

Mother Saves Girl From Fire

Thresa Miller, 3 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Miller, was saved from flames which might have taken her life Friday morning by the cool thinking and quick action of her mother.

Thresa ran from the bathroom of the Miller home with her night gown in flames and cried to her mother for help as she entered the living room where her mother was sitting. As she had nothing to smother the flames, Mrs. Miller rolled her daughter on the rug until the fire was extinguished. Thresa was treated at the Stratford Clinic for burns on her back which were painful but are not considered serious.

Only a few moments before the near tragedy little Thresa had left her mother's side to go to the bathroom to wash her hands. She climbed on a small stove kept near the lavatory which enabled her to use the wash basin. A small heater left burning underneath the lavatory ignited the little girl's night gown.

From all indications little Thresa will suffer no ill effects from the harrowing experience which might have claimed her life and damaged the home in which she lived.

Cameron Family Reunion Held Sunday

The Cameron family had a dinner and reunion in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Cameron Sunday. Those enjoying the day together were Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Henderson and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cameron of Temple, Oklahoma; Mr. and Mrs. Merle Cameron and boys and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Thurman and sons of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Bureleigh Payne, Linda, Serena and Barbara of Springfield, Colorado; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. James Cameron, Jimmy, David and Tammy Sue, and Mrs. Clara McWhirter, all of Stratford.

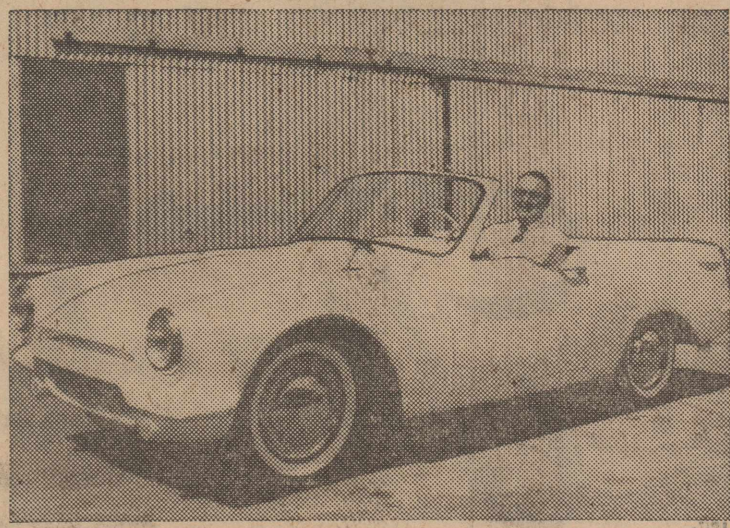

Out of town guests also visited in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cameron and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cameron over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cameron of Whittier, California were the only members of the Cameron family not present. Harold, son of Charles Cameron, was celebrating his birthday Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cameron called him Sunday evening and with Mrs. Payne wished him a "Happy Birthday."

Ex-Students To Organize Alumni

Sherman County ex-students of Hardin-Simmons University are to participate in the organization of a Panhandle alumni association at a meeting in the First Baptist Church of Amarillo next Tuesday.

Speaker for the dinner meeting, set for 7:00 p. m. in the church dining room, will be George L. Graham, executive assistant to the H-SU president. H-SU exes in 20 Panhandle counties are being invited.

NO GAS NEEDED . . . The new Pioneer convertible runs on electricity and doesn't use gas. Just plug it in and recharge the batteries at night.

The Spurlock Community is holding its annual covered dish social Tuesday, December 1, at 7:00 o'clock in the Fellowship room of the chapel. A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to attend.

Letters To Santa Claus

Dear Santa Claus:

I will be six years old December 27. I have been a pretty good little boy. Will you please bring me a Ric-o-shay rifle, Flint McCullough holster set, an army tent, and a choo choo train. Don't forget all the other boys and girls.

Please don't forget my brother and sister-in-law, Kenneth and Dale.

Love from Randy Knight

Emphasize Management

LANDING CRAFT? . . . Although they seem to be resting on someone's lawn, these boats are tied up at Marjorie Park Yacht Basin in Tampa, Fla., which is clogged with floating hyacinths.

Shrinking farm and ranch incomes have caused agricultural producers to take a closer look at their management practices. According to Director John E. Hutchinson of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the acute need for better management has arisen with today's commercialized agriculture.

