HUSKY YOUTH ADMITS WROTE GINGER ROGERS

CHICAGO, April 15 (UP)—A husky 18-year-old youth admitted to G-men today that he sent a threat- ening letter demanding $500 from Ginger Rogers, screen actress, be- cause "I thought she wouldn't miss the money and I needed it to see a doctor." The youth, identified by agents as John Buzas, said he sent the letter to Miss Rogers April 8th, put- ting his own return address on the envelope and enclosing his picture. "I have moody spells about every three months and I thought she could help me," he said. "I wanted to see a doctor." G-men said he readily admitted writing the letter.

KING LOBO TO BE ELECTED; OTHER HONORS

By TOMMY LA MORE At meetings Wednesday the class- es of the high school worked out details of an election of a King Lobo and the staging of a popularity contest for leaders in the various call of the high school. In this contest votes will be sold openly without shame or scandal or fear of a political investigation. The price of a vote is one cent and the thing that removes it from fear of scandal is the fact that you must pay to vote instead of buying votes. Voting will be for a Lobo King, who is to choose his own queen. In the classes there will be no nomi- nation for king but persons may vote for whom they please. In the popularity races classes have named their champions as follows: Each class is allowed one entry in each of the places on the contest list. The seniors picked Mack McGow- en, handsomest boy; Margaret Hageman, prettiest girl; Luther Joy- Miller, wittiest boy; cleverest girl, Joy Miller; best all-round boy, Joe Slicker; best all-round girl, Jo Top- ton.

ITALY READY TO DISCUSS WITHDRAWAL

LONDON, April 15 (UP)—Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador, an- nounced today that Italy agrees to resume discussion of the recall of foreign volunteers from Spain. "The ambassadors announcement was made at a session of the sub- committee on non-intervention in the Spanish civil war. The sub-committee then decided to create a special body to exam- ine the means of withdrawing foreign troops from Spain. It has been es- timated unofficially that Italy has as many as 80,000 troops fighting for the rebels. Germany is re- ported to have 40,000 men with the rebels.

PLANS MADE TO EVACUATE 35,000

HENDAYE, Fr.—Spanish Frontier, April 15 (UP)—Basque loyalist au- thorities are preparing to evacuate 25,000 women and children to France after a new bombardment of Bilbao by 10 nationalistic airplanes. It was reported today. Refugees, arriving in France, re- ported that cats and seagulls had been added to the bill of fare of the hungry city Bilbao. They said there was not meat ex- cept for soldiers. It was said that there had been a rise in the price of cats.

Anti-God Campaign Is Renewed Today

MOSCOW, Russia, April 15 (UP)—The anti-God campaign in Soviet Russia was renewed vigorously to- day by the Society of Militant God- less and the Young Communist League. They joined in charging that lax- ity in anti-religious propaganda has created an "intolerable situation," leading to "a revival of church ac- tivities" among Soviet leaders. They demanded that the activities be stopped.

VENEERING FOR CHURCH UNITS GOES FORWARD

Rev. M. H. Applewhite reports work rapidly nearing an end on the veneering of the first unit at the Presbyterian encampment grounds at Lake Cisco. When that is finished the next unit will be treated in a similar manner. Four units are to be completed before the encamp- ment program begins, it is said. Other churches of the Presbytery are planning to build individual units for their churches to be used at these summer religious programs

Impressive Names Given Locomotives

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Railroad loc- omotives back in grandfather's time may not have been as pleasing to the eye as the modern streamlin- ers, but their names were just as fancy. A framed sheet dated 1869, which hangs in the North Western rail- road station here, lists the names of 268 wood-burning locomotives. At first the railroad officials ap- parently had little trouble in nam- ing their engines, but as the road expanded names grew scarcer and they were forced to dig into mythol- ogy for such names as Achilles, Mars, Mercury, and Cyclops. The first locomotives listed had comparatively simple names such as Pioneer, Union, Active and Res- cue. But by the time the road had more than 200 engines they were known as the Maquoketa, the Pe- cationia and the Keweenaw.

CANADA FIRM WITH STRIKE STAND TAKEN

TORONTO, Canada, April 15 (UP)—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn an- nounced today that he had been assured of the "100 per cent co- operation" of the Dominion gov- ernment in his fight against "John L. Lewis and communism." Hepburn's statement followed the resignation of two members of his cabinet who could not agree with his fight on the American strike leaders conducting a strike in Osh- awa. A general belief was reflect- ed that the resignation would force a general provincial election, but Hepburn refuted this impression to- day, denying that he had any in- tention of calling such an election "for at least a year."

FORT WORTH, April 15 (UP)—E. B. Fitzgerald and Homer J. O'Leary, representing strikers against the Lone Star Gas company issued a statement today answering charges of Lone Star President L. B. Den- ning that the workers were misled by "outside agitators."

"We accept full responsibility," the statement read. "We admit that we are agitators . . . and if, as a re- sult of our agitation conference is held and these employes' wages are increased and other concessions are granted . . . then we will be ex- ceedingly happy."

"The odium of this strike is not on the employes . . . the full respon- sibility for this strike rests on the Lone Star Gas company."

Fifteen men, representing the fed- eral government, the gas company and the two unions of gas company employes, met in conference today to continue discussions of strike issues and to attempt to reach a settlement of the dispute.

Dr. Edward A. Elliott, regional di- rector of the National Labor Rela- tions Board, presided over the meet- ing, which was held behind locked doors at the downtown office of the gas company.

The conference adjourned at noon until 2:30. None of the conferees would make statements.

Dr. Elliott termed a three-hour conference yesterday as "amiable and agreeable." He said distinct progress toward settlement of the four-day strike involving nearly 200 men had been made and was con- fident that an agreement would be reached today.

It was learned that Elliott had drawn up several "talking points" for discussion. The proposals were directed toward immediate re-estab- lishment of the gas company's ser- vice in Fort Worth and arranged for further discussion of the re-hir- ing of 26 employes of the company discharged last week.

The U. S. as King Midas

The story of King Midas is familiar to every child. The story of the king who so desired gold that in an idle moment he wished that everything that he might touch would turn to gold, is an impressive one, when one carries out the thought intended. The continuation which finds the king in danger of starvation because all food he touched turned to purest gold in response to the wish, provides a good moral for the U. S. A.

And so the United States with her vast hoard of gold bullion, increasing constantly, may find herself much in the place of this Grecian king. The following little announcement in the state papers Tuesday may have been passed unnoticed by many but it is of great moment nevertheless.

