LEADERS FAIL TO AGREE IN CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, July 27 (U.P.)—
Hope for enactment of a broad new farm program before adjournment virtually disappeared today after members of the House Agriculture Committee and leaders of major farm organizations were unable to agree on a bill.
Chairman Marvin Jones of Texas, who called the conference, said that prospects are "not too bright" for action this session.
Previously, Chairman Ellison
Smith of the Senate Agriculture Committee had indicated there would be no farm bill in the upper house until next session.
"Of course, it all depends upon whether congress stays here a long time," Jones said.

Uncle Sam Tops Air Challenges With Fastest Fighter

JOHN L. LEWIS TO BREAK WITH ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, July 27 (U.P.)—
John L. Lewis, through the Committee for Industrial Organization assumed control today of Labor Non-partisan League in a move pointing to new political alignments and suggesting a break with the Roosevelt administration.
There were hints of a third party.
Authoritative sources said the first objective of the league may be expected in New York City's mayoral campaign.
It has been reported that Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia might run for re-election as the candidate of the American Labor Party alone.

"It is believed this plane can overhaul any air target," is the modest way the U. S. Army Air Corps announces the development of the fastest fighting plane in the world, the XFM-1, sketched above. So revolutionary is the craft that new tactics for its use must be worked out. It is a multi-seater, carrying a crew of five; has two engines operating pusher types of propellers, which give the gunners in the fighting cockpit, at each side of the pilot's cockpit, freedom to fire in any direction;
is capable of climbing to 30,000 feet. The armament consists of six machine guns and light bombs. The Bell Aircraft Corporation of Buffalo built the experimental model.

SENATE BILL DESIGNED TO END RACKETS

WASHINGTON, July 27 (U.P.)—
The Senate Judiciary Committee today approved a bill introduced by Senator William Borah of Idaho designed to end "racketeering" in the lower federal courts.
The full judiciary committee reported "marked progress today on final approval of the lower court reform bill which will replace President Roosevelt's original supreme court proposal.
Committee members indicated that the bill would be reported to the senate tomorrow or Thursday. It provides for changes in lower court procedure only.

PEIPING, China, July 26 (Wed.) U.P.—Japan and China were in an undeclared state of war in North China tonight with fighting in progress in scattered points between Peiping, the ancient capital, and Tientsin, toward the sea.
Scenes reminiscent of the Boxer Rebellion occurred in Peiping as troops swarmed into their legation for preparations.
United States marines were issued ammunition to protect American citizens.
Citizens were called into their legation. Sandbags were stacked along the street of the quarters as they were in 1900 during the Boxer Rebellion, where foreigners were slaughtered and besieged before the American, Japanese, Russian, British and French forces relieved
the city.
The Chinese ignored two Japanese ultimatums to withdraw their forces
from the Peiping area and word from Nanking the Central capital indicated that China is ready to fight it out in the belief that Japan intends to seize North China.
Japanese troops were pouring into Tangku, port of Tientsin, in transports from Japan, ready to meet China's defiance. The commander of the 29th Chinese army at Peiping was understood to have decided to withdraw to the capital, the troops in the Nanyuan Barracks,
five miles south of the city.
Japanese troops, after suffering a humiliating defeat at the city's southwest gate, attacked a Chinese regiment 15 miles east of Peiping,
and, according to Japanese sources,
killed or wounded 400 to 500 troops.
Peiping was cut off from the coast by railroad, bus, telegraph
and telephone.

Key to Ancient Life In Northwest Sought

DETROIT LAKES, Minn. (U.P.)—
Scientists are directing excavation of mounds near Detroit Lakes in an effort to determine the age of the skeleton of the "Minnesota girl"
found in this vicinity several years ago.
It is believed the skeleton may be of an early tribe which inhabited the Northwest 20,000 years ago
or more.
Samples of the silt in which the skeleton was found have been taken and scientists are attempting to determine by tests the probable period during which the girl lived.
The work is under the direction of Dr. A. E. Jenks, University of Minnesota anthropologist.
One theory under investigation is that the girl was drowned in a glacial lake, formed when retreating ice sheets blanketed the area now known as Minnesota. The last of the five great ice sheets in this section is said by geologists to have invaded the Northwest 20,000 years
ago.

munity school district Saturday voted by a majority of nine to increase the district local school tax to 50 cents on the $100 valuation. The present tax is 20 cents.

district opens the way for the district to receive state aid, by meeting requirements of the state equalization board which stipulates that before a district is eligible to such aid a 50-cent tax must be levied.
Shady Grove has about 54 schol-

Jobs For the Undertaker

Four out of every five automobile accidents occur on dry roads in clear weather. Four out of every five automobile accidents involve cars driving straight ahead.

