TEXAS EXES GATHER TODAY FOR ROUND-UP

AUSTIN April 13 — Ex-students of the University of Texas from all over the state started today on a tour of discovery in which they will "Re-Discover the University" in a visit on the Austin campus for the Fifth Annual Round-Up.

The Round-Up is the joint celebration of the Ex-Students' association, and the Dads and Mothers' association of the university, and consists each year of three days of reunion and entertainment. Headquarters for the celebration this year are the new Texas Union building.

A unique feature of the program will be a football game staged by the university's new head coach Jack Chevigny, between two teams organized from the best material which has been developed in spring training.

The first all-student parade in eight years will follow the game. Each campus organization, fraternity, sorority, dormitory, and board-house will be represented in the parade and prizes will be awarded for the most beautiful, the most comical, the most original, and the best educational entries.

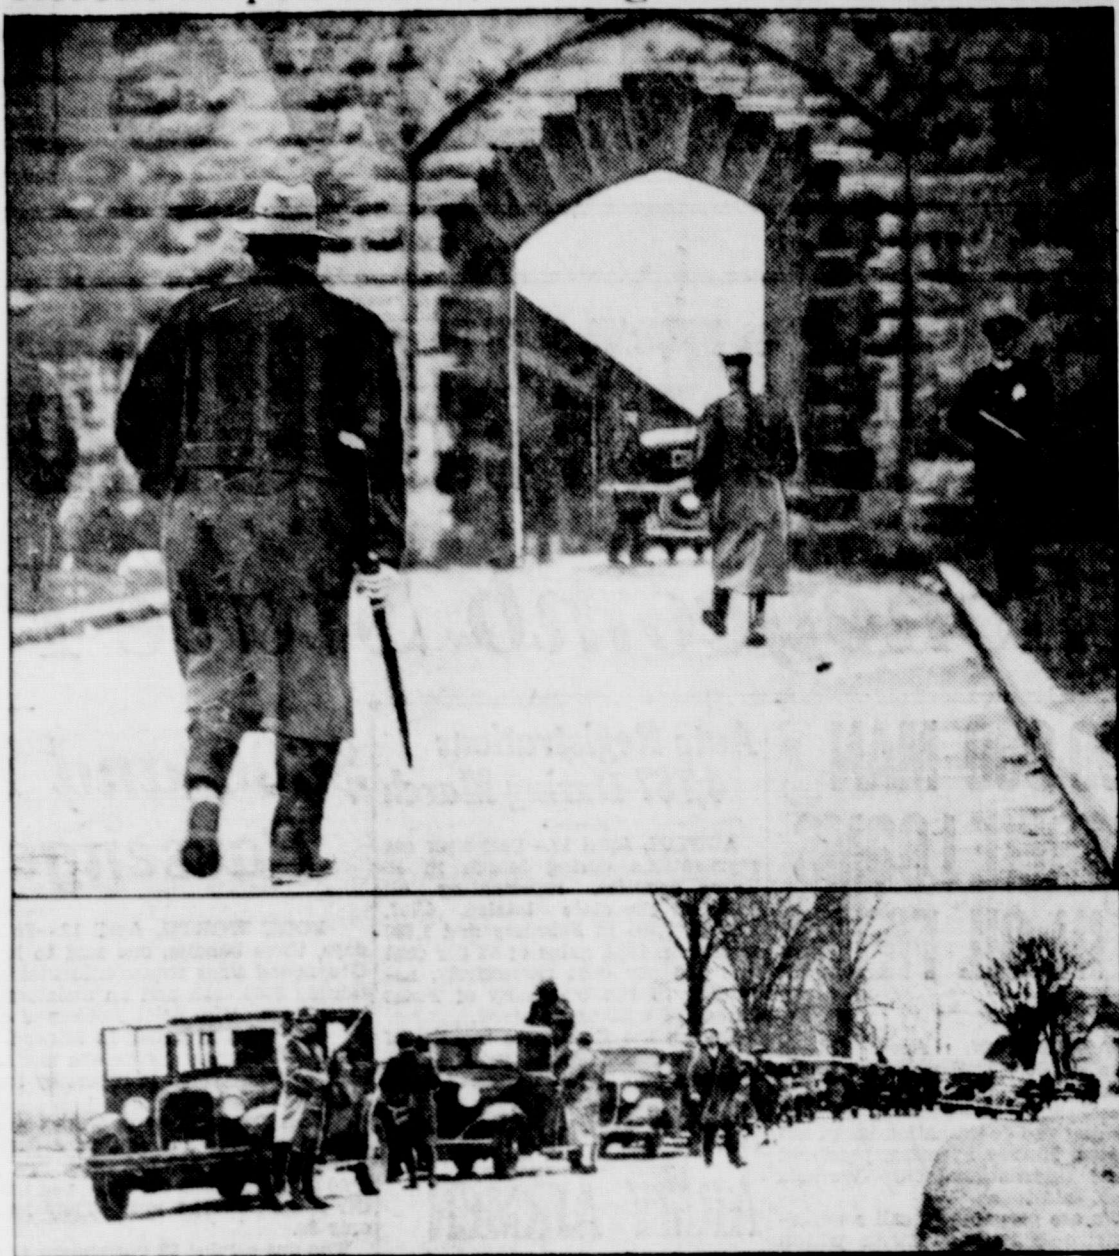

Various exhibits will be on display on the campus throughout the three-day period. Among them will be a collection of paintings by two early Texas artists, Herman Lunkwitz and Richard Petri, the architecture exhibit, the anthropology exhibit, the Wrenn Library of rare books, and the Stark and Aitken collections of library materials. The physics department observatory will be open each evening.

