Our Traffic Problems

How about that double-parking? The police department has already sounded a warning and asked the cooperation of Cisco motorists to bring about a better observance of the traffic laws here.

Maybe you don't think about it when you are in the business district, and just stop where it is convenient, even if that happens to be in the street, alongside of a car that is already parked at the curb. But it is dangerous... not just to the other fellow, but to you and your car as well. There is no need of going into detail to explain just how dangerous it is and why, for any motorist with enough common sense and imagination to drive a car knows that already. He just doesn't think.

Cisco has always prided herself on having a decent appearing city, but there is nothing more disconcerting in looks than a street with cars parked just where and how their drivers saw fit to leave them. It's the same sort of thing that happens to the silver when a lot of rugged individualism is turned loose at a seven-course dinner.

But there's yet another reason against double parking. It's poor business. One might talk all day without making an impression upon a business man unless he got some dollar marks into the conversation. Then his listener would take notice. Mr. Merchant, if you keep your own car in front of your store all day long, and let your clerks do the same thing, where are the customers going to park? Why, they are going to park in front of your rival's store... and go in there to trade as well.

There's going to be a lot more traffic on the Cisco streets, especially on D avenue, from now until the end of the holidays. Not only will there be tourist and truck traffic on the federal and state highways, but there will be a lot of shoppers using the street. It will be a lot more dangerous to double-park or triple-park there now than at other times. It will make the city a lot more unsightly. It will mean more congestion during the shopping season.

The Cisco police are a pretty considerate lot. They listen to your troubles and protect you and your property. Why not help them in this matter of traffic regulations?

America's New Position

America's changed position in international affairs when the existing naval treaties are scrapped—a development now generally accepted here as inevitable—has become the most absorbing question in State Department and diplomatic circles during the past few days.

One aspect of the situation as seen in some circles is the possibility that the United States will move closer toward the World Court and the League of Nations in the hope of finding some institute for the lost equilibrium in the Pacific. While official circles see little or no reason for such a development, peace societies and international groups persist in finding this brighter side in the present situation.

The more immediate question under consideration is the probable fate of the Nine Power and Four Power Pacts, the two basic charters for existing relations in the Pacific which are linked closely to the threatened naval treaties.

The State Department takes the view that, although the three documents are not bound to each other legally, they are nevertheless, in fact, essential portions of one general settlement of all relations in the Far East and the Pacific. They look upon the naval treaties as the evidence of intention on the part of the contracting parties to observe the Nine Power and Four Power Pacts.

The American contention is, therefore, that these last two pacts become meaningless the moment the naval treaties are scrapped, although they continue in theoretical force.

If this contention is accepted it follows that the end of the naval treaties will also mean the end of:

1. "Open door" guarantees in China embodied in the Nine Power Pact.
2. Agreements covering fortifications in the Pacific area under the Four Power Pact.
3. Mandatory arbitration of all disputes arising in the Pacific between the United States, Britain, France and Japan under the Four Power Pact.

Sterilization of Mentally Unfit

Sterilization of the mentally unfit as a means of stemming the ever-increasing flow of patients into the state's asylum is expected to be an issue before the next Georgia Legislature.

The number of patients at the State Hospital at Mill-Edgeville has now increased to 6250—more than double the figure of 25 years ago. E. E. Lindsey, chairman of the state Board of Control in charge of the hospital, says many of the cases are hereditary.

Sterilization has been discussed at nearly every session of the Georgia Legislature in recent years, but nothing has been done about it. Lindsey says he will provide members of the Legislature, which meets in January, with information on the subject.

Death Masks of Slain "Babes in Woods" Reveal Scar

Coroner Edward Hegele of Cumberland County, Pa., spurred the search for the murderer of the three unidentified girls found dead on a hillside near Carlisle, when he reported they had been killed by blows with a blackjack. Above he is shown pointing out a cross-shaped scar on the death mask of the oldest victim. The masks are placed in order of age from left to right.

INCREASE SEEN IN BUILDING OF HOMES IN 1935

HOUSTON, Dec. 4—A "substantial" increase in home building in 1935 was predicted today by I. Friedlander, Houston, president of the United States Building and Loan League.

Steps will be taken by the Federal Home Loan Bank System he said, to see that the $500,000,000 now available in associations for home lending, is diverted properly from sections that are overbuilt to sections needing construction.

Friedlander said the increase would be due partly to the decision of the public to build homes, and partly to activities of companies and individuals to build homes for legitimate profits.

The rise of wholesale prices of

Old Mark Hannah Home Being Razed

Building materials which he said caused a setback in home building early in 1934, has been checked. Increase in rent is balancing the margin between market value of existing homes and new buildings, he asserted, which would open the way for the revival of building in the spring of 1935.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 4—The old home of the late Senator Marcus A. (Mark) Hanna, where Presidents William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt once visited, is being leveled.

