Bible Baptist Women Meet In Schaefer Home

The Bible Baptist women met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Schaefer south of Cisco for their monthly Bible study and fellowship. They had a wonderful time when they arrived a slip of paper was pinned on backs with the name of a woman of the Bible on it and they had to guess who by what others said about her.

Mrs. Nelda Gary gave the opening prayer and gave thanks for all the good food, they had a buffet style dinner which was thoroughly enjoyed. A business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Wanda Payne and the Bible study was given by Mrs. Betty Green. The subject was "How to Be Happy." Many people and different countries have different ideas about the answer but the Word of God tells everyone to trust in the Lord--Proverbs 16:20. Like the song says "trust and obey for there is no other way."

The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Marie Schaefer.

Those attending were Mmes. Barbara Mayberry, Betty Green, Fay Owings, Myrtle Baker, Wanda Payne, JoAnn Gary, Paula Allen, Nelda Gary, Elizabeth Lee and also a special visitor, Rene Waterberry and the hostess, Marie Schaefer.

News From The Center

A special thanks goes to the following groups that remembered the residents on Valentine's Day.

On Thursday afternoon ladies from the Faith Baptist Church came and brought cupcakes for the residents.

On Friday at 2:30 p.m. the Bible Baptist Church hosted the Valentine's party. The residents were served cupcakes and punch. Ralph Green and Eunice McCrary were chosen Valentine King and Queen of Cisco Nursing Center.

Cards were brought to the Center from Calvary Baptist Church and East Cisco Baptist Church.

Your kindness will never be forgotten. Hope your Valentine's Day was as happy as you make ours.

Dear Editor: The letter written by Kitty McCracken reflects my feelings exactly. About the last paragraph in her letter, I say AMEN or should I say I SECOND the motion.

G. Mizell

Dear Editor: I am writing to ask you to help me and my school get the armadillo to be the official state mammal of Texas. We think the armadillo would be good because most people like them, they are interesting, they build good homes, and they eat fire ants. They have a tough hide -- like a cowboy's boot.

Resolution HCR 53 is in Austin now and we need help to get it passed. Would you please ask your readers to write to their representative and senator and ask them to vote for it.

If any school kids or teachers want more information, they can write to: Armadillo '81, Oak Creek Elementary, 3975 Gladeridge, Houston, Texas 77068, and we will send some things.

Yours truly, Sloan Childers, age 10, President Armadillo Council

'How To Treat Cisco Visitors' Is Topic At Rotary Club Meet

"Every citizen an ambassador," was a theme accentuated by Gene Abbott, Chamber of Commerce Manager, in a message to the Rotary Club Thursday noon on "How To Treat Visitors to the City of Cisco." The program, anticipating the community's forthcoming centennial celebration, was designed to encourage a spirit and practice of hospitality and spread through friendship a message of Cisco's desirability as a town to visit, remember with pleasure, and ultimately, perhaps, to live in.

Abbott presented a recorded message via a montage of slide projected cartoon scenes emphasizing the points he made. Among those on which he placed stress were:

A friendly, non-critical approach; a genuine attention to the visitor's wishes; a simple technique of giving directions that recognizes the stranger's unfamiliarity with the town; an attitude of listening which cultivates the visitor's appreciation, and the importance of a first impression.

In meeting strangers a citizen is serving as the host work in the Department of Public Safety's West Texas region, appeared as the club speaker on invitation of Lion J.C. Fletcher.

Texas had 4,229 Traffic deaths in 1979 -- an all time high -- and the 1980 death rate already stands at 4,377 and the fiscal year does not end until April 31, Mr. Rehm said.

"The number of people killed on Texas highways in 1979 just about equals the entire population of the City of Cisco," Mr. Rehm noted.

The numbers of accidents and deaths grows each year, Mr. Rehm said. He urged that drivers should use complete caution and to take advantage of all safety devices, including seat belts. Each crash results in two collisions, he said -- one when the vehicle strikes something, and another when the passengers strike the windshield or part of the car.

Raising the speed limit will result in more accidents and deaths, Mr. Rehm said, offering statistics to prove his point. A vehicle goes 80 feet per second at 55MPH or 105 feet per second at 70MPH, he added.

People tend to overestimate the value of speed, Mr. Rehm said. At 55MPH, it takes 1:49 hours to drive from Cisco to Fort Worth while at 70MPH the trip would take 1:32 hours -- a difference of 17 minutes.

Lieut. Jimmy Rhodes of the DPS regional education office in Midland was a guest. Other guests were Gary Bole, Doug Fry (former CJC band director) and Grayford Wolf.

Traffic Death List Growing In Texas

Texas is gaining some 300,000 more licensed drivers and about 500,000 motor vehicles each year, and one result is a substantial increase in the number of accidents and highway deaths, according to DPS Trooper Wendell Rehm in a talk last Wednesday noon at the Cisco Lions Club's weekly luncheon.

Mr. Rehm, one of five men assigned to Safety Education

Men's Night Steak Dinner Set At CCC

There will be a men's night steak dinner at the Cisco Country Club at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, February 26.

Admission is $5.00 for members and $7.50 for non-members.

Ronnie Ledbetter, club president, is in charge of the arrangements.

He told the club that a pre-centennial program to develop a community atmosphere of hospitality will be carried on through meetings with business and public service personnel, and by means of the media.

"Our visitors are our guest," he said. "Let's make them feel at home."

Next week's program will involve a discussion of the making of wills by Billy Wright, local attorney and club member.

Cisco Service Club Begins Selling Tickets For Quilt

Ticket sales have begun for a chance at winning the handmade, appliqued and embroidered centennial quilt, depicting the history of Cisco. The project is sponsored by the Cisco Service Club, with tickets on sale for $1.00 each, available through club members.

The Cisco Service Club's efforts on this most unique piece, are in conjunction with Cisco's Centennial celebration, with the drawing set for May 21, the date set aside for Centennial festivities. Proceeds from ticket sales will be used for various community projects.

Cisco Service Club members have been diligently at work since November, meeting weekly for the purpose of the Centennial quilt project. Sandra Woolley, chairman of the quilting committee, is to be commended for her outstanding work and organization of the project, her research on the history of Cisco, location of pictures used for appliques and her design of the quilt. Janice Hobbs' unique creativity in her art work has most certainly been a definite asset to the beauty of the quilt. Miss Hobbs is a newcomer to Cisco and fifth grade teacher at the Intermediate School.

The quilt measures approximately 75 by 97 and is a full bed size quilt and consists of 19 individual applique blocks.

The Cisco Service Club's version of the history of Cisco begins, on the quilt, with a lovely appliqued square, showing the first settlement of Red Gap and follows the development of Cisco to the 1980's.

Club members participating in the quilting in the various areas are: Sandra Woolley, project chairman; Janice Hobbs, artist; Deborah Whitley, Cisco Service Club president; Carlene Conner, Jan Cooper, Linda Cozart, Rosa Escobedo, Cindy Hubbard, Sherry Kimbrough, Betty McGrew, Christine Langford, Sandy Langford, Jessie Pippen, Joyce Schaefer, Allen Smith, Ruby Streiff, Barbara Tollett, Janice Turner, Hattie Weathers, Francille Winnett, Gina Winnett, Velda Witzsche, Joy Worley, Butch Zellman, Evelyn Kirk, Carla Arnold, Dianne Fisher and Pennie Fields in charge of publicity. Other club members are involved in ticket sales.

