

BETTY RITCHIE

Betty Ritchie To Conduct Art Workshop In Cisco

Betty Ritchie, known throughout the southwest for her western and hill country art, will conduct a three one-day workshop Thursday, Friday and Saturday, January 8, 9 and 10th in Cisco.

Mrs. Ritchie is also known for her ability to teach her students how to paint. Every student, whether beginner or advanced, takes home a completed 18x24 painting by the end of the day long workshop. The workshops are open to anyone who is interested, but space is limited and reservations must be made in advance, call 442-1251.

During her three days in Cisco, Mrs. Ritchie will have some of her western art on display at The Frame Makers, 112 West 6th, Cisco.

Senior Citizen's Nutrition Menu

During the year of 1980, over 675 individuals participated in the Senior Center program, according to Ruth Cartee, director.

"It has been a very successful year, and with the Eastland program we will be expecting even greater things for the 1981 year," stated Mrs. Cartee.

The total number of volunteers exceeded expectations and the general interest in the program has been tremendous.

"We are hoping," stated Mrs. Cartee, "that our outreach into the community, among those who are 60 years of age or older, will be even better than for the past year. The fellowship among this age level is badly needed and the purpose of the Senior Center is to meet that need."

"If you know of anyone who is eligible for the program please call the Senior Center, 442-2263, and we will invite the person, or persons, and get them involved in the activities of the Center," stated Mrs. Cartee.

The programs during the past week were varied: 15 young people from the East Cisco Baptist Church, under the direction of the minister, Rev. Arno Bentley, presented a puppet show entitled "Mary Had a Little Lamb." The program was presented in a professional manner and the community is fortunate for such talent.

Another item on the program was that of Janet Thomas, Eastland County Home Demonstration Agent, speaking about the subject of "A Healthy Body for an Older Adult."

Guy Sullivan, a Cisco policeman, provided a very interesting program in regard to "Laws That Senior Citizens Should Note." Leah Brown, Vida Kilfion and A.E. McNeely furnished the dinner music.

The menus for the week are: Monday: macaroni with beef, spinach, pear and

Writer's Club To Hold January Meet

The Cisco Writer's Club will hold its January meeting Tuesday evening, January 6, at 7:00 at the Chamber of Commerce Meeting Room in Cisco. Bill Roberts, president, will lead out with the program.

Members and guests are asked to bring manuscripts to be read and discussed during the meeting. All interested persons are invited to attend.

After seven years, Abel had been exchanged for American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers; Abel returned to Moscow, leaving behind him in the U.S. a reputation as the most outstanding secret agent of the 20th Century.

Both sides seemed to be satisfied with the trade-off. Soviet propaganda trumpeted how courageously Abel had behaved in prison, refusing to reveal anything except his real name. The Americans were proud of having captured such a famous spy and uncovering his real identity. One former chief of American intelligence told French television viewers how happy he would have been if he could have had men like Abel working for him.

And now this short, bald man appeared before us. In a dull voice he told us nothing more than we had already read in the newspapers. We listened and applauded politely; the chairman of the meeting said: "Thank you, Comrade Abel."

Monday night's meeting is an especially important one as material concerning the club's by-laws and affiliation with the National Rifle Association will be discussed. Club secretary Ira G. Straun urges every member to be present if at all possible.

Wednesday: chopped steak with gravy, cream potatoes, green beans, banana pudding, bread, butter and drink.

Cisco Public Schools Will Open New Year Monday

It will be business as usual when the Cisco Public Schools resume classes Monday after the Christmas holidays, Supt. James Couch reported Friday. The buses will run and classes will meet on regular schedule, he added.

Basketball opened the new year Friday as Coleman's Bluecats came to town to play the Lobos. Cisco's girls divided a doubleheader with Brownwood teams here Tuesday night as the final event of 1980. The junior varsity lost the first game and the Lobo varsity won the main event.

Mr. Couch said the first semester will end Jan. 16th, and the second semester will begin Jan. 19th.

"How the U.S. Was Faked Out by Moscow's Finest Spy" by Ilya Garol

Soviet master spy 'Abel' was so good that he wasn't really Abel.

Just before Christmas 1971, Moscow journalists were summoned to an official briefing; the famous Soviet spy Colonel Rudolf Abel was to speak with us, the same Abel who had been arrested in the U.S. and sentenced to 30 years in prison.

After seven years, Abel had been exchanged for American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers; Abel returned to Moscow, leaving behind him in the U.S. a reputation as the most outstanding secret agent of the 20th Century.

Both sides seemed to be satisfied with the trade-off. Soviet propaganda trumpeted how courageously Abel had behaved in prison, refusing to reveal anything except his real name. CofC To Elect Officers, Plan Work Program For New Year

The Cisco Chamber of Commerce will install seven new directors, elect new officers, and begin studying a plan of work for 1981 at a luncheon meeting Tuesday noon at the White Elephant Restaurant. Retiring President Roy Dennis will preside.

The major CofC program project for 1981 is expected to be taking a leading role in the observance of the City of Cisco's 100th birthday. Working has already been started on the centennial event.

The seven new directors who will begin two-year terms at the Tuesday meeting are Brad Kimbrough, Barbara Pope, Elaine Dixon, Gene Gwinn, Frank Barrett, Dr. Norman Wallace and Eris Ritchie.

Hold-over members of the board include Dick Woolley, Gerald Winnett, Billy Wright, Bob Ford, Ronnie Ledbetter, Robert Dudley, Steve Cozart and Joe Wheatley.

Serving as officers during 1980 were Roy Dennis, president; Ronnie Ledbetter, Elaine Dixon and Gerald Winnett, vice presidents.

Directors whose terms expired at the end of 1980 were Mr. Dennis, Eddie McMillan, Bobby Smith and Clois Purvis.

