Charting Your Heartbeats

For many years electricity and photography have been enlisted in the treatment of heart disease at leading hospitals in such a way that a patient under observation may lie in a ward room, while in another building half a mile away, the beatings of his heart are being recorded in alternately thin and heavy lines with curves and angles indicating the actual movements of the organ. A specialist wires up his patient as if the latter were a radio set, the most important part of the apparatus being a string of glass coated with silver and so small as to be almost invisible. Three records are taken, first by connecting the string to the two arms of the subject, the second by attaching the right arm and left leg, and third, the left arm and right leg. To interpret the photographs, mathematics is applied to the curves and angles of the lines traced by the heart-beats.

Some scientists now believe that the heart acts as a sort of battery, giving off a discharge to set itself in motion. Medical science is making rapid strides now through chemistry, electricity and photography. We cannot begin to guess what may be accomplished within the next few years.

Kingfish Taught by Texans

Kingfish of the share-the-wind plan of redemption determined to block by a filibuster the reading of the President's veto bill. He very boldly and brazenly announced that "he would put fixings on the President" by talking his brother senators to death. Tom Connally opened a box of parliamentary tricks. Majority Leader Robinson lent a willing hand and Vice President John N. Garner said the final word when he made a ruling, raised his gavel on high and declared Kingfish not only out of order but out of the picture for the time being. "Tis well.

Incidentally, a powerful senate committee voted an appropriation calling for $3,000,000 for the Texas Centennial. Texans in Washington are very optimistic and are free with their prophecies that the house will join the senate and the Alamo state will be given due recognition long before the flag falls on the session. Speaking of the three messiahs, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and Donald Richberg are brothers again battling for the extension of the life of the NRA and Radio Priest Colquhoun has declared against a third party next year as well as the financial vagaries of the Kingfish of the lower swamps and the high hill country of Louisiana.

Banker Sees Recovery Started

Charles R. Gay is president of the New York stock exchange. He is an optimist. He has taken the American people into his confidence. He has found the country "on the road to recovery." He has urged securities exchanges to adopt a policy of socially salutary service at reasonable cost, "together with a program of education to convince the republic of the need of such service." Why not? The republic of George Washington is not going to the bowwows. A majority of its voters, men and women, when a showdown comes will rally around the flag and the constitution and the democratic faith of those who founded the republic and later those who carried on regardless of the wars and crises and financial depressions throughout the long and eventful years of the life of the American democracy.

Escape From Reality

The confirmed alcoholic suffers from alcohol less than he suffers from himself, according to a report recently made to the American Psychiatric association by Dr. James H. Wall of Bloomingdale hospital. He makes a sot of himself, that is, to escape from a mental conflict rather than because he likes the taste of the stuff.

Excessive drinking, viewed in this light, is simply a reflection of a weakness of will. The drunkard is dissatisfied with himself, with his life generally; instead of doing his best to grin and bear it, as ordinary folk do, he tries to escape by swilling at the jug—and, of course, winds up by making a bad matter a great deal worse.

Bearing this in mind, it would seem that the cure for the alcoholic would consist in helping him to face reality like a man. His inebriety is a sign and an aggravation of his trouble, but not its cause.

Biggest Refinery in the World—Texas

Beaumont is to place on the map of America the largest oil refinery in the world. E. E. Plumly, general manager of the Magnolia Petroleum company, made the announcement. Contracts have been signed and the refinery is to "lead all the rest." The new unit will be a combination cracking and skimming setup capable of running 32,600 barrels of crude oil daily. Regardless of drouth one year and floods the next, Texas continues to be "the big white spot on the map of nations."

The Darkness of Sorrow—and of Uncertainty

Texas Topics

BROOKS

AUSTIN, May 27—A little general perjury now and then is nothing new to the ears of legislative investigating committees. But the committee investigating committee, starting work this week, appears to be one that will make an effort to winnow its subject matter down to facts and to weed out the mere grudge-bearers, a x-grinders, Chmn. Augustin Celaya announced that in effect the committee would wish to perform the duty laid upon it of "publishing to the world" the facts involved in East Texas hot oil operations, as may be proven, or hot oil violations anywhere in the state; but that consider it designed as a convenient forum for wild-eyed, irresponsible volunteers or other witnesses to spin unsubstantiated charges and tales.