Cisco Service Club members are asking for Cisco citizens' full support in this project, and invite everyone to come by the Chamber of Commerce anytime, for a sneak preview of the original work of art.

Council Starts Project

The Student Council of CHS is sponsoring a School Services program. The program is a clean-up, fix-up program consisting of members of the council and staff.

One of the projects being worked on now is the painting and cleaning of the restrooms. Another project in progress is the repairing of the flag pole so that it can be used again. We have missed the flying of Old Glory.

The student council sponsored a dance last Saturday night and raised approximately $150.

Heart-A-Grams

During Valentine week the Hero Club of Cisco High School prepared and sold Heart-a-Grams (Valentines carrying personal messages). The Hero Club delivered them to the respective students involved.

The Heart-a-Grams were sold for 25 cents each and the Hero club made about fifty-five dollars from this project.

The Club plans to use the money for the banquet planned for March 19, 1981. The banquet is an employer-employee banquet which is held each year to pay honor to the various employers who support this program by employing students.

CHS Chit-Chat

The once shy T.T. is now learning how to "mix" his friends.

CF's head is in the clouds since her father said "Yes" to a Saturday at Reunion Tower with her Teddy Bear. J.B.C. learned the hard way that 40 dollars of Valentine candy won't keep you together for long.

We all know who's been down this weekend after looking at a senior's neck. February is a time for love with:

P.S. and J.E.; T.E. and J.P.; P.P. and D.H.; S.D. and M.G.; and M.D. and G.D.

Line Up

This week's sports spotlight goes to our four senior girls pictured in the above picture. They are Terri Dunahoe, Kathy Phillips, Ollie Elizalda and Gretchen Cermin. These girls are all active on the Varsity Basketball Team at CHS. They have certainly contributed to the team this year and we will certainly miss them the next year. CJC To Offer Ten Different Community Service Courses Here

Cisco Junior College will offer ten different Community Service Courses to people in the general area of Cisco during the current spring semester. Community service courses are open to everyone, have no admission requirements, and are usually taken by people interested in the subject for the pleasure of learning about it or how to do it. The courses are designed primarily for adults, but some are open to children. Each course will carry a small tuition fee to cover the basic costs of offering it.

Beginning the week of February 23, 1981, the Monday afternoon and evening classes are as follows:

- POWDER PUFF MECHANICS--Automotive mechanics for females, 2:00 p.m.;
- CROSS-STITCH DESIGN--a needle art form worked from graphs on evenweave fabrics, 7:00 p.m.;
- BEGINNING GUITAR--basic skills of guitar rhythms, chords, and music reading, 7:00 p.m.

Tuesday afternoon and evening offerings are ART FOR CHILDREN--beginning and intermediate art for children ages 5-14, 4:00 p.m.; SMALL ENGINE REPAIR-- basic repair of small engines, 7:00 p.m.;

FEATURE WRITING--study of newspaper and magazine feature material, with emphasis on identifying subjects, research, interviewing and writing, 7:00 p.m.

Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7:00 the WOMEN'S EXERCISE classes will be held in Vocational-Technical Building #2. The course is a physical fitness program in which choreographed routines are performed to music and is a fun form of exercise.

Wednesday evening's class will be BRIDGE--the fundamentals of bridge at 7:00.

GARDENING classes will be on Thursday evenings at 7:00. This course will involve the when, where, and why of home vegetable gardens.

Friday evening's offering is MOTORCYCLE MECHANICS--basic repair and instruction in mechanics of your motorcycle, 7:00 p.m.

Interested persons may pre-register through the CJC Registrar's office, or at the time of the first class meeting. Early registration is advised because some of the courses have a class size limit. Tuition costs range from $15 to $30 with some classes requiring the students to furnish their own supplies.

For more information call the Registrar's Office or Clois Purvis at Cisco Junior College at 817-442-2567. If there is a course that anyone would like to have offered, bring this to the attention of Mr. Purvis; it may be that the class can be offered in the near future.

Divorce Affects Children

COLLEGE STATION-Children of divorce need to understand the arrangement of relationships in their lives - and have help in knowing how divorce will affect them, a family life education specialist says.

Like death, divorce has been treated as "an unpleasant subject to which children must adjust" - often without help, Diane Welch stresses.

Mrs. Welch is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service The Texas A&M University System.

It may not be easy for parents to provide the needed help, either, she admits. Parents are trying to get through their own personal upheaval. Objectivity and patience may be lacking.

CHILDREN'S MAJOR NEEDS
Keeping the lines of communication open and honest is one key to helping children understand what is happening. Parents should make a special effort to provide their children with generous doses of love and warm affection - along with consistency in behavioral guidelines, routines, and expectations. All of these are major needs of children. They cannot be overlooked during divorce.

TEENS' SPECIAL NEEDS
Adolescents sometimes exhibit more obvious reaction to divorce than children of other ages.

Teenagers have a clearer understanding of what a family is and the mutual love and understanding it can provide for its members.

Divorce may shake the foundation of this belief. Because adolescents are prone to pass judgment quickly, they may cut themselves off from their parents or side with one.

Sometimes loss of self-esteem and the emergence of self-blame are special problems the teen of divorce faces.

Parents must recognize these and other special problems and help their teens deal with them.

SUPPORT GROUPS STRENGTHEN
Another worthwhile way of helping teens cope with their parent's divorce is outside help from a support group.

An experimental program sponsored by the Family Court of Allen County, Indiana, offered a workshop for children of divorcing parents.

Small group sessions were led by trained and responsive adults.

Children in the group learned through non-threatening films. They explored the effects of divorce in terms of emotional response, and they had time to discuss their thoughts with their peers.

Most of the youth were pleased with the workshop and said they felt it was helpful to them. Most said they would come again if they had it to do over.

PEOPLE HELPING PEOPLE TEXAS STYLE
In Texas, most communities have the resources to conduct such workshops for youth, Mrs. Welch says.

County Extension agents who coordinate educational programming based on county residents' major needs are available for group organization - as are church leaders and representatives of social-service agencies, she points out.

"If the need is there and groups are available, parents may wish to encourage participation - the benefits appear worthwhile," she concludes.

IWU Reflections In Perspective

By I. Will Ussery

In preparation for the commencement of a construction project at almost any location in the United States the employer is obligated to provide the jobsite, with "free and unimpeded ingress and egress thereto and therefrom" for all his employees. Tools and equipment, ice water, materials...and on a project of any magnitude; a first aid station manned usually by a nurse or a medical technician who has had extensive first aid training.

On a "pioneer camp" in a foreign country, this is highly inadequate. Every employee must be provided "full bed and board". He must be housed and fed. Mess halls must be constructed, and a continuous and ample supply of foodstuffs must be provided. And a fully qualified Medical Officer must hold sway over a well-stocked dispensary which is housed in a "dressing station" which is equipped in accordance with the expected needs of the work force. Our camp at Jebel Dhanna, in the Arab State of Abu Dhabi was required, in the interest of the employer, to meet those requirements.

