C. of C. Discusses Varied Subjects

With only six directors present, much of the matter for the chamber of commerce took the line of discussions rather than of action, however, a proposal from the Dallas chamber of commerce and wholesalers of that city, that they send a representative here to hold a business institute without charge, was accepted for a later date this fall, and those who might wish to attend the soil conservation inspection trip to Dublin, August 26, were requested to come in and register their names. MINE CREWS TRY RESCUE TRAPPED MEN

MOBERLY, Mo., Aug. 19 (U.P.) — Mine rescue crews harassed by water and poison gas, worked through tons of debris today in an effort to reach four men trapped 110 feet below the surface in a coal mine.

Earlier estimates that the way would be cleared shortly were revised and Arnold Griffith, state mine inspector, said it might be 48 hours before the men were reached.

No sign has come from the miners to indicate they still live.

"There is just a chance they are alive," Griffith said. "Perhaps if we can break through in 48 hours, we may save them."

The entrapped men are Ed Stoner, Jr., 22; Demmer Sexton, 32; Jack McCann, 45; and George Dameron, a negro mule driver. Sexton and Stoner hold the lease on the mines.

Lobo Band To Play Popular Concert

Despite a serious burn on the hand this week, Robt. L. Maddox, Lobo band director, will be ready for the concert at Putnam Thursday night, and will have near forty members present, he stated today.

The PTA organization is to be in charge of the Putnam reception for this trade trip which is to be in the form of a motorcade, said James McCracken, one of the committee members in charge with Ocie Leveridge and Carl Baird.

The Lobo band will play mostly marches and popular music, Maddox announced today. Many of his band members are away on vacation trips but he thinks he will have about 38 members for the trip to Putnam and all are looking forward to a good trip.

The band, mostly composed of young members, has been enthusiastically received on each of its trips to date, which makes the young members anxious for the next trip. Merchants and Jaycees are being urged to be at the Laguna at 7:45 and go in a motorcade. The band will leave from the high school building and will probably go by school bus.

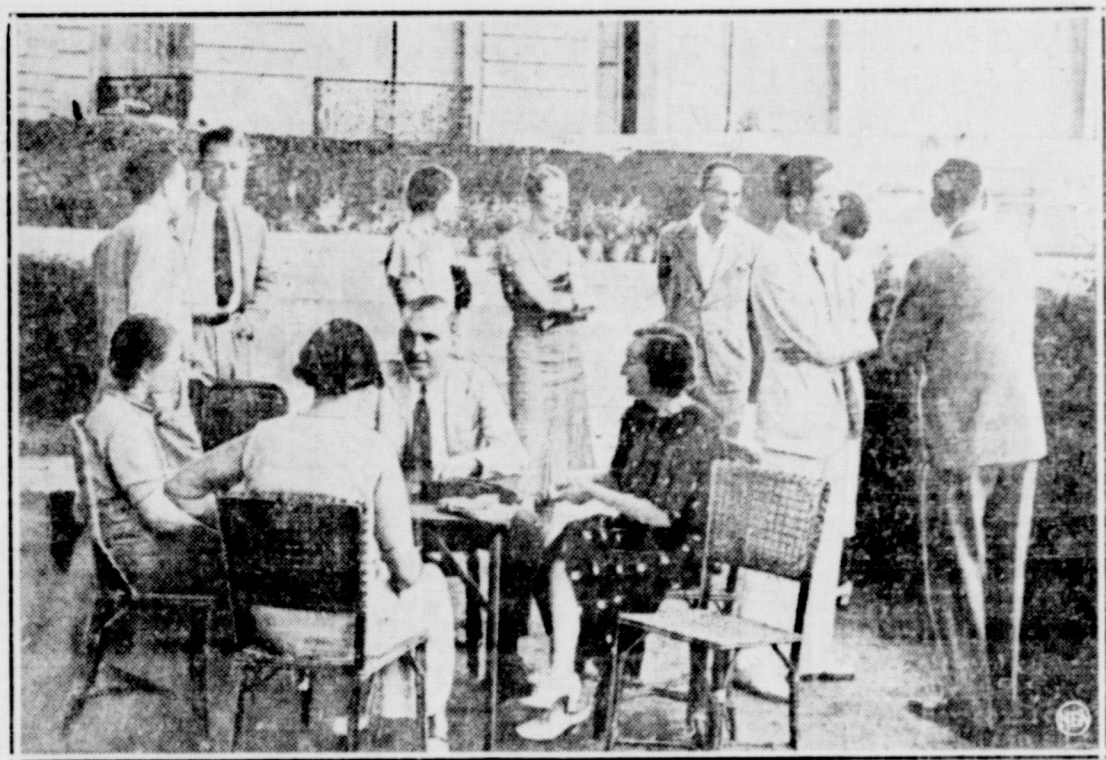

Leach gives Talk On Classification

Lion W. J. Leach had charge of the program at the weekly Lions luncheon today, bringing a talk on his own classification, the 5c & 10c store.

