RELIEF ROAD PROJECTS

The Texas Good Roads association is making a strong effort to mobilize Texas public opinion behind its petition of Texas congressmen and senators that they use their best endeavors to secure allocation of $400,000,000 of federal relief money to road construction. The association is soliciting, and obtaining, memberships at $1 each. With a million more or less names to the roll of the petitioners the association can wield a commanding influence in its demand. Of the billions of projected relief spending not a dollar has been earmarked for road building since the PWA portion of which Texas received $24,000,000, a sizeable share for which the association claims its own efforts were largely responsible.

There is excellent argument for and some argument which appears prima facie to be conclusive against the proposal. For the first, the association points to the permanence of the construction left from the relief spending. The country will never have enough of good roads. When there is no room to build good roads, there will be ample room to build better ones; for roads will never get ahead of civilization. The investment of millions of federal relief dollars in highways is an ideal way of contributing permanently to the recovery.

On the other hand, with emergency recovery efforts interpreted as putting the greatest number of men to work in the shortest possible time, the association's appeal confronts an argument, which at first impression, is convincing. Allocation of relief funds to roads requires the purchase of materials which reduces the amount of money available for employment. About 30 per cent of the money would necessarily be spent for materials. However, a cursory view ignores the fact that the materials must be provided by industries which employ workmen and that the stimulus given the industries by the new construction gives unemployment relief quite as effective as the relief directly provided. Since it is a fact that highway construction preserves a large part of the relief program costs in permanent benefits, the Texas Good Roads association's petition should command sympathetic attention both at Washington and among the citizens whose support is sought.

CATTLE OUTLOOK BRIGHTER

Cattlemen and west Texas in general are looking toward Fort Worth and the opening of the 1934 Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show with a keener interest than for several years. The reason is clearly enough the improved conditions in which the cattle market has found itself after the worst years in its recent history. This interest is not manifest only in the Fat Stock show; it has been accruing for several months as the certainty of bettering times came to be felt. A year ago the cattle raising business was at the nadir. Forlorn stockmen predicted a long and dismal season of depression before it would begin to climb the slope of higher prices and eager markets. But today the approach of the annual meeting of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association at Uvalde finds the stockmen full of optimism and even jubilant over the tendency of prices to advance and the recognition of cattle values in the easier credit that is available. About Cisco there is a strongly noticeable tendency in the direction of investment in stock. Grass lands are practically all leased up. A short while ago there was no "free" acreage except small plots of no practical value unless obtained in conjunction with larger tracts.

Another tendency, not so noticeable, is an emphasis upon pure blood strains. The battle for existence during the depression brought the issue of quality to the fore, and the result of that is likely to be a material improvement in the grade of animals that henceforth go out of this section to the markets. The Cisco country is ideal for cattle raising, as is well recognized. There are already in this vicinity many ranches with the best quality of foundation stock and from these centers the good quality is breeding out into places where lesser emphasis has heretofore been put upon the best.

TENEMENT OWNERS TREATEN WALK OUT.

New York has 67,000 tenement houses in the five boroughs of the Greater City. Mayor F. H. LaGuardia demands "immediate improvement of the buildings." The owners of the 7,000 houses are in open revolt against the improvement plan of the fighting mayor. They have issued a threat "to walk out and abandon the property throwing more than 500,000 people into the streets if the LaGuardia administration insists in enforcing its demands." According to the council of real estate associations of Greater New York the owners of this vast number of tenements are financially unable at this time to make the alterations recommended, nay demanded, by the mayor and his tenement house commissioner. The owners declare that the only solution is for the state or federal government to make the necessary loans for remodeling—the loans to be applied as a first lien against the real estate, with the additional suggestion that such a program would go much further than the $25,000,000 sum clearance program now in progress in the tenement districts of the metropolis of the American republic.

In other words, the slogan is "Let Uncle Sam Do It." And Uncle Sam hasn't a nickle he can call his own.

A Military Fact of the Air Mail

The World Today--Forecast of the Future

By HURK NUGENT FITZGERALD

A year of the New Deal administration has passed into history. A year of new history is before the American world as well as all foreign world. Coming events are said to cast their shadows before and a dispassionate forecast of 1934 is not out of place. Looking backward is a survey of that which has happened and belongs to the past. Looking forward concerns all Americans.

The battle between Washington and New York increases in the intensity of its venom. The administration will end up by making Wall street the big bad wolf before June—after the heat of the congressional elections in November places the fighting phase into the republican-democratic struggle for supremacy. President Roosevelt desires as much as possible a vote of confidence in the November polling. He has lost some of his rare good humor. Work and criticism of his subordinates, especially Ickes and Johnson, have gotten at least the tail of his goat—or perhaps the horns.

A partial advancement of silver as a coordinate basis of gold with a resulting further inflation of currency to depreciation of it is on the way. We believe President Roosevelt will win the congressional election 60-40 or better. Should this be the result of the national polling then the forecast is that the president will call for another world conference to stabilize tariffs and trade after the basis of money has been determined as between the franc, the pound and the dollar. When this agreement is reached it probably will carry teeth in the shape of a deposit of gold bullion in a central bank which will have the right to check currency issues of the important civilized countries in ratio to the gold and silver pledged.

Most important of all will be a step to unlock energy and trade and promote peace through eliminating haphazard rivalries and trading between governments working under conditions of uncertainty and representing hordes of hungry and semi-hungry people. Before that time comes we may see a powder blowup in central Europe unless Dictator Hitler has more to him than he has yet shown. If Hitler permits his followers to go haywire over taking in Austria it is certain to bring into action the Italian-Hungarian combination and the French-Franco-Czechoslovakia group. Normally Italy and France are very bitter rivals, with Italy having moved all of her industries 50 miles from the French frontier and maintaining very important fortifications at the border; but if Germany attempts to take over Austria her success in the venture would drive a wedge between Hungary and Italy and separate France and her middle European allies. There is certain war if Hitler attempt it.

In Asia it seems to be the plan of England and the United States to let the Japs fight the Slavs with the hope that neither one wins. The recognition of Russia by the United States placed America in a position against Japan and England that is becoming more and more anti-Japanese. In Victorian days England feared the great bear of Russia, believing Russia would take India away from her. Today she is much more concerned over the Japanese methods of taking her trade in the Orient—and Australia is as definite anti-Japanese as any of the Hearst papers. However, Dictator Hitler believes and the Russia-Japanese clash is delayed President Roosevelt will take the center of the stage again. He will call another world conference in spite of the fact that he lost much prestige with the top men of France and England for what they rather correctly considered "a sell-out." The president led Europeans to believe he would go through the 1933 London conference and "get things done," so to speak. When he pulled the American delegates out on the money question it made another conference impossible for at least a year and turned Roosevelt's attention entirely to national questions.

The president has made much progress in figures and in the relief of the people. It is yet to be determined whether he has spent too much money (or rather wealth) in his professional recovery operations. It is also to be determined whether the American people have become mentally pauperized to the point where they have lost some of their natural as well as national habit of fighting individually the way out of the ills and the poverty that have been with them in recent years. Indeed, many feel that the human values have been lowered about as much as they have been helped—while still believing that the Roosevelt expense bill is justified if for no other reason than that it hastened necessary inflation of currency as the government (the people) became further and further bogged down with debts and had to fight its way out. Never over-look this fact: "The important step is to unlock world energy and trade and promote peace through eliminating haphazard rivalries and trading between governments working under conditions of uncertainty and representing miserable hordes of hungry and semi-hungry people."

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

If the sentiment of congress as reflected in the senate vote of 65 to 18 is any indication, Uncle Sam is going to have a real navy. The big navy tendency meets with my approval. I am not a jingoist, but I do believe in being prepared whenever the need arises. And who can say that the need will not arise? With all this talk of war in the air, he would be a foolhardy optimist who would not admit the danger of an outbreak at any of several points, and that with hardly a moment's notice. Modern methods of warfare call for swift and paralyzing action. This is merely the all-time strategy of the battlefield made ideal by the improvement in transportation of warriors and munitions. In Manchuria and China, the Japanese have improved upon that by cleverly adapting the strategem of stealth in their tactics. They do not declare a war until they have won it. It is conceivable that the same methods might be employed against our own fair land of the tree and home of the brave.

I favor a powerful sea force not because I believe in war but because I believe in peace. Threats of war breed in the most unprotected places. China, a fat old helpless mandarin, is the prey to international greed and the breeding ground of international jealousies because of his means to assert his national inviolability and command the respect of the spoilers. Japan inflamed by the riches of territory and natural resource it needs for expanding population and expanding ambition, spirals through the soft fat of its continental neighbor and comes plump in conflict with another revitalized nation—the soviets, who have discovered their own resources and envisioned a great national destiny. Result—war clouds lower between them.

Had China from the first possessed national solidarity and the means of protecting its territories, Japan

might today be content with more modest ambitions.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

PABILLO, a handsome 17-year-old youth, works at the palatial Florida home of millionaire HEDD.

