THEY TOOK THE $40,000.

A gang of New York thugs has $40,000, and the Ed and Dan O'Connells have their nephew, John, 24. He had been gone three weeks, stolen by kidnapers from in front of his father's home. He was returned unharmed, and now the O'Connells do not want to tell the district attorney what happened to him, nor how he was returned.

Uncle Sam is starting a drive against kidnapers, with death the ultimate sentence for each man in the gang. A good start was made in Kansas City the other day, Body-Snatcher McGee receiving the death penalty. Let Uncle Sam turn loose his man-hunters, with a shoot to kill order. A dead kidnaper is a good kidnaper.

What will the New York gang do with its $40,000? Split it 10 ways, or six, buy liquor? Maybe some of its members will be caught as they splurge their new-gained riches. But if not, soon they will be broke, and another kidnaping will follow to provide more funds for paying the fiddler. Another O'Connell will be held captive, another Urshel, another Factor. But the national war will go relentlessly on. There will be sacrifices to the cause. There always have been.

PAYING THE TEXAS RELIEF BILL.

It is reasonably clear now what will be one of the chief questions before the September special session of the legislature.

That issue will be paying the state's share of direct relief costs.

The state now has the choice of paying the whole bill as it goes, or of spreading the payments out over about 15 years. That choice will be decided in the Aug. 26 election, in the passage or failure of the amendment authorizing a $20,000,000 public works bond issue.

If the bond issue carries—if voters decide they don't want to pay the whole relief bill during the lean depression year—the legislature in September will authorize issuance of part of the bonds. The lawmakers at the same time will provide a way to pay off the bonds as they mature. The bonds must be met otherwise than by a property tax.

That means, if the bonds carry, a small, limited sales tax on final sales only, with foodstuffs exempted, to pay off the bonds.

If the bond issue is voted down, the only alternative is a larger sales tax to carry on direct relief on a pay-as-you-go basis.

ON THE TRAIL OF HOT OIL SELLERS.

Atty. Gen. Homer Cummings and his assistants are on the trail of the promoters of fake oil schemes in Texas. Cummings has launched a drive against the gentry. An assistant to the attorney general is said to have gathered evidence against 60 persons "whom he expected to bring to trial at the September term of the United States court at Dallas." He is said to have revealed that most of the illegal activities of the promoters had been carried on in connection with alleged development in the East Texas fields. Fly-by-night operators had rich pickings for a long time in the Texas oil fields—and elsewhere. Now the pickings are said to be scant. If the rainbows continue to appear in the sky a new crop of suckers may be born again. It is some job to undertake to protect the pocketbook of the American sucker.

SINGLE TAX LEADER AWAITS DOOM.

William A. Black of the Alamo City is the executive secretary of the Single Tax league of Texas. For almost a third of a century he has been carrying the Henry George flag and ever going down in defeat. He was a democrat before he became a single taxer. He admits that he is a "truly scientific economist." In his early years all was joy. He saw the realization of the Henry George dream almost fulfilled. Now all is gloom.

America is on the road to the damnation bow-wows. This is his funeral dirge: "When we ignore natural laws and go contrary to every principle the result is bound to be failure. When congress meets this winter it will be called upon to pack up the machine that has been built and lead us forward into the morass or else scrap the whole thing." Since the democratic administration refused to accept the single tax plan as the only balm in Gilead for the people, Sec'y. Black knows that the social order is headed for the rocks and the party of Jefferson "has ceased to exist." This is his wild cry of despair: "The old time Jeffersonian democrat is in utter despair. Every dream of a restored democracy is being shattered." He sees nothing ahead but the reign of the Federalists with the end Marxian socialism.

It appears that great minds come to the same conclusion. This time Herbert Spencer and Sec'y. Black are in hearty accord. It will be recalled that the great Englishman said "the great majority of mankind seem determined to exhaust every possible way of doing the wrong thing before they will consent to do the right thing." Of course, the right thing, according to the Alamo sufferer would be to abandon all other plans or proposals and adopt the single tax system as the sole solution of all the economic problems or ills of the world.

Queer, is it not, that the tillers of the soil, the growers of things, almost to a man have ever been against the Henry George scheme of salvation. Citizen Black should face the issue. Bexar county under the new deal is a congressional district. He should make the race for a seat next year as the sole survivor under the skies of Texas of the Georgian plan for the uplift of the growing world and those who inhabit it. He is an orator and an organizer and has led more forlorn hopes in his time than all the patriotic and ambitious men and women who dwell in the shadows of the Alamo. He should take another whirl and ask for the acid test on the day that "the ballot is the thing."

An important personage in the city of Detroit, a high authority it is said, places it in the record that women talk more and say less than do men and that makes them good detectives. In other words, man is addicted to that pernicious habit classified as "blabbing." There is a vast difference between a chatterer and a "blabberer."

By RAYMOND BROOKS
Names resounding in a former political generation and dominant names of a short-lived political millennium have been set in opposing ranks for the final four-week campaign for and against modifying the prohibition of state and federal constitutions.

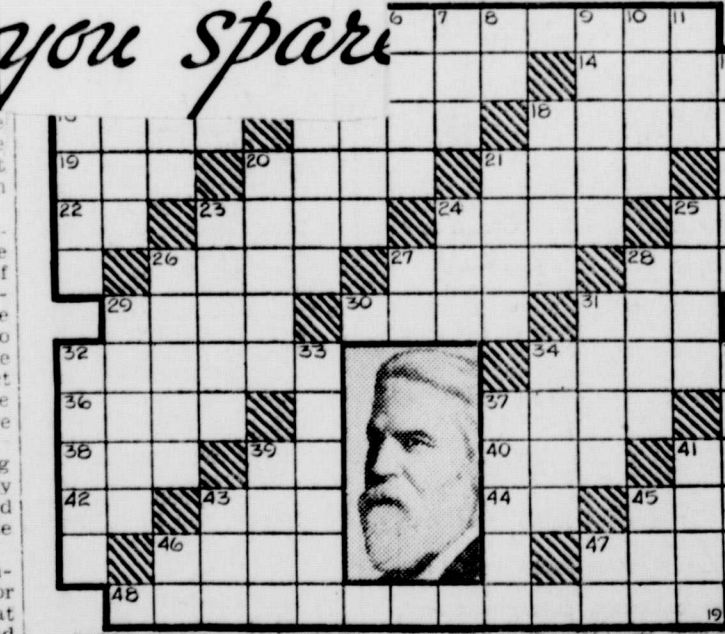

Joseph Weldon Bailey, congressman, son of the golden-tongued former United States senator, and a notable political figure in his own name, is on the stump for the wet cause.

