OFF FOR DALLAS

For Came to Cisco Thursday With Eight Wagons Loaded With Hogs, Which He Will Exhibit at the State Fair

A number of people were in the Texas and Pacific Thursday afternoon to view a large drove of Duroc Jersey hogs. E. L. Poe brought in to ship the State Fair at Dallas. He had a total of 30 head from 4 to 6 months old ranging in weight from 200 pounds; 8 sows ranging in weight from 400 to 600 pounds; 11 months old weighs 300 pounds; 1 male 4 years old weighs 300 pounds.

He required a car to accommodate the shipment of hogs, and there was not any surplus space in the car after the forty hogs had been loaded into it.

Mr. Poe has only been engaged in the hog business four years, saying that he finds it more profitable than cotton, and there is no chance for failure of making a crop.

Someone who has never seen Mr. Poe's hogs should not miss the opportunity of seeing them while taking in the sights at the Fair during the next two weeks.

Justice of the Peace W. M. Morrison, the sheriff's department, and the district attorney's department are working together with Rising Star officers on the case.

McBeck, a highway worker, disappeared some 18 months ago. Identity was established by his former wife, who has since married again, and by a brother, by means of the teeth.

SIGNS POINT TO SUSTAINED PROSPERITY

DALLAS, Dec. 27 — The old year of 1934, which came in under the cloud of depression, today approached its close with all signs pointing to returning prosperity for Texas.

Business leaders and business reporting agencies, noted an end-of-the-year upswing which augured a long time if gradual improvement in commercial and agricultural enterprises.

A. H. Bailey, president of the Dallas Wholesale Merchants association, announced an increased market in volume and territory during the past year and predicted continued expansion in 1935.

The federal reserve bank and the bureau of the University of Texas reported similar gains in retail trade.

In the 11 federal reserve districts, the retail sales for the first 11 months of 1934 were 23 per cent greater than for the same period of 1933. The trend, the report predicted, would be sustained in 1935.

The business research bureau, reporting conditions in a somewhat narrower field, found 1934 sales 21.4 per cent greater than in 1933.

The 1934 cash income of Texas farmers, according to a private estimate which Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. McDonald said appeared accurate, was about $7,000,000 higher than their 1933 income.

FEAR ILL PLAY FOR MISSING LIGHT KEEPER

PALACIOS, Dec. 27 — Officers, fishermen and coastguardsmen today pondered the possibility of foul play in the mysterious disappearance of the lighthouse keeper of Half Reef.

Boats searched the bay for the body of the keeper, H. O. Welch, 35, who was missing from Half Moon Reef Dec. 15, when the relief boat arrived.

He had tended the light and made an entry in the lighthouse log: "Lamp lighted at 6 p. m. All is well."

He prepared to retire by removing his watch, money, and other personal effects in his quarters. Then he went to his bed and turned down the covers.

What became of Welch from that point on remains a mystery. All that is known is that the light was extinguished and the wick was burned away.

ASK STATE TO ASSUME DEBT FOR HIGHWAYS

John Crosthwait, Dallas county auditor, left yesterday for Austin where he is to present the plan. He said he would appear before the committee at once.

Crosthwait is chairman of a state organization of county officials which has made a study of the plan which, if adopted, would reduce the ad valorem tax of counties an average of 45 per cent. Under the plan the state gasoline tax would be increased one cent and the state would assume all county road indebtedness.

MARSHALL, Dec. 27 — While Constable Ulien Moore, 25, of Karlock, lay near death, posse continued to search the dense wooded district near Caddo Lake for a negro who shot him late yesterday.

All day long possees beat the woods in an effort to find the negro who was charged with killing his wife and another negro man in Houston, according to Moore, who insisted on using the name of the suspect's name. Physicians said his condition was grave.

There were 470 workers on the train, 33 of them in the first car which bore the brunt of the explosion.

