Crime Fighting Body Voted By Texas House

STATE POLICE MEASURE GOES TO GOVERNOR

AUSTIN, May 7 — Creation of a state department of public safety to combat crime with coordinated ranger and highway patrol forces was voted by the Texas house of representatives today, 83 to 44. The conference report already had been adopted by the senate and it now goes to the governor for his signature.

Since the state democratic platform approved such a plan Gov. Allred is expected to sign the bill.

Objectors to the bill who had protested against the ax-swinging activities of state rangers continued their assaults.

"It's the setup we're opposed to, not the purpose," said J. C. McConnell of Palo Pinto.

Cato Defense Loses First Two Motions

DALLAS, May 7 — Two defense motions were overruled today as examination of jurors began in the general court trial of Sheriff W. F. Cato, N. C. Outlaw, and E. R. Bradcock, all of Post, on charges of conspiracy to impede justice.

Judge W. H. Atwell overruled a defense motion to quash the indictment and another asking the government to try the defendants on either one of two counts in the indictment instead of both counts.

Walter McGee Given Stay of Execution

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 7. — Guy Park today granted Walter McGee, condemned to die for kidnapping Miss McElroy, a stay of execution until May 31.

McGee was scheduled to hang in the Jackson county jail at Kansas City Friday. Gov. Park said his action in granting the 21 day reprieve was to allow him more time to study the case in detail. Miss McElroy and her father, H. F. McElroy, city manager of Kansas City, had asked him to commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

McDonald Ready To Reply To Charges

AUSTIN, May 7. — J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, today volunteered to go before the legislature to answer charges against his department outlined in a resolution adopted by the house of representatives.

"My first thought in this matter is the people of Texas. I have not betrayed their confidence. I have not misused one dollar of the state's money, and I stand ready to go before the committee, as the state legislature as a whole to answer any and every charge," McDonald said in a public statement.

Recovery Drive Is Touched Off Today

WASHINGTON, May 7 — Eighteen New Deal leaders and five representatives of the country at large today touched off the administration's $4,880,000,000 recovery drive with the initial meeting of President Roosevelt's work allotment board.

They were called by Chairman Harold Ickes to sit in round table conference at the White House and take definite steps toward distribution of the money to all corners of the nation to create 7,000,000 jobs.

Langer Is Granted New Fraud Hearing

ST. PAUL, May 7. — Gov. William Langer of North Dakota, convicted last year on a charge of fraud and deposed from office, today was granted a new trial by the United States district court of appeals here.

Four other members of Langer's administration, convicted with him, likewise received new trials. Charges against them were that they used federal relief funds to further their own political interests through their newspaper, "The Leader."

It's Hepburn, as Natural as Life

Katharine Hepburn may feel that her beauty hasn't received full justice, but she'll have to admit the striking likeness in this made by Doane Powell and shown at the Industrial Arts exposition in New York with nearly 40 others of film and political celebrities. The mask is held by Grace Moore, opera and cinema star.

Radio Working Badly On Big Airliner Before It Crashed, Plane's Log Says

MACON, Mo., May 7. — The log of the demolished "Sky Chief," luxury night air liner of the Transcontinental-Western Airways, Inc., revealed today that the plane's radio was working improperly almost from the time it left Los Angeles until it crashed in a pasture near here.

Five persons, including Senator Bronson Cutting, perished in the accident. The fifth death, that of Mrs. William Kaplan of Los Angeles, wife of a Hollywood film executive, occurred today.

The log of the $90,000 airliner was introduced at today's session of the inquiry under the heading "Los Angeles to Albuquerque leg" was this entry: "Radio will not work on night frequency."

Under "Albuquerque to Kansas City leg" were these entries: "Radio transmitter out. Two way receiver very weak."

The crash of the big plane occurred Monday morning when the pilots, after spending several hours in the air due to fog and darkness, attempted to make a forced landing without being able to see what was below them. The fuel supply had been exhausted, it was said.

Of the 11 passengers on the plane only two escaped serious injury. The dead, besides Senator Cutting and Mrs. Kaplan, are Miss Jane Hillman, Kansas City; Pilot Harvey Bolton, Kansas City; and Co-pilot Kenneth Greeson, Kansas City.

MORE ITALIAN FIGHTING MEN ORDERED OUT

ROME, May 7. — Further extensive mobilization of Italian military forces was announced officially today, placing on a war footing approximately 284,000 men.