James E. Ferguson, a foremost figure in Texas politics since 1914, will make a campaign for the beer and repeal issues and for the state relief bond issue.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

The rosiness of my morning was clouded today with formal representations from the police boys who felt that my liberty yesterday with the subject of beer was a bit beyond what the constitution guarantees.

Well, I am always ready to go down on my knees when the occasion demands, and maybe I was a little previous Comm'r Henderson sent me word that neither he nor any one of the boys was scratching his head or doing any worrying over the 39 bottles of labeled beer acquired in the course of a raid upon a local dispensary of the hotchka.

In fact, I was led into the suspicion bottles were not as innocent as they looked. There are ways and ways, you know.

The preponderance of the evidence is against me. I acknowledge my error and give the police the stage. I may want it back some of these days but the boys are welcome to it now. I know when I'm whipped.

Someone with an early morning complexion or a late evening disposition has become an anonymous contributor to the Daily News. The contribution was slipped under the door this morning. It concerned a virtuous cat. I am still trying to figure out whether it was intended to be poetry or staggered prose. For lack of any definite information on the subject the contribution is being held for this contributor.

About the most uninteresting subject for a story I can think of is a virtuous cat. The neighbors aren't interested in the family that aren't

W. H. Kittrell, Jr., of Dallas, has accepted management of the campaign to put over the constitutional amendment to issue relief bonds up to $20,000,000. Kittrell, son of W. H. Kittrell, Sr., of Cisco, has opened headquarters in the Driskill hotel, Austin, with several assistants and a corps of typists. From now until August 26 when the amendment, along with several other issues, will be voted upon, the organization will be busy. If a voter goes to the polls without knowing what the bond issue amendment is about it won't be Bill Kittrell's fault.

Unless Texas voters authorize the legislature to issue these bonds, millions of dollars of federal money will likely be lost. This is such money as is now coming into Cisco and Eastland county as well as other counties, in the form of RFC relief. The federal government has laid down a fair proposition—the state must do its part if it expects Uncle Sam to be liberal. If the state refuses the federal agency will forget that the particular state exists, so far as unemployment relief appropriation are concerned.

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER

United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, August, 3.—The Blue Eagle of NIRA has little chance to float from the flagstaff at the Texas capitol.

In fact, for state employees NIRA might stand for "Now I'm robbed again."

The last legislative meeting during the national swing to economy in government

The axe swung heavily on appro-

Only a dozen counties of Texas will come under provisions of the county home rule amendment to the state constitution which will be voted on August 26.

Based on the 1930 census there are only that number with the required 62,000 population.

They are Bexar, Cameron, Dallas, El Paso, Galveston, Grayson, Hidalgo, Jefferson, McLennan, Tarrant, Travis and Wichita. Navarro is close to the mark.

Closing of the state senate chamber to hearings of the state railroad commission and similar state gatherings is working considerable hardship on the state officials and especially on newspaper correspondents.

As a result of the order, most important session have now to be held at downtown Austin hotels.

Moore Lynn, state auditor, disclaims any intention of making stand for a state income tax, a sales tax or any other special levy in opposition to the ad valorem system of taxation.

"I'm merely saying the ad valorem system has failed," he said.

Under present methods of valuation and assessment, Lynn believes it is practically impossible to make the ad valorem tax "equal and uniform," which the constitution says it must be.

Lynn cites records to show that hardly 50 per cent of the property of the state is assessed, and that property does come under the assessor's eye is assessed at only half true value.

Discrimination will not be made against persons whose names do not appear on relief rolls when it comes to meeting out employment under the federal-state setup, according to Col. Lawrence Westbrook, head of the state rehabilitation and relief commission.

Westbrook has estimated that 400 unemployed heads of families in the state are not on relief rolls.

SEVERANCE, Kan., Aug. 3.—Gustav Ebner, who died here recently, operated a shoe store in Severance for 50 years and six months without being absent a single business day. He was 73 at the time he died.

BARGAIN BRIDE

By KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

ELINOR STAFFORD, 26, falls in love with Barrett Colvin, 35, but her jealous, scheming mother breaks up the romance by convincing Barrett that Elinor is a worthless flirt.

When Elinor's aunt, wealthy Miss Ella Sexton, dies she leaves her fortune to Barrett. Then drunken Vance Carter shoots Barrett's father, Elinor's father.

Barrett tells Elinor that if she will marry him and live in his home as a guest for a year he will give her the entire Sexton fortune to divide among her relatives. Knowing the money may save her father's life, Elinor agrees.

The marriage takes place. Barrett, in spite of the fact she told him, bids himself more in love with Elinor than ever. He has a ward, nine-year-old GERALD MOORE, who is the son of his half-sister, MARCIA RAMON. Barrett has promised Marcia never to reveal the boy's true story.

Elinor's father dies. Her mother discovers the existence of Barrett's ward and tells Elinor the boy is Barrett's son. When she asks him Barrett cannot explain because of his promise to Marcia. Misunderstandings between Barrett and Elinor increase. They take a house in the country and Gerald comes to live with them. Both Elinor and Barrett are miserable but seem powerless to straighten out the situation.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLVI
BOB TELFARE arrived on the following Friday afternoon. He was loaded down with a golf bag, tennis racket, his luggage and a deck tennis set he had brought for Gerald. Barrett meeting him at the station, for the first time an impulse of friendliness toward the younger man.

