BROTHERS SEEK BANK ACCOUNT 50 YEARS OLD

DETROIT, April 27—A pot of gold is waiting for Charles J. McDonald, who once kept the hotel in Harrisville, Mich. He must present satisfactory proofs of identity to the men who now are handling the affairs of the defunct First National bank of Detroit.

How Account Started

Half a century ago Hugh McDonald ran a saloon and a hotel in Harrisville. Twice a year he would make a trip to Detroit and about 1885 he opened a bank account in the Old Wayne County bank, which eventually was absorbed by banks which became part of the First National bank.

Shot in Dark

"I became interested because the account had been inactive for so long," he said. "I wrote letters to Hugh McDonald in Harrisville, making a shot in the dark, because I thought the man would be dead, but a short time ago Charles McDonald came to me and said he was trying to collect for his brothers. I sent him to the bank officials."

My brother can't come to Detroit to get the money himself because he is too old. He is about 85, and is not very well. Charles said recently in Harrisville, "I will try to prove he was the depositor of the money by producing witnesses and I certainly hope we can collect. We both need the money now."

OIL SHORTAGE?

Tycoons of the oil industry, it is said, anticipate early depletion in the supply of domestic crude and necessary importation of a part of the home market needs.

We seem to remember having heard something of the same prediction in the early 1920s. Indeed, it was even feared that the whole economic program built upon oil as a fuel was abortive.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

By BEULAH POYNTER

Again and again Donna's thoughts returned to Bill Siddal. She wondered how the trapeze act appeared to him.

BEGIN HERE TODAY DONNA GABRIEL and MADELINE SIDDALE who call themselves "The Gabriel Sisters" are trapeze performers with Renfro's circus. Donna's parents, also circus performers, are dead. Five years earlier Madeline ran away from the middle-western farm where her grandfather, ALOS SIDDALE, lives.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER II

IN the dressing room Madeline was changing her costume with the assisters who augmented her salary by acting as maid to the star performers. Madeline's eyebrows lifted at Donna's entrance. "How's the cousin?" she asked.

Donna sat down on a folding stool and kicked off the heavy carpet slippers that covered her "soft soles." Dexterously she slipped from one costume into another. If she had heard her partner's question she gave no heed to it for she did not reply.

"It's funny your folks never wrote to me or one of you girls," sighed Madeline's assistant. "Or maybe they write to you together?"

"They do," Madeline informed her. "Beat it, Ruth. I can finish alone." Ruth disappeared.

"What's Bill like?" Madeline demanded when she and Donna were alone. "What you'd expect. A young hayseed. You'd never see him for dust, but," Donna smiled, "I like him. He was so embarrassed it was funny. I guess we were both embarrassed. I'm going to have supper with him after the show."

"I suppose the tights shocked him out of a year's growth?" "No, I don't think so. After all, bathing suits are so common that tights shouldn't mean anything."

"Bathing suits!" Madeline sniffed. "Where would Bill Siddal see a woman in a bathing suit? Outside of Little Creek there isn't a place to swim within 50 miles and no woman ever went swimming in Little Creek."

home for a girl raised among trees and flowers and with plenty of ground around." They did not speak again until they reached a board walk leading towards the town. Then he said, "I wish I could persuade you to leave the circus and stay home with your grandfather. He's getting pretty old and he talks about you all the time."

"Maybe next winter—" Donna stammered. "Just now it would be impossible."

"I suppose show life is thrilling at least it looks that way, sitting where I did. But there can be a lot of interest around a farm, too. And it would only be while the old man is alive. I thought I'd hate the farm, and at first I did hate giving up what I was doing to settle down in the back woods. I'm sure, though, that if the place were mine I'd get a real kick out of trying to make it the best in the country."

"What were you doing?" Donna asked. "Studying medicine. I'd have graduated this year if I hadn't quit. When Grandfather went blind some one had to be with him besides—"

"Blind," Donna gasped. "Didn't you know? Didn't you get the letter?"

"No, I didn't know." She shivered.

HE looked at her sharply. "Mrs. Planter said she wrote you the same time she wrote me, but I don't trust that woman. She has

The matter with Leon is that doesn't agree with me on my chin roses. The disagreement, probe in sources, is the result of different emphases. Leon concedes that the chalice of the American beauty is a thing of superb grace, but maintains the burning color of the Scudder which twines his front of is beyond comparison. her eye on Grandfather—I can't bin that—and would like to marry him, blind or not. Naturally she doesn't like me, for I see through her schemes.

"Who is she?" "Why, the housekeeper. Surely you remember her! When her husband was alive she lived up the road about three miles. After you left she came over to stay with Grandfather."

"The name—er—slipped my memory."