Our Medical Officer was fully qualified Fellow of the Royal Academy of Surgeons: His little "fracture ward" consisted of a fully equipped two-bed hospital. He was assisted by a trained East Indian male nurse. After all; the good doctor had a captive practice of more than four hundred patients...not counting the wives and children of some of the coolies and artisans whose wives turned up in a little tent village beyond the first ridge a mile or so away.

And the MO of Jebel Dhanna was indeed a character. His age was somewhere in the middle thirties. Unmarried, and he had never learned to drive an automobile! A charming chap, but eccentric as all get out. Naive! He'd believe almost any tale which was told to him by any of the "old construction stiffs". But we loved him. And he did a super job of dispensing his pills and potions as well as treating the cuts and abrasions...together with an occasional fracture...suffered by the labour force.

Under the tutelage of our Master Mechanic, a dour Yorkshireman, he learned to drive a Land Rover, whereupon he was issued one of those sturdy British counterparts to the American Jeep. His Rover was fully equipped to serve as an ambulance, and the MO took great pride in his vehicle. The red cross he painted on either side and on the roof of the Land Rover could be seen and distinguished a good two miles away across the desert.

Now the good doctor had stated that he had no intention of returning to Britain upon the completion of the project. He had seen the need of medical service among the Bedouins, and he was going to establish a local practice...subject to the approval of the Ruler, of course.

After a little more than a year, when the job began winding down and the labour force was being trimmed a bit, the doctor began taking "mini-leaves". He'd announce that the ailments of the camp were being left in the hands of his nurse, and he would hide himself into the desert. On one of those excursions; he was gone for more than a week. We felt some concern, and by short wave radio reported to the Trucial Oman Scouts (about which books have been written) that he had become "lost, strayed or stolen". And would Major Wilson be so kind as to have one of his patrols keep an eye out for him? He would, and did. A couple of days later the MO returned to camp, escorted by a patrol of the Scouts complete with "desert buggies" and "Ferret" scout cars. He could not comprehend our concern. He wasn't lost. He was right out there in the desert all the time. Of course, he didn't know exactly where he was, but he felt certain that the "Bedus" with whom he'd been visiting knew. And in due course of time he'd have asked them. Not to worry, old chap.

And as our project was closing out and the Oil Company was making its transition of Jebel Dhanna from a construction campsite to a full fledged oil loading terminal a French-based firm moved in to provide a variety of services to the terminal. A "guest hotel" was built. It served well as a transient station for travelling employees of the oil company as well as temporary quarters for labour crews who'd be coming and going at the place. And the company (the oil company) insisted that medical services be included in the package. A golden opportunity for our Good Doctor B. We approved his transfer to the French firm.

Now; with all due credit to the French, I have enjoyed passing acquaintance with a few construction firms from that country through which flows the River Seine, with its Left Bank and its Right Bank. And almost without exception they have a very faint trace of an inclination toward a degree of parsimony when it comes to expenditures for equipment or personnel of the "non-productive" category. Dr. B. seems to have been classified in that segment of the organization. His ambulance was not part of the transfer. That would have involved the crossing of palms with silver...our palms; their silver. But he was given an almost new bicycle of a daily tour of the three camp areas...grown from two, with the coming of the operating personnel.

Came time for Dr. B's monthly on-site "leave", a five-day period during which his nurse took care of the shop while he did such non-medical things as suited his fancy. And the Medical Officer disappeared.

On another of his jaunts to visit the desert Bedus, it was supposed. And indeed it turned out to be just that. Except that he had taken with him no vehicle. And his return was little short of a complete spectacle. He plodded into camp, duly sitting crosslegged on a camel. Seems he had purchased the animal from one of his Bedouin friends under the condition that he should be taught to handle the beast. Reaching the dispensary, he tapped the steed on the knees with his camel stick, the animal slumped to the ground as only a camel can slump, and Dr. B. dismounted. To the first question, he replied calmly. "My new transport". With which he strode into the dispensary, leaving his trusty ship of the desert where he had dismounted him.

With a box of laundry detergent, gallons and gallons of water, and the diligent efforts of his houseboy, Dr. B. made that camel one of the most respectable-looking animals in the desert. And the camel took but very little time in locating the kitchen garbage bin, simply loaded with some of the finest lettuce and cabbage trimmings in existence not to mention many other highly tasty goodies.

But for the sake of totally reliable identity, Dr. B. added one final touch. Shaving a large area on each side of the camel, he painted with mercurochrome a bright red cross in the shaven areas.

Each morning he would be seen making his rounds. Sitting atop his trusty mount, bowler derby shielding his dome from the rays of the sun, umbrella hooked on one arm and with his pill bag hanging by a rope loop to one of the horns of the saddle he would visit all his patients.

Until one afternoon when disaster struck. A drill-ship which was doing some investigative bottom studies a considerable distance offshore radioed in that a man had fallen some twenty feet to the deck and that fall had resulted in multiple fractures. He was being sent ashore in a high speed launch. Could a doctor meet the boat at the jetty? Dr. B. was alerted, as only an excited Frechman can alert. Putting his bag together, he put on his derby, hooked the umbrella across his arm and stepped out to his camel. The Frenchman was livid. Dr. B. was quite calm. "No, thank you. I shall use my own transport." It was more than a mile to the jetty.

He made his point. The following week his employers asked if we would consider selling the "ambulance". Seems they had obtained emergency approval to purchase same.

Feb. 28 Deadline for HEAP

The last day to apply is Feb. 28, 1981 for the Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP). It was designed to help very low income households meet the increased cost of home heating. The program will provide a one-time payment for each eligible household for fiscal year 1981. The amount will be based on income and the payment standards set for each county in the state.

We are particularly interested in seeing that information about the HEAP reaches low income households which include elderly, handicapped or homebound individuals. Other high priority low income households include those with young children, migrants, persons with communication problems (deafness, speech defects and language barriers), and persons who are geographically or socially isolated.

Low income households which wish to do so may apply for a HEAP payment in January and February, 1981 said Marilyn Smith, County Administrator, at 201 N. Main Eastland, Tx. 76448.

THE HOME ENERGY ASSISTANCE PROGRAM
The Home Energy Assistance Act of 1980, established the Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP), designed to assist low income households in meeting the increased cost of energy for heating and cooling their homes. It is federally funded through the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS). In Texas, the program is administered by the Department of Human Resources (TDHR).

There are two primary eligibility requirements for the heating assistance element of the program:

1. the household must have energy costs that are subject to increases; and
2. the household must have both low income and low resources (an income

In Texas, several hundred thousand households meet these requirements. The Department expects to make payments to approximately 600,000 households.

Payments will begin in January and continue through March, 1981. Most households which receive January benefits from the Aid to Families with Dependent Children Program (AFDC), the Supplemental Security Insurance Program (SSI) or the Food Stamp Program will also receive a check in January from the Home Energy Assistance Program. These households have already had their incomes verified, and their addresses are on a TDHR computer file. Payments to these households will number roughly 400,000.