"Hi!" Bob said out heartily. He'd heard the gossip about Barrett's ward and refused to believe a word of it. Bob would admit that Barrett Colvin might be "dumb" but he wasn't the sort to be involved in such an affair as the gossipers inferred.

"It was good of you to come down, Bob," said Barrett. There was an atmosphere of outdoor hot sun, wind-swept links and baking courts about Bob Telfare that was extremely appealing.

"Good of me? Say, how do you get that way? It was swell of you to ask me. Is that the youngster in the rumble seat of your car?"

"Yes, I suppose there's been some talk about him?"

"Oh, sure. You know how people are! But as I figure it out it doesn't matter much what people say so long as you know the truth yourself. There are some people in the world who always have to have something to talk about. And they're not worth considering!"

They were almost beside the car now and Gerald had climbed out. Barrett introduced him. "This is my adopted son, Gerald Colvin, Mr. Telfare." Gerald's own name, Moore, had of course been abandoned.

CAMPAIGN FOR RELIEF BONDS IS ORGANIZED

United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, Aug. 3.—A concerted drive to put over the constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to issue not more than $20,000,000 state bonds for relief work is being organized.

national and state recovery on the way is one of the questions frequently asked. Former Governor Ferguson, who will campaign for the bonds, says there are more than 1,250,000 people now on relief rolls in Texas.

Against it are being urged the danger of launching the state into a practice of financing its affairs by bonds — a practice that has been decisively rejected by two sessions of the state legislature when proposed as a road construction measure.

170,000 SIGN CODES TO PUT MEN TO WORK

Blanket code agreements became operative throughout the nation Tuesday with more than 170,000 employers immediately swinging into line with wage-lifting, work-spreading agreements, a survey by the United Press shows.

Regional offices reporting certifications of agreement included Dallas, 11,288; and Houston, 12,238.

More than a million new jobs were opened in the country's retail stores. Steady progress was reported in the campaign to bring the steel and oil industries under provisions of the national recovery act.

BANK REPORT FINDS ACTIVITY IS SUSTAINED

By JOSEPH L. MYLER. UNITED PRESS Staff Correspondent. DALLAS, Aug. 3.—Sustained activity in banks and industry was noted for the eleventh federal reserve district in the monthly report issued Monday.

The report also noted "increasing optimism generated by the district rise in the price of the district's commodities such as cotton, wheat, corn, oats, wool, mohair and others of lesser importance."

"Department store sales," the report continued, "reflected a seasonal decline of 17 per cent from the previous month, and were slightly smaller than in the corresponding month last year."

"Wholesale distribution in a majority of lines, however, showed a further gain over the previous month, although recessions usually occur at this season, and sales in some lines, exceeded those of a year ago by a substantial margin."

THE CIRCUS QUEEN Murder ADOLPHE MENJOU GRETA NISSEN. Realization by Art Deco with Columbia Pictures.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED? Thatcher Colt, Police Commissioner, said his secretary, Miss Kelly, was in a daze. "It's a situation. There is a circus in town, the 'Greater Rainey Show Circus,' for which Dugan, a friend of Colt's, is press agent, wrote La Tour, beautiful aerial acrobat of the circus, is in love with The Great Sebastian, another aerialist, though she is married to Flandrin, her partner. Flandrin is extremely jealous and threatens to kill them both. Dugan asks Colt's aid to straighten out the situation. Colt investigates and discovers that Flandrin is not dead, but that he has tried to make it seem so. The show starts to go on and Rainey keeps to himself. Sebastian does his act, and La Tour mounts the rope to begin her routine. The crowd is cheering wildly and they are also singing their performance. The thin, veiled girl in the trapeze, pointed up at the act on the trapeze. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

It was Thatcher Colt! Thatcher Colt dressed in Sebastian's clothing! (Posed by Ruthema Stevens, Adolphe Menjou and Greta Nissen)

Colt jerked his head toward the savages. "To keep an eye on those cannibals." He walked quickly toward the circus. Kelly's eyes searched the tent top, she started. The tent top bulged in toward where something lay on the roof. Colt's eyes followed the movement. "That's a queer sight," he muttered. Suddenly one figure arose from a grove. It was Thatcher Colt. The figure, dressed in Sebastian's clothing as he had done before the shooting act. Colt panted. "Those bullets didn't come through, but they certainly did swing him up to the high platform. Kelly, wild-eyed, followed Colt as he ran toward the Big Tent, where the show was in progress. Flandrin, gun in hand, eluded the guards and dashed madly to the big center ring. The crowd, not knowing what to expect, became silent. He grabbed the trapeze rope and swung himself up to the high platform. Colt and Kelly reached the ring centre as Flandrin hopped onto the trapeze. Colt ran up to Rainey, who stood pop-eyed, helpless. "Make an announcement to the crowd, Rainey!" he called, shouting. "Give me that megaphone!" Colt impatiently grabbed the horn from Rainey's grasp. He leaped up on the roof of the Big Tent, holding the megaphone. He lifted the megaphone to his lips and his clear voice floated over the audience. "Ladies and gentlemen, we have the honor and privilege of offering our star attraction—the Great Flandrin, the greatest circus attraction ever presented to the public—the man whose every performance is a rendezvous with death! It is positively his last public appearance. A tumultuous ovation rose from the crowd. The cheers rang in Flandrin's ear as he perched on the trapeze bar. He stood, bewildered, as the realization of the import of Colt's challenge came to him. He looked slowly over the sea of faces below him. Time and eternity seemed to hang in the balance. The picture of his dead wife flashed before him. "Something snapped in his brain. Colt called through the megaphone. "Are you ready?" Flandrin stood erect, his arms flung wide as the revolver dropped from his hands. There was a roll from the drum, then a trumpet blast. Flandrin went into his act—trick upon trick, stunt upon stunt... dangerous, death-defying... The great Flandrin is about to save the state of New York the expense of a murder trial. In the midst of one of his most spectacular stunts, Flandrin suddenly let go of the trapeze. His body lither sure and graceful in its convolutions, became limp and awkward as it hurtled through the air. A great sigh arose from the crowd as they screamed, and more screams. Flandrin's body hit the hard earth and lay still. Colt spoke softly. "That's Kelly. He followed him silently as he walked out.

of commerce, already had these matters well in hand with the highway commission.