Manager Gene Abbott reported that the board would give priority to plans for the annual CofC banquet at the planning session. The dinner is slated for January 22nd at the Cisco Junior College agriculture building. Theme of the event will be "Education in Cisco," and Dr. Norman Wallace of CJC and James Couch of the Cisco Public Schools are assisting in arranging the program.

"We have a good year coming up with our Centennial program," Mr. Abbott said. "Community-wide participation will be important in making this the kind of success that we all want it to be."

Fellowship Of Christian Women To Meet Jan. 10

The Fellowship of Christian Women of Cisco will have their regular monthly salad luncheon this coming Saturday, January 10, at 12 noon at 309 West 6th. This is a group of Christian women who meet to share and fellowship. It is non-denominational and all local and area women are invited and encouraged to attend. The FWCW library of books and tapes will be available to those present.

Mrs. Judson (Rosalyn) Shields of Abilene will be coming to share. Mrs. Shields is director of Kenley School in Abilene; a school for children who have learning disabilities. She is a member of the National Society for Autistic Children as well as the Texas Society for Autistic Children. Her husband is a vice president of First State Bank, Abilene, and they are the parents of two children, Chris, 11 years old and Lynly, eight years old. She is a graduate of Abilene Christian University and attends Highland Park Church of Christ in Abilene. She has spoken to the Christian Women Club, Abilene, and other clubs also; and in September she spoke at Latt Lodge in Kerrville. Mrs. Shields will be sharing with the ladies about her experiences and her work with autistic children.

A nursery will be provided at the Cisco Child Care Center from 11:45 a.m. until 2:00 p.m. for those mothers who have need of one.

For further information and to make reservations please call Ilene Cotton at 442-2565 no later than Friday noon, January 9. All local and area women are cordially invited to attend.

Battery Theft Reported Here

The Cisco Police Department was investigating the theft of three batteries from trucks owned by S&S Ice Company, 110 East 5th Street, Friday. The batteries were reported to have been taken from parked vehicles since Monday.

Two drivers were arrested New Year's Day and charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicants, police records showed.

Pleasant Hill Homemakers Club Holds Party

The Pleasant Hill Extension Homemakers Club held their annual family Christmas party at the Nimrod Clubhouse.

A turkey and dressing dinner with all the trimmings was served to some 60 people. After dinner Santa Claus paid a visit with lots of goodies for the children. The adults had fun playing a game involving the exchanging of gifts.

Bob Keyes then led the group in singing Christmas carols.

The club has two family gatherings a year, one in August (the family picnic) and the Christmas party. These parties are always enjoyed by everyone.

News From The Center

By Mae Green

Thanks so very much to the ministers, their churches, the teachers, the musicians, the singers, the clubs, the Sunday classes and the individuals who have brought a variety of services to our home this past year. It was really a good year.

Your visits meant so much to residents. You helped to cheer saddened hearts, and encouraged some who were ready to give up. You'll never know how much you've helped.

Thanks so much to our volunteer council. You did a wonderful job this past year. We're hoping to see all of you at the Center during this year. God bless all of you. I'm hoping that all of you have a happy new year.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Thiber-ville of 1003 Pershing, Cisco, became the parents of a son weighing seven pounds and six ounces at 6:44 a.m. Tuesday, December 31, at the E.L. Graham Memorial Hospital here. The little boy was named Justin Wallace, and he and his mother were reported to be doing nicely. They were expected to be dismissed from the hospital Friday. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Holdridge of Cisco and A.J. Thiber-ville of Houston.

State Redistricting Major Changes Due

Radical changes in the makeup of the Texas congressional delegation and the state legislature are expected to come out of the required redistricting next year.

The State Legislature will try to redraw district lines during the regular session which ends in June of 1981.

The changes in population in Texas make major shifts in voting districts almost certain.

For example, Texas is expected to gain three congressmen for a total of 27.

Texas has grown to almost 14 million population, the Census Bureau estimates. A final Census Bureau count will be used for drawing new districts which are required to be equal in population.

The new congressional delegation is expected to include at least two more Republicans and possibly three. Now there are five Republicans in the Texas 24-member congressional delegation.

New congressmen will be added in Houston, its suburbs and the suburbs around Fort Worth and Dallas.

Other congressional districts very likely will be redrawn significantly.

The State Senate will be changed even more, unless the size of the Senate is increased from its present 31.

The shift in State Senate districts will be from rural to urban with additional representation going to the Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth and Rio Grande Valley areas.

The number of Republican Senate members will probably increase from seven to eight.

There should be two Black state senators, one from Houston and one from Dallas. There are none now.

In the State House the number of Republicans will grow from 37 to at least 46 and maybe as many as 60.

There is a total of 150 House members now.

