POWERS AGREE TO ENFORCE COVENANT

BRITAIN AND FRANCE LEAD IN MOVEMENT

By United Press
GENEVA, Sept. 25. — The powers, led by Great Britain and France, reached a tentative decision to act under Article 15 of the League covenant to deal with the Italian-Ethiopian crisis.

Article 15 paves the way for application of Article 16 which provides penalties against an aggressor in case of war, although a settlement could be reached before Article 16 is evoked.

After Britain and France had agreed to act together in urging Article 15, the other powers concurred tentatively in the proposal that when the council meets tomorrow it should appoint a committee comprising all members of the council except Italy, to draft a report with recommendations for settlement under Article 15, Paragraph 4.

The decision to act was reached after conversations among Anthony Eden of Great Britain, Premier Pierre Laval of France, and Salvador Madariaga of Spain, head of the council's committee of five on Ethiopia.

West Texan for a Sales Tax

Representative Robert Alexander hails from Childress, away out in the lower Panhandle. He has proposed to the house revenue and taxation committee a general sales tax to pay old-age pensions. The sales tax proposal is bobbing up everywhere in Texas. All that is necessary to obtain evidence to this fact is to interview representatives or laymen from all sections of the largest of American states. Moreover, it promises to be one of the uppermost issues in the campaign next year.

Pensions and a Bill in the Making

Lawmakers recognize that the pension problem is one of the most important ever submitted to a Texas legislature. Major provisions of a bill were approved by authors of the several measures and a sub-committee of the house state affairs committee. Numerous restrictions designed to limit pension rolls were adopted. Pensions would be denied persons with income of $360 and who have real, personal, or mixed property having the value of $4,000. Pensions would be denied where individuals were legally liable and able to support an applicant. Applicants would be required to show: first, that he had been a resident of Texas for five of the past nine years, and for one year immediately preceding the application. Second, if married, that he or she had not deserted spouse or minor children in the past three years. Third, has not made voluntary assignment of property to qualify for a pension. Pensions would be paid to persons in private institutions where the pensioner was shown to need institutional treatment. Pensions would not be paid to persons residing in fraternal homes. No county resident requirement would be imposed. The bill as drafted would designate the type of agency to administer pensions and recommendation of a tax to provide a revenue for the payment of the same.

The American congress had many important measures before it in the session that is dead. The lawmakers of Texas have problems just as weighty and just as vexatious before them for consideration at this special session of the legislature.

C of C Clamoring for Showdown

This nation must be on the way to recovery. Very active indeed is the United States Chamber of Commerce with its Silas Strawns and the big industrialists who train under the banner of the organization. They have ordered a new business referendum on the new deal. They claim to represent 750,000 firms and corporations. All members are asked to vote on "the philosophy and trend of the Roosevelt administration." A report adopted by the board of directors made these three findings: First, legislation is becoming extremely centralized; second, an extraordinary delegation of authority is being given to the chief executive; third, government expenditures are becoming excessive.

Hence, the demand for a nation-wide referendum for the

Behind the Scenes in Washington

Willis Thornton, NEA Service staff correspondent, is pinch-hitting for Rodney Dutcher, NEA Washington correspondent, while Dutcher is on vacation.

BY WILLIS THORNTON, NEA Service Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON—What is likely to turn into a slapping prediction attack on the New Deal is brewing in the American Bar Association.

Many months ago, a committee was appointed to look into what present-day legislation is doing to the Constitution. This committee was to have made a report to the convention of the bar association this summer. But, due to disagreement among committee members—not so much on their opinions as to constitutionality of New Deal legislative acts and methods, as on the manner of expressing those opinions—the report was not made.

The committee was given more time. So it is now to report Nov. 1 to the executive committee and the general council of the association, which will consider the report this winter.

Then, next August, the report will be considered at the association's annual meeting. Oddly enough, that is just the heat not only of summer, but of the presidential campaign of 1936, and while, of course, the report will be judicial and non-partisan, it will certainly fall at a time when many will see it as a campaign document.

The head of the committee is George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, who was appointed to the Senate to succeed Hotes Penrose and who is a former member of the Republican National Committee.

Whether or not grass grew in the streets, it is growing daily at the Rapidan camp of former President Hoover. Navy Secretary Swanson is chief of such of the official set as have frequented this camp this summer.

