AR CLOUDS IN PACIFIC CLEAR AS FLEET SAILS

CARROLL KENWORTHY, Staff Correspondent, WASHINGTON, D. C., April 7.—As the combined United States fleet, sailing off California, gathered to return to the Atlantic after absence of more than two years, the first time since the outbreak of hostilities in Manchuria in the vista of tranquility in the Pacific basin extended almost as far as the ocean itself. This left Europe the only immediate potential source of new war danger in the world prospect, according to high circles here.

Minor causes of irritation relating between Japan and the United States do not alter the general view almost universally expressed in high quarters that no serious trouble may be expected in the near future.

Even as regards central Europe, the racial and political elements are more complicated. Official diplomats here have an increasing confidence that statements of the influential capitals will maintain a delicate balance until conditions improve basically.

The fundamental element of improvement considered in the new outlook is the promise of better economic conditions, signs of which have been noted intermittently in various countries and were more prevalent in the United States in recent weeks than for nearly a year.

The departure of the United States grand fleet from the Pacific is the latest in a series of six or more developments helping to tranquilize that area. The grand fleet, ordinarily stationed in the Pacific, and the scouting fleet, ordinarily stationed in the Atlantic, has been joined in the California-Hawaii vicinity early in 1932, when joint maneuvers were held there. Originally scheduled to separate, the fleet has been kept together in this area all during the delicate far Eastern situation since the Manchuria and Shanghai affairs.

Other developments with similar effects recently have been:

1. General quieting of the war talk in Moscow and Tokio, accompanied by signs that the statements of both nations wish to avoid conflict now.
2. The exchange of special good will messages between Japanese Foreign Minister Hirota and United States Secretary of State Hull, in which each expressed belief that "there are no questions between our two countries, which if they be viewed in proper perspective in both countries, can with any warrant be regarded as not readily susceptible to adjustment by pacific processes";
3. Passage of the month of March, in which military experts believed it most likely an aggressive nation would start military action; Japan's apparent preoccupation with the passage of a navy and political potentialities of Manchukuo and strengthening its ties with China proper, possibly with the idea of deriving further strength from both;
- 5.—President Roosevelt's declaration that the passage of a navy construction bill by congress did not mean the ships would be built, as the money had yet to be appropriated, and his added comment of hope that further naval limitations would occur during the 1935 conference;
6. Tokio's efforts to control and restrict publication of war inflammatory articles in the press and the general subsidence of war propaganda in the United States following passage of the fleet construction bill.

Candidate and Son

JAMES V. ALLRED AND JIMMY, JR.

JAMES V. ALLRED, CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR, IS SCION OF PIONEERS

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, April 7.—James V. Allred, who has offered to the people of Texas his services as governor, is a product of the pioneer spirit which under bleak poverty and arduous toil developed the state and pushed back its frontiers.

Allred's first job was that of a dishwasher, at 25 cents a day. He shined shoes in a barber shop, and sold magazines. He served in the United States navy, while Pres. Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy. He worked in a law office as stenographer, and studied law. Then he practiced law, became a public prosecutor. On his second race, he was elected attorney-general.

Allred was born in the "hell-roaring" railroad town of Bowie, Montague county, where he will go back Monday to open his campaign for governor. After he grew up, he was located in Wichita Falls until he came to Austin as attorney-general.

Both Allred's grandfathers wore the uniform of the Southern Confederacy. His father, Renne Allred was born in Grayson county, and grew up there, marrying Mary Henson, whose mother was of the Burleson family. Renne Allred and his bride moved out by prairie schooner to Childress county, and there dug them a sod house on the prairie. Later they started back to Grayson county, but the senior Allred found work at Bowie. Later he became a truck farmer, and bought a wagon yard on "Smoky Row." Mr. and Mrs. Allred still live there, and will be in the audience when their son makes his first speech in his race for governor.

Barrow Denies--

Mr. Boyd positively identified Barrow and Bonnie Parker, sometimes called "Suicide Sal," his cigar-smoking sweetheart who handles a pistol with either hand. He said the third man, tall and sandy-haired, answered the description of Hamilton, Barrow's lieutenant liberated from a Texas prison camp a few months ago by a machine-gunner thought to be Barrow.