In the postwar years, he adds, a few families asked for help in analyzing their complete operations, including the home. In order to gain more information and knowhow in this new field, a pilot program was started in 1953 in Navarro county. Here, as a result of demonstrations conducted in farm and home planning, methods and procedures were developed for helping families to consider and choose between all of the alternatives available to them and to develop a record keeping and budgeting system for their total operation. These methods and procedures of demonstrating and teaching management principles then became the basis for expanding this work into a statewide effort. This unit approach requires personal consultation and an intensive planning with families requesting assistance, said the director.

A series of events, including the placing of extension personnel in 19 other counties to do farm and home development work, as the unit approach is called, and special training sessions for all Extension workers in management principles, increased the Service's potential for assistance in management. By 1958 some 2,362 families were receiving this type of intensive management assistance from county extension agents.

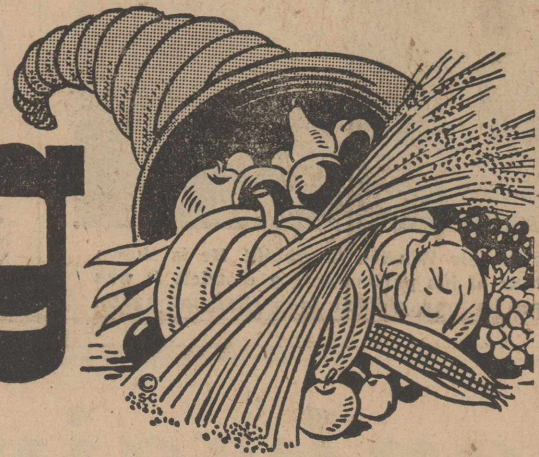

An analysis of the 1957 records of more than 1,200 farm and home development families showed the value of management assistance. Director Hutchinson said their net farm income showed an increase of $935 per family over 1956. The increase for 1958 over 1957 was even more significant. The 1,373 families who submitted records for analysis showed an increase of $1,625 for 1958 over 1957.

To further expand the program of assistance in management, additional training has been given Extension personnel and the services of agents in farm management and home management have been made available to the county extension agents in each of the 12 Texas extension districts.

These agents are actually management specialists, points out Director Hutchinson. They are headquartered in the districts and will carry out a continuous training program for the county extension agents and are available for consulting with and assisting farm and ranch families who are working with the local agents. The latest development is the use of electronic computing machines in a program known as linear programming.

In conclusion, Director Hutchinson said, "Management of the highest type is vital to a successful agriculture because of the increased capital needs, higher production costs and less favorable prices for the products sold by farmers and ranchers. It should be the aim of management to get the maximum profit from available resources. This means the good manager must master principles and gain skills to enable him or her to make the right decisions in using the resources available."

Stratford School Library News

The free reading classes in the elementary grades are enjoying the group of Hawaiian scenes lent the library by Mrs. Peterson, and the large picture of Custer's Last Fight, lent by Mrs. Reaves for the Indian display. Mrs. Quisenberry's fourth grade presented a number of pretty book marks, made in their art class.

Two hundred six books were in circulation from the grade school library last week.

The high school library and study hall are now two separate departments. The study hall is now located in the northeast room, and the library in the former study hall with a separate work room for the librarians.

Seventy-nine new books have arrived for the high school li- brary.

AMERICANA

Buffalo, New York

Cities To See

Buffalo, New York, in the heart of the world-famous Niagara Region and at the gateway to Canada, is the hub of one of the greatest industrial and commercial activities on the continent.

The busy activity is in its great harbor and railroad terminals at the crossroads of international commerce—towering grain elevators, steel plants, automobile factories, food industries and other diversified industrial and commercial activities provide a scene of American industry and commerce at its best. More than two million visitors annually discover Buffalo is a friendly city—the "City of Good Neighbors."

Always one of America's great inland water ports, Buffalo became a world port with the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway in 1959. It is the largest grain milling and distribution center in the world and the solar plexus of a vast rail, water, highway and air transport network.

Products made in the Buffalo area include cans and chemicals, supersonic jets, headache pills, golf balls, automobile tires, motor boats and many other items. More than 2,000 manufacturers normally employ around 200,000 workers.

First settlers came to Buffalo, then New Amsterdam, in 1784.

When the War of 1812 was declared, Buffalo was a thriving community of log cabins with a population of 1500. Buffalo was chartered as a city in 1832, when its population was around 10,000. Two Buffalonians achieved the highest office of government when Millard Fillmore became the 13th President of the United States, and Grover Cleveland the 22nd and 24th. The Pan American Exposition in 1901 made Buffalo's resources known to the far corners of the world with the result that the city, within a decade, passed from an exclusively commercial city to become also a great industrial center.