Alamo City Early Military Outpost

(By United Press)

Most historic of all Texas cities is San Antonio, capital of Spanish and Mexican Texas and site of the Alamo, which was founded in 1718.

A villa, presidio and mission made up the first buildings of the town. From St. Anthony came the mission's title. It was an administrative, military and Catholic outpost on the King's Highway from New Spain. That the early Spaniards chose an apt location has been proven by the United States' government which maintains a strong military garrison in the strategic city.

Profiteering for Everybody

Everybody's doing it doesn't make it right. Take wartime profiteering, for instance. World War markets constituted a veritable big game preserve for some financiers and industrialists. Those just listed by the senate munitions investigating committee made profits ranging up to 800 per cent on the four years' slaughter, while 181 individual incomes were hitting the million-a-year mark.

But outside of this dollar-bedecked Who's Who, millions remain who profiteered, wily, milly, on the patriotism of the thirty-dollar-a-month soldier. Perhaps Vincent Astor "did not make a cent out of the war." That is his response to the Nye Committee's list. It is something which few others can say.

Mill hands, steel workers, shipyard employees, munitions plant operatives, big and little shopkeepers, farmers, miners—Of course they had to meet higher taxes and the h. c. t. But they made big profits in the war years. And if they had to part with some of them when they themselves went shopping, they did so in the comfortable cause of war profiteering. "Nobody starves in a war" is one of those sayings which, while not true, are still significant.

This question—will Americans again demand the privilege of profiteering on war, either their own or some other country's?—must be answered before an intelligent attempt can be made to define national defense or the United States' real attitude toward important proposals to fortify world peace. Does "adequate defense" mean ability to defend American shores against invasion or to defend commercial rights in far-off lands, and ability to keep ocean trade channels open right into belligerents' ports? Does it mean defense of the "right" to profit, and even profiteer, on other people's distress?

If so, that is defense of rights which dragged the United States into a World War that, despite the profiteering which the Senate Committee has most usefully recalled to attention, is now generally recognized as a profitless venture all round. People have given up the notion that nations in the long run can profit by war. Will they give up the hope of individual profiteering in it?

Farmer Cooperation Need in Census

The census of agriculture is always considered one of the most important activities of the census bureau for the reason that agriculture is a basic industry upon which all other industries are directly or indirectly concerned. Thus you will realize that the forthcoming enumeration, which will begin January 2, 1935, will have unusual significance not only because of the devastation and havoc wrought by the drought but because of the changes in farms and ranches and in the utilization of land brought about by the depression of the past few years. The results of the census still furnish valuable data of interest to the entire population.

The agricultural census was established in the early days of the Republic. In 1840 farm statistics were procured for the first time in connection with the population census. The need for farm figures was immediately recognized by various agricultural societies and dealers in the principal commodities, and the agricultural census became a permanent institution. From 1840 until 1930 it was taken every ten years. However, the rapid strides made by agriculture caused the United States Department of Agriculture, State departments of agriculture, enumerable delays and worries.

Confidence Comes First

The most potent force for recovery is confidence—confidence on the part of industry, property owners, investors. By the same token, lack of such confidence creates and perpetuates depression.

The San Francisco Call-Bulletin recently observed there are now some ten billion dollars ready to be loaned to business for improvement and expansion... when there is sufficient confidence to justify the risk. The money is now in the banks, but bankers would obviously be unfaithful to their trust if they loaned money without feeling strongly that they can do so in safety.

There are now signs that confidence is returning... that problems are being ironed out, that industrial leaders and public officials are reaching a common ground. If that is true, it will be a blessing for all the people.

Expect Big Field In Governor Race

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 27—If early inquiry is any indication of final action, there may be a record field of candidates for Governor of California four years hence. Already, John Moore, of Los Angeles, has asked Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan to place his name on the next ballot for governor, and inquiries have been received from others wishing information as to filing regulations.

