Free Measles Immunization Shot Clinic To Be Thurs. A.M.

A free measles immunization shot clinic will be held at the Cisco High School Library Thursday morning beginning at 9:30. This clinic is sponsored by the Texas Department of Health with the cooperation of the Cisco Independent School District. It will be under the supervision of Dr. Rita Schlager, Cisco City Health Officer.

A nation wide epidemic of measles occurred in 1977 and 1978. There is evidence that another Texas measles epidemic may have begun. There are known epidemics in eight other states at this time. Many measles cases are occurring in the Junior High and High Schools of East Texas. Positive and vigorous steps should be taken to prevent a resurgence of measles in the state. The Texas Department of Health recommends immunization be received by the following:

(A) All who have not been immunized with live virus measles vaccine or cannot provide certification by a physician that they have been adequately immunized prior to that time.

(B) Those who were immunized against measles prior to the month which included their first birthday.

(C) In epidemic situation, it may be prudent to reimmunize any child originally immunized before 1970.

All persons who cannot readily provide a documented history of measles or of vaccination with live measles virus vaccine when more than 12 months of age should be vaccinated.

Cam Webb On A.S.U. Honor Roll

David Camel Webb of Cisco, a student attending Angelo State University in San Angelo, is listed on the Dean's Honor Roll for the Fall semester at the University.

Mr. Webb, a Business Major at ASU, is listed on the 3.50 to 4.00 Honor Roll.

Synthetic Suede Care "Knowhow"

Easy-care "knowhow" makes synthetic suede one of today's "main attractions" in fashion, says Nancy Brown, a clothing specialist. Suede look-alikes will machine wash and dry—and they boast resistance to wrinkling, shrinkage, spotting and fraying.

But be careful, she warns. Miss Brown is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

READ LABELS

Laundrying and drying instructions vary, so read care labels and follow instructions.

'DON'T SQUEEZE THE SUEDE'

When sudsing suede synthetics by hand, take care during the rinse not to squeeze or wring the items. To remove excess moisture, roll the garment in a towel. Lay it flat or hang it to dry.

TRAVEL CARE

Synthetic suede travels easily due to its wrinkle resistance. For touching up, iron it. Using a low-heat setting, press it on the wrong side and use a press cloth. Brush it lightly in one direction to restore the nap.

Cisco I.S.D. Tax Rendition Forms For 1979 Are Now Available At Tax Office

Rendition forms for the 1979 tax year are now available at the Cisco ISD tax office located at 610 Avenue D. State law requires that each local property owner render his or her property for each tax year between January 1 and April 1. Property to be rendered is both real property and personal property. Included in these categories are mobile homes which are considered real property if located on land owned by the mobile home owner, or as personal property if located on rented or leased land.

Renditions are not difficult to fill out and can usually be filled out in a few minutes. HOWEVER, it is important for each property owner to fill one out by April 1, 1979. If then the state law requires the School District tax assessor to place a fair market value on the property and place it on an unrendered roll.

While the property owner is at the tax office, he or she should ask about the $5,000.00 homestead exemption which the school district will grant to those qualifying for 1979.

If you have any questions concerning either the renditions or the homestead exemptions, please call 442-1299 or come by the school district tax office.

1978 A Year Of Weather Extremes

Like most other years in Texas, the year just ended contained its share of sudden fluctuations in the weather pattern. But 1978 is distinguished more for the large number of occurrences of rare weather extremes, according to a study recently completed by the Texas Department of Water Resources. The study cites a severe drought in the normally water-rich northeastern corner of the State and excessive rains that caused numerous floods in the western half of the State as two of many unusual features of the weather pattern that marks 1978 as one of the most bizarre years, weatherwise, of this century.

Many Texas residents, especially those in the central third of the State, will remember 1978 for the tragic impact of Tropical Storm Amelia. The storm's remnants had more of an effect on the lives of a sizable segment of the State's populace than any other single weather event of 1978. The 25 deaths and property losses in the hundreds of millions of dollars attributable to Amelia rank the storm in the same category as the great rainstorm of September 1921.

Although Amelia's flash-flooding rains stand as the most prominent highlight of the Texas weather scene during 1978, the study reveals numerous other highly unusual weather events.

The most severe drought since the infamous extreme drought of the 1950's that gripped northern North Central and East Texas for almost all of 1978.

The most severe flooding along the Upper Rio Grande since 1904, caused in part by near-record rains in the Trans-Pecos region of the State.

The coldest weather ever observed in parts of Texas during the year's first two months, when temperatures averaged as much as 13 degrees below normal in some areas.

