TAMMANY DEFEATED.

The spirit of revolt that has animated the American people and world people for the past three years has at last broken through the entrenched forces of the oldest and most powerful political machine in the country.

Tammany has existed, for these many years. There is such a thing as being in so long that one becomes too sure of oneself, and perhaps indiscreet.

And, Ferdinand Pecora, incisive counsel for the senate banking committee, who has educated startling revelations from some of the nation's most worshipful men of finance, has likewise gone down the drear lane of defeat.

Charity and Welfare association has borne generous fruit, said President of the Ass'n J. T. Elliott yesterday. It goes to prove that you can always depend upon folks to do their parts whenever they realize the need.

The most unhappy person in the world is a selfish person. A lot of folks think they have done their share in the community when they put in an honest six or eight hours work for their pay.

Each of us with any self-respect, wishes to pay our way. That means providing something besides the cost of our food, clothing and lodging.

Speaking of additional funds for relief purposes the farmer-lawmaker from Illinois let it be known that the congress will be asked for more funds for relief purposes and "the relief administration will get it. Speaking of relief the nation over for the unemployed, the Vermont state government has made a survey with very gratifying results.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON B. WAITS Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Edwin S. Friendly, chairman of the bureau of advertising, A. N. P. A. and business manager of the New York Sun, says:

"Newspaper advertising is often called 'the medium of action.' That is because the merchant or the manufacturer who employs it in his business, feels its response almost immediately.

"Some advertising arouses interest—perhaps desire—in the mind of the customer. Newspaper advertising goes farther by creating a demand; by bringing the person interested right to the counter to see the advertised merchandise.

"This is not strange. Newspapers deal with things in action, with what is happening today and will happen tomorrow. A headline sets the whole world talking.

"This impulse communicates itself inevitably to the advertising columns. Readers in such an atmosphere are susceptible to action.

Forgotten Sweetheart

CHAPTER XXXVI

It was Bob's father who broke the news. "Confound that boy of mine!" he said to Barbara. "He wants to turn the boat around and head for home."

"But Mr. Weston!" Barbara exclaimed. "I thought you said we were to keep him away a long time! I thought you said it would be good for him!"

"I've changed my mind about that," the man said dryly. "I've decided Bob may find a cure for his moodiness at home—a permanent cure." He couldn't resist letting the satisfaction he felt show in his tone.

Barbara's face hardened. Suddenly, with the sense of defeat weighing upon her, she cast diplomacy to the winds. "I can't say I'm surprised at anything Bob might do," she retorted. "After the way he has neglected me on this trip."

"But Dan Maxwell hasn't neglected you," Mr. Weston said quietly. Shaken by disappointment, raging inwardly, Barbara fled to her cabin and wept. She locked the door and would admit no one during the afternoon, nor did she appear at dinner.

It was the hardest blow Barbara had ever known. For once her self-confidence was thoroughly shattered. She had come so close to her heart's desire and then lost it all—to a little nobody! Barbara had not a doubt that Bob was rushing back to Joan Waring. He had seemed changed since the day they had seen Joan's sister in Havana.

Next morning Barbara was out on deck with all traces of the emotional storm erased. She wore one of her most becoming outfits and she was gay and smiling. She tried all the old tricks with Bob—flattery, wistfulness and unhappiness. But he showed little interest. He was attentive and courteous but wrapped in thoughts that shut Barbara out completely.

JOAN walked home slowly. She had spent the afternoon with Sara, her sister-in-law, who was knitting a boucle suit and insisted on teaching Joan how. "It will give you something to do," Sara had said, with the unconscious superiority of the happily married young matron.

STREAMLINING OF TRAINS NOW BEING TESTED. The Burlington plans a similar speed train capable of from 110 to 125 miles an hour. It will be tested early next year over the 250-mile run between here and Lincoln.

Curves are to be rebuilt at several points along the route and daylight runs will be attempted first. Kansas City Southern officials considering a similar experiment.

The train will be aluminum alloy and will weigh 150 tons.

It is an axiom that 'newspaper advertising never lets a prospect cold.' The newest thing in the world news—news of people, news of places, news of business, news of merchandise. All this the reading public finds in the newspaper. All this helps to make newspaper advertising the life blood of trade.