Social climax of the Round-Up will be the Round-Up revue and ball, under the direction of Miss Janet Collett of Austin, at which the "Sweetheart of Texas" will be presented together with her attendants, the visiting Sweethearts from other southwest conference schools, and the 125 candidates for the beauty pages of the Cactus, university yearbook. Bill Hogan's N. B. C. orchestra now playing at the Adolphus hotel in Dallas, will furnish the music for the dance following the presentation and the stage revue.

Saturday's program includes the annual meeting of the Ex-Students' association and the luncheon for ex-students, dads and mothers and friends of the university at which the five faculty members who have been teaching at the university for 40 years or more will be honored.

A track meet with the Longhorns under Coach Clyde Littlefield, competing against Baylor, Southern Methodist university and Abilene Christian college, will be the sports feature of the Saturday program.

Rescue Hope Fades as Dillinger's Pals Enter Prison

Hope of rescue faded for three Dillinger gangsters as they passed under the entrance arch and behind the massive walls of Ohio state prison at Columbus, shown in the upper picture as the last car of the caravan disappeared within. More than 20 cars, bristling with guns, escorted Harry Pierpont and Charles Makler, sentenced to die July 13, and Russell Clark, given a life term, for the murder of Sheriff Jess Sarber, from Lima, O., scene of their conviction. Below is the "moving arsenal."

party in the Union building at which guests of the university will be welcomed by President H. Y. Benedict. This will be preceded by a presentation of "She Stoops to Conquer" by the Curtian club, university dramatic organization in the new Hog Memorial auditorium.

Sunday will be open house day for visitors at campus churches; each church will have special services in their honor. Various campus organizations will hold reunion breakfasts and luncheons for the visitors on Sunday.

FIRST LADY IS SHOWN PUERTO RICAN SCHOOLS

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 13th of a series on Mrs. Roosevelt's inspection tour of Puerto Rico.

By RUBY A. BLACK
United Press Staff Correspondent
MEDIANA BARRIO, P. R., April 13.—This barrio greeted Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt with a great stretch across the road in the midst of the surrounding coco groves.
Mediana never will forget your visit. We hope you will not forget me.

She greeted her, too, with poetry in English, revealing a bookkeeper of the language, and with a "school unit" school which she will forget because of what it shows her of the efforts of the people in this remote district, to improve their own condition. It is one of 33 such schools in Puerto Rico.
Studios Youth
Here she saw boys learning how to grow the food products natural to the island, how to care for food animals, how to distinguish and use the native woods, how to make bags out of coconuts, cane leaves, yagua, that bark-like sheath of new leaves of the coconut, which used for everything from umbrellas to wall-covering, water troughs, kitchen utensils. She saw the girls learning to sew, and making hand-made tablecloths out of flout sacks. The model house here interested

Mrs. Roosevelt greatly. The local men built it, and the boys and girls in school made all the furnishings.
Mrs. Roosevelt was interested in the ever-debated question of whether English should be taught intensively as a subject, or whether the lessons should be taught in English. Now the lessons are supposed to be taught in English from the third grade on. Miss Irene V. Tucker, once a teacher in Puerto Rico, now in charge of the economic survey, told Mrs. Roosevelt she feels that children learn better if they learn in the language of their homes and playgrounds, and that Puerto Ricans would know English, Spanish, and their school subjects better if they were taught in Spanish up to high school.

Tuberculosis Fight
Mrs. Roosevelt saw a Caguas the efforts to prevent tuberculosis. School children, who are unignorantly where there is tuberculosis, are provided a special big room in which they rest on cots periodically. They are fed milk and eggs and cod liver oil, in addition to a well-balanced diet.

In San Juan, Mrs. Roosevelt looked into the work of the School of Tropical Medicine, which is aided by Columbia University, and the beautiful and well-staffed University of Puerto Rico. Medicine and agriculture are especially strong in the university, and its chancellor, Dr. Carlos Chardon, is a specialist in tropical agriculture. Cornell university co-operates with the agriculture school.
Mrs. Roosevelt said she was especially impressed with the tremendous efforts Puerto Rico makes toward education.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

THE flying snake merely makes a flat, wind-resisting surface of its body and glides to a lower level some distance away. The snake lives on lizards, which it finds in the trees, and the gliding ability saves much time in traveling from tree to tree.

TWO SIDES OF AIRMAIL CASE ARE STATED BY U. S. SENATORS

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following, written by Senator Hugo L. Black, leader of the Airmail investigation, presents the democratic answer to the criticism of the administration air mail policy by Senator Warren R. Austin.

By SENATOR HUGO L. BLACK, Chairman, Special Airmail Investigating Committee
(Written for the United Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 13.—The senate, by unanimous vote, created the committee to investigate ocean and airmail contracts.
The unanimous action was evidently the result of a well founded belief in the senate that these subsidies, amounting to many millions of dollars, needed to be exposed to careful scrutiny.

The results of the investigation have proven the senate was right in this unanimous action.
Fraud, crookedness and corruption have been shown to exist, the taxpayers have been plundered by millions of dollars by the manipulation of lobbyists, contractors and government officials.

Lobbyists have been shown to have spent thousands of dollars in securing contracts. Lobbyists have been shown to have supported and maintained stock speculative accounts for the very government employees who aided in bestowing these contracts. Thousands of dollars have gone from the subsidized funds of contractors to employ men who had political influence directly or indirectly, both to pass laws and to secure contracts.

Pioneer flying operators have been forced to sell their business to make way for political favorites. Officers and stockholders of favored companies have grown to be millionaires as the result of the steady stream of government funds diverted by unfair means into their pockets.

"Plain Facts"
The plain facts are that in the very teeth of a law passed to protect that he used this power to procure, in agreement with government officials, met and agreed upon the air mail lines to be awarded to the favored beneficiaries of public money.

These facts have been proven, not by the members of any society, but by the spoken words of the officers of the companies themselves, and by that part of their written statements preserved from their own destruction.

