The fate of Jap Lowe, charged with murder in the death of Seaman Garrison likely will rest with a district court jury at Eastland Thursday, it was predicted today.

Defense Attorney Milton Lawrence had used 20 witnesses and District Attorney Grady Owen and Assistant Prosecutor Frank Judkins had used 10 at noon today.

Mrs. W. E. Dwart of Eastland testified today that on Thursday, prior to the shooting of Garrison last November 17, she had heard Garrison threaten Lowe and his son, Wilson, in a cafe at Eastland. She said that she warned Lowe that there would be trouble.

Character witnesses introduced by the defense today included A. M. Hearn, former tax collector, and "Uncle" Jake Lyerla.

Low took the stand in his own defense Tuesday and admitted that he had shot Garrison because he feared that the latter was going to "jump on him."

He recalled several difficulties between himself and Garrison, one of them at his home 18 months before the shooting.

Another instance of trouble between the two was recalled as having occurred at a county fair in Eastland.

Joe Moore yesterday quoted Lowe as saying "You won't beat my boys any more" to Garrison. He detailed for the prosecution approximately the positions of the two men, the night of the shooting. He told of seeing W. E. Francis and Toke Fox with Garrison the evening of the shooting and conversing with him.

R. A. Taylor testified that he saw Garrison turn toward Lowe before the shooting.

This is the second trial of Lowe on the same charge. The first trial resulted in a hung jury three months ago.

Selection of the jury was completed in the court Monday afternoon and first testimony taken yesterday.

Six "units" are represented at the center, where former unemployed men are producing articles valued at $307 at a cost of only $126.

Women in the sewing unit perform the most important duty, making and renovating clothes and other needed articles for the home.

"I have determined that we shall go something for the nation's unemployed youth because we can ill afford to lose the skill and energy of these young men and women," said Mr. Roosevelt in a message accompanying his executive order.

"They must have their chance in school, their turn as apprentices, and their opportunity for jobs—a chance to work and earn for themselves."

He appointed Aubrey Williams assistant federal emergency relief administrator, executive director of the newest New Deal agency.

Josephine Roche, assistant secretary of the treasury, was made chairman of a special executive committee to administer the program.

BLACK WIDOW BEATS TARANTULA BY KNOCKOUT; DEVOURS VICTIM

The controversy over the relative deadliness of the black widow spider and the Texas tarantula was settled here yesterday—at least as far as representatives of the two species were concerned.

The black widow, a vicious brute at best and acclaimed by doctors as the most dangerous of Texas spiders, turned giant killer and slew Primo Tarantula. Then, not contented with that, the champion celebrated with a victory feast, the vanquished spider being the chief dish on the menu.

The victor then spun a web about the tarantula and turned cannibal, devouring its victim and growing all the while. As soon as it finished its grisly meal it cut the web and allowed the tarantula's exoskeleton, only part remaining unentangled, to fall to the bottom of the bottle.

Patman Plans New Bonus Bill

Representative Wright Patman of Texas "never knows when he is whipped." He will introduce a new bonus bill in the house within the next 10 days or two weeks.

The bill would be almost identical with that recently vetoed by the president and will call for immediate payment of the adjusted compensation certificates by the issuance of new money based upon "adequate gold reserves."

He admitted in an interview that he did not entertain high hopes for the passage of the measure this session but thought it "would be a cinch" by the first of the year. Now the Washington prophets say that there will be no bonus march or marchers during the hot summer months. Congressional lawmakers know the punishment they will receive during the dog-day season.

They are mere mortals like their constituents and they prefer the shade of the tree to the burning streets and sidewalks of the big city on the banks of the Potomac.

Senate Liberals and Roosevelt Tax Plans

Senate liberals have banded together to push the Roosevelt tax plan to a finish before adjournment of the congress. Senator Robert M. LaFollette is the leader of the bloc, determined to pass the program this summer.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana and William A. Borah of Idaho are among the progressives who are for the administration taxing plan, which is the source of legislative and financial confusion and the principal obstacle to early adjournment. Old Virginia is in the picture. Old Virginia has Carter Glass and Harry Byrd. They are numbered among the conservatives of the democratic senators.

Senator Byrd offered a joint resolution for a constitutional amendment to permit the federal government to tax incomes from state and local securities and in return states would be given the privilege of taxing federal security income. It is a long road to Tipperary.