The remaining 200,000 households projected to receive a HEAP payment are low income families and individuals which do not receive AFDC, SSI or Food Stamp benefits, and some recipients of needs-tested Veterans Administration benefits. These households will be required to apply for HEAP payments during the months of January and February, 1981. A face to face interview is required for certification, as are verification of household income and the identity of the head of household, and of the applicant, if different than the head of household.

Each county in Texas will have a location from which applications may be picked up and delivered. The eligibility process will be handled, in many counties, by county governments, community action agencies (CAA) and councils of government (COG). All other counties will be handled directly by TDHR local staff.

Public information efforts will be focused primarily on community service agencies, church groups, schools, and organizations which serve the elderly, handicapped, migrant and young children.

Once an applicant household has been certified for a HEAP payment, the local eligibility determination office will notify TDHR in Austin, where the household will be checked to assure that no duplicate payments are made. If the certified households has not received an earlier HEAP payment, a state warrant will be prepared and mailed directly to the certified household. The household should receive its payment within 20 - 30 days from the date of certification.

All applicants have the right to a timely determination of eligibility (within 30 days of application); courteous service; reasonable assistance in completing the application; a review of any decision and, if necessary, a formal hearing; and confidential treatment of all information required for eligibility determination.

GORDON SPOT

By DeMarquis Gordon

Garden centers, nurseries and feed stores across the county will soon be having sales on garden equipment and various gardening supplies. If your vegetable garden is going to be economical and enjoyable, you will have to make many important decisions in the next few weeks. Be a smart shopper and remember - so-called bargains may not really be bargains at all.

Believe it or not, bargain seed is oftentimes not a good buy. Packets of seed which normally sell for 39 cents to 79 cents each may be offered for as little as three packages for $1. Whether or not this is a real bargain will depend on whether or not the seed is of high quality and will produce a good crop of vegetables.

Check the seed packet to see when it was processed. Most seed packets are dated and indicate the year seed was produced. Also, make sure that sale seed are varieties recommended for this county. Saving a little money by purchasing seed of the wrong variety will certainly be reflected by lower yields come harvesttime.

If you have a large garden, consider buying bulk seed. Bulk seed can be purchased in small quantities and, in general, is higher quality and has a higher percent germination. Also, it is usually less expensive since the cost of packaging and the packet is not included in the price.

In buying plants, again buy recommended varieties. When selecting your plants, remember the biggest plant is not always the best buy. Ideally, transplants should be about as tall as they are wide. They should be dark green in color, vigorous looking and certainly without spots, lesions, or damage to the foliage. Purchase only the exact number of plants you will need according to your garden plan.

When buying fertilizer, questions always come up as to what type to buy and how much. Garden fertilizer comes in different grades and sizes. In general, most garden fertilizers come in 50-pound bags.

If this is your first garden, you determine which fertilizer is best and how much it might be a good idea to have your soil tested to help you will need to apply. Soil test kits are available from my office and if you will give me a call, I will be glad to send you a kit along with necessary instructions. In the absence of a soil or if insufficient time is the problem, the best fertilizer for a garden in Eastland County is 10-10-10, 10-20-10.

With regard to saving money when buying fertilizers, it is easy to determine which is the best buy.

Nitrogen, which is the first number in the analysis, is the most expensive item in the bag. These analysis numbers are percentages - in other words, a 50-pound bag of 10-20-10 contains 10% or 5 pounds of nitrogen. Divide the price of the bag of fertilizer by the pounds of nitrogen in the bag to determine the price per pound of nitrogen. Use this price per pound of nitrogen in making your decision on which is the best buy for your garden.

When buying garden chemicals, remember that one or perhaps two general-purpose insecticide and fungicide materials are all that may be necessary. When buying chemicals, purchase only those that you feel will be needed for this year's garden. Many garden chemicals, when stored from one year to the next, lose their effectiveness. Thus, you may actually be better off buying small quantities of garden chemicals. Of course, with a large garden, larger quantities will be more economical.

Home gardening can be compared to fishing. You can have an expensive boat, fancy rod and reel, an electronic fish finder and all the other fancy equipment, or you can get by with a cane pole, piece of string and a fishhook. Fancy equipment doesn't necessarily mean you are going to catch a lot of fish. The same is true of gardening. Basic tools include a spading fork, shovel, hose, rake and garden hose. Any other tools like rototillers may be purchased or rented to make gardening easier but should not be considered absolutely necessary for successful gardening in Eastland County.

Eastland County Jail Becomes Certified

The Eastland County Jail underwent inspection Wednesday February 18th by Mr. Bob Dearing from the Texas Jail Commission. The jail was easily certified. Inspection by the Commission is an annual event.

According to Mr. Dearing, the jail would have been certified earlier but on his last scheduled visit, it was still unfurnished.

Mr. Dearing said he had two recommendations to make but that was all they were. He said the recommendations in no way had anything to do with the constitutionality of the jail.

Mr. Dearing's first recommendation was that a cover be put on top of the exercise yard. According to Mr. Dearing this would prevent weapons from being thrown into the area. He also felt a fourth jailer should be hired.

Three jailers are now employed by the County, but a fourth would allow them to work shorter shifts and thus be more alert. Mr. Dearing said he felt this was very important.

A state law requires that all jailers be certified by the state, the same as peace officers are.

Eastland's jail was the 78th one in the state to be totally certified by the Texas Jail Commission. This means a jail must comply with Texas State Law on jails. For the Eastland County jail to be certified, a lot of hard work was done by the Commissioner's Court and the Sheriff's Department.

According to Mr. Dearing the jail is exceptionally clean and very well operated. He said "Eastland County has elected officials to be proud of. They saw a problem and eliminated it." He went on to say "in his opinion this should be a warning to would be offenders that the Texas Jail Commission stands behind this jail and its operational procedures as being constitutional."

On hand when Mr. Dearing presented the certification to Sheriff Johnny Morren was County Judge Scott Bailey, precinct 4 County Commissioner, C. B. Dill, Jail Administrator John Mackey and the press.

Mr. Dearing said "Mr. Mackey has done an exceptional job" then he added "the Jail Commission has been well received by the Commissioners Court, Judge Bailey and the Sheriff's Department. We have enjoyed our relationship with them."

The Texas Jail Commission was established in 1975 by the Texas Legislature, when it became apparent that Federal Courts were becoming involved in the day to day operations of county jails in the state.

Mr. Dearing was hired by the JExecutive Director of the Texas Commission of Jail Standards, Robert Viterna. Mr. Dearing has been with the Commission since its beginning.

The Commission is made up of nine board members, appointed by the Governor, and staff. The staff consists of three inspectors, one consultant, one planner and one executive director.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

A stranger came onto a boy who was lying by a stream, holding a cord in his hand, and looking up into the heavens.

"What are you doing?" he asked.

"Flying a kite," came the reply.

"I don't see it," said the man.

"I don't either," admitted the boy; "but I know it's there. I can feel the tug on my cord."

