

Boys Sell 47 Fat Feeders

Karl Kirkwood, Joe Ray Brown, Ronnie Pickens, Gary Dettle, Hal Bennett, Jimmy Cameron, James Spurlock, Keith Borth, Charles Clements, Stephen Cleavinger and Robert Ritchey sold 47 commercial fed FFA steers Monday to close their feeding program which began October 20. Ernie Dyess and Robert Ragsdale sold their calves when they were taken off of wheat pasture.

Jack Dettle, H. M. Flores, Baskin Brown, Kenneth Borth and Duard Lamb aided the boys in an advisory capacity.

The total income of the eleven boys for the sale of the 47 steers was $14,959.35. The average weight of the steers was 1,184 pounds.

Thirteen boys originally started the feeding program last fall by purchasing 50 head of Hereford steers from Red Moore of Boise City. Two of the boys sold their cattle when they were removed from wheat pasture in the early spring. One boy sold his steer through the sales ring at Texhoma, while the other boy sold his steer to a boy who wished to remain in the feeding program.

When the steers were purchased in October their average weight was 687 pounds and they cost the boys $28.11 per hundred pounds delivered in Stratford. Soon after receiving the steers they placed them on stubble or wheat pasture where they remained until after the first of the year. Due to the short wheat, and the frequency of snows which covered the wheat, some of the steers were placed in the feed lot the first part of January. Others were left on wheat until the middle of February, and one boy left his steers on wheat until the first part of March.

While in the feed lot, most of the steers were fed a ration of grain sorghum, steer fatena (a supplement containing protein, auromycin, stilbestrol, vitamin A and vitamin D) and bundles. One boy fed a ready-mixed ration, and his steers received the stilbestrol ear implant. The average daily consumption of the ration per steer was 24 pounds of grain sorghum, 2 pounds of steer fatena and 5 pounds of bundles. Many of the steers consumed as much as 30 pounds of grain sorghum per day over short periods of time.

Four packers buyers looked at the cattle, with Swift making the highest bid of $27.00 per hundred pounds. The steers were delivered to the Santa Fe pens at 8:00 a. m. Monday. The shrink varied, depending on the distance the steers had to be hauled for delivery. Boys feeding near town, had to give a 4% shrink, while those ten miles or so took a 3% shrink and those over 20 miles being shrunk only 2%.

Forty-seven steers with an average weight of 1,184 pounds were delivered at an average selling price of $326.57 per head. The total income was $14,959.35. The original investment was $9,100.92. The gross increased value of the livestock was $5,858.43.

The total weight of the steers at the time of purchase was 32,370 pounds as compared to a finished weight before the shrink of 57,420 pounds, for a gain of 25,050 pounds. This gave the boys an average gain of 533 pounds on each steer. The average daily gain for the steers on both pasture and feed lot was 2.2 pounds per head per day.

There was considerable variation in the total gain put on the steers during the 264 days the boys owned them. One boy only secured an average gain of 362 pounds per head during the 264 day period, while two boys feeding steers making the most gain, put on 564 pounds per head and 561 pounds a head. This wide variation was attributed to management as the steers were of the same breed and quality.

Of the 47 steers sold, 41 were graded choice and 6 steers were graded high. It was estimated by the buyers that the steers would dress out 62% in saleable meat.

Karl Kirkwood Markets $2.71 Milo Maize

Karl Kirkwood has sold his milo maize for $2.71 per hundred pounds. He purchased the grain last fall for $1.63 a hundred pounds.

Kirkwood sold his grain sorghum at a profit of $1.08 by completing a commercial feeding project of three steers. This is the third year the young feeder has attempted to develop his talents in the art of commercial feeding.