When the Hoovers moved out, the camp was turned over to the state of Virginia, and is now administered as part of Shenandoah National Park. All the more elaborate furniture has been moved out, and only cot beds, a few wicker chairs, and rough furniture made by the marines remain. Roads show patching.

And as a final touch, the trout streams have been pretty well fished out by the boys from nearby CCC camps.

SPEAKING OF CCC camps, there are now 2551 of them, as compared to 1649 a short 19 weeks ago. Although the increased enrollment authorized by the last session of Congress was somewhat slow in reaching par, it has now mounted to 517,000 of the approximately 600,000 authorized.

Excluding the Indians and territorial enrollments, 592,000 of these are young men and veterans. During those last 19 weeks, more than a quarter million men have entered the corps, and 911 new camps have been built.

Of these, 229,509 were young men of from 18 to 28 years selected by the Department of Labor, 23,805 came from the Veterans' Administration, and 9188 were locally enrolled men selected by the Departments of Agriculture and Interior.

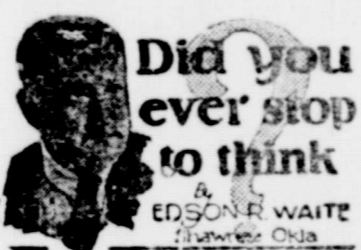

To date, since the corps was established in April, 1933, more than 1,300,000 men have been enrolled for terms of service averaging eight months.

members of this very powerful body of industrialists and their sympathizers. In 1932 stagnation had set in. All industries were on the ragged edge. Banks were paralyzed. There were 10,000,000 idle workers. There were additional millions fed by the generous in the states and municipalities. It is a matter of history that the United States Chamber of Commerce was up in the air, its members were dumb, and its leaders insisted that "a strong government was necessary or else hell would break loose on country side and in city street."

Roosevelt was inaugurated. He adopted drastic measures. He saved the country from chaos or anarchy. He made recovery (at least a partial recovery), possible. It will be impossible to obtain a referendum except at the ballot box of the millions who were lifted out of the ditch by the policies and laws of Franklin D. Roosevelt and his followers. He did not destroy the constitution. He did not imperil its worth or its dignity or its sacredness. He declared that human rights should be placed side by side with property rights and that a reign of social justice should be inaugurated in the land of the fathers. He kept his word. His record has been written.

state applies a basis of taxation under which the exploiter of natural resources can operate, the fact at once tends to level up similar taxes by other producing states. Louisiana, for instance, collects an in-lieu tax on oil reputedly ranging from 6 to 11 cents a barrel, yet producers haven't plugged a single well on that account.

Individual wet and dry members of the legislature have made mutual covenants to fight hard for whatever liquor regulatory bill they can enact, but when drawn to join in giving it enough votes to make it effective at once. This fact confirms the thesis that the product will be a matter of compromise and mutual concessions, ending up with abandonment by the drys of the monopoly plan in order to gain the limitation of liquor sales to unbroken packages.

Plaque Has Name Of Famed Sculptor

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 25.—A plaque from a deserted Italian monastery, bought for a few pennies as a souvenir by Dr. John T. Gifford, University of Miami professor, may be the work of Benvenuto Cellini, famous sculptor of the 16th century.

Touring Italy in 1895, Dr. Gifford visited the monastery of Valombrosa, near Florence. Alone there was a boy who earned a few coppers by securing occasional visitors behind the crumbling walls.

In one dark corner, Dr. Gifford picked up a small object, crusted with sediment. Wiping it off, he found elaborate designs of knights in armor and fine ladies on its face. It intrigued him and he gave the boy a few cents for it.

Dr. Gifford only recently gave the plaque close scrutiny. He scraped away the crust and this inscription was found:

"Cellini — 1541." An effort is being made to establish the plaque's source. According to Dr. Gifford, an offer of $100,000 has been made for the piece, should it prove to be an authentic Cellini product, by Homer St. Gaudens, director of the Carnegie Art Institute of Pittsburgh.

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. — Why not let the out-of-state users of essential Texas natural resources pay the Texas tax bill? This question dominates the viewpoint of a strong school of tax thought in the Texas legislature.

The question with these members is: "Shall we take money out of the pocket of Texas as people for government and pension costs, or shall the money come from the proverbial wealth of natural resources, consumed mostly outside Texas, and to a large extent beyond the nation's borders?"