Like the boy, we are on earth. Like our kite, our Lord is in heaven. And faith is the cord that binds our hearts to our dear Lord in glory.

I cannot see the Lord, but I can feel Him—guiding me, guarding me, and giving me gladness; comforting me, keeping me, and caring for all my needs.

For my weariest day, He is my stay. For my darkest night, He is my light. For my weakest hour, He is my power. For each moment's call, He is my all. And every day with Him is sweeter than the day before.

Have you felt the thrill of His tug at your heart?

Cisco Blood Drive Wed. Feb. 25

The Cisco Blood Drive will be held at E.L. Graham Memorial Hospital from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Wednesday, February 25.

A team of laboratory technicians from Mary Meek Blood Bank of Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene will be present to take blood donations.

A blood insurance policy is available to interested blood donors. For a pint of blood given, that donor's immediate family will be assured of having blood available to them for one full year.

Please help! Blood is so necessary for life itself. Accidents and sicknesses can happen very quickly when there's no time to ask for blood then. Please help yourself, your family, friends or community by giving some of your blood on Wednesday.

Blood donors should be aware of the following when preparing to give blood:

A. All donors must be age 18 or older, there is no age limit, only that each donor is healthfully able to give blood.

B. Blood donors should eat normally, and are encouraged to do so before giving blood.

C. No medication should be taken 18 hours prior to donating blood, however no medication should be deleted without first checking with the perspective donor's own doctor.

D. Any person who has been sick or has had a cold within the last seven days prior to donating blood, should not donate blood.

E. Any person who has had their ears pierced within the last six months at any place other than a doctor's office, should not donate blood.

F. Any person who has been in Southeast Asia in the last three year should not donate blood, due to malaria possibilities.

G. Any woman who has menstruated in the last three to four days prior to donating blood; should not donate blood.

H. No woman who is pregnant, or suspects she is so, should give blood, and should not do so until six weeks after pregnancy.

I. Persons can donate blood every two to three months, with no foreseen problems, although, it is hopeful to not have to call on the same donors nearly this often.

This blood drive is being sponsored by the Civic League and the Service Club. Those club members helping with this blood drive are: Betty Alford and Evelyn McGuire from the Civic League; Carla Arnold, Rachel Cagle, Renee Dillard, Penny Fields, Dianne Fisher, Sherry Kimbrough, Joyce Schaefer, Allene Smith, Ann Williams, Gina Winnett, and Joy Worley, from the Service Club.

Ruby Strieff was the previous chairman of the Blood Drives. She was a very big help and is missed greatly.

In June the Civic League will continue this project for a six months period and then the Service Club will take it over.

CJC Children's Theater To Present 'Rumpelstiltskin'

The Cisco Junior College Children's Theater will present "Rumpelstiltskin," at 1:00 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, February 24, 25, and 26, in Harrell Fine Arts Auditorium. The play is an adaptation of the famous Grimm's fairy tale by Sally Netzel, and it is directed by Janis Myer, CJC drama instructor. Miss Myer's technical theater class built the sets and made the costumes and scenery.

As the story goes, the young Prince, played by Lance Allred of Houston, loves Melinda, the kitchen maid, played by Tracy Freed of Abilene. The prince attempts to convince his mother, the gold-hungry Queen, that Melinda is a worthy bride by telling her that she can spin gold from straw. Kathy Powell of Sugarland plays the Queen. When the Queen requires Melinda to produce, the desperate girl secures the services of a wicked gnome, Rumpelstiltskin. John Akers of Cisco fills this role.

The gnome puts his evil magic to work and spins more gold, but the greedy Queen always wants more. As Melinda gets more and more gold, she becomes more and more indebted to Rumpelstiltskin, even to the point of promising him her first child. Donnell Dawson of Rogers and Tim Stuart of Comanche complete the cast, playing the parts of palace guards. The show lasts about one hour.

The stage crew includes Lupe Gonzales, Ozona, light operator; John Hensley, Houston, sound operator; David Johnson, Brownwood, costumes; and Marie Restori, Clyde, stage manager and make-up.

More than 1,300 reservations have been received from a dozen schools from seven area towns. Miss Myer reports that there is still space available for the Thursday performance, but reservations must be made by calling the CJC switchboard at 817-442-2567. The admission price is 50 cents.

Fight Range Weeds With Herbicides

Some ranges are already sporting a lot of weeds, and a little rain in dry areas could bring a weed explosion.

So ranchers need to consider herbicides in their arsenal of weapons to fight pesky weeds which render rangeland unproductive.

"Most annual weeds can be controlled with the herbicide 2, 4-D if it's applied when weeds are small and growing rapidly," points out Dr. Tommy Welch with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Common broomweed is one of the most notorious annual weeds that periodically infests rangeland. In areas that received good fall moisture, common broomweed seedlings may be present. A heavy infestation of this weed will reduce grass production significantly and will reduce forage consumption by cattle in late summer and fall when the weed matures and forms the familiar "broom."

"Common broomweed can be controlled with 2, 4-D when seedlings are 4 to 8 inches tall and growing rapidly," says Welch, a range brush and weed control specialist. "When plants begin to mature and develop a broom-shaped top in late spring, control is difficult. Thus positive identification of common broomweed early in the season and a timely herbicide application are keys to successful control."

2, 4-D amine can be used effectively in area that receive more than 25 inches of annual rainfall while 2, 4-D low-volatile ester should be used in areas of less rainfall. A 2, 4-D-dicamba mixture is a good choice for harder-to-kill weeds, when growth conditions are not ideal, or when annual weeds have begun to mature but have not flowered, notes Welch. Dicamba and 2, 4-D can be tank mixed, or a 2, 4-D-dicamba mixture (3 to 1 ratio) is commercially available under the trade name Weedmaster.

"In addition to annual weeds, ranchers must also battle perennial weeds that infest some rangeland. Among these are Western ragweed and yankeeweed," says Welch.

2, 4-D is a good herbicide for easy-to-kill ragweed while 2, 4-D-dicamba is needed for yankeeweed. Good growth conditions are necessary to obtain control of perennial weeds with herbicides, adds the specialist.

If plans have been made to apply a herbicide for mesquite control and weeds are present, a 2, 4, 5-T-picloram mixture (Tordon 225E) or 2, 4, 5-T-dicamba will take care of both problems. Since 2, 4, 5-T-dicamba is no longer available as a commercial formulation, the mixture must be tank mixed.

Welch notes that ranchers sometimes do not get good weed control due to improper calibration of spray equipment or improper mixing of herbicide. So those applying their own herbicide should calibrate their spray equipment and read the label for proper mixing instructions.

"To obtain maximum benefits from controlling range weeds with herbicides, ranchers must also practice good grazing management," emphasizes Welch. "If overgrazing is a prime cause for weed infestation, applying a herbicide may provide only short-term weed control. With proper grazing management, a good cover of grass can be maintained and weeds can be reduced."