Kirkwood's records reveal the following information: He paid $28.11 per hundred pounds for his steers. Their average weight was 742 pounds. He placed them on wheat pasture for 120 days. Each steer gained approximately 163 pounds in weight while on wheat pasture. The average daily gain on wheat pasture was 1.35 pounds. Wheat pasture cost the feeder $13.80 for each hundred pounds his steers gained. When they were removed from what pasture and placed in a feed lot, their average weight was 905 pounds. The steers were fed in a feed lot for 142 days and gained an average of 422 pounds per head. The average daily gain of each animal in the feed lot was 2.97 pounds per day. The steers average total weight at the end of the feeding period was 1,327 pounds. The cost for each 100 pounds of gain was $16.32 while they were in the feed lot. Other costs for each 100 pounds of gain were $5.50. It required 9.94 pounds of feed for each pound of animal gain.

Costs to produce each 100 pounds of meat in the feed lot were: 740 pounds of grain sorghum at $1.63, $12.00; 54 pounds steer fatena at $4.30, $2.32; 200 bundles at $1.00, $2.00; for a total of $16.32. Other costs included $2.00 for labor, $1.00 for spray and minerals, and $2.50 interest on borrowed money. The total cost for each 100 pounds of gain on the steers was $21.82. The selling price was $27.00.

During the 142 day feeding program, the three steers consumed 9,450 pounds of grain sorghum, 680 pounds of steer fatena, and 2,430 bundles.

Karl Kirkwood made a net profit of $81.14 on his three steers for an average profit of

Plans Wedding In August

The couple will exchange wedding vows in the presence of relatives and close friends in the Church of Christ in Stratford at 8:00 p. m. on August 8.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Stratford high school and attended Abilene Christian College last year. The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of Wentworth Military Academy in Lexington, Missouri and is a sophomore in Texas Tech at Lubbock, where he plans to resume his studies this fall.

Polls Set For July 23 Wheat Quota Vote

Voting places for the referendum to be held July 23 on marketing quotas for the 1960 wheat crop were announced this week by R. C. Buckles, chairman of the county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee. The polls will be open from 8:00 a. m. until 6:00 p. m. The courthouse in Stratford will be the voting place in Community A. Community B will vote in the grade school building in Texhoma, Texas. In Community C the polls will be open in the basement of the Spurlock Chapel.

Farmers who are eligible to vote in the wheat quota referendum are all those who in 1960 will have more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain on a farm, except those who are participating in the 1959 feed wheat program. Under the feed wheat program, farmers may arrange with the county office to grow up to 30 acres of wheat for use only on the farm where grown without being subject to marketing quota penalties.

If as least two-thirds of the growers who vote in the referendum approve the quotas, they will remain in effect for the 1960-crop wheat and price support will be available to farmers who comply with their farm wheat allotments at at least 75 per cent of parity. Farmers who exceed the larger of the farm allotment or 15 acres will be subject to a marketing penalty of 45 per cent of the wheat parity price on their "excess" wheat.

If the quotas are not approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting, the quotas and penalties will not be in effect, and price support will be available to farmers who comply with their farm wheat allotments at 50 per cent of parity, as directed by law. At current parity levels, that would be about $1.18 per bushel.

Precinct One, organized as Road District 3, approved the issuance of $106,000.00 in bonds to pave 6½ miles of road in the district by a vote of 31 to 8 against in an election held Saturday in the Bob Burgess garage, 16 miles southeast of Stratford.

The overwhelming majority vote will make possible the paving of 5 miles of road south from the present paving on Farm to Market Road 2014. One and one-half miles of road will be paved to the west from a distance of two miles south of the end of the present paving on the highway.

Bonds will be issued at an interest rate not to exceed 4% interest, and will be liquidated within a period of 10 years from taxes levied on property within the confines of the road district.

The recent bridegroom is engaged in farming operations with his father.