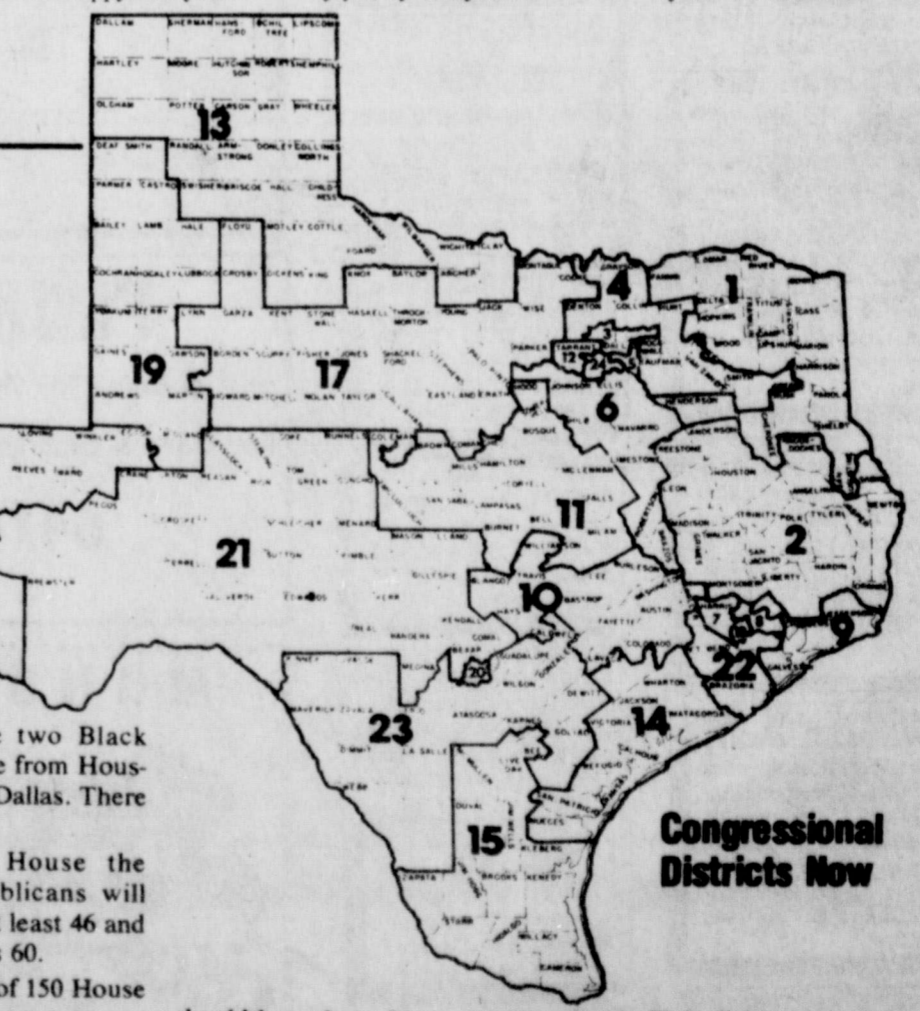

The number of Black House members in the 1983 session should be at least 25 and the number of Mexican-Americans should be at least 26.

In each of the levels of representation, the number of congressional, senate and state house members from rural areas will decline.

West Texas, whose population has not kept pace with the tremendous increase in the state, will be hurt the worst.

Beer, Wine Ad In Error

No, there is no beer or wine for sale at super markets in Eastland or Cisco.

An advertisement to the contrary was a printing mistake in a Thrift Mart supplement to this newspaper in the Sunday edition.

The supplements are printed in a large central plant in Dallas which prints newspaper supplements for Affiliated Food Stores throughout the state, and the block of copy advertising beer and wine should have been taken out of those printed for the Eastland Cisco stores.

The Thrift Mart owners and managers apologize to the public for any confusion that the printing error may have caused.

Homemaking Hints

By Janet Thomas

An expanded 10th annual Natural Fibers Fashion Review is being planned for the 1981 Southwest Farm Show. The fashion contest and show will be held on March 7 in Fort Worth.

The contest is open to any homemaker from the Southwest Farm Show states of Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico who is involved in agricultural production or an agriculture-related business.

The Fashion Review is designed to promote the use of natural fibers produced in the Southwest and to emphasize excellence in garment construction and fashion in home sewing.

Garments entered in the show must be made of a minimum blend of 50% cotton or 50% wool and/or mohair.

The competition will have four divisions: day wear, evening wear, mother and child, and former grand award winners. The mother and child division and former grand award winners division are new this year. The contest is being expanded to provide better showcase for exhibiting designs made from fibers and to attract more contestants.

Prizes will be awarded first, second, and third place winners in each division. The Grand Award winner will be selected from the winners of the mother and child, day wear, and evening wear divisions.

Sponsors of the event include the Southwest Hardware and Implement Association and Progressive Farmer. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is coordinating and managing the contest and review with assistance from the Oklahoma and New Mexico Cooperative Extension Services.

Still Time To Sign Up For Medical Care Under Medicare

People who failed to sign up for medical insurance under Medicare, or who once had Entries must be submitted by February 20, 1981. Contest rules and entry blanks may be obtained from the Eastland County Extension Service Office or by contacting Mrs. Janet Thomas at 629-2222.

RECIPE FOR THE WEEK

The holidays are over and probably you are a few pounds heavier from all the sweet goodies. If one of your New Year's Resolutions is to shed those extra pounds, you might like to try this recipe.

MARINATED CARROTS

5 cups sliced carrots
1 can tomato soup
1 small green pepper, optional
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup salad oil
1 medium onion
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Cook carrots until tender. Drain and cool. Cut onions and peppers in round slices. Mix with the carrots. Cover with remaining ingredients and marinate at least 1 1/2 hours or overnight. Serves 10.

this protection but dropped it, will have a change to obtain medical insurance during the 1981 general enrollment period, January through March.

4-Hers To Attend Retreat

Several area Eastland County 4-Hers are expected to attend the annual Teen Leader Retreat in Brownwood on January 9, 10, and 11. Robin White, Rhonda Little, Leanne Brown, Patri Spurlen and Shirley Kidd from Eastland 4-H will be participating as well as Jami Long from Rising Star 4-H. Pam White, adult leader from Eastland 4-H, will accompany the 4-Hers to Brownwood.

The title of the workshop is "In Charge". It will focus on leadership being as important as degrees and job skills in today's work world. This workshop will help older 4-Hers understand why leadership is so important, why colleges are looking for leadership in college applicants, tips on improving leadership skills, and ten major factors influencing leadership in career positions. The workshop will also feature fun, food and friendship.

For more information about 4-H in Eastland County, please contact Donna White at the County Extension Office in Eastland at district manager in Abilene, said recently.

Medical insurance is that part of Medicare that helps pay for doctor bills, outpatient hospital services, and many other medical items and services not covered under hospital insurance.

Protection for people who sign up during the general enrollment period will start July 1, 1981.

Medical insurance is financed by premiums paid by those enrolled and the Federal Government from general revenues. Presently the Federal Government pays more than two-thirds of the cost.

People who sign up during a general enrollment period may pay a higher premium, Hammons said. This is because the premium is increased by 10 percent for each full year a person could have had this protection but did not.

