New Prison Manager

Lee Simmons stepped out and David Nelson stepped in. "Man proposes and God disposes," Nelson passed out of the picture and his passing was regretted all along the human line. Now O. S. J. Ellingson, age 51, has been named as the successor to Nelson. He is the new general manager of the Texas prison system. He has lived in Texas since he was 16. His home is at Huntsville and he has a wife and two sons. Both of the boys are attending the University of Texas. He was assistant manager of the penitentiary under Simmons. He served as city manager of Sherman for 16 years. He graduated as a civil engineer from the University of Texas in 1906. In other days he was an instructor of drawing in the engineering department of the University of Texas. He is said to be thoroughly equipped for his new post.

No doubt Ellingson will hew the line outlined by Nelson when he became the successor of Simmons in the very recent past. It was a humane and uplifting program that had the endorsement of the governor who has a parole plan all his own which is worthy of commendation and adoption in the management of convicts. He believes that a convict released from prison for good behavior should be paroled to a prominent citizen and that work should be provided for "the ward of society" in order that he may be given an opportunity to earn an honest living in gainful employment. And why not? Why shouldn't a former convict be given a chance to go straight and make amends to society for past transgressions by the labor of his hands and his brain.

Fair Trade With Canadian Neighbors

President Roosevelt personally announced an American-Canadian trade agreement embracing sweeping mutual tariff slices "designed to promote general economic recovery in both nations." He expressed the belief that the pact would result in the doubling of trade between the countries in a year or two "with the consequent effect of reducing unemployment." At the same time the American state department said "Canadian import charges will be lowered on products on which the United States shipped $415,000,000 worth in the year ending March, 1930, "the last year before the dominion boosted levies." It is estimated by Secy. Hull that the United States tariff reduction would "affect commodities which accounted for two thirds of $503,000,000 worth of Canadian imports in 1929." In the Hull summary, the agreement was hailed as marking a revolution in the trade system between the two countries. He said a large part of the American export trade with Canada was covered while this government's concessions to her northern neighbor affected about two-thirds of her trade with Canada in 1929. In addition to the tariff reductions, the treaty also contained important concessions by Canada "in the form of an agreement to revise substantially its present system of arbitrary valuations applied to American products." The United States granted no reduction on Canadian grain. Canada is bound to put on its free list American raw cotton of which she is a large purchaser. Moreover the United States lowered duty but put definite quota restrictions on Canadian cattle, cream, seed potatoes and certain types of lumber in response to American protests that reduced duties would result in increased competition with their products." Now the new trade compact with our northern neighbor will be tested out in the United States in coming years. If it is a workable tariff agreement, all will be well. If it isn't, in the elections to come in the United States, the American people will return their verdict. There is nothing certain the world over but death and taxes.

Noise Tests For Vehicles Studied

LONDON, Nov. 22—Noisy sports cars and motorcycles will be progressively eliminated from the roads if the recommendations in the first interim report of the Minister of Transport's Anti-Noise committee are put into operation. Following a large number of tests with all types of road vehicles, definite "noise standards" have been laid down for the first time. It is proposed that these tests shall be applied in the first instance to new cars as they leave the works, beginning on Aug. 1 next. A definite degree of latitude, however, would be permitted for a period of two years in the case of certain vehicles. The normal family car is not expected to be affected by the proposed noise standards. Some sports cars, it is stated, would pass the test, and the others could be made to pass it. On the other hand, the situation in regard to motorcycles is "definitely worse."

Loboes Battle Childress Bobcats at 3:30

IN FAIR SHAPE FOR GAME WITH NORTH TEXANS

The Cisco Loboes will be battling hard against a big, tough team this afternoon when first whistle blows in their game with the Childress Bobcats on Chesley field. The game is scheduled for 3:30.

The Loboes are in fair shape and are going to put up a great scrap. That is the dope direct from their camp, handed out last night.

They have a good chance of breaking into a win over the Bobcats, too, and know it. That is one of the big reasons why they will be fighting so hard.