Both Barrow and Hamilton are convicted murderers and Hamilton was under sentences in Texas totaling more than 200 years.

Federal officers joined the search yesterday under orders from Attorney-General Cummings for all justice department agents to extend every co-operation and all facilities at their command to apprehend the desperadoes.

RANGER WARNS MOTORISTS TO STOP

DALLAS, April 7.—Ranger Capt. D. E. Hamer today issued a warning to automobile drivers to stop on signal on the highways if they wished to avoid trouble while hundreds of officers are hunting for Clyde Barrow, Raymond Hamilton and Bonnie Parker.

"These officers have been given orders to shoot to kill and if they sign an automobile driver to stop and he fails to stop they are likely to shoot and ask questions later," Hamer said.

"Of course, I know this may be an aid to hijackers, but it's better for a person to be a victim of a hijacker than get shot."

MRS. HARRISON RE-AFFIRMS HER OFFICE PLEDGE

To the Citizens and Voters of Eastland County:

In asking for re-election to the office of county treasurer I feel that I need no introduction to you. You know me and my official record is open for your inspection. I have lived in this county practically all of my life and have always tried to do my part in every movement made to better our moral condition and raise the standard of living.

For many years I have had to depend upon my own efforts for a living. You have aided me when I was greatly in need of your help, which I appreciate more than I can express in words.

When you first elected me to this office I promised to render you honest, efficient and cheerful service; and you know whether or not I have fulfilled that promise. With the experience I have had in handling the business of the office, I feel that I can give you still better service and I now reaffirm my former promise to give you honest, efficient and cheerful service if you re-elect me.

Your influence during the campaign and your vote on the day of the election will be highly appreciated.

Very sincerely yours,
MRS. MAY HARRISON

Don't put yesterday's range in tomorrow's house

When you select your new range, don't judge by old-fashioned standards. See an Electric Range before you buy. Progress has been made in kitchen ranges as well as in motor cars. Watch your step. Before you decide on any range learn how the speed, economy and automatic operation of electric ranges release your time from cooking for other things.

This is the "Electrical Age." This Range will be another step to your All Electric Kitchen.

Call us for an individual investigation of your use of electric service to determine the cost of cooking by electricity in your home. You may be surprised to know that there are many cases where electric cooking actually decreases the total of electric and fuel bills.

TAXING FOREIGN OILS

Bills levying a tax of 10 cents per pound upon all margarine containing fats and oils not produced within the borders of continental United States are in the hoppers of the house and senate. These bills are aimed at giving relief to large agricultural groups partly dependent upon produce in competition with the great quantity of foreign oil which is imported duty free.

HUGHES' SUGGESTION ECHOED

Maury Hughes' suggestion that the Texas Ranger force be modernized, enlarged and freed from political control to combat the crime wave that is now sweeping Texas in the principal forms of murders and bank robberies—a suggestion which parallels the Daily News' editorial of a few days ago—is echoed in much serious discussion of this issue over the state.

In a more hysterical vein, Rep. Graves, of Georgetown, suggests an "army" of highway officers continually cruising the pavements in small, swift cars, equipped with machine guns to run down criminals with their own weapons.

BUSINESS FACES FUTURE WITH CONFIDENCE

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, in his remarks to the stockholders at the annual meeting held in the city of Hoboken, N. J., declared: "In contrast with the uncertainties of a year ago we have every reason to believe we have passed through the most difficult period of our activities and we now face the future with confidence and assurance."

Col. Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the R. F. C., is as optimistic as the director of a Sunday school picnic in Maytime. In a very interesting statement the Texan "thought the Reconstruction corporation could finish the year without going to the treasury for more money."

Heads of great industrial corporations have caught the Taylor spirit. The spokesman for United States steel in his annual report passed this ray of hope along the line: "Last year we had turned the corner and thought we could see ahead immediate signs of revival. Today we know we can."