Here it is:

NEW YORK, April 13.—Incoming ships unloaded more additional bars of gold today for the United States' mounting metal supply as Wall Street continued to discuss possible moves Washington might make to avoid increasing expense of "sterilizing" the arriving metal.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported receipt of $5,437,800 from England and $4,592,000 at San Francisco from Japan.

Soon the United States may find that her two great hoards of buried treasure in the heart of the hills in Kentucky and Colorado, contain most of the gold of the world. Now when other nations are minus their basis for money, what will we do for customers? Will we be compelled to lend money to them to buy our goods and then have them default in payment? We have had that experience once, we may be compelled to do it again whether we want to or not. If so, then what matters it that we are so earnestly gathering it now?

Perhaps European nations are not worried about our feverish frenzy to acquire this treasure since they can get it all back in a short while by simply showing us what a good market they could be for our merchants if we would only lend them the money to buy our goods with. They simply guarantee to purchase so much of our goods and we furnish the money. Our exporters ask our government to guarantee the loans and so Uncle Sam is the goat again.

Which, after all, proves that perhaps there are things more important to governments as well as to individuals, than hoards of gold.

With all the gold in the world, no one could buy from us—lending it back to them would make them hate us and call us Shylocks.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Senator George Norris of Nebraska is not one to look backward, so April of 1937 finds him looking ahead toward his grandiose plans for TVA-type development of every major river basin of the country. Lots of people think Norris is a little crazy on power and flood-control development. Perhaps he is.

But if Norris cared to look backward instead of forward, he would see himself in other early April days of 20 years ago when he was thought even crazier. And yet after 20 years an unbalance he might have revealed then looks a little like the fine frenzy of a prophet.

Norris is the only man in the Senate who sat those 20 years ago and took his political (perhaps even his physical) life in his hands to vote against the declaration of war on Germany.

The Congressional Record pages of April 4, 1917, are crinkly with age now, but they are worth re-reading in the light of an anniversary that finds the United States again struggling to insure neutrality in any wars that may be brewing in Europe.

Twenty years ago, speaking before the Senate on Wilson's proposal for war, Norris said:

"Before taking this momentous step, and while standing on the brink of this terrible vortex, we ought to pause and calmly and judiciously consider the terrible consequences of the step we are about to take."

"To my mind, what we ought to have maintained from the beginning was the strictest neutrality. If we had done this I do not now believe we would have been on the verge of war at the present time."

"No close student of recent history will deny that both Great Britain and Germany have, on numerous occasions since the beginning of the war, flagrantly violated in the most serious manner the rights of neutral vessels and neutral nations under existing international law as recognized up to the beginning of this war by the civilized world.

"The only difference is that in the case of Germany we have persisted in our protest, while in the case of England we have submitted."

"We have loaned many hundreds of millions of dollars to the allies in this controversy . . . it has been instrumental in bringing about a public sentiment in favor of our country taking a course that would make every bond worth 100 cents on the dollar . . . the greatest propaganda the world has ever seen."

NORRIS cited a Wall Street broker customer-letter that said Canada and Japan were at war and were more prosperous than ever before.

"To whom does war bring prosperity?" he cried.

"War brings no prosperity to the great mass of common and patriotic citizens. It increases the cost of living to those who toil, and even if we do not cross the Atlantic and go into the trenches, we are going to pile up a debt that the coming generations shall come many generations after us will have to pay."

"We are now the greatest neutral nation."

"Upon the passage of this resolution we will have joined Europe in the great catastrophe and taken America into entanglements that will not end with this war, but will live and bring their evil influences upon many generations yet unborn."

It was all said so long ago, and yet in another war, it has a strangely familiar sound.

TRAILER ADVENTURE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Fading, with the help of GERRY NEAL, to locate her companion, BETTY HAYNES, abducted by JACK SPEDDON, MARTHA BRITAIN starts north from San Francisco up the west coast. She faces a critical problem since she is torn between love of Neal and her better judgment.

Suddenly at a small California town she casts her eyes on a man who looks like her captor. With complicity in Betty's disappearance, she finds where she leaves a JOHNNY CIZNIK, underworld character of Seattle, whom she has become involved in Betty's case. Police hint that Betty may have been murdered.

Arriving in Seattle, still searching for Betty, Martha gets a letter at the Yakon parking block from ARNOLD STOKER, head of the Airspeed Trailer Company, ordering her to turn over her equipment to a designated agent who would meet her there. The agent is Speddon and he slugs Martha, binds and gag her and leaves her in an abandoned dock warehouse to recover.

Later Speddon arrives, tells Martha that she is to see Betty. Then she is loaded into a new boat and chloroformed. She thought as she lapses into unconsciousness is that she has become involved in some gigantic crime ring.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

HER head splitting with pain that came in fierce rhythmic strokes, like the force of a metal piston, Martha opened her eyes.

She lay on a blanketed berth, and at first she believed that she was regaining consciousness in a hotel room. The slight rolling of the berth she attributed to her nauseating illness—and then, gradually, she realized that she was aboard a ship.

She remembered, now, the speedboat bouncing over the moonlit waters of the Sound, remembered the lights of Seattle crowning its seven hills. She remembered, too, that huge bulk coming toward her with the white cloth in his hand. Speddon had remonstrated. What was it he had said? "There's no need for that . . . she's not going to jump overboard." Nevertheless the damp rag of chloroform had been clamped over her mouth and nose.

Her assailant had said, "I'm working for Johnny Ciznik . . ."

Painfully she rolled her eyes to take in the stateroom. The walls were white steel, painted over many times, yet the rivets stood holes anywhere, and guessed that the ship must be of good size, that probably her stateroom was below the waterline. The single door was of steel, and the lock looked heavy. She knew instinctively that it was bolted, that there was no need of her getting up to try it.

From somewhere beyond the wall came the sound of throbbing engines. They were under way!

But where, Martha wondered—and was Betty really aboard? Had she been chloroformed only so that she would not recognize the vessel, or simply to make it easier for them to get her aboard and below without her asking to see Betty Haynes, as Speddon had promised her?

These and a hundred other questions flooded Martha's splitting head. So great was the pain that she tried not to think, tried to relax enough to sleep. Her throat was raw from the anaesthetic and her eyes burned frightfully. With a hopeless groan, she turned on her side, buried her face in the berth's blanket, and tried to lose consciousness again.