Bill Would Block Further Federal Control

(By Walter Rogers)
The House of Representatives last week passed H.R. 3. This is a bill commonly referred to as "States' Rights Bill." It is primarily designed to prevent federal laws from striking down state laws in the same field where there is no irreconcilable conflict. It contains two sentences: the first states in effect that acts of Congress shall not be construed by the courts as pre-empting a field and thereby nullifying state laws on the same subject, unless the act of Congress so specifically states or unless there is such a direct and positive conflict between the federal act and the state law that the two cannot be reconciled or consistently stand together; the second sentence states in effect that it was not the intention of Congress in passing the Smith Act in 1940 to prevent states from prosecuting sedition against the United States. It will be remembered that the Supreme Court in 1956 ruled that an alleged communist in Pennsylvania could not be prosecuted for sedition under the Pennsylvania laws because the federal government had adopted an act in that field and thereby nullified the state law on the subject.

The passage of H.R. 3 after a vigorous and bitter debate, was a clear-cut victory for those who are opposed to the centralization of government and the concentration of power in Washington. Those who opposed the passage of the act are considered generally to fall into the category of those desiring further expansion of federal regulation and activity. Needless to say, it is to be expected there will be much litigation on this subject if H. R. 3 finally becomes the law. Whether or not it will clear the Senate is on unanswered question at this time. This same bill passed the House last year by the vote of 241 to 155. The margin this year was much narrower, the vote being 225 for the bill and 192 against it. The bill that passed the House last year failed in the Senate by a narrow margin of one vote. Presuming, however, that the bill does pass the Senate, there is still the threat of a veto by Mr. Eisenhower. It is difficult for me to see how Mr. Eisenhower or anyone else can oppose this legislation if they desire to see the people of this country governed in the manner intended by the farmers of our Constitution. However, the opponents are entitled to their beliefs on the subject which I respect, but I sincerely hope they do not prevail.

Uncle Sam
Last week the House Interior Committee adopted the resolution making a national shrine of the grave of Samuel Wilson, progenitor of the symbol "Uncle Sam." Few people realize that the symbol "Uncle Sam" did have its foundation in a real person, to wit, Mr. Sam Wilson, who was a prominent figure of the Revolution and colonization of this country. He was born in 1766, ran away from home and joined the Army at 14½, serving until the end of the Revolutionary War. He settled in Troy, New York, and established a meat-packing (Continued on Page 7)

peek at THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY
WE SAW a movie recently, the first one in more than a year... Because "Auntie Mame" was up for the Academy Award and so was Shirley MacLaine for her role in "Some Came Running," and the two pictures happened to be paired at the local theatre, we thought we would take advantage of the good bill and see the startling performances which caused all the hubbub... They were startling all right and we were startled by them.

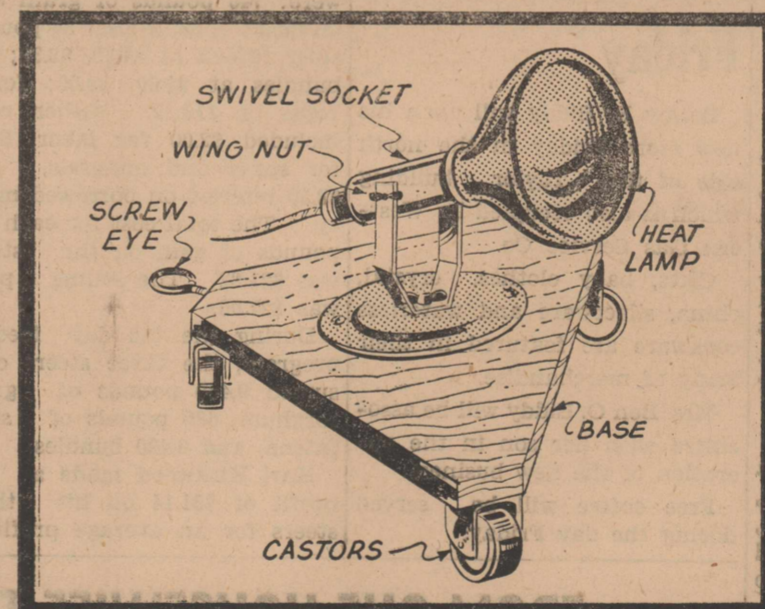

The cussing in both pictures was surprising; so were the drinking scenes (most of "Running" took place in a bar room and "Auntie" just imbibed at her little ol' penthouse with her Bohemian friends) but even more noticeable were the double entendres and the bold incidents... Even the plight of the unwed mother in "Auntie" was played for laughs and approaching motherhood was lampooned and downgraded.