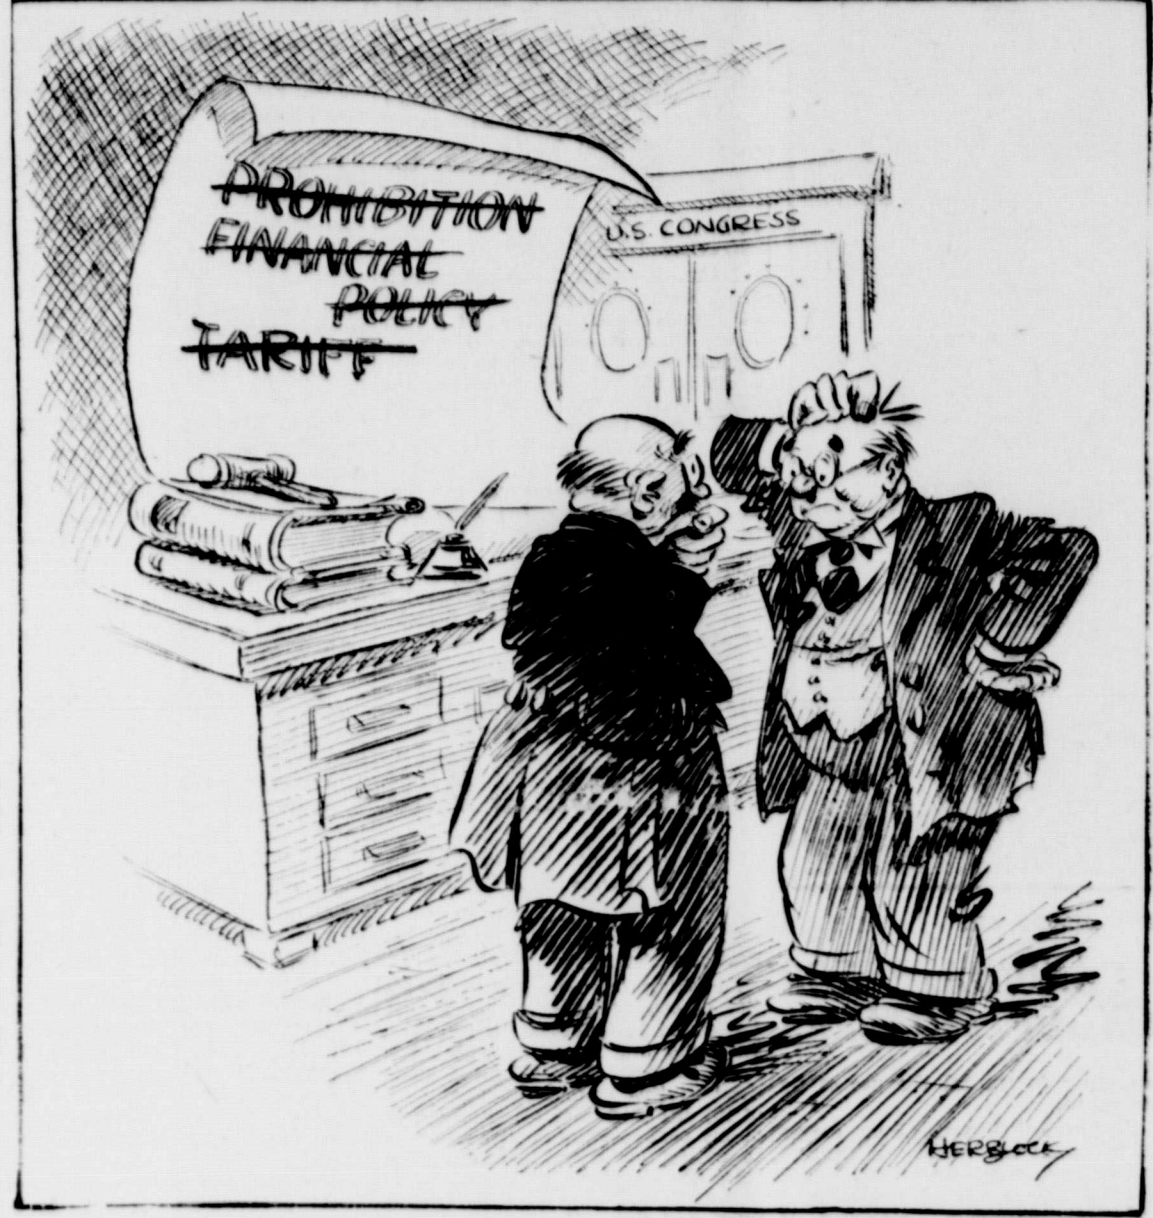

Samuel M. Vauclain, chairman of the Baldwin Locomotive works, made this contribution to prosperity literature: "During the next year the nation will see a veritable cyclone of business." Charles M. Schwab of Bethlehem Steel: "Business is better and there are indications of still better business."

