Rain Fell In Localities Monday Morning

Rain falling Monday morning gave new life to wheat in the Dalhart, Kerrick and Texhoma areas. Only a trace fell in the immediate area of Stratford. At Dalhart 30 of an inch fell. In the Kerrick area .55 to .70 of an inch of rain was reported. Texhoma was reported to have received .30 of an inch.

Wheat is described as looking good in the favored sections where the rain fell. Dry land wheat in other sections is rapidly growing itself to death by using the last of top soil moisture. Most producers believe that only a good rain within a few days can save fields of wheat in this condition. Ideal conditions which favored the crop during the first of the year have reversed their cycle.

Irrigated wheat is being described as holding its own. In the fields of the more advanced wheat some producers say that the recent late freeze may have damaged some of the meshes in the top of the head.

The "Westerly Sun," in Rhode Island, is the only Sunday evening paper in the United States. It was the first newspaper to announce the Pearl Harbor attack on December 7, 1941, without necessitating the printing of an "extra" or calling its personnel back to work to print the paper.

Allotment Acreage Retired Under Conservation Reserve Reported

Retirement of whole farms under the Conservation Reserve of the Soil Bank to date is taking out of yearly production about 2.3 million acres of basic crop acreage allotments, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announces.

The allotment acres represent about 10 per cent of the estimated 23 million acres of cropland expected to be included in the Conservation Reserve in 1959 (13 million acres covered by applications approved under the 1959 program and 10 million acres under contracts from earlier years.) About half of this total program acreage is in the form of whole farms.

On the basis of reports submitted by all Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) county offices, the allotment acres retired under the whole farm program include 1.8 million wheat-allotment acres, 439,000 cotton-allotment acres, 57,780 peanut-allotment acres, 7,650 tobacco-allotment acres, and 4,860 rice-allotment acres. Some additional allotment acreage will be retired under part-farm contracts but the exact amount to be retired each year cannot be determined because of the wide choice of crops that could be grown on the land not in the reserve.

In addition, whole farm contracts will take out of production 905,000 acres which were assigned as corn allotments in 1958. (Beginning with the 1959 crop, allotments no longer apply to corn.)

Since the average Soil Bank contract covers a period of 5 to 6 years, the "whole farm" land put into the Conservation Reserve will not be producing any crops for that length of time. This includes both the allotment land and land customarily devoted to other crops.

USDA officials point out that this should help in holding down surpluses and should also reduce price support expenditures, since no price support commodities will be harvested from the "whole farms" in the program.

Under the Conservation Reserve, land placed in the reserve may not be used for crop production or grazing and must be devoted to an approved conservation use. USDA pays an annual rental for the land and pays part of the cost of establishing the conservation use. The annual rental rate per acre for a farm is based on the value of the land for the production of commodities customarily grown, the cash rental rates in the area, and the incentive necessary to accomplish the program's purposes.

Even though all eligible cropland on a farm is placed in the program under a whole farm contract, the house and any other building may still be occupied, and a home garden may be grown.

To encourage farmers to put whole farms in the Soil Bank under this arrangement, a maximum whole farm payment rate 10 per cent higher than the regular rate was authorized for the 1959 program.

COLLEGE STATION — "Short wheats" being developed for production under high fertility and irrigation in Texas show much promise in early tests by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Dr. I. M. Atkins, agronomist in charge of small grain research, says the new wheats, resulting from crosses of a dwarf wheat from Japan with hard red winter wheat varieties, grow to 25-35 inches tall, rather than the 35-45, or even 50 inches attained by presently planted varieties.

In tests conducted by Dr. Kenneth B. Porter at the Southwestern Great Plains Field Station near Amarillo, the top strain of short wheat produced 75 bushels per acre compared with 54 bushels by two widely planted varieties, Concho and Wichita. At the Denton Station the new strains lodged less than 5 percent while producing high yields. Commercial varieties lodged up to 80 percent under the same growing conditions at Denton.

Production of short wheats will mean many advantages to farmers, Dr. Atkins points out. Higher levels of fertility might be used to produce more grain per acre without lodging. The short wheats also appear to be more efficient in their use of fertilizer, increasing their yield without an excess production of straw.

Quality tests also are promising, Dr. Porter says. However, we will do much more testing for quality, winter-hardiness, disease resistance, adaptation to combine harvesting and other characteristics so the wheat will prove itself before releasing seed to farmers.