Here is the statistical proof of the disregard for every rule of courtesy and safety that characterizes the reckless or incompetent motorist. He constantly overestimates the "safety factors" of good roads and modern cars.

A National Safety Council survey lists the seven most important causes of fatal accidents, in order, as follows: Exceeding speed limit or driving too fast for road and weather conditions; driving on the wrong side of the road; disregarding stop signs and signals; usurping right of way; cutting in; passing on hills and curves; failure to signal for stopping and turning.

These driving errors cause the great bulk of all serious accidents, and the first is by far the worst. Every one of them is a human error—and every accident they produce could be prevented if individual drivers would observe the most elementary rules of caution and proper driving.

In conclusion, here is one more fact you might think over next time you feel the urge to step on it: At 20 miles per hour, one accident in 61 is fatal, while at 50 or more miles per hour, one accident in every 11 produces a corpse.

Endangering the Public Health

A Department of Agriculture survey indicates that providing the right food for a family of five in proper quantity, calls for an expenditure of approximately $50 per month.

Inasmuch as not more than a third of the family income can be spent for food, a healthful diet cannot be had if the income of a family of five is less than $150 per month.

Surveys such as this, being necessarily limited in scope, cannot be entirely accurate. But these figures point to one fact: That current legislative efforts to ham-string low-cost merchandisers, fix prices, and outlaw economical retailing methods are a direct threat to the public health.

It is an old truism that in a period of recovery, prices usually rise faster than the individual income. That is true today, as it was following the mild depression of 1921 and during the recovery of 1908. In the face of this, for government to artificially inflate prices is nothing less than a social crime.

The law should make every effort to keep a maximum amount of honest competition in merchandising. It should use the authority of the trust laws to make price fixing illegal. It should encourage, rather than discourage, low-cost retailing which cuts distribution charges between producers and consumers. Only if this is done, can the average family's food dollar purchase the commodities necessary to health and comfortable living.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The "senator" closely identified with the labor movement, reported in dispatches to have asked Roosevelt to settle the fratricidal C. I. O.-A. F. of L. carnage, and to have offered a peace formula of his own, is—perhaps one should add "of course"—the Hon. George Berry of Tennessee, head of the pressmen's union.

The prominent gent closely identified with the White House who has just thrown the formula into his wastebasket is the Hon. Mr. Roosevelt.

The fellow who laughed hardest when he heard about it was John Lewis, who hasn't enjoyed many uproarious laughs lately. The formula proposed to provide a place for Lewis subordinate to a new president of the A. F. of L., who would have been elected to succeed William Green.

Some sort of truce or semi-truce probably will be arranged sooner or later, perhaps sooner. Jurisdictional battles between C. I. O. and A. F. of L. unions, strikes which make no sense to the public and only make the public mad, are beginning to be recognized by organized labor's friends as dangerous, dumb business. Roosevelt, a friend of labor at least to date, may try to do the job himself.

The "scoop" in this column, however, is the fact that a group of liberal senators and congressmen, friendly to labor as a whole but hated by both A. F. of L. and C. I. O. lobbyists, is planning a public appeal to both sides. Realists know that hatred between Lewis and certain craft union chiefs wouldn't permit any closely knit coalition.

But these members of Congress

COLORADO PAYS GAME HUNTERS

DENVER, July 27 (UP)—Coyotes and other killers of game and range stock in Colorado are kept under control in the state by salaried hunters instead of through payment of bounties for killing of the predatory animals.

The paid hunters are veterans who know every trail and every ranchman's needs in their assigned territory. They work individually, keeping a lonely year-round vigil over game and domestic stock in their area.

Ordinarily, their only companions are their horses and one or more "trail hounds." The dogs are used in scenting and following the trail of coyotes, bobcats, mountain lions and other predators.

VACATION DIARY BY JEAN SEIVWRIGHT Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS JOY—Heroine, hostess in smart Maine restaurant. ROGER—Joy's fiancee, rising young designer. ANGELA—Joy's rival in love. DIK—Wealthy young playboy, Roger's rival in love.

