The play is an adaptation of the famous Grimm's fairy tale by Sally Netzel, and it is directed by Janis Myer, CJC drama instructor. Miss Myer's technical theater class built the sets and made the costumes and scenery.

The young Prince, played by Lance Allred of Houston, loves Melinda, the kitchen maid, played by Tracy Freed of Abilene. The prince attempts to convince his mother, the gold-hungry Queen, that Melinda is a worthy bride by telling her that she can spin gold from straw. Kathy Powell of Sugarland plays the Queen. When the Queen requires Melinda to produce, the desperate girl secures the services of a wicked gnome, Rumpelstiltskin. John Akers of Cisco fills this role.

The gnome puts his evil magic to work and spins some gold, but the greedy Queen always wants more. As Melinda gets more and more gold, she becomes more and more indebted to Rumpelstiltskin, even to the point of promising him her first child. Donnell Dawson of Rogers and Tim Stuart of Comanche complete the cast, playing the parts of palace guards. The show lasts about one hour.

The stage crew includes Lupe Gonzales, Ozona, light operator; John Hensley, Houston, sound operator; David Johnson, Brownwood, costumes; and Marie Reston, Clyde, stage manager and make-up.

Cisco 4-H'ers To Be In Houston Scramble

Three Cisco 4-H members will participate in the dairy scramble March 8 at the 1981 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. They are Shannon Kendall, 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kendall;

Jim Bob Cozart, 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Cozart; and Tommy Bint, 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Bint.

They will not only have the opportunity to catch a calf, but also to be a part of the Sunday entertainment package that includes the best rodeo contestants in the world and stars Waylon Jennings as the featured entertainment.

Always a favorite with rodeo audiences, the calf scramble begins as an athletic event in the rodeo arena. However, for the contestants, who manage to catch a calf, halter it and drag it across a finish line, the scrambling is only the start of year-long educational experience.

Each winner in the calf scramble receives a $400 calf purchase certificate which enables him to purchase a purebred, registered heifer that he agrees to feed, fit, groom and return to the Houston Livestock Show for special show ring competition the following year.

Each winner also agrees to keep accurate monetary records, submit monthly progress reports both to the Livestock Show and to his individual sponsor, photographically chronicle the progress of his calf and prepare a 500-word essay on his project.

Every performance of the 1981 Rodeo will feature a calf scramble (either beef or dairy) as its fourth event. In each beef scramble, 24 boys will compete for 12 calves; and, in each dairy scramble, 28 boys will compete for 14 calves.

Through the 1980 Show, winners in the calf scramble have received more than $1.7 million to purchase some 8,700 quality animals.

Most heifers become the basis for future cattle herds; thus, a one-year learning partnership is stretched into a lifetime career. For those youngsters who decide not to continue their cattle program, the learning experience is invaluable and many times serves to stimulate a career in some other agricultural occupation.

The Livestock Show opens February 25 and runs through March 8, with rodeo performances in the Astrodome beginning on February 27.

The 1981 Rodeo will spotlight the world's top professional cowboys and barrel races competing for one of rodeo's richest purses, against the toughest stock seen in a rodeo arena.

Stars for the 1981 Rodeo include Anne Murray, Charley Pride, Crystal Gayle, The Oak Ridge Boys, Mac Davis, Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers Band, Dolly Parton, Don Williams and Waylon Jennings. Tickets are priced at $3, $4 and $7.

We have had almost any kind of weather this past week from a record breaking 8 degrees to almost 10. Also some rain and a light sprinkling of snow. Mostly it has been disagreeable. The low temperature hopefully will set the fruit back some. The trees looked like they were almost ready to burst into bloom.

Everyone was shocked last evening when Mr. Grover Maxwell suffered a stroke just before time for his daughter's wedding. He was taken to West Texas Medical Center. The extent of damage has not been reported yet. We are hopeful that it will not be too extensive.

Happy to report that Mr. I.G. Mobley returned home from Baird hospital Wednesday after a week's stay when he suffered a broken collar bone in an automobile accident.

Mr. Earl Rutherford has confined to Cisco hospital for several days. He is improving.