More information about the medical insurance general enrollment period can be obtained at the Abilene social security office located at 142 S. Pioneer. The telephone number is 698-1360 for those in Abilene and toll free number, 1-800-392-1603 if you live outside of Abilene.

Adult Learners Educational Opportunities

The second semester of the adult education classes will begin with enrollment on January 5, 1981, and registration will continue until all classes are filled.

Classes will be held each Monday and Thursday evening 6:00 to 8:30 p.m. at the Eastland High School Building Room 102.

There will be no charge to students and for further information call 629-8221.

Convenient Times, Places

Adult education classes are held in a variety of locations—public school buildings, neighborhood activity centers, churches, older adult centers, libraries, community or junior colleges, hospitals, military bases, and even places of employment. Often, classes are provided in facilities called adult learning centers. Staff members at learning centers provide individualized instruction to meet the unique needs of adults who function on different instructional levels.

Since adult students often have numerous home and job related responsibilities, adult education programs try to make it easy for the students to fit their classes into an already tight schedule. Learning centers operate on flexible day and evening schedules that allow students to study when it is convenient for them. Students who have transportation or child care needs can usually be referred to an appropriate source for assistance. Teachers, counselors, and aides at the learning centers work with students individually and in small groups.

Adult education classes may also be arranged to meet work schedules of participants. If an industry or business would like to offer adult education classes to its employees, arrangements may be made to schedule classes at the work site. Some employers provide

Adult Education Programs

Several types of adult education programs may be offered.

Adult Basic Education is designed for persons who would like to learn to read and write or improve their basic academic skills. The class helps the students learn reading, writing, and math skills through the eighth grade level. After completing basic education programs, students are able to read the daily newspaper and popular magazines, handle their family finances better, and often show improved performance in their jobs.

Men and women in adult basic education study instructional materials that are on their own level, and they progress at their own speed. Adult basic education students often enter other adult education programs after completing a basic education class.

Competency-Based High School Diploma programs are a newly developed avenue for earning high school graduation credentials. By demonstrating competence in certain life-coping skill areas, a student may receive a high school diploma.

Instruction is provided in the required competency fields of consumer economics, occupational knowledge, health, community resources, and government/law. Adults enrolled in competency-based classes may receive credit for their knowledge in these areas gained from life experiences as well as the school instruction.

Skills which are tested include such activities as balancing a checkbook, filling out a job application, reading a bus or airline schedule, deciding for which candidate to vote, and completing an income tax form.

A high school diploma is awarded when the student demonstrates competence in the various skill areas.

Learning Is Lifetime Activity

Texas schoolhouses are not just for children... they are for adults, too. During certain hours of the day and night, schools serve adults who want to learn how to read, write, speak the English language, or improve academic skills.

Because learning is a lifetime activity, education of adults is a major function of schools and colleges in Texas. One of the main objectives of adult education is to recruit and instruct many of the 3.9 million Texas adults without a high school diploma or its equivalent.

A premise of adult education is that adults can learn, whatever their age. In fact, their life experiences and lessons of daily living may make them better students.

Adult students join adult education classes for many reasons:

- to get a high school diploma or General Educational Development (GED) certificate of high school equivalency
- to find a job
- to advance in a job
- to prepare for college
- to gain personal enrichment
- to help their children in school
- to learn English
- to learn to read and write.

Adult education classes can be designed to meet any or all of these needs.

A chance for job advancement
A chance to be able to help your children learn

General Educational Development (GED) programs are designed for persons who have not completed high school. After successfully passing a GED test series, adults receive a certificate of high school equivalency.

Students preparing to take the GED tests are given instruction in writing, social studies, science, reading, and math. Study material is on levels of grades 9 through 12. Some students need minimal preparation, while others may attend a GED class for a year or longer. Students are encouraged to take any or all of the five sections of the test whenever they and the teacher feel the results will be positive.

The GED certificate, which signifies successful completion of the tests, may be necessary as a job qualification. It also may qualify the student for college or technical school admission.

The Calendar In Review

As the new year arrives and we hang a new calendar in the office or near the telephone at home, it probably doesn't occur to us that those 12 pages of numbers are one of mankind's great inventions. Our calendars divide up in a fairly orderly fashion the time it takes our planet Earth to make one revolution around the Sun—a journey requiring just a bit less than 365 1/4 days. To be more exact, the solar year measures 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes, 45.7 seconds.

But don't be fooled by the calendar's apparent simplicity. The job of partitioning this rather peculiar period of time so that mankind would have some sort of schedule to live by wasn't easy. It took centuries of experimentation to arrive at those 12 pages of numbers, which are still far from perfect when you consider that the various months have 28, 29, 30 and 31 days. These months of differing lengths often complicate the keeping of business records but just imagine trying to get along without a calendar. How would one know when to go to the dentist, when the school vacation begins, what day in the week Christmas falls on?

The calendars of the earliest civilizations were based on observations of the phases of the Moon, creating a series of months of approximately 29 1/2 days. The ancient Egyptians were among the first to discover that the Earth travels around the Sun in about 12 lunar months. They constructed a calendar based on this astronomical cycle.

The Romans later borrowed the idea and created an improved 12 month calendar. But political leaders began meddling with the calendar. They are suspected of having added extra time to the annual calendar to possibly bring in more taxes or to lengthen the term of office of certain officials.

Just prior to the beginning of the Christian era, Rome's calendar had gotten badly out of step with the seasons. If a Roman believed his calendar, the spring equinox was in the middle of the winter! In 46 B.C., Emperor Julius Caesar, with the help of an astronomer by the name of Sosigenes, decided to straighten things out, or so he thought, and issued what came to be known as the Julian calendar.

Caesar gave six of the months 31 days, five of them 30 days, February 29 days three years in a row, with 30 days every fourth year, which was named Leap Year. To get the new calendar adjusted to the seasons, the year 46 B.C. was extended to 15 months. Quite understandably, 46 B.C. came to be known as 'The Year of Confusion.'

