CHANGES IN TEXAS COURTS PROPOSED

ABOLISHMENT OF 11 COURTS IS SUGGESTED

AUSTIN, Feb. 22 (UP)—Sweeping changes in the court systems of Texas, with the addition of six Supreme Court Justices was proposed today by Representative Penrose, Democrat of San Angelo.

Metcalfe seeks to accomplish his plan by constitutional amendment. His plan is to abolish eleven courts of civil appeals and to increase the supreme court membership from three to nine.

He estimated it would save $380,000 a year under present salaries for judges or $366,000 a year if judges' salaries are increased as proposed in the budget.

"The greatest saving, however will be to litigants in time and money," Metcalfe said.

The eleven courts of civil appeals are intermediate between district court and the state's supreme court. One of the grounds for an appeal to the supreme court is that there is conflict between decisions of two appeals courts.

The courts of civil appeals which Metcalfe proposes to abolish are situated at Eastland, Galveston, Ft. Worth, Austin, San Antonio, Dallas, Texarkana, Amarillo, El Paso, Beaumont and Waco.

A bill to abolish the State Liquor Board was offered by Representative Sam Hays of Dallas, and a co-sponsor. The bill re-enacts almost the entire present liquor law but abolishes the liquor board and gives its duties to the State Comptroller and local officials.

A surprise attempt to get a vote in the house on ratification of the child labor amendment failed today. The vote was "ayes" to 66 "nays."

Ratification had claimed a big house majority. A vote by the house today for ratification would have added pressure on the senate where the principal fight is being waged.

About Our Friends

By STEF A. LONG

George Washington is many thousands, as to our country's capital city, make a little pilgrimage to Vernon and give honor to great father of our country.

That it matters not to us that scholars have torn apart the cherry tree, that his same face was pock-marked or he loved his cup of wine or who cares for these trifles?

That he matters to us is that Washington fought for his city to make us a nation of men. That he, the richest most prominent man in this day of his day, might have purchased his comfort and sold our freedom, instead, he fought for and made us free.

When other men wearied of combat, when other men renounced liberty, when other men shied a great cause, his heart steadfast, he carried on, to give liberty and peace.

When other men might have been a king, a dictator, when he might have been a few years of power and led this country forever, he chose the safer course of the right, a free people to govern themselves.

His Country is a trite word, the tale of the cherry tree is a myth, but true-blue, true-red, is the work he did. A free people upon a rich continent live and work in the knowledge of liberty.

When a great king, a dictator, a Mussolini and we would still be fighting for liberty. When his will to choose, he bowed before the public will of his country and asked them their pleasure. Such is the tradition of Mount Vernon, not a mausoleum for the dead but a house of the living.

As long as American liberties are known, so long will the name of George Washington be remembered with them as the symbol of greatness of manhood and patriotism for country and love for fellowman.

When women are jealous of their husbands or else all husbands are subjects for jealousy, at any time, a minister had been given the task of breaking the news to Mrs. White of an accident to her husband. "Madam," he said, "I am distressed to tell you that your husband is now on the road of Abraham." "Are you

What's News Today

And now, after much mystery concerning the Lindberghs, the latest solution to their mysterious trip across to India, is that they are surveying a world-wide air mail route. It seems that Lindy is now in the employ of England in her attempt to bring her scattered colonies, on which the sun never sets, into closer communication through direct air mail.

And, since the big steel power won't agree to the 10-hour week demanded by the navy department, the U. S. may make her own steel for her warships. President Roosevelt thinks the government is bigger than any private enterprise and if the concern don't want to play, then he may form his own game and play it alone.

At least the president will have the sympathy of labor on his side as he has had all along. Big capital has done all within its power to discredit Roosevelt but it seems he manages to stagger along with an overwhelming majority on his side.

And now the government forces in Spain have taken the offensive and are pushing rebel forces hard to maintain their strongholds. Just what effect the hand of warships may have on the situation since they began guarding the entrance of Spain, cannot be determined as yet. The blockade to keep outsiders from interfering in Spain's civil war is just beginning and has not yet secured Portugal's wholehearted cooperation.

Germany has a big gathering on the occasion of her Memorial Day celebration and makes mighty speeches of her power, and demands that other great powers of the country should sit up and take notice. Her armies are powerful, she says. Being a good Nazi and a good soldier are synonymous terms, the great military head, Blomberg, says.