Gourley said that of the total world consumption, nearly 200,000,000,000 cups are drunk within the British Empire.

Bulldogs---

strategy that so often upsets the apple cart of a smugly-contented and assured team. They will come to Cisco risking no touchdowns to chance; depending none upon their record. They remember with some ruefulness what occurred to an obviously stronger team here in the fall of 1930. The heights to which an inspired team can rise and the depths to which a desultory eleven can sink were all too well illustrated in that case.

The Bulldogs, looking for a district title and almost certain of that prize once they get by Cisco, are not coming to Cisco boasting of any stars in their crown. They will be as alert and as determined a team as they have been at any time.

Let's see who they are:

Probably Starters

Coach Eck Curtis will probably start: Ends, Jacoby and Britt; tackles, Hill and Walsh; guards, Love and Warden; center, Bunton or Payton; quarter, Cole; halves, Gray and Briley; full, Anderson.

Gray, 135; Briley, 155, and Anderson, 185, are the main ball carriers of the club. Cole, 148, occupies a blocking position and does the kicking. Anderson passes, kicks off and tries for points after touchdown. "He is pretty good at the latter," writes Bill Mayes, Ranger newspaper editor, "making 14 out of 18 attempts good. At Eastland he was off form, missing three out of seven attempts."

Jacoby, 185, plays right end on offense and left tackle on defense, while Walsh, 145, plays offensive left tackle and defensive right end.

Outstanding player on the visiting eleven is Rankin Britt, 188, its left end. He is not far behind Anderson, district leader, in scoring.

Ball Toters

Briley and Gray are comparatively small, but fast. It would probably take a coin toss to award honors on speed between them. Cisco will remember Gray with little fondness and much respect. It was he, as a lowly substitute, who entered the Cisco-Ranger game in 1931, snatched a short pass and raced 50 yards to a score outrunning both Hightower and Ray.

Briley, a bit heavier, is not quite so shifty as Gray, but once in the open is hard to bring down if tackled high. He is an excellent defensive player, a good blocker and a hard tackler. He plays the safety position with Cole at defensive right half. Briley has the left half-back territory on defense with Anderson and Love backing up the line.

Ranger is handicapped in only one respect and that is the lack of substitutes. That lack probably cost them the game with Central high school of Fort Worth. Against Abilene the Bulldogs did not make a single substitution, as for that matter, neither did Abilene. In the Eastland game they made two, one player being forced out by a referee's ban.

However, the 11 men on the field are men of the iron variety who can win football games and do, and quite likely they will continue to win on Chesley field here Saturday afternoon unless some sort of a miracle happens.

CLEAN FOOTBALL by JOCK SUTHERLAND FAMOUS PITTS COACH

A LOT of dirty football players are experts in this line. They can pull off unfair tricks in a pile-up that the keenest-eyed referee cannot detect.