The slant implies a tax on all natural resources severed from the soil of Texas. It implies further, a uniform tax on all these natural resources, which Texas has never even tried to apply. It further calls for a percentage tax, so that the man getting high prices and high profits will pay more taxes.

Texas applied the percentage bass hit-and-miss to oil and gas and then abrogated it by a flat minimum that puts a penalty on the oil producers far from tidewater. It failed to apply this basis to sulphur. It left most of the valuable Texas natural commodities entirely untaxed.

Texasans realize that when a large

The BLUE DOOR

By Rachel Mack

BEGIN HERE TODAY RUTH WOODSON, pretty, high-spirited girl of 18, in search of work, seeks refuge in a blue door in the little town of Worthville. She plans to go to the library for a book, but she finds a half-finished suicide note, she follows the person who has written it to the third floor. ELAINE CHAMBERS, whose grandfather built the house, Ruth falls in love with her, but before he can do so is called out of town.

Elaine, at Graycreek College, vows in a solemn meeting to win the love of her childhood hero, John McNeill. She plans to go to Worthville, John, receiving a letter from Elaine, realizes that the girl in the old Hunter house is a fake. He loves her, however, and resolves to tell her, but before he can do so is called out of town.

John leaves a note of explanation to Ruth, but old Bertha destroys it. Ruth thinks John has come away in disgust, having found her out. Sleepless, she goes to the library for a book, but she finds a half-finished suicide note, she follows the person who has written it to the third floor. ELAINE CHAMBERS, whose grandfather built the house, Ruth falls in love with her, but before he can do so is called out of town.

Now go on with the story CHAPTER XXV WORTHVILLE was proud of its train service. Long ago Silas Hunter had routed his trains through the town and built an imposing depot. One could reach the little city on through trains without hardship.

Stepping from a Pullman coach at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, a beautiful girl, wearing expensively simple travel clothes and an alert expression, tipped the porter and looked around for a taxi. When a driver, presented himself at her feet and directed crisply, "The Silas Hunter house on Garfield avenue!"

Thus Elaine Chambers arrived for her campaign to win John McNeill's heart. When the taxi turned in at the Hunter gateway the appearance of the place dismayed her.

She got out and the driver piled her bags around her on the porch and left her there. Almost before her knocking had died away, the door opened a crack and a wrinkled old face peered out.

Elaine exclaimed, "Penny!" "Eh?" said old Bertha in surprise. "It's me, Penny! It's Elaine Chambers. I wrote you I was coming, and here I am! Come help me get these bags in. Aren't there any other servants here at all?"

The old woman said in perplexity, "Stand still and let me look at you." She drew the girl into a patch of pale autumn sunlight and peered at her intently. "Would you mind speaking again?" she asked then.

"Not at all," Elaine Chambers laughed. "I've every intention of speaking. I want to come in and have a bath. I want breakfast. I've just gotten off the train and I feel perfectly rocky." She began to gather up some of the bags and move toward the door with them.

"Wait, I'll help you," Bertha said. "The old woman was in a quagmire of perplexity. She wondered if she'd fallen asleep in an uncomfortable position and was having a bad dream. It could hardly be true. Two girls in the house at once, both calling themselves Elaine Chambers! She said aloud, "But you're the real one! Yes, you're the real one!"

"Certainly I'm real," replied Elaine, made cross by the queer remark. "My head couldn't ache like this if I weren't real."

"I mean," explained Bertha, growing more excited, "that the other one's a pretender and a liar. She's fooled me."

"What other one?" asked Elaine blankly. "The one that came the night of the big rain, claimin' to be you."

"Claiming to be me? What utter nerve! What did you do with her?"

"I took her in," Penny said, "and gave her your room."

"Penny, you old fool! Do you mean you're that simple?"

"I don't see good any more," Bertha explained in self-defense. "There was your letter sayin' you'd be here for a rest. And there comes this girl, almost on the heels of it. She's been here ever since."

"Do you mean she's here now?" asked Elaine Chambers, incredulously. "Yes, upstairs. She had her breakfast and then she went up stairs. She keeps pretty busy."

Elaine, who had been sitting on the edge of a chair, jumped to her feet excitedly. "Phone the police, Penny! No, you haven't a telephone, of course. Wait! I'll go get the police myself."