Workers are razing it, timber by timber, because vandals and time would wreck it if it were not practically done now.

The great mansion overlooked Lake Erie, when it was built it was out in the country "to the west of town."

In 1896 McKinley stood on the front porch and was cheered by citizens shouting about the "full dinner pail" and the "gold dollar."

In 1903, Theodore Roosevelt and his daughter, Alice, were there for the wedding of Senator Hanna's daughter, Ruth, to Medill McCormick, of the Chicago family that made reapers and harvesters.

Only a year later, Mark Hanna died. His widow took some of the magnificent furnishings to her home in Washington. His daughter took others to her Chicago home.

For years now the grounds have grown up in weeds that choked the surviving drive where carriages once swept up with the elite of the nation.

Boys had broken through the boarded windows and doors, exploring the decaying mansion. Storms from the lake were howling through the great halls. Youngsters of the neighborhood whispered of ghosts. Vandals had begun their work.

In a few weeks professional crews will have lowered every timber of the old homestead.

TEXAN CLAIMS INVENTION TO MAP WEATHER

LA PORTE, Dec. 4—Weather forecasting in the future will dispense with practically all uncertainty if the instrument he has invented is adopted, James C. Brown of La Porte claims.

The device, designed to chart planet movements from which accurate weather predictions may be made, would save millions of dollars and many lives, Brown declares.

His theory is that weather goes in cycles and is governed by planet movements. The instrument is a small globe equipped with graphs to record paths of sun and moon rays. Brown said he would send the in-

Montana Will Try New Tropical Crop

SIDNEY, Mont., Dec. 4—From the steaming tepid fields of the tropics has come Montana's newest crop—safflower.

Because the safflower yields all oil valued highly in manufacture of paints and varnishes, and because it appears to thrive in soil and climatic conditions of the northwest wheat belt, agricultural experts predict a bright future for it.

Alfred Rehbein, a painstaking farmer near Lambert, pioneered development of safflower growing in the United States and this year shipped four carloads of the seeds to a Milwaukee paint company.

Safflower oil has proved unusual satisfactory in drying oils, has many characteristics of linseed oil and is superior to the latter in many respects.

The U. S. Bureau of Plant Industry has been studying Rehbein's experiment with interest and now proposes to encourage safflower growing wherever feasible in this country, it is reported.

Cash value of the crop depends upon prices paid for paints and varnishes, and for safflower cake, which it is believed, will make a satisfactory cattle feed.

Substantial production of safflower may fill the gap between present production and consumption of linseed oil and would not compete with U. S. flax production, estimated as about half of the latter oil used in this country is imported.

fairly flung the morning newspaper at her.

"Let Tony wait, Ann, and read those headlines. And look at the pictures!"

Ann stared at the huge black type, "Society Group Principals in Near Tragedy," Pictures . . . Valerita Bennett's eyes, staring innocently at her.

"I'm glad that double-crossing Valerita Bennett's been found out," Sarah said, "if I don't miss my guess, she's lost more than her reputation."

The story ran that a party had been in progress at Van Balen's apartment at an early hour of the morning when an inebriated and jealous husband—Marvin Walters—had joined the group unexpectedly, brandishing a pistol.

Guests had wisely barricaded themselves in, but not before the invader had shot at Van Balen, slightly wounding him. In the excitement someone called the police.

"Well," said Ann, "maybe it won't make any difference to Peter Kendall about his fiancée being there. Nothing seems to make any difference any more."

Presently, she thought unhappily, Tony would be explaining. And not long after that he would be kissing her—and so the hurt and disappointment of last night would be tucked away. Perhaps after a while it would be forgotten.

ON Christmas Eve, Peter had driven Valeria out to Kendall's wood to see a mammoth Christmas tree which had been decorated for the children of the community.

"If you don't mind, I'll wait for you here," she said. "It's terribly cold and these thin shoes are hardly the thing for all that snow."

"Back in a moment," Peter said. Valeria watched, her lips curled a little, as his long strides carried him to the stranded tree about the

STATE RELIEF ROLLS HIT NEW ALL-TIME HIGH

AUSTIN, Dec. 4 — The state relief load for December climbed to a new all-time high today as state relief officials prepared to defend the state's restitute against winter's siege.

Early cold snaps were believed largely responsible for the increasing rolls to 272,500 cases. End of the cotton season also contributed to the increase in November. The relief rolls carried 253,273 cases.

Texas will receive $3,364,000 for December on various relief programs.

Violence Reported In Factory Strike

BUCHVUS, O., Dec. 4 — Violence with screams of women employees of the Kaynee company rising above the shouted orders of city police and county deputies developed today when workers sought to enter the strike troubled Kaynee plant.