SUDDENLY she heard the sound of the heavy knob on the steel door. Breathless, she sat up on the berth, watched the door open slowly. To her amazement, her visitor was Chinese—yellow and wrinkled with age, dressed in a long black coat and trousers. In his parchment-like hand he held a cup from which steam rose in slow spirals.

"You drink," the Oriental said, coming toward the berth and holding out the cup. "This make you feel better. Make head wise."

Afraid to refuse, Martha took the cup from his hands. He nodded encouragingly as she raised the cup to her lips. Backed as she drank slowly he thence toward a corner of the stateroom, sat there on a stool, still watching her with a smile.

"You—you don't need to stay," Martha said.

The Chinaman nodded. "I stay. You drink. Make head wise."

She did feel better for having accepted the cup of hot liquid. Finishing it, she put it down on the battered table beside the berth. "Is Miss Haynes aboard this boat?"

"Miss Haynes?" The Chinaman's eyes widened. "Lady with corn-colored hair your friend?"

"Yes . . . yes, she is. Is she really here?"

The Chinaman nodded. "Yes. She all right. You sleep now."

"I don't want to sleep. I want to see that girl. Take me to her now."

The man's face slipped once more into impassivity. "You sleep. Girl all right. You see her when time comes."

"What—what is this ship?"

He grinned. "Mista Ciznik, he own this ship."

"Do you—do you know Gerry Neal?"

"Mista Neal? Yes . . . I know. Good friend."

Dismally Martha sank back on the pillow, stared at the painted steel above her. "When will I get out of here?" she asked listlessly.

"When Mista Ciznik say . . . Unless revenue boats come."

"What do you mean?" Martha sat upright again. "What do you mean, unless revenue boats come?"

He smiled again. "If revenue boats catch up, then you must die." He pointed to a roll of heavy chain in the corner of the room. "That keep you down at bottom of water. So you not talk when revenue men come aboard ship."

Martha paled. "Has—has that happened . . . before?"

"Yes . . . The oriental nodded. "Yes. Let us hope it will not happen this time."

"Why won't you take me to see Betty Haynes? Why can't you bring her here?"

"Because Mista Ciznik say not to." He looked at her oddly. "You ask many questions. That is bad. You will know what you need to know, when the time comes."

HE lapsed into silence, appeared at times to be dozing. But Martha saw that periodically the slant-like eyes were directed toward her, that she was being watched as if he were a cat and she a cornered mouse.

Thus they sat, facing each other, while the engines of the vessel thrumbed. At last the knob of the steel door turned again, slowly. Martha's frightened eyes watched it.

The newcomer was Speddon. "Okay, Ling . . . you can get going." Obediently the Chinaman shuffled through the open doorway. Speddon turned to Martha. "Feeling better now?"

"Let's not pretend," Martha answered angrily. "What are you going to do with me?"

Speddon smiled. "That sounds like you're feeling better, all right. Ciznik wants to see you in a little while. I came down to take you to his cabin. You'll like it better there."

Martha set her feet onto the floor, stood up uncertainly. "As long as I have to be on this boat I'd rather stay here. But you promised me I'd see Betty Haynes. Where is she?"

"You can't rush things around here," Speddon said. "They go just as fast as the chief wants 'em to, see? Whatever he says, goes. You found that out in the speedboat. Now come on with me and save yourself some grief."

Wordless, Martha walked unsteadily toward the door, faced a row of steel steps rising almost perpendicularly. Steadily by Speddon's hand on her arm, she began to climb them.

SAS RIGID CONTROLLING BEER DRINKING

Kas. April 15 (UP)—At a time of strict prohibition, Kansas has decided to legalize 3.2 beer will take effect May 1, and on the same date the regulatory laws will go into effect. It prohibits persons under 12 years of age from frequenting beer taverns or from working as a waiter or bartender in any establishment selling beer.

The sale of beer between midnight and 6 a. m. on weekdays is prohibited and no beer at all may be sold on Sundays or election days.

Persons who operate beer taverns must be 21 or older and citizens of the United States.

Good Character Mandatory

No person may sell beer who within two years of his application for a license has been convicted of a felony, of drunkenness, of driving a motor car while intoxicated, or of violating the liquor laws of any state. Moreover, a beer tavern operator must be of "good character and reputation in the community in which he resides."

Breweries or beer distributors will not be permitted to install fixtures or equipment for dispensing beer in retail establishments.

"No manufacturer, distributor or wholesaler," the law reads, "directly or indirectly shall sell, supply, furnish, give or pay for, or loan or lease any furnishings, fixture or equipment for dispensing beer."

Injunction Is Provided

"The attorney general or county attorney at all times shall have the power to enjoin any party from selling cereal malt beverages notwithstanding the fact that party has a license and permit, providing it shall appear he has violated any regulation of the act. Injunction proceedings shall be the same as is now prescribed for the enjoining of intoxicating liquor nuisances."

An operator's license will be revoked if he sells beer to persons under 18, permits an intoxicated person to remain in his place, is himself continually intoxicated, or is a dealer in whisky or other "hard" liquors.

The law forbids "private or closed rooms or closed booths" in the place business where beer is sold.

Violations of the law call for fines of not more than $500 or jail sentences of not more than one year, or both.

License Fee Low

Operators of beer taverns must pay a state license fee of between $25 and $50 a year and a distributor or wholesaler must pay $300 for a license. Moreover, cities and county boards are vested with the authority to make their own rules concerning dispensing of beer if they decide the state law is not stringent enough.

When the beer bill was up for debate many legislators desired to include a clause prohibiting women and girls from serving beer. This finally was omitted, however when other legislators protested that such a law would throw thousands of waitresses out of work in restaurants where beer is sold.

The clause requiring all operators of beer establishments to be citizens primarily affects the coal and lead mining region of South-eastern Kansas where many foreigners have settled. Many of these people have taken out their first citizenship papers but have not yet become fully naturalized.

Brewers' Yeast is Tested With Rats

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Several hundred rats kept in a brewery laboratory here suffer from hangovers when yeast is eliminated from their diets, company officials revealed.

The rats are used to test the vitamin content of brewers' yeast, which is one of the sources of vitamin B and G. The brewery sells its used yeast to pharmaceutical houses which incorporate it in medical preparations.

When deprived of their vitamin B and G the rats lose their appetites, and wither away until they die unless they are fed yeast. Placed on a brewers' yeast diet the rats are weighed daily and the weight gain in 28 days is used in a mathematical formula to determine the vitamin content of the yeast batch.

STOP US

if you've heard this one....