One of the longest and most intense summer heat spells of the 20th century, which sent temperatures over 100 degrees for a 3-week period in July and contributed to medical authorities, to the deaths of 21 elderly residents of the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The snowiest winter in Texas weather annals in northern North Central and East Texas, where five snowstorms in January and February gave the area 2-month totals of 10 to 30 inches of snow.

An extraordinarily late snowstorm that left up to one foot of snow in early May in the Panhandle portion of the High Plains, and

The absence of disastrous tornadoes, although well over 100 "twisters" were sighted by Texans during the year.

A TDWR analysis of rainfall during the year shows that 1978 was noticeably drier-than-usual in nearly two-thirds of the State. Significantly below-normal rainfall was common in practically all of North Central and East Texas and the low Rolling Plains, while sizable portions of the High Plains, Edwards Plateau, South Central Texas, and the Upper Coast also experienced appreciable rainfall deficits. The driest weather statewide extended from the eastern Upper Coast region into East Texas, where annual totals were barely two-third of normal. In these sections, total amounts for the year ranged from 30 to 40 inches. Though Beaumont-Port Arthur's total of 34.78 inches would be plenty for the needs of most Texans, the year was the driest there in 14 years and the second driest since the drought of the 1950's.

Most areas within 150 miles of the Rio Grande fared much better than most of the remainder of Texas. The Trans-Pecos witnessed 1978 as one of the wettest years of this century; annual rainfall totals more than double the usual yearly amounts. At most points in the region, which had been seized by moderate drought during the first 7 months of 1978, nearly half of the yearly total fell during August and September. The 15 to 25 inches of rain collected in many localities was the most in any year since 1941. The northern and southern thirds of the High Plains also received greater-than-usual rainfall, although not to the degree as in the Trans-Pecos. Most of South Central and Southern Texas, as well as the Lower Valley, had a slightly wetter-than-usual year.

A sizeable portion of the Edwards Plateau, and very small parts of North Central and East Texas, also sustained slight rainfall surpluses.

Weather analysts reviewed rainfall reports filed throughout the year and found that, among the extremes in daily rainfall amounts measured during 1978, Albany collected on August 4 the most rainfall—29.05 inches—of any of Texas' 598 National Weather Service cooperative observing stations, when Tropical Storm Amelia's remains dumped torrents of rain on the western North Central Texas community. Too, Albany had the great monthly total rainfall—31.19 inches—of any Texas station. Another example of bizarre weather was the 12 to 15 inches of rain which fell in much of Guadalupe Mountain National Park in late September when Tropical Storm Paul moved inland into Mexico. Other heavy rains over short time periods cited by the study were: 1-day rains of 10 to 15 inches in areas that lay within Amelia's path across central portions of the State, including 15.20 inches at World's End Ranch (Edwards Plateau); 14.29 inches at Haskell (Low Rolling Plains); and 11.60 at Kerrville (Edwards Plateau); nearly 16 inches of rain at Victoria during a 3-day period in mid-September as a result of a tropical depression that moved inland from the Gulf of Mexico; and 10.79 inches at Refugio (South Central) on June 1. The study reports that, by contrast, from February 13 to May 20—or a period of 97 consecutive days—no measurable rain fell at Presidio (Trans-Pecos); Imperial (Trans-Pecos) was not far behind with the second longest string of dry-weather days—96.

Analysts emphasize, however, that while she is likely to be remembered as a killer storm that wrought unparalleled destruction in parts of central Texas, Tropical Storm Amelia played a significant role in reversing the drought situation in several areas of the State. By spilling the torrents of rain on a broad area of the parched Edwards Plateau in the first few days of August, the storm's remnants singlehandedly terminated a lengthy spell of severe drought that had plagued the region since late summer of 1977.

However, the storm expired before it could bestow enough rain to alleviate

Death Valley

Death Valley, a supposed barren desert in Southern California and Nevada is actually alive. It contains more than 230 kinds of birds, 17 kinds of lizards, 19 kinds of snakes, a multitude of insects and at least 1,000 wild burros. In addition, it is estimated that 22 different kinds of plants grow only in Death Valley.

In the early years of New Haven, Connecticut, the Puritan heritage meant strict laws. For example, a child over 16 years old could have been put to death for cursing a parent during that period.

New Horizons

By JANE FORREST
Q: I worked for many years, quitting at age 51. I thought I'd get good Social Security benefits when I reach 62, but now I hear that I'll get a pittance. I was not aware that Social Security benefits would depreciate. How can I lose money I've paid in?
A: You don't lose any of the benefits to which your years of working entitled you. However, inflation cuts into the purchasing power of the payments you will receive.

Latest figures indicate that you'd have to have $1,919 in 1977 dollars to buy what $1,000 would have bought in 1967.