Mayor Berry was then called upon for suggestions and he explained that he wanted suggestions himself and it was for that reason he had appointed this committee.

W. H. LaRoque suggested municipal sweet potato curing plant, canberry, Irish potato center, wool washing and assembly plant, and the building of native stone tourist or vacation cottages as an adjunct to the present nucleus of Lake Cisco as a recreational center.

Cottages in Dam. Mr. Varnell followed with a plan for these cabins to be built into the dam making for a minimum cost since three sides were already constructed and the nature of the location making for unusual coolness and uniqueness as well.

Mr. Burnett then said it was his hope that the committee might center its activities upon the securing of projects that would provide permanent payrolls after the building program should be ended. All agreed that this was an outstanding thought and should be borne in mind in all the suggestions of the committee, but no one seemed able to offer a constructive plan as to how these payrolls might be secured.

Mr. Spencer suggested at this point that the chamber of commerce had been working on just such activities for many years but had not been able to secure any factories, since these things were always more or less built by private capital and for individual self interests, required a constructive head well versed in the technique of the particular trade, and most necessarily depend upon a well organized sales organization to be able to dispose of the products manufactured.

Mr. Bearman endorsed the payroll plan and thought that the potato plant, creamery, cannery, etc., might be secured under one roof and plans might be wrought for this kind of a program.

Mr. LaRoque was asked to write to the proper parties and find out what might be accomplished along these lines. Mr. Varnell look further into the matter of a well assembling and washing plant, as she considered that project full of possibilities for Cisco.

Mr. Bible thought that the committee might immediately consider some of these smaller projects and as the possibilities of larger things were opened to the committee's vision they could be asked for later.

It was agreed that a filtration plant at the lake was of first consideration but Mayor Berry mentioned that this matter would be taken up with an engineer Wednesday night at a commission meeting so further consideration was dismissed for the present.

A road around the entire lake was advanced as a project that would make immediate work for many and will be considered later.

Since it was suggested that the first meeting of this committee must necessarily be one of just floundering about with miscellaneous suggestions in order that the body find itself and get its bearings, a further meeting will be held soon at the call of the chairman, Mrs. Fee.

Nation's Crops Gain Billions in Value

By RAYMOND BROOKS

Recent statistics showed the rising prices of cotton, wheat, corn, and live-stock in Texas had added one billion dollars to the commodity value of Texas products.

The total value, as represented by share prices, of stocks and bonds on the New York stock exchange, as quoted from a Dow-Jones chart, showed an increase amounting to between seventeen and eighteen billion dollars.

The same firm quoted department of labor compilations of living costs, as of June 15, 1932, based on the average prices of 1913, standing at 100.1, as compared with 96.7 for June 15, 1932.

It added this argument: "A bale of cotton or a bushel of wheat today probably will buy more of the products of industry than at any time within the last generation."

supply of cooper above ground had risen in price from $76,000,000 to $145,000,000. The world's rubber supply of 750,000 long tons had gained in value from $53,000,000 to over $170,000,000.

Supplementing this, figures have been compiled by Munds, Winslow and Potter, a New York stock exchange member, dealing with commodity values for the nation.

This report said that the increase in the value of the cotton carryover and this year's prospective crop of cotton, between March 3 and July 17, had been from $659,075,000 to $1,178,875,000.

The value, it said, of the national wheat, cotton, corn and oats crops, was on March third, $2,030,000,000, and had risen to a total on July 17 of $4,387,000,000.

In the same time, this firm said the world supply of sugar had risen in value since March 3 from $953,000,000 to $990,000,000. The world

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS

In order that the newspapers be able to cooperate with President Roosevelt's recovery program, making shorter hours for employes, it becomes necessary that some changes be made regarding the reception of copy.

On Mondays copy will be accepted up until 10 a. m. for that day.

Other week days copy must be in the office on the day previous to publication.

Copy for Sunday's paper will be accepted up until 1 p. m. Saturday.

In order to work with grocery advertisers who cannot get all prices for produce and other items earlier than Friday morning the exception may be made that they turn in copy and items Thursday and add prices Friday morning to such items as they were not able to know on Thursday.

We trust that all advertisers will accept this change in the spirit of cooperation with the recovery act since it is made necessary by the shortening of the hours of our employes.

THEY TOOK THE $40,000.

A gang of New York thugs has $40,000, and the Ed and Dan O'Connells have their nephew, John, 24. He had been gone three weeks, stolen by kidnapers from in front of his father's home. He was returned unharmed, and now the O'Connells do not want to tell the district attorney what happened to him, nor how he was returned. Uncle Sam is starting a drive against kidnapers, with death the ultimate sentence for each man in the gang. A good start was made in Kansas City the other day, Body-Snatcher McGee receiving the death penalty. Let Uncle Sam turn loose his man-hunters, with a shoot to kill order. A dead kidnaper is a good kidnaper. What will the New York gang do with its $40,000? Split it 10 ways, or six, buy liquor? Maybe some of its members will be caught as they splurge their new-gained riches. But if not, soon they will be broke, and another kidnaping will follow to provide more funds for paying the fiddler. Another O'Connell will be held captive, another Urschel, another Factor. But the national war will go relentlessly on. There will be sacrifices to the cause. There always have been.

PAYING THE TEXAS RELIEF BILL.