The son of a titled Englishman and a sweet girl, Pabillo knows nothing of his parents. When 5 years old he ran away from ANGELA, the beautiful girl whose whose care he was left. Since then he has lived with various GYPSY, a mysterious individual who has seen better days. Pabillo's mother, ESTELLE, lives at the Florida home. Pabillo sees her often and almost at once falls in love with her. "His home stays a guest at the Florida home," says Pabillo. "I tell her and recognize her. Later on police for a murder years before and that he is going to rescue her."

Pabillo tells Noyes to hide in the swamp and promises to meet him there that night.

SO GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VII

THE swamp was a place of low growing trees from which hung Florida moss—the gray, shaggy growth that brings the eeriness of a moonless, wind-haunted night to the brightest of noons. Some times there were fireflies there and always there were snakes.

Noyes shivered, pushing in among the trees with a blunt prowed canoe. He feared the place but to night a stronger fear made it a sanctuary.

No one could track him here. He knew the swamp as few knew it and a canoe left no scent for dogs. Perhaps even now at Bantam's they were watching for him. He remembered, with a cold clutch at his heart, having snubbed Jeffries for telling, at a club they both frequented, a not too pleasant story of a woman they both knew. He wondered whether Jeffries remembered.

"Even if he does I don't regret it," Noyes said to himself.

Presently he discovered that deep in the swamp some one had lit a fire. A faint glow from it came through the dense underbrush and the curtains of seemingly dead, yet ever-growing moss. Noyes would see who had lit the fire after he had tied and hidden his canoe. It would be just as well to know who else was here and it would also help to put in the time. Pabillo was always thorough and that meant he would be slow. Noyes' nerves were at such a state that inaction was torture.

He had made his way very cautiously within 50 feet of the fire, hidden by the thick brush, when he halted. From where he stood, when the moving air stirred the drooping leaves, he could see a girl who was pretty in the fashion of pictures on calendars. Her pert face was round and her features were regular. Her dark, abundant hair was curled too thickly; there was mascara matted on her lashes and too much color on her cheeks. She sat on a log with her short, thick hands clasped around her knees and because of this Noyes knew she was a stranger. An intimate acquaintance with swamps does not invite one to sit upon forward to that eventually take a great deal of interest in the rate of their population increase. I note in a recent article of a series by a well-known foreign correspondent, that Poland regards Father Time as an ally in her rivalry with the Germans because her population is increasing the more rapidly.

It seems to be a fact that more babies are born in depressions than in periods of prosperity. That coincides with the tendency of wealthy families to cut down on the birth rate; for the more money people have, the more time they have for other things than having babies and raising children. It is a fact that a foolish and socially uneconomical thing for society to keep dying at the top, so to speak, but after considering the matter one is bound to be impressed by the safeguards with which Mother Nature equipped herself. The tendency of the race to commit class suicide in the "stratosphere" is an assertion of the democratic principles that control society. If one craves stays on top too long it sours. So Mother Nature buried the essential instinct in human character. If it so happens that one family or strain stays on the surface longer than usual, it runs out of brains and doesn't amount to much. For proof of that assertion the genealogies of the reigning socialites of America may be profitably studied.

Of late, Cisco seems to be doing pretty well in the matter of new additions to the citizenship directory. In February, I believe, Dr. W. P. Lee, city health officer, reported to the city commission that 12 births had been registered in the city limits. He does not include in his vital statistics report births or deaths that occur outside the limits.

Have you noticed Watson Cooper's and Paul Ivie's new football mustaches? (Eleven on each side.)

The three musketeers, Bill Kilborn, Durward Boyd, and Gerald Merket are going into business. (It must be dry goods, cause they have started collecting girls handkerchiefs.)

Isn't it queer that Opal Crawford gets so many notes that have O. B. signed to them. (Could we help you to decide, Opal?)

Roads association, and help him secure $1 memberships for the association. The name is pronounced "Sal-wes-ter," and that is simple enough. But Nance always pushed his guest forward and let him take care of the preliminaries. "I can't remember it between stops," said he. Mr. Salwaechter took it good-humoredly. Mr. Salwaechter originated in Illinois, transferred allegiance at various times to other midwestern states and finally the southwest. A hound racing enthusiast, he once presided the national association on that subject and continues a director. He is well-known in a great variety of amateur sports. For several years he was a wholesale flour salesman and has sold his produce to Cisco merchants.

A comparison of the general nepotism statute and the nepotism provision of the relief law—returns into the new law without a change—throws a sidelight on the issue of cousins, second cousins, aunts' half-sisters.

The general law bars employment by the head of a department of one related to him within the second degree. The relief commission prohibits employment of any within the second degree of any or marriage kinship to any member of the legislature, any member of the relief commission, or the of any state department.

Any skittish first thought Jack F. Reed, former assistant chief director, might bring any bitterness of the old fight in as he failed to be made director, into his service as a member of the commission was quickly dispelled. Reed showed he regarded the re-administration as a lot bigger more serious matter than that of low members' praise his selection because it brought to the commission the most intimate knowledge and experience with the relief available in Texas; and it brought onto the commission a vigorous, broad-shouldered, experienced Texan who for the year has been giving his very to the relief work.

It was a most felicitous selection and it lifted any suggestion that Reed's very valuable services not been properly appreciated.

NEICE OF CISCO MAN MARRIES IN ARKANSAS.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cliett have received an announcement of the marriage of Mr. Cliett's niece, Miss Gloria Cliett, who was recently married in El Dorado, Arkansas. The bride is well known in Cisco, having spent several weeks during the summer of 1932 with her uncle and aunt here. During her stay here she was honored with a number of parties. Following is a part of the account of the wedding, taken from the El Dorado paper:

"The home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dickens, 519 North Jackson avenue, was the scene of a lovely early spring wedding Sunday afternoon when Miss Gloria Jean Cliett became the bride of Andrew Carnegie Walker. An assemblage of approximately 75 intimate friends of the couple witnessed the ceremony performed by Dr. Dickens.

"As guests gathered Mrs. Carl E. Fowler, pianist, and Martin Bernstein, violinist, played "Because" and "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms." During the service they played softly "Love's Old Sweet Song".

"Just at the stroke of five, the musicians sounded the opening chords of Mendelssohn's Wedding March and Miss Cliett walked down the stairs, across the living room to the double doors of the sun-parlor, where she met Mr. Walker and continued with him to the bower of ferns, palms, tall baskets of white snapdragons and graduated standards of seven-branched candelabra, bearing white Cathedral tapers, where they exchanged their vows. Soft light from countless candles in single double and triple holders cast a glow over the living room and sun-parlor and played softly on handsome vases of acacia, rosea and snapdragons.

"After the informal reception following the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Walker left by motor for a honeymoon of several days in Hot Springs. Upon their return they will be at home in the El Dorado apartments.

"Mrs. Walker, a native of Fort Smith and the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cliett, is an unusually attractive young woman. In her years of residence here, during which she has served as an instructor in the Hugh Goodwin school, she has formed a wide circle of friends. She is a graduate of Ouchita college, Arkadelphia, and the sister of Thomas Travis Cliett of New York City.

"Mr. Walker, whose family resides in Columbia, Tenn., has made his home on El Dorado for a number of years. He is connected with the Star Clothing company."

GERMANS ASK FIFTY NATIONS TO OLYMPIAD

LONDON, March 8 — Fifty countries have now received their invitations from the German government to participate in the Olympic games in Berlin, in 1936.

The invitation is worded according to the Olympic statutes, but with this added paragraph: "The whole German nation hopes that the peoples of the world will accept the invitation and send strong teams."

The Jewish question has made the participation of some countries uncertain, despite official German assurance that Jewish members of foreign teams will be welcomed, although they are banned from the German team.

In any case, with the approval of Adolf Hitler, extraordinary plans are being made to insure that the first Olympiad in Germany shall be the most successful of all.

By Hitler's order, 285 acres of land in the Pichsberg district are to be converted into a gigantic sports park. The land is to the west of Berlin. A race course existing there is to be abolished, and the present stadium is to be enlarged to hold 1,000,000 people.

ROOSEVELT IS FACING TARIFF, RELIEF ISSUES

WASHINGTON, D. C. March 8 — Bitter dispute over the budget, crisis in the NRA and reorganization of emergency employment relief channels challenged Roosevelt on the first anniversary of his inauguration.

On the achievement side, the administration listed:

- 1.—Large progress in enactment of its legislative program by congress.
- 2.—Allocation of $3,300,000,000 of public money.
- 3.—Increased employment, improved business, reopened banks, and restoration of confidence in comparison with one year ago.

But administration leaders, themselves, concede that recovery is far from here. The immediate business business as the second Roosevelt year begins, is to bolster the NRA against weaknesses and abuses emphasized this week at open forum press meetings.

