

TEXAS FLOOD DEATH TOLL MOUNTING

RESCUERS WORKING TO SAVE MAROONED VICTIMS; AUSTIN ISOLATED BY HIGH WATERS

SAN ANTONIO, June 15.—Rescue workers today were investigating an unconfirmed report that eight persons were drowned at Reagan-Wells, resort town near here.

The Guadalupe river was reported up 23 feet after heavy rains this morning.

Residents in the lowlands were evacuating as officials warned of an impending serious flood.

The rise in the Guadalupe, resulting from heavy rains near New Braunfels, will be augmented later in the day by a 40-foot rise which is reported coming downstream.

Officials said that they had received no direct word from Reagan-Wells since Thursday night.

STRIKE HALT IN TOLEDO IS BEING SOUGHT

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 15.—Threats of a general strike and reports that electric strike to many homes was being interrupted, spurred mediators in their efforts to effect a truce to end the strike of the Toledo Edison company today.

A committee of 23, representing virtually all unions in Toledo, met to prepare for a citywide strike of organized labor in support of the electrical workers, "if it becomes essential."

Meantime, effect of the strike began to be apparent for the first time in disrupted electric service. Scores of homes in five blocks in the south end of the city were without power. Lack of service was due to an electrical storm, but there were no linemen available because of the strike.

DOZEN KNOWN DEAD, SCORE ARE MISSING

By UNITED PRESS

Twelve persons were known to be dead, more than 20 missing in Texas as Saturday and Austin, the state capital, was practically isolated as flooded waters from flood streams coursed across the state.

Four members of one family were drowned at Italy, 40 miles southwest of Dallas when a 10-inch rain forced Hog creek out of its banks and flooded farm lands.

Communications to Del Rio on the border were disrupted but last reports received from there were that 5 Mexicans had been drowned and 18 others were missing. Two negroes drowned at Karns City, 50 miles southeast of San Antonio, where the San Antonio river was a mile wide.

SMALL CLOUDBURST HERE

Cisco experienced a miniature cloudburst accompanied by wind that uprooted small trees Saturday afternoon, while the rest of the state reported floods with varying degrees of damage.

One and a half inches of rain fell here in 20 minutes, the city hall rain gauge showed, while a little more rain was recorded at Lake Cisco. The lake rose four inches. Small trees were reported blown down in the residential district of the city.

Rumors of storms over the state were circulating freely Saturday evening, but correspondents at Moran and Abilene, in telephone conversations with the Daily News, denied that they had experienced any damage from wind, although rains were recorded.

Bridge Washed Out

The Colorado river, which bisects Austin, reached the stage of 40 feet and continued to rise. Traffic was barred from bridges connecting Austin with South Austin. One bridge was barely above the water level.

Another bridge on the Austin-Bastrop highway was swept away shortly before noon. The city power plant in the bottom lands was flooded and the city without power four and a half hours until service was restored shortly before noon.

The Lake Austin dam several miles from the city was weakened and engineers feared it would crumble under the pounding of flood waters. A bridge over the stream was also endangered.

River 3 Miles Wide

The Nueces river at Three Rivers, 100 miles southwest of Austin was three miles wide. Most of the Three Rivers business district was flooded. Rescuers worked frantically in boats attempting to rescue marooned persons.

At Uvalde, the home city of vice president John Garner, 90 miles west of San Antonio, the Nueces river raged through the town.

La Fruta Dam on the Nueces above Corpus Christi, which replaced a structure washed away several years ago was subjected to great stress but City Commissioner R. W. Thompson expressed the belief the dam would hold. It impounds Corpus Christi's water supply.

Two Cisco Girls In Dallas Broadcast

Misses Dorothy Jean Walker and Jane Kizer sang over station WRR, Dallas, Saturday between 2:45 and 3:45 o'clock.

The two girls have been visiting in Dallas the past two weeks during which time they sang at the church several times and at social functions. An official from the radio station WRR heard them and asked them to sing during the amateur hour on Saturday afternoon.

"When We Come To The End of A Perfect Day" was one of the selections sung.

