

New Mayor Thanks Voters, Issues Statement On Role

Newly-elected Mayor Eris Ritchie has requested that the Cisco Press publish the following statement on his behalf:

"On Saturday, May 30, the voters of Cisco elected me mayor, and at the same time chose four fine gentlemen to serve along with two other councilmen and me as your city government officials. We took office Monday night. I wish to thank each of you who showed your confidence in us at the polls, and I also would like to express my appreciation to all of you who have indicated to us that you would lend your help and encouragement.

"Our city government situation is somewhat unusual now, with six brand new councilmen and a new mayor. Most of us are completely inexperienced in matters of city government, but we are all pledged to give our best efforts in service to those who elected us. As one councilman expressed Monday night, we ask that you be patient with us as we do our homework and attempt to become better informed city leaders.

"I believe that I speak for all of the councilmen when I state that we believe in our city charter and in our Council-Manager form of government. A great deal seems to have been made of the question of who 'runs' the city. Although perhaps some semantics are involved in the usage of the word 'runs,' I wish to be completely understood in my personal view of the matter. I believe exactly what the charter stipulates in this regard, and I feel that our councilmen support the charter position as well. My views were perhaps overly simplified in the Wednesday Abilene-Reporter News, and for that reason I felt that this statement was in order.

"Following some exact language taken from our city charter:

"Section 40: The Mayor shall preside at all meetings of the council and shall be recognized as head of the City Government for all ceremonial purposes, for the purpose of receiving services of civic process, for emergency purposes, and for military purposes, but he shall have no administrative duties. It shall be his duty to see to the general welfare of the City, to keep abreast of and project the needs of the City, and to recommend legislation to the Council to meet these objectives. He shall conduct, in person or by naming someone to represent him, all intercourse and business of the City with other governmental entities."

Good Rain Falls Here Wednesday

Rainfall measuring up to 1.5 inches fell in this West Central Texas region as a cold front thunderstorm moved through Wednesday night.

City Manager R.J. Turpin said Lake Cisco caught approximately four inches of new water Wednesday night and Thursday. The Battle Creek pumps were running Thursday as a result of the rain. The creek was running from Lake Bernie to Lake Cisco, he added.

Rainfall during the past ten days has slowed the harvest of grain crops, area farmers reported. Peanut planting, which is underway in the area, also has been hampered by muddy fields.

Films To Be Shown At Public Library

Films will be shown at the Cisco Public Library Thursday, June 11, from 3:00 to 4:00 p.m. for children ages 3-10. Mrs. Nanette Maxwell will show the films. The film showing will be under the direction of Mrs. J.J. Porter, librarian.

All children, ages 3-10, are invited to attend this showing.

"Section 41: The City Manager shall be the Chief Administrative and Executive Officer of the City. He shall be chosen and appointed by the Council solely on the basis of his executive and administrative training, experience, and ability, and need not, when appointed, be a resident of the City of Cisco; however, during the tenure of his office, he shall reside within the City. The City Manager shall not be appointed for a definite term, but may be removed at the will and pleasure of the Council with or without cause."

"The charter then goes on to further define the City Manager's various powers and duties as Chief Administrative and Executive Officer of the City. I would encourage our citizens who have not read the charter to do so, as it is a very workable and practical document which provides the guidelines for the functioning of our city government.

"I feel that we as a mayor and council can function effectively by setting policy and providing policy guidelines, and then directing and making use of the City Manager and various city staff and departments to carry out the goals and objectives of these policies. Whatever we do, we should do our best to responsive to the will of the citizens who elected us, and we should always keep the good of the public uppermost in our minds, deliberations, and subsequent actions. We obviously should also watch carefully that the taxpayer's money is used for the best overall benefit of the city and its citizens.

"We hope that controversy can be kept to a minimum and that the only publicity you'll be seeing for Cisco will be positive. Your prayers, support and encouragement will be greatly appreciated."

Reappraisal Work For Cisco To Begin Within Few Days

The reappraisal work for Cisco and the surrounding area will be starting within a few days. The work will be done by field appraisers of McMorries and Company, a professional valuation firm that has been employed. The work will probably take several weeks as every piece of property must be accounted for, the completion date for the entire county is set for the fall of 1981. Plans call for one crew to be working the rural area of the Cisco district while a second crew starts work in the city.