The other factor which you must take into account is that the more you earn during your working years the higher your benefits will be. If you had kept working your salary would have gone up as your working skills improved, and inflation raises would have occurred too. Thus the salary base on which your benefits are computed would be higher, and the dollar payments would be larger. So, working until you were 62 would have provided you with higher benefits than you'll be getting based on your earnings up to age 51.

If you had started working when Social Security began and contributed the maximum each year, you would have paid $7,265.25, and your employer would have put in the same for a total of $14,531.50.

People n' Things

IF YOU GET over Big D way you'll want to go out to Fair Park and see "Pompeii A.D. 79". That's the recommendation of the Winston Heidenheimers. They were over there last week and saw the exhibit, which includes some 300 artifacts from the ruins of Pompeii—things uncovered since Mt. Vesuvius erupted there in the year 79 A.D. Understand the exhibit at the Dallas Museum will be there until about the middle of March. Admission is by ticket which you obtain free at the museum. When you get your ticket they give you the hour when you tour the museum. Mr. WH says groups of people usually can go through together and, perhaps, can obtain a starting time without going to the museum.

THE G.P. (Geep) Mitchams of our town got home last week after a delightful visit on the Island of Maui in Hawaii. They went there via a Boeing 747 jet to visit Geep's son, George, and family. George and his two sons enjoy swimming and snorkling and they had good luck in introducing Grandfather Geep to underwater exploring. It's great sport and very interesting, he reports.

Mrs. Geep enjoyed swimming every day and has an attractive sun tan. They report that the George Mitchams are doing nicely. George manages a large shopping center there.

THE EAST COAST country of Mexico is a delightful place to vacation when ice and snow covers Texas, reports Mr. Jim Cummings, local oil man. He spent a holiday vacation in the Cancun area and went as far south as Merida in the Yucatan country. He enjoyed seeing the Mayan Indian ruins and other historical sites in that region.

Jim, who grew up here, is the son of the late Mrs. Leta Mendenhall. He particularly liked Cancun with its white sand beaches and clear, blue water. He found hotels full of folks from the north country of the USA, from Europe and from South America.

Jim made the trip by air from Austin.

THE REV. DON McClenny was formally installed last Sunday as the pastor of the First Christian Church here. Dr. Harold Ray of Brite College, TCU, preached Sunday morning and conducted the installation service. Then, everyone gathered in Fellowship Hall for lunch.

Rev. McClenny and wife and daughter Colleen, a first grader, have moved to a home at 601 West 12th Street where they will live until work is finished on the church parsonage at 1107 West 6th St.—the house the church has purchased from Contractor Jim Webb. Mr. Webb has spent a good many months completely rebuilding the home.

The new pastor, you know, resigned a government job to go into the ministry here. They have two adult children—a son in the Air Force and a married daughter.

IT WASN'T TOO cold for three Cisco golfers to play at the local golf course last Sunday. Ralph Glenn, Bobby Smith and J. L. Stafford formed a threesome for 18 holes. And it was nice to hit the ball again after being away for a good while due to icy weather. They had the course to themselves. The temperature got up to around 30 during the afternoon.

The golf greens are brown due, probably to the prolonged freezing weather...Somebody drove a car on the No. 5 green with extensive damage resulting. City police believed they had tracked down the culprit yesterday. Hope so and that the penalty will be severe enough to make a lasting impression on the offender.

TELEVISION Ag Man Harry Holt was in town Tuesday to see about things at his stock farm south of Cisco. He told us that a calf had fallen in a hole that they cut in the ice on an earthen tank. The calf drowned and is still under ice—frozen solid.

Mr. Holt is a regular with farm and ranch news on Channel 9, Abilene.

He and wife are frequent visitors at their farm home here.

MR. J.D. Yardley told us the other day that his automatic car washing department had been closed since just before Jan. 1 due to icy weather. Some of the valves were damaged by freezing temperatures and had to be replaced...Hasn't S. Lopez moved from the Gulf station out on IH-20 to the Gulf station at Avenue D and 9th Street?...See Hardware Store Man Don Collins driving a brand new Ford automobile...The Ben Wilsons attended a travel trailer gatherings at Lake Brownwood last weekend and it was pretty cold over there, he reports.

Letters to the Editor

Editor: It is my intention, while in the House of Representatives, to write a column on issues which are timely. It will be a way of exchanging, with constituents of the 17th District, views on matters of mutual concern. If you should have any comment as to the length desired, please let me hear from you. Initially, we will attempt to keep the length to 45 lines of typed copy, which has been the practice of my predecessor in Congress, if this is acceptable. Also, if a glossy black and white photograph is needed, I will be glad to provide this for use with my column. I am looking forward to working closely with you on matters that will affect the 17th District. The media is an institution for which I have great respect, and hope we can together strive for sound legislative policies for the people of our area. With warm regards, I remain Sincerely yours,

"No one should be without a Tax-deferred retirement plan. Ours is at United Savings."