Bobcats Husky

The Bobcats, under the coaching of Joe "Hoot" Gibson, are big and husky. They are outwitting the Loboes, but the Ciscoans hope to overcome their handicap with an extra burst of speed, a quicker charge, and more deception.

Coach Dexter Shelley last night announced a shift in the Lobo lineup, which will send Captain Roy Burman to left end and Burl Wagley to tackle. Fred Ryle, ace passer and line runner for the Ciscoans, likely will start the game on the bench, the coaches preferring to give him as much rest as possible in view of the fact that his leg, hurt three weeks ago, is still somewhat stiff.

The following tentative lineups have been announced:

Childress	Position	Cisco
Terrell	Center	Ivie
Coleman	Right Guard	Rainbolt
White	Right Tackle	Barries
Heims	Right End	Wende
Patton	Quarter	Stansbury
Carter	Right Half	McCanlies
Rainwater	Fullback	Wood

BIG DAM CHATTER

On the desk is lying a letter from Bud Price of the Dallas Athletic Club, requesting this writer's vote "by return mail" on an opponent for the Southwest conference defender in the Blue Bonnet Bowl post-season game at Dallas.

Who will it be? What team would you like to see come to Dallas to take on the Southern Methodist Mustangs, the TCU Frogs, the Rice Owls, or whatever other team plays in the Bowl game?

Minnesota? N. Y. U? Syracuse? Alabama? Ohio State? Notre Dame? Who?

The vote is to be based on the strength of the team, its record, drawing power, and whether it will play a post season game. That's a lot to consider, but the Blue Bonnet Bowl boys aren't passing up any angles. They want to give the Southwestern fans the best game possible for both this and coming years.

Bud was in Cisco the other day and dropped in at the Daily News for a chat about the Bowl game. He's mighty enthusiastic about it, and his enthusiasm is the kind that is contagious.

He pointed out the fact that Texas has the best teams, in the country and deserves the best games. If California can put on a Rose Bowl game that will pack 'em in, Texas can do the same with a Blue Bonnet.

A poor writer is in a dilemma if you ever see a dilemma, it's not pleasant.

What to do? How to vote? Chatter would appreciate a few suggestions from the fans on what team they would like to come to Texas for the inter-sectional post-season clash with a representative of the Southwest conference.

Russel and Wilson Will Vie Tomorrow

WACO, Nov. 22 — Two of the Southwest's swiftest and most elusive backs will be pitted against each other Saturday when the Baylor Bears invade Owby Stadium at Dallas for their annual battle with the Southern Methodist Mustangs.

Robert Wilson, 150-pound Corsicana flash and prominent candidate for All-American honors, will carry the Mustang banner, while Lloyd Russel, sparking in the Bruin backfield, will try to match the proven ability of Wilson. Wilson, playing his last year on the Pony eleven, does a big part of the ball carrying for the Methodists. He plays the safety position on the defense and does a small share of the passing.

Russel, though not supported by such a colorful cast of gridgers, is the chief threat for Baylor. His multiple duties include carrying the ball, calling signals, punting, passing and holding down the safety position. Russel, a 164-pound lad, is a Dallas product and is playing his second year in the Green and Gold uniform.

Modern Gowns Are Taboo For Chinese

CANTON, Nov. 22 — Puritans have scored a major victory over modern Chinese fashions here. Following special instructions, police rounded up scores of young women wearing modern style dresses.

Those arrested were released after a severe reprimand. They were told that their gowns were "contrary to public morals."

Canton has banned mixing bathing walking and mixed sitting in movie houses.

SANTA ANA, Cal., Nov. 22 — Science is interesting itself in the cats of Santa Ana, which commonly have six or seven toes instead of the regulation number.

FROGS OUT TO GRAB VICTORY IN OWL GAME

PCRT WORTH, Nov. 22 — "I don't see how Rice can be beaten." That's an unusual report for a football scout to make, but it is the news that Freshman Coach Howard Grubbs, who scouted Rice last Saturday, brought back to Coaches Dutch Meyer and Bear Wolf.