Stain Missionary Held Ohio Church

LIMA, O., Dec. 27—The Rev. J. C. Shan, American missionary, who, with his wife, was slain recently by Chinese bandits formerly was pastor of the Middle River Christian church in a rural district 11 miles from here. He died the Middle River pastor, late from January, 1931, or April, 1932, when he left for China.

In The Year of Our Lord, 1934

Texas Topics By Raymond Brooks

AUSTIN, Dec. 27—A long series of bills revising criminal procedure and based upon the work of the senate crime survey committee, are now being drawn for attention of the legislature three weeks hence. The program is topped off with the measure already announced by Sen. Will Beck, chairman of the committee, for creating a state police.

In the field of utility regulation, the administration secured expert research help and expert counsel and is drawing bills to be definite down to their last clause for submission to the legislature.

In the field of taxation, again, the senate has a committee conducting hearings and making a survey and recommendations. The administration named its tax commissioners early, and he joined the group. The committee and the administration are causing numerous tax bills to be drawn.

One significant aspect of this is that the future administration is working closely with these men who will have to decide the fate of its proposals, the members of the senate, and working with those groups in the senate in the matters in which their members have special-ty.

There are at least three or four other phases of public policy receiving thought and finding expression in legislation to be submitted in the long session, and these extend to further cooperation between the executive and at least individual members of the lawmaking bodies.

Organizations representing the insurance buyers of Texas have succeeded in causing postponement of a hearing, after it had started of the insurance commission on automobile and motor vehicle insurance regulations for 1935. Uniform policy forms had been promulgated and only the rate-sheet remained for attention, when appeals caused an adjournment of a hearing on the matter until Jan. 24.

Man, Dying for Lack of Sleep 13 Years Ago, Is Happy in Not Being a 'Wanter'

LA PORTE, Tex., Dec. 27.—Thomas Franklin, 69, condemned to death by doctors 13 years ago because he didn't sleep enough, today claimed he has found the secret of happiness. He learned not to be a "wanter."

Franklin lived at Austin, Texas 13 years ago and prospered with a machinery maintenance business. But "foolishly," he said, he was trying to do too much. He didn't get enough sleep. He was ordered to rest because he didn't have more than three months to live. He started towards Florida where he owned property, but he got only as far as La Porte.

"Man, was I weak," he said ruefully. "I was so weak I couldn't lift the planks into place over my head, so I built my boat upside down, so I could slide them up over the frames and lie on them to hold in place while I nailed them."

"I liked it so much that I stayed," he said. "I'd always liked boats and sailing, so I started building a boat... this one right here," said pointing to a vessel pulled up onto the shore.

"There's not a thing out there I want," he said, waving toward the horizon. "I loved the world as it was about 1900. Now I don't understand it and I don't understand the people. I don't know what they are striving for that makes them so unhappy. I must be perfection. If that's so, they'll never find it. Nothing is perfect."

"I wouldn't trade what I have here for anything you could give me out there. You see, I'm not a 'wanter'."

Trotsky Is Told To Let Politics Alone

PARIS, Dec. 27—The French government has sent a warning to Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian revolutionist now, hiding 200 miles south of Paris, that he will be deported across the French border if he again breaks his pledge to refrain from political activity.

The United Press learned that the Soviet government had complained to French authorities that Trotsky was actively influencing Russians to political actions.

A live city gives its newspapers hearty support. Any business man who is alive knows that the newspapers are not only business builders, but they are the greatest community builders in existence.

The business concerns that constantly keep their business before prospective customers by newspaper advertising are the ones who reap the reward of such progressiveness.

The problem of debts occurred at a time when the price of goods and services were on a much higher level than they are today.

The cheapest road to quick results is through the classified ads.

ALLIGATOR KILLED McALLEN, Dec. 27—U. S. border patrolman Walter Wells bagged alligator which was more than 100 feet long and weighed 150 pounds.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

WASHINGTON—The Munitions Committee, which made so much hair stand up by its revelations early this fall, is now dead broke.