No matter what your age is, or your income level, or your lifestyle... you should have a retirement plan. And it should be "tax-deferred." That means you don't pay income tax on the money you set aside until you use it. By then, you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket than you are now. You benefit by 1) saving pre-tax dollars, and 2) earning considerable tax deferred dividends on your savings. It all adds up to a better future for you!

Ensor-Lebrede Vows Said at St. Rita's Church

Miss Ada Wynell Ensor of Eastland and John R. Lebrede of Ranger were united in marriage on January 10, 1979 at 8:30 p.m. in St. Rita's Catholic Church in Ranger. Rev. Robert L. Strittmatter officiated the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.B. Ensor, Sr. of Eastland. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Lebrede of Ranger.

The church was decorated with flower arrangements consisting of yellow gladiolas, blue and orange mums and greenery. Ferns complimented the altar and pew bows lined the front rows of the church. At the entrance of the church, two pew candles decorated in the chosen colors lit the way. Along the communion rail, altar, and sacred statues, greenery, votive candles, and brass candlebras enhanced the scene.

Mary F. Higginbotham played the organ. She played "We've Only Just Begun", "A Time For Us", "The Lord's Prayer," and the traditional bride march.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents Mr. and Mrs. W.B. Ensor, Sr. of Eastland. She wore a white floor length A-line bridal gown with an ivory lace bodice embroidered with pearl buttons over quiana and a high neckline with satin ribbon. The cuffs were ivory lace with pearl buttons and satin, and the chapel train hem was outlined with the ivory lace of rose. The veil was also outlined with the lace of roses, and the cap was lace covered with roses. The net overlay was worn over the face. She carried a bouquet of silk yellow and orange roses which made a cross in the center, surrounded by baby white mums and greenery with long orange, yellow, blue, and green streamers.

For something old the bride carried a lace covered Bible and wore her mother's family pearls. Something new was her dress, and something borrowed was her veil. Something blue was her garter, and for the penny in her shoe, she carried an old penny from her grandfather. Mrs. Yvonne Williamson of Morton Valley was the Matron of Honor, and Deborah Crabtree of Eastland was the Maid of Honor. Terri May also of Eastland served as the Bridesmaid. Their attire were identical except the Matron of Honor's dress was green, Maid of Honor's dress was yellow, and the Bridesmaid's dress was orange. The long flowing A-line style dresses were of quiana knit with spaghetti string straps. They wore high waisted fleece/velvet jackets. Coordinating with their color, their headpieces were combs with silk roses and long streamers with roses on the ends.

The Matron of Honor carried a bouquet of yellow silk flower with two orange and one yellow silk roses in the middle. Long yellow, orange, green and blue streamers made the bouquet complete. The maid of Honor carried a yellow long stem carnation with yellow ribbons and the Bridesmaid carried a orange long stem carnation with an orange ribbon. The flowergirl was Miss Sarah Bradford of Carrollton, niece of the groom. She wore a long blue dress with lace bodice and cuffs. Her headpiece was made up of two blue silk roses. She carried a white basket with pastel flower petals. All colors were pastels.

Bestman was Robert Shook of Breckenridge, and groomsmen were Danny McNabb of Ranger and Chuch Johnston also of Ranger. They wore black tuxs with the color of shirt matching the girl they walked with. Wilson Ensor, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer. He wore a blue suit. Candlelighters were Jay and Pat Rickey of Ranger. Mrs. Ensor wore a street length dress of pale green silk quiana. Mrs. Lebrede wore a street length dress of green and blue print, double knit.

A reception was held immediately following the wedding given by the bride's parents in St. Rita's Hall. Serving in the wedding party was Linda Knight, sister of the bride of Eastland, Mrs. Mary Ensor, sister-in-law of bride of Eastland, and Mrs. Melba Lebrede, sister-in-law of groom of Grand Prairie also served at the bride's table. Serving at the groom's table were Mrs. Martha Bradford, sister of the groom, of Carrollton and Mrs. Phyllis Lebrede, sister-in-law of groom of Hurst. Brenda Campbell, niece of the bride, registered the guests.

The bride's table was decorated with a white cover with a blue ruffle, and the bride's cake which was orange, yellow, and blue flowered was three tiered with the couple's top and had the bride and groom topping.