The movies were good and undoubtedly found wide reception with adult audiences... But we were happy we had no teen-age children viewing them and we feel sorry for those who did... The films were not even for immature adults... What has happened to the censors? We can remember the day—and it wasn't too long ago—when production was held up for months while film makers and censors argued over the use of one "damn" during a very highly dramatic sequence.

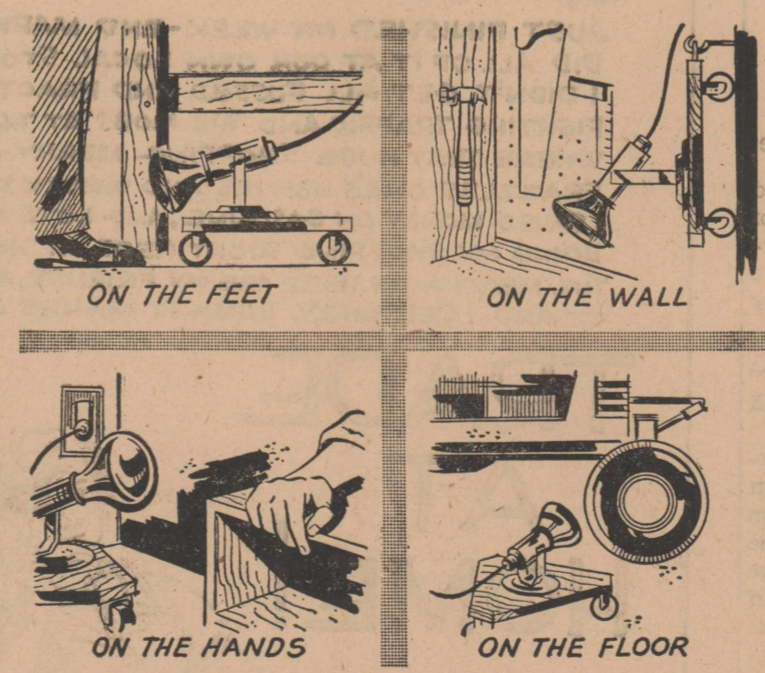

No more... The language used in these pictures was not only unfit but wasn't even called for under particular circumstances... It was all just part of the average man's every day vocabulary... When you consider pictures like "Friendly Persuasion," a story of a Quaker courtship before the Civil War, it makes one yearn for the respectability women had, the modesty and shyness they have lost that was so becoming.

All the publicity certainly helped Debbie get over her heartache in a hurry—even she was sick and tired of picking up a newspaper and seeing the latest doings of the jaded pair! And who could blame her? Luckily, her infants are still unable to read . . . One of the greatest acting jobs we've seen in many, many months was that of one-child star Dean Stockwell who portrayed the haunted Nathan Leopold in "Compulsion." Did you catch the Emmy awards? We were particularly amused by White House secretary James Hagerty's bungling and we couldn't help but wonder when he read off the winner of the best news reporting of the year as "my friend, John Charles Daly," how the actual winner, James Day, knew he should walk up to the stage and claim it . . . What happened to the insistence that winners are a "secret?" Who goofed?

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Getting Along With Girls Not Difficult

By C. D. Smith

A "bashful" teenager writes: "I am both bashful and shy around girls, but at home I can talk to my sister easy. Yet when I talk to girls I become tongue-tied and can hardly talk. I go to dances and when I start to ask a girl for a dance, I become choked up and go back and sit down. Some boys at school just go up to a girl and ask her as though there were nothing to it. I always choke up and become tongue-tied too. How can I overcome this?"

There is but one way to overcome it: get it done and over with. The choking up and shyness will always be there if it is given in to. There is nothing unusual about a boy being shy or bashful. Most boys are. But they learn to overcome their inner feelings by going on and doing the thing they must do. Ask the girl to dance!

dance is over, he will feel the courage and confidence that comes with having accomplished a task that seemed difficult and that caused unnecessary worry.