"Something's w'r'n in," Bertha's brain came to attention at that word "police." The amazing situation of having two Elaine Chambers contending for her recognition suddenly became as nothing to her. The only thing that mattered was the unhappy man on the third floor who pined desolately from room to room and could not sleep.

To the angry girl pacing the floor with revenge in her eyes, Penny said placatingly, "The one upstairs is a nice quiet little thing."

"Then why is she here? What's the idea?" Bertha rubbed her chin and answered honestly, "That I can't say, Miss—Miss Elaine." It was confusing to shift suddenly to calling this one Miss Elaine, even though she was the rightful owner of that name. Indeed it was all confusing, and worse.

She said, "I hope you'll forgive me for being taken in like that. Though I'm not such a fool as I look. Mr. John was taken in, too."

Elaine grew quietly attentive. "You mean John McNeill?"

"Yes, Miss Elaine. The girl fainted the day she came and I called him to help me carry her upstairs. Ever since then we've both called her by your name."

Ten. In a moment, however, natural feeling of optimistic superiority asserted itself. I dispose of this girl and her. She'd laugh at John McNeill for being taken in by her.

SHE thought, "He must be a mental over her if he sees that often. But nothing's able. Half his thrill comes believing her to be me. She is as good-looking as I am, she can't know as much as handling men. I think I can him over!" Her chin was There was in her blood the love of conquest that had Silas Hunter, her grandpa built railroads and hold the "Take me up to her, Pen she commanded.

Bertha was thinking as fast as her weary, never-to-brain would function. She something, "Come into the room first, Miss Elaine, and a cup of coffee. A body's hardly fit to argue till had their coffee. I'll run a of rolls in the oven for you open a jar of preserves. You to like my damson marmelad grossed." "Did I?" asked Elaine, still brooded with her purpose lured by the thought of bread "Oh, well, have it your Penny."

She went into the dining and sat down at the big w table. While Bertha prepared breakfast Elaine smoked a bet and drummed her fingers on the table. The room held amused attention, its furnish were so stiffly Victorian, blatantly ugly that they intri her. And yet the proportion the great high-ceilinged old were excellent.

Wouldn't it be scream funny," Elaine thought, "if McNeill and I should fall in really seriously, and decide to here and do the old house I'd bring a decorator out New York and do the thing Modified Victorian. Leave little marble mantles. He couldn't bear to stay here than a couple of months of a year. . . . I wonder it wouldn't be hard to handle?"

Again there came back to a surge of memories conce the good-looking boy next whom she used to worship. He was indifferent and unattain in those days. It would be only to make a slave of him and punish him for the 16-old indifference. Suddenly seemed to her to be the only worth doing.

Bertha came in with the then, serving the meal with fying words and gestures, as would step around a handcat that one wished to mot Then, when there was no for her to do, the old ser went out of the room and el to the third floor by means of back stairs. She must warn Duncan that there was a person in the house to me him.

To her surprise, Duncan H was lying on his bed asleep, looking as rested and as t as if he had looked as if Bertha Gibbs closed the doo the room and went down to kitchen again.

MINIMUM AGE FOR ENLISTING IN CCC LOWER

AUSTIN, Sept. 25 — Minimum age limit for CCC enrollees has been lowered from 18 to 17. State Enrollment Supervisor Neal E. Guy announced Saturday.

The ruling will apply for the October enrollment, when every eligible person in the state is expected to be given a chance to enlist in the CCC. Enrollment will be open for all unmarried men between 17 and 28 whose families are on relief rolls. The date are inclusive, and a person who has passed his seventeenth birthday is eligible, as is one who has not reached his twenty-ninth.

Mandatory discharges have been discontinued, and enrollees may stay in camps indefinitely. Also, persons honorably discharged may re-enlist provided their previous service was not less than four months. Eligible enrollees, however, honorably discharged prior to October 21, 1933, may be re-selected without regard to length of previous service.

Guy advised persons in the lower age brackets, particularly the 17-year-olds who are in school, to continue their schooling as long as possible, with the hope of enlisting later. For those who cannot continue in school, the CCC conducts an educational program in each camp, he pointed out.

Loboes Working for Angelo Contest

ONLY 2 MORE DAYS REMAIN BEFORE GAME

With only two days remaining before the clash with the San Angelo Bobcats, the Loboes are working to get into the best shape for the game that will give them their first comparative score against another Oil Belt team.