Colored Choir To Sing Here Tonight

The choir of the Colored Methodist church of Albany, through arrangements with the pastor, Rev. A. Walton, will be presented at the First Methodist church here at the evening service, according to Rev. Frank L. Turner, pastor.

This choir, composed of 15 members, is reputed to be one of the best colored choirs in this area.

Laska Partner Faces Perjury Trial

ATTORNEY IS FOUND GUILTY IN KIDNAPING

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 15.—Aspen Laska, Denver criminal attorney, was found guilty today of accepting kidnap ransom money as a fee, his woman associate, Molly Edlin, Denver, was charged with perjury.

Sentencing of Laska was deferred until some time in July.

Mrs. Edlin, who had testified for Laska at his trial pleaded not guilty to the charge against her. U. S. Commissioner George J. Eacock said she would set her bail at $5,000.

W. C. Lewis, U. S. district attorney, told the United Press he would ask that Laska be sent to prison for 10 years.

It was said that the judge could impose any fine or sentence he chose, including the maximum of five years imprisonment, provided by the Lindbergh law.

Laska will be free pending sentence or granting of a new trial on his original bond.

He was given three days in which to file a motion for a new trial and July 2 was set for a hearing on the motion.

Almost in tears and with nerves badly shaken, he called the verdict "the most unfair verdict in history."

The verdict was that he participated in the conspiracy to kidnap Charles Urschel by accepting $10,000 of the $200,000 ransom as a fee for defending the kidnaper, Albert Bates.

SCHAEFER IS CARRIER BOY PRIZE WINNER

With a final spurt at the finish that is outstanding for achievement among the carrier boys of the Cisco Daily News in a circulation contest that began May 18 and ended yesterday, Richard Schaefer came out winner of the bicycle offered for first prize.

His substitute, Vernon Shirley, who helped him in the contest, made the biggest score of any carrier or substitute.

Second prize of $3 cash went to Raymond Evans. First prize of best helper, $2.50, went to Vernon Shirley, and second prize for helper, $1 cash, was awarded to Marcel Lenz.

The management takes this opportunity to say publicly that every carrier and substitute has shown by his activities in this campaign just what he has in him. It regrets that it could not properly reward every boy as it would like to do by giving him a valuable prize, but since each route has been built up so that the carrier will now have much more revenue, the extra earnings every month will in a measure compensate for his activities.

The Daily News management and all connected with its work extend their thanks to every subscriber who has aided these boys in their campaign. Many have extended the length of their subscriptions in order to aid their carrier boys, and these boys will doubtless reciprocate by rendering a better service, if possible, than ever before.

Cisco Lions this week were recognized by the international organization when W. H. LaRoque was chosen to be an official at the Lions International convention to be held at Mexico City July 23.

LaRoque, a past president, past secretary, and past Lion Tamer of the Cisco club, was appointed assistant sergeant at arms for the convention. News of his appointment came in a letter from George R. Jordan, Dallas, sergeant at arms.

LaRoque is a key member of the Lions club, and holds master key number 15 in the international organization.

Jordan's letter announcing the appointment follows:

"The international convention of Lions meets in Mexico City July 23. You have been appointed as assistant sergeant at arms to serve during the convention.

"Your duties will be assigned you upon arrival there and I ask that you immediately get in touch with the office of sergeant at arms in order that you may immediately inform yourself of your important duties during the convention.

"Upon receipt of this letter, I will appreciate you immediately advising me if you will accept this important post."

Cisco Lions have been working on a fund to be used for the purpose of sending two members of the club, besides the president, to the convention. The movement was started only about six months ago, it was said, to help defray the expenses for the two extra delegates.

The two men have not yet been chosen, but will be selected at the meeting next Wednesday.

District Meeting Of Church Planned

St. Mark Baptist church, colored, will be host in August to the West Texas district Baptist association in its annual session, the moderator, Rev. Z. B. Hickerson, Jr., who is also one of the vice presidents of the state convention, announced today.