We are seeking short wheat which will fit Texas farming and at the same time produce better grain for bread under high fertility and irrigation than currently planted varieties. Some of the characteristics sought also in further breeding will include shatter resistance, higher test weight per bushel and stronger gluten content to enable bread dough to stand up better during mixing, he adds.

Fire Fighters Bring Home Fish For Fry

Nineteen members of the Stratford Volunteer Fire Department spent the latter part of last week fishing at Possum Kingdom. Firemen going on the fishing trip this year included: W. O. Parvin, Luther Blades, Donny Jacobs, Claude Fedric, Emery Roper, Gordon Fedric, Elbert Williams, Claude Allen, Joe Walsh, Albert Lee, Roy Harris, Leon Guthrie, Owen Palmer, Lewie Brannan, J. J. Willey, Ted Reynolds, E. W. Carter, Rex Hudson, and E. E. Riggs.

HEALTHFUL RURAL LIVING WITH RADIANT GLASS HEAT

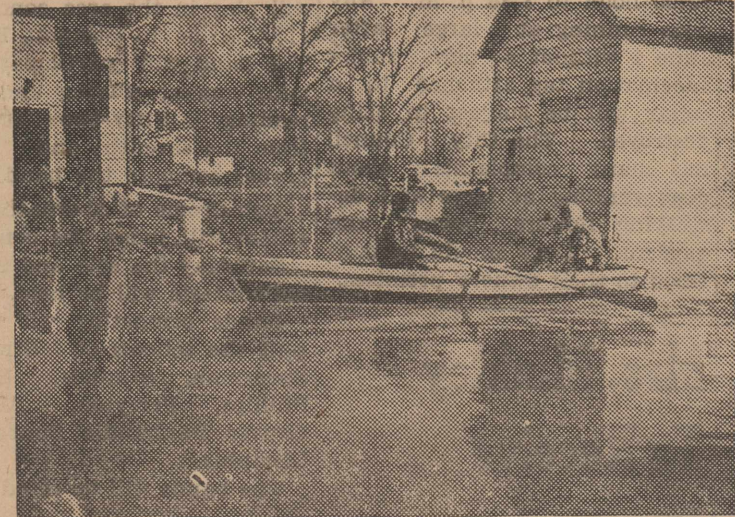

"NO COLDS"

"No chest colds or headaches," say the Millers since installing their draft-free radiant electric heating system. The Miller home has approximately 1200 square feet of living area. They find that seven properly placed 1000 watt radiant glass panels can supply more than adequate heat for the personal wintertime comfort of the family.

OPERATING COST REASONABLE

Mr. Miller says, "We wouldn't consider heating our home in any other way. Our electric heating system offers many advantages to the family and the operating cost is reasonable."

"Independent room control" is feature of electric heating system at H. H. Miller farm, Dawn, Texas. Radiant glass panels make attractive and safe installation and give exact degree of heating desired.

Cities To See

Chattanooga, Tennessee

Chattanooga, Tennessee is known as "The Picture Window of the South." It is a beautiful city surrounded by unique contrasts of natural scenery. Mountains surround the city, towering above rolling valleys.

Lookout Mountain, only a short distance from Chattanooga, boasts "the steepest and safest passenger incline in the world." The incline railway track ascends straight up the face of the mountain for a distance of almost a mile, reaching an altitude of 2,450 feet above sea level. The incline cars pass through the site of the famous Civil War "Battle Above the Clouds," now a U. S. Forest Preserve.

Point Park on Lookout Mountain is a unit in the nation's oldest and largest National Military Park. Across the street from the entrance to this park is the Lookout Mountain Museum which houses Civil War and Indian relics and dioramas portraying the life and action of these periods. Signal Mountain presents panoramic views for the amateur photographer. The outlooks from Signal include the Grand Canyon of Tennessee, Chickamauga Dam, William's Island and the City of Chattanooga.

Other points of interest include Chickamauga Battlefield, where 34,000 soldiers in Blue and Gray fell in two days of bloody Civil War fighting. It is well marked with monuments, plaques and cannon in original battle positions. At Ruby Falls, an elevator takes visitors through 280 feet of solid rock in America's deepest cave.

Another spot to see is the Cravens House, where part of the original house still stands, marking the spot where the Battle Above the Clouds ended, with a victory for the Northern troops "that sealed the fate of the Confederacy."