It was officially explained that the mobilization is due to the necessity of guaranteeing Italy's safety in view of "heavy supplies of arms sent to the capital of Abyssinia by several European factories" and also because of Abyssinia's mobilization.

FRANCO-BRITISH PACT UP TO PARLIAMENT

LONDON, May 7. — The issue of whether Great Britain should assist France with troops if Germany further repudiated the Versailles treaty by violating the demilitarized zone of the Rhineland, by before parliament today in the house of commons.

Sir John Simon, foreign secretary said: "Our obligations are plainly stated in the Locarno pact. If the need arises, we intend to fulfill them faithfully."

Dallas Girl Killed In Highway Crash

FORT WORTH, May 7. — Fort Worth's automobile fatality total climbed to 30 today with the death early this morning of Miss Helen McElroy, 22, Dallas, in a crash on the Jacksboro highway. Two companions were injured, one seriously, when their machine plowed into the rear of a truck.

The award for reporters' work went to William Taylor, of the sports staff of the New York Herald-Tribune for his series on the American cup races.

"Now in November," the first novel by Joseph Johnson, won the fiction award. The best play prize was given for "The Old Maid." It was written by Zoe Aiken. Arthur Krock, Washington correspondent of the New York Times, received the prize for the best correspondent's work reflecting scenes in the nation's capital under the New Deal.

Couple Killed In Crash at Midland

MIDLAND, May 7. — Billy Thompson, 22, brother of Col. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the state railroad commission, and Miss Mary Mann, 18, daughter of Rev. W. R. Mann, Presbyterian minister, were killed in an automobile crash near Midland today.

The accident occurred when the automobile in which they were riding sideswiped another car on the highway.

Young Thompson had been on his way to Midland to meet another brother, Otto Thompson of Amarillo, who was attending the Rotary convention here.

THINK ALLRED TO SIGN BILL FOR JUBILEE

AUSTIN, May 7. — Governor Allred today signed the Centennial appropriation bill.

AUSTIN, May 7. — Belief grew here today that Governor James Allred will not go down in state history as the governor who vetoed a Centennial appropriation bill.

Instead his promised message to the legislature was expected to announce signing of the $3,000,000 bill and a request to the legislators to provide revenue.

There was a rumor prevalent at the state house that he would ask the legislators to rescind their resolution for sine die adjournment at noon Saturday and remain in session to pass revenue measures.

Others doubted that a continuation would be asked. They thought it more probable that the governor would let the legislators go home, hear from the people, and later reassemble them.

LOBBY CHARGE HURLED ABOUT BY HOFHEINZ

AUSTIN, May 7. — Rep. Roy Hofheinz, the "burning boy orator from Buffalo Bayou," delivered himself of a few well-chosen blasts at lobbying dentists in the state legislature recently.

He charged a spectator in the gallery, and his blonde woman companion, a Houston woman whom he said he knew and liked, with flagrant lobbying throughout the present session.

"They told me if I were not for them they would give me hell two years from now. I told them, as I tell you now," Hofheinz shouted into the public address microphone, "that if there was any hell-giving to be done, I would be the one that would give it."

The Houston representative delivered an open attack upon Rep. J. C. Duvall of Tarrant county, who had vigorously attacked the proposed dental advertising regulation measure then under consideration.

He told the house that Rep. Duvall was attorney for the owner of a chain of dental establishments from "coast to coast," and that Duvall had written him asking that he give the doctor a "careful audience" when the latter called on Hofheinz in Houston.

As he talked, Rep. Hofheinz displayed large dental advertisements clipped from newspapers.

Rep. Tom Cooper, Smith county newspaper publisher, himself among the youngest members of the house, ascribed congressional ambitions to his colleague from Houston.

He said: "In talking about advertising, doesn't Mr. Hofheinz think we realize he is advertising himself for congress. I've heard rumors of it."

Jobless Starving In Illinois Tangle

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 7. — Actual starvation was reported in 15 downstate counties today as armed sentries stood guard outside the state house where legislators met for a new showdown on the relief crisis.

Heavy patrols of state highway police were posted about the capitol to maintain order among a band of hunger marchers reportedly enroute to Springfield. Many of the marchers were mobilized in the coal mining districts south of here where food has been cut off to thousands of destitute families.

Wilfred Reynolds, executive director of the Illinois emergency relief commission, reported men, women, and children were going hungry as a result of a statewide closing of relief depots.