The John Pettys have spent the past week in the Texas Valley and in Old Mexico. They have been visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. Ferris Bennet and Mrs. Naomi Heysler visited the Mobeys and Mrs. Taylor Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brown and son and daughter of Fort Worth have spent the weekend with their mother, Mrs. Ollie Burnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Weathermon of San Antonio visited their parents, the Sidney Weathermons over the weekend.

The community is indebted to John Doyle Isenhower, Sid Weathermon and son and to Grover Maxwell for repairing the water system at the Community Center following the severe freeze this week.

Mrs. Judy Maxwell, Andy and Belinda and Mrs. Raymond Threet and baby of Albany visited friends at Putnam Saturday.

Bob Hinds of Borger visited his aunt, Mrs. Ruie Sunderman Saturday.

Visiting the Grover Maxwells and attending the wedding of Kathy Maxwell were their daughters, Mr. and Mrs. John Sawyers and family of Laredo, Mr. and Mrs. Alton White from Hondo, their son, Mr. and Mrs. Buddie Maxwell of Abilene and their brother, Mr. and Mrs. Dub Fisher of Santa Alena.

Visiting Mrs. Opal Francisco and attending the wedding were her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pearson of Jal, N.M.

The Women's Study Club met at the Community Center Monday. Eleven members and one guest, Mrs. Lewis Williams of Cisco were present. The program was "History of Putnam." Hostesses were Mrs. John Doyle Isenhower and Mrs. Ruie Sunderman.

The musical at the school house Friday netted about $100 for the Cancer Fund.

Mrs. R.B. Taylor and Mrs. Maxie Solomon attended an open house at the First Baptist Church at Cisco, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Plez Ray of Scranton on their 60th wedding anniversary.

Dr. Shores Knows About Life in Prison

STEPHENVILLE, TX--When Dr. James Shores talks to students in his Criminology class at Tarleton State University about prison life, they know where he's coming from. The soft-spoken, articulate professor spent 25 months and two weeks in the Kansas State Penitentiary after pleading guilty to a charge of felony assault.

Now, fourteen years after he was paroled from prison, Shores holds a bachelor's, three master's, and a Ph. D. degree. He is on the board of directors at Father Flanagan's Boys Town in Omaha, Neb., has received the Presidential Award from the Kansas Correction Officers Association, and has been presented a plaque commending him from his hometown of Alliance City, Neb. In 1975 his prison record was expunged by the State of Kansas.

His father, who was part Indian, black, and Irish, died when Shores was five years of age. His mother, a Mexican, died a year later. After living with his grandmother until she could no longer care for him, he was sent to Boys Town where he stayed four years. While in the Nebraska home, Shores was a commissioner, councilman, and mayor.

Upon leaving Boys Town in 1949 he went back to Alliance as a common laborer since he had no skills. He joined the Navy for a one-year hitch and then moved back to Kansas to live with relatives and work in the Armour packing house.

"I looked around me at the old men who had been laborers all their lives, and I realize that as a minority I would never be able to buy a house or get an education," Shores said. "I joined the Navy again so I could benefit from the GI bill and possibly buy a house." After a two-year stint in the Navy, Shores was discharged in Norfolk, VA., and stayed there to attend a junior college.

"In 1964 I got in trouble and served 25 months and two weeks of a 1 to 10 year sentence in prison for felony assault," Shores continued. "This may sound strange to say...and I have mixed emotions about it...but for me the penitentiary was good. It was kind of like a religious retreat...I had time to think...to examine and ask who am I, and which way am I going? this sort of thing."

"The mixed emotions came when I realized that men my age, 32, were senators, and governors, and presidents of colleges. I was ashamed of myself and the stigma I had created in the eyes of society...I was ashamed that in order for me to decide what I was going to do with my life I was so hard-headed I had to go to the penitentiary."

It was while in the county jail awaiting transfer to prison that Shores decided to complete his education. "I had already finished a couple of years in junior colleges, and after testing at the prison was assigned to the library." He did correspondence work at Kansas University, Kansas State, and Emporia College for 12 college hours. "It's ironic, but in the time of stress I fell back on my training at Boys Town where I was taught discipline and how to study."