A spirit of optimism, despite the loss of the Bobcats, is expected to prevail in the Lobo camp. The boys think they can best San Angelo, one of the squadrons ranked, but hastened to say that the Loboes would be cut out of them.

The San Angelo aggregation last week handed Ranger a 90 to 100. It was the worst defeat Oil Belt team had suffered in many moons, and the first since Ranger had taken from the Loboes.

Ranger had been picked to win the district title and had lost in the district in two years.

Crippled Team
The Loboes likely will enter the game against the Bobcats somewhat crippled, despite their optimism. Beasley, who was injured in the extra frays Friday, likely will be the bench warming his last knee.

The rest of the boys, however, are itching to get at the big cats. Cisco team, while light, showed great amount of team play and more than the usual amount of enthusiasm against Electra.

The passing attack that the Loboes shot at the border boys may be again Friday night when they are expected to meet the passers against the Electra team and highly successful on the first two halves, his blockers giving much cooperation until the receivers were clear.

The real problem of the Loboes will be to stop the terrific offense of the San Angelo wingbacks in their reverses, if they use the same style of play which they have employed in the past.

LOUIS BOMBS HIS WAY FOR 4-ROUND KAYO

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 — Blasted his way unemotionally through four rounds last night, Joe Louis, the brown bomber of Detroit, scored sensational knockout over Max Baer, the Livermore butcher boy, with the position of challenger, Champion Jim Braddock.

The 21-year-old negro floored Baer three times in the brief fight before a crowd that almost touched the $1,000,000 gate predicted. The last time, Baer was counted out on the knee, while the crowd roared in acclaim of the new unofficial champion.

Louis shot short blows at Baer from the opening of the first round until the end, and had blood oozing from his face as he jabbed him time and again with his left.

The negro won each of the four rounds just before the end of the match. He caught Louis at the knees and continued to hammer at him after the bell.

In the third Baer came out with fresh energy but met an awful fate and was floored for a count of one and then for another of four.

In the fourth round Louis stalked Baer carefully setting him up for the knockout, and just before the close of the round sank a long right that floored the ex-champion for the count.

LEAGUE WILL USE PENALTIES ON ITALIANS

GENEVA, Sept. 26. — The League of Nations council today decided to invoke the League covenant in defiance of Italy's wrath to deal with the Italian-Ethiopian crisis.

It voted unanimously to act under paragraphs three and four of Article 15 of the covenant, leading directly to penalties against the aggressor in case of war.

It decided also, realizing the urgent gravity of the crisis, to remain in permanent session.

The course to be followed is that which caused Japan and Paraguay to withdraw from the League during the Manchurian and Gran Chaco disputes.

The council's decisions were taken in almost absolute silence, indicative of the realization that the League's acts were of world moment. The hall was packed.

The crowded was the diplomatic gallery that many foreign envoys were forced to stand against the wall.

Italy did not attend either the private or the public meeting.

It announced it would attend no more public sessions at which the crisis is discussed.

HOLY LEAGUE BREAK ONLY MATTER OF DAYS
ROME, Sept. 26. — The League council's action was interpreted by well informed persons today as meaning it is now only a matter of days before Italy must quit the League or submit to the council and accept a settlement of the Ethiopian dispute as outlined by the committee of five.

Barring some miracle, little hope is expressed for any solution.

Baylor Club Coach Working 77 Slimes
WACO, Sept. 25. — Seventy-seven grid candidates have been reporting daily to Coach Jim Crow, the Baylor university freshman football overseer, including numerous high school and junior college stars with the result that the outlook is bright for another strong first year eleven at Baylor.

The Baylor freshmen schedule includes games with Allen Academy, the T. C. U. Polywogs, and the S. M. U. Colts. The Cubs meet the Allen Ramblers October 21 in Waco, but take to the road for the other contests. The S. M. U. game is scheduled for November 22, but the date of the T. C. U. tilt has not been decided as yet.

SUBWAY FARE CUT
MOSCOW. — Fares on Moscow's new subway have been reduced from 50 to 40 copeks. Further reductions are planned as soon as new rolling stock enables the underground administration to operate on a faster schedule and so care for the additional traffic which will result.

Hot Weather Causes Trouble Says Court

BORGER, Sept. 25. — That hot days cause many family troubles was a theory adhered to rigidly by Judge John M. Farmer, of the City Police Court, during the hot days of July and August.