It is reasonably clear now what will be one of the chief questions before the September special session of the legislature. That issue will be paying the state's share of direct relief costs. The state now has the choice of paying the whole bill as it goes, or of spreading the payments out over about 15 years. That choice will be decided in the Aug. 26 election, in the passage or failure of the amendment authorizing a $20,000,000 public works bond issue. If the bond issue carries—if voters decide they don't want to pay the whole relief bill during the lean depression year—then the legislature in September will authorize issuance of part of the bonds. The lawmakers at the same time will provide a way to pay off the bonds as they mature. The bonds must be met otherwise than by a property tax. That means, if the bonds carry, a small, limited sales tax on final sales only, with foodstuffs exempted, to pay off the bonds. If the bond issue is voted down, the only alternative is a larger sales tax to carry on direct relief on a pay-as-you-go basis.

ON THE TRAIL OF HOT OIL SELLERS.

Atty. Gen. Homer Cummings and his assistants are on the trail of the promoters of fake oil schemes in Texas. Cummings has launched a drive against the gentry. An assistant to the attorney general is said to have gathered evidence against 60 persons "whom he expected to bring to trial at the September term of the United States court at Dallas." He is said to have revealed that most of the illegal activities of the promoters had been carried on in connection with alleged development in the East Texas fields. Fly-by-night operators had rich pickings for a long time in the Texas oil fields—and elsewhere. Now the pickings are said to be scant. If the rainbows continue to appear in the sky a new crop of suckers may be born again. It is some job to undertake to protect the pocketbook of the American sucker.

SINGLE TAX LEADER AWAITs DOOM.

William A. Black of the Alamo City is the executive secretary of the Single Tax league of Texas. For almost a third of a century he has been carrying the Henry George flag and ever going down in defeat. He was a democrat before he became a single taxer. He admits that he is a "truly scientific economist." In his early years all was joy. He saw the realization of the Henry George dream almost fulfilled. Now all is gloom. America is on the road to the damnation bow-wows. This is his funeral dirge: "When we ignore natural laws and go contrary to every principle the result is bound to be failure. When congress meets this winter it will be called upon to pack up the machine that has been built and lead us forward into the morass or else scrap the whole thing." Since the democratic administration refused to accept the single tax plan as the only balm in Gilead for the people, Sec'y. Black knows that the social order is headed for the rocks and the party of Jefferson "has ceased to exist." This is his wild cry of despair: "The old time Jeffersonian democrat is in utter despair. Every dream of a restored democracy is being shattered." He sees nothing ahead but the reign of the Federalists with the end Marxian socialism.

It appears that great minds come to the same conclusion. This time Herbert Spencer and Sec'y. Black are in hearty accord. It will be recalled that the great Englishman said "the great majority of mankind seem determined to exhaust every possible way of doing the wrong thing before they will consent to do the right thing." Of course, the right thing, according to the Alamo sufferer would be to abandon all other plans or proposals and adopt the single tax system as the sole solution of all the economic problems or ills of the world. Quer, is it not, that the tillers of the soil, the growers of things, almost to a man, have ever been against the Henry George scheme of salvation. Citizen Black should face the issue. Bexar county under the new deal is a congressional district. He should make the race for a seat next year as the sole survivor under the skies of Texas of the Georgian plan for the uplift of the growing world and those who inhabit it. He is an orator and an organizer and has led more forlorn hopes in his time than all the patriotic and ambitious men and women who dwell in the shadows of the Alamo. He should take another whirl and ask for the acid test on the day that "the ballot is the thing."

An important personage in the city of Detroit, a high authority it is said, places it in the record that women talk more and say less than do men and that makes them good detectives. In other words, man is addicted to that pernicious habit classified as "blabbing." There is a vast difference between a chatterer and a "blabberer."

Dry Issue, Like the Poor, Will Always Be With Us

By RAYMOND BROOKS. Names resounding in a former political generation and dominant names of a short-lived political millennium have been set in opposing ranks for the final four-weeks campaign for and against modifying the prohibition of state and federal constitution. Joseph Weldon Bailey, congressman, son of the golden-tongued former United States senator, and a notable political figure in his own name, is on the stump for the wet cause. James E. Ferguson, a foremost figure in Texas politics since 1914, will make a campaign for the beer and repeal issues, and for the state relief bond issue. Fat M. Neff, former governor, ultra-dry, has made speeches against repeal, and likely will join in the final campaign. W. A. Kelling of Austin, former attorney general, served as permanent chairman of the dry forces. Former Gov. Dan Moody, dryest of the dries, made the first speech after the dry, anti-repeal ticket had been formed, and will make others during the final days of the August campaign.

constitution was spectacular, aimed against an entrenched group that was satisfied with things as they were. The repeal and modification drive, carried on a crest of public sentiment that swept much of the nation into flat repeal without regard to the constitution, lacks much of the lurid nature of the old fight. The prohibition forces are entrenched, more or less satisfied with things as they are; but its leadership has come to be highly professional or specialized, in that it is in the hands of the ministry and of those organizations that originally crusaded for the dry cause and later continued after the cause had been won in theory. The lack of a broad base of popular organization of militant forces actually enlisted in the day-by-day warfare has handicapped the defenders of the social enactments.

dry battle is ended when Texas votes August 26, they have only to look to next year's legislative campaign to see it projected in all its old-time virulence there. With a victory over the nation, with the 18th amendment prospectively repealed, the wets will push toward the next step in Texas — the election of enough lawmakers to submit the repeal of the state hard-liquor prohibition amendment. That will overshadow whatever other issues there are; and will dominate the selection of candidates both wet and dry. And on beyond that, whatever the outcome Aug. 26, and whatever the next legislature does, the losing side will have a crusading cause, and will grow more militant by virtue of being the losing or minority side. No matter how long we have prohibition, we will have the prohibition issue in Texas politics from now on.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

The rosiest of my morning was clouded today with formal representations from the police boys who felt that my liberty yesterday with the subject of near beer was a bit beyond what the constitution guarantees.

