubble straw near the Lavake home was swept away as though the field had been swept by a huge broom. A combine near the house was moved for a short distance. It had become entangled with a plow and dragged the plow for a short distance.

A bedroom window of the Lavake home was open. Mr. Lavake had removed his blue suit and left it on the bed. Dust and dirt deposited during the storm practically made it impossible to determine the color of the material, Lavake said.

Irrigation pipe in a nearby field which belongs to Van B. Boston, was moved for some distance.

A light rain fell over much of the territory between 5:30 and 6:00 o'clock Sunday. Heavy clouds reduced daylight visibility and barometers showed a decrease in air pressure.

Barometers in Stratford did not drop to such an extent as to cause alarm and no other reports of tornado damage in the immediate territory have been made.

Dallas Is Big And Booming

Dallas Memorial Auditorium

From a single cabin on the banks of the Trinity River to an internationally famous city. This is the colorful history of Dallas.

The city was born when John Neely Bryan, a Tennessean, came from Arkansas in 1841 to investigate the possibilities. He liked what he saw, and so have hundreds of thousands since. Dallas is now the home of some 642,000 persons, half again as many as the 1950 census figure—and the city is still growing.

Dallas is affectionately known as "Big D" throughout the Lone Star State. It is big, booming and prosperous.

Visitors enjoy the city's many points of interest, ranging from Bryan's first tiny log cabin to beautiful residential areas and modern sky-scraping hotels, banks and office buildings. And the city changes almost daily as old buildings come down and modern structures rise in their places.

Geographically situated at the center of the mid-continent oil fields, Dallas is an important headquarters for more than 1,000 firms engaged in the oil production industry and many other concerns in allied industries.

Aircraft production, insurance, finance and banking, oil production, electronics and regional wholesale distribution are the city's leading industries.

The nation's largest inland cotton market and one of the leading spot cotton market centers of the world. Dallas' cotton market activity centers around Dallas Cotton Exchange, the largest building in the world devoted solely to the buying and selling of cotton. The city is surrounded by highly productive farmlands since Dallas is one of the nation's largest blackbelt lands.

Other important industries include publishing, production of food products, cotton gins, grain elevators and farm implements.

The city is the Southwest's top convention center. Last year, Dallas played host to 2,538 separate conventions and this year promises to be even bigger, with 140 national and international conventions already scheduled.

The Creecys clear more than $4.00 per hen

The Wayne Creecys, Ardmore, Oklahoma, have expanded from 220 cages in 1955 to their present total of 2,100 cage hens. Their operation was expanded because of a growing demand for Purina Cage Eggs and, as Mrs. Creecy so aptly stated, "We wanted the extra income!"

The first 8 months of 1958, their birds returned a labor profit of $3.08 per bird . . . projected for the year, this would be more than $4.00 labor profit per bird.

"We've been relying on Purina since we started," commented Mr. Creecy, "and wouldn't think of feeding anything else. We appreciate and depend on the services of our Purina Dealer."

"Sweet Tooth" Made Hawaii A Melting Pot

The world's sweet tooth helped make Hawaii one of the greatest "melting pots" in the world.

When the first white men explored the islands in the late 1700's, Hawaiians numbered about 300,000. But civil wars and diseases brought from other lands slashed the native population.

With the growth of the sugar industry in the 1800's, the Islanders looked to other nations to supply the labor needed for plantations. Chinese were brought to the islands in 1852, followed by Polynesians from other South Sea Islands, Japanese, Portuguese, Germans, Italians, Spaniards, Puerto Ricans, Koreans, Filipinos, Russians and Poles.

Today there are only about 12,000 full Hawaiians and some 80,000 part-Hawaiians among the 600,000 Islanders.

Here is a breakdown of the Hawaiian population: Japanese

Chatter Of The Plainsman

(By Brown Ross)

"Reading is the key to all knowledge and knowledge is power. Napoleon knew that and he once said 'Show me a family of readers and I'll show you the people who move the world.'"