Chinese Wed 'in Mass,' Save Cash

These long lines of brides and bridegrooms, 57 couples, wending their way to the altar, are China's answer to the high cost of marriage, which often keeps Chinese couples in debt for years. Shanghai's mayor officiated at this first Oriental mass marriage, and wedding garments were limited in cost to about $6, with one bridesmaid and one best man serving for the whole assemblage.

Claude Wilson Hurls No-Hit Game As Garner's Wins From Nance By 4 to 1

Claude Wilson, young fastball mound ace for Garner's yesterday realized the ambition of every pitcher when he hurled a no-hit game to give his team a 4 to 1 victory over the Nance club, that meant a climb in the league percentage column.

Wilson's brilliant achievement was marred only by the fact that a fielding error in the fifth inning kept him from earning a no-hit play in the first two innings.

Hodges scored in the fifth for Nance. He was safe when his drive to second was dropped, and after advancing to third scored on a sacrifice.

Riese, pitching for Nance, hurled a good game but found it tough going against the Garner boys.

PRISON BOARD IGNORES TALK OF BRUTALITY

HOUSTON, May 7. — The Texas prison board today had completed its regular meeting without taking notice of the legislature charge of alleged brutalities at Retrieve Prison farm.

A member of the board said no action should be taken on the report because it had not been submitted to the body. All the meetings had "to go by was the newspaper account of the committee findings," he said.

It was understood, however, that tension was high because of rumors that the board would dismiss Lee Simmons, general manager of the prison system. The rumors apparently were groundless.

Nursery School's Enrollment Growing

An increase of enrollment in the nursery school was reported by school officials today. This enrollment is expected to reach 50 by Friday.

The nursery school is prepared to serve lunches to children who attend to the extent of 85. Those who have children whom they wish to enroll in the nursery school will call at the high school for information.

Nursery instruction consists of children games, health practices, cooperation both in work and play, and singing.

The meals are being prepared under the direct supervision of an expert dietitian.

SAN ANTONIO, May 7. — The bodies of Charles Leake, Sr., San Antonio paper manufacturer, and his wife were found today in their car on a road 10 miles from here. Both had been shot to death.

A passing motorist noticed the bodies and notified officers. Investigators said Mrs. Leake's body was in the rear seat. Her husband's body was in the front seat. A pistol lay in Lak's lap.

Charles Leake, Jr., a son, enlisted officers in the search for his parents when they failed to return from a visit to the city.

Presbyterian Men Are Given Banquet

The men of the First Presbyterian church and members of the Men's Bible class enjoyed a banquet at the church last night, given by the losing side of the Bible class in a recent contest.

Several short talks were made by members of the class and visitors. Mr. Mayfield of East Texas was the guest of H. C. Henderson for the evening.

S. E. Hittson's orchestra furnished music during the social.

NO ARRESTS IN SHOOTING HERE SUNDAY NIGHT

Cisco police today had not made any arrests in connection with the shooting of Joe Shelton, negro, here Sunday night.

"We are still working on it," they said "and hope to have some information as to who did the shooting before long."

They continued to stick to the theory that the shooting was done by two white men, neither of whom had been identified by negro witnesses.

The shooting took place at a negro residence here about 11 o'clock Sunday night. It was said to have occurred following a drunken argument in which the whites were accused to leave the place.

Shelton was shot in the left leg. Gertrude Williams, negro, held for questioning yesterday, was freed today, police said.

Few Crazy Farm Women

Country life, with all its charms, has long been supposed to have a bad mental effect on women. Literature and tradition are full of stories of farmers' wives driven mad by the loneliness and monotony of their existence.

Now this view is questioned in a quarter where authoritative evidence is to be expected—in the insane asylums. Figures gathered from many state hospitals show fewer rural inmates than city inmates, per population. They also show that, quite contrary to the usual view, there are fewer insane farm women than farm men.

One big hospital, in a state about half industrial and half agricultural, shows a surprisingly small proportion of women patients, only 172 from rural communities to 889 from urban communities.

"I think," says the superintendent, "that there is no justification for the claim that there is a larger percentage of insanity among farmers' wives than among other women." Another asylum superintendent says: "The belief that insanity was more prevalent among farmers' wives than other wives was due to the same line of reasoning that caused us to believe insanity was due to diabolical possession from having looked too long at the moon."