THIS WEEK'S RECIPE

Spiced Ham Loaf (Serves 6)
1 cup bread crumbs
1/2 cup milk
2 cups ground cooked ham
1/2 pound bulk pork sausage
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1 egg
Soften crumbs in milk. Combine meat, seasonings, crumbs and egg. Mix and pack into loaf pan. Bake in a moderate (350° F.) oven for 50 minutes.

the addition of one tablespoon of corn syrup.

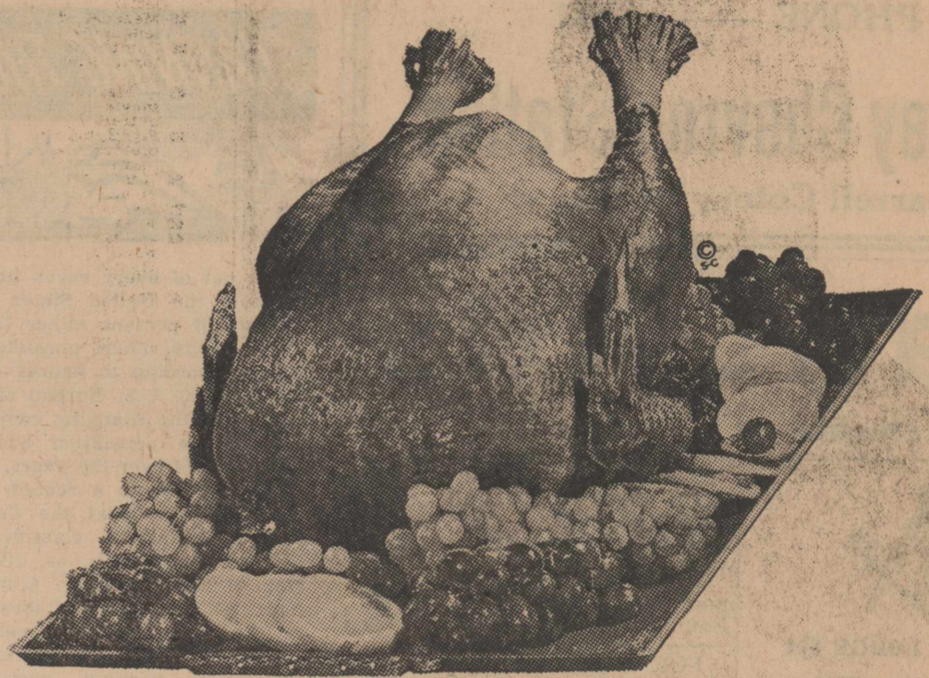

Chicken or turkey makes an ideal supper salad when the meat is diced and mixed with almond slivers, tart red apple pieces and some chopped celery with enough mayonnaise to hold all together.

Green beans go into a salad teamed with raw cauliflowers, pitted ripe olives and tomato wedges, served with thousand island dressing.

Hot crusty bread and rolls accompany soup beautifully: split French bread or crusty rolls and brush with melted butter to which you've added instant minced onion and let this stand for 10 minutes. After brushing place in broiler and toast for about 10 minutes.

Chopped fresh dates mixed with nuts and cream cheese make a perfect sandwich filling.

HALF-PAST TEEN

One out of every seven households in the United States now consists of persons either living alone or with others unrelated to them, according to figures compiled by the U.S. Bureau of the Census on the changing composition of the population and its living habits over the years.

This represents a record high proportion for what the Census Bureau technically classifies as primary individuals as distinct from family groupings. A major factor in the growth of these individual households has been the great rise in savings, retirement and other personal protection programs, which have increased the resources of our older population. The widening of job opportunities for women has also played an important role.

The figures show, for example, that benefits under programs to protect the individual and family against the economic impact of death, disability and retirement have reached the $30 billion annual level and have been showing a faster rate of growth than has total personal income. Benefits under public and private retirement programs alone represent over a third of the total, giving an increasing proportion of our older population a measure of financial independence and helping them to maintain a home of their own.

According to Census Bureau data, the number of primary individuals maintaining their own households totaled 7.4 million in March of this year, or 14.3 per cent of the total number of households. The equivalent number was just over 6 million in 1955, or less than 13 per cent of the total number of households in that year; and about 4 1/2 million, or 11 per cent of all households in 1950. Primary individuals are particularly concentrated in urban areas, where they represented a sixth of all households in March of this year.