Well, I am always ready to go down on my knees when the occasion demands, and maybe I was a little previous Com'n'r Henderson sent me word that neither he nor any one of the boys was scratching his head or doing any worrying over the 39 bottles of labeled near beer acquired in the course of a raid upon a local dispensary of the hotcha beverage. In fact, the 39 innocents were benighted with bad company and according to all moral and ethical precedent bad association is guilty per se. So the thirty-nine good bottles were disposed of along with the 86 bad bottles and there was no thought, intention or design of returning them.

In fact, I was led into the suspension this morning that the harmless bottles were not as innocent as they looked. There are ways and ways, you know.

The preponderance of the evidence is against me. I acknowledge my error and give the police the stage. I may want it back some of these days, but the boys are welcome to it now. I know when I'm whipped.

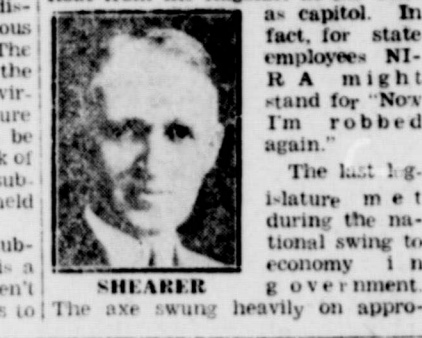

Someone with an early morning complexion or a late evening disposition has become an anonymous contributor to the Daily News. The contribution was slipped under the door this morning. It concerned a virtuous cat. I am still trying to figure out whether it was intended to be poetry or staggered prose. For lack of any definite information on the subject the contribution is being held for the contributor. About the most uninteresting subject for a story I can think of is a virtuous cat. The neighbors aren't interested in the family that goes to bed at 10 p. m. and gets up at 6 a. m.

W. H. Kittrell, Jr., of Dallas, has accepted membership of the campaign to put over the constitutional amendment empowering the state legislature to issue relief bonds up to $20,000,000. Kittrell, son of W. H. Kittrell, Sr., of Cisco, has opened headquarters in the Driskell hotel, Austin, with several assistants and a corps of typists. From now until August 26 when the amendment, along with several other issues, will be voted upon, the organization will be busy. If a voter goes to the polls without knowing what the bond issue amendment is about it won't be Bill Kittrell's fault.

Unless Texas voters authorize the legislature to issue these bonds, millions of dollars of federal money will likely be lost. This is such money as is now coming into Cisco and Eastland county as well as other counties in the form of RFC relief. The federal government has laid down a fair proposition — the state must do its part if it expects Uncle Sam to be liberal. If the state refuses the federal agency will forget that the particular state exists so far as unemployment relief appropriation are concerned.

fact, for state employees. NIRA might stand for Nov I'm robbed again." The last legislature met during the national swing to economy in government. The axe swung heavily on appropriation.

because I did think he had a big deal. Elinor used to go to see him often. Philip was sick and whenever she came all he did was to talk of how much you and she had and how little he had. Her a bum if there ever was one. "I didn't know he was in New York," Barrett heard himself say. "That was Phil's secret. He didn't want anyone to know. He was awfully sensitive about that scandal he was mixed up in. Forging Miss Sexton's check, you know. You did know about that, didn't you?"

"Yes, I knew that." Bob considered the matter to his slow way. "Look here," he said abruptly, "I'm afraid I've let the cat out of the bag. I supposed of course you knew Elinor went to see Philip and that was in town —" "I didn't, but I'm very glad to know it now." "I'll have to confess to Elinor, Bob said. "But I guess she'll forgive me." ...

Elinor was waiting for them on the terrace that ran before the house. "Here's our friend," Barrett called as he put on the brakes. Elinor didn't understand Barrett's eyes—the reverent, humble apology that was written in them.

"Bob!" she said, looking up and smiling. "He brought me a present! Gerald reminded, his eyes on the luggage and boxes. At dinner that night Bob was pleasantly reassured of Elinor's happiness. She glowed. Barrett heart went down anew. To see such a change in her made by another man! He breathed deeply, reminded himself that her happiness was the one thing he wanted, and was able to force a smile.

Bob made his confession about "spilling the beans" concerning Philip. "I didn't know that Barrett didn't know about it, Elinor," Bob said sheepishly. "It doesn't matter," she assured him. "I didn't tell him because Philip was so insistent that no one must know. And he was so good to me when I was a child that I felt I had to respect his wishes. He didn't want anyone to know he was in New York or that I had given him the money. Philip has so much pride — it's the right kind of pride, either — that he can't pretend so long as I can keep that no one helps him. It's difficult to explain but I felt I owed him a good deal. And so I promised. I've often thought it was a mistake. Am I forgiven, Barry?" she finished. "My dear!" Barrett stammered. "You know you are!" Bob Telfare glanced from one to the other and retreated. "They're crazy about each other. Actually there had been tears in Elinor's question. Well, Bob could understand that. If things had been different he, too, would have been able to feel a smart beneath the eyelids, with her showing none of his approval. But things weren't different and perhaps some day he'd meet another girl. Meantime he'd keep in practice for the golf tournaments and get as many cups as he could." ...

BEGIN HERE, TODAY

ELINOR STAFFORD, 35, falls in love with Barrett Colvin, 35, but her jealous, scheming mother breaks up the romance by convincing Barrett that Elinor is a worthless flirt. When Elinor dies, wealthy Miss Ella Sexton, who she leaves her fortune to Barrett. Then drunken Vance Carter shoots Barrett Stafford, Elinor's father. Barrett tells Elinor that if she will marry him and live in his home as a guest for a year he will give her the entire Sexton fortune to divide among her relatives. Knowing the money may save her father's life, Elinor agrees.