The groom's table was white covered with a yellow lace cloth. It held the silver serving set and the groom's cake was a sheet cake with a bride holding the groom's coat-tail topping, and with the lettering: "It's Too Late Now!"

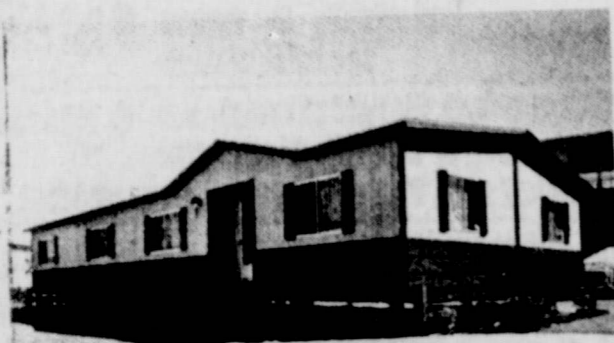

Catering the reception was Mrs. Joyce Eaves of Kokomo.

The bride chose a blue turtle neck cotton sweater with a white wide knitted overlay and high waisted denim pants. Her corsage was a matching blue carnation with a lily of the valley. After a skiing trip to Denver and Vail, Colorado, the couple will make their home at Colony Park Apts., Eastland.

Lights From
 The Christian World
 By Josephine Cleveland

A letter received this week from an American missionary friend who has lived in Taiwan for many years began with the statement, "It is rather difficult for me to sit down and write at this moment."
 He shared with me that the people all over the island were badly shaken. "The Sunday before Christmas many of the Taiwanese pastors had prepared messages suitable to the joyous observances of Christmas, but many of them suddenly felt messages of courage and hope found in the lasting logic of the Bible was the need of the hour."
 "They were troubled on every side, yet not distressed; Perplexed, but not in despair; Persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed; -- For their light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh in them a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory."
 The missionaries' thinking was that the confidences they held in the U.S.A. had been shattered. On the afternoon of the 28 of December the U.S. delegation arrived in Taipei. Crowds surrounded them and they were pelted with whatever they could find.
 The question uttermost in many of the Taiwanese was, "Why were they told that nothing would be done to harm the people? If this is what Congress and the people wanted, could not our President have waited until Congress had a choice in the decision, the decision to recognize Communist China instead of the China nationalist government. This was done behind closed doors. Why?"

 The missionary had served on the mainland of China when the Communist regime took control of China. He and his family had been forced to flee from the Communist oppression. Now for a second time this Christian missionary was finding it difficult to reconcile himself to another possible Communist takeover.
 His letter closes with, "Much prayer is needed now and in the future for this country and also for the propagation of the good news of Jesus Christ. Doors are still wide open but things are touchy and they can close tightly very suddenly."
 The missionary's letter is only one of the many voices sounding out opinions on the recent China-U.S. policy. Christians have this hope, "There is hope of a tree, if cut down, that it will sprout again."
 After all, as author Eric Sloane said, "A Spirit is that

Peanut Growers Agree That Increases in 1979 Levels Necessary

According to Cecil Self of Gorman, Texas, peanut growers from Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico meet-

RANGER TIMES EASTLAND TELEGRAM CISCO PRESS
Ranger, Texas Eastland, Texas Cisco, Texas
Thursday, January 18, 1979

ing in Arlington, Texas on January 11 unanimously agreed that increases in the 1979 levels for quota peanuts as well as increased prices for the production of contract additional peanuts will be necessary to insure peanut production needed to supply estimated markets in 1979.

For the 1978 crop USDA supported quota peanuts at a national average level of $420 per ton rate. Southwest shellers generally contracted with growers for production of additional peanuts for export at prices approximating 95 percent of the quota support level, or about $400 per ton. Additional peanuts is that part of the production over the farm poundage quota but within the farm allotment.

Growers attending the Arlington session reviewed updated production costs tables prepared recently by extension specialists from Texas A&M and Oklahoma State University reflecting a continued of the price-cost squeeze resulting from rapidly increasing peanut production costs.

The group also examined U.S. Department of Agriculture statistics showing a 11 percent increase in prices paid by farmers for production items in 1978 compared to a year earlier.

The group including directors of the New Mexico Peanut Growers Association, Oklahoma Peanut Commission, Oklahoma Peanut Growers Association, Southwest Peanut Growers Association and Texas Peanut Producers Board, concluded that production cost data reviewed justify an increase in both the quota support and contract additional price rates equal to the increase in the index of prices paid by farmers. Individual peanut growers should therefore carefully examine their own operations in determining whether to produce additional contract peanuts in 1979, Self said.

