JAPS WANT U.S. FRIENDSHIP

Japan is seeking America's friendship. Confronted with growing Russia whose rejuvenated national spirit is taking aggressive hold against the very borders of their expanding empire, the children of the Rising Sun are apprehensive, seeking to undo some of the impressions of the foolish utterances that certain unwise leaders have made in bloated moments. There is no need, there never was need for friction to develop between the United States and Japan. Foreign Minister Hirota told the Japanese diet (congress to you) that between Japan and the United States of America there exists no question that is intrinsically difficult of solution." He said that Japan "fervently" desires the friendship of the low peril" policy that blossomed out of a Pacific coast fear of Japanese domestic aggression. The Japanese are a thrifty, shrewd and hard-working people. They were settling on the coast, investing in American land, acquiring increasingly large properties in the aggregate and arousing American ealousy and fear that in time they would dominate the economic picture and push the whites out of the scene by their very thrift. Consequently legal steps were taken to prevent such an eventuality. Hawaii is already largely Japanese in population. Wherever the Japs go they are workers and builders.