The marriage takes place. Barrett, in spite of the first lady's love with Elinor, never over. He has a ward, nine-year-old GERALD MOORE, who is the son of his half-sister, MARCIA BADNOR. Barrett has promised Marcia never to reveal the boy's true story. Elinor's father dies. Her mother discovers the existence of Barrett's ward and tells Elinor that Barrett's ward and Barrett are miserable but seen powerless to straighten out the situation. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

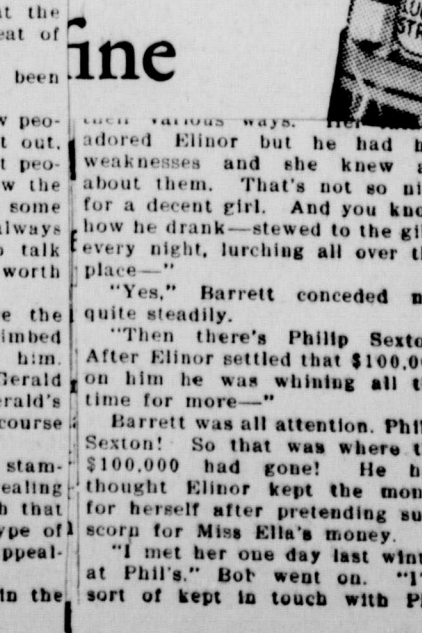

CHAPTER XLVI

BOB TELFARE arrived on the following Friday afternoon. He was loaded down with a golf bag, tennis racket, his luggage, and a deck tennis set he had brought for Gerald. Barrett meeting him at the station, felt for the first time an impulse of friendliness toward the younger man.

"Hi!" Bob said out heartily. He'd heard the gossip about Barrett's ward and refused to believe a word of it. Bob would admit that Barrett Colvin might be "dumb," but he wasn't the sort to be involved in such an affair as the gossipers inferred. "It was good of you to come down, Bob," said Barrett. There was an atmosphere of outdoors, hot sun, wind-swept links and baking courts about Bob Telfare that was extremely appealing.

"Good of me? Say, how do you get that way? It was swell of you to ask me. Is that the youngster in the rumble seat of your car?" "Yes, I suppose there's been some talk about him?" "Oh, sure. You know how people are! But as I figure it out, it doesn't matter much what people say so long as you know the truth yourself. There are some people in the world who always have to have something to talk about. And they're not worth considering!" They were almost beside the car now and Gerald had climbed out. Barrett introduced him. "This is my adopted son, Gerald Colvin, Mr. Telfare." Gerald's own name, Moore, had of course been abandoned. "How do you do?" Gerald stammered, grinning and revealing that the missing front tooth that seems to make a certain type of small boy so much more appealing.

CAMPAIGN FOR RELIEF BONDS IS ORGANIZED

United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Aug. 3.—A concerted drive to put over the constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to issue not more than $20,000,000 state bonds for relief work is being organized.

The limit on the bonds is $20,000,000. Prospects that only a part will be issued if authorized have vanished. Former Gov. James E. Ferguson says it will take all of the twenty million and more to meet demands. He estimates that $2,000,000 a month will be required for another year.

The proposal requires the bonds to mature within ten years, to be sold for not less than par and to have an interest rate of not in excess of four and a half per cent. Payment of any commission for their sale is prohibited. There is also a provision that the bonds shall not become a charge or lien against property in the state, but the legislature shall provide a fund for interest and redemption from some source other than a tax on real property.

Except for that limitation the legislature is left free to determine the method of caring for the bonds if issued.

Why An Issue of Bonds.
The resolution submitting the matter to popular vote on August 26 says the proceeds of the bonds shall be used in furnishing relief and work to needy and distressed people and in relieving the hardships resulting from unemployment. It says the funds are to be fairly distributed over the state upon such terms and conditions as may be provided by the legislature. Unless the legislature exercises the power to issue the bonds within two years, the power is ended.

Why a bond issue is needed with
The question raised in some states about the manner of selecting delegates to national repeal ratification conventions is rather complicated as regards Texas. Election of delegates at-large has been attacked as being non-representative. Under the Texas ratification act, the delegates are elected by statewide vote but the delegates are apportioned by residence, one to each state senatorial district.

Death of Traffic Patrol Dog Mourned
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3.—An entire neighborhood mourned the death of "Roger," the German shepherd dog who flagged traffic at the intersection of O'Farrell and Jones streets here when cable cars approached the "bend."

An infected paw developed blood poisoning, which caused the dog's death.

Until the injury, Roger was accustomed to stand at the street intersection with the red warning flag in his mouth until the cable car had passed by. Watchmen at the crossing said he was most careful in replacing the flag neatly after the street was clear.

But Roger's talents were not limited to traffic patrol. His master, Lou Goldstone, tobacconist, claimed the dog answered the telephone, extinguished lighted matches with his paw, and removed parcels or newspapers from his pockets and carried them to storage places.

In answering the telephone Roger removed the receiver barked into the transmitter, and then called his master, Goldstone claimed.

DODO DIDN'T COUNT
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 3.—Tommy Woodruff goes the honor for having made a new kind of hole-in-one while golfing here. Woodruff's tee shot dropped straight into the cup and bounced out to bound 20 yards away. At that, Woodruff made a good approach and sank a long putt for a par 3.

national and state recovery on the way is one of the questions frequently asked.

Former Governor Ferguson, who will campaign for the bonds, says there are more than 1,250,000 people now on relief rolls in Texas. Col. Lawrence Westbrook, director of the state rehabilitation and relief commission, says even with the restoration of much employment, the rolls of the needy will be numerous for a long time to come.

"In the stress of recent economic conditions, it has been largely a case of survival of the fittest in employment," he said. "Those least fitted for work and those incapacitated physically have been thrown out of employment. As recovery comes, those most fitted are the ones who will get employment early. There will still be left to be cared for in some way a great mass of persons unfit for profitable work."

Drouth Conditions.
Drouth conditions in at least 17 counties of the state which at times produce bountiful crops, accentuate the condition.

For the bonds, it is said that including the interest and retirement funds, they will not form a debt of more than $5 or $10 per Texan.

Against it are being urged the danger of launching the state into a practice of financing its affairs by bonds—a practice that has been decisively rejected by two sessions of the state legislature when proposed as a road construction method. Some of the University of Texas regents are also warning there should be assurance that University of Texas permanent funds are not invested in relief bonds.