HIKE IN STEEL PRICES

Advance in steel prices following the 10 per cent increase in wages by the steel makers has been announced. A new price schedule has been filed with the American Iron and Steel institute. Advances of $5 to $6 a ton are shown in the new schedule for steel strip and sheets.

Look at the big picture today and then make a comparison with the faded economic photo of a year ago. There is a lot of life in the old land yet. There is a lot of courage. There is a lot of sanity. The bill of rights has more virility than ever before and the firing line is crowded with the marchers who have the same old reverence for their flag and the same faith in the institutions of democracy passed on by Thomas Jefferson and all the immortals who founded a democratic form of government to be upheld and carried on down through the ages to come.

"Now What Are We Going to Argue About?"

"New Deal" Demanded in Texas Law Enforcement

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Col. Jack Hays and his Texas rangers away back in the early ages of Texas were the dashing soldiers of the saddle whose deeds of valor will live while the printed word survives. They were the armed guardians, the rough riders of the Rio Grande. They fought under the stars of Mexico in the wars of old.

AN ISSUE FOR TODAY

It is different now. Outlaws are well organized. Outlaws have their machine guns and high powered rifles and automatics. Outlaws have their co-conspirators or sympathizers everywhere. They have many brainy advisors in their ranks. They know the penalty of being captured. They know that it is life imprisonment or death in the electric chair.

Texas of today and the Texas of tomorrow.

Now the issue it—shall the law reign triumphant, shall life and property be protected, shall the 99 per cent who believe in the majesty of law and its enforcement be upheld or shall bandits of the period ride roughshod over organized society and the courts and all agents of justice from the Gulf of Mexico to the foothills of the Rocky mountains. A recent hideous killing has led to the offering of rewards to bring the perpetrators in "dead or alive." Well, there is a way to go about it—that is, to order a new deal for law enforcement and to give ample protection and modern weapons and high powered cars to the agents of the law, under the skies of Texas.

MAURY HUGHES ADVANCES DEFENSE PROGRAM

Maury Hughes is a native son of Texas. He is an American legionnaire. He has served as a district attorney. He is a candidate for high office. New York has an organization of state police. Michigan has an organization of state police. Massachusetts has an organization of state police. Many other states are organizing state police forces. In the important commonwealths named the practical politicians are forced to keep their hands off. These state troopers are trained officers. They are selected for fitness for the job. They are well paid. Their equipment is up to date. They are given high powered cars. They are directed by a state commander to all intents and purposes the 1934 state police is a military army from top to bottom. Hughes has issued a statement to the people of Texas. He is for the reorganization of law enforcement agencies that is, he favors a state police organized along the lines of New York and Michigan agencies established to enforce respect for law and order.

OUTLAWS IN THE SADDLE

This is the Hughes program as outlined by the former chairman of the state democratic committee: "The outlaw is in the saddle in Texas today and our peace officers are wholly unable to cope with the situation. The remedy is an efficient state police force. Our ranger force has been destroyed by politics. As presently constituted it is a waste of $100,000 a year of the taxpayers' money." He suggested that the state ranger force and the highway patrol be combined into a state police force and placed under competent command, "equipped with every modern weapon and provided with modern facilities for detection and apprehension of criminals." His argument for a radical change: "When police officers, constables, sheriffs rangers and special rangers are all working under separate command and oftentimes pulling in opposite directions, the fleeing killer has no fear of apprehension." Sound logic to say the least.

There are six outstanding entrants who will submit their cause and candidacy for the office of governor to the democratic voters of Texas in the July primary. All six could face the issue of the hour—shall the law be uppermost in Texas or the lawless permitted to ride the people of Texas now and plunder and kill with all the ferocity of wild Apaches in days of old in the vast southwestern territory? There is no middle ground to take. It is the law uppermost, the law vindicated or ruffianism triumphant in the Southwest.