According to studies at a modern university there are four key aspects of morale: (1) satisfaction in the job itself; (2) pride in the people you work with; (3) approval of pay scales and promotional opportunities, and (4) a feeling of belonging in the period of civilization in which you live.

Reading without giving some consideration to the environment and the problems of the writer will hardly solve many of our present day problems.

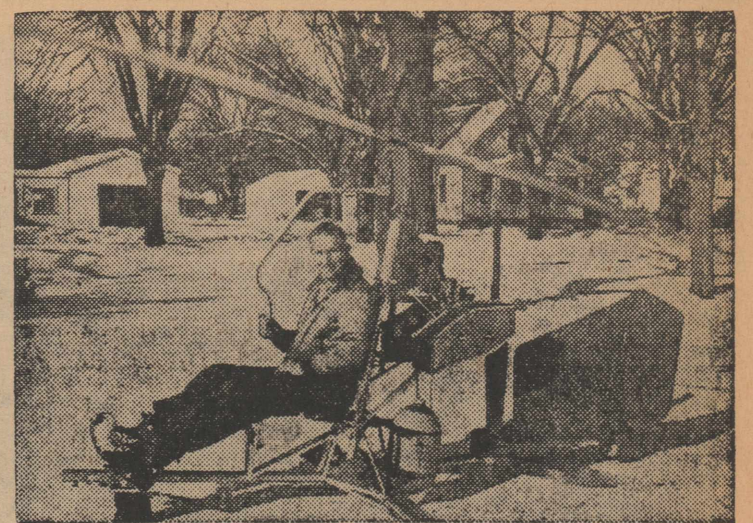

This situation has been noted from a situation which was thought to have been solved two or three years ago. The Postal Department was operating farther in the "red" with each passing year and constant demands were being made for better service. The Postmaster General through his aides appealed to the country newspaper publishers to assist in developing a graduated increase in postal rates to be put into effect through the years which would place the department on a pay as you go basis and at the same time modernize postal service. The postage rate increase is in its graduated stages. In all probability the records of the Postmaster General show that tons of mail are being moved vast distances at a nominal expense. What the records of the man at the head of the department probably don't show is the fact that ton after ton of that fast moving mail which is swiftly moving over hundreds of miles should have been distributed with 50 miles of its point of origin. Its hardly fair to charge the man with being a perfect idiot, but it is one's duty to inform the man that the service which has been inaugurated is far short of the service which had been expected in cities and counties which do not have metropolitan populations.

The tax problem in Texas with its vast and complex interests is rapidly becoming almost as complicated as the national problem. Bill after bill has been introduced in the Texas Legislature as a cure for tax ills. Proposed taxes have been placed on practically every form of free enterprise. The general attitude seems to be that it is all right to tax so long as the hardship is placed on the other fellow. In the history of precedents, government once given the power to destroy one enterprise, can in the following years, be given or will take the power to destroy others. It is a situation that thinking people might well consider in appraising many tax measures which are being introduced in the state.

Rural Electrification Cooperatives in Texas have been introduced and developed as an industry subsidized by the American taxpayer for the purpose of delivering electric service to farmers who did not then have electric service available to them. Strangely enough three out of every four customers, if the figures are correct, which are now being added by electric cooperatives in the United States are non-farm customers. Advocates of such a measure in the Texas Legislature would extend the electric cooperatives to those residing within Texas cities. Surface appeal of the measure is based on claims that electric power could be furnished at a more advantageous price. Those who have studied the measure a little more thoroughly find that the 75 Texas Co-ops pay a tax of $490,718.00, representing 1½ cents on each dollar of their revenue. This contribution in taxes must be compared with the 90 million dollars paid in taxes by utility companies operating in the state which represents 26 cents in taxes out of each dollar of their revenues. In the event the Texas Legislature should approve such a measure how would you prefer to pay your share of the tax deficiency such a measure would create?

FLYING FARMER . . . Topeka's Al Wilson made this gyrocopter of a 72-horsepower engine and other parts totaling only 225 pounds. It flies, too.