PRISONER 1313

By U. S. Allen

CARL GILLMAN, now serving a life sentence in the "Big house," came of a respected law-abiding family. He was convicted, and committed to prison the spring he graduated from college. It was his first bout with the law. His losing the battle doesn't seem to depress him. He is young and of congenial spirit. He is liked and trusted by the Administration and the guards.

But prison has in no way reformed him. He still practices his pet hobby—that which really pinned the number on him. If you'd like to know what that is, don't examine court records; they make no mention of it. Nor can you hope to learn from the prisoner himself.

There was that waitress at Monon. She was a great audience! On his way home from college his train stopped twenty minutes for lunch at Monon. He rushed into the lunch-room for coffee and a sandwich, and then it happened, as some historian once said. The moment he saw this girl he knew she was going to prove his inspiration.

He let out a savage yelp, picked up a knife in a threatening gesture, while the girl stood paralyzed. Then he dropped the knife, rubbed his forehead as if coming out of a dream, and began to apologize most humbly for his sudden behavior. He told her his great grandfather—though he tried not to talk or to think about him—was the fiercest of all pirates that ever sailed the seven seas.

When he found that his train had left, and that he could not get out of Monon till near midnight, he dated the girl for the evening. When they left the picture show, his watch told him he still had more than an hour to wait.

When he finally reached Chicago, he learned that he had to wait two hours for a connection. To pass the time he went into a poolroom and got in a game with a man who answered to the name of Gowan. Gowan was a silent man with a poker face, and eyes that seemed to see everything and react to nothing. Carl knew Gowan was going to be a hard audience to move. He had about given up all hope of getting a "rise" out of the man when a cop strolled by their table.

"What's the matter?" Gowan asked.

"That cop. Did you see how he looked at me?"

"Wasn't watching. Any reason to be afraid of cops?"

"Listen," Carl said, his voice nearing hysteria, "I got to talk to somebody—I just got to! I'm in a jam. Don't know why I did it. Never did anything like that before—but I—I robbed a bank."

"What bank?" Gowan's sleepy eyes showed no interest.

From a fresh memory of events of the evening he said, "A bank in Monon—the First National, I think."

"Listen, son," Gowan spoke patiently, "You may be stage-struck; you may think you're an actor, but for your benefit, I'm a veteran police detective, and have met a good many bank robbers and to me your impersonation of one is—well, I'd rather play pool, what say?"

Just then a newsboy came through the door shouting something in newscasters language which Carl didn't understand. Gowan bought a paper, glanced at the front page, his eyes betraying nothing, then dropped it on the pool table and reached in his pocket. Carl saw the headlines, First National Bank of Monon Robbed.

"And just think," Gowan said, as he fastened the hand cuffs. "All the time I thought you were just stringing me."

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Hattie Thomas, Luther, Oklahoma: I remember Christmas time in the early days in Oklahoma Territory. We lived on a farm and we kids looked forward to the Christmas tree and program at our little schoolhouse on the hill.

There was no cedar tree or anything similar available, so the menfolks of the small community provided a well-shaped little blackjack tree from the timber lot. My mother and the other ladies entwined and wrapped every branch of the blackjack tree with strips of colored wrapping paper saved from the weekly trips to the country store. Mother was especially handy at making lovely things from crepe paper, so she devised the idea of "snow balls" to trim the tree. She fashioned them from rounds of white crepe paper, puffed and stuffed with snowy cotton from our own cotton patch, and dangling from the branches those snowballs looked dazzlingly real, among the strings of popcorn and cranberries.

Never was there such a beautiful tree.