A constitutional amendment must be ratified by 36 states, speaking through the legislatures of the state. According to the report of the secretary of the treasury, income taxes, or rather taxes on incomes, produced a revenue for the government of more than $1,000,000,000 this year. Well, the tax-rich champions are for tapping new sources of revenue; they are for reducing "swollen fortunes"; they would make every man a king for at least a day.

Should prosperity return before the coming of the presidential election next year, ratification of the Byrd amendment would disappear in the political smoke of the battle. At least, this is the consensus of opinion of certain wise men who have been posing as political prophets in recent years.

Black Widows and the Texas Donkey

Black Widow spiders have invaded the camp of the Texas donkey—at least they have invaded the smaller camp of the organization known as young democrats.

These dangerous black pests have turned loose on young Elliott Roosevelt. He is a member of the state committee of young democrats. He did not ask for the job. He was forced to take it by the young democrats who are said to be powerful upholders of the Roosevelt administration.

He is criticized by the group of young factionists who insist that the federal constitution is the 10 commandments of the American people and criticism of court opinions treason to the democracy. Well, the circus and the clown come to Texas every year, but this is the first time in Texas history that the black widow spider has driven the donkey frantic and made those responsible for the clowning more vociferous than Barnum's first and last and greatest circus under the big tents of bygone years.

There is an election coming in August. It concerns the fate of important amendments to the constitution of Texas. There is work for the young democrats. They should escape from the clutch of the black widow spiders, harness the donkey for action and organize for the battle of the ballots—on old age pensions "and sich!"

Review of Business and Industry

Further indications of an advance in trade are noted in Dun and Bradstreet weekly review. Retail trade swung with more surety into its summer stride.

Wholesale buying, the survey found, followed closely the inclining trend of retail sales, with the enlarged volume the result of hurried calls for gift specialties, vacation requisites, travel accessories and summer apparel.

The review also notes "there has been a gradual breaking down of hesitation, which had made headway difficult and sentiment is being bolstered by the abundance of money seeking investment and unfilled consumer needs which ran to the largest proportions in years." In other words, the buyer is active. He is spending his money. When there are no buyers trade is punk. Vacation time is here, and those who are handling fat or well filled purses are making their plans for the getaway when old Sol is high up in the sky in dog-day time.

Highway News From Washington

Now that the Colorado River Authority is a fact and not a fiction, the building of highways is a topic that is uppermost in Texas. The Associated Press carried the announcement from the capital of the nation that the Texas highway commission was "thoroughly assured Thursday night that it could inaugurate a $35,000,000 highway program in a few days." Thomas McDonald, chief of the federal bureaus of roads, declared he hoped to make available about $22,000,000 as Texas' share of the highway and grade crossing program from the works relief fund. This he said would be supplemented by the states regular $7,500,000 for federal aid highways and a like contribution by Texas. Furthermore he told the delegation from Texas — Texas senators and representatives and hundreds of road enthusiasts—he hoped to place in the hands of the commission before they leave a definite plan of procedure where 15,000 persons on relief in Texas could be put to work on highway improvements on per-man of $1,400 as established by Work Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins.

to be exploited to get the necessary money.

Some readjustments already have been made that will bear upon this future policy. These include:

1. The pendulum has swung to its limit on trying to exempt large and valuable physical properties from all state taxation. Homes, farms, actually occupied have been exempted to the assessed valuation of $3,000 and this bottom exemption will gradually be extended to all forms of taxes. Large office buildings, hotels, valuable lands, will continue to bear a share of the cost of state and county taxes.
2. The state will tend to limit the total ad valorem tax rate, and to lower it; but will approach it through taking control over extravagant or overly-optimistic local unit in the voting of bond issues. The highway system will be paid for by the state, through assumption of road bonds and the discontinuance of levies upon localities, and will tend, as in the past two years of emergency conditions, to be built with federal money levied generally through federal channels.

3. The state's financial burden of maintaining its departments, eleemosynary institutions, schools and colleges will continue to grow, and cannot be reduced, except possibly in some haphazard two-year slash and with inadequate service the temporary result.

4. A growing liberalized sentiment that large untaxed earnings shall contribute to the state will help the pension fund. Certain types of insurance companies are known to make profits under state rate guarantees and protection, yet their profits pay the state only a fractional administration tax. Other forms of premiums, purportedly paying the state about 2 per cent gross, actually pay about 1-4 or 1 per cent.

5. Natural resources have not paid their fair share. Over a billion feet of valuable natural gas a day—for which consumers pay from 67 1-2 cents to $1.50 per thousand, has been produced, the state getting progressively less tax on it until the annual tax has dropped below $250,000. A reasonable tax on gas would give the state $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 a year net.