CHAPTER XI MONDAY: Was I mad last night? All Mrs. Fenwick wanted was an audience and I had to sit and listen to her talk about some new idea she's got in her head... why had she to pick on me?

Picked up the newspapers when Cal brought them in this afternoon... first thing that caught my eye was a paragraph about Roger. He's just received a contract from some automobile concern to design new interiors for salesrooms. We used to talk a lot about the opportunities Roger could find for the development of his art... so he's getting ahead just as we planned... does Angela inspire him, I wonder? Next thing I noticed was a headline about the Ace-High Club... closed indefinitely... hints that Rocco has disappeared... does that mean Angela's vanished too?

New something in The Crow's Nest about Rocco... evidently he's in some mess... "difficulties" with the law... the police... must check up on that in tomorrow's paper. Never had a minute for my trip to the haunted house (for I've made up my mind to go there and look things over). It must be a queer place if the friends of Jigger and whoever lives with him always call there at night...

THE most exciting event of the day happened in the forenoon. Mrs. Fenwick sent for me when I was out in the garden getting some flowers. "Leave everything and go at once to Miss Pegler's cottage," she said, and she was all "fluttery" like she gets when she's very excited.

"What's happened?" I asked, for not having heard a word from Dick, I felt it must concern him. "I can't tell you... I'm afraid the old lady has some bad news for you."

As I hurried along the private path to her cottage a thousand questions rose in my mind... but always the words of Miss Pegler's lawyer echoed in my ears. "If we can fix this matter in time, but I doubt it"... I'd wondered at the time what he meant... I wondered more now.

The maid showed me into Miss Pegler's boudoir... I was shocked at the old lady's appearance... it was only a few days since I'd seen her... now she looked shrunken and oh, so old... all her "up and coming" spirit crushed.

I hurried toward her. She took me in her arms. "Oh, my dear," she said, and her voice shook with emotion. "That I should ever live to see this day... it's Dick that I want to talk about," and the tears rolled down her cheeks. "He's not—" I began. "No, he's not dead, but he's fled the country... my lawyer has told me everything... helped to get him away... to keep him out of jail... to think that my brother's son should stoop so low!"

"Oh, Miss Pegler," I whispered... what else could I say?

WIPING away her tears, Miss Pegler said, "You may as well know the truth... perhaps I should have told you before; but I'm fond of my nephew and he felt a fresh start, things might have worked out all right."

"The trouble started when he was at college. He got in with a fast set... started gambling... my lawyer arranged the allowance from his father's estate and of course I gave him gifts from time to time... however, he was always in debt... then he met some crooks... counterfeiters... paid thirty dollars for a hundred dollars' worth of bogus money."

"Things went from bad to worse till he could not afford to buy any more of the counterfeit money, so the man made a deal with him and he was supposed to repay a certain percentage on every hundred dollars' worth of counterfeit money he disposed of... unfortunately he kept on gambling and got behind in his payments... that was really why he left New York so gladly (though I had no suspicion of it at the time). I'm keeping nothing back from you."

"I think you're very brave, Miss Pegler," I said. "Don't say that, my dear. But I must tell you the rest of this terrible story. Jigger, the man for whom Dick was working, had to take to cover and shortly after we arrived Dick ran across him here. After that he hounded him all the time... if only Dick had told me everything I would have helped him. However, a friend of his... a young designer—Roger, I believe he called him though I never knew his last name—warned him that Jigger's friend, Rocco, had planned to have him kidnaped as he was in desperate straits for money... oh, there are so many angles to the whole thing, that I could talk to you for long enough. I don't know if I can ever forgive myself for urging you to marry him... all I can do for you now, my dear, is to settle an income on you... and, though he is my nephew, and he doubt you loved him, there is only one thing to do—forget him."

"Oh, Miss Pegler, you mustn't think of giving me any money. You're not to blame at all. I hope is that Dick may yet make you proud of him."

WALKING home my spirits felt lighter than they had for many a day. In spite of my grief for the old lady and her troubles, my heart was singing... what she'd said about Rocco and Roger assured me Roger did not consider Rocco his friend, otherwise he would have aided and abetted him to kidnap Dick.

There were no trips to the village tonight... after the special dinner parties no one felt like dancing, so when I went upstairs I stopped for a minute in Tess' room, sampled some of the candy Jimmy had sent her... noticed some newspapers at the foot of her bed.