3 GOOD REASONS FOR COOKING ELECTRICALLY!

1 FAST

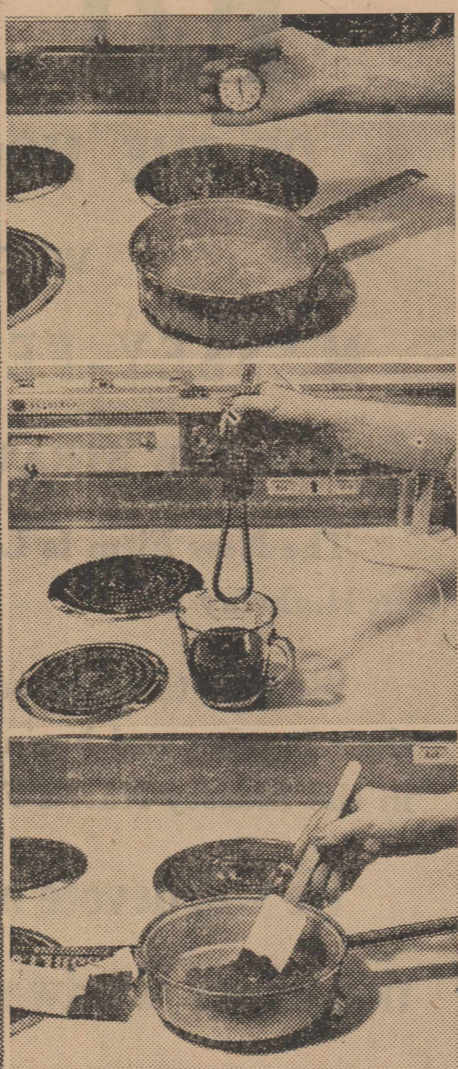

Electric cooking is fast! Just a simple water boiling test proves the speed of electric cooking. And, it's because all the heat goes into the pan to cook the food—none escapes up and around the sides of the pan to heat up the kitchen. This means cool cooking—best of all, fast cooking.

2 CLEAN

There's just no cleaner way to cook. Electric elements clean themselves as this dramatic molasses test proves. The electric element in the photo, just like the surface unit on top of the range, when turned on and immersed in a pitcher of sticky molasses comes out clean. With electric cooking, walls stay clean, elements stay clean and drip pans wash clean as easy as saucers.

3 ACCURATE

You've noticed that where automatic controls are used in your home they are electric. That's because electricity controls accurately and is, in turn, easy to control accurately. That's why, on an electric range, you can melt chocolate without burning and without a double boiler—so gentle, so safe, so accurately controlled is electricity.

How Well Do You Know Your America?

A city that is like no other city anywhere—that's Miami Beach, Florida. An entirely different community from neighboring Miami, Miami Beach is dedicated to the single purpose of entertaining visitors.
Miami Beach has no cemeteries, no streetcars, no industries, and no railroads. Even the shopping streets are lined with parkways and adorned with palms.
Ample hotel facilities, diversified recreation and warm, gentle breezes from the nearby Gulf Stream are but a few of the reasons for the popularity of one of the nation's most famous resorts.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Telling "Fibs" Is Not Funny

By C. D. Smith

A teenage boy writes: "I have a friend who is always telling little 'fibs'—nothing real serious, just things like telling his folks he is going over to my house when he is actually going to a movie or to someone else's house. I think this is a bad habit and told him so, but he just laughs at me. Don't you think it is wrong?"
 It is very wrong, for several reasons. One reason that it is wrong should be obvious even to the offender: get into the habit of telling little "fibs" and first thing you know these little "fibs" have grown into great big lies—which are just as easy to tell.
 Actually, the friend isn't "fibbing" when he tells his parents he is going one place when he intends to go somewhere else—he is telling them a deliberate lie. It would seem that there are two reasons why he does this: either he doesn't want his parents to know where he is, or he just wants to be "cute," as the saying goes. Whatever his reason, he is guilty of a deliberate falsehood that might have disastrous consequences.

When parents go out for an evening and leave their children with a baby sitter, they leave the address of the place they are going, and usually the phone number. They do this for their own benefit, so that they may be reached should some emergency arise.

There is nothing "grown-up" about wanting to be "free as a bird" and to go one's way without having to "report" to someone. The person with this attitude is dodging responsibility.

An emergency of one kind or another, accident or sickness, for instance, may make it necessary that parents get in touch with their children immediately and they can't do this if the children are not where they are supposed to be.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Club Ladies Review Progress

The Southside Home Demonstration Club is composed of what used to be the Lone Star, Spurlock and Ruby Home Demonstration Clubs. The Spurlock and Ruby Clubs were organized about 1936, and the Lone Star Club was organized about two years later.

In the early part of the year in 1946, the Lone Star Club joined with the Spurlock Club and the name became the Lone Star-Spurlock Home Demonstration Club, and at the last meeting of 1946, the Ruby Club disbanded. Its members were invited to join the Lone Star-Spurlock Club, which they did. The name was then changed to the Southside Home Demonstration Club, which it carries to date.