Women represent the dominant group in the household classification of primary individuals, outnumbering men by a margin of two to one or more in recent years.

Dams on the Colorado River and an aqueduct across California's desert lands enable Los Angeles and San Diego to grow far beyond their limited water resources. Irrigation canals have transformed the Coachella and Imperial Valleys, once hostile wilderness, into an agricultural empire.

State Capital Highlights
(By Vern Sanford)

First of the 1960 political headquarters signs will be up before the Christmas lights.

An executive committee, formed to steer the Johnson for President drive, is opening a state headquarters in downtown Austin. Goal of the state office is to add to the 60 or more county clubs for Johnson and eventually to expand into a national operation.

With two exceptions, the state's top Democratic brass is on the committee. Gov. Price Daniel and Speaker Sam Rayburn are honorary co-chairmen. Plans were announced by Ed Connally, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, and Bryan Skelton, national committeeman.

Not on the committee are the state's junior senator, Ralph Yarborough, and national committeewoman, Mrs. R. D. Randolph. Both, long identified with the party's liberal wing, have hedged questions on their presidential preference.

Tight Schedule

A possible time table for filling the three vacancies in the Legislature was set up by Atty. General Will Wilson when Governor Daniel asked him for an opinion on the election law.

Forty days would be needed between the time the election is called and the time the new officials could take office, according to Wilson. This allows a required 35 days between the call and election day, two days for Commissioners' Courts to canvass the votes and three days for county judges to certify the results to the secretary of state.

Law does not require that all the seats be filled in order to have a session, Wilson commented. But he said he felt it would be "especially desirable if more taxes are to be voted because of the old American principle of no taxation without representation."

Governor Daniel has discussed calling a special session in January to raise money for teacher salary increases.

Insurance Plan Debated

Impact of a big change in auto insurance rates, due to take effect January 1, is a prime discussion topic among insurance circles as well as the motoring public.

Under the merit plan, drivers with no record of accidents or moving traffic violations for three years get a reduced rate. Others pay on a sliding scale up to double the usual rate, depending on the number and seriousness of their accidents and violations.

Opinions on the plan vary widely. Among them:

- (1) It will make drivers more careful.
- (2) It will make clear to the driving public the direct relationship between accidents and cost of insurance.
- (3) It will cause "bad" drivers to drop their insurance.
- (4) It will result in more hassles over who was to blame for an accident. (Only the driver held responsible gets his insurance hiked.)
- (5) It will flood the court-houses with contests over traffic tickets.
- (6) It will be declared illegal because of the "double jeopardy" principle. Some lawyers reason that the driver is punished for his violation once when he pays a fine and cannot be punished again with higher insurance rates.

Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas recently predicted that merit rating would result in such an overflow of traffic cases that new courts would have to be created and new buildings to house them.

Others have complained that traffic laws and their enforcement are not uniform and that some drivers, victims of speed traps, for example, will be penalized. Answer to this, says Insurance Board Chairman Penn J. Jackson, is to work out the wrinkles in law enforcement.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

What Can You Do When Parents Say 'No'?

By C. D. Smith

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: "I am a girl 14, going on 15. My mother lets me go with this one boy and I don't like him much because he doesn't call or come to see me like he used to. He said he still liked me and there is a boy that likes me and he calls me a lot and wants a date. But I have to turn him down because mother won't let me go with him. She said that he was not nice and that I had to go with this other boy. What should a girl do when her mother is like that?"

OUR ANSWER: Respect your mother's wishes, and, more important—her judgement. You can be certain of one thing. Your mother has her reasons for not allowing you to date this particular boy and is acting in your best interest when she says "no."

The fact that your mother is willing to let you date this boy who gets the 'stamp of approval' seems proof enough that she has no objection to your dating the right kind of boy—one of good character and good reputation.

In reading letters from teenagers every week, we find they have two principal problems. (1) Their parents will not allow them to date at all or (2) their parents insist on "choosing" their dates or friends for them.

As we have said before, we don't think it is possible to set an age, say 15, and say that a teenager is "old enough" to date. Too many things have to be considered where individual cases are concerned.

Perhaps some parents try to "choose" their children's dates and their friends. The majority, however, don't "choose"; they merely insist that their children select friends and dates who are of good character and reputation. When they turn "thumbs down" on a particular boy or girl they usually have an excellent reason for doing so.