He denied the fact, however, "that there will be a chorus of limited Texas, as Rev. O. B. McKinney, formerly pastor here, had previously announced, "for this is not to be a state meeting, but the meeting of a small district." He also said that there will not be 100 trained voices to lead in the singing, but that there will be chorus of limited number who will lead in the singing. "However, these voices will be the best in the district," the moderator said.

He said he was anxious to correct the "misrepresentation of our meeting to the end that the citizens, both white and colored, will not be disappointed, nor the membership of the St. Mark church embarrassed."

Cisco Negroes Plan Juneteenth Frolic

Cisco's colored population this week was looking forward to the celebration of Juneteenth—its one big holiday, Wednesday.

The program, as announced Saturday, will include a parade at 11 a. m. Following that there will be a free barbecue picnic at Smith's Chapel at noon.

During the afternoon there will be speeches by prominent speakers on the meaning of the day. The Cisco colored baseball team will play the colored CCC camp team from Buffalo Gap at 3:30.

Fathers Day To Be Observed by Class

The Men's Bible class of the First Presbyterian church is sponsoring a special Fathers Day program today, it was announced Saturday.

Rev. Bryan Keathley will address the class at the time of their meeting this morning at 9:45. All men who do not attend Sunday school elsewhere were urged to be present.

DECOY DROWNS

NAMPA, Idaho—There's no dispute. "Archie" died in just about the most disgraceful way possible for a water fowl. "Archie" was a domesticated goose, with wing feathers clipped, used as a hunting decoy—and he drowned in an irrigation ditch.

Police Find Part Of Stolen Tools

Police here Saturday had recovered a part of the tools stolen from a Gasco Gas corporation car Thursday.

Recovered were one wrench, a machinist's hammer, and a brace still missing, however, were four wrenches.

The articles were recovered from a service station where they had been sold, and where a description of the man selling them was furnished.

Police still had no clue, however, in their search for between 35 and 40 joints of two-inch pipe stolen from the Cisco Lumber and Supply company.

NRA Employees To Retain Their Jobs

WASHINGTON, June 15.—All NRA employees in Washington and field offices were notified today by the National Recovery Board that employment is "continued until further notice but not beyond April 1, 1936."

PRESIDENT DRAFTING NRA CHANGE ORDER

WASHINGTON, June 15.—President Roosevelt today began drafting the text of an executive order to provide for the organization to carry on a modified NRA.

Just what the order would provide, the White House was not prepared to say. It was understood, however, that the personnel for administering the new setup would be designated.

Before completing the order, Mr. Roosevelt talked with Donald Richberg, retiring head of NRA.

Mitchell Ousted As Commerce Official

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Ewing Mitchell of Springfield, Mo., was ousted today from his position as assistant secretary of commerce.

The department announced that Mitchell had been asked to resign and had refused and that "thereupon his services as assistant secretary of commerce had been terminated."