More than 100 strike sympathizers from Cleveland joined a small group of picketers who have sought for four weeks to induce workers in the boy's clothing factory to join them in a strike as women employees entered the factory grounds. The picket line broke through squadrons of officers. One woman was choked and clothing of others was torn before police and deputies restored order.

Military Training Is Upheld in Court

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 — Constitutional objections who wish to attend land grant colleges must either bear arms or seek a higher education elsewhere, under a ruling today by the supreme court.

The court upheld the University of California in its stand that Albert Hamilton, Jr., son of a Methodist minister, and Alonzo Reynolds, grandson of another must either take military training or leave the school. The case was first of its kind to be ruled on by the court.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

LOS ANGELES, that sun-kissed city never fails to speak for itself, is boiling with indignation at losing so many of its own football products to distant schools.

The alumni of the University of Southern California has been called to arms, and the old kick is expected to be restored to the Trojan warhorse in 1935.

We have this from Henry Bruce, comptroller and former graduate manager of the institution Bruce largely was instrumental in bringing Howard Harding Jones to the coast, engaged Elmer Hegderson, who preceded the Yale veteran and has a great deal to say in regard to the institution's athletic policies.

The total collapse of Michigan and Southern California, pinking powers of recent years, is not the least striking feature of the campaign now drawing to a close.

Who suspected that the proud Wolverines would bow to Michigan State for the first time in 19 years, be smothered by Chicago and Minnesota, edged out by Illinois, and walloped by Wisconsin?

And who had any idea that the Trojans would run second to Washington State, Pittsburgh, Stanford, and California, and be tied by Oregon State?

Wrecked Without Remedy

HARRY KIPKE attributes Michigan's stunning reversal of form to Bill Repner's broken ankle, which left the Ann Arbor entry without a real punting threat and a man who could handle the ball with the skill required in the wide open passing game of today.

But that wasn't the trouble. Southern California, when it was an All-America quarterback, was a different player. He was snatching his last North win team.

NEW RECORD HOUSTON, Dec. 4 — The record for shipment of scrap iron from the port of Houston, set in 1932, already has been surpassed according to port officials. The previous high was 60,105 tons, whereas 140,000 tons have been shipped this year and approximately 25,000 tons have been contracted for shipment before Jan. 1. Shipment of scrap iron was expected to offset declines in cotton and wheat.

NEBRASKA TO SEND NEW MEN TO CONGRESS

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 4 — The Nebraska congressional team will consist of one veteran, one sophomore and five freshmen.

Five brand new congressmen and one new senator were chosen. None of the congressmen ever had run for an office. The new senator, Edward R. Burk, Omaha, was a member of the lower house during the past session. His only previous political experience was as a member of the Omaha school board.

The veteran is Nebraska's Senator George W. Norris, whose present term does not expire until 1938.

Good Representation

The new lower house delegation should compare favorably with past representation.

From the first district comes Henry G. Luckey, of Lincoln, about 60, the oldest man on the list. Born and reared on a farm, Luckey became a real estate man. He is regarded as a conservative.

Charles F. (Chick) McLaughlin, president of the Omaha Bar Association, financed his education by working on a railroad section gang. He was drafted for the Second congressional race after other Omaha Democrats had despaired of beating Herbert Rhoades, popular domestic relations court judge.

Colorful Figure

Losing one picturesque figure, the third district gained another. Probably not so colorful as the veteran Congressman Edgar Howard whom he defeated, Karl Stefan, Norfolk, former newspaper editor and radio announcer and the only Republican to win a Nebraska seat in four years, has had a wide and varied career.

The fourth district elected a bi-metallicist in the person of C. G. Binderup, of Minden. A former hardware store and theater operator, Binderup never has wavered in his belief that silver should be on a 16 to 1 ratio.

The "big fifth" sends Harry Coffey.

BROWNFIELD, Terry County, Dec. 4 — A department of commerce inspector today investigated a crash in which three men fell to their death in an unlicensed airplane here yesterday.

The victims were Manuel Kelm, 30, of Littlefield, the pilot; John Alexander, 24, Oklahoma; and James Benton, 22, of Terry County.

Kelm and the two passengers had been up about 10 minutes on a pleasure flight when, apparently, the pilot headed back to the airport. About a mile from the field the plane stalled at 300 feet and crashed into the ground.

BLACK-DRAUGHT

"Such a Good Laxative," Says Nurse
Writing from her home in Festus, Mo., Mrs. Anna LaPlante says: "I am a practical nurse and I recommend to some of my patients that they take Black-Draught, for it is such a good laxative. I took it for constipation, headache and a dull feeling that I had so much. A few doses of Black-Draught—and I felt just fine."
Because so many people know from having used it that Thedford's Black-Draught is a good, purgative laxative, millions of packages of it are sold every year.