Loaded with new sensations after further months of exploration and excavation, the investigating senators, headed by Nye of North Dakota, will resume hearings Dec. 4 and call before them a new batch of celebrated practitioners in the "iron, blood, and profits" racket.

But its investigative staff, decimated to a wisp of its former strength by depletion of funds, will be serving without pay through December.

At the next hearings you'll learn that American manufacturers of machine guns are now operating their factories 24 hours a day and the committee probably will inquire whether the prospect of possible use against the unemployed is a factor in the boom as well as into sales methods and foreign markets.

The committee also has been edging closer to the activities of certain politicians in connection with munitions operations—and some of those boys may be on the griddle too.

But the committee has only begun the task assigned to it. Hobbled by lack of funds and personnel, it may yet plunge into the secrets of certain other industries—steel, for instance—which maintain powerful undercover lobbies in Washington.

Friends of the investigation are set to combat anticipated secret efforts of a lobbyist to block further appropriations. The committee began last May with a grant of $39,000, which has been

THE NEW FANGLES (Mom'n Pop)

DESDEMONA

One of the prettiest parties of the season was that given at the home of Mrs. A. C. Moore on Tuesday afternoon of last week for the "21" Study club. Mrs. A. C. Moore was co-hostess with Mrs. Moore. The large living room and dining-room were attractively decorated with Christmas color and a large Xmas tree. Mrs. W. E. Patton was leader of the Bible day program and read as a Scripture lesson the second chapter of Luke. Members responded to roll call by giving favorite Bible verses. All repeated the Lord's Prayer and then sang "Holy Night" after which Mrs. J. F. Hester read very beautifully the poem by Lexie Dean Robertson "If I Had Been in Bethlehem." Mrs. W. C. Bedford talked on "Heroes of the Bible" and then followed an exchange of gifts from the Christmas tree. The hostesses served a very pretty refreshment plate of perfection salad on lettuce, toasted saltines with cheese, fruit cake topped with whipped cream and coffee. Plate favors were tiny Christmas candles in candle sticks made of gum drops and mints. Those present were: Mrs. Hewitt, a guest who has recently moved to Desdemona, and Mrs. Arnold Anderson, Roy Ashburn, W. E. Barron, W. C. Bedford, Mattie Henry, A. B. Henslee, J. E. Heeter, C. W. Maiboy, John Mendell, A. C. Moore, David Parks, A. C. Robert, S. E. Snodgrass, M. P. Williams and Fred Welder. Mr. and Mrs. David Parks drove up to Berkeley on Tuesday morning of last week on business. Mrs. Dewey Jones and Mrs. Ellis Rouse were shopping in Ranger Friday. Mrs. C. A. Skipping and Mrs. Hugh Abel were shopping at Ranger Wednesday. Misses Dorace Roe and Bernice Roe, both of whom have good positions in insurance offices in Abilene came home Saturday and visited with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Roe until Tuesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rushing had as their guests for Christmas day her sister, Mrs. Worth Smith, husband and four children of Elmsville, her mother, Mrs. John Williams of Salem and Mrs. J. H. Rushing, Sr. and her son, Weldon Rushing.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

WELLSVILLE, CALIFORNIA was being down combinations like Pittsburg and Georgia, and playing Notre Dame off its feet. In the final period at Baton Rouge, it marked the fifth defeat for the Stanford steam-roller followed an Oregon State tank into New York. The Aggies were not highly regarded before they trimmed a good New York University combination, 25-13, on Thanksgiving Day. There were the inevitable raves about the young giants of Corvallis, but Broadway hadn't seen anything yet.

Two Looks Convince Army Warner is Right

Washington State, which went through the Pacific Coast Conference campaign without a reverse, bowed to Detroit, 6-0. Texas Christian upheld the prestige of the south west with a 5-7 triumph over Stanford and which was rated on San Francisco by form charts second only to the Cardinals among far western tri-angles.