Possibly the real reason for this error is the fact that mental aberration in a rural community is conspicuous and much talked about, whereas in the city it is less noticeable. At any rate, the conclusion is inescapable that city confusion drives people crazy—men and women both—more than country isolation.

Nation of Fidgeters

David Belasco, as a theatrical man, is much concerned about the inability of the American people to sit still and give calm attention to what is going on. We are becoming a nation of fidgeters, squirmers and wrigglers, he says.

"Men twiddle their watch chains, pluck nervously at their chins, caress their ears or crack their finger joints continuously. Women are always making minor adjustments of their bobbed hair, shifting nervously in their seats, tearing at programs or handkerchiefs or frankly consulting vanity cases and powder puffs at moments when, if their nervous systems were normal, they would be too interested in what is proceeding before their eyes to think of extraneous matters."

It is a bad situation—not so bad as he represents, perhaps, but bad enough and likely to grow worse if something isn't done to counteract it. The restlessness and fidgeting must be overcome if the nation, individually and collectively, is not to deteriorate.

The big need of Americans in general today seems to be mental poise. That would give them physical poise. And it can be cultivated deliberately.

Two simple things will help much. One is regular physical exercise, which calms the body and therefore helps to calm the mind, and the other is plenty of sleep.

Regular Session Ends May 11

Texas lawmakers will adjourn the regular session May 11. Hundreds of bills are on the calendar. There are important "must" bills, including the proposal to collect and place in the treasury to the credit of the general revenue fund $8,000,000 to $10,000,000. Texas needs the money. There is another "must" bill which calls for a constitutional amendment to provide for relief funds in 1936 should relief funds be in demand by those who are out of work and willing to work as well as those who are able to work and do not care to work.

Speaking of laws and lawmakers in the four months of 1935, 44 state legislatures enacted 9223 laws at a cost of approximately $10,000,000 or somewhat more than $1,000 a law. Thirty-four legislatures are still in session. They have before them 49,000 additional bills. It is predicted that about July 1 the country will have received around 11,000 new laws from its state law factories. The congress continues to grind. President Roosevelt is hoping for a recess movement in July. There are thousands of bills on calendars or in committee rooms. Americans manufacture more laws in a single year than all the nations of continental Europe. Indeed they manufacture more laws and pay less heed to the annual output than any people on the map of the world.

Good News Follows Downpour

The Texas Panhandle bombs the dust-hidden skies for rain in vain, but it does get a shower of encouraging news. Wenatchee, Washington, wires that billions of blossoms are a-flutter in pink and white, and that the benches above the Columbia, the Okanogan, the Entait and the Methow will yield the grandest Spitzbergen, Jonathans and Winesaps ever. Then mightier news even from the dust bowls of Kansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Splash, bang, deluge, they wire, come the downpours. For days the Southwest had done a different sort of dynamiting—Watching black clouds and trying to prick them with prayer.

Egypt Repudiates Like Big Nations

By royal decree Egypt repudiates all its obligations to pay in gold whatever specified in papers or securities of an international character. Even interest on the public debt turns a cold ear to protesting bondholders. Egypt will base its act on a kind of super-legal authority—Meaning that the biggest nations have set it this excellent bad example.

AUSTIN, May 7.—Dick Humphries is a page in the house of representatives. When he struck a deal with another page to buy the other's bicycle, he composed this bill, to make T. Roy McWhorter, declare Dick Humphries, owner of the used-to-be-my-bicycle. The set price is to be $15.70. The witness, Mr. Henry Rogers, will see that no mistake is made in the sale of the bicycle and there will be no cheating done in the agreement.

The Jones claim in the Texas legislature had its group picture made this week. The Joneses outnumber the Smiths five to one this time. They are Herman Jones of Decatur, Hugh Jones of Center, Harvey O. Jones of Winters, Reggie Jones of Eddy and Walter E. Jones of Jacksonville. Assistant Reading Clerk Jones rounds out the bloc.

Sen Roy Sanderford, chairman of the committee on banks and banking said a group of corrective banking bills, to give the state the broadest benefit under a number of federal banking and currency acts, will be brought up for action here.

Gov. Alfred has been relieved of the cross-fire of efforts usually developing at the close of a session for the immediate call of a special session. Those who foresee adoption of the prohibition repeal amendment August 24 recognize that a session in September will be necessary to set up liquor-sale machinery and regulations also see that the governor's program of taxation utility control and other unfinished business can be taken care of then.