Meanwhile, labor conditions in Fansteel Corporation in Waukegan, Ill., don't improve. Gov. Hoerner is not able to get sit-down strikers and steel officials together for negotiations. More labor struggles are in store and unsettled conditions are promised for the future, but still the country improves and recovers from the past stagnation. Employment will increase and become more plentiful as a consuming public demands what it needs and finds the money to pay for it. It is a year for optimism and let no one make the mistake of thinking there will not be much business. There will be plenty for those who go after it.

And that goes especially for Cisco and her merchants. Bigger cities nearby are making strong bids for retail trade in this area and if prospective customers do not see Cisco merchants advertising good clothes for men and women they will see and read the ads in other papers which circulate here. The Fort Worth business men's tour that will pass through Cisco Thursday, is a friendly gesture for Cisco trade. Will the local merchants meet it with warmer gestures to their own people or will they allow the best money to go elsewhere?

Modern science is making giant strides in its effort

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NLR Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON—The supreme court is called upon to decide the validity of the National Labor Relations Act at a time when the historic struggle over Roosevelt's program for "packing" the court is in full fury. The fundamental clash over the Labor Relations Act (often called the Wagner Act) is between the New Deal determination to foster strong labor movement which will bargain for increased purchasing power and broader distribution of national income, and the determination of American corporations not to have their employees organized into labor unions.

THE act has come before court in five cases wherein the National Labor Relations Board has found business concerns guilty of dismissing one or more employees for labor union activity and otherwise violating the law.

Here are the main provisions of the Labor Relations Act: Entitled "Act to promote equality of bargaining power between employers and employees, to diminish the causes of labor disputes"

It created the National Labor Relations Board to prevent "unfair labor practices," to hear complaints of employees wishing to hold secret elections among employees, and to prosecute defiant employers in the federal courts.

It provides that representative for collective bargaining by a majority of employees shall be the exclusive representative of all employees for bargaining as to wages, hours and other conditions of employment.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT CRIME FILE ON BOLITHO BLANE

BEGIN HERE TODAY Investigating the murder of BOLITHO BLANE, British immigrant, aboard the freighter S.S. SAVANNAH, Detective Officer KEETTERING, runs into a maze of conflicting reports. As the investigation progresses he checks the possible motives for each of the ship's passengers: MISS REGINALD JOCELYN, none so far as known; COL. V. FOSTER, U.S. Marine, strong motive; BOLITHO BLANE, strong motive; MISS JOCELYN, strong motive; MISS JOCELYN, strong motive; MISS JOCELYN, strong motive.

THE Hon. Mrs. Jocelyn had only just left when Lady Welter's maid, Mildred Short, appeared at the door of the writing room and asked if she might have a word with me. She was very nervous, but after a little, I got her to tell me her trouble and, from a big work bag which she was carrying, she produced a pale blue knitted jumper. In the middle of the back of the jumper there was a large burn where it had been singed with a hot iron and, after some persuasion, Mildred Short made the following statement about it.

VOLUNTARY STATEMENT BY MILDRED SHORT, 9-1-37. As previously stated, when I went to Lady Welter's cabin at about 7:10, this jumper still lacked one sleeve. When I returned to her ladyship's cabin to tidy it at 8:30, the jumper was lying on the table finished, and I knew that her ladyship had left it there for me to take below and press. Later that evening I proceeded to do so but I was called away and, most unfortunately, left the electric iron on it. This resulted in a large burn in the middle of the back which I could not possibly disguise, and I became most desperately worried in consequence.

In my fright I decided to say nothing and, if she asked me about it later on, pretend that I had got lost. With all the to do about the murder on the following day her ladyship never said anything about the jumper and I was beginning to hope that she had forgotten all about it, until she sent for me and questioned me this morning. At first I protested that the jumper had got lost somewhere, but when her ladyship impressed upon me how important it was that its whereabouts should be discovered I broke down and told her the truth. She said I must tell you exactly what had happened and that is the truth as God is my witness.

Mildred Short, Witnessed: Keys Keettering, Detective Officer, Florida Police, 1256 Palm Avenue. DETECTIVE OFFICER NEAMES' (SHORTLAND) NOTES OF DETECTIVE OFFICER KEETTERING'S THIRD EXAMINATION OF MISS FERRI ROCKSAVAGE. K: Sorry to bother you again, Miss Rocksavage. Come and sit down, won't you? F.R: Well? K: Look here, help me out will you? F.R: I always help people out if I can. K: That's a good girl. You got a sunny nature, haven't you? You're always being nice to people, whether they deserve it or not.