As the meetings ended, Hugh S. Johnson, administrator, outlined the problems as:

- 1.—Insurance that price increases do not outrun wage increases.
- 2.—Prevention of industrial or labor dictation against the public interest.
- 3.—Elimination of chiseling through compliance.
- 4.—Insurance of statutory rights of labor.
- 5.—Maximum contribution by NRA to the solution of the purchasing power and unemployment problem.

Mr. Johnson explained that NRA is not charged alone with re-empowering the jobless millions. But he is not satisfied with NRA employment and is pledged to propose next week at a general conference of code authorities that the work week be further reduced and hourly wages increased. Mr. Roosevelt will open next week's conference with a review of objectives and a plan to carry on.

The budget dispute stirring Capitol Hill revolves around veterans and federal employees. Mr. Roosevelt sought to quell veterans' uproar with a compromise which added $21,000,000 annually to the treasury burden by restoring a few benefits.

That was not enough. The senate raised the ante to at least $118,253,000 and restored pay to federal employees to the extent of $182,775,000. Acceptance by the house of this legislation would draw a veto.

New Program
Mr. Roosevelt decided February 28 to meet the emergency unemployment relief situation by expenditure of $850,000,000 on distressed rural families, stranded populations in single industry towns and jobless in large urban centers. This program was devised to meet the crisis of civil works administration abandonment May 1.

The first year ends with Mr. Roosevelt's request for reciprocal trade agreement authority and suggestions for Philippine independence before congress. All major legislative proposals except a possible message on war debts now have been submitted. Thus this session of congress enters the home stretch, having received from the White House reports about all the recommendations likely to be submitted this year.

Slang Here to Stay Says English Prof.

MILWAUKEE, March 8 — Slang is inevitable and some of it will endure, according to Prof. James M. Purcell of the English department of Marquette university.

"A slang word, if it is to last," said Prof. Purcell, "must contain an idea not contained in the word for which it is substituted. For instance, 'apple-sauce' will endure because we have no other word to express flatery which is uncomplimentary, while 'lettuce' and 'spinach,' words used sometimes in place of 'money,' will not last because they do not add anything to the meaning of 'money.'"

The Marquette professor pointed out that the slang word "jitney," used to denote a cheap car employed by an individual to transport people to and from work in post-war days when street car rates were raised, has passed into oblivion because the "jitneys," in most cases were legislated out of business.

Horses which he brought with him from Kentucky were stolen by Indians on the very site of Cisco he said.

EX-EASTLAND TAX OFFICIAL FATALLY SHOT

FORT WORTH, March 8.—George Bryant, 48, former official of Eastland county, today was found dead in a local tourist camp, a bullet wound in his right temple and a pistol, beside him.

From the contents of three notes found with the body, officers attributed the suicidal motive to disappointment in love.

"One of the notes, addressed to 'The World,' read: 'She has robbed and ruined me and I hope she is satisfied. Death before disgrace. Goodbye, Friends and World.' A second note addressed to his sweetheart, said: 'You led it in your power to save me. But personal greed and selfishness had to prevail as ever. I am simply in love with a dream.'"

A third note was addressed to a sister, Mrs. Lenah McCoy, of Denver, Colorado. Bryant has a living wife. Peace Justice Pritchard returned a verdict of suicide.

The dead man served as tax assessor of Eastland county for two terms from 1929 to 1933, inclusive. In the 1932 democratic primary campaign he was a candidate for county judge, being eliminated in the first election.

Cisco Man Robbed Of $125 Wednesday

Two masked men who "stepped from the darkness as he drove his car into his garage at 501 West 17th street early Wednesday morning kidnaped Guy Greynolds, Cisco service station proprietor, and released him two miles west on the old Dothan road after robbing him of $125.

Mr. Greynolds said the men apparently followed the car into the garage. As he switched off the lights they appeared, one on either side of the machine, he said, and as he stepped out a gun was stuck in his ribs with the command, twice repeated, to "Stick 'em up!."

He was forced back into the Model A Ford coupe between the two kidnapers, and blindfolded. The blindfold was specially prepared, he said, with a snap to fasten it behind his head.

About two miles south on the old Dothan road the men stopped the machine and robbed him of his wallet which contained receipts of his service station at the Canyon Oil and Gas company refinery at Fourteenth street and the Katy tracks.

CODE GROUPS ARE NAMED TO SHAPE PLANS

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—Industrialists at the NRA conference today selected small groups to work with Adm'r Hugh S. Johnson in an effort to whip into noticeable form the administration's program for further employment and higher wages.

They were faced with warnings from Johnson that the government expected many industries to reduce hours 10 per cent and that there would be an unprecedented wave of strikes unless labor's rights under the recovery act were fully recognized.

Johnson asked selection of two committees of 12 to meet with him in the belief they could expedite action on the basis of the general discussions which were closed for the most part last night.

Code authorities of the capital goods industries met under the chairmanship of Geo. Houston, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works. He selected a nominating committee to name a committee of 12 to meet with Johnson later in the day.

Consumers goods industries held a similar meeting under the chairmanship of Geo. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute.

To aid industry in meeting the demand recovery, Johnson announced reorganization of NRA would be undertaken immediately.

He called upon industry specifically to increase hourly wage rates 10 per cent and to reduce the work week by the same per cent.

RELIEF DRIVE AIDS MILLIONS, SAYS HOPKINS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Today is the Roosevelt administration's first anniversary. Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator and one of President Roosevelt's right-hand men, in the following dispatch, tells how the administration has met the problem of unemployment relief in this first year and what it contemplates in the future.

By HARRY L. HOPKINS
Federal Emergency Relief Director
(Copyright, 1934, by United Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C. March 8.—In the little more than nine months since the creation of the federal emergency relief administration, tens of millions of men, women and children have been relieved of hardships from unemployment.

More than $600,000,000 of federal funds have been spent for this relief.

In addition to the grants of money to the states by the FEERA, the federal surplus relief committee has distributed huge quantities of commodities purchased from market surpluses.

Besides the money spent for relief, $490,000,000 was spent on civil works employment.

4,000,000 Employed
Four million workers earned CWA wages on public improvements.

In return, the communities, the states, and the nation as a whole, benefited by a vast number of streets, roads, parks, schools, playgrounds, public buildings, emergency education programs, swamp drainage, disease control, airports, erosion prevention, and a thousand and one other improvements.

The money has gone into the hands of CWA workers in every state, four territories, and the District of Columbia. It has meant increased purchasing power in many communities.

The CWA is now undergoing demobilization, with completion scheduled for May 1. For some time, however, consideration has been given to long-range planning.

CWA Only Emergency
To give these people who have been fighting the battle a chance to work through the winter, seems to me not only a part of intelligent, but decent treatment of the unemployed. CWA, in itself, was intended as an emergency measure to meet the needs of this winter.

The handling of relief problems over the past nine months has revealed the wisdom of considering separate but coordinated treatment for three main phases of national needs. In general, the three groups of people in need are: First, distressed families in rural areas; second, those composing stranded populations, such as families living in single-industry communities where the industry has died, and third, the unemployed in large cities.

Relief funds for rural families will in the main be used to help them achieve self-support through agriculture by assisting them in getting away from dependence on a single cash crop and change to the raising of commodities for their own support. Work for wages from relief funds will be provided to the extent necessary to provide limited cash income.

In solving the difficulties of the stranded population, it is likely that many people will have to be moved, for in many instances the place in which they now live offers no promise of future employment or chance of self-support through agriculture.

Gettysburg Field Is Being Remade

GETTYSBURG, Pa., March 8.—Approximately a half million dollars is being spent by three federal agencies, the civilian conservation corps, the public works administration, and the civil works administration, to restore the Gettysburg battlefield to something like its condition in 1864.

James E. McConaghie, who is in charge of the restoration and reconstruction work, said today that more than 400 members of the CCC and 25 public works employees are engaged in removing thousands of dead trees and tangled underbrush from the battlefield.

McConaghie is federal director of parks in Pennsylvania and Maryland. The work is being directed by a group of tree surgeons and landscape architects.

"A mistaken impression is that we are modernizing the battlefield," McConaghie said. "On the contrary, we are working to restore it to something of its condition in 1864."

"Under the emergency appropriations we have engaged a staff of historians to study the field thoroughly and when their report has been completed, the work of restoring buildings and earthworks will be started."

The restoration plan includes the construction of 19 miles of foot paths so that many historical places heretofore inaccessible to visitors may be visited; rebuilding of stone walls; resurfacing of roads; repairing of bridges and construction of stations at the various park entrances.

FOUND $100 BILL

AUSTIN, March 8.—Miss Winnie Allen, University of Texas archivist, found a $100 bill in a group of letters and documents presented to the university by grandchild of Alexander Gilmer, pioneer lumberman.

The bill was a currency note issued Dec. 22, 1864, by the Cincinnati National bank, and still worth its face value.

Asparagus, New Vegetable

Asparagus is one of the very few vegetables which do not need to be planted every year. When asparagus is properly planted and cared for, it will continue to bear for ten or fifteen years. "I have an asparagus bed in my garden because it is one of the early producing vegetables starts in the spring long before other crops can be planted," said Mrs. J. R. Moore, garden demonstrator of the North Star club, near Rising Star.