Through the years, various club women have worked with the following Home Demonstration

Agents. Miss Maurine McNatt, the first agent in Sherman County, helped to organize the first home demonstration clubs in the county. Following Miss McNatt, the home demonstration agents were Miss Betty Farley, Miss Mable Martin, Miss Billy K. Hodges, Mrs. Betty Bond, Miss Dorothy Dixon, Miss Lucille King, Miss Leona Miller and the present agent, Mrs. Ruby Campbell.

At the present time there are 11 members in the Southside Club. They are Mrs. Vernon Carter, president; Mrs. Joe Everett, vice-president; Mrs. Wayne Cartrite, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. John Lavake, reporter; Mrs. J. L. Naylor, council delegate; Mrs. James Bradley, Mrs. T. F. Baskin, Mrs. Don Ellison, Mrs. Neal Spurlock, Mrs. Arthur Cartrite and Mrs. Meritt Sweny. Mrs. Cartrite and Mrs. Sweny are charter members from the Spurlock Club.

Mrs. T. F. Baskin was chosen "woman of the year for 1957" by the club. Mrs. John Lavake was chosen "woman of the year for 1958", and was selected "woman of the year for Sherman County."

Some of the major demonstrations the members have taken part in were mattress making, foundation pattern making from muslin, home canning and yeast breads. In home improvement, the club studied upholstery, slip covers, rug making and furniture refinishing. In landscaping, club members learned how to care for lawns, pruning, and rooting cuttings. They also studied poultry, which consisted of culling hens, freezing chickens and egg grading. The club has also had a course in clothing, which included tailoring, basic dress making and millinery.

The club has always sponsored the 4-H club in the community and in the county also. The club has had a few outside interests besides home demonstration club work. Just to name a few of the activities, the club has helped Boys Ranch, Red Cross, State Hospitals, Girls Town, Salvation Army, Tornado Relief to Higgins, and Indians in Arizona. Club members made layettes for foreign relief for several years.

At the 25th anniversary of home demonstration club work at A. & M. College, Mrs. John Lavake and Mrs. Arthur Cartrite of the Southside Club were selected to take part in the "Wheel of Progress" pageant.

All the members fully cooperate with the home demonstration agent in carrying out the program of work.

The club has always had an educational exhibit at the county fair, and has won first place several times.

Mrs. Don Ellison is the club's landscape demonstrator this year, and Mrs. Wayne Cartrite is home improvement demonstrator.

The council chairman, Mrs. Don Ellison, is from the Southside Club.

The history of the Southside Home Demonstration Club was written in observance of National Home Demonstration Club week.

Reminder Of Soil Bank Compliance

Farmers who have contracted to participate in the 1959 Soil Bank conservation reserve should remember that they must comply with all acreage allotments for the farm as well as all soil bank requirements in order to qualify for payment. R. C. Buckles, chairman of the Sherman County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said May 1.

A program provision that is sometimes overlooked by farmers requires compliance with all acreage allotments established for the farm. If this requirement is not met the farmer will be ineligible for payment and he will leave himself liable for further penalties.

Mr. Buckles further pointed out that farmers should be extremely careful that they do not exceed their permitted acreage of soil bank base crops. Exceeding this permitted acreage can also make a farmer ineligible for the payment which he would otherwise earn.

Where a farmer willfully and knowingly harvests from or permits grazing on conservation reserve land, payment is forfeited and in addition, he is subject to a civil penalty of 50 per cent of the payment which would have been made for compliance.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Going "Steady" Has Disadvantages

A young girl of sixteen considers herself burdened with quite a problem. She dates two boys regularly and each one has asked her to go "steady" (with him only, that is).

Her problem is not as big as she thinks it is, however. She says that she isn't sure, but "maybe" she likes one boy a little bit better than she does the other. But she isn't sure.

We think it would be quite foolish for this young lady to agree to "go steady" with either boy. Apparently she enjoys the company of both and accordingly there is no reason for her to have to stop dating one boy in order to please the other one.

To be perfectly truthful about the situation, some boys believe in "going steady" because it's pretty convenient—they don't have to worry about getting a date for the next prom or social affair. This doesn't mean they don't care anything about the girl—to the contrary, they do, or they wouldn't enjoy her company or want to be with her most of the time. But sometimes they enjoy the convenience of not having to worry about getting dates as much as they enjoy the companionship of their "steady."