So far so good, except that Caesar and his astronomer had proceeded on the assumption that the solar year was exactly 365 days, 6 hours long. This introduced an annual error of almost 11 minutes, 15 seconds. Not much of an error, one might say, but considered over a long term it meant that at the end of 128 years the Julian calendar was lagging behind the Sun by an entire day.

The 1580's A.D. arrived before anything was done about this and by then the Julian calendar was off by about ten whole days. But fortunately the time required for the Earth to orbit the Sun had been determined accurately. Pope Gregory XIII gets the credit for applying this knowledge to the problem, solving it, and using his influence in 1582 to promulgate the calendar that we use today. In order to bring the new Gregorian calendar into step with the solar year, the Pope took the drastic action of dropping ten days. The new calendar went into effect the day after October 4, 1582; thus instead of the next day being October 5, it became October 15.

But not all countries accepted this much-needed reform. Predominately Catholic countries went along with the Pope, but others continued to use the Julian calendar, creating no end of confusion. While people in those days traveled relatively little, when they did leave their home countries for others it became quite important to check on who was still using the Old Style (Julian) calendar and who the New Style (Gregorian). A citizen of Catholic France could leave home on New Year's Day, cross the English Channel by boat in a few hours, and arrive in Protestant England in plenty of time to celebrate Christmas once again. And, if an Englishman left home for France on New Year's Eve, he would miss New Year's Day, arriving in France the second week of January.

Despite the problems created by retaining the old Julian calendar, Protestant areas of Germany and Switzerland held off on calendar reform until 1700, Sweden and the British Empire another half century. Japan adopted the Gregorian calendar in 1873, China in 1911 with the establishment of the Republic. Czarist Russia never did, but the Bolsheviks changed over soon after coming power following World War I. The Balkan countries and Turkey converted before 1920, with Greece following shortly thereafter.

In 1752, when England decided to tidy up the calendar situation wherever the Union Jack flew, one of her subjects, a Virginian named George Washington, was 20 years of age. In those days this young surey's birthday fell on February 11, the day he was born in 1732, according to the Julian calendar. However, by 1752 the Julian calendar was out of step with the new one by 11 days. To bring the British Empire into line with reality, in the mother country and her colonies the day after September 2, 1752, became September 14. Young George, realizing that he would not be a full year older until February 22 showed up on the new calendar, chose that date for the observance of his birthday from then on.

During the French Revolution, which began in 1789, France briefly abandoned the Gregorian system of timekeeping for one of its own, a 12-month calendar modeled after one used in ancient Egypt. The months were given fanciful names such as Germinal and Thermidor that were associated with the seasons or the weather, and each month was assigned 30 days. The exception, called Vendemiare, which occurred in the autumn, had 35 days three years in a row with 36 days the fourth year. The French innovators even changed the length of the week from the conventional seven days to ten days, and divided the day into ten hours, the hour into 100 minutes and the minute into 100 seconds. The greatest problem area in this complex chain seems to have been the ten-day week. For ages, festivals, market days and religious observances had been geared to the seven-day week. Many Frenchmen simply refused to go along with the so-called improvement. A decade of confusion came to an inglorious end when the whole grand scheme was swept away in the widespread governmental reforms of Emperor Napoleon I.

Other calendars of note were developed independently in the Western World by the Mayas of Guatemala and the Yucatan and later by Mexico's Aztecs. One of the most famous calendars in existence, and certainly the most stupendous, is the 24-ton so-called Aztec Calendar Stone on display in the National Museum of Anthropology in Mexico City. In the center of a disc 12 feet in diameter is the face of the Sun God. Around it are seven concentric circles, with the spaces between them crammed with abstruse symbols which indicate to scholars that whoever directed the intricate carving of the Stone was aware of how many days it took the Earth to make its annual orbit around the Sun.

Although the Gregorian calendar regulates the day-to-day activities of most people throughout today's world, a number of older, traditional calendars such as the Hebrew, the Islamic and the Hindu govern the religious life of various groups. Even the Julian calendar still finds some use in the United States. Nearly half of the Russian Orthodox and a few Greek Orthodox congregations celebrate Christmas on January 7 which corresponds to December 25 on the Julian calendar.

The key to the accuracy of the Gregorian system is the ingenious way the calendar reformers of 1582 handled Leap Year, that odd but essential procedure by which February is given 29 days every fourth year. Pope Gregory foresaw that if this quadrennial adjustment was done continually, there would soon be trouble again—so Leap Year is skipped occasionally. Giving February an extra day every fourth year is waived in the first year of a century whose date is not evenly divisible by 400. Thus, the year 1600 was a Leap Year, and February was given 29 days. But the years 1700, 1800 and 1900, all of which would normally have been Leap Years, were not evenly divisible by 400, hence their Februaries had only 28 days. The next so-called Century Year, 2000, will be a Leap Year.

In the past century and a half a number of proposals have been put forward for 'improving' or replacing our Gregorian calendar. They have been based largely on the belief that business record keeping would be greatly simplified if the months were more nearly uniform in length and each year started on the same day of the week. Most intriguing among the ideas for achieving this are the Thirteen-Month Calendar, also called the International Fixed Calendar, and the so-called World Calendar.

The Thirteen-Month Calendar, proposed in 1849 by a Frenchman named Auguste Comte, would have 13 equal months, each with four seven-day weeks. Since that adds up to only 364 days, an extra day called Year Day would be added at year's end, replacing the present New Year as a time for celebrating. In Leap Year, another extra day would follow June. The new thirteenth month would be called Sol. Every year would begin on Sunday and end on Saturday. Fifty years ago an English statistician named Moses B. Cotsworth, strongly supported by U.S. industrialist George Eastman of Rochester, N.Y., staged a crusade for the Thirteen-Month Calendar. The proposal got as far as a hearing at the League of Nations in Geneva, but no farther as it was felt that the changeover would be far too complicated.