John Blair New Assistant County Agent

Eastland County Agricultural Extension Office has announced the appointment of a new Assistant County Extension Agent. John Blair, graduate of Tarleton State University, was approved by the Eastland County Commissioners Court Monday, February 9, for employment to begin February 16. Blair's appointment was recommended by John Burleson, District Extension Director. Mr. Blair was raised in Taft, Texas, and moved to Stephenville in 1976. During Mr. Blair's college career at Tarleton he served as freshman class president as well as begin an active member in the Collegiate F.F.A. and the Block and Bridle Club. In December 1979 John graduated with a B.S. degree in Agriculture Education and his wife, Johanna, will finish this May. Mr. and Mrs. Blair plan to live here in Eastland. This office was left open when the former agent, Danny Lamberth, moved to Stephenville to work with the Soil Conservation Service.

5492 H.T. Edwards et al v. Shell Oil Company et al. (Opinion by Judge McCloud) Yoakum

Lights From The Christian World

By Josephine Cleveland

"In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He shall direct thy paths."—Proverbs 3:6.

Do not be afraid. He is telling you to go forward. Move on in faith and trust Him to lead you as you take one step at a time. Obstacles will be removed as you move forward. Remember—take your companions Faith, Hope and Trust.

Accept the gift of Faith and a continuous melody will spring forth in your heart. The delight of this gift inspired the lyric writer to pen—"Faith in God can move a mighty mountain."

The Lord of Glory is saying to you, "Hope, my Child, for Hope must travel hand in hand with Faith." Faith is the essential part of Hope, the very evidence of things not seen.

The Spirit is gently whispering, "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own understanding"—Proverbs 3:5.

As a pool of water becomes stagnant without an outflow, so will your being remain in a fixed state without a release. With courage remove the debris so that once again the waters will become the pure calm waters they were created to be.

Josephine Cleveland may be contacted by writing Box 591, Cisco, Texas 76437.

John Akers of Cisco is Rumpelstiltskin, the evil gnome who spins gold from straw. "Rumpelstiltskin," by Sally Netzel, is the production of CJC's Children's Theater, February 24, 25 and 26, at 1:00 p.m., Harrell Fine Arts Auditorium.

THE MESQUITE TREE

COWBOYS CURSE its thorns and swear at its impenetrable brush. Ranchers grub, bulldoze, or spray it with planes to eradicate it. Yet, others equate it with manna from their God, claiming every portion of this much maligned tree has its use, ranging from medicine and candy to bread and beer, even cattle feed equal to alfalfa hay.

The survival of many an expedition over the arid southwest depended on the mesquite bean for food, and its roots for fuel. As a medicine, it served as the local pharmacy to the Native American. More than a century ago Capt. Randolph Marcy reported it as the greatest discovery in the west since gold was found in California.

A leguminous tree, the mesquite comes from the genus Prosopis. Of its 35 species, Prosopis glandulosa is the mesquite of the American southwest. The ancient Aztecs knew it as mezquitl. Pronounced "mezkoet" often "muskeet" in Texas - it has also been known as western honey locust, honey or velvet mesquite, algaroba tree, and Texas ironwood.

The primary tree of the southwestern deserts, the mesquite is at home throughout much of Mexico, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, western Oklahoma, southern California, southern Nevada, southwestern Utah, and in recent years has crept into southern Kansas and western Louisiana.

Often the mesquite appears as a shrub with the mass of its wood growing below ground as large, creeping roots. Settlers' camps were pitched near it with seemingly no timber or fuel of any kind visible for miles. For the frontiersman knew that with spade and ax he could dig for wood, and with a yoke of oxen, pull out pieces fifteen to twenty feet long.

Not only do mesquite roots grow down - as much as 175 feet - they grow out laterally, reaching as far as fifty feet. The southwest is "a hell of a country," frontiersman used to say, "where a man has to dig for wood and climb for water," meaning digging for mesquite roots and climbing canyons to headsprings. But on rich bottomlands the mesquite can grow forty-feet high, with an undivided trunk two feet in diameter and seven-to-ten-foot high before forking.

The tree has a peculiar charm of its own. Thickets of mesquites in bloom have often been mistaken for vast peach orchards. In Mexico it was long planted as a shade tree. On the campus of Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, Texas, tall, wide-spreading mesquites grace the landscape. In fact mesquites probably furnish ninety percent of the Abilene's shade, as is true in many west Texas towns.

Its foliage has long served as an almanac to farmers. "The mesquite knows," old-timers will tell you. It knows when winter is over and there is no longer danger of frost. "When the mesquite begins to bud, it's time to put out tomato plants," is a Texas folk saying. "Plant cotton when the mesquite leaves," is another.

Its deciduous leaflets, no longer than two inches, are adapted to arid regions. Its early foliage is an emerald-green that gradually deepens its hue as the season progresses before turning yellow in the fall. Late to generate its leaves, they remain equally late in the fall or into winter months. When grass is scarce, cattle will eat around the tree, reaching as high as their tongues will stretch.

MESQUITE MEANT a water source to such plainsmen as Charles Goodnight, who built a ranching empire. When spying a mesquite, Goodnight was always sure he could find water within five miles. He believed mustangs had scattered the seeds through eating the beans, and he knew mustangs rarely ranged more than five miles from a water hole.

When Texas was first settled, mesquite flats were the pioneers' choice, for they knew mesquite groves meant rich soil. It was long believed that its roots grew to water and the place to sink a well was beside a mesquite. A 1911 study showed that wherever mesquites grew in California's Mojave Desert, the water table was not more than thirty-feet deep.

Texas boasts the largest mesquites in America, found on the lower Rio Grande and the Mueces where many of the trees may exceed 250 years in age. The largest in Texas, in the Santa Ana National Wildlife Refuge near Alamo, is forty-feet tall and has a trunk twelve-and-one-half feet in circumference.

Perhaps the largest living mesquite is "old Geronimo" in southern Arizona, with a whooping trunk of fifteen feet in circumference. It grows in Tumacacori, not far from where Franciscan priests also used mesquite in building Tumacacori Mission in the late 1700s.

Mesquite and ruins in the southwest are to each other as the plains and buffalo grass. Mesquite beams were used 600 years ago in the Casa Grande Pueblo on the Gila River near present-day Coolidge, Arizona. When the Spanish mission that came to be known as the Alamo was built in 1718, mesquite was used in its timbers.

The first cannon used in Mexico's struggle for independence from Spain was from a mesquite. Made in 1810 by the patriot Morelos, he split a log, hollowed it out smoothly, and bound the halves together with green rawhide. In Arizona, the Apache and Navaho made their bows from it.

Mesquite was used in the construction of Fort Richardson in 1867 near Jacksboro, Texas, a town originally named Mesquiteville. In the early 1880s it provided the first paving in San Antonio and Brownville, Texas pioneers used mesquite for hubs and spokes for wagon wheels, and ribs and knees of small vessels. The headquarters of the sprawling King Ranch was furnished with furniture made from the tree.

Mesquite is a hard, heavy, close-grained wood, and although not strong, is extremely durable. From a pale-yellow, thin snapwood, its richly colored heartwood varies from dark brown to red and polishes beautifully, making mesquite a cabinet-worker's delight when straight trunks are found. In recent years tiling with mesquite blocks that produced some of the most beautiful floors to be found, and pipe manufacturers have experimented with it in place of briarroot.