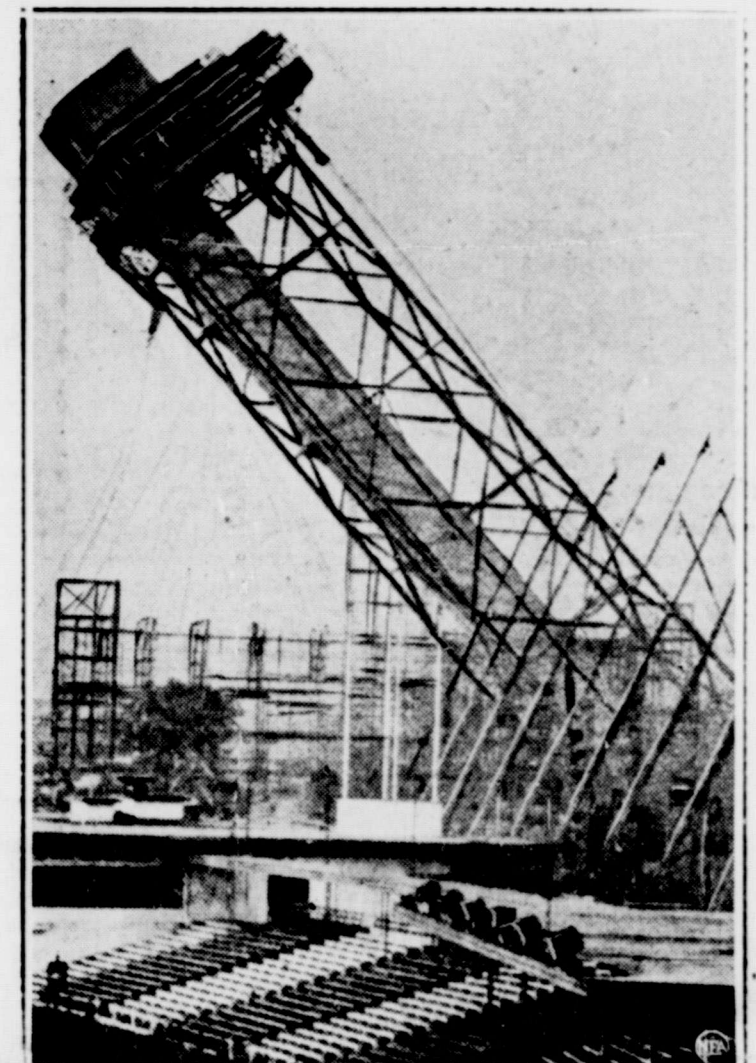

A short time later President Roosevelt sent to the senate the nomination of John Johnson, S. C., to succeed Mitchell.

The action climaxed long dispute between Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper and other officials regarding Mitchell's status.

MILLION FOR RELIEF

AUSTIN, June 15.—One million dollars for federal relief aid in Texas was received by Governor James Allred today.

What Goes Up Must Come Down

Did you take the skyscraper as the Chicago World's Fair? Then breathe a sigh of relief that you're not still on it, for here is the end of that spectacular creation of engineering genius.

The west tower of the ride is shown falling after charges of dynamite wrecked the base. This was one of the most difficult feats connected with demolition of the fair buildings.

25 Sign Up For Beginners Band Here As Leader Predicts 35-Piece Group

Twenty-five have already signed up for a beginners band, it was announced Saturday by Robert L. Maddox, who assumed the duties of director of the Lobo Band on June 1.

"Indications are that there will be about a 35-piece beginners band," Maddox said.

The beginners band will act as a feeder for the high school Lobo band. Members will be trained in music and general band work and will replace Lobo band members as the latter are graduated from high school, the director said.

This system of "rearing" musicians will eliminate the necessity of beginning each fall to train a band after members of it have been lost through graduation in the spring, it was pointed out.

The Lobo band, at the same time, is practicing each Monday and Thursday evening with the purpose of presenting a series of concerts soon.

Director Maddox has indicated that he is hopeful of having a first class band before long.

He said that the beginners band will not be limited to young musicians, but to those beginning the study of music or of particular instruments. He can be reached at 1100 West Sixth street or by telephoning 722.

The officers accepted the theory that the couples were slain, after travelers' checks with their forged signatures were cashed here and at El Paso.

Defeat of Huey On Welfare Plan Seen

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Senate democratic leaders today predicted defeat of Huey Long, should he try to write any part of his "share the wealth" plan into President Roosevelt's social security program.

Word was passed to administration forces that Mr. Roosevelt wants to change in the program. Some democratic leaders feared that too broad liberalization of the old age pension plan might endanger the entire program.

Lake Cisco A Fishing Resort

Cisco has one of the few really clear lakes of water in Texas, and if plentifully stocked with fish would become a Mecca for fishermen from all over the southland, was the opinion by Jack Lamb, fishing expert who has been looking over the fishing grounds in this vicinity during the past week.

But Mr. Lamb continuing, says, that we are not putting near enough fish stock in Lake Cisco for it to ever become much of a fishing ground. Only about 11,000 fish were put into the lake last year, he says, and owing to the great mortality of young fish, only 2 1-2 per cent escape the many hazards of its life, leaving only 275 fish to have matured from last year's stocking activities. Only 275 fish added to a lake the size of this one, makes fish rather hard to find. We should have a million or more added each year, he says and then there wouldn't be any too many for several years to come, if fishing is to continue each year while they are growing.