This situation is comparable to many that we face throughout life. When we encounter something that is new or different, we are inclined to avoid doing anything about it as long as we can. We worry about the fact that we will perform poorly, or that we can not do the job at all. Eventually, however, we have to face reality and once we tackle the job we find that it is surprisingly easy—and becomes easier and easier as time goes along.

Ask the girl for a dance! Be honest! Say "I hope I do well; I haven't done much dancing." You'll be surprised how understanding and helpful your dancing partner will be.

How Well Do You Know Your America?

Point Pleasant, West Virginia marks the spot where a bloody page from the days of our nation's struggle for freedom was recorded on a point of land shaped like an Indian arrowhead.

In the 1700's Chief Cornstalk, long the friend of the white man, was leader of the fierce Shawnee Indians in a land rich in wealth and beauty. Despite England's efforts to prevent further colonization of western Virginia, the Governor, Lord Dunmore purchased two tracts of land in the heart of the Indian hunting ground. The Indians were aroused, but it was not until a group of drunken whites murdered the family of Chief Logan that open conflict broke out.

Dunmore's army was camped at Point Pleasant. Early on the morning of October 10, 1774, the great Shawnee and his painted warriors crossed the Ohio and approached the point between two waters. The surprise attack, from two sides, was destroyed when deer hunters spotted the war party.

The Indians were defeated—at the cost of one-fifth of the colonial army—and the battle broke the hold of the Indians on the Ohio Valley.

From The Independent, Fuquay Springs, N. C.: Even in this age of wonder drugs and surgery on the living heart it is not uncommon to hear complaints about the failures of medicine. In some circles, it is popular to note with considerable scorn that the doctors can't even cure a cold or provide a salve that will make warts disappear.

It is true that medical science has not yet come up with sure-fire remedies for these minor ailments—or for cancer, heart disease and a number of other killers. But complaining about the ineffectiveness of medicine is about on a par with groaning that automobiles and pet planes are primitive means of transportation.

So they are, when compared with science fiction dreams of how men will get about a century hence. It is unfair to make such comparisons, however, without also noting that today's planes and cars are beyond all but the most extravagant dreams of half a century ago. The same can be said of medicine.

Many of the infectious diseases that often meant death at the turn of the century have now been wiped out. Pneumonia, diphtheria, smallpox, scarlet fever, typhoid fever—these and others have almost lost their power to kill and maim. Poliomyelitis is coming under control. Phalanges of research are storming the dread citadels of cancer, mental disease, coronary ailments.

The doctors don't know everything about human ills and how to deal with them. Yet they know much more, and are able to do vastly more, than was the case even a generation ago. Whoever carps about the failures of medicine may himself be in need of a little medical attention.

1960 Wheat Referendum Voting Nears

Wheat growers of Sherman County will soon be making their annual decision on marketing quotas, R. C. Buckles, chairman of the county agricultural stabilization and conservation announces.

On July 23, they will join with wheat farmers in 38 other States in a referendum to decide the type of marketing control program they will have for the 1960 crop of wheat. The referendum is held at this time so that farmers will know at winter wheat planting time whether marketing restrictions will be in effect at harvesttime in 1960.

The wheat program on which farmers will vote, Mr. Buckles said, is the same as that which has been in effect for the last several years. Marketing quotas have been proclaimed by the Secretary of Agriculture as required by the law when supplies are excessive. They will remain in effect only if approved by two-thirds of the farmers voting in the referendum.

When wheat marketing quotas are in effect, farmers who comply with their individual farm wheat acreage allotments may market their entire wheat crop harvest as grain without penalty.

If more than one-third of the voters vote for no quota controls, they do not take effect and there are no restrictions on wheat marketings. Price support is available at 50 per cent of parity to farmers who comply with their acreage allotments.

The marketing quota penalty rate will be announced later, Buckles said. It is $1.07 per bushel for the 1959 crop of wheat.