He wants the committee testimony to be public. But Rep. Celaya suggested, that in order to find out if a witness had any information or facts to present, the committee very likely will take up his affidavit or statement and study it, or give the witness a chance to show the committee whether he is talking facts or rumor.

All material information and facts, worthy to be heard, in order to fulfill the purpose of this committee, he indicated, will be sought by the committee.

Celaya was impressed with the unusual number of volunteer offers of persons to go before the committee, take an oath and produce sworn testimony. He believes a true picture of the conditions, such as they exist, whether they show much illegal oil was being produced or is still being produced, will be reached readily by the committee.

The resolution under which the committee acts makes the significant point that the rumors and charges of widespread oil violation in Texas have been uttered and circulated by officials of the United States government. That refers back unquestionably, to the propaganda on behalf certain governmental agencies last year to try to show a need or demand for federal oil control. In order to set up that need, it was necessary to convey the idea that the state was botching both the job of conservation-supervision, and that of enforcement and prosecution.

The committee will enter the inquiry aware of an entire set of new laws enacted by the legislature this year, designed to close loopholes and remedy objectionable conditions not previously reached by former laws. It also will enter the hearing with the purpose of complying with the provision of finding out such deficiencies and short-comings in existing laws and administration as may be shown and of recommending adequate remedial steps.

C. R. Wilson, publisher of the Fayetteville (N. C.) Observer, says: "Business can be compared to a flowering shrub. Both must have proper nourishment to survive and flourish. "The shrub needs plenty of moisture and some fertilizer, while a business—any kind of business—needs the same treatment; that is, newspaper advertising for the necessary moisture to insure growth, and a general house cleaning in the way of new merchandise, new methods, sometimes new personnel as the proper fertilizer. "Advertising will always pay, providing the advertiser is an efficient and his place of business as attractive as the advertising itself. Truth in advertising—service in merchandising."

BELIEVES ONLY TRIP TO PLANETS CAN VERIFY IF LIFE IS THERE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 27. — Modern science is still far from determining if there is life, as we know it, on the 1,000,000,000,000,000,000 stellar systems known to man, in the opinion of Dr. Heber D. Curtis, observatory director at the University of Michigan.

Only an expedition to the solar planets would determine if there is life beyond the earth, according to Dr. Curtis, who predicted that within the next two centuries man would devise a rocket-ship, powered by trinitrotoluol (TNT), which will make a round trip to the moon. Even the 20-inch telescope now being constructed for a California observatory will not definitely determine whether there is life in the glowing globes of the firmament, Dr. Curtis said. "A 2,000-inch telescope could be made, would enable us to make out any works of a creative nature on the surface of a neighbor planet."

However, Dr. Curtis granted that no astronomer is able to prove there is no extra-terrestrial life.

Reindeer Settle After Long Trek

OTTAWA, Ont., May 27. — Canada's northernmost herd of reindeer, which recently completed a five-year trek from Alaska across the rim of the Arctic to Kittingauit, east of the Mackenzie river, are having little difficulty in settling down on their new feeding ground.

Wireless messages received here by the Canadian Department of Interior report that the herd of 2,370 reindeer survived the long trek in good condition, and that 600 fawns already had been born.

The new land occupied by the herd consists of 6,000 square miles of moss-covered ground, extending inland from the Arctic coast along the east bank of the Mackenzie river.

The herd was brought there under the supervision of Andy Bahr, veteran Seattle reindeer expert, at the request and expense of the Canadian government. The government hopes the animals will provide a new source of food and clothing for Eskimos in the region for a long time to come.