Stanford Strives to Regain Lost Prestige

It is a perfect setting for Warner, the master showman, and the old master saw to it that Hoffman, Sims, and other expert ball handlers made the most of the confidants. The Cardinals now feasts of legend. This rout and a 34-13 smothering at the hands of Stanford 'way out west the following year led to the double wingback Warner system being installed at West Point. Those dizzy and delightful days of leadership are only pleasant memories of the rapid coast football fibert now living it Stanford happens again to stab its toe in the Rose Bowl.

British Movie Fans Still Prefer Stars From Hollywood, Screen Ballotting Shows

LONDON, Dec. 27.—Hollywood stars still are Britain's favorite movie entertainment, to judge by the recent voting of 125,000 Brits.

For the third year in succession film fans of Great Britain recorded their screen likes and dislikes. The census showed that the majority of British film-goers still evince a marked preference for Hollywood stars over their native ones.

The male star at the top of the poll was George Arliss. He was followed, in order of preference, by Clab Gable, Wallace Beery, Clive Brook, Robert Montgomery and Ronald Coleman. The six favorite feminine stars were Norma Shearer, Kay Francis, Marlene Dietrich and Katherine Hepburn.

Clark Gable, who took second place among male stars this year, was only twenty-eighth in 1933, while Maurice Chevalier on the other hand has dropped from fifth to nineteenth place. Constance Bennett has slumped in favor from No. 2 feminine star to No. 23. Katherine Hepburn, who holds sixth place this year, did not even figure in the 1933 list.

The most unpopular stars were James Cagney and Mae West. Last year they were John

An Encouraging YEAR-END SUMMARY. The second year of progressive effort toward national recovery has come to a close. Important events and sweeping changes have taken place. While it is true that the goal toward which we are striving has not yet been reached, nevertheless, it has been brought definitely nearer. For the most part, the year-end published reviews of trade activities reveal encouraging improvement. Business leaders express optimism over the New Year outlook. We believe that there is a real and solid foundation for this growing confidence which is manifest everywhere. We expect business to be better in 1935 than it was in 1934 and we hope that you and your friends may benefit in due measure from the expected improvement.

The Cisco State Bank. The body forward so that passenger's eye ride between the axles, and the development of rear quarter panel treatment along flowing lines. The car is approximately eight inches longer from bumper to bumper. Modern Design. The modern design note is carried without break through the new slanting vertical grille with horizontal beading, the sweeping line of the low hood and more sharply slanting windshield, the beautifully molded body and the flowing rear quarter panel. Fenders are deeper and more highly crowned, with sweeping skirts. Bodies are materially wider. Slanting vertical louvers with horizontal stainless steel beading are combined to form an attractive hoodside adornment. The radiator ornament is fixed in position, the radiator filler cap being under the hood. Wheels are smaller, tires larger. The hub caps are adorned with a new and modern treatment of the V-8 insignia. The result is an impression of mass and stability most pleasing to the eye. Interiors are roomier, with wider seats. Front and rear. Span of the front seats, has been increased up to 5 1/2 inches, providing room without crowding for three persons in bodies with full-width seats. Driver's seat in all closed cars is adjustable. Upholstery and appointments harmonize with the remainder of the design. SNOW CLOSED PARK. CRATER LAKE NATIONAL Park, Ore., Dec. 27.—Snow has closed the four entrances to the park and made prisoners for the winter of six men. PENNSYLVANIA VIRGIN FOREST WILL BE SAVED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 — In acquiring Pennsylvania's Tionesta Forest, the government is preserving one of the most famous and interesting remnants of virgin forest in the East as a laboratory for science, according to the American Forestry association.

The 400-acre tract, recently approved for purchase by the National Forestry Reservation Commission, constitutes one-third of the original forest remaining in Pennsylvania Delaware, New Jersey and Maryland.

Huge Original Tract

It is said to be the largest tract of original forest found between the Adirondacks and the Great Smoky Mountains in Tennessee. Tionesta Forest is most famous for its magnificent virgin hemlocks. Many of the trees are 500 years old and measure up to four feet in diameter. The forest also boasts what is believed to be the largest sugar maple tree in the United States.