The certainly of this session and the fact that taxes can more easily be levied after the money is spent, is claimed the surest basis of expecting approval of the $3,000,000 Centennial appropriation.

Neigh-Easies Are Found in Chicago

CHICAGO, May 7.—Bookmakers for the race tracks, outlawed in Chicago, have recalled a lesson they learned in the dead, dry days of prohibition—they have established neigh-easies.

Alley entrances, peepholes, shields, secret knocks, and other echoes of the prohibition days are being popularized again, despite sporadic police drives which shut down recognized pony bet shops—at least temporarily.

MILK PLANT CONSIDERED
RENO, Nev.—A skim milk processing plant may be established in Nevada to enable ranchers to dispose of their surplus milk, according to local relief officials. The plant would provide an outlet for the proposed purchases of skim milk in line with the government's policy of taking surplus commodities off the market.

The DARK BLOND

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MILICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE DRINGOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. JANNIS HAPP, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a blonde. She takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. She meets MRS. HAPP, HAPP's son, NORMAN, his stepson, ROBERT CAISE, HAPP's partner, DICK GENTRY, VERA DUCHENE, Mrs. HAPP's maid.

In Happa's home Millicent sees the mysterious "woman in black" whom she believes has some connection with Dringold's death. The chauffeur is found dead. Later Happa is kidnapped. Millicent and Norman learn the car driven by the woman in black belongs to PHYLLIS FAULCONER. They go to her apartment. Norman enters first. When he does not return Millicent follows. The place is in wild disorder and Norman is not in sight. Millicent escapes. She goes to the nearby garage where DETECTIVE HIRSHMAN accuses her of being PHYLLIS FAULCONER. SERGEANT MAHONEY arrives and tells her all that has happened. He says Norman is in great danger. He asks if she will help try to save him. Millicent agrees to try.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLVII
SERGEANT MAHONEY stopped the car in front of the apartment house. "I have been thinking," he said, "about Gentry. You say that he tried a key to apartment 309 and it wouldn't work?"

"That's right."

"Then, until he got to apartment 309 he must have thought the key was going to work."

"Yes, Why?"

"In that event," he said, "he must have used the key to get into the apartment house. In other words, he must have opened the outer door with that key."

She stared at him, her forehead showing lines of bewilderment.

"In other words," Mahoney said, "someone gave Gentry a key to apartment 309. That someone had another apartment in the house and must have given Gentry the key to that apartment instead of apartment 309. Both keys would open the door of the apartment house itself. The peculiar knocks were merely a signal so the conspirators couldn't be surprised by anyone with a pass-key."

Millicent recognized the logic of his remarks. "Good heavens, yes! And perhaps that other apartment is where..."

"Exactly," he interrupted. "Now that apartment must be on the third floor. Norman was carried from that apartment 309. He would never have left it voluntarily. They would hardly have taken him up or downstairs."

Sergeant Mahoney stepped from the car, rang the bell of the apartment marked "MANAGER". At the third ring a speaking tube whistled. A woman's voice said, "If this is a tenant who's forgotten a key, I'll open the door. If it's someone who wants an apartment, come back at a decent hour."

"It's the police," Sergeant Mahoney said. "Open the door and meet us in the corridor with a pass-key."

A moment later the door pushed open. Sergeant Mahoney pushed his way into the apartment house. Millicent saw a big, blond woman with a white, frightened face, begging a glimpse about herself.

Sergeant Mahoney showed her his badge. "Give me a pass-key," he said.

SHE handed him the pass-key. Sergeant Mahoney escorted Millicent to the elevator, slid back the door of the cage, pressed the button for the third floor.

"When you get to that floor," he said, "get out and run up and down the corridor screaming, 'Norman, where are you?' After that, no matter what happens, act naturally—that is, be frightened. Don't let on that you know the police have the place surrounded. For your information, I have my place placed where they can come to your rescue whenever I give the signal, but I don't want to do that until I've got some incriminating evidence."

She nodded.

"Good luck," he told her, stepping down the elevator and letting the door close.

As the closing door made the electrical contact, the elevator lurched upward. It jolted to a stop at the third floor. Millicent saw a deserted corridor. She stepped forward. "Norman, Norman! Where are you?" and ran the length of the corridor.

Some man shouted through a closed door, "Pipe down, I want to sleep."