The squad's answer to Grubbs' pleasant little bit of news was: "We don't see how T. C. U. can be beaten."

Coach Meyer, after three days of practice, opines: "I believe we have a 50-50 chance. The boys know a lot of football, and if they get a fair amount of the breaks, they're likely to go to town."

Hours and hours have been spent this week on polishing both offense and defense. Plays have been run as often as 20 times in succession in the effort to get every minute detail right. Blocking, tackling and all of the various fundamentals have come in for their share of intensive work. If the Frogs are defeated, it won't be because anything in the way of preparation was overlooked.

The Frog squad is not afraid of the Owls, neither are they over-confident. As one of the players put it: "From all we can hear, Rice has a fine football team. We believe we have a pretty good country ball club ourselves. I think we can beat 'em, but if we don't, it won't be because we didn't try."

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 DANA WESTBROOK, born and reared abroad, comes to make her home with her grandmother, aristocratic MRS. WILLIARD CAMERON, whom Dana has never seen.

Twenty-one years before, Dana's mother eloped with the man she loved, leaving her husband and an infant daughter, NANCY WALLACE. Young Wallace divorced his wife and she married DANA WESTBROOK. A year later their daughter, Dana, was born and given the name of her father.

After the death of her parents, Dana was invited to come to America to live with her mother's family. She is received cordially by her aunt, MISS ELLEN CAREWE, but meets a cold welcome from her grandmother.

The door opened and a slender girl with enormous, unsmiling eyes came in. "I came to offer the family felicitations," she said.

my father a promise that I'd write my grandmother if anything ever happened to him. When he died three years ago, I was at St. Cecilia's. I wrote, grandmother, but I did not know until after I was graduated that she had been paying my tuition since then, and that she had sent money for me to come here when I was through school."

"She probably put a second mortgage on something to do it," Nancy said bluntly. When Dana flushed unhappily, she added, "Oh, don't mind that. We're so used to them, an extra one couldn't make any difference. Besides, we live in the past—in the grandiose dreams of what used to be. Past glory should satisfy anybody with a drop of Cameron blood in their veins. We mustn't forget that noble Scottish Camerons spilled their blood all over foreign battlefields and our great-grandfather was a dauntless southern leader."

"We mustn't forget," Nancy continued mockingly, "that until 25 years ago Camerons controlled the banks here in this southern city, dominated the county politics, had all the best pews in the churches, made the most money and gambled it away more recklessly than any other family in the whole country-side."

"But this isn't 25 years ago. And I intend to live in the present," Dana said.

"WELL said, noble and brave Scot. We'll see," Nancy smiled cynically. "Maybe you won't break under the iron hand of your grandmother, but I have an idea you'll be a bit bent in the process. Unless you run away," as your mother did."

Dana said, her voice trembling: "How can you talk so lightly of my mother—your mother, too?"

"Yes," the other girl answered slowly. "That's what I can't forgive, what I can't forgive."

Dana said breathlessly, "What could you know of her problems?"

"It's easy for you, who had her love, to understand," Nancy's lips curved in a scornful smile. "My member, Dana, I was the one who was left behind."

As Dana did not speak, the other went on lightly: "No hard feelings between us. After all, we're pretty much in the same boat. Both fatherless and motherless. Both penniless, because my father fell in with the family failings and lost all his money. And your father, from what I have heard of him, never thought it important to make any. So we both start from scratch here!"

She lifted a slim hand in a mock salute, opened the door and closed it behind her.

Dana shivered. Tears streamed down her cheeks. She thought: Nancy dislikes me. My grandmother really doesn't want me. I shouldn't have come."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER II

DANA was fighting for self-control as she crossed to a deep window and looked down at the scene below. The gray day had turned darker and now a light rain was falling, adding to the dreary appearance of the garden which stretched some distance away until it ran into an old brick wall.