Emphasizing the value of a plenteous supply of fish, he says that Don Martin lake, 90 miles south of Laredo, in old Mexico, is the scene of a vast fisherman's pilgrimage each year, because when a man goes there he is sure of a reasonable catch—because they are there. If a man finds out that he is sure of catching fish, he will travel for miles to reach that point.

And there are very few attractions that could be tied on to Lake Cisco that would be of more value from a money standpoint than that of being a fisherman's resort. Each fisherman spends from $7.50 to $15.00 and upward, when he really goes fishing. Thousands of fishermen flock to Don Martin each year and leave behind them a stream of gold, says Mr. Lamb. A few years ago, W. T. Waggoner, opened a fishing concession at Lake Kemp, charging each car of people $1.00 per day and he made a paltry sum of $100,000.00 in one year. But a lake must be so stocked that those who go there will go home praising it to their friends as a sure shot fishing ground. The advertising will do the rest.

Lake Cisco has natural advantages. The water is clear and that is a big asset. The fish strikes from sight and often times from the distance of several feet. Then he must be able to see the lure, hence the necessity of clear water. The climate, rocky shores and availability of other recreational facilities, such as a lovely swimming pool, golf course, etc., make Lake Cisco an ideal place for the fisherman, if there are enough fish in its vast expanse of water to make it worth while for his coming.

Something more for the chamber of commerce to add to its list of endeavors for building Cisco into an ideal, recreational center, patronized from Canada to the Gulf and from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Grain Crop Promising if Harvested

Prospects for a bounteous grain crop have been in evidence for the past several weeks. Wherever you drive in any direction, one will see great fields of waving grain on all light soils. Corn on the heavier sandy soils and black land shows much promise of a heavy yield.

North and west of Cisco there is much grain and except in places where rust has attacked the crop, heavy yields are promised. This seems to be true all over the country, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace having forecast a wheat crop of 670,000,000 bushels.

Food for everyone is in evidence, providing the continuous rains do not do too much damage to the crops not harvested. Much grain near Cisco is dead ripe and should be cut now. In fact, some should have been cut the week preceding the rains, but owing to the fact that every farmer in this country does not own his own machinery, but has to await his turn for the community machine, he can't always get his grain cut the day he would like.

But while rains are endangering the grain harvest, they are the making of corn, maize, cane and grass pastures.

Anti-Trust Laws and NRA

Now that the senate has passed and the house, urged by President Roosevelt, has accepted a resolution designed to safeguard "the rights of labor and to preserve the anti-trust laws within the framework of the old recovery act," Senator W. A. Borah of Idaho has been vindicated, according to his admirers in the ranks of Washington correspondents.

Anti-trust laws have been a joke for years. An anti-trust law decision dissolved the old Standard Oil company. Now there are about 25 cubs of the old mother organization. They flourish everywhere. They are all powerful. Many of the cubs have a greater number of millions in reserve, speaking of dollars, than the mother company had in its most prosperous days.

Senator George W. Norris has grown a bit petulant. He is going to quit the drive unless the public utility holding companies are curbed or destroyed. This is his threat at least. For more than 30 years he has been on the trail of the holding companies. Now he has pledged himself to quit the drive or rather the trail unless the TVA of Muscle Shoals is given protection by the powers that be.

Now how will it be possible for the makers of the NRA to safeguard the rights of labor? Organized labor demands, collective bargaining and the outlawry of company unions. Its leaders demand minimum and maximum wage rate schedules and shorter hours. They demand protection for child labor or rather the removal of little children from small paying jobs in the factories and mills and mines of America. How will it be possible in the face of the decision of the court of last resort to legislate these labor demands into laws of the nation?

Mr. Borah and Mr. Roosevelt in Agreement!