F.R: Oh, I don't know about that, but it's a shame and it's not good being miserable. K: You've said it, and that's why I'm hoping you're not going to blow up on what I'm going to say. F.R: Why should I? K: Well, I don't know, you're a young girl. Very well brought up and that sort of thing. Some girls like that might resent the sort of questions I'm going to ask, but you know I wouldn't do it if I didn't have to in the course of my duty. Now, I'm going to treat you just as though you weren't a young society girl at all. I'm going to talk to you as though you were a woman of the world. F.R: I suppose I am what you call a woman of the world. Most girls are these days. K: That's right. Now, I'm sure you don't want any sort of scandal attached to your name and believe me a scandal is the last thing that I want to involve you in, but there's one thing I've got to ask you. Who was the man who was in your cabin on the night that Blane met his death? F.R: I don't understand. K: Oh, yes you do, and you can take it from me that I have actual proof that a man was there. F.R: You're bluffing. You haven't got any evidence. K: Yes I have. Take a look at this little bunch of hair. That came out of your comb. It was

Fording the Flood at Memphis—Over a Bridge

When pontoons are built for locomotives, the engineer of this train, plowing through two feet of Mississippi flood waters to get to Memphis, should be among the first to apply for them. The flood invaded the northern fringe of the city, covering the Illinois Central tracks and the Wolf river bridge, over which this engine is cautiously passing as a cameraman, clinging to a telephone pole to make the picture. Memphis, city of 50,000 refugees, saw only its outlying sections inundated.

Officer 40 Years Stops Only One Fish

FARGO, N. D. (UP)—J. B. Bingham, justice of the peace here, has been a police officer for 40 years, yet has received only one casualty—a black eye. Bingham came to North Dakota from Michigan in 1885 and has been in Fargo since March 17, 1932. As a deputy sheriff, Justice Bingham was trying to persuade an insane man to retire. The man sat quietly in a chair, then suddenly whipped his fist against Bingham's eye.

Absent-Minded Wives Have a Reminder

ST. LOUIS (UP)—A mild rush by absent-minded husbands to enroll in the Optimist club is expected since announcement of the advance remaining system for wedding anniversaries. It's a "wife saver" plan, according to Edgar Walsh, secretary. He explained that under the system "a warning of impending anniversary will be mailed to each member three days in advance in a plain envelope marked 'personal'." Mrs. Walsh sniffs at the idea.

PATIENTS REACT TO AMUSEMENT

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 22 (UP)—Children's Hospital in Detroit is the scene of the most unusual project undertaken by the WPA in Michigan, according to Louis M. Nunn, state administrator. The project started by the WPA in connection with the recreational program, employs five young women who have been trained in occupational therapy. They are stationed at the hospital for the benefit of stricken children. Each day, workers push a brightly laden, three-tiered cart, about the building, visiting all patients. Their object is to find some sort of amusement for the patient so that his or her mind is continuously occupied with some subject other than sickness. Children are furnished with many every form of pastime. The cart is loaded with dolls, rubber balls, games, paper and paste boards and many other things suitable for each purpose. Each of the workers enjoy choosing his pastime. Miss Margaret Rogers, superintendent of the hospital, said it "has been our experience that an occupied child gets well quicker. He will not dwell upon his sickness symptoms, etc., as will an adult who is kept busy with a healthy mental attitude toward his experience." "The WPA project has been a definite help," she said. "We should like to see it continue indefinitely."

Depth Reached in 1933

The survey entitled "who gets the national income?" showed that 40 per cent of that loss has been recovered. All types of incomes—except from interest payments—suffered major declines during the depression. All incomes—except interest payments—have shown substantial recovery in the past three years.

Interest payments climbed four points in 1930, then dropped to 13 points below the 1929 in 1935. The decline was attributed to lower interest rates generally prevailing since the boom period.

Dividend Payments Recover

Dividend payments suffered heaviest from the depression. Between 1929 and 1933 the decline was 62 per cent. About 30 per cent of that loss had been recovered at the end of 1935. Recovery is believed to have speeded up in 1936.

Proprietary payments—incomes which partners or individual proprietors of unincorporated enterprises and self-employed individuals withdrew from their business in 1929 to $7,300,000,000 in 1933. They increased to approximately $10,000,000,000 in 1935.

Rent and royalty recipients received $3,400,000,000 in 1929 and only $1,200,000,000 in 1933. In 1935 this type of income represented 4 per cent of the national income and in 1933, 3 per cent. In 1935 it had increased to about $1,750,000,000.