"In prison we were usually locked up about 4:30 or 5 in the afternoon and I would sleep until about 9. Later in the night the guards would let me stick my books through the cell bars and read from the light in the cellblock corridor. I read 10 or 12 books a month.

Shores, 50, said with a slight grin, "It was a heck of a place to go for a retreat. I can think of a lot of places I'd rather go. But on the other hand I wouldn't trade the experience for a million dollars. I met a lot of men I wouldn't give the time of day if their souls depended on it. Yet, I met others who were victims of circumstances...some who had been emotionally involved in love triangles and did what they thought should be done, even though they loved their families and would probably never do anything wrong again. It was one of the best practicums or seminars that one could receive in human behavior."

It was also in prison that Shores developed what he calls a theory of positive hostility. "It first started when one of the white inmates told me I'd never be a social worker. He said I was black and would be an ex-con and would never get a job. It wasn't until years later that I realized he was trying to make me angry enough to really do what I wanted to do."

I longed for death to come and bring release from empty days and emptier nights

It seemed there was nothing I could do, ...or wanted to do.

The opening lines from a poem that hung on his cell wall added to the positive hostility that Shores developed. "I started looking at the fact that I was angry with prison officials and angry with society. And I realized that no one sent me a gold plated invitation to come to prison. So I started getting mad at myself and became aware that it was only me who could dig myself out of this hole. I realized that anger is energy and can be used as a positive force."

In 1966, following his parole from prison, Shores went to Topeka, Kan., where he held four jobs and worked 96 hours a week as a service station attendant, bellman, janitor, and laborer in an egg plant. He held these positions four months and then dropped part of his work to attend night classes at Washburn University in Topeka. He graduated from Washburn in 1970 with a B.A. in social work. In the ensuing four and a half years Shores earned two master's degrees, one in Vocational Rehabilitation Counseling from Emporia State University and one in Adult Education from Kansas State University, and a Ph. D. in counseling from Kansas State. Additionally, in 1979 he earned a master's degree in Criminal Justice Administration from Wichita State University.

In conclusion the Tarleton professor stated, "I'll never go down as one of the top people in the Catholic faith, but I'm grateful that God has given me the strength and intellect to work with people. There are times when I would like to look back and say my bad experience happened because I was a minority, but that simply isn't so. Being a minority had nothing to do with it...whatever I've done was my own fault. But I still consider myself one of the luckiest men on the face of the earth...and I really mean that."

While attending college, Shores was also employed as a vocational rehabilitation counselor for the state of Kansas and as a counselor for Washburn University.

Prior to coming to Tarleton last fall, Shores was coordinator for the Criminal Justice Program at South Carolina State College. He has two daughters, Sabrina, of Topeka, Kan., and Tomiko, of South Carolina. A few years ago, Shores visited his father's grave in Alliance and also did research on his family history. "The 1820 census shows that my forebearers were school teachers, and one of my ancestors, Emma Adams, was a descendant of the Adams family," Shores said, "and I'm proud of my heritage."

The Texas Society to Prevent Blindness will introduce to the Texas School Health Association this month a new film which the Society believes will soon become an integral part of vision screening certification courses in Texas. Entitled "Early Childhood Vision Screening," the film is intended as a training aide for the many screening programs that have resulted from the recent Texas law requiring a vision test for every child entering school. The preview showing will take place on February 13 at TSHA's annual convention in Austin.

"The production of this film is part of the Society's on-going commitment to help implement the law in every possible way," says Elvin J. Schofield of San Antonio, Prevent Blindness president.

Since the law went into effect last fall, the Society has given 62 training programs at which more than 2,000 people have been certified as trainers or screeners in accordance with the Texas Department of Health standards. Many had no prior concept of what a vision screening consists. This underscored the need for a training film to visually depict the techniques being verbally taught."