"My Dear, I simply dread this daily shopping!" How many times have you heard that story? More than once, we'll bet a hat. And if you ask the woman who "dreads shopping" just why she does so, you'll hear something like this:

"It takes so much time! I start out and look and look and look... and by the time I've found what I want I'm dead on my feet. All in, my dear. I mean I actually am!"

You can do a friend like that a real service. Ask her if she reads the advertisements. Possibly she'll look surprised and say, "Not very often. What has that to do with it?"

Tell her how you have your mind all made up before you hang the market basket over your arm... how you're able to save steps, budget your expenditures neatly, get what you want—and all with a minimum of time and effort. Simply because you have the news of the shopping world at your finger-tips all the time, by reading the advertisements every day.

up the school song, "The Victory Sons." After this number was brought to a close, Band sweetheart Marian Jacobs gave the trophy to Frank Yarger, who in turn presented the award to Principal O. L. Stamey who put in the trophy case. Frank put on a splendid performance at Abilene and was congratulated by his Bandmaster R. L. Maddox who introduced Frank to the student body. After this phase of the program was carried out, members of the band were introduced and the band struck up a lively tune as the program closed.

The senior Lobo band has made splendid progress since its beginning. Last June they were all beginners, but inspired by the work of Bandmaster Maddox and spurred on by the loyal interest and support of the band-parents club great strides have been made. New instruments have been added and some new uniforms were purchased. The Parents club is still working to secure money for more instrumentation, the lack of which has been a serious handicap to the Lobos in contesting with other bands. There is a happy future awaiting these boys and girls when more instruments have been added and a little more training received.

BOYS SCRAMBLE FOR PLACES ON BASEBALL TEAM

By TOMMY LA MORE
Twenty-five boys were present for the work-out yesterday on Chesley field for the senior baseball team, that is making efforts to round into shape for the coming season schedule, in the Eastland county league.
Several hot races are on for positions on the team with every boy striving to do his best before the eyes of the ever-watching coach O. L. Stamey, who is helping the boys in the early training season that opened last Monday. Infield and outfield were practiced yesterday after which the boys were divided into sides and an inter-squad game played. The pitching of the team could stand much improvement and will probably be in much better condition by the opening of the season as the boys are wearing off their first days of practice soreness.
A hot race is on between Bill Wallace and Bob Bacon who are trying for first base position, and both boys are showing much when it comes to covering the bag on pegs. Mickey Linebarger is meeting little competition at his position of right short. Royce Rainbolt and several other of the boys are fighting for second base. Joe Slicker and Vernon Shirley seem to have the third base well in hand without much competition, but it now seems as if Joe has the better chance for this position by his accurate fielding and good batting. Horace Cameron and Dennis King are also trying out for the gardening positions with Horace showing much good field and spirit. In the outfield Thurman Moeley, Cecil Edwards and Gerald McQuary are trying out for left field position with Wayne Sparks and Tommy La More going for the middle spot out in center field. On the right side of the field it seems as if the race is just as hot as any with Howard Tableman and Wayne Robinson along with others trying out for this position. The first conference game for the local team will be played next Thursday with Scranton.

"My Dear, I simply dread this daily shopping!" How many times have you heard that story? More than once, we'll bet a hat. And if you ask the woman who "dreads shopping" just why she does so, you'll hear something like this:

"It takes so much time! I start out and look and look and look... and by the time I've found what I want I'm dead on my feet. All in, my dear. I mean I actually am!"

You can do a friend like that a real service. Ask her if she reads the advertisements. Possibly she'll look surprised and say, "Not very often. What has that to do with it?"

Tell her how you have your mind all made up before you hang the market basket over your arm... how you're able to save steps, budget your expenditures neatly, get what you want—and all with a minimum of time and effort. Simply because you have the news of the shopping world at your finger-tips all the time, by reading the advertisements every day.

Advertisements are news. Vital, practical news. News you need to keep on tap. Read the advertisements every day.

DESDEMONA

By MRS. W. C. BEDFORD

The Methodist Missionary Society met Monday afternoon at the church (the old Masonic hall) for the study of the sixth chapter of "Out of Africa." The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Charles Lee. Roll call responses were names of missionaries to Africa and some of the pictures of them were passed around. The devotionals were given by Mrs. W. H. Whitworth. A short business session was held during which Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Bragg and Miss Mollie O'Hear reported to the conference treasurer for a baby life membership and the name of little Charles Bragg was to be the life member. The society also voted to allow $4.00 for the expense of the delegate to the missionary conference which met last week at Temple. The report of the delegate, Mrs. McDonald, was then given. She gave a splendid report, telling especially of the address of Dr. Cram, Gen. Secretary of the Board of Missions, who told many interesting things about the missions in Africa which he visited last year. Mrs. Bragg gave a tribute to the memory of David Livingstone, the great explorer and missionary in Africa. Mrs. Snodgrass gave an article from the "World Outlook" on "The Green Car Does Service in the Congo." The superintendent of study then conducted a review of the book and the members took notes and wrote comments on each chapter and with a short sketch of the author. During the six weeks of study, the attendance has been good and much interest taken. The story of the Hottentot who appeared on the radio "We, the People," Sunday was told. He had been rescued from the Zulus by a band of Methodist Missionaries who took him to their hospital after he had been tortured and terribly burned as a sacrifice to the rain-god. Others present besides those mentioned were Mrs. Preston Sparks and Mrs. Bedford.

Styie McEntire left Thursday for Ocala to resume his work with the casting polling crew after having been at home for quite a long time after a serious case of the flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Sparks drove to Ranger Monday afternoon on business. They took Mrs. O. D. McDonald to Oiden to visit her mother while Rev. McDonald attended a state-wide meeting of Methodists at Fort Worth.

Rev. Earl Alexander, accompanied by her mother-in-law, Mrs. Alexander, Sr., Mrs. Joe Gibson and Miss Capitola Browning drove to De Leon Monday to sell home-made candy to the trades day crowd for the benefit of the Church of God.

Rev. O. D. McDonald drove to Fort Worth Monday to attend a state-wide meeting of Methodist pastors. He was accompanied by John O'Hear who went to visit his sister, Mrs. M. R. Turner.

ADMIRATION - TRIPLE-SEALED IN "CELLOPHANE"

DECISION GOES TO THE Bag ... ON POINTS

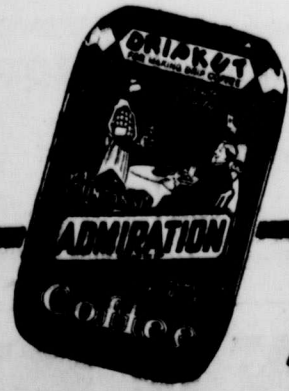

The first three rounds were a draw between the two favorites: Coffee-in-Bags and Coffee-in-Other-Containers. In the first round, the quality of the two was the same. In the second, both had the same oven-freshness. In the third, fragrance and flavor were uniform in both. But in the fourth ...