Walking briskly, they reached the edge of the town. Frame houses with wide verandas, surrounded by well kept lawns and shade trees gave Donna a touch of nostalgia for the life she had never known.

"It's such a pretty town," she murmured.

"Yes, Lebanon is attractive. And there are some fine people living here. I've made a lot of friends."

The public square was thronged with farmers and their families. Saturday in Lebanon was always a holiday. The circus had brought hundreds of persons from all over the county and the Central Hotel, the principal hotel, had more patronage than it could accommodate.

BILL elbowed through the crowd and up the porch steps. "Go places for two?" he inquired of a bright-eyed little waitress, carrying a tray of dishes.

"Howdy, Mr. Siddal. Yes, I reckon we can find a place for you. That couple is leaving now."

Bill snatched at the vacant places, grinning joyfully at Donna as he held a chair for her. "I suppose it's the same all over the country. A circus draws everybody."

Just as the little waitress inquired if Donna would have steak or pork chops, another couple came up the stairs. Donna raised her eyes to meet the mischievous one of Madeline whose curiosity had overcome caution. At a discreet distance, accompanied by Ned Trafford, the boss canvasser, she had followed her partner.

Donna could not suppress a gasp of dismay. In a frock very similar to her own and wearing a hat that was an exact replica of Donna's, she was so striking that Bill could not help but notice it.

"What's the matter?" Bill asked. "Nothing. I just saw my partner and I thought she—"

Madeline passed by. She grinned impishly, swept a glance toward Bill and, under her breath, whispered to Donna, "Con is roaring like one of his cats." The with her arm linked in Ned Trafford's she continued down the aisle of tables.

It all happened so suddenly that Bill scarcely saw Madeline's face but he did hear what she said. Though his acquaintance with Donna had begun less than six hours previous he demanded, as if well within his rights, "Who is Con?"

"Oh, you saw him. He's in the animal act."

"Is he your sweetheart?" Donna laughed heartily. "Of course not."

"But he'd like to be, huh?" "Perhaps." (To Be Continued)

SHIPMENT OF CATTLE DURING MARCH JUMPS

AUSTIN, April 27 — Shipments of Texas livestock to Fort Worth and interstate points during March totaled 3,212 cars against 3,462 cars during March, 1933, decline of 7 per cent, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research.

"More significant, however, than the change in total March shipments as compared with last year is the change in shipments of the various classes of livestock," the bureau's report said. "Cattle shipments for the two periods were respectively 2,127 and 1,838 cars, a gain of 14 per cent; calves, 407 and 390 cars, a rise of 4 per cent; hogs, 273 and 231 cars, a drop of 15 per cent; sheep, 305 and 493 cars, a slump of 38 per cent."

"For the first three months of the year shipments aggregated 10,396 cars compared with 9,113 cars during the corresponding period last year, an increase of 14 per cent. Cattle shipments for the comparable quarters were 6,450 and 5,111 cars, an increase of 26 per cent; calves, 1,709 and 1,334 cars, an increase of 28 per cent; hogs, 965 and 1,354 cars, a decline of 29 per cent; and sheep, 1,272 and 1,314 cars, a decline of 4 per cent."

"Shipments of cattle and calves to the Fort Worth market during March were more than 20 per cent above those of a year ago while receipts of Texas hogs and sheep at this market were only half those of last year. There was a sharp falling off of all classes of Texas livestock to the Los Angeles market compared with a year ago; hog shipments having fallen to only one-third of the number shipped to this market last year."

"Sharp increases occurred in shipments of sheep to California, other than Los Angeles, to Chicago, Kansas points, New Orleans and other Louisiana points, Missouri, and Iowa. These increases were about offset by declines in shipments to East St. Louis, Omaha, and other Nebraska points and Kansas City—the latter market having received less than one-sixth as many as in March, 1933.

182 Cars of Hogs

"Receipts of hogs in Texas from other states totaled 182 cars, against 121 cars in March last year, an increase of 50 per cent. The bulk of these receipts came from Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma.

"Different variations in shipments show considerable variation in the state show considerable variation in shipments from last year. The northern half of the panhandle showed a 73 per cent increase in shipments of cattle but a drop of 50 per cent in shipments of calves, 65 per cent in hogs, and 60 per cent in sheep; while in the southern half of the panhandle there was but little change from all classes of livestock occurred in the district lying adjacent to the cap rock of the east. Shipments of sheep from this district fell 80 per cent from last year. Fewer cattle and sheep were shipped from the trans-Pecos country, while shipments from the Edwards plateau were larger for all classes of livestock."

Prices Rising

"In spite of the large increase in shipments of cattle, not only from Texas but from other livestock areas prices have been rising steadily and substantially. Especially has this been true for the better classes of livestock. This situation is in marked contrast to the condition which prevailed during the fall and early winter season. Moreover, the price outlook for the better classes of beef is constantly growing brighter."