"Now that cooler weather has come, people should feel better," Judge Farmer said. "During the hot weather we recognized that many people felt bad and made allowances."

"But now that cooler weather is here we feel that the weather no longer is an excuse for family squabbling. Couples who are huffed into court for airing their troubles in public will have to face the consequences in the future."

City officers agree that in the majority of cases in which either the husband or wife calls police to retrieve a quarrel, the affair ends with both the husband and wife jumping on the officer. Accordingly they learned to travel in pairs.

Great Britain's Naval Might Is Massed In Mediterranean Waters

Tremendous power of the fleet which Britain is massing in the Mediterranean sea at Gibraltar, Malta, and Suez is graphically shown in this picture of warships at anchor in Gibraltar harbor during previous maneuvers held by the combined Atlantic and Mediterranean fleets. Ready also for one of the greatest sea battles in history if war comes, the Italian navy is massed on both sides of the peninsula between the Adriatic and Tyrrhenian seas.

From home waters all the way to the waters of far-off China, British warships were ordered under forced draft to the zone of danger as the war threat grew more menacing.

The blare of bands and the tooting of the calliope bring back memories when we were kids. So let us all be kids again and look back several years when the real thrill of our lives were made happy with the announcement of the arrival of the circus.

Seal Bros. Big Three Ring Wild Animal Circus will exhibit at Cisco and will give two grand performances at two and eight p. m. Doors will open one hour earlier in order that everyone may have ample time to inspect the mammoth free menagerie, where you will see almost every kind of an animal from the animal kingdom. There are lions, leopards, tigers, pumas, hyenas, camels, bears, ocelots, yaks, zebras, wild buffalo, giraffes, birds of paradise from the tropics, elephants and America's most beautiful horses. The animal zoo is worth traveling miles to see and in fact is nothing less than a traveling university of natural history.

As a prelude to the circus proper a beautiful Spectacular Pageant is presented whereby every member of the circus takes part in a gorgeous professional fiesta of Old Spain which is entitled Sunny Madrid. This is headed by its beautiful prima donna a Senorita Dolores Gomez, Mexico's most celebrated dancer, who is assisted by twenty dancing girls and boys from the country of music and flowers.

The wild animals displays are presented by Capt. Ben Bowman, Floyd Hunter and Fred Anderson. The horse fair of Kentucky bred, gaired high school and dancing horses are presented by Miss Laura Seal and a dozen lady riders. There are twenty-five clowns to furnish the fun and drive away the blues.

A few of the featured performers are as follows: The flying Henries, the Aerial Delmar, the famous Matsumoto family of Japanese artists the first time in America, Miss Peggy Webb who is the queen of the air and is the original girl on the flying trapeze. The Coriell family of acrobats and tumblers, the Driesbeck sisters, Germany's greatest lady riders and equestriennes.

Serf Credited With Building Bicycle
MOSCOW, Sept. 25. — To the list of pioneers whose exploits somehow were forgotten while other men gained the credit, add the name of the 19th Century Russian serf, Artamonov of Verkhoturie.

Dusty chronicles unearthed in the Sverdlovsk provincial library tell how Artamonov, a lowly artisan with an ingenious mind, designed and built about 1,800 what was said to be one of the world's first bicycles.

Still more remarkable was his 5,000 kilometer trip from Verkhoturie to Moscow on his crude machine to attend the coronation of Alexander I. The czar had heard of the serf's invention and ordered him to appear in the capital with it.

Artamonov created a sensation in Moscow and for his inventive genius was freed by the czar; he rode back home and lapsed into oblivion.

ADDRESS

THIS COUPON EXPIRES AT 6 P. M., SEPTEMBER, 28TH, 1935.

The leaves of Turkish tobacco are strung one by one like beads (see how it is done in the picture). After the leaves are strung they are packed in bales (see picture) — sometimes as many as 80,000 leaves to the bale.

We have on hand at all times for CHESTERFIELD cigarettes upwards of 350,000 bales of Turkish tobacco...

The pleasing aroma and flavor of Turkish tobacco is almost necessary if you want a good cigarette.

Turkish tobacco is more costly when you take into account that you have to pay 35c a pound duty, but we have to have it to blend with our mild ripe home-grown tobaccos.

It helps make Chesterfields milder, it helps give them better taste. Just try them.

Outstanding

.. for mildness
.. for better taste