The work is being done in order for the taxing bodies of Cisco and Eastland County to comply with State Property Tax Laws which now require that all taxable property be equalized and valued at 100% of market value by the 1982 tax year.

Crofts Brothers Here For Reunion

Sutton Crofts, center above, posed with sons Dash (with the beard) and Bob for this picture at the Crofts home Thursday. The two young Crofts are Californians and they were to be joined here this weekend by the two Crofts daughters, Dorothy (Dot) Mittel of Arlington and Carolyn Webster of Fort Worth, for a family reunion.

Dash Crofts, well known internationally in the entertainment field as half of the Seals and Crofts duo, said he and brother Bob decided to come to Cisco so they could have some time together. They live 50 miles apart in the Los Angeles area and seldom see each other, he added.

Dash plans to leave Cisco after the weekend reunion for New York City where he will record for the Tom Snyder television show. He still works with partner Jim Seals but is also doing some solo work. They are trying to get away from so much travel, concentrating on television and movie work. Seals and Crofts recordings have earned nine gold and five platinum records. Golds are grossing $1,000,000 and platinum records represent a million individual sales.

Although they're cutting down on their work schedule, Seals and Crofts will continue to do occasional shows, recordings and work together in publishing and investments, Dash said.

Dash said their stay in Cisco was real rewarding in that they enjoyed visiting with old friends, playing golf with their dad at the Cisco Country Club, and a family reunion.

Bob, retired from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is now employed by the State of California.

Their families were unable to accompany Bob and Dash to Cisco. Both Dash Crofts and Jim Seals are former students at CJC and have been in music together since starting here. Seals now lives in Costa Rica where he has a coffee plantation. Dash divides his times between his home near Los Angeles, a ranch in Oregon and a home in Mexico. He manages brief trips to Cisco to visit his parents every few months.—JWS

Again it is emphasized that work will be going on in Cisco and our surrounding area for the next several weeks so please be on the lookout for the appraisers. If you have any questions concerning the appraisal work being done in Cisco or the surrounding area, please call or contact the Cisco ISD tax office.

Rural Fire Dept. Needs Donations

The Cisco Rural Fire Department has an empty treasury and needs money to face obligations due in July, President Charlie Moad of the Rural Fire Association told The Press Friday.

The association's only income is a monthly check for $100 from Eastland County, Mr. Moad said. The balance of funds needed to keep equipment in operating condition and to buy gasoline and supplies comes from donations.

GORDON SPOT

By DeMarquis Gordon

Some good grain crops are being harvested in Eastland County. A lot of this grain will be stored in bins on the farm. Stored-grain insects will cause considerable damage if insect prevention and treatment measures are not taken. Proper attention to reducing or eliminating factors prior to and at storage time helps greatly in preventing later insect infestations.

When storing grain in farm bins, make sure the moisture content is 12% or less. Grain containing more moisture attracts insects, promotes mold growth and may induce heating.

Prior to storage, clean and treat bins thoroughly with an approved residual spray. Remove old grain, trash, feed sacks and other debris that furnish living quarters for insects. Sometimes it is necessary to sweep down the ceiling and walls and clean the floor to remove hidden waste. Cover sacks with builders molding or other suitable material to prevent grain from collecting.

After the bin has been cleaned thoroughly, spray inside surfaces with one of the following formulations at the rate of about 2 gallons per 1,000 square feet of surface area: Methoxychlor 2 1/2% or premium grade Malathion 2 1/2%. Then mix a 2 1/2% Methoxychlor, add one-half of a gallon of 25% emulsifiable concentrate to 5 gallons of water. If malathion is used, mix 1.6 pints of 57% premium grade malathion emulsifiable concentrate in 5 gallons of water.

Make a thorough application to walls, floors and machinery before loading grain. Allow treated surfaces to dry thoroughly before putting grain into the bins.

The grain should be treated as it is put into the bin. Use one pint of 57% premium grade malathion in 2 to 5 gallons of water. This will treat 1,000 bushels of grain.

If you would like more information on protection of stored grain, contact our office.