These companies whose contracts were canceled have a statutory right to sue the government in the court of claims. If their contracts were wrongfully canceled they can recover. Their lawyers know they can sue and they have not dared to do it. They evidently prefer to try the case in the newspapers instead of the courts. If not, let them file their suits and the courts will decide the question on the sworn evidence.

The bill sponsored by Senator McKellar and myself will require honest contracts and will give an opportunity to bid to any company that is dissociated with holding companies, subsidiaries associates and affiliates. It will take the air mail business out of the control of bankers and stock jobbers and turn it over to operating companies.

This will give us companies with officials who look out for the safety of planes and air mail traffic rather than officials whose gaze is constantly fastened upon the stock market ticker and stocker jobbing pools.

FANLESS FAN DANCERS
FRESNO, Cal., April 13.—If Emory Ratcliffe, member of Fresno State college's staid and conservative faculty, is any prognosticator, Sally Rand and her fan dancing contemporaries had better look to their laurels. Speaking before a luncheon club here, Ratcliffe said America is rapidly acquiring European tastes with regard to liquor and the theater, and predicted, "It won't be long until we have plenty of fan dancers—without any fans."

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the following dispatch, Senator Warren R. Austin, Vermont, republican, leading critic of administration air mail policy, gives his views on the situation.

By THE HON. WARREN R. AUSTIN, United States Senator, Vermont.
(Written for the United Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 13.—Immediately after the election in November, 1932, those who did not have air mail contracts formed a society for the purpose of securing cancellation of the existing contracts and the opening of them to competitive bidding for the purpose of taking away from those who had contracts and letting to those who did not have contracts.

Propaganda and lobbying by the members of this organization and their attorney resulted in the appointing of a special senate investigating committee, in the enactment of a resolution authorizing the president to cancel contracts upon 60 days' notice, public hearing, and the awarding and payment of damages therefor. It should be noted that these cancellations were not made under this law.

Then began hearings by the special committee. Members of that society participated. A canonization of the operations of this society consisted in the pretense that their objective was to fly the mail for less money than the government was paying. This sham is exposed by pointing out that the postmaster-general has arbitrary power given him in the law to fix the price from time to time as he saw fit. The sincerity of it as a defense by the postmaster general is exposed by the fact that he has used this power only once. On the contrary he had asked congress for an appropriation increased by one million dollars. It is my opinion that the charges of fraud were trumped up as a smoke screen to conceal a real operation under the plot of the society referred to and certain members of the postoffice department.

Contracts Cancelled
On Feb. 9, 1934, all of the contracts were cancelled effective as of February 19.
Then followed the ill-considered use of the army to fly the mail with its ghastly loss of human life.
The president was misled into support of this policy by representations in writing made by the solicitor of the post office department and an attorney of the department of justice. These representations give the false impression that certain contracts were extended in time for six months without authority of law and without revocation of bids. They allege that route certificates were granted without authority of law. A fragment misrepresentation was made that "the entire system of the United Airways was built by the certificate or extension method."

RUPTURE
SHIELD EXPERT HERE
H. M. SHEVNAV, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Connellee Hotel, Eastland, Thursday and Friday only, April 19 and 20, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Mr. Shevnav says: The Zostic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the ruptured artery but increase the circulation, strengthens the weakened parts, thereby closes the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume no matter the size or location. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.
Mr. Shevnav will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit them if desired.
Add. 6742 N. Rockwell St., Chicago. For 15 years' assistance to F. H. Seelye, famous rupture expert of Chicago.—Adv.

The fact is that it was built up by the competitive bid method.
These written representations did not inform the president that the transactions at the "spoils conferences" were done under provisions of the McNary-Watres Act and a declared policy of the government which required such meetings.

Route Warrant Bill
Monday there was introduced a bill by Senators Davis of Pennsylvania and Barbour of New Jersey and myself which would compel the postmaster-general to issue a route warrant to any carrier that held a route certificate which was cancelled unless upon fair trial by a three-judge court the applicant has been found disqualified under Section 3590 of the revised statutes.

This bill, if enacted into law, would restore a great institution. It would end encouragement to industry generally by assuring industry that a contract still has value and a binding force in this country; that the old-fashioned American idea of trial by due process of law is a certain bulwark of our safety from sudden impetuosity of our government, that we really have rights as citizens whether as contractors with the government or as beneficiaries of contracts with the government.
Let this chapter of the airmail tragedy strike down government by men and uphold government by laws.

Mrs. Hugh Roe and her daughter Miss Dorace Roe, drove up to Eastland Saturday to meet Miss Bernice Roe who came home from Abilene to spend the week-end.
Misses Roy Ashburn, Plummer Ashburn Clarence Ragland, I. N. Williams, C. W. Maitly, Fred Weider, Mattie Henry and W. C. Bedford went to Sweetwater Wednesday to attend the meeting of the Sixth District Federation of Women's clubs. Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins of Eastland, is president of the Sixth District Federation and due to her efficient management and planning for the meeting the interest and attendance broke all records of the Federation. At the International Relation Luncheon at the Bluebonnet hotel, the garden they were over 400 women. The luncheon was served in three courses of Mexican dishes and the artists—musicians, singers and readers who entertained during the luncheon wore Mexican costumes. The honor guest at the morning session of the federation, was Mrs. Volney Taylor, of Brownsville, who is president of the State Federation of Women's clubs. Mrs. Taylor has a charming personality and is a gifted speaker and brought a message to her hearers that was well worth traveling many miles to hear. Reports from the clubs and the various departments were read during the day. Mrs. Mattie Henry read the report from the Desdemona "21" Study club and Mrs. W. C. Bedford read her report as chairman of the Penny Art Fund. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bratton and little daughter, Cleve Jean, left Wednesday for Craig City, in the East Texas oil fields, where they will make their home. Mr. Bratton was transferred there by the Stanolind company. Mr. and Mrs. Bratton have lived here since boom days, and have been active workers in the Methodist church and prominent in social and club circles and their hosts of friends regret very much to have them leave our town.