"Going to read all these tonight?" I asked. "No, I got a magazine from Big Kate... guess I'll read that. Take all the papers if you want them."

I did, and glanced at the headlines for I fear my knowledge of world affairs grows less and less daily, for our talk is usually restricted to local gossip supplied by Cal and the rest of the staff... I really feel perfectly acquainted with all the village celebrities.

Turned at once to The Crow's Nest when I reached my room. After reading a few issues of the paper began to wonder if Rocco pays the columnist for all the boasts he gives Angela's romance with Roger... wonder how Roger feels about these squibs... wonder if he registers any protests against the gossipier's barrage.

Tried to banish Roger from my thoughts... interpret some of the hints given in this column... Then I realized what Dick's tricks had done to me... my economic problems loomed before me... no wealthy marriage now would make things easy for me... what does Fate hold for me now?

FARMERS TEST OWN SOIL PLAN

TAMA, Ia., July 27 (UP)—The Corn belt is looking to Tama County, Ia., for the answer to the problem of what to offer farmers that will encourage the planting of soil conserving crops and revive interest in the old AAA program.

Local farmers received an opportunity to develop their own soil program after the AAA had challenged them to write a better plan than was conceived by Department of Agriculture officials.

Tama County farmers went to work under the direction of Robert Lyon after Washington officials had agreed to let them write their own program.

Lyon said that preliminary reports indicate 85 per cent of the county's farmers will participate in the experimental program while only 50 per cent of the land holders in other counties are taking part in the proposals outlined by the federal government.

Plan Stresses Simplicity Chief features of the Tama experimental plan are:

- 1. It invites wider participation. 2. It has been simplified and is much easier to understand. 3. Individual farms are classified and a soil conserving goal is established. Farmers unable to reach their goal are paid on the basis of their actual acreage planted in soil conserving crops.

Under the plan farmers are urged to make new seedlings so more soil conserving acreage will be available for the next year.

Two distinct disadvantages have already appeared. They are:

- 1. Farmers with few acres of soil conserving crops can qualify under the program. 2. Under the plan it is possible for a considerable shift in small grain acreage to take place.

In Tama County, for each 100 acres of crop land the goal is 37 acres in soil conserving crops.

Soil conserving crops have been divided into two classes—old and new. Old soil conserving crops are clover, alfalfa, and grasses seeded prior to Nov. 1, 1936. New seedlings are any legumes or grasses seeded after Nov. 1, 1936.

Basic rate of benefit payments for new seedlings is $5.75 an acre, which varies in accordance with the fertility of the land. Basic rate for old seedlings is $3.70 an acre.

A soil building allowance of $1 an acre is paid to encourage soil building practices such as seeding legumes and liming. Added to the allowance is 75 cents for each acre of plowable pastures or non-crop land which can be converted into production land without draining or clearing of timber.

Under the Tama plan compiling a soil depleting base or classification of soil depleting crops as they exist in the present A. A. A. program, has been dispensed with.

Keeping Cut Flowers Fresh Housekeepers generally will be grateful for the following suggestions in regard to keeping cut flowers fresh:

"Remember that flowers are living organisms and should never suffer a lack of moisture. Exposure to warm, dry air hastens wilting."

"It is much better to use flowers which have been cut and placed in water for a period of 6 to 12 hours for decoration or wear. Freshly cut flowers should not be kept out of water more than a few minutes. The best time for cutting flowers is early in the morning."

"Removal of a small portion of the end of the stems will freshen the water-absorbing surface of the flower stalks. Always use a sharp knife, and if possible cut the stem while holding it under water."

"Only a few flowers such as poinsettia, dahlia, and poppy respond to special treatment of the stem. Immersing the lower few inches of the flower stalk in hot water will add to the keeping quality. The same treatment is beneficial for any flower with wilted blooms and foliage. Keep the stem in hot water for a

'Name a Housewife' Contest Gets Judge
Dr. Charles Earl Funk, New York lexicographer and linguist, will judge entries in the West Texas Utilities Company's "Name-a-Housewife" contest.

"We have long felt that the word 'housewife' is a misnomer. It has been worn out by advertisers and has lost its value as a word describing the average woman in the average home. But there is no word that accurately applies to the woman who conducts her home economically and efficiently while at the same time developing herself intellectually and socially."