Mr. Leach made many points of comparison between his business and other kinds of mercantile businesses. His business was not a matter of salesmanship so far as the individual was concerned but a matter of proper display of items directed by the general public at prices they were willing to pay, he said. The item and its price is paramount to service in a store like his own, he continued.

Foreign goods markets have switched from Germany to Japan, in the past few years he said and the goods often cost less than the box in which they are shipped, which gives one an idea of the cheapness of labor, he pointed out.

GRIDIRON WILL OPEN SEPT. 25 CISCO-BRECK

Coaches Dexter Shelly and Bill Cooper expect to get rather busy with the football squad next week in preparation for the season which will be officially opened for district 3, with Breckenridge, at Breckenridge, Sept. 25. The game will be played under that city's new lighted field and will be the first official game for that team under lights, it was stated.

Some of the boys have been training this week, said assistant coach, Cooper, but some 25 or more boys are expected to appear for practice by next week when the matter will begin to assume more serious aspects, and the team begin to take shape.

It is too early, coaches say, to have any idea as to what the team will be, but it is expected to be light and will require much drilling to form any formidable threat to the district.

Coach Shelly asks that boys get their equipment this week.

The schedule follows for the season:

- Electra—September 18, night, game, at Electra.
- Breckenridge, night, September 25, at Breckenridge.
- Sweetwater—night, October 2, at Cisco.
- Big Spring—night, October 9, at Big Spring.
- San Angelo—night, October 16, at Cisco.
- Open Date, October 23.
- Abilene—night, October 30, at Cisco.
- Ranger—day, November 11, at Ranger.
- Eastland—day, November 20, at Eastland.
- Brownwood—day, November 26, at Cisco.

Bridge and 42 Party

A very pretty and appropriate Fourth of July party was given at the Elks club Friday afternoon, with Mrs. N. F. Payne and Mrs. C. H. Fleming as hostess. American flags and red, white and blue flowers were the hall decorations with a large red, white and blue floral liberty bell hanging over the social table, which was placed in the rear center of the large lodge room. The bridge and 42 tables were artistically arranged and decorated in red, white and blue covers with red candy cannon fire crackers, rally cards, score cards and napkins carried out the same color scheme.

The guests were received at the door by the hostesses and were then ushered into the main hall where twenty ladies assisted in receiving and seating them. Refreshments were served. Ice cream in the form of Uncle Sam, mint fire crackers, and angel food cake with tiny silk flags in the center were served. Each table then cut for the table favor. Four games of bridge and 42 were played, with Mrs. B. S. Huey winning high in bridge, this was a hand played in comfort, and Mrs. Henry Benham, won an imported Mayonnaise set.

In 42, Mrs. J. O. Sue won high score prize, a fruit bowl and four candle holders, and Mrs. H. V. House, won an imported Mayonnaise set. In the cut at the social table, Mrs. Laura Wild won the candy cannon and cannon balls.

Those who assisted in receiving and serving were: Mesdames D. J. Moss, B. S. Huey, R. W. Mancill, Alex Spears, J. E. T. Peters, L. A. Warren, L. H. Blackstock, R. C. Hayes, J. A. Bearman, Chas. DEATH DECREE IS INDORSED BY WOMAN OF BAR

By CORRIE HARDESTY United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (U.P.) — Women law breakers have no right to expect clemency when their clashes with society are punishable by death.

Percilla Randolph, president of the National Association of Women Lawyers, believes.

Women fought for equal consideration with men in all things and now they will have to take it, she said, if it means the electric chair, she told members of the Women's bar association of Illinois.

The soft-voiced little woman was discussing the fate of Mrs. Mildred Bolton, first woman in Illinois to be sentenced to the electric chair. Mrs. Bolton's execution has been set for Oct. 29.

"As long as such devastating times as kidnaping and murder continue to desolate the homes and the heart of the world," Mrs. Randolph said, "we must have some punishment stronger than imprisonment."

Must Bear Same Yoke

Women fought for a place on an equal basis with men in all kinds of work. They must accept that place without fear or favor. The yoke that falls on men must also fall on women. They can't ask favors of the law."