Glen Maltby went to Sweetwater Wednesday to drive one of the cars for the ladies who went to the club Federation meeting.
Mrs. Roy Rushing accompanied by Mrs. J. H. Rushing Sr., drove up to Ranger Wednesday afternoon to do some shopping. Soon after getting there the big rain came and they could hardly cross the street. They came home around by Eastland where they had to wait for the water to run down before they crossed the river.
The city election held last Tuesday resulted in the re-election of A. C. Robert as mayor and W. B. May and R. L. Black as aldermen. These men have with the other members of the city council, served our city efficiently and their re-election shows the confidence the people have in them. The council is composed of A. C. Robert, mayor and W. B. May, R. L. Black, W. H. Davis, L. E. Clark and G. S. Bruce, the latter being secretary.

The election of school trustees was held Saturday and resulted in the election of T. L. Acree, R. A. Brown and D. B. Parks. The school board has had a difficult task this year in managing the finances and collecting taxes in order to keep our school open. So far they have been able to pay the teachers part of their salaries but unless the people respond to their appeals for payment of taxes it is uncertain how long the school can continue. Mr. Acree and Mr. Parks were already members of the board and Mr. Brown had served as a trustee several years ago. Other members of the board are: J. E. Heeter, F. E. Keith, O. A. Kountze and W. E. Barron. All members of the board are working faithfully to keep our school running on a full term but they need the help of every tax payer in the district and it is hoped the people will co-operate with the board.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Ed Parks who was seriously burned by the explosion of her steam pressure cooker about ten days ago is improving and will likely be brought home from the West Texas Clinic hospital at Ranger in a short time.
Whit Richards who was taken to the Blackwell sanitarium at Gorman Wednesday is improving, though still seriously ill. He had a severe attack of appendicitis. His many friends are glad to know that he is considered out of danger.
W. C. Bedford drove up to Ranger Tuesday to take his daughter, Mrs. Betty Vestal who was leaving for California after a visit here with her father and step-mother and a week at Cisco with her aunt, Mrs. D. K. Scott and her friends, Mrs. G. W. Troxel and family. She had expected to leave from Cisco one day last week but the lady with whom she drove from Los Angeles was delayed in Dallas.

RECONDITIONED
PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—The first practical dynamometer, a device for measuring power, has been reconditioned and placed on exhibit at Franklin Institute here. It was designed by William P. Tatham, president of the institute from 1879 to 1885. The device was announced in 1881, when dynamos and electric motors were very new. Because there was no accurate way of measuring their power, there was widespread confusion over whether or not they were practical.

"Delay" Is Dangerous When CONSTIPATED

End stuffy, clogged-up feeling, splitting headache, and other constipation ills with this more complete, more thorough action. Chew delicious Feena-mint, the chewing gum laxative. Feena-mint acts more thoroughly, because chewing distributes the laxative ingredient uniformly throughout the intestines to give a "full," more natural action. Feena-mint never shocks the system nor abuses the bowels. It is gentle safe. Promptly and thoroughly it causes the bowels to empty their waste and poison. It helps rid you of sluggishness and helps make you feel more energetic, and fresh. Delicious Feena-mint contains a laxative ingredient regularly prescribed by physicians. "Delay" is dangerous—chew Feena-mint for constipation. 15c and 25c at druggists everywhere.

OUR INHERITANCE: The Lord knoweth the days of the upright; and their inheritance shall be for ever. — Psalm 37: 18.

THE PRESIDENT'S RETURN

The return of the president to Washington today is greeted by administration forces with much relief. The unusual spectacle of a president leaving the capital on vacation with congress in session and legislation important to his program up for passage brought, among other things, Mr. Roosevelt's first major defeat at the hands of congress. Both houses overrode his veto of the bill restoring veterans' compensation cuts and reductions in the pay of federal employees. When the president is away things do not run as they should. The absence of a controlling hand is nearly always to be seen in the activities of the executive departments and this influence, of lack of it, extends to the congress which without a controlling presence at the White House—or at least the directional effect of a negative policy—is apt to run into a confusion of currents and accomplish little except to provide material for the Congressional Record. The present congress, well ballasted with administration democrats and under the momentum of harmonious speed along the course charted for it, did prove an exception—barring the spectacular fact of its revolt against the Roosevelt veto. On other matters it did very much as the administration wished and thus redeemed somewhat the revolutionary effect of its veto. But the continued absence of the president was growing more and more to be felt in indecision and uncertainty and the inevitable hints of disorganizing conflict. The return of Mr. Roosevelt will no doubt give vigorous impetus to the legislative program and make probable an early adjournment which prospect was beginning to slip from the realm of the possible.

ROOSEVELT MAKES CATTLE BASIC.

President Roosevelt has signed the bill making cattle a basic commodity. A federal program for relief of western livestock men will be worked out at a conference in Chicago April 26. Chester C. Davis, head of the agricultural adjustment administration, will bring together livestock producers and government officials. At this conference it is expected the cattlemen of the country will urge that the quickest relief can be obtained through purchase of diseased cattle to be used for fertilizer. Furthermore the bill signed by the president appropriated $50,000,000 for the purpose and that money does not have to be repaid to the government through a processing tax. A spokesman for the cattlemen said that the industry generally will ask that no general sign up for reducing production be tried at first and that any processing tax which may be levied be postponed until Sept. 1 at the earliest and to spread out over as long a period as possible.