OLD TIMERS STILL argue over which lasts longer, mesquite or cedar posts. Mesquite will last longer if cut from mature trees and allowed to season. Mexicans say the time to cut mesquite is when the sap is down, and if cut when the moon is full and the bark is peeled off worms will not bore the wood.

The mesquite begins to blossom about the middle of May and crops of sweet-scented yellow flowers with greenish-white petals continue until mid-July. The sweet fragrance of the cat-like flowers draws bees by the millions - long giving mesquite the reputation for being a major source of honey, always a clear amber and delicious quality.

Every part of the tree was utilized by Native Americans of the southwest, but its pods or bean fruit forms the forgotten manna of the tree, supplying the staple diet of those tribes. The beans form early in June and ripen throughout July and August, turning from green to yellowish-white mottled with red.

The bean can grow four-to-nine inches long and up to a half-inch wide. Each bean contains ten to twenty oblong seeds embedded in a pulp that is bitter while the pod is green, but turning a vermilion hue as it ripens, becomes a sweet and palatable to both man and animal.

When ripe they can be eaten while yet hanging on the tree, or boiled, or once dried, ground into flour for cakes, mush, or bread, or even fermented for a mild alcoholic drink. The bean provides protein, carbohydrate and calcium, and four tablespoons and meal yields seventy calories.

Mesquite atole is a delicious drink long relished. The whole pods are thrown into boiling water and when cooked, are placed into fresh water, pounding into a pulp, and strained. The result is a pleasant beverage. A variation is to crush the pods first and then boil the flour. The latter recipe can result in a weak beer if allowed to undergo alcoholic fermentation - once a popular drink of the Comanche and Apache Indians.

The mesquite's gum or sap - along with its leaves, roots and inner bark - longed served as the cure-all for ailments, making this tree the local pharmacy for native inhabitants. More than 450 years ago the Aztecs used mesquite leaves as a lotion for sore eyes. At the turn of the century Mexicans still applied this remedy.

The Mescalero Apaches ground the leaves to a fine powder, placed it in a thin cloth, and adding water, squeezed the liquid into the eyes. Many believed it cured pink eye. The Comanches used the leaves for a tea to neutralize stomach acidity.

In 1829, French botanist Jean Louis Berlandier observed that the Comanches chewed the leaves to cure toothache, and used its mildly astringent juice for sore eyes. The Yuma Indians applied an infusion of the leaves to relieve venereal disease. Yaqui Indians mashed the leaves into a pulp, mixed it with water and urine, and bound the poultice around the forehead to relieve a headache.

Mexican women tied a handful of mesquite leaves in a cloth and placed it into a wash pot to boil with their clothes to make them white. Indians of southern California used the leaves as a blue dye to tattoo their faces.

Pimas boiled the leaves and made the extract for an emetic, or to induce vomiting.

The Papagos peeled the white inner bark from the mesquite, pounded it into a powdery substance, boiled it with a little salt, and drank it each morning before breakfast when suffering from chronic indigestion. The Pimas used the inner bark as a substitute for rennet, or to curdle milk.

Indian women carefully peeled the bark, then rubbed, pounded, and pulled it until it became soft and pliable when it was fashioned into diapers and skirts. Frontiersmen commonly used the bark for tanning and dyeing. Or, when jaded by a severe case of flux, they concocted a tea made from the mesquite root. Maricopa Indians used the same root tea for a child in umbilical hernia.

Of all the mesquite's attributes, none was praised or sought after as much as the tree's gum or sap-the product that caused Capt. Marcy, the explorer, to announce in his nation's capitol that it was the greatest discovery since gold in California.

From May to September, amber-colored tears of gum exude for the bark or broken limbs of older trees. The yield is increased by making incisions in the trunk. The gum will form slowly in small tears or elongated layers, but even then the yield may not be as much as a pound for the season. Similar to gum arabic, to which it has often been compared, the sap makes excellent mucilage, dissolving easily in three parts water.

In 1972 mesquite was recognized as an agricultural product when some 24,000 pounds of the gum was collected in Texas and used in the preparation of mucilage, gum drop candy and jujube paste. In recent years a gum preparation has been sold as an emollient for inflamed mucous membranes.

Not until some years after the turn of the century did the mesquite turn from a tree of praise and wonder to a menacing growth encroaching the grasslands of the plains and Southwest-"one of the most spectacular biological phenomena of this country," writes Donald Peattie in his Natural History of Western Texas.

The reasons for the mesquite encroachment are many, but can be summed up in overgrazing of the rangelands, prevention of range fires and eradication of the prairie dog. In the century between 1850 and 1950, mesquite spread from its native habitat of streams, arroyos, bottomlands, and desert springs to entangle and cover more than 75 million acres of the southwest.

Research continues. Texas Tech University is experimenting with a harvested mesquite diet for cattle. Possible mesquite products are charcoal, tannins, ethyl alcohol, acids, sugars, plastics and wall board. Mesquite gum is gaining usage in gumdrops and mucilages, and as a source of uncommon sugars.

Today, many believe that this combination wonder and ravager should not be eradicated from the bottomlands to stream banks where its value for browse and shade and even fence posts and fuel far exceeds the grass that the same land would provide.

Donald Peattie aptly concludes: "Mesquite is something more than a tree; it is almost an elemental force, comparable to fire-too valuable to extinguish completely and too dangerous to trust unwatched."

President Issues Proclamation For Disabled Persons

We seek, in the 1980's an era of national renewal, an era that will set loose again the energy and ingenuity of the American people.

Today there are 35 million disabled Americans who represent one of our most underutilized national resources. Their will, their spirit, and their hearts are not impaired, despite their limitations. All of us stand to gain when those who are disabled share in America's opportunities.

To increase the participation of disabled persons in our national life and in the lives of other nations the United Nations has designated 1981 the International Year of Disabled Persons. America has long been a world leader in this area, and the United States Council for the International Year of Disabled Persons and our Federal government have already responded to the United Nations Challenge. Programs are underway throughout the Nation.

Through partnerships of disabled and nondisabled persons; of our private sector and our government; and of our national state, and community organizations, we can expand the opportunities for disabled Americans to make a fuller contribution to our national life. I am proud to pledge the cooperation of my Administration and the Federal agencies under my jurisdiction, including the Federal Interagency Committee for the International Year of Disabled Persons.

Now, therefore, in keeping with the goals of the International Year, I, Ronald Reagan, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim 1981 the International Year of Disabled persons in the United States.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this sixth day of February, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred eighty-one, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and fifth.

RONALD REAGAN

Washington, D.C., February 6-The International Year of Disabled Persons (IYDP) was officially proclaimed this morning by President Ronald Reagan in a ceremony in the Oval Office of the White House.

"Today there are 35 million Americans who represent one of our most underutilized national resources," the President said. "All of us stand to gain when those who are disabled share in America's opportunities."

President Reagan commended the leadership of the U.S. Council for the IYDP, pledged the cooperation of his Administration, and asked for combined efforts by the private and public sectors to expand opportunities for disabled Americans to make a fuller contribution to our national life.