Coffee-in-Bags won the decision on price!

When the housewife finds that Admiration Coffee in the moisture-proof Cellophane bags is the same fresh, fragrant, delicious coffee as that packed by other methods, she will certainly choose the bag at about 4c the pound less. Methods of packaging, plus Admiration's fast truck delivery service, secure her of an equally good coffee at a more economical price.

Buy it in the bag and save the difference.

Admiration Coffee comes packed three ways: vacuum glass jars, slip-covered tin cans, and in triple-sealed Cellophane bags.

BOYS SCRAMBLE FOR PLACES ON BASEBALL TEAM

By TOMMY LA MORE
Twenty-five boys were present for the work-out yesterday on Chesley field for the senior baseball team, that is making efforts to round into shape for the coming season schedule in the Eastland county league.
Several hot races are on for positions on the team with every boy striving to do his best before the eyes of the ever-watching coach O. L. Stamey, who is helping the boys in the early training season that opened last Monday. Infield and outfield were practiced yesterday after which the boys were divided into sides and an inter-squad game played. The pitching of the team could stand much improvement and will probably be in much better condition by the opening of the season as the boys are wearing off their first days of practice soreness.
A hot race is on between Bill Wallace and Bob Bacon who are trying for first base position, and both boys are showing much when it comes to covering the bag on pegs. Mickey Linebarger is meeting little competition at his position of right short. Royce Rainbolt and several other of the boys are fighting for second base. Joe Slicker and Vernon Shirley seem to have the third base well in hand without much competition, but it now seems as if Joe has the better chance for this position by his accurate fielding and good batting. Horace Cameron and Dennis King are also trying out for the gardening positions with Horace showing much good field and spirit in the outfield. Thurman Moseley, Cecil Edwards and Gerald McQuary are trying out for left field position with Wayne Sparks and Tommy La More going for the middle spot out in center field. On the right side of the field it seems as if the race is just as hot as any with Howard Tableman and Wayne Robinson along with others trying out for this position. The first conference game for the local team will be played next Thursday with Scranton.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

...in 1921, was a desperate under martial law. Dennis Riordan, leader of the rebellion, and his great frustration, and his great joy, a surprise attack on his headquarters resulted in the death of Sean O'Brien and two of his most valued men, but Riordan himself eluded them. That night British transport brought Lord High, an emissary of the Government, to the city. Riordan, his wife, and his aide, Gerald...

these people. But you're blind to everything but hatred. You don't want to be free of us—you want to fight for the love of fighting—until you are all dead!

Chapter 2 ...and Alburgh was seriously distressed about the state of affairs in Ireland. On his return to England he would have to submit a report to the government and that report must show why Sir John Alroy's measures to curb the insurgents were unjust. Riordan's spies were everywhere; they burned barracks, blew up bridges, destroyed complete shipments of munitions. And as yet the Intelligence Service had no idea what he was like. Meanwhile civilian damages mounted appallingly.

Helen frowned. She preserved a furious and dignified silence as she pushed her bicycle up a hill. For some minutes neither of them spoke. "If you don't speak to me soon, Lady Helen, I'll be thinking you're guilty yourself of being blind to everything except hatred!" laughed Dennis.

"Don't let it bother you," Gerald said flippantly. "It's been going on with me for a long while."

...of poetry in Gaelic and translated them for her. "And music, an enormous rumor. Spreads across my weary Ireland." Helen inquired what they meant, but Dennis only shook his head and smiled. "What do you do besides going to medical school and writing poetry that you don't understand?" she asked him teasingly.

WORLD ARMING BOOMS MINING IN SOUTHWEST

JOPLIN, Mo., April 14 (AP)—Lead and zinc mines of the tri-state mining area of Missouri, Oklahoma and Kansas—which were all closed during the depression are being worked at full capacity as a result of rearmament in Europe.

The recently-enacted neutrality laws passed by Congress are in a great measure responsible for the increase in lead and zinc sales. This is true because, once war is declared, the neutrality laws would prohibit sales of war supplies to belligerent nations. Therefore the countries fearing war are buying huge supplies now and storing them for future use.

High quality, assaying about 80 per cent lead. The tri-state area is one of the world's most important zinc fields and produces about one-fourth of the supply in the United States.

Provided Civil War Lead The tri-state district first attracted attention in 1848 when lead was mined in small quantities in Jasper and Newton counties.

Real activity in the area began in 1872 when zinc was discovered. Lead miners frequently had encountered a peculiar dark, unknown substance in the mines. It was often adhering to the lead ore and was considered a nuisance.

Finally, samples of this peculiar ore were sent to a smelter in Illinois, where it was found to be zinc blende of a high quality. The finding of zinc and lead ore together attracted many mining men and prospectors to this locality, and mining became an important industry.

About 6,000 men are employed in the mining industry in this area, many of the workers operating their own shallow mines.

Frequently two or more miners pool their funds to buy powder and mining tools, lease a small tract of mining land and start operations of their own.

The land—perhaps containing an old mine shaft or drill hole—is usually leased on a royalty basis, the miners agreeing to pay 10 or 15 per cent of their findings, or "blende," below $30. Many mines were forced to close and finally were abandoned.

The small mines do not even use concentrating mills, hand jiggling the dirt from the mine and sending the ore to a custom mill for crushing and separating.

Since mining has become an important industry in this section it has been estimated that nearly $200,000,000 worth of lead and zinc has been recovered. This year's production is expected to total about $25,000,000.

New mines, also, are being opened and prospectors are taking drill tests in attempts to find new deposits. Unlike the lead and zinc mines of the Rocky Mountain region, ore deposits in the tri-state area are found in "runs" or "bodies" and not in fissures or veins.

Sir Frances Drake Claimed California

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13 (AP)—Discovery of a small brass plate on the shore of San Francisco Bay by an obscure clerk may write a new chapter in history, California historical authorities say.

Sir Francis Drake placed the tarnished bit of brass on a "great and firm" post to claim this new and strange land for Queen Elizabeth in 1579. There it lay until the clerk discovered it, when he needed a bit of metal.