"One year-old plants are the best for starting the bed. It is advisable to buy plants, as asparagus seed are exceedingly hard to germinate. Only large vigorous roots should be used. Nothing is gained by using two-year-old roots, and they are usually more expensive than the one-year-old. The Mary Washington variety is the best for this section."

The following method was used in making the bed in my garden: well cultivated bed, soil well stirred for ten to fifteen inches deep, well rotted manure added and mixed with soil. The rows spaced four to six feet apart, with the plants 18 to 24 inches apart. The furrows were nine inches deep. The plants placed on the bottom of the furrow. Cover with two inches of soil and as the young shoots grow, the soil is gradually pulled in around them. By the end of this first season, the furrow will be completely filled, and then I follow ordinary cultivation to keep the soil loose and the weeds under control."

Cultivating Tomatoes

Mrs. R. N. Hazlewood, farm food supply demonstrator of the Rising Star home demonstration club, recommends immediate cultivation after setting tomato plants. Frequent shallow cultivations and hoeings are important during the early growing season to check growth of weeds. Cultivation should continue until the tomatoes are ready to harvest.

"Tomatoes with a good root system will produce all during the dry hot summer months," she said. "When planting, have the holes seven or eight inches deep, place plant in, and from time to time add more soil until the plant reaches the top or surface of the garden. These plants will produce longer than when planted in a shallow hole. This method has been used satisfactorily in this section where we are bothered with lack of moisture after the tomatoes start maturing."

Tomatoes in Eastland County

"Early tomatoes are the most profitable and in order to have the early tomatoes, I start my plants in a hot bed when the weather is still much too cold for the plants to grow in the field," said Mrs. C. B. McCoy, farm food supply demonstrator of the Romney Home Demonstration Club.

"The hot bed is heated with manure, more practical for the weather conditions in this section. The hot bed was made by the diagram given in the bulletin 'Tomatoes in Texas.' This bulletin is in the office of the county farm and home agents and will be sent on request."

"The tomato plants are removed from the hot bed to cold frame as soon as they develop the third leaf. Transplanting is done for the purpose of hardening off the plants. Leave four inches between each plant and allow to remain in the cold frame for 14 to 20 days. These plants are large and stocky after this time and will be ready for planting in garden or field."

The following varieties are good for this section, Marglobe, Break O' Day and Ouf State. Marglobe is using the Marglobe and Break O' Day. The Marglobe is well-resistant to rot and matures in from 90 to 100 days."

Native Rocks Used to Make Walks

The flagstone walk should be used in this county because of the native rock available and cuts the expense of yard improvement. Mrs. J. E. Wright, yard demonstrator of the Elm home demonstration club recommends the use of flagstone. The walks are four to six feet wide and made of flagstone laid flush with the surface of the lawn. Stepping stone walks are used in the back yard from the door to the cellar or store houses. The stones for the stepping stone walks are laid 20 inches apart from center to center.

The yard plan includes the placing of the walks, making walks, and drives only where needed. Rocks are not used to outline flower beds, because they are not needed and materials used where not needed detract from the landscape as a whole. The plans were made and are to be followed in plantings in order to make the house, lawn and surroundings tie in together as a whole and not one standing out from the other."

America's Cup Defender Yachts Expensive Toys Constructed for Very Short Lives

BRISTOL, R. I., March 6.—"Will you love me in December as you do in May?"

So might sing a ship now building here, to Harold S. Vanderbilt, of the New York Yacht Club.

The ship, financed by a syndicate headed by Vanderbilt, is the new defense candidate for the America's Cup races next September against the British challenger, Endeavour.

The ship's name is strictly a rhetorical question, for no America's Cup defender has been loved as much in December as she was in May. An America's Cup defender is born for a short shrift of life. She is the darling of millionaires, her graceful body is the toast of millions for a season, but she loses admirers as quickly as a faded chorus girl.

Expensive Toys
Two vessels, hard by that budding sailboat, stick their prows over the main street of the quiet Yankee town. The children of Bristol play in their shadows, unaware that they are in the presence of the most expensive toys constructed by man.

One of the boats carries a sign, Enterprise, defender of the America's Cup 1920. The other is labeled "Resolute, defender of the America's Cup, 1920."

The two represent an investment of two million dollars, but they never returned a penny of it to their sponsors. And they could not be sold today for $50,000.

This new boat will be launched in April. She will sail for the first time in May, and no more loving care ever has been lavished on the heir of a throne than will be lavished on her. If she is chosen to defend the cup, as undoubtedly she will be, she will be the paragon of the seas for a week.

Old Troupers
But when her short, eventful career is spent, she will join those two hopeless ships at Bristol, forlorn under their winter covers. The three will lie at uneasy anchor, like old troupers who have the addiction of Broadway and languish in the slums. Their only chance to preen will come when a chance passerby stops at the break Herreshoff yards and says: "Oh, yes, that is Enterprise, and that is Resolute, and there's the new boat Vanderbilt put out. I knew them a long time ago. They look pretty sad now, but when they had it, they were good."

The new yacht may join the Enterprise and the Resolute as a poor relation. Her syndicate hopes to build and race her for half a million dollars. But the two time-worn and disillusioned yachts will welcome another. They will stick their prows over the main street of this quiet Yankee town, and watch the children of Bristol at play.

DILLINGER IS FREE AGAIN IN DARING BREAK

CROWN POINT, Ind., March 8.—Using a wooden gun to intimidate his guards, John Dillinger broke out of the county jail here Saturday.

It was the latest of a series of daring law-defying escapades engineered by the desperado whose career in crime gained for him the title of America's No. 1 public enemy.

Within a few hours after the escape, carried out in defiance of the extra guards posted by Lake county's woman sheriff, Lillian Holley, the car carrying Dillinger and a negro accomplice was sighted near Peotone, Ill., east of here.

Ernest Blunk, the guard who was intimidated by Dillinger's makeshift imitation of a gun and who was taken with the desperado in the sheriff's car, was released near Peotone.

Blunk was s unceremoniously thrown out of the car and was found by a farmer who took him to town. With him was the night mechanic at the Main Street garage here from which Dillinger and his accomplice stole the sheriff's car.

The break occurred at 9:20 a. m. Blunk was covered by Dillinger's machine gun and the negro's pistol. Three employees of the garage were forced to hold their hands aloft while the desperado coolly picked out Sheriff Holley's automobile.

Apparently Dillinger, accompanied by the negro, rifled the jail arsenal and the pair were armed with real guns when they subdued the other guards, who were taken by surprise.

Three other prisoners followed Dillinger and the negro out of the jail. The trio returned to their cells, however, when they saw the desperado take two machine guns from the office of Warden Lew Baker. The negro was a convicted murderer named John Youngblood.

Behind them they left the emergency armed and guarded jail house locked fore and aft with all guards and deputy sheriffs locked in their cells.

It was Sheriff Holley, colorful woman peace officer, who at the time of Dillinger's capture in Arizona said: "John Dillinger may be able to fight his way out of some prisons but he won't break the Lake county jail."

Shortly after she was informed of the break she became hysterical, it was said.

Kidnaped Blunt

Flashing his wooden gun in the face of Deputy Sheriff Ernest Blunk Dillinger took the cell keys and with the negro armed himself in the warden's office, Dillinger taking two machine guns and Youngblood a revolver.

When the other three prisoners returned to the jail cells, Dillinger followed them and kidnaped Blunk. Dillinger locked the jail doors with Blunk's keys. He then led the other two through the warden's living quarters into the warden's kitchen.

There Mrs. Baker covered in fright before the machine guns. "Just take it easy," Dillinger said. "Be a nice girl and we may not shoot you."

Mrs. Baker held her hands up and the bandit led the way down a flight of stairs to the jail garage. There were no automobiles in the garage as the escaping men and Blunk ran to the Main Street garage.

TWO GUARDS HELD AS AIDING DILLINGER

CROWN POINT, Ind., March 8.—Two guards in the Lake County jail where John Dillinger bluffed his way to freedom were arrested Tuesday on charges of aiding the escape of the desperado, and a negro murder suspect.

Those arrested were Sam Cahoon, guard, and Deputy Sheriff Ernest Blunk. Blunk and a mechanic from the jail garage were kidnaped by Dillinger and the negro and carried with them in their flight.

Lorenzen Clark No. 1 Well Is Cemented

Preparations to complete the Wm. Lorenzen No. 1 F. E. Clark, southwest of Putnam, were begun last week with cementing of casing. Several days will elapse before the well, only deep producer in Callahan county, will be drilled in, but operators are confident that it will open up to active exploitation an important new area of deep production.

For the past two weeks the well has been handled with gloves as the bit was sent slowly into the Caddo in which it has penetrated a saturated stratum for 120 feet to a depth of 3451.

Oil and gas have been found in considerable quantities and it is planned, if the well does not flow naturally, to treat it with a light shot and acid. The lime was said to show exceptionally good reaction to the acid, with a 40 per cent solubility.