Texas senators were ardent supporters of the livestock relief measure. Texas representatives were in behind the measure. Texas is one of the greatest of meat producing states. It is said that the industry represents an investment of a billion dollars. All this exclusive of the sheep and the goat industry having an investment of many millions—all its own.

McCARL UPHOLDS NRA ORDER

J. R. McCarl, the federal comptroller-general, has been holding down the job for a number of years. He is not subject to removal until his tenure of office expires. He has upheld the validity of an executive order requiring certificate of NRA code compliance for bidders for government contract to make such certificates, which were held not necessary at the time of the recovery administration's clash with Henry Ford. The McCarl ruling was given Postmaster-Gen. James A. Farley regarding a gasoline contract, the lone bidder of which had the certificate in proper shape. McCarl has made clear his attitude on the executive order issued by the president last month providing for certificates of compliance as a prerequisite to bidding. His ruling is "low responsible bid should be considered the one containing or accompanied by the required certificate."

McCarl has said "the last word" for the New Deal administration. Now bidders who do not take kindly to the McCarl attitude are privileged to take their grievances to the supreme court of the United States. Airway officials had the right of appeal to the U. S. court of claims when their contracts were canceled. It is a matter of record that no appeal was taken.

OHIO COAL MINERS GIVEN WAGE HIKE

Fifteen thousand Ohio miners won a 24.2 per cent wage increase in an agreement signed by nine operators and the United Mine Workers of America. Part of the increased wages was made up by shortening the day's work to seven hours. It is said there are 650,000 miners in the coal fields of the United States. Year by year the demand for coal, soft or hard has lessened, and now 300,000 miners would be able to supply the demand of the consumers of America. Petroleum and natural gas have played havoc with the coal industry and will continue to play havoc while the supply of petroleum and natural gas continues to meet the demand of industry and the business houses and homes of America. The crash of 1929 had but little to do with the depression in the demand for coal or its consumption.

CIGARET SMOKERS CONTRIBUTE MILLIONS

During the first three months of 1933 the state of Texas collected $647,308 in cigaret taxes compared to $936,749 this year. According to Comptroller Geo. H. Sheppard, Texas paid close to $20,000,000 annually for their cigarets—the wholesale cost alone being $14,000,000, from which the state derived a tax of $3,480,586 in 1933 with a decided upward swing in 1934. It is the viewpoint of the comptroller that if counterfeiting the cigaret tax stamp could be stopped the tax income would grow even larger. His report shows the increase in nine months under the new stamps was $644,728.

A Big Stick Policy the Entire Country Will Soon Endorse

Oklahoma Woman in Federal Picture

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Woman was given the ballot. She is playing the political game. She recognizes that the ballot is the thing. A proud daughter of Ohio qualified as federal judge just the other day. She was the first woman to be elected to the bench of the federal judiciary. Her name? Florence Allen. Ohio voters gave her a start four years ago by electing her supreme court justice of that commonwealth.

President Roosevelt devalued the gold in the dollar. Now New York lets it be known that Uncle Sam seems to have acquired since devaluation well over $600,000,000 in monetary gold. Moreover the amount of metal imported since the dollar was devalued is continuing and rapidly approaching $700,000,000 which would be more yellow metal than the entire monetary gold reserve of any single country save the United States, France and England or Spain. It appeared that devaluation did not send the country or its people to the demolition bow. Uncle Sam has more gold than ever before. His financial system is based on gold. He appears to have taught old world financiers and statesmen a valuable lesson for the first time in many years.

UNCLE SAM GATHERING IN THE GOLD

Moreover the amount of metal imported since the dollar was devalued is continuing and rapidly approaching $700,000,000 which would be more yellow metal than the entire monetary gold reserve of any single country save the United States, France and England or Spain. PERSONAL HOLDING COMPANIES ON RACK

National lawmakers are tapping "new sources of revenue." The senate approved without debate the Finance committee's proposal to levy high surtaxes on the undistributed adjusted net income of personal holding companies. Under the plan the first $100,000 of such income would be taxed 30 per cent and all over that figure 40 per cent. A reminder that the house bill provided a flat rate of 53 per cent. Sen. Mc-Kellar of Tennessee is an aggressive advocate of the bill. He declared corporations "manipulate their funds and pay huge salaries and bonuses to escape taxation." This is nationwide campaign year. In Texas and all the other commonwealths many candidates for major and minor offices are rousing up and down the highways and the by-ways promising reduced cost of government and a sweeping decrease in taxes should they be called to the public service. Of course, it is the old story of giving John Citizen the air, Taxes, federal and state and county and municipal, are reaching higher levels every year. Now how would it be possible for the campaigners if elected to redeem their pledge made in advance of the primary or the general election to be held in the fall month of the year.

the walling that the Rotarians received. Eighteen to five is a mighty unhappy score to contemplate from the little end. I admit that if I had held the ball a time or two the score would have been nearer even. But we'll pass over that detail.

Today is Friday the Thirteenth in case you folks have neglected to observe and have been careless around ladders and black cats, etc. As a matter of fact I expect it would be safer to stay in the house all day, although I have heard of people who died in the sleep because their hearts stopped or something went wrong with the physiological mechanism. If that should happen today nothing on earth would make a superstitious person believe but what the baleful influence of the calendar had to do with it.

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, April 13—A five-cornered race for congress in the new 19th district has developed, according to information forwarded to Austin by Atty. Charles C. Thompson of Colorado, Texas. The candidates are George Mahon, district attorney, Colorado; Senator Arthur Duncan, Littlefield; Dist. Judge Clark Mullican, Lubbock; Fred Halle, Spur; and Homer Pharr, district judge, Lubbock. Counties of this new district, created when the legislature divided the old Panhandle district, are: Lubbock, Mitchell, Howard, Martin, Andrews, Scurry, Borden, Dawson, Gaines, Haskell, Stone-wall, Kent, Garza, Lynn, Terry, Yoakum, King, Dickens, Crosby, Hockley, Cochran, Floyd, Hale, Lamb and Bailey.