The World Calendar Association, founded in 1930 by a New Yorker, Elisabeth Achelis, would keep the present 12 months but divide the year into four equal quarters. Each quarter would begin with a 31-day month and include two others of 30 days each. This gives each quarter 13 weeks or 91 days, which adds up to 364 days. An extra Year End Day would bring the total to 365. Every fourth year an additional day would be inserted between June and July, taking care of Leap Year and providing a mid-year holiday. In 1956 this idea got as far as a committee of the United Nations, but suffered the same fate as had the Thirteen-Month Calendar before the League of Nations.

Although either of these calendar reforms possibly would have advantages once in operation, the idea of attempting to get the whole world to suddenly change its 400-year-old method of keeping track of the months, weeks and days appears to be just too much for government officials and especially the average citizen to accept. Thus it seems very unlikely that in the foreseeable future we will be tossing out Pope Gregory's handiwork and installing an untried substitute.

So perhaps the easiest way of solving the problem of a calendar with months of varying lengths is just to continue to teach our children that ages-old rhyme:

Thirty days hath September,
April, June, and November,
All the rest have thirty-one,
Excepting February alone,
Which hath but twenty-eight,
in fine,
Till Leap year gives it twenty-nine.

The Weekend Adventures of P. Bear and Family

It was a cold, dismal weekend + in the confines of their airy, but otherwise comfortable home, P. Bear, his wife Mama + young son, Teddy, were bored.

P. Bear had a brilliant idea... "Why not spend a family weekend at the Kiva Inn." This idea was greeted with great enthusiasm... so P. Bear + Mama, with Teddy under her arm, ventured to the Kiva Inn... where it's summertime all year long.

And all weekend P. Bear and family swam, putted a round or two, saunnaed, exercised, sat in the whirlpool, played ping pong and shuffle board... and all in a beautiful indoor garden atrium.

IWU Reflections in Perspective

By I. Will Ussery

"On the twelfth day of Christmas my true love brought to me..." Or is it "Gave to me"? Anyway; it applies to the twelfth day following Christmas.

And the twelfth day of Christmas is "El dia de los tres reyes" in most Latin countries. "The Day of the Three Kings". Taking a leaf from the notebook of the Armenians, the Latins commemorate the legendary day on which, following the birth of Jesus, the three "kings" (wise men from the East) discovered the Holy Child of Bethlehem. They brought gifts of gold, myrrh and frankincense. I don't think that the New Testament lists the gifts in exactly that order; but, whatever.

Now, traditionally in cities and towns and villages throughout the Latin American world three kings appear in the streets, distributing gifts to the children who line the route. One of the "kings" is supposed to be mounted on a white horse, although I cannot find any reference to the steed in any of the Gospels. Makes for a more impressive entry into the village, though. The other two of the gift-giving visitors walk along with the horse. And all three of them toss handfuls of goodies to the laughing, cheering children. Now and then a child (by prearrangement by its parents, no doubt) is given a right significant gift.

Many years ago in Venezuela I happened to be in the oil company camp village of Concepcion, some thirty kilometers inland from Maracaibo on The Day of the Three Kings. I'd forgotten that it was actually the Twelfth Day of Christmas, but was instantly reminded when I came upon the procession. Dressed in their concept of the garb of Oriental Rulers, the three were doing their bit to bring happiness to the throngs of children, but the "Jefe" of the Kings was not riding a snow white charger. His prancing steed was a donkey.

Well; perhaps it was actually more befitting the real meaning of the Twelfth Day following the birth of the Babe of Bethlehem. The donkey is a humble, but reliable beast of burden. And without him, life in many parts of the world would come to a standstill. I shall tell you why I say that, one of these days.

Light From The Christian World

"Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before." Philippians 3:13
A friend remarked to me, "Each time I find it necessary to drive my wife's car I must adjust the rear-view mirror. I want to see what is trailing me. I like to take a second look at the things I have passed."

He continued, "It's a good idea to look back occasionally but to linger too long looking into the rear-view mirror could lead to serious trouble."

"How true," I remarked. "The most important things are ahead. There are so many interesting landmarks and beautiful sceneries. There are also crossroads, obstructions, detours and careless drivers. Yes, one needs to keep their eyes on the road ahead."

Friend, in life you have had past experiences...some pleasant, some not so pleasant. Glance briefly at the joys and sorrows of the past. Rejoice in both the good and the bad; for in each you can gain. The sorrows bring growth if you but allow it. The happy times bring beautiful memories. Do not linger. Yesterdays are gone. Today is the day to begin anew.

Resolve and say often, "This one thing I will do—I will take a quick look occasionally into my rear-view mirror; but I will reach out to those things which are ahead—to the challenging moments that await me. I will reach out and take the hand of Jesus. With Him as my constant companion I will travel the road ahead with joy and confidence."

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank the Ranger, Eastland and Olden Volunteer Fire Departments for fighting the fire that we had at our home December 15. Although we lost our home and its contents, we are thankful we got out with our lives. We would like to thank the Church of Christ of Ranger and Breckenridge and also the Eastside Baptist Church of Ranger. And we would like to thank all the people who gave us money, clothes, furniture, dishes and kind words, all the nice things you gave us we will never forget. We think Ranger is the best place in the world to live. We are fortunate to live in a small town and know that people really care about their fellowman. Once again we would like to say thank you very much. Johnny, Brenda, Kristi, Ginger and John Graham

By Josephine Cleveland

Christ is the greatest emancipator the world has ever known. Man and Woman were created in God's own image. We are told He created them male and female.

He desired fellowship with both and purposely chose you, a Woman, my friend, even before you were born. He endowed you with special characteristics that only Woman possess. Who but a Woman could endure the pang of childbirth and then tenderly soothe a child in its need. Who but a Woman could fall down in adoration at the feet of Jesus then with compassion and love bathe the feet of Jesus with sweet perfumed ointment. Yes, Christ ordained you, Woman, to be a warrior. You are equal and important complement created to lend help and encouragement to Man.