"You should know," Reich said, "that this is truly a nationwide partnership effort involving 1,500 communities, all states, 100 major corporations and 300 national organizations." Mr. Reich said the U.S. Council supports the President's efforts to achieve world peace and a stable economy.

"What is good for disabled Americans is good for all Americans."

Joining Reich at the ceremony were U.S. Council

WORD OF GOD

PARABLE OF JESUS Part #1

A sower went out to sow his seed; and as he sowed, some fell by the wayside, and it was trodden down, and the fowls of the air devoured it.

And some fell upon a rock, and as soon as it was sprung up, it withered away, because it lacked moisture.

And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprang up with it, and choked it.

And other fell on good ground, and sprang up, and bare fruit a hundredfold. And when he had said these things, he cried, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

BIBLE TOPS 1710 LANGUAGES

NEW YORK, February — Since the invention of the printing press at least one book of the Bible had been published by the end of 1980 in 1,710 of the world's languages and distinct dialects, according to the American Bible Society.

The American Bible Society's annual language count revealed an increase of 27 languages over the 1979 figure of 1,683 and marks the first time the Bible or part thereof has been published in more than 1,700 languages.

Among the many new translations in which a whole book of the Bible appeared for the first time eight were added in Latin America, three in Africa, five in Australia, three in the Philippines and two in Guinea-Bissau.

Two complete Bibles were published for the first time: Kimbundu in Angola, and Kinaidi in Zaire. Each was published by its own Bible Society under the auspices of the 66-member United Bible Societies, a federation of autonomous national Societies worldwide.

There were 24 languages in which complete New Testaments were reported published for the first time. New Testaments were the first Scriptures ever published in the languages of Ezaa, Ikwo and Izi. All are in Nigeria.

Geographically speaking, Africa has the largest number of languages (499) in which at least one book of the Bible has been translated. Asia ranks second with 434 languages and Latin America third with 283. In Australia and the South Pacific, Scriptures have been published in 251 languages, in Europe 179, and in North CofC MANAGER Gene Abbott returned to his office last Wednesday morning after a trip up the street. "Abilene TV Channel 9 called and left word that they're on their way to Cisco to interview you," Secretary Sheila Dunlap told him.

Gene didn't know whether to hide or be available in view of what's been happening to Cisco in the Abilene media. But it turned out good. The television man interviewed him about Cisco's upcoming centennial, and the result on Channel 9 at 6 p.m. Wednesday was a credit to Gene and Cisco.

A TELEPHONE call from Arizona reports that the person that we couldn't identify in the Commercial Printing Co. picture in The Press last week is a man named Tommy Spoonemore of Bay City, Texas. The caller was Pearl Quinn and she said that Mr. Spoonemore is her brother-in-law.

We used a magnifying glass and believe the person pictured is a man. Somebody had told The Press that the picture was of the late Mrs. Floyd Shepard.

ANOTHER NICE beard belongs to Mr. Gene Guinn, head engineer out at Otis Engineering. Overheard him tell somebody that he plans to keep it until the bitter end (Centennial time) . . . And Mr. Jeff Kahan, another black beard, is not with Kahan Energy as we noted. He's in business for himself. . . Kimbrough Funeral Home ambulance took Mr. Charlie Russell of our town to West Texas Hospital in Abilene Thursday. He was to undergo emergency surgery.

IT HAPPENED again. Dr. Chief Brown's airplane landing gear didn't come down when he pushed the "down" button the other day. He had gone to Abilene, checked his airplane out of the shop, and flew it to Cisco. When the gear didn't work, he flew back to Abilene, was able to lower the gear with manual controls and left it with the shop.

A couple of times in the past, Dr. Brown has had to land the plane with the gear up when it wouldn't come down. A committee of his good friends has voted for him to have the gear welded down. DOESN'T THE building that Channess and Sons, Amana dealers, look nice with the new brick front? . . . And isn't the T&P Railway crossing at North Avenue D the roughest you ever remember seeing on a railroad? . . . Mrs. Marston Surles was in an Abilene hospital the other day for medical tests and is due to return this coming week for more tests. . . A group of his buddies gave B.J. Perry a surprise birthday party out at the Cisco Country Club last Thursday night. Daughter Jodie Perry brought him a fancy birthday cake from Breckenridge where she works.

THE PRO SHOP at the Cisco Country Club is due to be extensively remodeled very soon, reports CCC President Ronnie Ledbetter. It will be bigger and better and have rest rooms for both men and women. . . Bill Bennie, who grew up here, is looking forward to his military retirement in a month or two when he'll take over as club manager at the CCC. . . Green grass is beginning to be noticeable at the golf course, and the greens are in good condition. . . Remodeling plans out there call for considerable new fencing for the golf course.

MR. MICKEY Collins of Big D spent last weekend here with his mother, Mrs. Con Collins. Understand they completed an inventory of the Collins Hardware and are talking to three or four people who are interested in purchasing the business.

The inventory produced a number of new spokes for buggy wheels - a left over item from the horse and buggy days - in case you have any need for same. The Collins Hardware, you know, had its beginning as a saddle shop here some 90 years ago.

THE FOUR remaining Jackson brothers and sisters (two each) went to Temple from Cisco, Albany, Denver and Houston for a reunion last Monday. Attending from Cisco were the E.L. Jackson. Last Sunday was Mrs. ELJ's birthday and same was observed at the Temple gathering, and same was to be observed again this Saturday as three of the ELJ's children were due in town. Plans called for a dinner and a birthday cake at the Jackson home.

AND WOULD'N'T it be nice if the state legislature, now in session, would restore Texas permanently to Standard Time and do away with daylight saving time that is due to begin again in late April?

Final Rites For Bill Lee Smith Are Held Friday

Funeral services for Bill Lee Smith, 72, a resident of Cisco since his retirement some 15 years ago, were conducted at 10:30 a.m. Friday at the Church of Christ, IH-20 at Avenue N. Mr. Smith died at 8:50 p.m. Wednesday at E.L. Graham Memorial Hospital.

Jim Reaves, minister of the Church of Christ, officiated, assisted by Audy Moore, J.B. Hudson and Gary Adams. Burial was in Oakwood Cemetery with Cisco Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Smith was stricken with an apparent heart attack while attending mid-week services at the Church of Christ Wednesday night. He had served as the leader for song services just before becoming ill. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

Mr. Smith was born July 21, 1908, in Eastland County. He was married to Maxine Williams on February 21, 1935, in Moran. He was a long-time employee of Humble (Exxon) and retired from that company in 1966. The Smiths moved back to Cisco soon after his retirement. He had been a part-time employee of the First National Bank as a field representative since November, 1972. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

Besides his wife, Mr. Smith is survived by one son, Steve, a Bryan attorney; two brothers, Wesley Smith of Cisco and T.A. Smith, Jr., of Amarillo; and three sisters, Lucille Hawkins of Fort Worth, Jessie Brock of Cisco and Theda Darnell of Burleson.

WORD OF GOD

Old Testament
The Pharisees also came unto him, tempting him, and saying unto him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause?

And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female,

And said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh?

Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.