Black cherries more than 100 feet high, and ancient beeches nearly 125 feet high and from two to four feet in diameter, also are present. Wild life abounds in Tionesta.

Acquisition of Forest

Acquisition of Tionesta Forest by the government, Ovid Butler, secretary of the association, said, "is eminently desirable as a laboratory for the promotion of the science of forestry."

Although the forest was acquired chiefly for scientific purposes, it was pointed out that its preservation as a sample of the superb forest resource with which the East was once endowed will serve public education as well as nature lovers.

Snared Thieves 'Holed Up' in Mine

Thieves were trapped in the Liberty, Pa., mine where this guard stood grimly on watch, gun ready to thwart their escape, with every other exit from the pit similarly watched by armed men. The pilferers fled and by a brother, C. H. McBee of Eastland. A highway tag discovered in the trousers pocket of the skeleton was sent to the highway department for identification.

Negro Is Irked By Delay of Courts

Identified By Teeth

Although physicians found no marks of violence on the skeleton, it was pointed out that knife wounds would not show, all the flesh long since having disappeared.

Identification of the skeleton as that of McBee coincides with testimony of a man living a mile and a half southeast of Rising Star who said that no the night of McBee's disappearance he heard a man groaning and saying, "You have already cut me to pieces. Carry me to a hospital."

This was in a clearing of an old field just south of his place. About a mile due north of this place, by a lateral road, the cemetery may be reached. A field in the H. E. Head estate managed by O. C. Broaden is about a quarter mile from the cemetery. About 60 yards from the field and almost in sight from it hung the skeleton from a small post oak tree.

Both suicide and murder theories have been investigated. It was notable that the wire by which the skeleton was found hanging was not of a very heavy variety. Neither had it cut deeply into the branch of the tree as it might have done had the wind been blowing a heavy body attached to the wire for 18 months.

The circumstance of the foot of leaves below the skeleton in contrast to the light covering of them about the ground in the surrounding area was notable.

The man's hands were not tied, it was pointed out, and there was a strong branch above his head which might have given a hold had he not been dead before the hanging took place.

"Next to Advertising Matter"

There used to be a favorite phrase of advertisers. They asked to have their advertisements placed "next to reading matter" in the belief that such a position would assure more attention.

But today the editor might well ask to have his news items placed "next to advertising matter," for very definitely the advertisements have a tremendous reader following. Today's advertisements win eager attention because they help people buy intelligently, quickly, without waste of time, and get full value for the money spent.

That is the great function of advertising—to guide you swiftly and surely to wise, economical buying. The best advertisement is always the one that gives you the facts you want—simply, honestly, without exaggeration.

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

By MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

LET'S all begin the New Year right by making a resolution to bring greater gusto to our cooking than we have ever brought before. Let's resolve to look on our kitchens as places where we are to give the best that is in us to the most important of the arts.

And while we are about it, how about a twelfth-night supper to start 1935 off with a bang? The old custom in France and England was to bake a twelfth-night cake with a bean and a pea in it. The person who found the bean was the king of the evening and she who found the pea was the queen.

The idea has its points for modern use. The king and queen might choose their courtiers by drawing lots. Then burn the Christmas greens for luck according to custom, while the court jester does his clownish tricks and the minstrel sings his song.

Ready Prepared Supper
The supper menu which follows is easy to handle because nearly everything is done before the guests arrive. The brown pottery casseroles are in the oven and the oysters are ready to heat, while the cake has been baked in the morning and beef roasted the day before.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, cereal, cream, buckwheat cakes and country sausage, syrup, milk, coffee.
NEW YEAR DINNER: Good Luck canapes, auilenne vegetable soup, roast duck with potato and chestnut stuffing, giblet gravy, baked squash, French fried onions, creamed turnips, jellied tomato salad, angel parfait, fruit cake, coffee.