"The film meets that need," he went on, "by showing how to hold a screening from selecting and setting up the site to giving the actual test. The two tests which are demonstrated are the Snellen "E" and the "HOTV", both approved by the Texas Department of Health for screening young children"

"Early Childhood Vision Screening" also stresses the importance of a screening as well as the necessity of correctly following the given instructions. It is a 16 mm sound-color production which runs eleven minutes and can be readily incorporated into the screening techniques segment of any certification program," he pointed out.

"The film, moreover, is an all-Texas production. Funds for it were provided by the San Antonio Area Foundation. It was produced by A.I.E. Studios in Houston and features Texas screeners and appealing Texas youngsters."

"Copies of the film are in all TSPB offices," he added, "and may be borrowed without charge. However, the supply is limited and a demand is anticipated, especially at the start of the

THE INAUGURATION of President Reagan was an outstanding affair in good weather and a thing to remember. That's the word from Mrs. Rosa Lee Broyles of our town.

Mrs. RLB's grandson, Tommie Lee Broyles, of Abilene was among the youthful folks who worked hard in the Reagan campaign, and as a result he and his parents, the Tommie Broyles, received an invitation to attend the inauguration in Washington, D.C. And they insisted that Mrs. RLB go along, too.

They flew to DFW and boarded a non-stop commercial airliner for Washington and three days in the capitol. It was Mrs. RLB's first ride on a commercial airliner and her first trip to Washington. She had a good place to stand and watch the parade and could have touched some of the stars of television and the movies who were there.

A bonus was to visit the offices of Congressman Charles Stenholm who showed the Broyles around the capitol building. They took in a lot of the interesting sights. . . . Bet Mrs. RLB was Cisco's only representative at the inauguration.

A HOST OF friends and relatives dropped in at the First Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon to pay their respects to Mr. and Mrs. P.M. Ray of Scranton on the occasion of their 60th wedding anniversary. Their children and grandchildren were hosts. . . . Mr. Les Threet, who dropped in for the party, recalled that he attended the wedding and party afterwards at the Ray home in Scranton. . . . The Rays have lived at their home place virtually all of their married life.

Morrell Ray of Great Falls, Montana, drove down to attend his parents 60th anniversary party. It was 30 below zero with six inches of snow when he departed, he told us. "And I almost froze to death soon after arriving in Cisco," he added. . . . The Paul Brashears of Austin (She's the Ray's daughter) were here for the weekend and party. . . . The Wesley Smiths were among the guests and she recalled their 50th anniversary party at the FBC a few months ago. "Our crowd wasn't quite as big," she said, "but we had to compete with the Dallas Cowboys."

You'll want to join us in wishing for the Rays many more anniversary parties.

Obituary

Services For Kenneth Sellers Held Monday

Funeral services for Kenneth Eugene Sellers, 40, of Abilene, were at 2 p.m. Monday at Elliott-Hamil Funeral Chapel of Memories, 542 Hickory, Abilene. The Rev. Richard McMahan of Grace Tabernacle officiated. Burial was in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Sellers died at 5 a.m. Saturday after a long illness. He was born March 5, 1940, in Nimrod. He moved to Abilene as a child. He married Nona Mae Hodge on April 28, 1952, in Abilene. A mechanic, he was a member of the Pentecostal Church.

Survivors include a son, Daniel Eugene of the home; a daughter, Nellie Elzora of the home; seven brothers, Barney, Sammy, Roy, David and Charles, all of Cisco, Joe of Houston and Jackie of Waco; two sisters, Mary Hammer of Cisco and Martha Smith of Oklahoma; and a grandmother, Alice Sellers of Haskell.

church last Sunday. They're doing nicely. . . . Some of the black beards we've noticed lately belong to Bill Reynolds of Gardenhire Oil, Jeff Kahan of Kahan Energy Corp., Delbert Schaefer of the CHS staff, and Randy Price of the Graham Hospital staff.

CELEBRATING George Washington's birthday on February 16th this year took a good many of us by surprise. The post office, the bank, some of the utilities, United Savings and maybe a few others were closed and their employees enjoyed long weekends.

Somehow it doesn't seem quite Hoyle to celebrate early when George was born on February 22nd.