Mrs. Randolph, who began practicing law in Los Angeles 17 years ago to support an invalid husband and a small son, avoids criminal cases herself, preferring to handle guardianship and trustee affairs.

"Many women don't believe in

Fine Feathers Do Help

Every now and then when some woman tries to get her husband to take off a dilapidated collar, or discard a shirt with frayed cuffs and a split under the neckband, or wants him to black his shoes, or press his trousers, or dust his clothes, or brush his hat, she has to listen to him misquote a trite adage by saying, "Fine feathers don't make fine birds."

Take a poorly feathered bird to a poultry show and see how many prizes he wins. The first requirement of the judges of birds is fine feathers. And what the feathers of any bird should be is determined by the kind of bird he is. A Plymouth Rock hen feathered like a bird of paradise would be awarded no prize as a Plymouth Rock would get onto no lady's hat. If a man who wants a job hoeing a garden should apply in a Prince Albert, a silk hat, patent leather shoes with spats, and carrying a cane and gloves, he would be a joke.

I was seated on a veranda one afternoon chatting with a friend when a darkey came up and applied for the job of taking care of the yard. The applicant had on a pearl gray derby, silk shirt, bright blue suit, yellow shoes and brown spats. His collar was spotless, his shoes shined, his suit pressed. He twirled a little cane. But he got turned down.

"He looked too nice," said my friend to me as the darkey went out the front. "I want a man who can get down and wrestle with the soil. I want a fellow who can lean right up against a lawn mower and sweat, and who isn't afraid to get washing a car."

On the other hand if a man ran for the presidency of the United States wearing brogans, overalls, sweater and cap, he would not get far. We are a democratic people, but that does not mean we have not a sense of the fitness of things. Folks have various ideas about clothes. Some think that clothes make no difference one way or the other. They do not in some instances. Fine feathers or any other kind of feathers are of little value in a butcher shop. The butcher prefers his birds without feathers.

It makes no difference how modest one's station in life, or what kind of work he wants, it pays to look neat.

"That fellow," said a farmer, pointing to a man working in his orchard, "is the best man on my farm. And do you know I came within a cat's whisker of turning him down when he came to me hunting a job, he looked so rough and raggedy."

And the man who is seeking a white collar job would do well to see that his collar is white—very white—and that the rest of his get-up is as clean and neat as his collar.

While the fine feather may not make fine birds they help to get the bird by.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—If you look at a map of the Mediterranean Sea, you will quickly perceive the serious potentialities involved in a diplomatic rumor which has contributed largely to the widespread war scare.

The rumor is that the Spanish rebel leaders have offered to Italy, in return for her support in the current rebellion, the port of Ceuta in Spanish Morocco and the island of Minorca in the Balearics.

There is no way of confirming or disproving the rumor. Such stories have a way of turning up during international crises. Yet this one has persisted lately in various capitals of the world.

If it happens to be true, as rumors sometimes are, it holds the seeds of another great European war. If it isn't true, it may well turn out to have been concocted by Spaniards loyal to the Madrid government who sought support from the British.

But there's plenty of evidence that the rebels have had Italian support.

CESSATION of Ceuta and Minorca to Italy would have approximately the effect of realizing Mussolini's dream of turning the Mediterranean into an "Italian lake."

Whether Mussolini would dare accept such an offer at this time would depend on whether he felt he could afford to take a chance of provoking Great Britain to war.

Fortification of Ceuta (pronounced "thay-oo-ta") could destroy British control of the Straits of Gibraltar. Minorca, in Italian hands, would also strategically cut the route from Gibraltar to Malta.

Along with Sardinia and Sicily, plus Italy proper and bases in Tripoli, Pelage Island, Eritrea, Ethiopia, and Italian Somaliland, possession of Ceuta and Minorca would give Mussolini a dominance which you can quickly appreciate by consulting the map.

Thanks to her air force, Italy may be considered already to dominate the Mediterranean. That's why England is arming feverishly.

International experts agree that Britain must vanquish Italy in war, frighten her into becoming a more or less docile ally, or prepare to become a second-class power.

JEALOUSY among different groups of government detectives is the only known reason behind the incident wherein two high-ranking Secret Service men were demoted for investigating actions of some of J. Edgar Hoover's "G-men." Widespread suspicion, however, persists in Washington that the Secret Service men were not acting without approval of someone higher up.

Part of the reported jealousy is said to be due to the heavy publicity which the Federal Bureau of Investigation men received when they began wiping out kidnapers and other gangsters. But there was also a bill in the last Congress, which may be revived, to consolidate all federal law enforcement agencies.