A door opened. A strange man stepped into the corridor.

"Are you looking for the man who was hurt in apartment 309?" he asked.

"Yes," Millicent said, and such was her eagerness to locate Norman that for the moment she entirely forgot she was bait for a death trap.

"I found him in the corridor," the man said. "He was unconscious. I took him in here and have been waiting for him to regain consciousness so I could find out what happened. He's not badly hurt."

MILICENT ran swiftly to the door of the apartment. The man stood to one side. Looking past him, Millicent saw a couch. On the couch, covered by a blanket, lay Norman Happ. There was a gasp on his forehead on which dry blood had encrusted. His eyes were closed.

"Norman!" Millicent screamed. Norman shouted, "Hun, Millicent. Call the police!"

A woman's voice screamed an epithet, a gun roared.

Norman Happ had flung himself off the couch as he called his warning. Millicent saw that his hands were tied behind his back as he dove, head first, to the door. A bullet ripped the davenport where his head had been. Another bullet tore through the upholstered, springing cloth, sending up a shower of dust and exposing wire springs.

The strange man who had stood in the doorway struck at Millicent's head with a blackjack. Somehow she did not know how—she avoided that blow and sped toward Norman Happ.

Through an open door which led to the kitchen she saw Dick Gentry, an automatic in his hand, his lips twisted into an evil leer, tabling deliberate aim at Norman Happ's struggling figure.

Millicent screamed, leaped forward. The gun roared. She heard the impact of a bullet striking something solid on, with a screech which surprised her, she flung herself upon Dick Gentry. She was holding his wrist, gazing with him for the "You little scoundrel, claimed, as her teeth sank into his neck. She roared again. Something in the side with force. She heard a soft thud. Dick Gentry groined. Ser... Mahoney's sounding dead as he fell. "Make a move and you'll see my gun," she said. Millicent broke from Gentry's clasp and ran. Norman's bonds with knife, saw the strange man's hands high above his head.

MILICENT ran to the door. She gripped the handle. "No. Why didn't you warn me?" Gentry lunged at her. She saw a gun on me. He shook it. I didn't see it. I knew what they wanted to get you in the shoulder. I dove forward. The bullet. A woman's scream. She ran. I couldn't see."

He straightened, his wrists. Sergeant Mahoney over to Dick Gentry, his head.

"I'm sorry, boss," he said to do it. He'd had a girl."

Millicent looked up. She saw with grim, silent satisfaction the man moved with swift efficiency down the hands of who had lured her into the apartment, snapping handcuffs on his wrists.

"What happened, she asked.

Sergeant Mahoney stepped toward Norman Happ, his hand. "For everything you know about this, give us the name of the man who gave you the key."

"I went to 309," Norman said. "I knocked. No answer. I started toward the door. This man, who had head toward the hands over, 'stepped into the room. He asked me if I was a Phyllis Faulconer. He had instructed him to friend into the apartment a trap. I fell as it was set. He set me into the apartment, struck at me with a jack. I was stunned but to tackle him."

"Dick Gentry came fought all over the apartment. They got me finally. They me down to this place. I held me prisoner. I thought the man was a friend. I know."

"And, by God!" said the cuffed man. "That's all you get. You've killed. You've got nothing to show for it. You've killed thought the man was a friend. I know."

Sergeant Mahoney stepped toward her. "You know where Jarvis is. You can either talk or you go to headquarters, and get done with you. You stay to talk."

The man snarled defiance and made no talk. "By God," Sergeant Mahoney said, grimly, "I will." (To Be Concluded)

KING GEORGE GIVEN HOUSE FOR JUBILEE
 By H. L. PERCY
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 LONDON, May 6.—King George, who already owns a palace, a castle, and two huge estates, has been given a house as a Silver Jubilee present.
 A smaller residence than the king ever has owned before, it is the latest work in modernity.
 It is the gift of the Royal Warrant Holders' association, whose members have served the royal household with groceries, liquor, furniture and everything else, and who are entitled to display the royal coat of arms over their stores.
 The architect is C. Beresford Marshall, a young and comparatively unknown designer of 36, who up to now has been designing luxury flats on the American plan for London.
 American Colonial Style
 Marshall's design is something like the American colonial style without the pillars. It is being built on a site at Burhill, Surrey, about 30 miles from London, on the estate of Lord Iveagh.
 There is one principal bedroom and two guests' rooms, with a double room for maids and two chauffeurs' room.
 There are three reception rooms—an entrance lounge hall, a dining room, carried out in cherry-wood, and a drawing room decorated in apple green. From the entrance hall there is a step down to the other rooms to give greater height.
 Sliding doors of bronze with glazed panels will enable these three rooms to be turned into one large room for receptions and parties.
 Modern Features
 There are several modern features in the bathroom. The mirrors are warmed to avoid clouding by steam, and there is an enclosed shower-bath with a glass door.
 The design was chosen by the King, himself, in consultation with Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, president of the Royal Institute of British Architects.
 It is not likely, however, that the king will ever live in the house. In such cases he usually makes a present of the life-tenancy of the house to some minor member of the royal family, or to a high court official, retiring from his service.