Texas Pilgrims Will Raise Lee Shrine Fund

GALVESTON, March 8.—Texans will go on a pilgrimage this month for the benefit of the Robert E. Lee Memorial foundation.

Plans for the trip to shrines of the Old South have been made by Mrs. Emmerson Root Newell of Galveston, director of southern pilgrimages for the foundation.

From the trip revenue will be derived in 1929, the foundation set out to acquire Stratford Hall in Westmoreland county, Virginia, and to establish it as a national shrine. The movement was proposed by Sidney Lanier, southern poet.

Already the foundation has acquired the 1100-acre estate on the Patomac. Now it seeks funds to preserve the Stratford Hall.

West Texans will leave Houston about the middle of March on the first leg of the pilgrimage, according to present plans. The caravan of automobiles will merge with another, moving from east Texas, at Lake Charles, La.

From there the pilgrims will proceed to the Jungle Garden at New Iberia to Oak Alley plantation and down the river to New Orleans. Then they will go to Biloxi, and Gulfport, Miss., on to Mobile, Ala., and other points of interest.

Funds for the foundation will be derived from admission charges to the places visited, it was explained.

GET UP NIGHTS? How One Man Lost 22 Pounds

Make This 25c Test

Lax the bladder as you would the bowels. Drive out impurities and excessive acids that cause irritation, burning and frequent desire. Get a 25 cent box of BU-KETS, the bladder laxative, from any drug store. After four days if you are not relieved of getting up nights go back and get your money. BU-KETS, containing buchu leaves, juniper oil, etc., acts pleasantly and effectively on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. If you are bothered with backache, or leg pains caused from bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep.

BU-KETS guaranteed by Dean Drug Co.—Adv.

Mr. Herman Runkis of Detroit writes: "A few lines of thanks from a rheumatism sufferer — My first bottle of Kruschen Salts took all of the aches and swelling out of my joints—with my first bottle I went on a diet and lost 22 pounds and now feel like a new man."

To lose fat safely and quickly take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—an 85c bottle lasts 4 weeks—Get it at Moore Drug Co. or any drug store in America.

If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back—Adv.

RELIEF ROAD PROJECTS

The Texas Good Roads association is making a strong effort to mobilize Texas public opinion behind its petition of Texas congressmen and senators that they use their best endeavors to secure allocation of $400,000,000 of federal relief money to road construction. The association is soliciting, and obtaining, memberships at $1 each. With a million more or less names to the roll of the petitioners the association can wield a commanding influence in its demand. Of the billions of projected relief spending not a dollar has been earmarked for road building since the PWA portion of which Texas received $24,000,000, a sizeable share for which the association claims its own efforts were largely responsible.

There is excellent argument for and some argument which appears prima facie to be conclusive against the proposal. For the first, the association points to the permanence of the construction left from the relief spending. The country will never have enough of good roads. When there is no room to build good roads, there will be ample room to build better ones; for roads will never get ahead of civilization. The investment of millions of federal relief dollars in highways is an ideal way of contributing permanently to the recovery.

On the other hand, with emergency recovery efforts interpreted as putting the greatest number of men to work in the shortest possible time, the association's appeal confronts an argument, which at first impression, is convincing. Allocation of relief funds to roads requires the purchase of materials which reduces the amount of money available for employment. About 30 per cent of the money would necessarily be spent for materials. However, a cursory view ignores the fact that the materials must be provided by industries which employ workmen and that the stimulus given the industries by the new construction gives unemployment relief quite as effective as the relief directly provided. Since it is a fact that highway construction preserves a large part of the relief program costs in permanent benefits, the Texas Good Roads association's petition should command sympathetic attention both at Washington and among the citizens whose support is sought.

CATTLE OUTLOOK BRIGHTER

Cattlemen and west Texas in general are looking toward Fort Worth and the opening of the 1934 Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show with a keener interest than for several years. The reason is clearly enough the improved conditions in which the cattle market has found itself after the worst years in its recent history. This interest is not manifest only in the Fat Stock show; it has been accruing for several months as the certainty of bettering times came to be felt. A year ago the cattle raising business was at the nadir. Forlorn stockmen predicted a long and dismal season of depression before it would begin to climb the slope of higher prices and eager markets. But today the approach of the annual meeting of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association at Uvalde finds the stockmen full of optimism and even jubilant over the tendency of prices to advance and the recognition of cattle values in the easier credit that is available. About Cisco there is a strongly noticeable tendency in the direction of investment in stock. Grass lands are practically all leased up. A short while ago there was no "free" acreage except small plots of no practical value unless obtained in conjunction with larger tracts.

Another tendency, not so noticeable, is an emphasis upon pure blood strains. The battle for existence during the depression brought the issue of quality to the fore, and the result of that is likely to be a material improvement in the grade of animals that henceforth go out of this section to the markets. The Cisco country is ideal for cattle raising, as is well recognized. There are already in this vicinity many ranches with the best quality of foundation stock and from these centers the good quality is breeding out into places where lesser emphasis has heretofore been put upon the best.

TENEMENT OWNERS TREATEN WALK OUT.

New York has 67,000 tenement houses in the five boroughs of the Greater City. Mayor F. H. LaGuardia demands "immediate improvement of the buildings." The owners of the 7,000 houses are in open revolt against the improvement plan of the fighting mayor. They have issued a threat "to walk out and abandon the property throwing more than 500,000 people into the streets if the LaGuardia administration insists in enforcing its demands." According to the council of real estate associations of Greater New York the owners of this vast number of tenements are financially unable at this time to make the alterations recommended, nay demanded, by the mayor and his tenement house commissioner. The owners declare that the only solution is for the state or federal government to make the necessary loans for remodeling—the loans to be applied as a first lien against the real estate, with the additional suggestion that such a program will go much further than the $25,000,000 slum clearance program now in progress in the tenement districts of the metropolis of the American republic.

In other words, the slogan is "Let Uncle Sam Do It." And Uncle Sam hasn't a nickle he can call his own.

PLAN HIGHER RETURNS TO MILK PRODUCERS

Chester C. Davis, farm administrator in the Wallace national setup, has announced a coordinating organization for the milk industry of the country with regional committees. He has named A. H. Lauderbach of Wisconsin to head the dairy section of the farm administration. Members of the coordinating committees also were announced. These groups, according to Davis, will enable the farm administration to carry out more effectively its plan for establishing higher returns for milk producers and controlling production under a nationwide program to be announced within a short time.

A Military Fact of the Air Mail

The World Today--Forecast of the Future

By HUKK NUGENT FITZGERALD

A year of the New Deal administration has passed into history. A year of new history is before the American world as well as all foreign world. Coming events are said to precede their shadows before a dispassionate forecast of 1934 is not out of place. Looking backward is a survey of that which has happened and belongs to the past. Looking forward concerns all Americans.

The battle between Washington and New York increases in the intensity of its venom. The administration will end up by making Wall Street the big bad wolf before June—after the heat of the congressional elections in November places the fighting phase into the republican-democratic struggle for supremacy. President Roosevelt desires as much as possible a vote of confidence in the November polling. He has lost some of his rare good humor. Work and criticism of his subordinates, especially Ickes and Johnson, have gotten at least the tail of his goat—or perhaps the horns.

A partial advancement of silver as a coordinate basis of gold with a resulting further inflation of currency (or depreciation of it) is on the way. We believe President Roosevelt will win the congressional election 69-40 or better. Should this be the result of the national polling, then the forecast is that the president will call for another world conference to stabilize tariffs and trade after the basis of money has been determined as between the franc, the pound and the dollar. When this agreement is reached it probably will carry teeth in the shape of a deposit of gold bullion in a central bank which will have the right to check currency issues of the important civilized countries in ratio to the gold and silver pledged.

Most important of all will be a step to unlock energy and trade and promote peace through eliminating haphazard rivalries and trading between governments working under conditions of uncertainty and representing hordes of hungry and semi-hungry people. Before that time comes we may see a powder blow in central Europe unless Dictator Hitler has more to him than he has yet shown. If Hitler permits his followers to go haywire over taking in Austria it is certain to bring into action the Italian-Hungarian combination and the French-Polish-Czechoslovak group. Normally Italy and France are very bitter rivals, with Italy having moved all of her industries 50 miles from the French frontier and maintaining very important fortifications at the border; but if Germany attempts to take over Austria her success in the venture would drive a wedge between Hungary and Italy and separate France and her middle Europe allies. There is certain war if Hitler attempt it.

In Asia it seems to be the plan of England and the United States to let the Japs fight the Slavs with the hope that neither one wins. The recognition of Russia by the United States placed America in a position against Japan and England that is becoming more and more anti-Japanese. In Victorian days England feared the great bear of Russia, believing Russia would take India away from her. Today she is much more concerned over the Japanese methods of taking her trade in the Orient—and Australia is as definite anti-Japanese as any of the Hearst papers. However, if Dictator Hitler behaves and the Russia-Japanese clash is delayed President Roosevelt will take the center of the stage again. He will call another world conference in spite of the fact that he lost much prestige with the top men of France and England for what they rather correctly considered "a sell-out." The president led Europeans to believe he would go through the 1933 London conference and "get things done," so to speak. When he pulled the American delegation out on the money question it made another conference impossible for at least a year and turned Roosevelt's attention entirely to national questions.