ALARM LIGHTS ROOM
LEIPZIG, Germany — The effectiveness of the alarm clock has been greatly increased by combining and automatic room lighting device with the rigging of a wakening bell in a gadget shown here at the Leipzig Fair.

IT'S STILL SPINACH
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — There will be 1,000 acres of spinach in Arkansas this year for dutiful parents to feed their children, state statisticians have estimated. Last year there were 800 acres harvested. The five-year average for Arkansas is 760 acres.

DOUBLE HOLE-IN-ONE
WILSON, N. C. — N. M. Schmitt of Wilson sank a hole in one on the 210-yard fifth hole of a golf course here. Six weeks later on the same course, he chalked up a hole in one on the 180-yard 18th hole.

HORSE THIEVERY REVIVIES
BATAVIA, O. — John Sneed of Cincinnati was convicted of horse stealing here, the first man found guilty of this crime in Clermont county in more than 20 years.

Stories in STAMPS

AS strange as its name so beautiful is the plumage of the bird that Guatemala has adopted as its national fowl, placed on its seal and illustrated on several of its stamps. The bird is the quetzal, native to the heights of Central America, incapable of living in captivity. This bird was prized so highly by the natives before the Spanish conquest that no one was permitted to kill it, and only the chieftains could wear its feathers.

Guatemala adopted the quetzal as its national bird when the country declared its independence in 1821.

HORN RACKET IS THREATENED BY OUTSIDERS

MINEOLA, May 27.—If you haven't heard of the "horn racket," listen and you shall hear.

The horns of Texas longhorn cattle, dressed and polished, are among the most popular souvenirs visitors like to carry away as tokens of their visits to Texas.

Many years ago, L. D. Bertillon of Mineola, then a silver prospector, discovered a cave near the Rio Grande in West Texas where a herd of longhorns, unable to find the exit, had died.

The horns provided a rich harvest for Bertillon, who gave up prospecting, developed a method of dressing and polishing the horns and became the "horn king" of Texas.

In Spain, Italy and Portugal, where it seems, the cattle also are equipped with long horns, certain individuals saw a nice profit in shipping horns from their cattle over to Texas.

Since the Europeans could acquire, dress, polish and ship the horns to Texas for less than a dollar, a pair, and sell them as high as $15 a pair, with plenty of takers, it seemed like a "racket" well worth horning in on. They did.

Negro War Hero, 103, In Austin Hospital

AUSTIN, May 27.—Centenarian Nathan Stokes, a negro hero of the Civil War, soon may join his "men in gray" for the last bivouac.

Stokes, now 103, lies on an Austin hospital bed from which doctors say he will never arise. He was the servant of Major George W. Littlefield, Texas pioneer and University of Texas benefactor, and is credited with saving his master's life in a Tennessee campaign of 1862.

Companion to Major Littlefield in the army, the daffy saw his master fall a thigh shattered by a Yankee "minnie ball." Stokes braved the enemy's fire to carry Major Littlefield to safety behind the lines.

After the conflict, the confederate officer brought his servant to Austin, where he has remained in service to the Littlefield household. The family provided that his closing days should be spent in comfort and he is given best medical attendance possible.

KING GEORGE IS 28TH SILVER JUBILEE KING

LONDON, May 27.—King George is the 28th Silver Jubilee monarch of Great Britain.

In the 1,400 years that kings and queens have ruled the nation—except for a period of a little more than ten years in the middle of the 17th century—27 of them have ruled for 25 years or more.

Cedric (495-534), who founded the kingdom of Wessex, was the first of them to reach a silver jubilee.

Norman Henry I and Angevin Henry II each reigned for 35 years. Henry III (1216-1272) was the first British ruler to attain a golden jubilee. His reign saw the birth of parliament and the rebuilding of Westminster Abbey.

Then there was Edward I, who, in addition to his conquest of Wales, gave the Welsh his son as their prince in 1234. In all he reigned 35 years. And Edward III, in spite of his long campaigns in France, lived to see his golden jubilee.