Prof. Herbert Eugene Bolton, world's leading authority on California history, waved the plate before an excited group of scientists at a meeting here.

"Here it is!" he shouted, professorial dignity lost in his burst of enthusiasm. The plate bore the inscription: "Bee it knowne Vnto all men by these presents IVNIE 17 1579"

By the grace of God and in the name of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth of England and her Successors forever I take possession of this Kingdom whose king and people freely resign their right and title to the whole land unto her Majesty keeping now named by me and be knowne vnto all men at Nova Albion.

Francis Drake Professor Bolton received the plate from Beryl Shinn, Oakland department store clerk who found it on the southern shore of Point San Quentin near the mouth of Corte Madera Creek, two miles south of San Rafael.

The professor carefully cleaned it revealing the inscription. Dr. Bolton pointed out that discovery of the plate on the shore of San Francisco Bay, an area Drake was not believed to have touched when he visited the California coast, may revise history.

The widely accepted theory was that Drake landed on what is now known as "Drake Bay" or Bodega Bay, called a "convenient and fit harbor" by the explorer.

Drake was supposed to have sailed past San Francisco Bay in a deep fog. The belief that the San Carlos was the first boat to sail through the Golden Gate in 1775 also must be discarded and the Golden Hind of 1579 replace it.

But the plate may have been carried to where it was found by Indians, historians said. In that case earlier theories may be correct. Historical leaders plan to sift the soil in the area of the discovery in search of a sixpence which Drake inserted in the plate and the spikes with which it was nailed to the post.

Meanwhile, the plate purchased from Shinn by the historian for $2,000, will be placed in the University of California museum. Plans to erect a suitable memorial will be discussed by the California Historical Society.

DUST STORMS BLAST PAINT LAMAR, Col. (AP)—Spring dust storms were so severe in southeastern Colorado that the paint on a set of automobile license plates was "blasted" of the metal. The plates were returned to the county clerk and a new set issued.

BOYS OF 15 GET CHANCE TO BE BRITISH FLIERS

By DAN ROGERS United Press Staff Correspondent LONDON, April 13 (AP)—Britain will have no lack of men to fly and service the 10,000 fighting planes the rearmament program will provide.

The romance attached to flying and the fact that aviation trades have a bright future have relieved the Royal Air Force of recruiting problems faced by the army. Also the pay is better, since there is greater risk, but this very element of adventure and danger draws a high type of recruit to the R.A.F.

Alone of the three services, the air force is ahead of schedule on personnel expansion, and, with the impetus of the tremendous appropriation of $412,500,000 for 1937—an increase of $160,000,000 over last year and approximately four times the amount in 1934—service in the R.A.F. is expected to be made even more attractive to British youth.

Enlist as Apprentices The term youth is used advisedly. Since early in 1934 the R.A.F. has enlisted more than 5,000 boys, aged 15 to 17, as aircraft apprentices. When they reach 18, they automatically enter a 12-year enlistment period, which may be extended to 24 years. They are taught aircraft trades and duties. If they show special aptitude they become pilots.

The requirements of intelligence, education and physique are higher in the R.A.F. than the other services, and, although the army and navy also take boys, the air force places the greater accent on youth.

An intelligent enlisted man who becomes a sergeant pilot or flight sergeant pilot not only has learned a valuable trade, but he is far more fortunate than a man of equal rank in the army or navy in regard to pay. Base pay for a sergeant pilot is $312 a day, which rises with promotion and length of service. A certain number becomes commissioned officers.

2,500 Pilots Needed When the present expansion of the air force, greatly accelerated by rearmament, was begun in 1935 it was announced that 2,500 pilots and 20,000 aircraftmen were needed by April 1, 1937. Since 900 pilots were obtained from the enlisted personnel, the rest came from civilian life, the majority of them entered as officers on short term (four year) commissions. In this group young men of good personality and education from 18 to 25 were accepted, and trained at R.A.F. schools.

There were many more applicants than there were places, so provision was made for direct entry of young men of secondary education, for training to become pilots.

Ball Squad Begins Intensive Work Out By TOMMY LA MORE An inter-squad game marked the second workout of the season for the baseball team of the Cisco high school.

This team will be one of many that will compete in the Eastland county league, composed of teams from towns that are within the bounds of Eastland county.

After warm-up exercises, the boys chose sides and started their first scrimmage of the spring training season. Coach O. L. Stamey umpired the game and took time out several times to help boys correct errors made. Material for the infield seems rather strong as well as the battery. The outfield will need much strength though as many hits were made through it yesterday. Several hard hits were collected but on the whole the pitchers kept the game pretty well in hand. Material for the infield that reported yesterday was: Bill Wallace and Garland McQuary, first base; Mickey Lineberger and Horace Cameron, short stop; Cecil Edwards and Dennis King, second base; Waymon Johnson and Joe Slicker, third base; Gerald McQuary, Tommy La More, Howard Tableman, Thurman Mosley, and Wayne Sparks for the outfield. Batteries were: pitcher, "Red" Yarbrough, Bob Bacon, Vernon Shirley, Horace Cameron, Waymon Johnson and others that will try out soon. Catchers were Vernon Steyer and Julian Flaherty.

Tell Us About It!

A man came home one evening and found his wife with the tears very near the surface. "Do you know," she said tragically, "I went into Claymore's this afternoon and asked them to cash a check for me and they wouldn't do it? I never felt so humiliated in all my life before all those clerks. I'm never going into that place again, never, never."

"There, there," said the husband soothingly "don't get fussed up. Nobody intended to offend you, I am sure, or to be disobliging. There must have been some mistake somewhere. I'll find out."

The husband took the pains to find out; he got in touch with the proprietor of the store and discovered that the whole trouble was due to a new and undiplomatic book-keeper.

"I can't tell you how glad I am that you brought this matter to my attention," said the proprietor. "You have pointed out a weak place in my business and have given me a chance to explain. If all of our customers would do that it would help us immensely. But so often when they get mad at us they say nothing about it—to us—but they say plenty to everybody else."

"That's the rub," said a merchant discussing the above incident. "My help are always doing things to displease my customers and I rarely find out about it. Now the other day I learned that a woman was bawling me out to a whole street car full of folks because of the lack of brains of one of my salesgirls. It seems that this woman had wanted to buy two yards of lace. There were two and a third yards in the piece. The clerk refused to cut off two yards because she said that would leave only a third of a yard, which she couldn't sell to anybody else. The woman contended that she was not going to buy more lace than she wanted; the clerk wouldn't cut the two yards off, so the woman in a great huff left my place and proceeded to tell the world about her grievance. If she had only come to me, or if the clerk had had sense enough to send for me when the matter came up, I would gladly have given the woman the third of a yard rather than send her from my store knocking my business; that's the sort of publicity I'll pay not to get."