6. Sulphur has made a proteque record of escaping taxation. If the money spent by sulphur companies to maintain lobbies to fight off taxes had gone into the treasury, Texas would have been better off. One company, Texas Gulf Sulphur company, with an investment of $6,200,000, has paid back the full cost, and made $19,000,000 net profits, in addition to all expenses and extremely high salaries, with a lobby of numerous highly-paid men, the sulphur companies defeated an increase from the present 75-cent per ton tax this year, after it was shown they so control prices that their profits are as great from small production as from large production. If a compromise tax of $1.25 to $1.50 and been accepted, everybody would have been happy; but out of the scars of that fight; future punitive legislation more likely will put the tax at $2.50 or more a ton than less.

Certain types of franchises, including exclusive rights to "operate utility services and collect rates guaranteed to bring a profit, have constituted immense values that were not adequately taxed. An indirect way of taxing such values will be a future very great extension of municipal operation and control, by which the profits and dividends will be kept at home, in the former of lower rates and lowered taxes.

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS

This will enable a citizenship to bear other taxes. Pipelines have been brought under the intangible tax law, and instead of paying off the investment in six or seven years and paying dividends of 25 to 30 per cent at the same time, these corporations have their excess earning capitalized and spread over valorem rolls, just as railroads. It appears the revision the "tax on poverty" of the CONTINUED ON PAGE

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, June 26—A prime political issue is in the making, while Texas stirs lukewarm interest in the personalities of the governor, United States senate, attorney general and lieutenant governor's races in 1936. It is: "whos to pay for old-age pensions? Otherwise stated, it is the division over policies of financing — the state's program of the old-age security system, a division that gets down to the fundamentals of at least four sources and systems of taxation: Sales taxes and swat-farmer taxes.

National politics next year will see far overshadow state races that unless Gov. Alfred should contest with Sen. Morris Sheppard for the United States senate, the state political campaign will be virtually invisible.

And it looks like Alfred will leave Sheppard a clear trail back to Washington, and seek for himself the traditional second term as governor. That would mean Attorney General William McCraw and Chairman Ernest O. Thompson of the railroad commission would ask re-election, and Lieut. Gov. Walter F. Woodil either seek re-election or follow his expressed wish of quitting politics.

But issues have a way of coming up from social and economic sources and of finding the individuals and the candidates to fit themselves. There will be the issue, regardless of the shoulders upon which its conflicting programs are borne, of the state's course in setting up one of the largest permanent future schedules of expenditures.

Old-age pensions will be voted, about a generation later than the sanction it reached in the social conscience of an enlightened people. That it will not be a new burden" or new expense is clear; it will be a burden spread by government upon the whole of society.

In Texas, it is estimated the bracket of those to share the pension will include about 40,000 persons, or one out of 15 of the population. Federal co-operation is assured. Passage of the state pension amendment is certain. So that in the choice of an administration and a legislature and half the senate next year, the question before Texas will

WITH OR WITHOUT DELUXE EQUIPMENT A FORD is always a FORD V-8

EVERY FORD CAR HAS:
—the same, economical, 85 horsepower V-8 engine.
—the same, new, Comfort-engineered Chassis.
—6.00 x 16" air-balloon tires and Safety Glass all 'round at no extra cost.

IT is common practice, nowadays, to find two quite different automobiles sold under the same name. This difference will run all the way from a difference in horsepower, chassis and body design to a difference in the number of cylinders in the engine. No such difference exists between one Ford V-8 and another. Ford builds only one size of automobile with the same V-8 engine on the same 112-inch chassis. The springbase of all Ford cars is 123 inches and all passengers ride centered—between the springs in the "Comfort Zone."

The only difference between a Ford V-8 and a Deluxe Ford V-8 is in equipment—not in engineering... And even here, two major items—Safety Glass all 'round and 6.00x16" air-balloon tires—are standard equipment on all Ford cars at no extra cost. Therefore, when you are choosing your 1935 car, good judgment demands you check the list of features shown above. All of them are found on every Ford car built and without them no automobile can be considered a true 1935 value.

Summer Sweethearts

 MINE STRYKHURST, thoughtful allows her emotions when she marries. HEARTY, young man who comes into and turns, Katharine's job and her stepmother.

What a muddle! Zoe sighed, leaning her head pensively on her hand. She had seen John Kaye that morning. He had come out for a Saturday morning of golf. She had asked him to tea this afternoon and he was coming. Zoe had felt a little flutter of pleasure at the thought, in spite of the fact that she had sworn never to let any man trouble the surface of her mind again. She felt whole—new again—since her summer madness.