"On the other hand, hog prices continue to be depressed even though the slaughter under Federal inspection in March was the smallest since 1917 and was 16 per cent less than in March 1933. It is obvious therefore that the current depressed price levels are caused largely by factors other than the supply situation. If the hog processing plant at $25 per 100 pounds is included, the cost of hogs to slaughterers during March was well above $6 per 100 pounds or more than 50 per cent greater than a year earlier."

BIG SEASON IS PREDICTED FOR TARPON FISHING

MIAMI, Fla., April 27—Now that circus days are here again, the elephant's toes are newly manicured and the man on the flying trapeze is ready for a summer of death-defying thrills, old Father Neptune is unleashing the greatest acrobat in his piscatorial troupe — the silver tarpon.

Hard on the heels of a big winter of saltfishing, the 1934 tarpon season is opening and with a 216-pound catch reported during past fortnight, old-timers at the Key Largo Anglers club reckon there'll be a totable mess of the big fish this spring.

According to those who say they know the famous sailfish shiver is a sight to see, but for real fishing thrills try bagging a big silver tarpon. Like an ice-skater hurdling barrels, or a circus acrobat sailing over the elephant lineup, the tarpon, the experts say, is likely to lead right over your boat.

Once hooked, the tarpon will battle to the finish. But you'll get plenty of action before he surrenders. First he's apt to give two or three mighty leaps, shaking and twisting, trying to fling away the hook. Then he'll head for Europe, or the South Sea, with a powerful run that will take the line humming off your reel. Suddenly he'll stop. A second series of leaps follows.

Next Mr. Tarpon probably will meander slowly back in your direction, and now if you're not careful he'll fool you with this ruse. He may stop within a few feet of your boat, or he may pass directly under it. But he's only fooling. If you keep playing him, he'll jump again, and this time he may land in your boat or jump right over it.

Up and down the Florida coast these mighty game fish are running strong this spring. On the east coast the favorite fishing spots are New River Inlet near Fort Lauderdale, where tarpon can be taken with fly rods or bait-casting outfits. They range from twelve to eighty pounds. Broad Creek and Sandy Key, the zone of battle for the expeditions from the Key Largo Anglers club and Bahia Honda channel, tarpon run up to more than 200 pounds.

Home Demonstration Club News

By MISS RUTH RAMEY
Co. Home Dem. Agent

Foundation Pattern School

A foundation pattern is a simple pattern which fits the individual as perfectly as possible. Nineteen home demonstration club women, clothing demonstrators of the clubs of the county, met in Eastland Monday and Tuesday in basement of the First Methodist church and made the foundation patterns. This school was conducted by Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, clothing specialist, extension service, College Station, Texas. Mrs. Barnes made two patterns showing: the women the steps in the pattern, the first day the waist and the sleeve, the second day the skirt, collars and how to make patterns from the foundation one. Then the women divided into pairs and made patterns for themselves, measuring and fitting for each other. These patterns were later checked by Mrs. Barnes for corrections before they were completed by the demonstrators. As a result of the school the nineteen women will have dresses that will fit and will be able to make the dresses in much shorter time because they will not have to take the time on the fitting they have to do when using a different pattern for every dress. These patterns can be changed as to design, but the fit is still there. Fourteen clubs were represented at the meeting by the following women:

Romyne Mrs. H. H. Harrelson, Mrs. Gil Walker, Carbon—Mrs. L. J. Hazlewood, Mrs. Overton Stone, Peak—Miss Malta Turner, Mrs. Erwin;

Bullock—Mrs. Ellis Cooper, Mrs. B. R. LaManca;

North Star—Mrs. D. M. Jacobs, Mrs. Lee Burkhead;

Reich—Mrs. Albert Ezzell, Mrs. W. E. Morris;

Word—Mrs. C. M. Brittain, Mrs. C. E. Graves;

Ranger—Mrs. Louis Picocek, Mrs. Holmes;

Glen—Mrs. O. M. White;

Base Lake—Mrs. Floyd McCorder;

Miss Mrs. Calvin Swan, Mrs. Henry Capers;

Flatwood—Mrs. Burl Turner; Sabanno—Mrs. Edwin Erwin, Mrs. J. S. Erwin;

Elm—Mrs. Young Gregg, Mrs. J. R. Files;

Friendship—Mrs. E. M.oney. Miss Blanche Brown, Harperville; Miss Fentilla Johnson, home demonstration agent, Sweetwater, and Miss Emma Gunter, home demonstration agent, Colorado, also were present.

These demonstrators are to give foundation pattern making demonstrations in their clubs and help the club members with the making of the individual patterns.