Congress, if it passed such bill, would be likely to insist that Hoover head the consolidated forces. And that horrifies the postal inspectors and Secret Service men, who are proud of their own records. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

Ranger Superintendent Tells Club of County School's Plight

EASTLAND, Aug. 19—A more fair and equitable support of our schools is needed to remedy the financial insecurity plight of many Texas institutions. Ranger Superintendent W. T. Walton told members of the Rotary club at Eastland Monday.

Pointing out the condition of schools in Cisco and Eastland is similar to that in Ranger, Supt. Walton stated the only ways officials can see a solution to the financial problem is either the state assume a portion of the indebtedness or the local tax rate hiked.

Breckenridge, said the speaker, prevailed upon the legislature to raise the rate from $1 on the $100 valuation to $1.50. Only 20 cents of the extra 50 cents was needed by that system, however, Walton said he had been informed.

The superintendent pointed out the hardships thrust upon board members in schools which receive an influx in scholastics, as in East Texas and those whose enrollment decreases after the moving of many citizens as in Eastland County.

Salaries in Eastland County schools, said Supt. Walton, are below what is considered an equitable standard. He warned the employment of teachers at a low figure usually proves a false economy and commented on the fortune of many systems of the county to retain able instructors because of their associations and willingness to work.

At Carbon last year, the speaker continued, employees of the system worked the final month free of charge to enable students to have a full nine-month term.

Walton drew a contrast of the average per capita apportionment of $19 to grade and high school students and the estimate that the state spends from $200 to $400 for each pupil in Agricultural and Mechanical College and the University of Texas.

Walton disclosed efforts have been made by State Supt. L. A. Woods for legislation to aid districts floundering by staggering bonded indebtedness. He said Woods stated that he wrote a bill for legislative consideration with Cisco, Ranger and Eastland especially in mind.

Because 50 cents of every tax dollar is given to bond holders, which is not enough to pay the interest, "much less go on retirement of the bonds," the remaining 50 cents is inadequate to pay for maintenance and operation with valuations representing a decrease in former years.

Jack Lewis, Sr., who spoke briefly pointed out to Walton that the schools' condition might be remedied by diversion of some tax or another method put into action by the legislature.

Sam Gamble and Lewis were program chairmen. Visitors were Walton, E. P. Earnest, Ranger; W. O. Byers and J. C. Easton of New Memphis, Ark.; Jimmy Reeves, Belton, and W. O. Tyson, Eastland.

Youths And Agent Rent A & M Home

Initial arrangements for a cooperative housing project of Eastland county youths who will attend Agricultural and Mechanical College were made Monday at College Station when three who are participating rented a residence.

County Agent Elmo V. Cook, accompanied Wesley Lane of Eastland, Jack W. Morris of Ranger, and Billy Jake Joyce of Rising Star to College Station, where they conferred with Dr. Daniel H. Russell, head of the rural sociology department.

The home was rented in Bryan, six miles from College Station. Fifteen youths have announced they will participate in the project which is expected to save half the expenses of attending the school.

Last year, County Agent Cook stated, there were 43 similar projects sponsored by groups which ranged from 12 to 30 boys.

Rich and Reckless

BEGIN HERE TODAY MOLLIE MILFORD, rich and popular, has received proposals of marriage from three suitors, but BRUCE STRAIT, whom she loves, has not asked her to marry him.

Horred with parties, Molly asks Brent to take her to "The Red Poppy," a questionable night club. Hereafter, Molly, accompanied with WICK BOSS, another admirer.

As the lights go out suddenly and when they come on again Molly finds herself dancing with a handsome stranger. He is really NELSON PERGUSON, bank robber, and he is one of a group planning to split Molly away and hold her for ransom.

Perguson tells Molly his name is ELSON WHITTAKER. A few days later he asks her to have dinner with him and she agrees. Waiting for him at a downtown store, Molly encounters a girl who appears to be her sister, double, impulsively Molly exchanges her luxurious costume for the other girl's shabby one.

She and "Whittaker" go to a place called "Frenchy's." Molly becomes distrustful of her secret and writes a message to Brent. She asks one of the musicians to deliver it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VI THE possibility that Nelson Whittaker might be a gangster did not enter Molly's mind until later in the evening. She had merely come to the conclusion that he was surly and untrustworthy.

All his attention was apparently centered on the outer door. Each time it opened, he looked startled. Yet when there was a commotion outside the door and the sound of the proprietor's protesting voice reached them, a half smile played across Nelson Whittaker's face. He leaned over to whisper, "Don't be frightened, I'll get you out of this."