Farmer Believes Ticks Have Right to Live

HOUSTON, Dec. 4 — Seed ticks, considered the scourge of cattle by agricultural authorities, have a champion in Louis Seidel, 75.

He is one of 80 farmers of the Cypress section near Houston who sought to enjoin tick inspectors from enforcing the eradication law.

"Ticks are good for cattle," Seidel declared. "They take away the bad blood. They were put here by God and they will be here if you dip for 100 years."

"There were ticks when I came here in 1875, and cattle were better 50 years ago than they are now."

"The coons in the river bottom have ticks, the rabbits got ticks and the dogs got ticks. If the boys go down to the river they come back with ticks and you got to pull them off their necks."

"There have been ticks since the world began, he said at a hearing on the eradication question, and he favored letting them alone—they have a right to live."

WESTERN CAGE MENTOR USES HIS OWN PLAY

EDITOR'S NOTE: — There is a revolution in basketball circles. The leader of the revolution is G. Otto Romney, athletic director of Brigham Young University, at Provo, Utah. His system is new, different, and entirely revolutionary. Already it has resulted in mighty, powerful teams from small, obscure universities. Following is the first of four articles concerning this new system which, since Romney first introduced it, is spreading rapidly through the Rocky Mountain area. Other stories of the series, written by Romney himself, will reveal his secrets.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — A revolutionary style of basketball is sweeping out of the Rocky Mountains. It threatens to change the world wide sport as coaches see their teams go down to defeat before it and start to teach it.

G. Otto Romney of Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, developed it. He teaches his players a system based on:

"Score more points than the other fellow."

It results in slashing action that lifts spectators farther out of their seats than does formal, diagrammed play.

Romney-coached teams have beaten A. A. U. champions, tipped over Big Ten leaders, topped Eastern clubs. He developed three players who were unanimously A-1 American selections despite the handicap of small school obscurity.

The long-jawed Utah mentor coaches a man-to-man style of play—with variations. Offense is the essence of his system.

He reasons his team can't be defeated if his rangy, lightning-fast players are continually dropping the ball through the basket. Which they most of the time; their scoring average of more than 50 points per game against all competition is evidence.

Romney first gained national prominence when he unleashed his "Golden Bobcats" from Montana State that ruled the Rocky Mountain conference for two years before his departure to Brigham Young in 1929 and a year more under his assistant, Schubert Dyche, who succeeded him.

1,000 Points Score Total
During the team's reign, the usual season scoring spree was more than 1,000 points. The conference honor team was the regular Montana starting lineup. Romney's winning average over a six-year period was 850.

In 1932, after a building up process, Romney had another winning team. The club astonished court fans with their hell-for-leather play.

In 1933 and 1934, Brigham Young was runner up to Wyoming for Rocky Mountain Conference honors. The latter year the Cowboys were the sensation of the Kansas City A. A. U. tourney, barely being nosed out of the finals.

"As long as the tax rate is as high as it is today, and as long as the interest rate is so high while the price level remains low, the farmers cannot continue to exist," the senator said. "Taxes and interest are fixed charges. Congress cannot do anything about the tax rate, but it can do something about interest. We can and will say to the farmers that your interest rate must be as low as it is for those who are getting money from the United States."

Cheap Money For Farmers Foreseen

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 4 — The next congress will plan cheap money for farmers, Charles L. McNary, United States senator and minority floor leader in the senate, believes.

"As long as the tax rate is as high as it is today, and as long as the interest rate is so high while the price level remains low, the farmers cannot continue to exist," the senator said. "Taxes and interest are fixed charges. Congress cannot do anything about the tax rate, but it can do something about interest. Big Dipper Will Become Soup Spoon

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4 — The Big Dipper, in another 50,000 years will be the same shape as a common ordinary soup spoon, according to Wagner Schelsinger, assistant director of the astronomy department of the Franklin museum.

During the next 50,000 years one will be able to watch the wandering stars in the tip of the handle move to the left and the rest to the right, thereby changing the shape of the Dipper considerably.

French Mould Doors Of New York Church

PARIS, Dec. 4 — The four bronze doors, which will open the Cathedral of Saint John the Divine in New York, are being made here.

A British sculptor, Henry Wilson, has designed them and they are being moulded by the Barbedienne factory, moulders of the Statue of Liberty and John Brown.

Each of the Cathedral doors weigh three tons and is 20 feet high and 12 feet wide; each contains 24 tab-caux and 24 circles, and in two of the latter is the following inscription: "To the Glory of God and in Thanksgiving for the Life and Service of Haley Fiske these doors are presented." In the other two circles, the beholder is