Wild outburst of despair, ending in her tussle with death. She was, John Kaye reflected, a delightful companion. Pity she fastened her affections on that rotter. Almost any man might consider himself lucky to have the love of a girl like Zoe. She was lovely to look at, intelligent, womanly (in the old-fashioned sense, in spite of her modern setting). Any man but himself, that it. His affections were placed elsewhere. . . .

She was reading on the terrace at 4 when Gerda announced Dr. Kaye. He looked browner, more vital in his country tweeds. "I started it," Zoe smiled. "It's grand. Some of it's hard going, but I feel so noble getting through it."

"You're not listening," the girl pointed. "I can tell."
 "But I am," he protested, smiling. "You said Gerda McVaine wore green and was asking for me."
 "Smart boy!" Zoe applauded. "You think your own thoughts and listen at the same time. It's like patting your head and rubbing your tummy—the trick we used to try when we were children."
 "Something like that!" He laughed with deep enjoyment.

TOOK UP
 the "I thought to myself," "That's fine I go back to better take this to Miss I'll know what to do with like I tried to do the old takin' it out of the when that Miss Moon was where."

She poured the thin amber stream into the delicate cups. "Glad you don't think tea isissy." "No, I like it. Had a year in London, you know, and learned to there. In Germany, of course, coffee was the thing. . . ."

HER little Scottish terrier, Jack, came wandering in from the garden and sniffed in friendly fashion at the table holding the tea tray. Dr. Kaye rubbed the dog's ears, and Zoe told Jack sternly to keep away from the cakes.

TOOK UP
 the "I thought to myself," "That's fine I go back to better take this to Miss I'll know what to do with like I tried to do the old takin' it out of the when that Miss Moon was where."

It was a pleasantly domestic interval. The yellow leaves drifting around them; the water cobalt in the distance; the warmth of afternoon sun on their backs.

A shepherd dog was bounding over Mrs. Parker's deiphinium beds, casually planting his enormous feet all over the carefully-tended plant roots. Zoe said dispassionately, "That's Gracia's. She must be somewhere about. Now Jack's in it. Come back, come back, boy, do you hear me?"

TOOK UP
 the "I thought to myself," "That's fine I go back to better take this to Miss I'll know what to do with like I tried to do the old takin' it out of the when that Miss Moon was where."

ZOE, burdened with Katharine's secret, longed to share it with someone wiser than herself, but did not quite dare. Besides, the simplest, the most intelligent course would simply be to slip the certificate into an envelope and send it to Katharine with a brief note explaining how it got into Zoe's possession.

Jack created a diversion at the moment by rising on his hind legs rather in the manner of an offended tabby, and growling deep in his throat.

 the "I thought to myself," "That's fine I go back to better take this to Miss I'll know what to do with like I tried to do the old takin' it out of the when that Miss Moon was where."

"I had a letter today," said the man, doubling a thin slice of bread and butter and eating it with evident relish. "Katharine's liking the place."

Practically they sought to part the two dogs. Gracia, very elegant in a walking costume of gray, giving an impersonation of the sports-woman at her most brilliant moment, strolled into sight.

TOOK UP
 the "I thought to myself," "That's fine I go back to better take this to Miss I'll know what to do with like I tried to do the old takin' it out of the when that Miss Moon was where."

She began to chatter about nothing at all. The tennis final, and the last dance of the season at the Wiesmacker, and whether Denny Raeburn's yacht would win the race. John listened, watching lastly the play of sunlight and shadow on the animated face. Zoe had taken on a new prettiness since . . .