CRIMINAL PROCEDURE REFORM NEEDED

Atty-Gen. Homer Cummings has submitted a plan of procedure to the congress. He has asked the national lawmakers to enact a law making it a felony to flee across a state line from the commission of a crime. It is the contention of Hughes that when things are accomplished "judicial reform must follow here in Texas." In other words our criminal procedure must be reformed and overhauled by the senators and representatives to be nominated and then elected by the qualified voters of Texas.

Oscar B. Colquitt was governor four years. In a message to the legislature he declared that "the state ranger service had outlived its usefulness." He demanded a reorganization along modern lines. His lawmakers were ultra-pros. They ignored his recommendation. Now the demand is for a state police organized along military lines as in other commonwealths and the consolidation of the rangers and highway patrol and all other local agencies of government. Should this program be carried out in the future then there should be legislation to compel practical politicians to hands off this state-wide army of protectors of the lives and the property of the people.

Earth Crust May Be Cushioned on Oil

TULSA Okla., April 7. — A pool of oil may extend, at varying depths, under the earth's entire crust, according to oil men who are spending millions in geophysical exploration from coast to coast and the Canadian border to the gulf.

Explaining their probing of the earth in the face of overproduction of oil, the major companies, which have increased their holdings hundreds of thousands of acres, say that improved business conditions and creation of leisure time through shorter work week is expected to increase oil consumption.

At the eighth International Petroleum Exposition and Congress, to be held here May 12 to 19, new inventions, improved equipment and scientific and technical methods developed in the past three years will be exhibited. Each new device has been perfected to aid the search for new supplies of "black gold." More than $10,000,000 worth of such machinery will be on display, according to W. G. Skelly, head of the exposition.

Skelly pointed out that when the Drake well was first drilled in 1859 near Titusville, Pa., oil was found at 70 feet. Then, he said, no one dreamed the West would sink holes more than a half-mile deep to discover new supplies. Many wells are more than a mile deep, he pointed out, and explorations are now reaching two miles. New wells at three or four miles are not wild prediction, operators say.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

BEGIN HERE TODAY PABLITO, a handsome youth, becomes a fugitive when he flees from Key West to Havana with BEAU and LOTTIE, two thieves. Pablito has been accused of a murder he did not commit. MARCIA BREADAWAY, socially prominent, could prove he is innocent but fears scandal. Pablito is in love with ESTELLE FIELD, a beautiful girl. JIM FIELD, in Havana, under the name "Juanito," he becomes celebrated as a boxer and then Beau opens a gymnasium. SIR ALBERT, a titled Englishman and Pablito's father, is searching for his son, employing BILLINGS, New York detective. Three years pass and then Pablito sees Estelle again. They admit their love for each other near a secret meeting. Billings, in Havana, suspects Pablito may be the youth he is seeking and calls Sir Albert. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIII his boats, but he had no intention of mentioning the fact. He had won heavily on Juanito. "Ted Jeffries was no good anyway," Field thought as he rode home through the darkness, the scents and moving air that make a moonless Cuban night. No, he would not give Pablito away. But before the passage of an hour he had put a codicil to this decision. Carlito was in the hall with a letter in his hand as Field entered. Carlito showed his surprise and made the mistake of holding the letter behind him. "What have you there?" Field demanded. "Nothing, Sir."

next time," he prophesied, "next time it will be harder, I'm going to have you understand? And I won't let this! I have other plans for you." HE sat back. "Estelle," he said. "I recognized Juanito last night! She lost even more color. "I'm going to turn him over to the police if you ever see him again. That's all. Otherwise I can go his damned way with any interference from me. Is that clear?" "But he didn't do it, Father. He smiled and raised his eyebrows. "I don't care who he did or not. I said I have plans for you. And I also said if you see him again I'll turn him over to the police who are looking for him. Do you understand me?" "Yes." "Do you agree?" "No." He started, leaning forward. "Why not?" "I love him so!" "Is that all?" "What else?" she questioned a little surprised. He relaxed, leaning once more. "Well," he said slowly, "I can't give him up. I can inform authorities and let justice take its course. That will mean that Juanito will go to prison for life—if he's lucky. Otherwise he'll sleep a few nights in the House and then—" He paused, search his pockets for a cigarette, find it and light a cigarette. "I've always wondered," he said on, "whether the method that is quite merciful. It sometimes takes three turns of the switch button—whatever it is—to get a man. Have a cigaret, child?" "No."