Any farmer is eligible to vote who expects to produce more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain in 1960, except a grower who participated in the feed wheat program in 1959.

Sherman County Farmers Submit Soil Samples

Sherman County farmers have submitted soil samples to the Agricultural Extension Service Soil Testing Laboratory at College Station for several years, according to E. Goule, Sherman County Agricultural Agent. County samples were a part of a total of 637 samples received by the laboratory during May and June.

Goule points out that the Agricultural Extension Service maintains and operates this Soil Testing Laboratory for farmers to use in determining their fertilizer needs. Even though soil tests have some limitations in determining fertilizer needs, he says that the $1.00 spent on a soil test is the most important dollar spent in a fertilizer program. This analysis becomes more important each year land is under irrigation.

(Continued from Page 2) business. He was inspector of provisions for the American Army in New York during the War of 1812. A visitor to his meat-packing plant inquired as to what initials "EAUS" on a barrel of meat signified. The workman replied the initials EA stood for Elbert Anderson, the contractor, and the US stood for Uncle Sam or the United States. The name of Uncle Sam was later associated with the figure of the tall gentleman in striped pants, the star-bedecked coat and goatee. This figure then appeared in a cartoon and was known as Brother Jonathan. However, the association of the name Uncle Sam with the figure caused a merger of the two and it has remained since as the symbol of the United States, sometimes stern, sometimes jovial, sometimes surprised, but always typical of the qualities of our country and that for which it stands.

EFFORTS to do something about a government credit problem apparently are shaping an issue for the 1960 Presidential campaign.

The pattern was set when President Eisenhower asked Congress to increase temporarily the national debt limit to a total of $295 billion, to allow higher interest rates on U. S. savings bonds, and to abolish the pre-World War I ceiling of 4 1/2 per cent on long-term Treasury notes to permit these notes to compete with an average 5 per cent interest rate on first-class corporate bonds.

The Democrats can be expected to charge the Administration with favoring the bankers; the Republican counter-charge will be that the Democrats fostered inflation by trying to block the request. The Democrats would be looking for votes from small businessmen and private borrowers who might be forced to pay higher rates for their loans. The Republican charge of aiding inflation would be based on the fact that attempts to block the request amounts to forcing the treasury to continue issuing short-term notes in order to compete in the nation's money market.

This has been a season in many parts of the country when radio and TV fans tuned in on their favorite program to find it had been sidetracked for a political speech or presentation. These listeners and viewers will probably be interested in the report that the Federal Communications Commission, unable to agree on whether to reverse its earlier ruling concerning so-called "equal time" for political candidates on radio and television, will ask Congress to legislate an answer to the problem.

FCC policy has been that a candidate for political office is entitled to appear on the air minute-for-minute to match any air time given to an opposing candidate by a station or network. A candidate's protest against appearance on regular news programs of opponents in the Chicago mayoralty contest created much attention, and, under intense pressure from networks, members of Congress and other quarters, FCC decided the wisest course would be to submit the problem to the legislators.

Washington observers say the AFL-CIO believes it has 190 reliable friends in the House and 41 in the Senate, on the basis of a study of their voting records.

It is reported that the union has compiled the voting record of every member of Congress and will distribute these to union membership as election time approaches.

If men would consider not so much wherein they differ, as wherein they agree, there would be far less uncharitableness and angry feeling in the world. — Joseph Addison.

J. T. Lollis Thrown From Saddle Horse

J. T. Lollis, 33-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lollis, was injured recently when he was thrown from his horse while participating in a mounted training exercise at the AV Sheriff's Posse Totem Pole Ranch at Palmdale, California. He suffered numerous back and chest injuries and a mild concussion. Lollis was released from Antelope Valley Hospital after four days of medical observation.

The accident happened, witnesses said, when another horse approached the one Lollis was riding and his mount bucked, throwing him to the ground.

J. T. Lollis was born in Stratford and is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gibbons, and is the nephew of Mrs. Dick Diehl.