ADDITIONAL SUGGESTION: Young lady, don't let any boy "bowl you over" by constant attention and telephone calls. It's flattering, sure—that's why he operates that way. Only by keeping a level head can you determine if he is the type of boy you want to "date" and to have for a friend.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORD, KY.

Food Comes First Contest For High School Students

Here's news for High School students, especially for juniors and seniors interested in journalism. It's an opportunity to win a free trip to the National Youth Power Congress in Chicago and a vacation tour next summer. Also, this is an opportunity to learn more about the farm-to-table story of food and the importance of eating a good diet everyday.

Entrants must write a food-related news story or editorial column. All original work in connection with food is eligible for competition. Suggested topics include: the farm-to-table story of feed, the food industry in my town, food for health, happiness and achievement, benefits from a proper diet by teenagers and adults, etc. Closing date for entries is December 20, 1959.

Entry blanks and assistance are available from county extension agents offices, and from vocational agriculture and home making departments. High School English and Journalism teachers also have information on the contest. The 50 top winners in the State will be invited to attend the "Youthpower Food Comes First" breakfast and program at the Stephen F. Austin Hotel in Austin, January 9, 1960. One boy and one girl, selected from this group, will receive a trip to the National Youthpower Congress in Chicago, February 11-13, 1960.

"Food Comes First for Youthpower" is a program planned by Texas and National committees representing youth and food interests.

It's profitable to read the ads.

How Well Do You Know Your America?

The colorful apparel and many beads worn by this grandmother identify her as a member of Florida's Seminole Indian tribe. Wearing her hair in the twisted knot favored by older women of today, she cuddles her grandson and tends the cook fire. Numerous as her beads are, a woman of this tribe two decades ago would have worn almost twice as many. The pot on the fire contains sofkee, a thin gruel that is kept ready at all times. The cook fire is built in good Seminole tradition, logs arranged in a star with the fire burning where they meet. Logs are pushed toward center as the wood burns away.

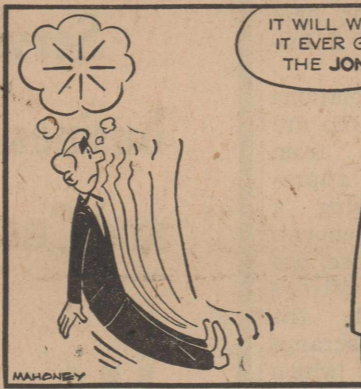

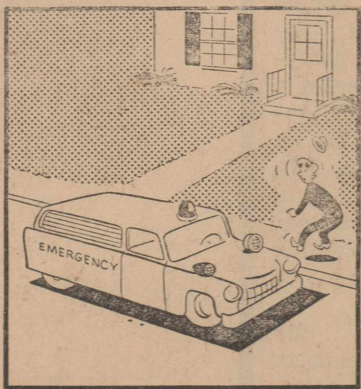

The diet of Iranian peasants averages 1,900 calories a day, against a minimum requirement of 2,250 calories. As part of its Food Crusade CARE asks Americans to send 225,000 packages of U.S. farm foods, at $1 each, to the needy in Iran. Mail contributions to CARE, New York 16, New York.

To Enforce Traffic Laws In Stratford

Deputy Sheriff Sid Board has been ordered to enforce traffic laws in the City of Stratford. Failure to stop at stop signs, improper left hand turns, and double parking in the center of the street, and speeding are likely to cause the handing out of many of the traffic tickets. A few moments spent in stopping at a stop sign may save the life of a child or prevent considerable property damage. make a sharp turn to the left. Drivers who swing to the right lane of the street at intersections forfeit their privilege of turning to the left. Double parking in the center of the streets for the purpose of carrying on a conversation creates a double hazard. A driver approaching has to watch for an opening car door on the left, and the possibility of a child scampering from behind a car on the right. The approaching driver may not have time to watch for both.

Excessive speed on a city street always eventually ends in the same manner. Tears of remorse cannot replace or heal the injured nor replace a human life.

Fines for traffic violations which endanger human life are expected to be assessed from $20.50 up. After three apprehensions, youngsters driving a car before they are old enough to secure a driver's license, are not eligible to secure a driver's license after they reach the legal age. Liability insurance does not cover damage which may be caused while an underage driver is at the wheel. State laws hold the parent liable for damage suits which in many instances could wipe out a life time of savings.

Traffic laws have been written for the purpose of enabling motorists and pedestrians to use the city streets in perfect safety. Enforcement of traffic laws will be carried out in Stratford for the same purpose.