"I'll kill that girl!" "Now don't talk crazy! You got enough to keep you the rest of your days—with what you can pick up easy. You don't wanta go knifing anyone?" "Don't!" "Aw, have some sense!" he advised again, much tried and showing it. "I'll kill that girl!" "Now don't talk crazy! You got enough to keep you the rest of your days—with what you can pick up easy. You don't wanta go knifing anyone?" "Don't!" "Aw, have some sense!" he advised again, much tried and showing it.

"How long has this been going on—and just how far has it gone?" he continued. Estelle did not pretend to misunderstand. Field's keen, sly eyes followed her. He heard her say in the dry, faltering way of those who are badly frightened, "I love him as I never thought I could love anyone—"

MARCIA sat by Estelle's bed. The girl had suddenly become ill when she heard Marcia planned to go to the night at La Miraflores. She had asked Marcia to stay with her. Marcia had stayed, but she had also done some wondering. She knew that Estelle was only pretending to be sick. Estelle had recently shown little desire for Marcia's company. She had been an irreproachable hostess but Marcia had sensed the fact that Estelle did not like her. Well, in time she'd find out what it meant, Marcia decided. Meantime— "Shall I read to you, dear?" she asked. Estelle said that would be very nice. As Marcia hunted for the book Estelle said, "I hate to think of your going Monday—it is Monday, isn't it?" Marcia smiled. Quite obviously the child wanted her out of the way. "I might stop a bit longer," she said with hidden malice, "if someone begged me—very prettily!" She saw Estelle swallow hard at that. "Now what's up?" Marcia asked herself. "What in the world—?"

"Usually at the park and the Cathedral—"

He guffawed. "You'll do better than I." (To Be Continued)

ANNOUNCEMENT TEA FOR EASTLAND BRIDE

The following item taken from the Eastland Telegram will be of interest to the many Cisco friends of this young couple:

The home of Senator and Mrs. W. B. Collier was the scene of a very beautiful affair Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Collier was hostess at an announcement tea honoring Miss Sadie Brewer, whose marriage to Dr. Foe Lovett will take place April 10.

Both the Lovett and Brewer families are pioneer citizens of Eastland, and the young people are popular members of its literary and social circles.

The Collier home was charming with Easter lilies, snapdragons, sweetpeas, and ferns, effecting the color motif of white and silver.

Guests were received at the door by Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin and conducted to the guest room by Mrs. W. H. McDonald.

The receiving line included the hostess, Mrs. W. B. Collier, in pink sheer crepe; the honoree, Miss Brewer in a beautiful gown of white frosted organdy crepe with full at neck; Mrs. Frank Lovett, mother of Dr. Foe Lovett; Mrs. R. C. Grisham of Abilene, sister of hostess, and Mrs. Leslie Gray. Members of the house party were in evening gowns.

Mrs. T. J. Haley invited the guests to the tea room where the table was laid in white Italian cut work cloth, centered with Easter lilies in a silver bowl encircled by six tall white tapers in silver sticks, and spaced with the silver trays of nuts and white mints.

Silver service at either end of the table for coffee and tea, completed the arrangement with Mrs. B. M. Collier, sister-in-law of the hostess, and Mrs. L. E. Catey, sister of Dr. Foe Lovett, presiding.

Mrs. Earl Conner Jr., Miss Dixie Garrett, and Miss Madge Breckford, were in the tea room group.

Individual plate favors were small packages of white sweetpeas, with delicate ferns, tied with silver ribbon, in which a rice paper scroll with United States of America's shaker bouquet was tucked bearing the announcement, "Sadie and Foe, April 10, 1934."

Lovely messages were presented. Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin, Frank Lovett, B. M. Collier, and Miss Brewer, were present.

About 150 guests called during the afternoon.