IF MR. DAN Dixon hadn't played the Good Samaritan the other day, there's no telling how much damage there would have been at their home out on Country Club Ridge. Word reached him that his neighbor, Mrs. Gus Smothers, had broken water pipes from last week's severe freeze, and water was running and she couldn't find a plumber. So Dan rushed out and cut her water off.

As he started to leave, Dan noticed water outside his front door. Investigating, he discovered that an upstairs water pipe had ruptured and water was pouring. They were able to have rugs removed and dried and other damage was comparatively mild. He wouldn't have gone home for several hours if he hadn't gone to help Mrs. GS.

GLAD TO HEAR that Miss Vicki Hooser, the young lady who suffered a serious leg injury when a pickup truck struck a motorcycle on which she and her young man were riding last fall is doing nicely. As you know, the young man lost his life and Vicki has had considerable treatment for her injury.

A week or so ago, Vicki returned to Cisco at the summons of the 91st Court to testify in the trial of the pickup driver. Infection developed and she went to the Eastland Hospital for a week or so. She is making her home with the Bill Hesters of Colony Restaurant for the present. . . . Carla Hester, daughter of the BHs who works out at Otis Engineering, spent last weekend in Austin to attend a reunion of her college buddies.

OUR SCOUTS report that Mr. Raymond Whitley and family are due back home around March 1st after an extended vacation down Padre Island way. He's a member of the City Council and friends don't expect him to run for reelection in the April 4th voting. . . . Capacity of the Laguna Roof Garden Theater is 62, and they fed 145 folks in two Nostalgia Night shows there recently.

Mr. J.D. Yardley ran the Robo Car Wash about 10 years and the counter showed that he washed a little over 46,000 cars during that time. . . . Mrs. Lela Lloyd has accepted an invitation to speak over at Abilene soon on her book about the Chief Van House over in Georgia. Her sister, Mary Carey, who spent a month or so here and in Houston recently, has returned to Alaska via Hawaii where she completed interviews in a biography she is writing.

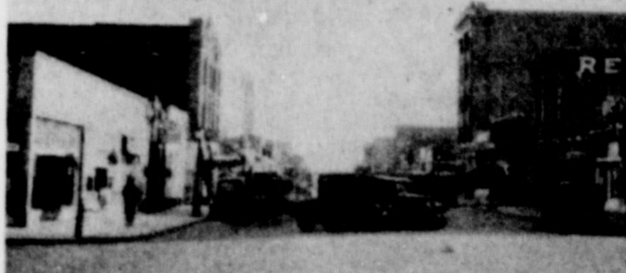

CHANCES ARE pretty good that Mr. B.A. Butler, the retired editor, won't be asked again to change a light bulb over the sink out at their home. In such an operation the other day, he dropped a bulb and it shattered in the sink. And somehow he knocked a fork into the sink and it went down the drain. . . . Quail season ended last Sunday and it wasn't the worst one that Mr. Clifford Smith can remember. He and Butch Willingham and Harold Hendricks enjoyed an outing with good results.

SPECTACULAR is how Polly Wright and Lois Whitaker of our town described the Kodak multivision program on Britain and Ireland over at Abilene last Friday night. It was a wide screen presentation of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland.

The huge screen at Abilene Civic Center had three pictures going at the same time, they report. In the center, a motion picture showed people and things while on each side there were slide presentations of related scenes. And it kept you busy looking from side to side at the beautiful color pictures.

MRS. THELMA Bosworth got home Monday from an Abilene hospital where she recently underwent surgery. She lives out on West 14th Street. . . . Mr. Marshall Jones has been in Abilene quite a lot lately to be with his sister, Mrs. Guy Ellis of Woodson, who underwent major surgery at Hendrick Hospital last week. He got home Sunday and reports that Mrs. GE is doing nicely. . . . The John McGuire's enjoyed a long weekend of visiting in Houston with their daughter.

Where Were These Taken?

The locations of these pictures in the 1920's are College Hill before Cisco Junior College, a scene of the old zoo with a bear pictured; and downtown Cisco (Avenue D) in 1927. These photographs were taken from the 1927 edition of "The Lobo" annual at Cisco High School.