AUSTIN, June 15 — Chairman L. W. Kemp of the historical advisory board of the Texas Centennial has announced his board will hold hearings in the senate chamber at Austin, beginning June 18, so that delegations from all parts of the state may present requests for marking historic spots. Requests for hearings, Kemp said, will be filed with Gen. Henry Hutchings Austin, secretary of the state Centennial board.

Members of the historical board are Mr. Kemp, who is chairman of the state historical and landmark commission; Paul J. Folk of St. Edwards university, and J. Frank Dobie of the University of Texas.

Chairman Kemp has announced that under a resolution of the Centennial commission of control, his board will recommend that the fund of approximately $500,000 be spent only for the erection of permanent markers, monuments or buildings at historic spots.

He has requested citizens to inform his board of unmarked graves of Texas soldiers who served in the army of the Republic of Texas, in the Santa Fe expedition, the Wolf campaign and Nier expedition, or of officers of the Republic, signers of the Texas declaration of independence, or others who played a prominent part in Texas independence. Such graves will be given permanent monuments.

There is evidence of a trend of the Texas highway commission to go back to the unsatisfactory old system of secret hearings and orders in executive sessions.

The old closed-door policy was abandoned by the highway commission composed of Ross S. Sterling, Come Johnson and W. R. Ely. Confidence in the work of the commission was restored. But a gradual tendency grew up, and has continued to grow, for which no individual on the commission is responsible, that more and more of the real business of the commission is transacted in executive session. The recent session, when all orders allotments and grants were acted upon after the close of public hearings was the most complete return to the very unsatisfactory conditions of several years ago. This was explained as being in a transition period, when the commission itself had not ascertained what the federal road authorities will do with the projects designed to be built from federal funds.

It is believed the disposition of the present highway commission, as soon as Chairman Hines ascertains, in his Washington conferences, the policies to be formed and the scope of available work will be to tell delegations yes or no and to give the answers in the presence of all delegations.

PICTURE COST $284
GLASGOW, Mont. — It cost $284 to take a picture of the spillway construction operations at Fort Peck dam here. That was the estimate of the Spillway Builders, Inc., who ordered the entire works stopped for 10 minutes while the picture was taken. The photograph was a panoramic view of the entire operation and shows 12 power shovels and about 80 trucks at work.

All of us, no doubt, are after the same thing. We want money and more money. If it can be secured, we consider it success, which in turn would bring happiness. Most everybody wants to take things easy and have a good time. Most people seem to think that having a good time is the purpose of life. Unfortunately, most of us wander about until our short lives are nearly over before we find out what a good time means any how to have it.

As children, we think that a good time means lots of fun, no work, and to do as we like. Eventually, when we grow up, we find plenty of trouble. If successful in gaining wealth, we learn that it does not mean that happiness can be secured through money and idleness. Whether rich or poor, we all have a job of some kind and we can gain happiness by doing whatever our job may be a little better than we are expected to do it.

JAP TUNNEL WILL CONNECT NEARBY CITIES

TOKYO, June 15 — Construction of the long discussed undersea tunnel connecting the cities of Shimonoseki and Moji may begin next year.

Surveys are now being made and the ministry of railways has let it be known that it favors beginning work at once.

Money has not been appropriated for the project, but the present minister of railways, Shinya Uchida, has announced his determination to go ahead. The railways can finance the project, he insists. Construction will require about four years.

The problem of Japan's twin cities of the West is much like the problem of San Francisco Bay. They are on opposite sides of Kwanon Strait and are connected by ferry service.

To the west is the open sea and to the east is the bottle-neck entrance to the Inland Sea. Train service from Tokyo is interrupted at Shimonoseki. Passengers and freight must be transferred by ferry to other trains at Moji. The tunnel will permit through service to the Island of Kyushu and southward to Kagoshima on the southern tip of the island.

The strait at the narrowest point is less than a mile wide, but the tunnel, when built, will not cross at this point, but at a point where the underwater part of the tube will be about two miles in length. The total length of the tunnel with approaches will be about six miles.