Due to the recent rains and the good growth of sorghum hybrids, sorghum cystitis could be a problem in horses this year.

Cases of sorghum cystitis frequently occur from June to November.

All equine breeds and ages are affected with the majority being two and three year olds.

Affected horses have normally grazed hybrids of sorghum and sudan. It is best not to allow horses to graze hybrid sorghums.

In-coordination of the rear legs is the first symptom of the problem, followed by uncontrolled urination. In mares, the hair may shed on the inner hind legs. Mares may also abort.

Complete recoveries have not been reported. However, horses have improved after being removed from pasture and fed a balanced ration.

Homemaking Hints

By Janet Thomas

Has the "inflation bug" bitten into your family fun? Mrs. Janet Thomas, Eastland County Extension Agent, says "bite back"!

First, reconsider how you want to spend your family fun time. Plan together as a family, focusing fun on free or inexpensive things to do. Here are a few suggestions - but they are only a beginning!

FAMILY 'HOW-TO' NIGHTS' - Start, perhaps, with family "how-to" nights.

Their basic idea is to provide positive learning experiences for all the family members - and to develop knowledge and skills that will help them become competent and independent persons. Don't try to do all of these in one evening! Some skills you might work on together are: (1) how to use the telephone, (2) use a CB radio, (3) how to write a check - explain banking, including deposits, withdrawals, savings, interest, money transfers and monthly statements, for example, (4) how to set up a personal and family budget and (5) how to operate appliances in the home.

FAMILY SERVICE PROJECTS - Another idea involves family service projects - do something as a family for someone else without thought of recognition or reward. Discuss several ideas and decide on one and do it.

Family service projects could be doing lawn care for an elderly or handicapped neighbor, holding a "family cookie-baking night" and then sending the delicious delicacies to someone who would appreciate them.

SHOWTIME DISCUSSION - Use the story of a movie or television program to discuss family values, morals, or problems and possible solutions.

FAMILY GAME NIGHT - Hold a family "game night" and work puzzles; have fun with riddles.

FAMILY FINANCE NIGHT - Use an evening now and then to discuss the general family financial picture, and include conversations about allowances and estate planning.

FAMILY "THINGS TO DO" - There are other ideas the family can pursue away from home - together. These include collecting: rocks, coins, buttons, flowers, driftwood, native materials. And

Mrs. Dorothy Underwood, County T.E.H.A. Chairman, reported on plans for the State T.E.H.A. meeting to be in Austin on September 8-10. Mrs. Underwood told the Council members of a new nation-wide project. The project is called "Alicia" and club members are urged to make up sewing kits to be used in teaching women in Mexico. Mrs. Alicia P. deValdes, through the Department of Health of Mexico, is training women and girls in home economics skills. The Eastland County Clubs voiced approval of this worthwhile project and will give their support.

The Extension Homemaker Clubs will be promoting the sale of "Vial of Life" in the coming weeks. Chairman of the sales campaign is Mrs. Edith Wilson with Mrs. Ruthie Keyes acting as publicity chairman.

Council members were excited to hear about a new Extension Homemakers Club being organized in Ranger. Mrs. Underwood reported that Mrs. Frances Cox is acting chairman of the Ranger Extension Homemakers Club.

Council voted to sponsor the concession stand at the Arts and Craft Fair to be July 31 and August 1 at the Livestock Show grounds. Chairman will be Mrs. Arlene Thompson and assisting will be Mrs. I.E. Talley, Mrs. Arlene Smith, Mrs. Edith Wilson and Mrs. Ruthie Keyes.

Sunday, June 7, 1981

Mrs. Berniece Tankersley was elected as the new County T.E.H.A. Chairman for 1982. Delegates to the State T.E.H.A. meeting in Austin will be Mrs. Tankersley, Mrs. Zelma Lusk, and Mrs. Murl Campbell. Society's View Of The Handicapped

Handicapped Americans are the targets of social oppression that is possibly more damaging to their lives than their physical disabilities, a family life education specialist says.

"Unfortunately, a typical view of the handicapped person is 'someone who is ill or a perpetual patient' - a view that defines the person primarily in terms of the physical condition," Diane Welch explains.

"That view holds in spite of well-meaning and humane intentions that include most people saying they are sensitive to persons with disabilities," the specialist continues.