That unkempt area, deep in tangled growth, had once been a lovely garden. It was there Dana's mother had moved as a young and beautiful girl, loved and loving. It was there she had carried her bitterness and hurt as a desperately unhappy young wife after she had married "for security" to please her mother. And it was through the garden gate at the far end that she had fled two years later, leaving a tiny baby in this very room.

Dana's father had told her the whole story when she was 18.

"I couldn't have you hear from anyone that your mother was not a good woman, Dana, dear," he had said. "She was all that was pure and lovely. We loved each other so very much. We were young, and your mother was desperately unhappy. We felt there was nothing else to do. We were married as soon as John Wallace got the divorce, and a year later you came to 'bless our lives.'"

"What became of my sister?" Dana had questioned, then.

"HE had answered gently. "Your mother felt the baby would be a comfort to your grandmother, who had closed her home against us. And so your mother lived for 12 years—until she died, Dana—never hearing anything from your little sister at home."

Dana thought now: My grandmother didn't seem glad to see me. Maybe she is cruel. Maybe this is her revenge, bringing me back to live with unhappy memories."

She shook herself out of the somber mood and looked around her.

The room was beautiful. The rose draperies about the canopied bed were only slightly faded. The furnishings were graceful Colonial pieces of an exquisite satin wood. Her mother's desk, inlaid in a classical design, was in one corner.

The rug was thick and luxurious, of a beautiful, modillion pattern. A few choice prints and dainty floral pictures were on the wall.

Dana's eyes fell on a miniature on the dressing table and she went over, lifting it and staring down at it with misty eyes. This slender, radiant girl, dressed in the quiet style of another era, was her mother.

"How lovely she was," Dana whispered. Compassion flowed through her. How that stern old woman downstairs must have suffered when her beautiful daughter passed from her life forever.

"But it was wrong to bring me here," Dana thought rebelliously. "If she can't forgive me for being my father's child and looking like my mother."

THERE was a knock at the door. "Come in," Dana said, replacing the miniature on the dressing table.

The door opened. A slender girl with enormous, unsmiling eyes came in. She had a dark,

Graduates Among Jobless in France

PARIS, Nov. 22—Too many people are being educated in France for too few jobs.

That is no casual theory but the opinion of Francisque Vial, who leads the department of secondary instruction of the Ministry of National Education.

"People are complaining now that there are too many college graduates," Vial says. "Two years from now there are going to be one third as many more. And what are we doing for youth?"

He provided the answer himself. "Nothing."

Teaching Worst Hit

The oversupply of college graduates is seen in every profession. One example that reached the ears of the whole world is that of the medical profession, where overcrowding caused demonstrations against foreign practitioners and the passing of laws restricting their activity in France. But in no profession is it felt more gravely than in teaching.

Not many years ago any graduate with a degree entitling him or her to teach was assured of a place almost immediately. Today only a few of those who leave state normal schools with diplomas which are equivalent to teaching certificates are able to find places.

Women at Disadvantage

Thus for instance 93 men and 148 women with degrees entitling them to teach philosophy got even places—three for the men, four for the women. In history there were 129 male candidates, 241 female; placed, nine men, three women. Modern languages, 184 men, 250 women; placed, 14 men, 14 women. Dead languages, 75 men, 98 women; placed, 70 men, 21 women. Sciences, 349 men, 355 women; placed, nine men, no women.

Farmers Investing In Credit Co-Ops

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—More than three quarters of a million farmers individually own stock in the permanent cooperative credit institutions under the Farm Credit Administration, according to a statement made here Tuesday evening by its governor, W. I. Myers, at the annual meeting of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities.

In addition to nearly 650,000 farmers with loans through the cooperative Federal land banks and over 200,000 in the production credit associations, the 1300 farmers' marketing and purchasing associations which own stock in the banks for cooperatives have over a million members.

Stockholders Double
"The total number of voting stockholders in these cooperative institutions has doubled in the two years since the 12 federal land banks became a part of the Farm Credit Administration and the 560 production credit associations and 13 banks for cooperatives were set up," Myers said.