Construction of the tunnel has been under consideration for 20 years. Moji and Shimonoseki are important manufacturing and shipping centers. The population of Shimonoseki is about 95,000 and that of Moji about 115,000.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
KATHARINE STRYKHURST, beautiful, 26, falls in love with MICHAEL HEATHERTON who owns a riding academy. Katharine's father is rich and her stepmother to snobbish.

Michael, however, is attracted to KATHARINE, local coquette, due to Sally's scheming in spite of this. Michael asks Katharine to marry him and impulsively she agrees. The marriage takes place in an obscure little town. Katharine and Michael each go to their home. Almost immediately Michael learns he has inherited a fortune and title. He goes to New York to see the lawyer in charge and is injured in a traffic accident.

Katharine, believing Michael has deserted her, is heart-broken. MICHAEL, once in love with Katharine's father, persuades her to let his daughter go to New Mexico.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIII
ZOE PARKER said briskly, "I envy you." She was curled up in a corner of Katharine's chaise longue, watching the packing.

Katharine lifted heavy eyes. She did not speak. She moved these days almost as in a trance. Even the exciting fact that her father had agreed to the western trip did not surprise her. She was apathetic.

"You'll adore the west," Zoe said emphatically. "I did. I want to live there some day—have a dude ranch or something."

She would be on the train tonight, Katharine told herself. They'd be riding far away from here, leaving a memory of pain behind. She folded her jodhpur breeches and laid them in a drawer of the trunk. Zoe prattled on.

"I saw John Kaye in town the other day," she said brightly. "He's such a darling. Why don't you sign him up before you go? If we were you I'd be afraid someone else would..."

"What on earth do you mean?" cried Katharine, struck.

"Don't be silly," Zoe advised. "You know perfectly well he's mad about you. Has been for ages."

Katharine shook her head. "Honestly, I haven't the faintest notion what you're talking about."

"I didn't know anybody—could be—so—dumb," said Zoe, punctuating the sentences with bites of bon bon.

"You're imaginin' things as usual, my child," Katharine cried. "Johnny's a good friend. We've never got past the handshaking part, really."

She paused, flushed, remembering that one kiss he'd given her. But it had been a brother's kiss.

ZOE was hanging over the window-sill now, peering down into the garden.

"Is that Mack Darsau out by the float?" she demanded. "Never mind, darling. I don't think it is. Some crazy fool's trying to break his neck doing the jack-knife... what was I saying?"

"Talking about John," Katharine said dryly. "If you kept talking like this it helped. You weren't able to think of the sick feeling of despair you had, waking and sleeping... 'Oh, yes. Well, if you don't want Dr. Kaye you're passing up something awfully good,' Zoe said portentously. 'He never asked me, sir, she said.' 'Oh, that!' Zoe dismissed the more formality of a proposal with more formality of a proposal with disappointment.

an airy wave of the hand. "You could get him to easily enough." "Think so?" "Yes, I do. And furthermore," Zoe mused, "I think he's one of the most fascinating men I ever met in all my life. He was so darned sweet to me when I was ill..."

They were both silent for a minute. John Kaye had saved her life; there was no least doubt of it. After a bit Zoe said briskly, "Well, that's that. And you're not having any?"

"I'm not having any," Katharine told her. "Your imagination is running away with you."

Bertine came in just then with some fussy directions and complaints, and the conversation quite naturally languished. Katharine was glad to be furiously busy. It gave her no time to sit and brood. She had heard that Michael Heatherone had returned to Inglecock. The very fact that he had failed to come to her established in her mind the suspicion that the marriage ceremony of the week before had been a cruel joke. Michael had promised to see about the announcement in Katharine's absence. She could trust Stanley Merser; the affair would be handled as decently and quietly as possible. And if, in the end, news of it leaked out, at least Katharine would be miles away from her stepmother's rage and surprise.

At 5 o'clock her packing was finished. Zoe had gone to some tennis matches, promising to return later. Katharine, unable to sit still, wearing the rather crumpled white frock she had worn all day, jumped into her car and drove at a furious pace up and down the roads bordering the town. She kept assiduously away from River Road.