Cong. W. D. McFarlane of Young county is promised strong opposition this year, with several probable candidates before the race is over. George W. Backus is one of those represented by Guinn Williams Decatur.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

BEGIN HERE TODAY
PABITO, a handsome youth became a fugitive when he fled from Key West to Havana with HELE and ESTELLE, two beautiful girls. He had been accused of a murder he did not commit. MARCELA, a girl who had been promised to him, was scandal and remains silent.
Pabito is in love with ESTELLE FIELD, daughter of rich JIM FIELD, in Havana, under the name "Juanita," she is working as a model and he is a circus clown.
Pabito's father begins a search for his son, employing BILL MARS, a New York detective. Billings, convinced Pabito is Sir Andrea's son and innocent of the charge against him, sets to work to locate him.
Pabito again flees, this time to Cuba, where he meets ESTELLE. Months later Pabito reads an unexplained report that ESTELLE is engaged to Havana's richest young man without saying where he is going.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVIII

"What's the matter now?" he asked a little roughly, attempting to find the reason for the sudden change in her eyes.
"Something's always the matter with me," she answered honestly. "You should know that by now Alec. I think I was born on a cloudy night when my star could be seen only dimly and through a haze. I'm always groping, never sure and never quite warm or happy."
"Oh, rot!" he broke out, wearied. "I believe you enjoy these Russian moods. Sometimes — to speak frankly, Estelle—I've felt a good deal of sympathy for your father. You haven't made his life very easy."
Tears brimmed in her eyes at that, although she was now far beyond the stage where tears come easily and can wash away a hurt. She had tried to forget all her father's cruelties, had resolved that as long as she stayed with him it was better to maintain some sort of peace. Her efforts, however, had not accomplished much except to provide an open gate through which his father could pour his disapproval. Trying never seemed to get one much except more hurt. Estelle reflected life was far from the simple thing she had supposed it to be in the old days when she wandered about the garden of the convent school in Paris. There she had dreamed mistily of growing up and falling in love with some fine man, of marrying him and living happily—as in the fairy tales — forever after.

Two years later the engagement of Estelle Field and Alec Davids was announced. "I suppose we might as well try it," Alec, Estelle had finally conceded.
Alec said ironically and with a glint in his eyes that would have told her much had she been wise enough to read it, "I am very eager to try it."
"This last flare of father's has ended the possibility of my staying with him," Estelle confided in an undertone. Alec drew. "I don't blame you. Dancers are such an odd story. It's really unforgivable of him to show such taste!"
She was hurt by that but she was accustomed now to being hurt. Probably, Estelle had decided, no one would ever quite understand her well enough to say the right thing at the right time. And no doubt, as her father said, she was very demanding. "Demand a little more of yourself," Jim Field had advised her again and again, "and less of other people. You'll find the results more satisfactory."
Without doubt, she decided, she was a square peg in a round hole and destined to remain one. She had found no pleasure in her new friends or in sharing their activities. She had only found a little of the forgetfulness she was constantly seeking in a rather feverish and youthful way.

Jim! In spite of the fact that a rotter he has his troubles, a girl having someone around expects you to be a Sir Galahad even at breakfast!
Marcia returned to her home the privilege of eating her bacon in solitude. It was a more than three years since her departure from Cuba on a Florida yacht cruise. Must she stir her more than she cared admit and today she was used to compose before meeting any of her acquaintances.
Music made her dream of much that could never be for her. Sometimes for weeks she was away from any spot where she would hear good music. The hunger for it would assert itself and she would succumb—to be rewarded with enchanting, misty tunes that never failed to mix with them an ache of melancholy and unrest.

Now she was sure about very little. Especially was she uncertain about marrying Alec, yet she knew that she must get away from her father who of late months seemed to be clutching at her desperate, blunt fingers at such joys as he could comprehend.
"DON'T take everything so seriously," Marcia advised Estelle when they met one morning at a musicale. Estelle was looking white, strained and rather tense. "It's really not worth it, you know. Men are men and we can't change them. We can only pretend to be sweetly unaware. But then you've always been an incorrigible idealist just as your mother was. You know what it did to her!"
Estelle agreed to that.
"Play hard, expect nothing and take everything! I've told you that before but you wouldn't listen to me," Marcia went on. "You'll have to do it some day. We all have to. 'I'm beginning to believe you,' Estelle responded. "If that is any satisfaction to you."
"Rather bitter mood you're in today, isn't it?" Marcia drawled. "But never mind! Some day you'll grow up and when you do you'll realize nothing is really important but your own comfort and your bank balance. Then you won't be bitter any longer. You'll find it all rather amusing."
She left Estelle soon afterward, smiling faintly and nodding a goodly, Marcia thought, "Poor

THAT morning throughout the program she had thought of Pabito, the boy who had disappeared. She had almost persuaded herself recently that the whole thing was past, that she had accepted her responsibility and search. This morning, through the music, the memory of Pabito had gripped her once more, renewing her feeling of responsibility for him.
"Oh, damn!" Marcia swore sharply, as she rode homeward. In the small sitting room she adjoined her bedroom she still spoke impatiently to her self. She ordered luncheon in a peevishly sharp voice and then gazed through the letters on her desk. None of them were of consequence. Marcia picked up a newspaper next. A headline on the first page made her eyes narrow.
"Rather dramatic!" she murmured. Then she smiled, realizing that there was another idealist who would be a match for Estelle Field — this man who years had shouldered his way to the top.
The headline read: "Death of Confessor of Norris Noyes and Resurrected Old Case."
Marcia read the words in small type and then the long column that followed. Afterward she read it all over again more carefully. When she had finished the second reading she sprang up and hurried to the telephone.
"She jerked open the carved door of the cabinet so viciously that the hinge loosened.
"Damn it!" Marcia exclaimed. Then she said, "Rhineclander!" She was breathless from indignation and haste by this time. She had to repeat the number and the hours instead of seconds. Marcia fumed about the "incomplete service" as she waited.
At last she heard a cool, officially modulated voice say: "The Home Detective Agency." "This is Miss Treadway speaking." "Miss Marcia Treadway," she said, "a little breathless."