Faith Healing Called Science

MINNEAPOLIS, April 13 (UP)—Faith healing, according to Dr. Charles Bird, professor of psychology at the University of Minnesota, is a form of treatment in which every doctor should be trained.

"Faith healing," Dr. Bird said, "is more than the curing of diseases by a 'gifted' healer. It is important today because it is an effective method of removing symptoms of illness found in a large percentage of people who consult physicians."

Faith healing, the psychologist continued, flourishes today because adults have learned in childhood that "illness pays."

Parental love for a child, he said, and sympathy for him in sickness teaches him that personal satisfaction can be derived from illness.

Based on Sympathy

"Sympathy for the sick child," he said, "enhances a feeling of worth. Illness often releases him from irksome or unpleasant work. And when he is older the individual tries to escape social responsibilities through formation of dramatic illnesses. But such an individual cannot be accused of deliberate perpetuation of his illnesses."

"The frequency with which some people have found in illness their chief escape from greater troubles or their chief avenue of satisfaction makes it easy for feigned disorders to pass beyond control. These people now are in reality the victims of their own illnesses."

"The disorders of these neurotics are not imaginary."

Faith Removes Symptoms

"Faith healing includes cures at 'holy wells,' 'holy steps' and pilgrimage shrines. The explanation of these cures lies in the fact that time has a healing effect. None of these people has been really cured. Only the symptoms have been removed. When confidence is shaken or when fear is aroused, such a person relapses."

Dr. Bird explained that a great many of the persons who consult physicians are "mentally" ill. And doctors who appreciate this fact prescribe bitter medicines and "sugar pills" of no value in themselves.

"Because many patients today are mentally ill," he said, "training in psychiatry should be required of every doctor."

Duncan Coffee Co. Raises Wage Scale

HOUSTON, April 13—The Duncan Coffee Company today announced that it was putting into effect an increase of ten percent in the pay of all operatives in its packing departments at its two Houston plants and in its Corpus Christi plant, effective immediately.

During the life of the NRA the Duncan Coffee Company paid its employees more wages than required by the governmental agency. When the Supreme Court declared the statute setting up the NRA to be unconstitutional, H. M. Duncan, president of the company announced that the company would continue to pay the scale that had been in effect in spite of the fact that a general revision of payrolls downward was taking place in many industries throughout the country.

Mr. Duncan said today, "The general increase in the price index of practically all commodities nat-usually increases the cost of living and it is our desire that our employees maintain as high a standard of living as possible, and we intend to maintain a wage scale consistent with the company's earnings. We know that our employees are intensely loyal and we mean to compensate them on the highest basis possible."

The labor and wage policy of the Duncan Coffee Company has been studied carefully by economists in several of the leading universities of the country and by representatives of the U. S. Department of Labor and all agree that in spite of the installation of machines to replace hand labor by very many of the large coffee plants of the country, the Duncan policy and practice proves that it is still possible to operate such plants with human beings and earn a profit, even though that profit may not be as great as is earned by a highly mechanized plant with similar tonnage of production.

L. J. Bland, sales manager, said, "The Duncan Coffee Company believes the public approves its efforts to give employment at good wages to men and women instead of substituting machines to perform their labor since the curve of both Admiration and Early brands produced by the company showed a continuous consistent advance since 1927."

Dr. Stack, a well-known Baptist Minister, recently made the public statement that burdensome and excessive taxes were hampering religious activities in Texas.

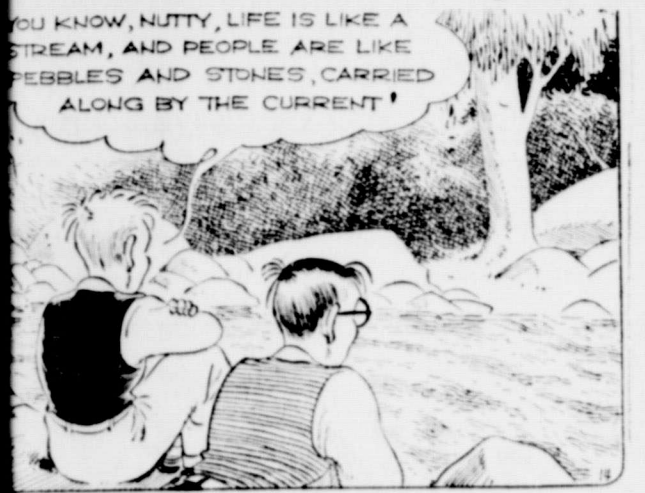

"Any man or woman who ever served on a Church Finance Committee knows only too well that 'High Taxes' is too often given as the reason for failure to meet obligations to the church," Dr. Stack said.

Poison Effective Against Rabbits

Replies received by the county agent from 12 farmers who have recently used poisoned grain in rabbit control indicates that this method of controlling jack rabbits is effective if properly used, and a very inexpensive method.

The county agent recently supplied 33 farmers in the county with a total of 100 pounds of poisoned grain to determine whether rabbits will take this type of bait. At the end of the week those farmers who answered a questionnaire sent by the county agent stated that they had found an average of 12 rabbits which had been killed and had no way of estimating the number of rabbits which were killed but not found.

Tree-Ripened Fruit Goes to Market In New Ventilated Packing Baskets

The basket is made of spaced wire mesh. The top is made of material which allows the fruit to be ripened, more slowly, Mallock said.

Mallock said a series of tests he conducted at Fort Valley, Ga., showed that produce packed in the ventilated baskets with top mesh made of three times faster than those packed in the old type, unventilated baskets with slatted top.

In the experiment a car of produce was loaded at an average temperature of 85 degrees Fahrenheit. Three different types of baskets were used: (1) standard standard standard ventilated with standard top, and ventilated with the wire top pad.

Texas is New State In Sports World

A comparatively new state in sports in Texas has added to its reputation every year, putting forth stars in new fields and adding to its prestige in others.

Southwest Conference football has been on par with the best for several years and teams from this section have an excellent score in international competition. College basketball teams, notably that of Abilene, have gained national prominence.

Texas League baseball players have gone to the "big show" and become American and National League stars.