The president has made much progress in figures and in the relief of the people. It is yet to be determined whether he has spent too much money (or rather wealth) in his professional recovery operations. It is also to be determined whether the American people have become mentally pauperized to the point where they have lost some of their natural as well as national habit of fighting individually the way out of the ills and the poverty that have been with them in recent years. Indeed, many feel that the human values have been lowered about as much as they have been helped—while still believing that the Roosevelt expense bill is justified if for no other reason than that it hastened necessary inflation of currency as the government (the people) became further and further bogged down with debts and had to fight its way out. Never overlook this fact:

"The important step is to unlock world energy and trade and promote peace through eliminating haphazard rivalries and trading between governments working under conditions of uncertainty and representing miserable hordes of hungry and semi-hungry people."

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

If the sentiment of congress as reflected in the senate vote of 65 to 18 is any indication, Uncle Sam is going to have a real navy. The big navy tendency meets with my approval. I am not a jingoist, but I do believe in being prepared when the need arises. And who can say that the need will not arise? With all this talk of war in the air, he would be a foolhardy optimist who would not admit the danger of an outbreak of any of several points, and that with hardly a moment's notice. Modern methods of warfare call for swift and paralyzing action. That is merely the all-time strategy of the battlefield made ideal by the improvement in transportation of warriors and munitions. In Manchuria and China, the Japanese have improved upon that by cleverly adapting the strategem of stealth in their tactics. They do not declare a war until they have won it. It is conceivable that the same methods might be employed against our own fair land of the free and home of the brave.

I favor a powerful sea force not because I believe in war but because I believe in peace. Threats of war breed in the most unprotected places. China, a fat old helpless mandarin, is the prey to international greed and the breeding ground of international jealousies because it has not the means to assert its national inviolability and command the respect of the spoilers. Japan inflamed by the riches of territory and natural resource it needs for expanding population and expanding ambition, spirals through the soft fat of its continental neighbor and comes plump in conflict with another revitalized nation—the Soviets, who have discovered their own resources and envisioned a great national destiny. Result—war clouds lower between them.

Had China from the first possessed national solidarity and the means of protecting its territories, Japan

might today be content with more modest ambitions.

Speaking of war, nations looking forward to that eventually take a great deal of interest in the rate of their population increase. I note in a recent article of a series by a well-known foreign correspondent, that Poland regards Father Time as an ally in her rivalry with the Germans because her population is increasing the more rapidly.

It seems to be a fact that more babies are born in depressions than in periods of prosperity. That coincides with the tendency of wealthy families to cut down on the birth rate; for the more money people have, the more time they have for other things than having babies and raising children. At first glance, it seems a foolish and socially unecological thing for society to keep dying at the top, so to speak, but after considering the matter one is bound to be impressed by the safeguards with which Mother Nature equipped the race to commit class suicide in the "stratosphere" is an assertion of the democratic principles that control society. If one crust stays on top too long it sours. So Mother Nature buried the essential instinct in human character. If it so happens that one family or strain stays on the surface longer than usual, it runs out of brains and doesn't amount to much. For proof of that assertion the genealogies of the reigning socialites of America may be profitably studied.

Of late, Cisco seems to be doing pretty well in the matter of new additions to the citizenship directory. In February, I believe, Dr. W. P. Lee, city health officer, reported to the city commission that 12 births had been registered in the city limits. He does not include in his vital statistics report births or deaths that occur outside the limits.

In March a generous start toward a high figure has been made. Dr. Hubert Seale ought to claim a record of some character. Only the other day he assisted three babies into the world in the course of a long morning. The three kept him on the jump from 1:30 a. m. until— But, it is not often that it does so much pouring when it rains.

John Salwaechter is his name. It was S. H. Nance's duty to accompany Mr. Salwaechter about the business district yesterday, introduce him to the business men as the representative of the Texas Good Roads association and help him secure $1 memberships for the association.

The name is pronounced "Salwaechter," and that is simple enough. But Nance always pushed his guest forward and let him take care of the preliminaries. "I can't remember it between stops," said he. Mr. Salwaechter took it good-humoredly. Mr. Salwaechter originated in Illinois, transferred allegiance at various times to other midwestern states and finally the southwest. A hound racing enthusiast, he once presided the national association on that subject and continues a director. He is well-known in a great variety of amateur sports. For several years he was a wholesale flour salesman and has sold his produce to Cisco merchants.

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Marc 8—Politics of course never enters the proceedings of the Texas relief commission. But there was some nifty footwork at the session this week that anywhere else would have gone for very excellent political strategy. If one wonders why a lot of things, including controversies over nepotism and personalities in relief affairs were not taken up there are two things to remember that might shed light: 1. The present set-up is 5 to 4. Member

BROOKS
Carl Estes of Tyler was absent. Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson has a vote only in cases of a tie.

2. The commission and its administrative organization, which originally were loaded down heavily with kinpeople of legislators and state officials, before Westbrook got an efficient working system in operation, is still cleaning house. It hasn't finished the job. It has had some obstruction, and there have been some cases of doubtful wisdom. When the legislative nepotism committee tried to get hold of the board members before the clean-up job was completed, they naturally preferred to postpone the testimony. Actually, someone was on his way to the door when the sudden motion of adjournment was made, and someone outside the door seconded it, while members hastened out of the building.

A comparison of the general state nepotism statute and the nepotism provision of the relief law—rewritten on the new law without a change—throws a sidelight on the hiring of cousins, second cousins, and aunts' half-sisters.

The general law bars employment by the head of a department of anyone related to him within the third degree. The relief commission law prohibits the employment of anyone within the second degree of blood or marriage kinship to any member of the legislature, any member of the relief commission, or the head of any state department.

Any skittish first thought that Jack P. Reed, former assistant relief director, might bring any of the bitterness of the old job over into his service as a member of the commission was quickly dispelled. Reed showed he regarded the relief administration as a lot bigger and more serious matter than that. Fellow members praised his selection because it brought to the commission the most intimate knowledge and experience with the relief work available in Texas; and it brought onto the commission a vigorous, young, broad-shouldered, broad-shouldered Texas who for the past year has been giving his very best to the relief work.

It was a most felicitous selection, and it lifted any suggestion that Mr. Reed's very valuable services had not been properly appreciated.

MAJOR OCKER IS HEARD IN OWN DEFENSE

FORT SAM HOUSTON, March 8—Major Wm. Ocker, accused of making derogatory remarks concerning Lieut. Col. Henry B. Claggett, testified in his own defense today at his trial by court martial.

His testimony was expected to climax the trial on the charges preferred by Claggett, commander of Kelly's field and Ocker's long-time enemy.

In a conversation with Major C. C. Johnston flight surgeon, Ocker charged "collusion" between Claggett and Johnston relative to an examination which resulted in Ocker's grounding for poor vision.

Accomplishments of First Year of "New Deal" Are Reviewed by Speaker Rainey

By HENRY T. RAINEY
Speaker of the House of Representatives
(Written for the United Press.)
(Copyright, 1934, by United Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—It seems proper now to review briefly the vivid legislative history of the first year of the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In the history of legislative bodies in all the centuries nothing occurred that will equal the legislative record of the present congress. The new cabinet was sworn in on March 4. The next day congress was called in special session and a bank holiday was proclaimed. March 9, the extra session of congress convened and in one day passed emergency banking legislation. The economy bill was passed and the bill legalizing beer. It went into effect a minute after midnight of April 6. The banks had commenced to reopen. During the remainder of March stock exchanges reopened; hoarded gold poured back into banks. The federal farm board was abolished and all farm credit agencies were united in one administration. The civilian conservation corps was set up to employ 300,000 idle young men.

Farm Aid
In April gold exports were embargoed. The farm aid bills were passed including amendments granting unprecedented powers to the president in the matter of revaluating the gold dollar, and the gold dollar has since been revalued and stabilized.

The historic conferences with McDonald, Herriot and the heads of many nations with reference to the approaching economic conference occurred in Washington.

In May the farm bill creating the agricultural adjustment administration and carrying $500,000,000 for farm mortgage refinancing was passed.

During this month also the president issued his historic plea to 54 nations, including Russia, for disarmament and for non-aggression pacts. The bill initiating the Tennessee valley development became a law. A bill was enacted providing for the national recovery administration; $3,300,000,000 was authorized for public works. Specific taxes were voted to raise an estimated $700,000,000. The securities bill became a law. The gold clause in federal and private obligations was repealed.

Deposit Insurance
In June the world economic conference convened in London. The deposit insurance guarantee bill became a law and the Home Owners Loan corporation bill providing for home mortgage refinancing to the amount of $2,000,000,000 was passed. On June 16, the special session of congress ended and General Johnson was named chief of the national recovery administration.