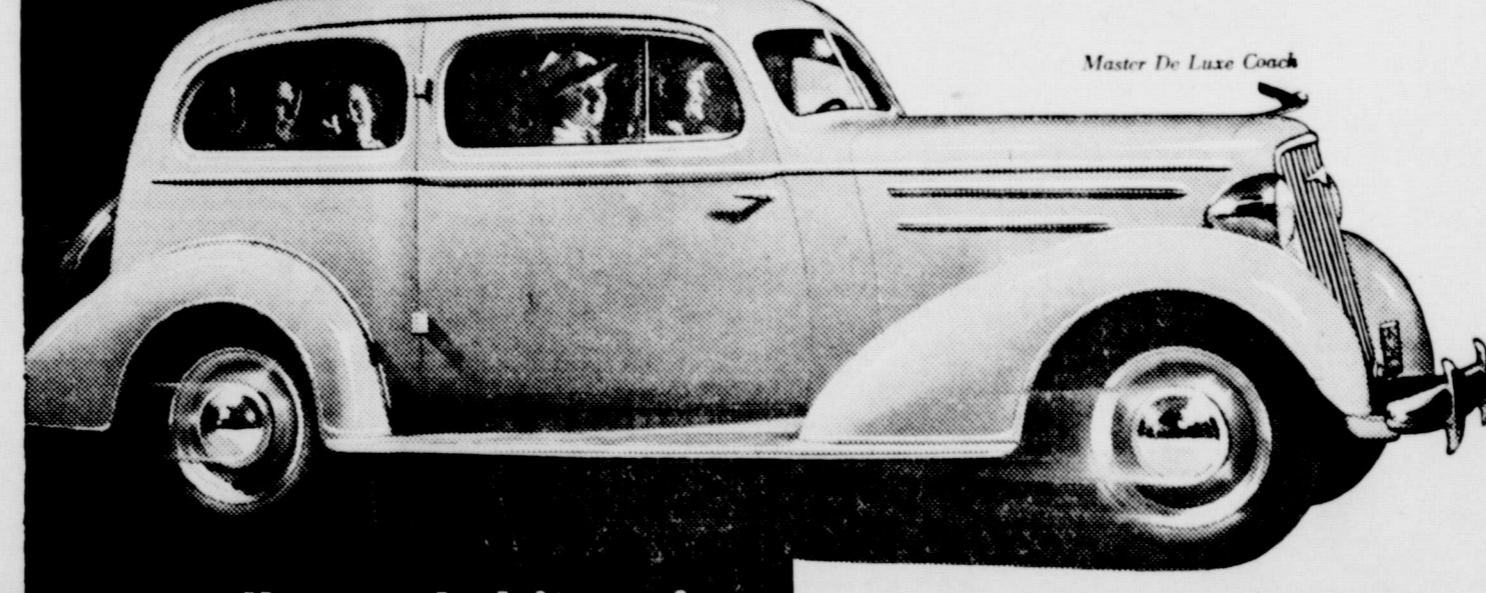

"You naughty puppy! You deserve to be whipped. Why don't you obey me!"
 John Kaye, following her, picked up the folded paper she had dropped.

LEFTISTS CALL SECRET RALLY TO MAP PARTY

CHICAGO, June 26 —J Left wingers of the United States will meet in secret conclave here late in June with approximately 200 union officials and other labor leaders to consider a radical third party movement.

Invitations have gone out to labor men and liberal public officials—governors, congressmen and senators. The invitations promise complete absence of publicity and no admittance to press representatives. Even the exact date of the meeting is a secret.

Privacy is desired to guard against embarrassing conference delegates, promoters say. They believe that the effect of two preliminary conferences in Washington was spoiled by publicity.

Few Leaders Known
The men fostering the conference are Thomas E. Amie, youthful congressional representative from Elkhorn, Wis.; Ernest Lundeen, Farmer-Labor representative from Minnesota; Howard Y. Williams, secretary of the national Farmer Labor Federation, and two other congressmen, working under cover—one of them in New York City.

These leaders would like to open a presidential campaign in 1936 on a "production for use" program—partly with the forlorn hope that it might succeed, but mainly to bolster state tickets and build a national organization for 1940.

National Campaign Opposed
However, several delegates—all of whom refused to be quoted when interviewed by the United Press—strenuously object to a national campaign. Their various objections are:

1. That President Roosevelt will be too strong and a decisive defeat would impair the party's chances in 1940.
2. That the ability of many possible leaders of the movement—Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota and Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, for instance—that their ability to obtain immense re-lie allotments to their states would be jeopardized.

3. That a national third party ticket would tend to crystallize Democratic opposition which otherwise might not be so strong in state campaigns.

Fear Results of Fight

These objections are made particularly by the men who have not completely severed relations with the national administration—by labor union leaders who fear the possible consequences of bucking the administration, and by public officials even more fearful.

It is this timidity that the conference has been called to combat.

Hence, the stressing of secrecy, and the demand that no delegate reveal the time or place of the meetings. Formerly the dates were June 29 and 30.

Williams explained: "We can't build a national third party unless the heads of big trade unions are willing. But if we get 200 such leaders into a hotel room and make them face the facts they'll be driven to third party action—inevitably."

Rail Labor's Support Seen
One of the facts to be faced, Williams believes, is realization of the "unanimity of opinion" which he says is prevalent among laborers and union leaders.