The group voted unanimously to recommend that growers who contract their additional production to shellers in 1979 not obligate themselves to deliver their quota peanuts to the shellers as a condition of the sale of the additional peanuts. Self pointed out that conditions may arise during the marketing season that would increase the price of quota peanuts and if so, the grower should be in a position to take advantage of any advance in the farmers stock peanut market.

Self said that if shellers fail to increase the 1979 contract price for additional peanuts the tonnage of such peanuts produced by growers will, in all likelihood, be substantially curtailed.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texas lawmakers, in their first week on the job, waded through rules and committee appointment preliminaries—and heard outgoing Gov. Dolph Briscoe recommend a $1 billion tax cut. What they were really interested in, however, was the message they would get later after new Republican Gov. Bill Clements' inauguration January 16.

Briscoe handed lawmakers in joint session a $19.8 billion proposed budget for 1980-81. The legislators already had the Legislative Budget Board version of the new budget—a billion dollars higher—or $20.8 billion. Hearings were scheduled to begin on it this week.

Clements, like Briscoe, also will push for a tax cut in the neighborhood of $1 billion.

Both also urged legislators to adopt a constitutional amendment to allow Texans to initiate or veto major tax legislation.

Li. Gov. Bill Hobby, moving out the first day of the 66th session, named a full roster of standing committees which process legislation.

The budget-writing finance committee is headed by Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene. Hobby switched Sen. A. R. "Babe" Schwartz from chairmanship of jurisprudence to natural resources, and named Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls chairman of jurisprudence. The latter committee will hold hearings on the controversial initiative and referendum legislation.

Senate Opens Up
In a surprise move, the Texas Senate voted to alter drastically its historic rule permitting secret sessions to consider appointments by the governor.

Senators voted 18-13 for a rules amendment by Sen.

Schwartz to abolish a directive that the appointments be debated behind closed doors. Actually, they went along with Schwartz a decade ago and permitted suspension of the closed session rule by majority vote. They have frequently suspended the rule and gone into open consideration of nominations.

Schwartz has been pushing for 18 years to get rid of all closed sessions.

OBSERVATIONS FROM...

The River Road

BY VIOLA M. PAYNE

The fact that I grow introspective around the First of every year is probably just another sign of aging. But this time I have been mulling over a recurring question: What is my standard of ethics in journalism? Furthermore, is it valid, and high enough?

I don't have to go far to realize there is a lack of journalistic values among some professionals. It is too bad that having talent and being clever does not automatically instill virtue in a writer. Without even approaching the Pandora's box of Television and Motion Picture writing, I can find some sad examples. Every time I go near a newsstand I am confronted with many writers who inhabit the so-called "popular" magazines, or the newspaper-type pulps, which assert they are reporting facts. And the titles-which are sometimes misleading-set forth their wares.

A quick glance reveals several types of writers-one group I call the "buzzards," because they spend their time picking over the last bit of flesh from dead people, hunting a juicy (and rotten) morsel. Almost in the same class are writers who pick the bones of dead stories about living people, producing the constant crop of "Jackie", Elizabeth Taylor, and Farah Fawcett-Majors stories. Fortunately they finally gave up on the "Sonny and Cher" affair, although Henry Winkler and John Travolta are in line to take their places.

Then there are the writers who have absolutely nothing interesting to say about someone, so they prop and contrive a story, such as: "The other man in Ann-Margaret's life!" (Her father). Or, "Farah's Baby Plans". (The poor girl hopes to have a child someday, ten years hence, you learn). These articles, and titles, can be carried to absurd lengths, but they all have the flavor of death warmed over.

There are writers who spend their time in the outhouses of human existence, and there are writers who have an eye only for the bedroom. Surely both of these give a distorted view of life. If you don't believe so, pick up some of the latest "confession" magazines, and see where teen-agers are getting information about the relationships between men and women. Professional writers know that these stories are not true - but are usually contrived things meant simply to sell. But all readers don't know this. Or how about the once home-maker-oriented "women's" magazines? A situation referred to as "an active sex life" is the name of the game there too. A translation would read: "Sex-oriented behavior without responsibility."

The ultimate horror of poor and perverted writing is that people actually buy and read the material, and absorb some of the essence of it into their own brains. That is why anyone who has a talent for writing should realize what a powerful force he has, and how - in all humility - it should be used for the good of society. For people pass on, and civilizations crumble, but words written with truth endure.