The girl (or boy) who is popular and attractive sacrifices some of that popularity by going "steady." It's not that people like her (or him) any less—but the boy and girl who go "steady" lose their individuality in the minds of their friends and become a "team." Where you see one, you see the other. Invite one to a party, invite the other. Don't ask either one for a date—they're going steady.

There comes the time when every boy and girl feels that the "right one" has finally come along. Then it's time to start going "steady" and determine if this is the one "for life." Sound advice: Have fun while you are young; don't go "steady" until you are ready.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORD, KY.

BIGGER and safer boats are predicted for the nation's increasing thousands of outboard enthusiasts. And one boat designer predicts catamaran outboard cruisers of up to 50 feet will be a reality within a few years.

Making this prediction is Ted Jones, noted Gold Cup boat and pleasure boat designer. Catamarans are twin-hulled craft which have decided advantages over conventional v-bottom boats. More than two dozen boat builders are building catamarans this year, and some of these are 35 feet.

According to Jones, the efficiency of the catamaran increases as it grows larger. "The conventional boat has to push through the water much as a snow shovel pushes through snow. A catamaran rides over the water like a pair of skis. This doesn't make too much difference with small craft, but as the boats become larger, the allegorical snow shovel becomes larger and the snow deeper."

While the catamaran is one of man's oldest boat designs, its adaptation to outboard power is less than 10 years old. The design has long been noted for its stability, which makes it the boat design of future outboard craft of moderate and large size.

It is claimed that a 16-foot catamaran is twice as stable as the same size conventional hull. And tests have demonstrated that the stability increases geometrically as the catamarans grow larger. The relative stability of the conventional hull has only an arithmetical increase in stability.

While not designed for speed, catamarans have been knocking off the top pleasure boat marathon prizes across the country.

YOUTH IS RELATIVE... Miss Mary Alice Sample, retired 81-year-old schoolteacher, is studying journalism at the University of Missouri.

The Outboard Boating Club of America estimates there are now 7,071,000 pleasure boats in use in the United States. This is more than three times the 1947 total of 2,440,000. Before the advent of the outboard motor in 1904, there were some 15,000 recreational boats of all types on American waters.

Although it has become practice for the "dummy" to lay down his trump suit before the first lead has been made in a bridge game, the rules of Contract Bridge clearly state: "The opening lead is made by the player on the declarer's left. Then (and only then) the declarer's partner spreads his hand."

Freshmen Girls Place Second In Volley Ball

Stratford Freshmen girls placed second in the district volleyball tournament played in Gruver Tuesday. In their first tilt the girls won over Gruver 15-13 and 15-9. They lost their second games to Stinnett 15-12 and 15-8.

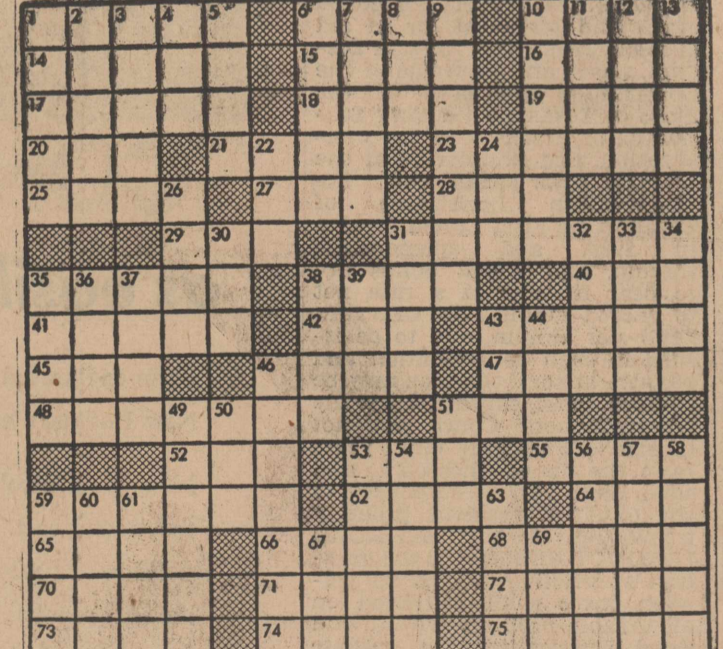

Stratford high school girls lost their opening games with Sunray 15-6 and 15-10.

High school boys lost their opening games with Sunray 15-4 and 15-12.