Williams expects the Railroad Brotherhoods to lead the list of pledges to a third party movement. Their members, he said, are particularly unfriendly toward President Roosevelt because of recent adverse decisions affecting their pension system and hours of work. Four high officials of the powerful brotherhoods have signified their intention to attend the conference, he added.

consumers' sales tax has been so great as for the present to prevent the luxury tax system of levying upon the upper price brackets of commodities, with basic exemption to satisfy the normal necessities of the normal wage-earner.

The bitterest of all opposition before legislative committees is that in the state income tax. The Texas house two years ago voted final passage of an income tax bill, but the senate conveniently killed it, both using it as a weapon against the sales tax.

Texas will be so busy the next few years trying to recruit new industries and new capital to develop boundless natural resources and raw products and thus to build the population Texas so badly needs that it agreed a wise political economy will hold off the general income tax on both individuals and corporations a good many years.

That does not mean Texas may not sever corporations down into individual, single and basic functions. Texas may require all corporations which share the benefits of its laws and protection to become state corporations, and to engage in but one type of business. That would move the headquarters of thousands of companies to the state.

FDR, Wallace Get Untagged Cotton

HOUSTON, June 26 — President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace have been sent bales of cotton without Bankhead tax tags or exemption certificates, to remind them of the problems now confronting the cotton industry.

The bales were sent by F. P. Lordan, chairman of Galveston-Houston division of the Cotton Industries Employees' association. The organization seeks repeal of present restrictions on cotton production.

Drive far—drive fast —without a worry!

With Conoco Germ Processed Oil in your crankcase, you KNOW the strain won't hurt your motor!

Tests prove this new alloyed oil has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than plain mineral oils and resists heat better!

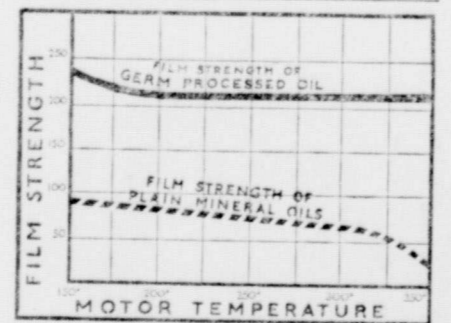

On July 4th or week-end and vacation trips, you'll want to drive far and get there in a hurry. And you don't want that nagging worry of "I wonder if this speed and heat will hurt anything in my motor."

You can't always be sure when you use plain mineral oils, for they have little film strength and oils over-refined by new cleansing processes have even less. Moreover, as motor heat goes up, these oils rapidly lose film strength.

Film strength is the load-carrying ability of an oil, the quality that keeps bearings and cylinders from wearing out. Lack of film strength results in costly damage.

You can drive without a worry when you use Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil! It has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than any plain mineral oil. Heat does not lessen this advantage.*

Supervised road tests—over good and bad roads, at low and high speeds, in all kinds of weather—give practical proof that Germ Processed Oil protests motors better. In every test, gravimetric measurement of motor bearings showed that Germ Processed Oil prevented wear far better than plain mineral oils. Tested in a fleet of cars equipped with the new alloy-metal bearings used in many 1935 cars, a high-quality plain mineral oil permitted 45% more wear on connecting rod bearings than did Germ Processed Oil.

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED MOTOR OIL PLAIN MINERAL OILS

HERE'S THE PROOF
Note that as heat increases, the plain mineral oils continue to lose film strength, but that above 225° (Minimum summer crankcase temperature) Germ Processed Oil's film strength is not affected by heat. Tests made with Timken machine.

Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil is the first alloyed oil—alloyed, such as metals are, by adding concentrated oily essence to highly refined oil. It is the only oil made by the Germ Process. It is the oil with the "Hidden Quart" that stays up in your motor and never drains away!

Say "O. K.—Drain"—fill with Germ Processed Oil. Drive far—drive fast—without a worry!

Agriculture Grows Rapidly in Valley

McALLEN, June 26 — Agriculture developed more rapidly in the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas than in any other part of the state during the five-year period from 1930 to 1935, according to estimates of the United census bureau in Washington.

The four valley counties reported a total of 19,954 farms in 1935, as compared with a total of 9,420 farms in 1930. For the five year period there was an increase of 10,534 farms in the area. The percentage increase is approximately 112 per cent.

According to some estimates Hidalgo county has more farms than any other county in Texas and Cameron county ranks second in the state.

Hidalgo county's increase during the period was about 129 per cent while Cameron's increase was about 149 per cent.