Since time has a curious way of revealing what is truth, each writer should consider what he is trying to say. Then, is it informative, or helpful? Is it kind? I still cling to the validity of the law of kindness - it's the only answer I know the cynical and biting type of journalism sometimes encountered. But then - old truths and ideas must be handled in a fresh and creative manner. The writing style of 1959 simply will not interest the readers of the compelling year of 1979. Writers, like persons in all areas of life, must learn, change, and grow - or die. But that is the ultimate challenge of writing - the endless search, the eternal quest, the work which can never be finished in this life. So may all talented journalists accept the challenge of writing to uplift, rather than degrade, humanity.

SAFETY

TAKE THESE STEPS FOR CPRI

Place Victim Flat On His Back On A Hard Surface. IF UNCONSCIOUS, open airway, lift up neck, push forehead back, clear out mouth if necessary, observe for breathing.

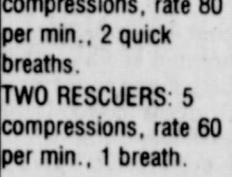

IF NOT BREATHING, begin artificial breathing, 4 quick full breaths.

CHECK CAROTID PULSE. If pulse absent, begin artificial circulation.

Depress Sternum 1 1/2" to 2". ONE RESCUER: 15 compressions, rate 80 per min., 2 quick breaths. TWO RESCUERS: 5 compressions, rate 60 per min., 1 breath.

Continue uninterrupted until advanced life support is available.

Specific immunization requirements in Texas depend on a person's age, as follows:

Five to 11 years old
 Polio—at least three doses of oral vaccine, provided one or more doses were given since the fourth birthday
 Diphtheria-tetanus-pertussis—minimum of three doses of vaccine, one of which must be after age four Rubella—one dose

Measles—one dose after the first birthday or a history of measles illness

As many youngsters who had measles before age one later contract the disease anyway, a booster shot is needed. Starting at age seven, the pertussis (whooping cough) vaccine is not required

Mumps—Beginning in the 1979-80 school year, children will need either a mumps vaccine or a history of mumps illness. Presently there is a vaccine available, although it is not required

Twelve years and older
 Polio—at least three doses of oral vaccine up to age 16

TODAY'S ANSWER

Facts from a pro on driving to survive.

Q. Is it important to pay attention to any unusual sounds your car might suddenly make? What kinds of sounds should I listen for?—H.T., Austin.

A. It is definitely important to listen to the sounds your car makes, from both a safety and a money-savings (preventive maintenance) point of view. Next month, this column will begin a series which will explore this subject further. But for right now, listen for squealing when braking. It might mean your brakes need relining. Or, for disc brakes, a very unusual squealing might indicate a problem. If the car squeals as you turn the steering wheel, it might be wise to check the steering belt. Both of these reasons for "squealing" could signal dangerous repair needs. And especially during winter months, listen for an uneven rumbling in your exhaust system. A hole in your muffler or tailpipe could cause carbon monoxide poisoning.

Q. We are always hearing about how far we should or should not follow the car in front of us? What do you say?—Worried, Houston.

A. A standard answer is at least one car length for every 10 miles per hour. Recently, a major oil company has promoted the "two second rule"—which means you should allow a two second interval between your car and the car ahead of you. Select an object on the roadside and count the time it takes you to reach it after the car ahead of you has reached it. "One thousand and one, one thousand and two." If you reach the object before "one thousand and two" you are definitely following too closely. Alright for ideal conditions. At night or in bad weather, you should obviously allow more distance.

LITTLE KNOWN FACTS
Age is a factor in getting common colds. Children between two and six usually get more colds, have them longer and develop more complications than older youngsters. After the age of six, the frequency and severity of colds lessen.

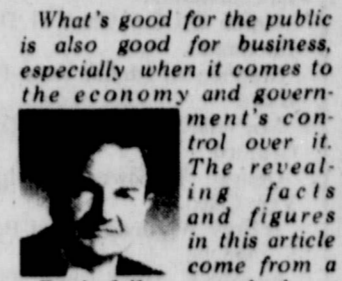

Although many believe colds result from exposure to cold weather or chilling, some studies suggest that the association with cold weather is probably due to children crowding together indoors at this time, causing more efficient transmission of cold viruses from child to child.

Many children want to get out of the house at the first sign of snow. That's when you should attire them snugly in lined, water-repellent snow coats from Mothercare, retailing specialist for mothers-to-be, babies and children under five. These blue, quilted coats are machine washable, too.

House and apartments that are kept too hot and dry during winter parch the nose and throat. Experts believe this may lower resistance to germs. The right way to keep enough moisture in the air in winter is to keep room temperature down to about 70° F.

FACTS AND FIGURES

Rockefeller is also good for business, especially when it comes to the economy and government's control over it. The revealing facts and figures in this article come from a speech by a well-informed businessman, David Rockefeller, chairman of The Chase Manhattan Bank.