Human Nose Detects Very Faint Odors
An unbelievably faint amount of some odorous substance in the air or in water can be detected by the human nose. Experiments have demonstrated that the presence of one twenty-five-millionth of a drop of mercaptan, a liquid with a pungent garlic odor, can be perceived in a whiff of inhaled air, reports the American Institute of Sanitation.

In answer to a question as to recent material advances in China, Dr. Wang said: "The advance of China in the last 10 years in material ways has been outstanding. Now we have a little over 10,000 miles of railroads but we plan eventually to build 90,000 miles more for the whole country. Every mile of rail is laid down to render the greatest possible service to our people by means of improved highways acting as feeders for traffic on railways."

Although science has been able to learn little about the chemical composition of the substances that render public water supplies unpalatable, it has been able to combat them effectively. A remarkable substance, activated carbon, has been perfected, which like a magnet absorbs such tastes and odors making the water sparkling, sweet and palatable. Hundreds of cities throughout the country are now using activated carbon to keep the water supply potable and their taxpayers happy.

In answer to a question as to China's ideals, Dr. Wang said: "We are, in brief, seeking a position of freedom and equality among the nations of the earth. The ideal that we are carrying out on behalf of our great leader, Dr. Sun Yat-sen, in the Revolution of 1911, is to bring to China an alert but not aggressive sense of nationalism; a Democracy expressing itself through a Republic; and a common sense realization that the chief interest of the individual is livelihood. We are preparing to play our part in the future history of the world, and America is invited to understand that a Republic of four hundred and fifty million people in Asia, the Republics in North and South America and elsewhere, and the Democratic Monarchy of the British Empire, contain promise of future ages of peace through freedom granted to the self-reliant individual."

Plans Are Pushed For AAU Tourney

EASTLAND, July 27.—Approximately 25 mens' teams and 10 girls' teams of the 13 counties in this district will enter softball tournaments to be sponsored by the Amateur Softball Association of America in August at Eastland, Commissioner Earl Weathersby estimated Monday.

The girls' tournament will begin August 10 and the mens' tournament six days later.

Weathersby, who has made a partial trip over his territory in interest of the tournaments, said entries are practically certain for the mens' games from Mineral Wells (two teams), Elaville, Throckmorton, Breckenridge (two teams), Cisco, Ranger, Eastland, Albany, Coleman, Santa Anna, Baird, Comanche, De Leon and Carbon.

The winning male team goes to the state AAU tournament at Overton, Sept. 1-8. The girls' tournament winner will participate in the state meeting at Galveston August 26-28.

Weathersby said the mens' tournament games will probably be played at night as majority of the players work in the daytime.

15 Eastland Farmers To Short Course

At least fifteen Eastland county farmers will attend the annual Farmers Short Course at A. & M. College August 16 to 19th if plans materialize which are being made by Elmo V. Cook, County Agent.

Cook announces that arrangements have been made to take those farmers interested in a bus, the group camping in a private grove near College Station where lights, water and wood will be available.

Thirty farmers have signed for the trip, which will cost not more than $10.00 per head. If a majority of the group wishes, a side trip will be made to Galveston by the group the day after the Short Course, where bathing and fishing in the Gulf are available.

Farmers who attend the Short Course will have access to a simplified program dealing with livestock, fruits and vegetables, field crops and soil and farm business and organization. Special courses will be offered in dairy manufacture, cotton classing, leather making, and poultry. Tours will be made through the livestock farms, dairy, poultry farm horticultural farm experiment station, and State AAA office.

Those Eastland county farmers interested in enrolling for the Farmers Short Course are urged to see the County Agent.

Boys to Have A & M Project House

Eastland county boys who attend A. & M. College this next term have been assigned one of the fourteen new project houses which have just been completed, according to information received from Dr. Daniel H. Russell, Head Rural Sociology Department by Elmo V. Cook, County Agent. The house will have a capacity of thirty boys and will be available to those boys in the county who find it necessary to hold their college expenses to a minimum.

During the last school term 12 Eastland county boys occupied a project house in Bryan and realized a saving of half the expenses necessary for boys who live in dormitories even though they found it necessary to pay transportation to and from College Station each day. The new project house is located on the A. & M. College campus.

A meeting of all boys who wish to make application for enrollment in the project group will be held in the near future, all those interested are requested to file their names and addresses with the County Agent, Eastland, in order that they may be notified of the meeting date and place. A. & M. College Ex-Students of Eastland county are invited to send in names of boys whom they will recommend for enrollment in the project.