In July the Blue Eagle movement was inaugurated.

In August funds were awarded to the navy to start a peace-time building program. The gold embargo order was issued.

In September and October steps were taken to recognize Russia and on Nov. 16, Russia was recognized.

In October the gold-buying program was inaugurated.

ALL PLEASES BY VOTE ON MORATORIUM

GORDON K. SHEARER, Press Staff Correspondent, March 8.—State Senator Small, Amarillo, candidate for governor, had a good break on the moratorium bill.

The highly-controversial measure accomplished the seemingly impossible. They pleased both sides of the issue. It was the only bill which it came before the legislature for final vote. That appears to be the only bill which the legislature will pass despite his opposition.

The moratorium bill was only one of the measures of the special session. The legislature that may have been called on the results of the summary of the political campaigns. Some will be over temporary members candidates.

Davy Crockett Died True Hero at Alamo Says New Biography of Tennessean

DALLAS, March 8.—Davy Crockett, greatest hunter of the old west whose exploits have come down in song and myth, died a true hero at the Alamo with his back to the wall and his famous rifle "Betsy" in action to the end, according to a new biography of the great Texas martyr by Constance Rourke just issued from the press.

Published almost exactly 98 years after Crockett lost his life fighting for Texas independence, this is the first full length biography of the man from Tennessee. It is based on painstaking research in which a great number of Texans and others turned over every available scrap of information to the author.

The route followed by Crockett from Tennessee to Texas at the end of 1835, long clouded in mystery, is satisfactorily cleared up by the biographer. The frontiersman is now seen to have made two entries into Texas only a few weeks apart.

The testimony of Mrs. Caroline Clark, famous pioneer settler and a founder of Clarksville, who met Crockett of this northeast Texas interlude, is one of Miss Rourke's more interesting contributions to early Texas history. The outlines of this incident were furnished by Mrs. Clark's grandson, Judge Pat V. Clark of Clarksville, and the book substantiates incidents long believed between the Red river and Sulphur Fork.

Returning to Fulton, Crockett proceeded down the Red river to Natchitoches and by January 5, 1836, had arrived at Nacogdoches where he swore allegiance to the republican government of Texas. It was on this river journey that he met the Bee Hunter, Thimbleleg, the Indian and the Pirate, four romantic figures who are said to have accompanied him on to San Antonio and died fighting in the Alamo.

Miss Rourke's volume is colorfully written throughout with the tall tales and legends about Crockett which grew up even during his lifetime, although she carefully underlines what is legend and what is historical fact. Her self related to a famous Tennessee family, Miss Rourke vividly reproduces the feeling, language and the life of frontier days in Tennessee, Arkansas, and Texas more than a century ago.

Written simply enough to hold the interest of a child, the story of the man who wrote "I leave this rule for others when I'm dead; Be sure you're right, then go ahead," also will appeal equally to adults who like accuracy, perspective, humor and good writing.

A resident of Grand Rapids, Mich., Miss Rourke is a national authority on folklore. Her previous books include "Trumpets of Jubilee," "Troupers of the Gold Coast, and "American Humor."

30-HOUR WEEK BILL FAVORED BY HOUSE BODY

WASHINGTON, D. C. March 8.—A bill for a compulsory, universal 30-hour work week was reported favorably by the house labor committee today as President Roosevelt's program for voluntary reduction of hours was assailed by the NRA code conference.

Rep. Wm. Connery, Jr., Dem.-Mass., fathered the bill which was given unanimous support by the committee. It would prohibit any decrease in wages.

Observers scouted the bill's prospect of passage, but some believed the threat of the measure might make industry more agreeable to a reduction of hours and increase of hourly wages under codes.

The bill establishes a 30-hour week for all industry but provides for exempting in emergency cases. It prohibits a worker's employment on side jobs which would increase his income and also wage decreases from present hour levels.

Two thousand code authority delegates cheered such statements as that of A. P. Haake, Chicago representative of furniture code authority who wanted to know: "What are we going to do for money if we pay the same wage for less work?"

PEOPLE URGED TO CLEAN UP WINTER TRASH

Appealing to the public to greet the warm days of spring with an intensive clean-up to get rid of the winter's accumulation of trash, Dr. W. P. Lee, city health officer, said this week that "it is only through individual responsibility and effort that we can have a clean and neat-appearing city and community."

"Flies and mosquitoes, said he, are the worst enemies to health, therefore, be sure that all garbage cans are kept covered, no water allowed to remain in old tin cans or stagnant pools, and that all screens are kept in shape to keep out both flies and mosquitoes.

"One of the greatest, as well as one of the most neglected problems we find in the rural districts is the unsanitary toilet. Through aid of the sanitary department of the C. W. A., sanitary pit type privies and septic tanks approved by the state of Texas may also be sanitized, this will be a great improvement to rural sections and to towns that do not have city water and sewerage. It is urged that everyone in this community desiring one of these pit privies or septic tanks, communicate with us through our surveyors, who are making a health survey of the community, or to the sanitary office in the C. W. A. building, room 210, Cisco, Texas."

FARM PROGRAM IN TEXAS HAS 50-50 SUCCESS

By THOMAS O. HURST
United Press Staff Correspondent
DALLAS, March 8.—Texas' farm program, under the first year of the Roosevelt administration, has been approximately 50 per cent successful.

The conclusion was reached after a state-wide survey by United Press of the stated objective of the program to raise major products prices to 1910-14 levels.

With a close comparison of current prices in farm commodities to those of a year ago, it would be perfectly justifiable to say that the Texas farm program was more than 50 per cent successful.

Price gains in the major products have been between 50 and 60 per cent of the total rise sought when President Roosevelt took office last March 4, the survey indicated.

Obviously, some price gains have been due to factors other than the Roosevelt farm program, but success of the production control plans, on the other hand, possible has been greater than that of the usual price scheme.

Objectives

Objectives of the Roosevelt farm prices program as analyzed in March, 1933, at the time of official announcement, were:

To raise cotton prices 7 cents a pound from a level at that time of 5.5 cents a pound to the prewar level of 12.4 cents.

To raise corn prices 40 cents a bushel from 25 cents to the prewar level of 6.2 cents a bushel.

To raise wheat prices 56 cents a pound, doubling its then level.

Add $4.00 per hundredweight for hogs to a figure of $3.22.

Two dollars per hundredweight to be added to lambs at $4, and $1.80 per hundredweight to be added to the prevailing price of cattle, $3.42, to bring it to the prewar level of $5.22.

Varying Results

Varying results have been achieved with the price program on these eight major farm products. The average gain on them all throughout the state has been between 50 and 60 per cent of the goal set by the administration.

It is difficult to measure the exact percentage of achievement of the farm price program with a yardstick, but a glance at market prices on specific dates nearly a year ago gives a fairly accurate evaluating method to determine the success of the program.

Actual price gains on these products from February 15, 1933, to February 15, 1934, has been approximately 6 cents a pound on cotton, 24 cents a bushel on corn, 38 cents a bushel on wheat, 16 cents a pound on wool, 2 cents a pound on butter, and $1.35 a hundredweight on lambs; the survey revealed.

The gains practically little or no gain on cattle and hogs.

Percentage gain with regard to the price rise necessary to restore February, 1933, prices to 1910-14 levels, has been 85 per cent on cotton, 60 per cent on corn, 68 per cent on wheat, 177 per cent on wool, 25 per cent on butter, and 62 per cent on lambs.

There was no percentage gain available for cattle and hogs for reasons previously mentioned.

Wool prices responded to the administration's farm program most favorably because of the increase demands from eastern textile mills. Cotton followed, but was lacking somewhat by a small margin.

Further price gains have been noted since February 15.

Federal benefit payments have increased revenues from many of the farm products, mainly cotton and wheat, more than the price survey indicated.

Faith in the buying power of the aforementioned products has been less than 60 per cent. This was due to the cost of things farmers buy averaging 116 per cent of the prewar cost in mid-February as against 104 per cent a year ago, according to the survey.

At this rate the cost averages 10 per cent more.

In summary, from figures obtained:

Mrs. Tucher's Recipe of the Week

MAYONNAISE
Break an egg into a bowl; add a lump of Mrs. Tucher's Shortening and swirls—about 30 turns of the egg-beater—until thoroughly mixed. Add a lump of Mrs. Tucher's at a time until 2 cups have been used, beating thoroughly each time. Add seasoning after Mayonnaise is made. Mix well 1/2 tsp. salt; 2 cups sugar; 1 tsp. mustard; and a generous pinch of paprika or red pepper. Add 2 Tbsp. lemon juice or vinegar; and stir until salt and sugar are dissolved; then pour into Mayonnaise and beat well.

If you like a sweet Salad Dressing, use one-half seasoning given above; or add any amount or kind of seasoning you prefer. Mrs. Tucher's Shortening creams so easily, and this makes such an inexpensive Salad Dressing.