SUPPER: Oysters Remick, cold fish, pumpnickle, apricot ice-box cake, milk, coffee.

Oysters Remick
Allow four or five oysters for each person to be served. Heat them in their own liquor until plump. Then drain and dip in mayonnaise highly seasoned with chili sauce, paprika, a little English mustard and a dash of tabasco sauce. Return oysters to their shells and on top of each one place a square of thinly sliced bacon. Sprinkle over with buttered crumbs and slide under the broiling flame for two or three minutes to cook the bacon and lightly brown the crumbs. Serve on a large plate, arranging the oysters around a lemon basket filled with tartar sauce.

Cider Punch
Five cups sweet cider, juice 1 lemon, 1-2 lemon, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 cup cherry, 3-4 cup brandy, 1-8 teaspoon nutmeg. Pare off the yellow rind of 1-2 lemons, taking a thin paring. Put this in a bowl and add sugar, crushing rind and sugar. Add cherry and lemon juice and cider and chill thoroughly. When ready to serve add brandy and nutmeg. Pour over a block of ice in punch bowl and serve.

LANT CREPE MYRTLES

RUSK, Dec. 27.—Under the direction of Sam Rix, local highway superintendent, 4,000 crepe myrtles are being planted along the highway from Jacksonville to Love's Lookout, a state park created through a gift by Mrs. Wesley Love of part of her husband's estate. These plantings are part of a park beautification project begun last summer. The crepe myrtles will terminate in a rose garden which is being planted by the Jacksonville Garden Club.

the $32,000,000 collected annually by Tennessee.

The state also faces the probability of losing a $2,500,000 highway construction fund appropriated in the federal aid program. To obtain the allotment, Tennessee must match dollar for dollar.

Beginning with July, Tennessee is to begin paying a $47,000,000 bonded indebtedness assumed for construction of state and county highways. The 1933 legislature appropriated three cents of the gasoline tax for this purpose.

Two cents was allotted for county roads, one cent to retire deficit of the Great Smoky Mountain Park bonds, and one-tenth of a cent for bond payments. The last legislature also diverted $500,000 each to the general and relief funds.

Such acts left only one-tenth of a cent of the gasoline revenues for construction and maintenance of highways.

A Motor Taxpayers Association is campaigning for veto of the diversions so that sufficient collections will remain for maintenance and a $5,000,000 yearly construction program.

BACKDROP FOR TRIAL SCENE IS TYPICAL VILLAGE OF AMERICA

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Dec. 27.—It is the unofficial meeting place of a great city, will go on trial for his life on "Main Street" of a typical American village.

International interest will be focused on Flemington, seat of Hunterdon county, and the trading center of one of New Jersey's richest agricultural sections.

A walk along Main Street from the northern end leading to the Lehigh Valley Railroad station down an avenue of trees past the hotel and the ancient court house and past the road leading to Hopewell, would require less than half an hour.

Wide Thoroughfare
Main Street is a wide thoroughfare, paved and shaded by tall spreading trees. It grows from a row of pleasant, attractive homes to a bustling center of activity near the court house.

Stores with red fronts and shops with brown and gray exteriors line each side of the street to the north of the court house. Directly across from the white plaster building, with its bell cupola and imposing pillars, stands the Union Hotel, the village's only inn. It is rambling and comfortable. Its long porch is filled with villagers and visitors stopping to pass the time of day.

A country club, a vineyard, the water works, schools and a line the outskirts of the village. North of the court house and at division of Main Street stands Soldier's monument. To the east of the library, away from the business of Main Street, is the Indian cemetery, a reminder that Flemington is one of New Jersey's pioneer settlements.

Produce Farms
The country-side around is dotted with produce and poultry farms. Automobiles and even horse and buggies arrive constantly this village of 3,900 to barter vegetables, poultry and eggs for necessities of life.

The villagers gossip about an impending trial. The factors more concerned over market prices and the coming Spring.