Free Nursery High On Mount Wilson
 PASADENA, Calif., May 7.—Probably one of the world's highest nurseries—3,000 feet up on Mount Wilson near the famous observatory—is a proving ground for mountain trees.
 There in a flat valley called Henninger's Flats, the Los Angeles County Forestry Department is producing 50,000 baby trees yearly to be planted on mountain slopes ravaged by fires.
 All kinds of firs, pines, incense cedars, big cone spruce, live oak and valley oak and majestic deodars, are tried at the high altitude nursery before being set out on the mountain side.
 Burned scars on the mountain slopes constitute a serious menace in Southern California, where the torrential winter rains run off in destructive floods unless checked by plant cover.
 Some 500,000 trees have been set out replacing burned slopes.

Contrast

Crisp contrast is the note of this spring ensemble worn by Renee Demarco, dancer at the Flats in New York. The black coat is worn over a print of little berries in black on a white ground. On the soft black sailor with white facing a rosette of little flowers is perched.

Ford Shows New All-Weather Sedan

A NEW all-weather Ford V-8 convertible sedan, a dual purpose car, available for use either as an open phaeton or a snug enclosed sedan, is announced by the Ford Motor Company. Top photo shows the new body type with top in place; below, the top down, windows lowered, and center door pillars removed.

The top, of tan-colored cloth, can be lowered and folded snugly, covered by a boot, back of the rear seat. The two center pillars are removable and may be stowed away in the car. Converted in this fashion into a phaeton-type body, the car may be driven with the four door windows lowered out of sight, or raised into position as a protection against excessive wind. The window glasses are enclosed in chrome plated frames. The body is equipped with de luxe appointments, including robe rail and ash tray in the rear compartment. Seat cushions and backs are finished in genuine leather or bedford cord, according to the purchaser's choice. The interior finish is in taupe throughout. The cars are available in all standard colors including gun metal, the new color introduced this year. The luggage compartment back of the rear seat is even more spacious than in the sedans, providing plenty of room for stowing baggage while traveling.

Indians Joined In Second Ceremony

LOS ANGELES, May 7 — Hollywood film folks who break into the headlines with "repeat" marriages to assure that marriages in Mexico, etc. are valid, have nothing on Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Yazzie, Navajo Indians.

Bruce, 21, and Marion, 18, his tribal wife, obtained a white man's marriage license at the county clerk's office here for a "repeat" wedding to backstop a previous ceremony performed by the tribal chief. Rev. B. H. Stokely, Navajo missionary from Oraibi, Ariz., who accompanied them, said, however, that the tribal ceremony is recognized by the United States government.

The bride, wearing a bright Navajo blanket, never had been off the reservation before. Unable to read or write she "signed" the license application with a thumb print.

AEROTYPE ESSO

a new premium fuel now Public Tested

... and approved as a major improvement in motor fuels

Laboratory technicians told us that Aerotype Esso marked a major improvement in motor fuels. Road tests confirmed their statements. But we were not satisfied until we knew, definitely, that the public approved this new Humble product. Now we can tell you that it does; Aerotype Esso has been public-tested, and the results reported on check cards in our files tell us positively that it fills a public need for an outstanding motor fuel, worth every penny of the small extra cost. So it is with added confidence that we again ask you to test Aerotype Esso in your own automobile, to prove to yourself that it is definitely superior to even the best of the premium fuels of the past. Test its power, its anti-knock qualities, its acceleration, its easy starting. You can demand of it as nearly as possible what the aviator demands of his motor fuels; put it to any road or traffic test; we are confident that Aerotype Esso will please you, and you will agree with other Texas motorists that it is a premium fuel in performance as well as price.