ONLY THE CENTER LEAVES FOR Luckie.

1 Luckies do not use the top leaves... because top leaves are under-developed... they are not ripe... They would give a harsh smoke.

2 Luckies use only the center leaves... of the finest tobacco plants... because the center leaves are the mildest, tenderest, smoothest.

3 Luckies do not use the bottom leaves, because bottom leaves are inferior in quality. They grow close to the ground, and are tough, coarse and always sandy.

Lucky Strike presents the Metropolitan Opera Company

Saturday at 1:50 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, over Red and Blue Networks of NBC. Lucky Strike will broadcast the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York in the complete Opera, "Lucia di Lammermoor."

This picture tells better than words the merit of your Lucky Strike. Luckies use only the center leaves. Not the top leaves, because those are under-developed—not ripe. Not the bottom leaves, because those are inferior in quality—they grow close to the ground and are tough, coarse and always sandy. The center leaves are the mildest leaves, the finest in quality. These center leaves are cut into long even strands and are fully packed into each and every Lucky—giving you a cigarette that is always round, firm, completely filled—no loose ends. Is it any wonder that Luckies are so truly mild and smooth? And in addition, you know, "It's toasted"—for throat protection, for finer taste.

Jim Bird Explains Proper Processes In Tanning Both Sheep and Beef Hides

By J. M. (JIM) BIRD
Cisco Vocational Instructor

The following recipes for tanning hides may be of interest to many readers of the American and Roundup:

Tanning Beef Hide With the Hair on: If the hide has been salted, or partially cured, it should be soaked in cold water until it is soft and free from blood. Trim off all ragged ends, including the legs, tail, and head. Remove all surplus flesh and fat by scraping or shaving with a dull knife, drawing knife, or hoe. This can be done by laying the hide on a smooth surface. Be careful not to injure the dermis or true skin. Wash and clean the hide with soap and soft water. After carefully rinsing the hide, it is ready for the tanning liquor which may be made up as follows:

- 1 gal. sour buttermilk.
- 1 gal. soft water.
- 8 oz. commercial sulphuric acid.
- 2 oz. saltpeter.
- 1 oz. borax.
- 2 lbs. salt.

Dissolve salt, saltpeter, and borax in water; add buttermilk and lastly, the acid; add acid slowly and stir constantly. Place the hide in a clean barrel or a twenty gallon jar and cover with the above solution. This will be sufficient for a small calf skin. About ten gallons of the mixture will be required for the ordinary fifty-pound beef hide. This tanning liquor may be kept for two to three months and may be used for several hides. Stir every hour for about 8 to 10 hours and then allow the hide to remain in the solution about 48 hours. Remove the hide and wash thoroughly and hang up to dry. Work and stretch the hide while drying. This is very important. The more the hide is worked and stretched, the better. If not sufficiently worked, the hide will become harsh and hard. The working may be accomplished by drawing the hide back and forth across a post or beam until dry and flexible. If a smooth surface is desired, the flesh side may be worked down with sandpaper and pumice stone.

Tanning Sheep Pelt: The following formula may be used for ordinary sheep pelts. It is not advisable to try to tan a pelt with a fleece more than 2 inches long. Trim off head and worthless parts; then scrape the flesh side with a dull knife to remove any fat or flesh. Great care must be taken not to injure the skin. Sheep pelts are very thin and may easily be torn. The inner layer, which forms the soft leather, may be rubbed off without difficulty. Wash out all blood and foreign material with cold soft water. Warm water will injure the hide and cause the wool to slip. Lay the pelt on a flat, dry surface with the flesh side up and apply the following mixture: 5 lbs. fine salt mixed with 1 lb. pulverized alum. Be sure to rub the mixture into every inch of the surface. Fold with the flesh side together and keep in a cool place for two weeks. Wash thoroughly with wool soap and soft water until wool is clean and white. Rinse well and stretch on a frame or old door and work with your hands or a blunt instrument while drying. The working will soften the skin. Finish dressing the skin with fine sandpaper or pumice stone.

BALANCE AIM OF NRA, FDR TELLS GROUPS

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—In fighting words, President Roosevelt Monday proclaimed the necessity of the national recovery administration for economic rehabilitation and at the same time flouted fears that it is the forerunner of fascism or communism.

In effect, the president urged the people of the United States to take direct action against those who refuse to fly the Blue Eagle taintment to boycotting "those who think only of selfish gain."

Without mentioning the case of the Weirton Steel company which has attracted wide attention, Mr. Roosevelt reiterated the right of employees to organize and to choose their representatives by "free choice."

"Those two words," the president said, "mean just what they say."

The president's address was delivered to more than 4,000 gathered at the general conference of NRA code authorities and trade association codes committee. It was his reply to criticism offered at the suggestion of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator.

AIRPORT PLOT TITLE CLEARED WITH RELEASE

Mayor J. T. Berry this week said that the city has obtained release of an oil and gas lease held by the Lone Star Gas company, et al, on the municipal airport property, thus opening the way to prosecute the city's application for government reconstruction of the port.

Application for such reconstruction was made several months ago and the project conditionally approved by an engineer for the government. It was stipulated that the city's title to the property must be absolutely clear and that a mineral lease constituted a defect.

Before the government would proceed further the city was informed, a release of the oil and gas lease, which expires next month, would have to be obtained. It was indicated that the government officials looked favorably upon the Cisco project otherwise.

Lady Benefited By Cardui

"I was weak, discouraged, wasn't able to do anything for about seven months," writes Mrs. Sallie Bryson, of Kennedale, Texas. "An old lady friend suggested I give Cardui a trial. After I had taken half a bottle of Cardui, I was better and stronger. By the time I had taken three bottles, I was up, able to do my work and have gained in weight. Sometimes in the spring, if I feel nervous or a little run-down, I take a couple of bottles of Cardui and get all right. I feel I owe my good health to the use of Cardui."

ran the warning that industry must follow through with the government's idea of increased wages for the stimulation of purchases.

Mr. Roosevelt in effect, called for a boycott against those who refuse to fly the Blue Eagle. He said common sense required the consuming public to compel the selfish few to play the game.

He promised protection for small business and demanded that the letter and spirit of the law be imposed to prevent actions which:

- 1.—Are nearly monopolistic;
- 2.—Wink at unfair trade practices;
- 3.—Deny labor free choice of representatives;
- 4.—Are hostile to the public.

Warning to Chislers

Mr. Roosevelt's words were construed as a last warning to so-called chislers.

"I am always a little amused and perhaps at times a little saddened—and I think the American people feel the same way—by those few writers and speakers who proclaim fearfully either that we are now committed to communism and collectivism or that we have adopted fascism and a dictatorship.

"The real truth of the matter is that for a number of years in our country the machinery of democracy has failed to function.

"What we seek is balance in our economic system—balance between agriculture and industry and balance between the wage earner, the employer and the consumer."

In conclusion, the president gave a word of warning, observing significantly:

"We cannot tolerate abuses of economic power—abuses against labor, abuses against employers, or abuses against the consuming public, whether they persist either with the aid of codes or despite their prohibitions."

NRA OR DICTATOR
SAYS RICHBERG

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—Donald Richberg, general counsel of the NRA, Monday told the general conference of code authorities and trade association representatives that the alternative to the NRA was dictatorship.

He declared that planned economy had long been an integral part of American life "until the ruinous period that followed the calamity of a World war."

NEICE OF CISCO MAN MARRIES IN ARKANSAS

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cliett have received an announcement of the marriage of Mr. Cliett's neice, Miss Gloria Cliett, who was recently married in El Dorado, Arkansas. The bride is well known in Cisco, having spent several weeks during the summer of 1932 with her uncle and aunt here. During her stay here she was honored with a number of parties. Following is a part of the account of the wedding, taken from the El Dorado paper:

The home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dickson, 819 North Jackson avenue, was the scene of a lovely early spring wedding Sunday afternoon when Miss Gloria Jean Cliett became the bride of Andrew Carnegie Walker. An assemblage of approximately 75 intimate friends of the couple witnessed the ceremony performed by Dr. Dickson.

As guests gathered Mrs. Carl E. Foxler, pianist, and Martin Bernstein, violinist, played "Because" and "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms." During the service they played softly "Love's Old Sweet Song."

Just at the stroke of five, the musicians sounded the opening chords of Mendelssohn's Wedding March and Miss Cliett walked down the stairs, across the living room to the double doors of the sun-parlor, where she met Mr. Walker and continued with him to the bowler of ferns, palms, tall baskets of white snapdragons and graduated standards of seven-branched candlelars, bearing white Cathedral tapers, where they exchanged their vows. Soft light from counties candles in single, double and triple holders cast a glow over the living room and sun-parlor and played softly on handsome vases of acacia, rosea and snapdragons.

After the informal reception following the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Walker left by motor for a honeymoon of several days in Hot Springs. Upon their return they will be at home in the El Dorado apartments. Mrs. Walker, a native of Fort Smith and the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cliett, is an un-