Nostalgia Brings La Hepburn Back

A camera-dodger when she sailed from New York, Katharine Hepburn, the film star, proved a more affable subject on her return. She is shown in contrasting moods as she told reporters that it may have been homesickness that brought her home after only five days in France.

Reveals 'Plot' For U. S. Soviet

A "brain trust" member revealed to him a plan for a "U. S. Soviet, with Roosevelt supplanted by a Stalin," William A. Wirt, above, noted Gary, Ind., educator, stated in a letter that stirred a storm when read to a House committee in Washington. Wirt declined to give the name of his informant.

Rented Dillinger Hideout, Charge

Hideout of John Dillinger, notorious gunman, in a Chicago apartment was revealed, police said, with the identification of a photo of Pearl Elliott, above, as that of the woman who rented the suite and shared it with Dillinger and Joseph Burns, another of his followers, for 13 days following the desperado's escape from Crown Point, Ind., jail.

Ford Pupils Ride to School in Bobsleighs

When the worst blizzard in many years blanketed the Middle West several days after the official advent of spring, Henry Ford went back to the days of his boyhood on the farm to find a means to transport the pupils to the Ford school in Greenfield Village, his early American community close by the great Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn, Mich.

Summoning the drivers of the vehicles of a generation ago which transport visitors about the village, Mr. Ford sent them out on the usual motor bus routes to pick up the youngsters. In the procession were bobsleighs drawn by work horses from the Ford farms and old-fashioned cutters with teams from the village barns.

A thick layer of straw on the bottom of the sleigh bodies, plus plenty of blankets kept the children warm on their ride to the village school. The unusual sight of the bobsleighs and cutters plodding along the streets where thousands of motor cars were struggling through the deep fall of snow attracted hundreds of people, who rushed to get their cameras and snap photographs of the old vehicles.

Admits Killing Of 'Hex' Woman

A spirit from the sky told him to kill, Albert Shinsky, 24, declared, confessing the shotgun slaying of Mrs. Susan Mumme, 63, who, he said, put a "hex" on him that haunted him for eight years and ruined his health. He is shown here in Pottsville, Pa., jail calmly reading a magazine.

A Noted Turfman Testifies Before Huey Long

Facing each other before a crowded Senate Finance committee hearing, Colonel E. R. Bradley (left) noted Kentucky turfman, is shown as he prepared to answer the questions of Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana (right). The Senator was attempting to show that Bradley and Colonel John P. Sullivan of New Orleans were "gambling partners" and had dictated the nomination of Daniel C. Moore, of New Orleans, to be Collector of Internal Revenue for Louisiana.

It's Fish the President is Off to Investigate

Houston Oil Man Builds Racing Plant

KERRVILLE, April 13 — Extensive racing stables and a huge native-stone residence under construction 30 miles west of Kerrville for N. W. Hunter, Houston oil operator and turfman, are expected to be completed by late summer at an estimated cost nearing $250,000.

An immense native-rock barn, 24x41 feet, with 36 stalls and with corrals covering from one-fourth to two acres, is being built. A 50,000-gallon rock tank will be erected to hold water for stable needs.
Hunter already has shipped 16 thoroughbreds here, including "Stratosphere," a five-year-old stallion formerly owned by the Waggoner Three D stables at Arlington Downs. With him, came 15 registered brood mares, being cared for at a neighboring estate, the Seagraves ranch, until the Hunter project is finished.

Three recently foaled colts have increased the 16 animals first brought here. Among the fillies Hunter has sent here from Epsom Downs, Houston, are "Brookstone," "Primrose" and "Milepost." Elmo Wilson, young Kerr county rancher and horseman, has been made manager of the Hunter stables.

J. A. Nix and Hunter, associated in breeding and racing thoroughbreds also are partners in the ownership of 30,000 acres of range land near the new stables. The site of the 12-room, 190-story residence in connection with the stables, is a 90-foot bluff overlooking the north fork of the Guadalupe river, near its headwaters. The home will be 104x76 feet. An eight-foot dam will be built across the river.