Mrs. Welch is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, which as part of its special "Thrust for the 80's" Program, has defined "Social Condition" as one of the six major concerns of Texans for this decade.

Promotion of positive attitudes toward the handicapped by society is among the chief recommendations from the 1980 White House Conference on Families, Mrs. Welch says.

That conference also recommended integrating people with handicaps into the mainstream of society as fully as possible, she adds.

Techniques for accomplishing those goals could be the use of media, education, training, counseling and self-help groups, conference participants suggested.

Roughly, one of every ten children - and one of every five adults - in the United States are handicapped. Furthermore, at least one-half of all able-bodied adults have a disabled spouse, child, parent or close friend, Mrs. Welch notes.

Along with the White House Conference on Families recommendations, the Carnegie Council on Children has prepared a national report calling for a national strategy that would include research and action on behalf of the handicapped, Mrs. Welch says.

According to that report, possible directions could include:

- 1) research on the development of handicapped children,
- 2) political commitment to the needs of handicapped people,
- 3) a more active role for parents in controlling services provided for handicapped children,
- 4) more preventive medicine to forestall handicaps,
- 5) awareness -- and removal where possible -- of structural barriers in homes, the market place, educational institutions and places of leisure.
- 6) research to show what handicapped workers can do and the redesigning of industries to accommodate large numbers of handicapped persons,
- 7) better education for the handicapped, along with the development and availability of equipment to support their needs.

"And while national attention and action is warranted, there are steps every individual can take to possibly change his own actions and views about people with disabilities," Mrs. Welch stresses.

She suggests these steps are appropriate for immediate action:

Remember that everyone has a handicap - they show more on some people than they do on others.

Learn to appreciate what people with disabilities CAN DO.

Be aware of - and work for - changes in architectural barriers.

If asked, or if the need seems obvious, offer assistance -- but communicate your intentions for assistance and wait for approval.

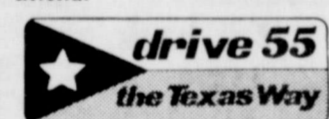

Remember whatever the limitations, people are still people with needs, interests, likes and dislikes. Consider the person.

"It's not just handicaps that are the problem of some 40 million Americans, it is also the views and actions of many of the rest of us," Mrs. Welch concludes.

4-H Fashion Revue June 25

Eastland County 4-Hers are in the midst of preparing for the annual 4-H fashion Revue to be held June 25 according to Mrs. Donna White, County Extension Agent. The 4-H clothing project is a prerequisite for the Fashion Revue. In order to enter this contest, a 4-Her must complete six learning experiences in a Clothing Training was held for this purpose in March. A 4-H club recordbook is required for all 4-Hers except sub-juniors (ages 9-11). The age division for the Fashion Revue are as follows: sub-junior (9-11) and senior (14 and over).

All forms and garment judging for the Fashion Revue will be Monday morning, June 22. Following the judging, there will be a modeling session and noon luncheon in honor of 4-Hers and their mothers. The Fashion Revue itself will be held Thursday night, June 25 at the Corral Room in Cisco beginning at 7:00 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Senior Citizens Nutrition Menu

One of the great privileges of being an older individual is you have more time to share your time and talents with other people.

The Senior Citizens of Cisco quietly go about helping care for another, and to children, or assisting in community projects. The giving of themselves is what makes life more interesting.

One member of the Senior Center adequately expressed it when she said, "God expected us to praise his glory, to help one another, and to care for ourselves as long as we have the capability to do so. To do less would not be according to the plan and word of God."

So the person, over 60, may share with one another, encourage him to become an active participant at the Senior Center. Call the Senior Center, 442-2263 or 442-1557, and tell the registrar you want to become an active member, then go to the Senior Center and get involved in the program offered.

Beverly Hawari On Dean's Honor Roll At Uoft

The Dean's Honor Roll for the College of Education at the University of Texas gives official recognition and commendation to those students whose grades for the semester indicate distinguished academic accomplishment. Emphasis is placed upon both the quality and the quantity of work done. The Honor Roll is subdivided into Summa Cum Laude and Cum Laude, students being listed under each according to the number of grade points earned for the semester.