In formal resolutions, the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission has declared ignorance of the "ragged distress" of thousands of families may defeat the bond proposal. Without the bonds, and federal aid also, the commission says local funds will be entirely inadequate to prevent great suffering by hundreds of thousands of people.

One member of the state legislature put it more crudely. "We've got to fight them or feed them," he said.

WINOOKA AND EQUIPOSE MAY MEET IN FALL

By THOMAS H. NOONE
United Press Racing Editor
NEW YORK, August 3.—The match race between C. V. Whitney's Equipose and the Australian champion Winooka, tentatively arranged for this autumn's meeting at Belmont Park, should provide turf fans with one of the greatest thrills of the season.

W. A. McDonald and A. J. Matthews, owners of Winooka, have discussed plans for the proposed race with Major Algeron Daingerfield, secretary of the Jockey club, and it is understood that if the Australian mount responds successfully to training, a definite agreement for a race will be made.

Winooka, hailed as the champion sprinter of Australia, ran a mile in 1:35 3/4 at Randwick, Australia under an impost of 139 pounds. This is more than Equipose has been asked to carry in some of its important races. Winooka ran seven furlongs around a turn in 1:24 1/4 and set a six-furlong mark of 1:10 1/4 under 149 pounds.

Winooka is a four-year-old, and will become a five-year-old in August.

Equipose, holder of the world's record at a mile in 1:34 2/5, has been widely heralded as the greatest race horse since the immortal Man o' War.

Winooka, of course, will attempt to emulate the record of the great Pharos Lap, the Australian horse that died in California at the height of its career.

Proves "high-mileage" in daring Speedway test

ON THE Indianapolis Speedway, the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association gave the starting signal to 6 borrowed cars. And for 4 days, these borrowed cars throbbed round the Speedway —testing, one after another, 4 famous 25c motor oils! . . . When the test was over, Gulf-lube had swept the field—it averaged 28 1/2% more miles per quart than the average of its competitors! It beat every oil in every car!

If you want to buy less oil between fillings, switch to Gulf-lube now! You'll cut your oil costs—and get better lubrication. Prove it! At all Gulf stations.

Many Projects--

of commerce, already had these matters well in hand with the highway commission.

Mr. Varnell followed with a plan for the cottages to be built into the dam making for a minimum cost since three sides were already constructed and the nature of the location making for unusual coolness and uniqueness as well.

program should be ended. All agreed that this was an outstanding thought and should be borne in mind in all the suggestions of the committee, but no one seemed able to offer a constructive plan as to how these payrolls might be secured.

Mr. Spencer suggested at this point that the chamber of commerce had been working on just such activities for many years but had not been able to secure any factories, since these things were always more or less built by private capital and for individual self interests.

Mr. B-arman endorsed the payroll plan and thought that the potato plant, creamery, cannery, etc., might be secured under one roof and plans might be wrought for this kind of a program.

Mr. LaRoque was asked to write to the proper parties and find out what might be accomplished along these lines. Mrs. Fve suggested that Mr. Varnell look further into the matter of a well assembling and washing plant, as she considered that project full of possibilities for Cisco.

Mr. Bible thought that the committee might immediately consider some of these smaller projects and as the possibilities of larger things were opened to the committee's vision they could be asked for later.

It was agreed that a filtration plant at the lake was of first consideration, but Mayor Berry mentioned that this matter would be taken up with an engineer Wednesday night at a commission meeting, so further consideration was dismissed for the present.

A road around the entire lake was advanced as a project that would make immediate work for many and will be considered later.

Since it was suggested that the first meeting of this committee must necessarily be one of just floundering about with miscellaneous suggestions in order that the body find itself and get its bearings, a further meeting will be held soon at the call of the chairman, Mrs. Fee.

Nation's Crops Gain Billions in Value

By RAYMOND BROOKS

Recent statistics showed the rising price of cotton wheat, corn, oil and live-stock in Texas had added one billion dollars to the commodity value of Texas products.

Supplementing this, figures have been compiled by Munds, Winslow and Potter, a New York stock exchange member, dealing with commodity values for the nation.

This report said that the increase in the value of the cotton carryover and this year's prospective crop of cotton, between March 3 and July 17, had been from $659,075,000 to $1,178,875,000.

The value, it said, of the national wheat, cotton, corn and oats crops, was on March third, $2,030,000,000, and had risen to a total on July 17 of $4,587,000,000.

In the same time, this firm said the world supply of sugar had risen in value since March 3 from $953,000,000 to $990,000,000. The world supply of cooper above ground had risen in price from $76,000,000 to $145,000,000. The world's rubber supply of 750,000 long tons had gained in value from $53,000,000 to over $170,000,000.

The total value, as represented by share prices of stocks and bonds on the New York stock exchange, as quoted from a Dow-Jones chart, showed an increase amounting to between seventeen and eighteen billion dollars. Of course, this increase represented part of the price of stocks and bonds subject to extreme fluctuations.

The same firm quoted department of labor compilations of living costs, as of June 15, 1932 based on the average prices of 1913 standing at 100.1, as compared with 96.7 for June 15, 1932.

It added this argument: "A bale of cotton or a bushel of wheat today probably will buy more of the products of industry than at any time within the last generation."

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS

In order that the newspapers be able to cooperate with President Roosevelt's recovery program, making shorter hours for employees, it becomes necessary that some changes be made regarding the reception of copy.

On Mondays copy will be accepted up until 10 a. m. for that day.

Other week days copy must be in the office on the day previous to publication.

Copy for Sunday's paper will be accepted up until 1 p. m. Saturday.

In order to work with grocery advertisers who cannot get all prices for produce and other items earlier than Friday morning the exception may be made that they turn in copy and items Thursday and add prices Friday morning to such items as they were not able to know on Thursday.

We trust that all advertisers will accept this change in the spirit of cooperation with the recovery act since it is made necessary by the shortening of the hours of our employees.