SHE ran into the beauty shop that volatile little creature in tears. Miss Bortsey had gone home. There were no customers about. Isabel had felt free to indulge her "fit of the blues."

She sat behind the manicure table, getting out the dozen and one glittering small tools and emery boards. Drying her eyes.

"Don't mind me, Miss Strykhurst. Surely I can give you a quick doing kind of one."

It was Bill, the crudely handsome young man who drove the express truck, who had caused Isabel's tears. Isabel had gone to a dance the night before. Bill had got "roaring drunk" and started a fight with someone. He had also, Katharine gathered, "fallen for" a blond girl who was "nobody you'd know or ever heard of."

"Aren't men the limit?" Isabel inquired, brushing away a bright drop that trembled on her mascaraed lashes. "Sure I know he's crazy about me and all, but sometimes I just get to wondering what it's all about. Why can't we get along without them? But it's stylish to have a man, my mother said; that's what she said when she married old Price. He was her third. You can't get along with 'em or without 'em. Isn't it the truth?"

The phone rang and Isabel ran to it, pushing aside tables and stools in her progress. But it wasn't a penitent Bill; just a customer, making an appointment for the morrow. Isabel drooped with disappointment.

Desert Kingdom Gets First Telephone But Finds It Conflicts With Religion

LENINGRAD, June 15 — When modern inventions come in contact with an ancient religion, Engineer V. P. Shishov will tell anyone who is interested, complications and trouble follow.

Shishov has reasons for his conviction, for he has just returned from the desert kingdom of Hedjas where he was sent to install an automatic telephone in the palace of His Majesty Ibn-Saud.

The Soviet Government eager to foster good relations with its neighbors to the south, presented the telephone set to the king two years ago. But none of the Hedjasians knew how to assemble it, so Shishov was called to the task.

Shishov first encountered trouble between telephones and Mohammedanism when trying to reach Taif, the king's home. The only road there runs through the holy city of Mecca, through which heretics may not pass. So he and his companions were forced to make a detour through the desert.

Jan Garber, Coming Here June 24, Example Of What Comes From Following Own Ideas

It's a grand feeling to be able to follow the dictates of one's own convictions, and then have them bear fruit, that's exactly what happened to Jan Garber, "The Idol of The Airlines," who brings his internationally famous orchestra to Lake Cisco, "Where West Texas Dances," on June 24, through arrangements made by Lloyd Hughes with the Music Corporation of America.

For Garber, who first gained renown for his "hokum," which he originated, and which consisted of interspersing comedy antics, and clowning while the band played, completely changed the style of his presentations in accord with the changing trend of music lovers.

Came another marked change in the attitude of dance lovers, and Garber began to create another type of entertainment which is based on a slow, smooth-flowing, albeit unique, tempo. With his latest manner of entertainment again meeting with universal approval, it is only natural that he should be acclaimed "The Idol of The Airlines." Garber has not, however, given up his art of "hokum" which bewilders his audiences, coming as it does for the most part spontaneously.

Garber brings with him for his

YOU DON'T HAVE TO "BREAK IN" THE FORD V-8

You can drive it 50 miles an hour the day you buy it

THE FORD V-8 is ready for normal driving when you buy it. There is no tedious period of breaking-in for 500 or 1000 miles. You can drive it up to 50 miles an hour the first day. And after the first hundred miles you can drive it as fast as you desire.

That means greater motoring enjoyment for every motorist. It is especially important to motorists who are thinking about a new car for a vacation trip — to physicians, salesmen and all those who use a car for business. Instead of dragging along at slow speeds for days, you can make good time from the start.

The reason for this is as important as the result. The Ford V-8 needs no breaking-in because of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces. Clearances are correct when you buy the car. It is not necessary to depend on a long wearing-in period to eliminate tightness and insure smooth running. Longer life, greater economy and better performance are bound to result from such precision methods. They are further proof of the care and quality that go into the Ford V-8.

Formerly only the most expensive cars could be driven at normal speeds from the beginning. That still holds true today — except in the case of the Ford V-8. It gives you fine-car construction, along with fine-car performance, comfort, safety and beauty.