The thrifty way to travel First-class

1937 Ford V-8 owners pay less for their cars, pay less to run them, and travel first class all the time!

Basic reason is the V-8 engine. Eight cylinders give smoother performance. V-type construction is the most modern on land, sea, or in the air, and permits a much more compact power-plant. Space saved under the hood means more room in the body, and more comfort.

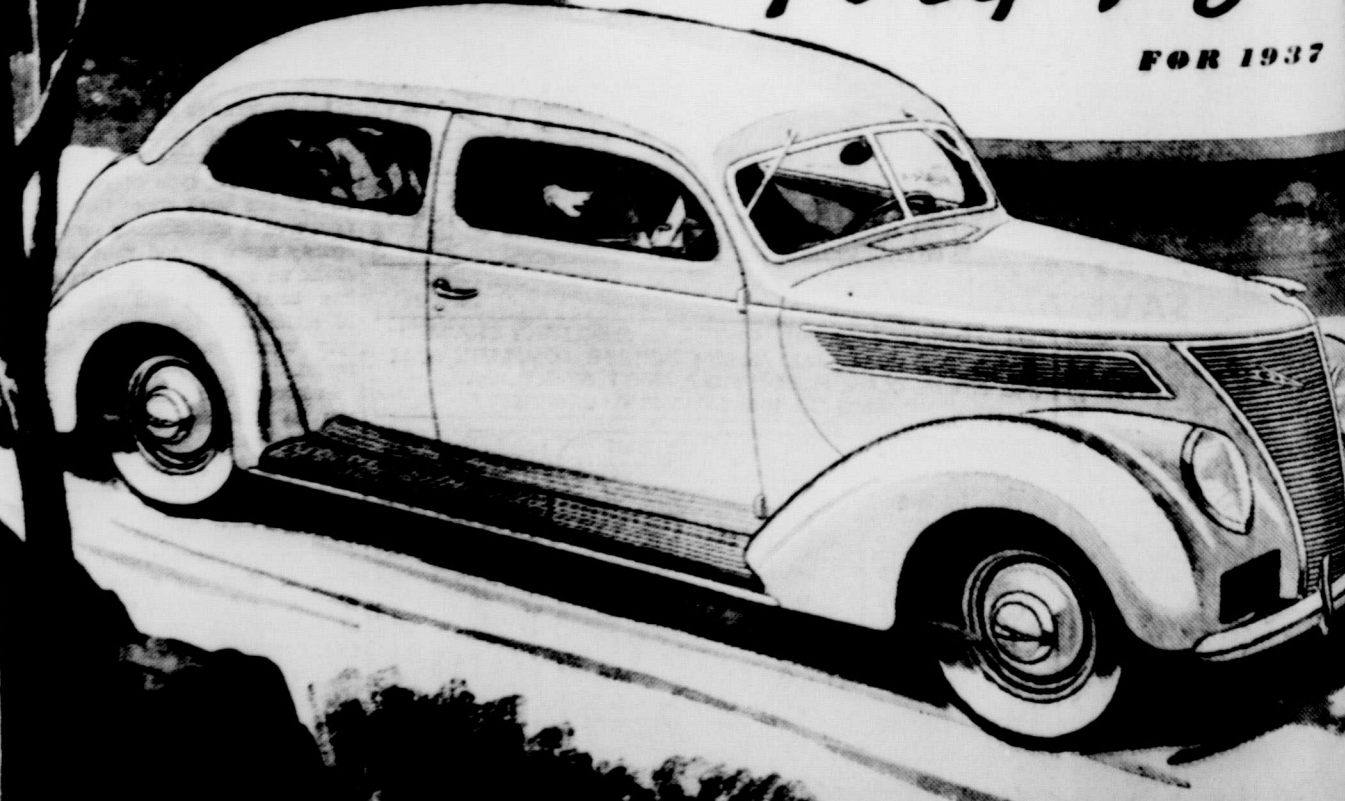

This year's V-8 engine is offered in two sizes, 25 horsepower for top-notch performance, 60 horsepower for rock-bottom economy. The latter, available in five body types, makes possible the lowest Ford prices in years and the greatest gasoline mileage in Ford history.

To this choice of V-8 engine sizes, add the other Ford first-class features—Center-Poise Ride, Easy-Action Safety Brakes, all-steel body, advanced design—and you'll realize why the Ford V-8 is the quality car in the low-price field.

ROOSEVELT INVITED TO SPEAK AT BROWNWOOD CC CONVENTION

President Roosevelt has been invited to attend the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Brownwood May 10, 11 and 12. The convention was extended by D. E. Aden, WTCC manager.

President will leave Washington about April 28 for a two week trip on the Texas Gulf coast to Corpus Christi and Brownwood. His vacation trip plans also include a visit to the home of his father, President Roosevelt, in Fort Worth.

Officials hope his itinerary arranged to include a stop at the convention here.

Ernest C. Thompson, member of Texas Railroad Commission, has accepted invitations to attend the convention.

Plans for the convention are being pushed to completion under the direction of Gus Rosenberg, wood business man, who is chairman of the convention executive committee, Chester Harrison, secretary of Brownwood Chamber of Commerce, and Jed Rix, convention manager, and various local committee chairmen.

Convention visitors will be entertained Monday and Tuesday nights, May 10 and 11, with two outstanding shows, "West Texas Follies of 1937." Each town and city affiliated with the WTCC has been asked to name a sponsor to take part in the show. The sponsor chosen as the most beautiful at the Monday night show will be crowned "Queen of West Texas" at the Tuesday night performance. Some of the most talented artists of the state will appear on the programs, which will be directed by Dr. Mollie Armstrong, Brownwood.

Two general assemblies will be held during the convention, on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings. Four group conferences will be held. Subjects of two of these will be "Soil Conservation and Flood Prevention" which is the general theme of the convention, and "Oil and Gas Development in West Texas." Two luncheons will be held for WTCC directors and another luncheon will be held for newspapermen and Chamber of Commerce secretaries.

More interest is being shown in the Home Town Speaking Contest this year than ever before, according to Rix. Twenty-five entries already have been received and at least 75 are expected. The winner will receive the Thomas Etheridge loving cup. Other prizes include scholarships to several Texas colleges and several cash awards. Scholarships have been offered to date by McMurray College, Abilene; Howard Payne College, Brownwood; Texas Christian University, Fort Worth; and Abilene Christian College, Abilene.

NEGRO JANITOR TO DOFF DENIM FOR Ph.D. ROBE

FITTSBURGH (AP) — When commencement day arrives at Pitt next June, Edward Lee Harris will take off his janitor's overalls and don his doctor's gown.