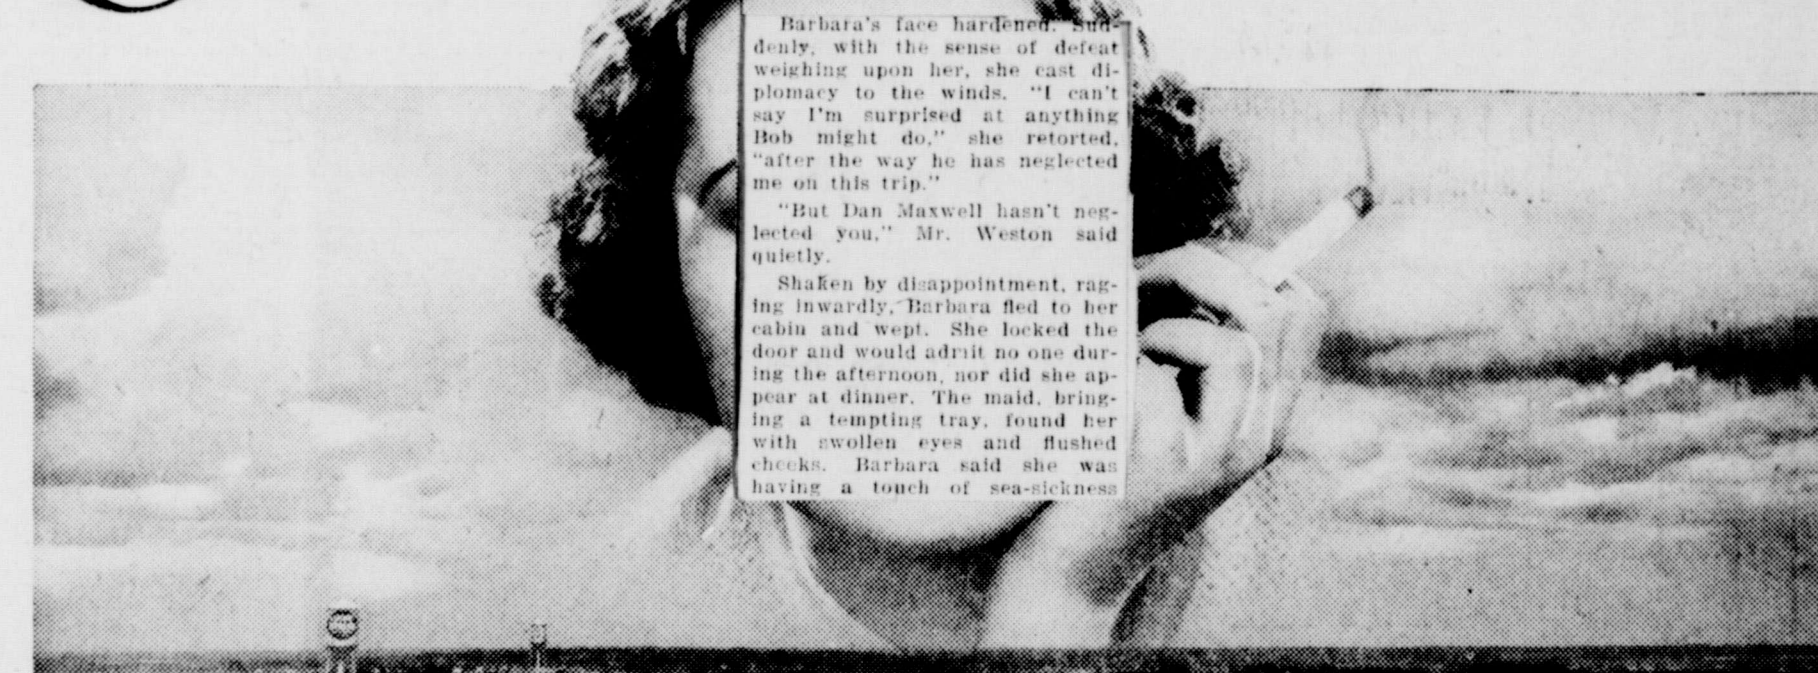

A good knowledge of self-defense is valuable to a player, if he is playing against just such an opponent. A fellow who can roll away from a punch and throw his opponent off balance can put him down under the pile-up.

I don't mean to advocate an "eye for eye" policy in this connection, but I do believe that a dirty player who persists in punching all through a hard-fought football game should be punished when he is guilty and after his offenses have been ignored repeatedly by officials.

Sketch shows how to avoid a straight punch and upset the opponent with a low charge.

COSTLY TOBACCOS?

Barbara's face hardened, suddenly, with the sense of defeat weighing upon her, she cast diplomacy to the winds. "I can't say I'm surprised at anything Bob might do," she retorted, "after the way he has neglected me on this trip."

"But Dan Maxwell hasn't neglected you," Mr. Weston said quietly.

Shaken by disappointment, raging inwardly, Barbara fled to her cabin and wept. She locked the door and would admit no one during the afternoon, nor did she appear at dinner. The maid, bringing a tempting tray, found her with swollen eyes and flushed cheeks. Barbara said she was having a touch of sea-sickness.

One Hundred Million Dollars worth of fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos are being aged by the makers of Lucky Strike

In fine warehouses like these—open to soft Southern breezes—a huge reserve of choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos is aging and mellowing. 27 different kinds of tobacco, "the Cream of the Crop"—for nothing but the best is used to make Luckies so round, so firm, so fully packed—free from annoying loose ends. That's why Luckies are always so mild, so smooth.