Man, stand tall! God created you to be the warriors of this world. You are to be a protector of the weak and the provider to all God's children. Who but a Man can grab himself as a knight in armor and go out to battle and return a conqueror. Who but a Man can draw his sword and slash a lovely rose from its branch. Who but a Man can skillfully turn his horse and kneel gallantly at the feet of a lady and give her the rose, bringing delight to her heart.

Satan, the price of the world comes to deceive, disrupt and confuse the minds of God's creation. His desire is to bind both Man and Woman. His desire is bring disharmony to Woman's and Man's Divinely given characteristics.

Woman, rejoice that you were chosen to be who you are by the greatest emancipator of all.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

"Look," bragged a wife to a stranger, "we've been married twenty-five years, and we still hold hands." "If we didn't," added her husband, "we would have killed each other."

Marriage for many is a duel, not a duet. There is too much curtness, and not enough kindness; too much wounding, and not enough wooing. Marriage is what you make it.

For a happy home, God must be your architect, the Bible your blueprint, and Christ your Saviour. You must warm your home with love, light it with cheerfulness, insulate it with patience, and protect it with prayer. You must insure it with honesty, support it with labor, furnish it with graciousness, and decorate it with kindness.

Man, stand firm and hew the rocks with strength that only you possess.

It is the blending, the infusion of each others attributes that produces harmony. As each allows the God-given role of one another to be used as ordained can real peace and contentment follow. Yes, Woman, rejoice! Man, shout the victory!

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER
By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

An artist in Mexico lost his right hand while working on a statue. But he did not give up his work. He learned to carve with his left hand, and when he beautifully finished his masterpiece it was called "In Spite Of."

A sound body, a brilliant mind, a cultural background, a huge amount of money, a wonderful education—none of these guarantees success. Nor are they necessary.

Booker T. Washington was born in slavery. Thomas Edison was deaf. Lincoln was born of illiterate parents in a log cabin. Lord Byron had a club foot. Robert Louis Stevenson had tuberculosis.

Got a handicap? Call on the Lord. No problem is too big for Him, or too small. He will make everything work together for your good—if you trust Him.

WHAT WAS Dr. Allen McGinness reaction when he saw the two quarter page ads that wished him a happy 40th birthday in The Press last Wednesday morning?

The local dentist was real surprised and pleased and loved it. That's the report from the McGinness household up at 14th and Avenue L. The ads were placed by the doctor's office folks and by a group of their friends. And a New Year's Eve party at the McGinness home Wednesday night turned out to be a deluxe birthday party, which was attended by a goodly number of local family friends and by a couple of old buddies from dental school days.

The McGinnesses have lived in Cisco four years now and "we've loved every minute of it," Mrs. McG told us. They're natives of Big D. Dr. McG is a graduate of Baylor University and of Baylor Dental School and has been practicing since 1972. He played football his first year at Baylor but "hung 'em up" due to an injury. He is a local Baylor fan and was in the television cheering section for the Cotton Bowl game Thursday. Mrs. McG is directing planning work for Cisco centennial program for 1981. They have two attractive children, Mark, 10, and Amanda, 7.

You'll want to join us in a happy birthday and New Year's wish for the new 40-year old Ciscoan.

JOGGING 1,500 miles in a year may not be a record but we'd say it is an accomplishment, particularly if it was a real contributing factor in turning the color of your health to a lovely pink. The healthy holder of the 1980 jogging accomplishment is Mrs. Pat Ryan, the former Dorothy Jackson, who arrived last weekend for a visit in the home of her parents, the E.L. Jacksons, in Cisco.

Mrs. Ryan is the librarian at Marfa High School out in the Big Bend country and her husband publishes the newspaper there. A couple of years ago, Mrs. Ryan started a daily walk-jog program that has done wonders for her general health. She lost excess weight and has a lot of energy and vitality to go with her pleasing personality. Mrs. Ryan grew up in Cisco and moved west after her marriage in 1948. She and Pat have six children, including twin daughters.

MR. JOE Britain, who lives out on West 19th Street, hopes to complete work on remodeling the residence so he and wife can move soon to their farm southeast of Cisco. They moved back to Cisco last year from the Van Horn area where he went when he left here 16 years ago.

Joe grew up southeast of Cisco and moving back there will be a homecoming. He has a few cows and will look after them and do a little farming. He is a retired business man. He is a former Cisco city commissioner and is a member of the Masonic bodies here.

IT'S NOT EASY to understand how a fellow who plays golf twice or so a year can beat a man who plays practically every day. That's the word from Mr. Charlie Graham, retired Cisco auto dealer, after he played a few rounds of golf this week with his son-in-law, Mr. Harrison Block, at the local course.

Mr. Brock and wife Judy and their son spent the past week with the Grahams. They live in Memphis, Tenn., where he is an official of a food manufacturing company.

WHEN MR. TED Rogers, who heads up the printing department for this newspaper, got out of high school he weighed 144 pounds. He went through WWII and came out of the Army weighing 144 pounds. Ted got on the scales at the First National Bank last Wednesday and noted that he was ending the year of 1980 at the weight of 144 pounds.

Guess you could say Ted hasn't made any progress... or maybe he has made a lot of progress. He's slim and trim and healthy.

Thinking about his case, we're mindful of our situation. We came through our college years weighing 190 pounds and with a 32-inch waist. We've enjoyed good health all the years and now weigh 185 pounds. But our waist is 38 inches. How do you explain that?

VISITING OVER in Abilene the other day, Mr. Wes Latham of Reynolds Mfg. Co. dropped by Hendrick Memorial Hospital and looked in on Mr. J.L. Stafford of S&M Supply Co. And he found Mr. JLS in bed with an exercising bar above and he was busy taking exercise.

Glad to have Wes' report that Mr. JLS is making progress, and you'll want to join in saying "get well and hurry home." Mr. JLS has long been one of our community's busiest and most useful citizens.