Student Airmen Are Helped by New Ruling

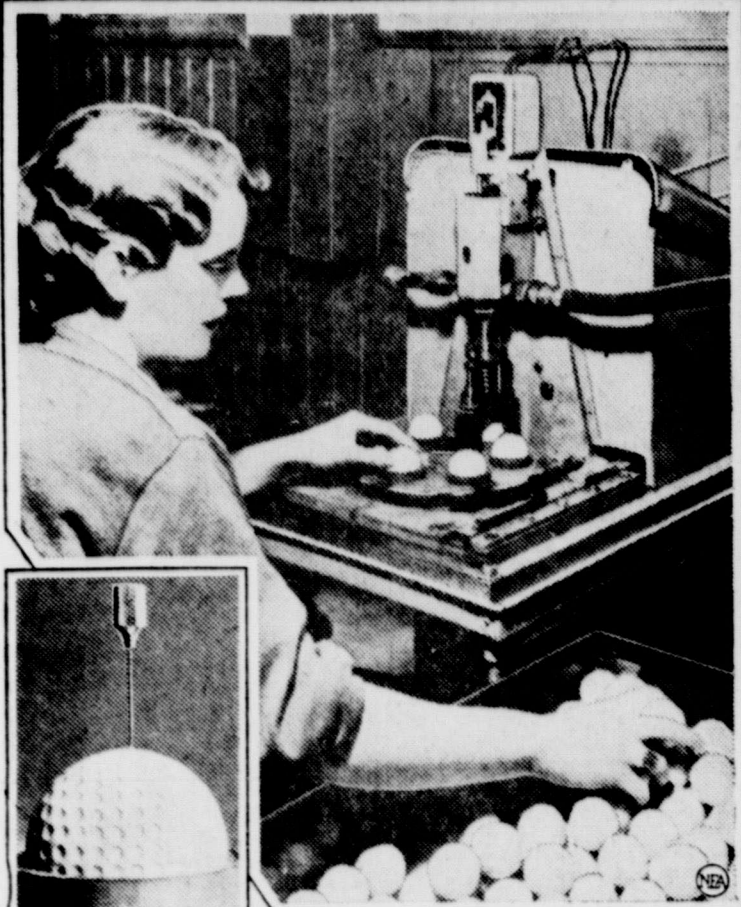

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 13 — A new definition of "solo time" in requirements for a pilot's license makes it possible for student aviators to acquire a part of their experience in flights during which they may be accompanied by a licensed pilot, according to an announcement by J. Carroll Cone, assistant director of aeronautics.

Authority for this procedure is given by an amendment to the air commerce regulations which states "a person is engaged in solo flying when he is in command of aircraft in flight."

However, the students are required to accomplish 10 hours of actual solo flying before they can begin to take credit for time in the air while accompanied by licensed pilots. In addition, such time may be claimed "only when the student is the sole manipulator of the controls during the flight, including takeoff and landing."

A requirement that the student make a thorough study of the air traffic rules, and pass an examination on such rules before making his first solo flight, is also introduced in the amendment. Joint responsibility for the observance of this requirement is vested in the student and his instructor.

Golf Ball Goes Lively, Too

Your new lively major league baseball won't be more sprightly than the golf ball when manufacturers get through with it. They are now giving it a "shot in the arm" with a hypodermic needle to increase pressure and bring about longer drives. Above a number of balls are being "inoculated," and inset is a closeup of one with the needle sticking in it.

Clyde Barrow Mere "Half Pint" in Size

FORT WORTH, April 13 — Like the famous Billy the Kid, Clyde Barrow, fugitive killer, is but a "half-pint" in physical stature.

But still like Billy the Kid, it is a half-pint of dynamite, ready to explode at any minute, law enforcement officers agree.

The physical measurements of modern Texas' peerless desperado read more like those of a high school sophomore. Barrow is slightly less than five feet six inches tall and weighs only 121 pounds.

He is so small in fact that he barely stands above the head of his diminutive gun - packing, cigar-smoking moll, Bonnie Parker, the modern Belle Starr of Texas.

Like Billy the Kid, New Mexico's famous outlaw who was killed when only 21 years old, with a record for one murder for each of his years of life—a total of 21, Barrow is young. He is only 24. In some of his pictures he appears almost beardless.

His eyes are hazel with a glint of steel. His hair is dark blond, almost reddish. In some of his pictures he had a clean cut, even good-looking face. Other pictures taken under less favorable circumstances have a coarser finish.

Barrow has one distinctive identification mark — an anchor and shield bearing the inscription "USN" tattooed on his right forearm.

Jurist to Speak at Methodist Church

Judge W. P. Leslie, of Eastland, associate justice of the 11th court of civil appeals, will speak to the congregation of the First Methodist church at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. The jurist, who is also a noted lay leader of the church and teacher of the men's Bible class of the First Methodist church at Eastland, will speak in the stead of the pastor, the Rev. Frank L. Turner, who is engaged in a revival meeting at Ranger. There will be no evening services at the church, the pastor said.

Special Subjects at St. Mark's Church

Special subjects for Friday evening and Sunday have been announced for the revival meeting under way at the St. Mark's (Colored) Baptist church, where the Rev. O. B. McKinney, of Dallas and Marshall is preaching.

Friday at 8:30 p. m., he will preach on "Ye Must Pass Over This Jordan," Sunday at 11:15 "Christ the Only Foundation," will be the subject, and Sunday evening at 8:30, the theme will be "The Wise and the Foolish."

There will be a special massed service at 3 p. m. Sunday, it was announced.

COMES BACK

OGDEN, Utah, April 13 — Rural real estate business has experienced "new life" because of the national "back to the farm" movement, Glenn D. Willaman, secretary and managing director of the California Real Estate association said during a visit here.

Moore Store Gets Turtles by Mail

Two yellow spotted green turtles no bigger than silver dollars have been received through the mail from New Orleans by the Moore Drug company. The tiny creatures, on damp moss in a small box, made the long journey without visible effect, and today were crawling about their moistened bowl on the fountain marble very much at home. Moss, twigs, bits of bread, etc., are the food they require, said L. C. Moore, one of the store proprietors.

SMALLEST ORANGE TREE

VISALIA, Cal., April 13 — Visalia's claim to the world's smallest park was supplemented today by a new claim that the world's smallest bearing orange tree also is growing here. Joseph Acurso, local merchant, has a 4-inch tree growing in a flower pot at his home. The tree blossomed recently and now bears a tiny orange.

70 million dollars worth of tobacco

— 4 1/2 miles of warehouses

Everything that Science knows about is used in making Chesterfields.

One thing we do is to buy mild, ripe tobaccos and then lock up these tobaccos in modern storage warehouses to age and mellow like rare wines.

It takes about 3 years to age the tobaccos for your Chesterfield, for Time does something to tobacco that neither man nor machine can do.

It means something to keep 70 million dollars worth of tobacco in storage. It means just this:

We do everything possible to make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better.

the cigarette that's MILD

the cigarette that TASTES BETTER