"Get me out of what?" Molly's voice was startled. "A raid, if I don't miss my guess. 'Frenchy's' always getting into trouble with the boys of the police department. He's sort of forgetful about some things, and now and then they come out to refresh his memory with a stiff jolt of law."

"You poor kid," he added. "You're frightened to death, aren't you?" "No," Molly thought, "I'm not frightened. I was frightened before the police came."

The door opened. Trailing by the protesting proprietor, four policemen entered the room, pistols drawn. "Don't move, folks. Keep your hands on the table, Nelse Ferguson. A gun in your pocket won't help you any because you're covered four ways. Come on out of that corner and keep clear of that girl with you. The game's up. You've pulled your last bank job!"

Molly, staring at her companion, saw the mocking light in his eyes replaced by bewilderment and then by stark terror.

Although her hands were bound, the rest of her body was free. She shifted her position, straining to hear the conversation between the two men on the seat in front of her.

"They are taking me back home," Molly told herself, trying desperately to believe it. But almost instantly came the conviction: "No, they are not. They are taking me far away. I've been kidnaped. It was a plot, from the beginning... the lights going out at 'The Red Poppy' were part of the plot. It was planned for the lights to go out tonight so this man could grab me."

But why had Nelson Whittaker been shot when he was in on the plot? Those must have been real policemen or they wouldn't have killed him.

The tortured questioning was getting her no where. It would be so easy to break under the strain and become hysterical. All Molly's hope now lay in trying to put dreadful memories behind her, keeping calm and fighting for time. Surely, it was only a question of time when she would be found. Brent—the thought of him brought an ache to her throat—would receive her message and dash to "Frenchy's" piloted by the young musician. The police might still be there and they would begin at once the search which would eventually lead to her. She must believe that or she would go mad.

For some time she had been jolted about on the seat, which indicated they were on a rough, little-traveled road. Then the car stopped suddenly and the door was opened.

A HARSH voice said, "Now, girl, don't give us any trouble and you'll be all right. You won't find things as well as you're used to, but make believe you're roughin' it a while, and things won't be so bad. If your old man comes across, you'll be back in your fine house in no time. If he's stubborn or puts the police on us—why, use your imagination, girlie."

"We're going to untie your hands," the same voice continued, "and take the tape off your mouth. You can sleep nice and peaceful tonight, but tomorrow we're going to have you write a little letter asking your dad for a half million... after you're good and rested, girlie."

Molly shuddered under the touch of the man's hand on her arm. "Cold? Scared maybe," the man chuckled. "Don't worry. No-body's going to harm you while we're around. You're too valuable."

They had reached a porch. Rough boards squeaked under the heavy feet of the men. A door opened and a woman's thin, querulous voice came, "So you got her?"

"What did you expect?" drawled the harsh voice. "Don't we generally get what we go after?"

"I've got that little woodroom fixed up with a bed," the woman said. "Louis put a good lock on the door yesterday and bars on the window. Guess she'll be safe as a bird in a cage in there."

Somebody was loosening Molly's arm. The tape was torn from her mouth, but her eyes were still bandaged.

"Just as well to leave her eyes bound until she's in her room," one of the men said. "It wouldn't be so good for her health to see too much or remember anything she sees. Shove her in, Winnie, but keep your trap shut. We'll do all the talking—tomorrow."

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson
THE WORD, CRYSTAL COMES FROM THE GREEK WORD, KRISTALLOS, MEANING ICE.
ANCIENT GREEKS BELIEVED QUARTZ OR ROCK CRYSTAL TO BE ICE, FROZEN SO HARD THAT IT COULD NOT MELT.
The ULTRA-VIOLET LIGHT OF THE SUN VARIES IN INTENSITY AS MUCH AS 20 PER CENT!
© 1936 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

AN ELECTRIC EEL, USING ONLY ITS FRINGE-LIKE ANAL FIN, CAN SWIM EITHER BACKWARDS OR FORWARDS, WITHOUT BENDING ITS BODY.

DURING the last 10 years, measurements have been made of the sun's ultra-violet light radiation, and a decided variation has been noted. The year of 1932 showed it at a very low ebb, and scientists are endeavoring to ascertain whether these variations affect human life.

Chesterfield Wins
The "electric eye" sees all in testing Chesterfield cigarette paper
The picture above shows one of the many tests for purity and quality in the laboratories of the Champagne Paper Co.
Nothing is left to chance to make sure that Chesterfield paper is the finest that money can buy.
Chesterfield paper must measure up to the Chesterfield standard . . .
... it must be scientifically pure
... it must burn uniformly without taste or odor.
Mild ripe tobaccos and pure cigarette paper... Chesterfield wins