MARY ELLEN Wood of our town will give you a testimonial that the folks at Allsup's Convenience Store out on West 8th Street are honest. She paid for something with a $20 bill out there and somehow got distracted and forgot to pick up over $10 in change.

Next day, Mrs. MEW

discovered her error and went back to the store. Did they remember? Yep... and handed her the change that she left on the counter.

AND ONE OF our scouts points to Mr. Dick Donovan of City Garage as an example of honest auto mechanics. He took a car over there to have an in-operative part replaced and an oil leak repaired. The scout got a call from Dick a few hours later. It wasn't a big deal like the scout expected. Dick said he was able to repair the part and tightened a few loose bolts and stopped the oil leak.

The Donovans have enjoyed the company of their son, Richard, and family for the past ten days or so. The RDs live up in Washington, D.C., area where he is a nuclear scientist.

GUESS MRS. Sheila Dunlap, office secretary at the CoC, has made some New Year's planning. Saw her reading a book entitled "Positive Thinking" on New Year's Eve... We nominate the street in front of the Post Office, particularly the area near the outside mail boxes, as one of the very roughest streets in Cisco... When Mrs. W.E. Dean of Cisco ran into her cousin and their daughter and their spouses on Christmas Day, she learned that she had addressed a season's greeting card with their first names only, giving their route number out of Rising Star. And the card was delivered.

MR. ED FARLEY, retired Exxon, has a claim to fame. He went to school with Ben Hogan, the noted golf professional now retired, when they were youngsters at Dublin. What is more, a granddaughter of the Farleys will be married next weekend to the son of Pro Golfer Bruce Devlin and the Farleys will be in Houston to attend. Bruce Devlin, you know, is on the pro golf tour and is a native of Australia. He is frequently a member of a television broadcast team covering tournaments.

And Insurance Man Ronnie Ledbetter went out west to shoot pheasants recently. He bagged one and stuffed it in his hunting jacket back pocket. An hour or so later, he felt movement and before he knew it, the pheasant leaped out of Ronnie's jacket pocket and started running. Ronnie shot it a second time and it was a tasty dish at his

by Josephine Cleveland

Youth is confronted with one inevitable question: What shall I be?

Arriving at a wise answer is not only their problem—it is the problem of parents, teachers, counselors, librarians and community.

To whatever degree we assist them in answering this question and answering it intelligently, we guarantee them a life of greater happiness and of greater service to the community.

Mrs. Moody has been attempting to arrive at a wise answer for her Junior High Life Skills students. No one can safely "decide" what to be until they first know what there is to be. The Junior High Life Skills classes are completing a research paper on various careers. This unit is giving the students a panoramic view of many careers. They are ending their unit learning how to conduct themselves in a job interview and by writing a job resume properly. Students have found library reference materials helpful. Some of these are: "Career Research Monographs" pamphlets, the "Professional Careers Kit" and the Occupational File.

Library skills were taught by the Librarian to Miss Chubb's English I classes. Subjects covered were the Dewey Decimal System of 1930s Orlov, former chief of Soviet spies in Western Europe, had lived in the United States. He "defected" from Soviet Intelligence and fed information to the Americans. He had promised his old Soviet bosses not to reveal anything that could seriously damage Soviet operations in the West. But they wanted the check-up on him.

Russian Agent Was Not Abel

Orlov was the only spy in the field who knew who Willy Fisher really was when he claimed to be Colonel Rudolf Abel after his arrest. Orlov had known both of them: Abel, with whom he had worked in Germany, and Fisher with whom he had worked in England before the Second World War.

Orlov did not betray Fisher, and so gave Moscow the proof of his loyalty.

Fisher's second task was to determine whether the Americans suspected Kim Philby one of the great Soviet spies. After Abel - Fisher's death it was revealed that Willy Fisher was born in England and his main spying activity was carried out there before the war. He knew Kim Philby, Guy Burgess, Donald Maclean and Anthony Blunt.

Recently Anthony Blunt became known as the Fourth Man in the Soviet spy network in the West during and after the war. There is concrete evidence that there was a fifth man. Could that man have been Willy Fisher, known to most of the World as Colonel Abel?

J.W. Hobbs' To Be Honored On 40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J.W. (Jim) Hobbs will be honored with a 40th anniversary celebration at 7 p.m. Saturday, January 3, at their home.

Hosts will be their children, Jimmy Hobbs and Karen Farnsworth, both of Tulsa, Okla.

All friends of the couple are invited.

house during the holidays.

IF THE MIKE Thiber-villes had delayed his arrival about 18 hours, their new son Justin Wallace would have been Cisco's first 1981 baby. The little lad arrived out at E.L. Graham Memorial Hospital at 6:44 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 31... And if you didn't get enough football Thursday, just wait until this Saturday afternoon and Sunday when the pros mix it up again... Baylor's showing in the Cotton Bowl was pretty disappointing, huh? And Mrs. Lucy Collier of Cisco and her three children and grandchildren saw the game.

Classification and Card Catalog. The ninth grade English I classes were given study skills materials to complete. The second session was a follow up of the instruction given the students. They were shown two filmstrips and heard two tapes on "The Dewey Decimal System" and "Using the Card Catalog."

During the students next session they will use the knowledge gained.

The Home and Family Life class have been using library references in writing research papers on subjects of particular interest to them as it pertains to family life.

Library thought for the week is, "No matter how long a fellow nurses a grudge it won't get better."

Things would have gone differently today.

This is the aftermath of a hurricane that left 400 dead in Corpus Christi in 1919. Red Cross was called in after the damage was done.

When Hurricane Allen hit Corpus Christi in 1980, Red Cross was there before the disaster struck—to help people prepare and evacuate. We were there during the crisis to help provide relief. And, afterwards, we were there to help the victims minimize their pain. Hurricane Allen claimed two lives in Corpus Christi.

One hundred years of experience with disaster has taught us that being prepared for it is half the battle.