"These part farmer-owned and controlled credit institutions have grown steadily, and the supervision of them in extending credit to farmers is the main work of the Farm Credit Administration," he continued. "In making direct government loans to farmers during the past two years the Farm Credit Administration has acted as an agent of the federal government, but the importance of this emergency work is now diminishing as conditions improve, and should come to an end within the next few years, having only the activities of the permanent, cooperative institution."

Control Credit
"Two-thirds of the $3,300,000,000 of credit now in the hands of farmers through the Farm Credit Administration is provided by these institutions. They constitute a channel between the farmer and the investment market, since they are set up to obtain money from investors at wholesale rates and loan it to farmers at a cost which is reasonable yet sufficient to cover the expense of an efficient operation."
"Provision has thus been made for a farmers' credit system whereby borrowers either of long-term funds, short-term production credit, or credit for cooperative marketing and purchasing shall own voting stock in the organization which lends the money, with the opportunity of eventually owning and controlling the credit institution."

BLACK-DRAUGHT

Relieves One Cause of Distress After Meals

When constipation interferes with the normal working of the digestive system, warning symptoms, such as flatulence or distress after eating, may appear.

Many people, afflicted as described below, take a pinch of Black-Draught after meals. Mr. C. D. Melver, of Panama City, Fla., writes: "I suffered with gas pains. Everything I ate seemed to hurt me. I lost weight from 149 to 114 pounds. Someone told me to try Black-Draught. After taking small doses awhile, I found I was better. I kept it up and began gaining until I was back to normal. I would not be without Black-Draught."

Many others would not like to be without Black-Draught after having learned from their own use of it how helpful it is in the relief of constipation troubles. Sold in 25-cent packages.

Radio For Aiding Education is Aim

URBANA - CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 22 — Educational interests in general throughout Illinois are awaiting with interest a decision of the Federal Communications Commission on application of station WILL, University of Illinois, for a change in frequency from 890 to 580 kilocycles.
The change, according to Joseph Wright, station director, was requested to enable the university station to reach more of the Illinois citizenry with its educational programs.

In spite of the fact that WILL is the only state-owned station in Illinois and despite the fact that it is supported entirely by tax funds, the maximum facilities heretofore afforded WILL by the federal commission make it impossible to cover even its own state," Wright said.
The commission, Wright said, granted the application on March 12, but the Topeka Broadcasting Association, Inc., operator of WIBW at Topeka, filed objections to the grant.
A hearing was held before an examiner of the commission Aug. 13, and since that time a report recommending that the commission affirm its action of March 12 was submitted to that body by the examiner.
In the early stages of radio broadcasting in the United States there were more than 100 educational stations," Wright said. "Today WILL is one of 34 educationally owned and operated radio stations. Others have left the air through a combination of commercial encroachment and financial inability."

Driver Too Drunk To Know Own Name

AUSTIN, Nov. 22 — Here is some argument favoring the point that strong drink is likely to distort one's judgment as a driver of a motor vehicle.
A 45-year-old negro drove his automobile into the Austin police department-State Safety Commission safety lane. He was greeted by 17 uniformed officers who agreed that his judgment was befuddled.
The negro was found too drunk to know what it was all about.
When the officers took him from his automobile they found a pistol concealed in his clothing.
Complaints charging him with driving while drunk and with carrying a pistol were filed in Peace Justice Paul T. Holt's court by J. D. Moffatt, senior inspector for the state highway patrol.
The negro was too intoxicated to give his name, officers said. He was lodged in the county jail.

These operators found the 80 h. p. Ford V-8 engine ideal for modern trucking. It has exceptional power, flexibility, stamina—and their records prove that the V-8 is the most economical Ford Truck ever built.

And they prove far more—the Ford's ability to stay on the job, out of the repair shop—its rock-bottom upkeep costs—the tremendous strength of Ford's heavy-duty chassis and frame.

You get these proved qualities in the 1936 Ford V-8 Truck—plus new improvements for even greater efficiency and dependability. Read the features at the right. Think what value they mean at Ford's low prices.