Our cost in 1977 for government regulation at all levels came to an estimated $100 billion last year. That's about $470 for you and every other person living in the United States.

In the past three years alone, the government debt has grown by nearly half the amount accrued during the first two hundred years of the Republic.

During this decade alone, budgets for Federal regulatory agencies have increased over 500 percent.

Government commands approximately 40 percent of our nation's income: 40 cents of every dollar each of us earns—nearly 50 percent more than a generation ago.

The price business paid for government regulation last year resulted in a potential loss of 200,000 American jobs.

California's Proposition 13 demonstrated that people are coming to feel that much of the protection derived from government regulation and many of the services provided through government spending are simply not worth their rising costs.

Businesses, too, are increasingly beset by the rising costs of big government. As government regulation and reporting increase their costs, they are forced to increase the prices you pay for their products.

Each year, business spends roughly $85 billion to comply with confusing and often conflicting regulation. Twenty-five billion dollars of this goes just for the paperwork generated through government reporting requirements.

But today, many taxpayers and businesses are finding that government, rather than serving as a catalyst for free enterprise and individual liberty, is increasingly acting as a roadblock.

Government regulations—particularly those affecting health and safety—are often necessary and proper. But the question each of us must ask is "At what cost?" Consumers, after all, are the ones who pay the costs that regulations bring about.

Government regulations are costing business nearly three quarters of their annual private investment in plant and equipment and discouraging investment. Yet business investment and growth is what creates jobs and incomes for millions and millions of Americans.

The future livelihood and prosperity of business and the taxpaying public are closely entwined. Profitable businesses contribute to creating jobs, lowering taxes, and a slowing down of inflationary pressures.

Petitioning the government, or lobbying, is not only a first amendment right, it is a first order responsibility of all Americans.

Gradually, most Americans are coming to realize that when business lobbies for legislation, it is not "special interest" lobbying, but rather "public interest" lobbying.

Texas Oil & Gas ...

Industry Spends Billions To Protect Environment

By H.B. (Hank) Harkins, President, Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association

The U.S. petroleum industry, operating in Texas and other producing and processing states, is very much involved in protecting the environment. Its commitment to this purpose calls for the expenditure of a significant amount of money.

In 1977, the industry nationwide spent in excess of $2.5-billion on environmental protection. That contrasts with approximately $11.6-billion in net income for the nation's 18 largest integrated oil companies during the same year. And it represents an increase of more than $147-million over similar expenditures in 1976.

Environmentalism in recent years has become an emotionally-charged political, social, and economic issue. But, the outlay of private capital by oil and gas producers and processors to protect the environment has been going on for a long time. Environmental protection expenditures by the U.S. petroleum industry during the 1968-76 decade tallied some $13.4-billion.

However, despite these expenditures, bureaucracies armed with an ever-increasing array of environmental regulations continue to confront the industry. Producers and processors now must respond to numerous federal statutes with particularly far-reaching effects. These include the Clean Air Act and its 1977 amendments and the Water Pollution Control Act and its 1972 amendments. Many of the regulations coming from these laws are unnecessary, particularly here in Texas. They amount to regulatory overkill.

Example: The Environmental Protection Agency has issued regulations that threaten injection operations in which water and other fluids are pumped underground to increase petroleum recovery. These regulations are unneeded in producing states, such as Texas, which have long histories of successful regulation of such operations.

Example: The EPA also has proposed that vapor controls be placed on storage tanks with a capacity of 952 barrels or more. The industry operating in Texas already is installing such controls on large tanks in populous areas. But, such a requirement on nearly all tanks in all locations, however remote, is going to cost more than it is worth.

Example: The Texas Parks & Wildlife Department wants oils and greases discharged with produced brine into the state's waters limited to a level that industry spokesmen are convinced cannot be achieved. Oilmen ask instead for regulations adequate to protect marine life in onshore and offshore waters, yet not so restrictive as to hamstring the production of oil and gas.

This country needs legislation that will provide for reasonable environmental conservation and protection, yet not put an end to business activity—including energy development.

Stenholm To Try And Extend S.S. Act Amendment

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm announces that one of his first actions in the 96th Congress will be to introduce legislation to extend the so-called "Burlinson Amendment" to the Social Security Act, which expired December 31, 1978. The current law expired when the 95th Congress, in its final days, failed to conclude action on the Medicare Amendment legislation which contained a provision to make permanent the Burlinson Amendment, originally designed to aid rural hospitals in meeting Medicare requirements for nursing staff.

Congressman Stenholm will push for early passage of this legislation which he feels is vital to rural area hospitals. The newly elected Congressman hopes to continue the leadership of his predecessor in the area of rural health care.