Beverly Hawari has demonstrated superior scholastic motivation and

During the week we had the following programs: The Star-Bright Band from the Rising Star Senior Citizens Center played and sang; Roy Speegle played the piano and sang while Myrtle Van Short and Plez Ray also sang some old songs; Vida Killion and A.E. McNeely played for the dinner music.

Mrs. Lucy Devault was honored on her 80th birthday by her daughter, Betty Harrell, serving ice cream and cake to members of the Senior Center. Mrs. Devault was honored by admitting her to the 80 Plus Club.

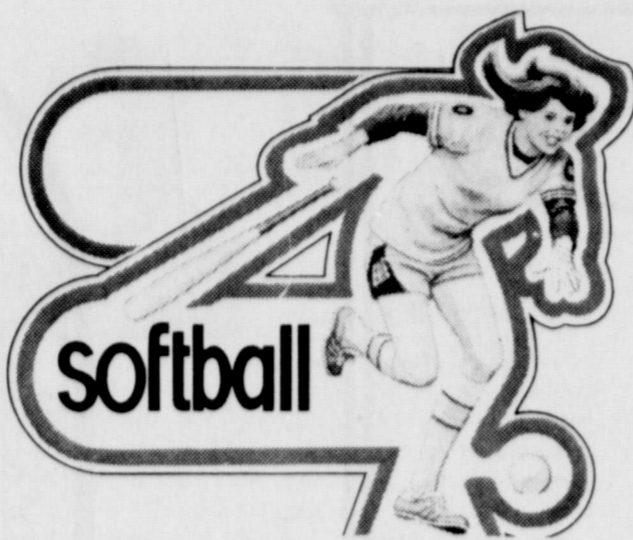

The menus for the week are:

Monday--baked beans and weiners, brussel potatoes, tossed salad/french dressing, sherbert, bread, butter and drink.

Wednesday--meat loaf, black eye peas, spinach, apple cobbler, cornbread, butter and drink.

Friday--luncheon steak, macaroni and tomatoes, mixed vegetables, cake, bread, butter and drink.

Karen Leigh Boland Named Winner

Karen Leigh Boland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Boland of Lovington, N.M., and the granddaughter of Lena Boland and the late Lee Boland of Scranton has been selected as a winner in the Odd Fellows and Rebekah's United Pilgrimage for Youth contest. Karen is a sister to Dianne Pence of Breckenridge, Dennis Boland of Snyder, Cheryl Marks and Dale Boland II of Lovington, N.M.

The 17-year old student of Lovington High School wrote an essay for the contest. The essays were impartially judged this year by members of the Albuquerque chapter of "The United Nations Association for the United States of America."

Karen received a letter of congratulations from Angie B. Elson, co-chairman of the United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth, which stated that as part of her reward for writing the prize winning essay she will receive an all expense paid trip to include points of interest from Sacramento, California, through Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia (two days in) Washington, D.C., Maryland (five days in) New York City, from there on to the great Niagara Falls and other points of interest in Ontario, returning through Michigan, Chicago, Iowa, Nebraska and on to Denver, Colorado, where she joined the Educational Bus Tour group including the delegates from California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico and Kansas. The tour will begin on July 4th and conclude July 24th.

RESOLUTION

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom has called from us our leader, co-worker and friend, Lorine Crawford, who was faithful to her church, her friends, the needy and her neighbors.

Whereas, Lorine has been a member of Charles Crawford Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, for only a short time, but she gave herself unstintingly to the work of the organization.

Whereas, It is the desire of the Chapter to pay tribute to her interests and efforts and her useful life; and to extend sympathy to her family in this great loss.

Resolved: That copies of the Resolutions be filed in the minutes of the Chapter records, and sent to her family.

Resolutions Committee, Helen McAnelly, Alye Terrell, Elizabeth Wallace

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

Austin—Last week we discussed how to locate a lawyer appropriate for your needs from asking a close friend to checking the lawyer referral service of your area bar association found in your local phone book. This week we will look at different ways you may pay for legal services.

To protect yourself from costly surprises, consider asking that you be billed on a regular basis—instead of getting a hard-to-swallow total bill at the end—and that the attorney does not provide service beyond an agreed-upon spending limit before getting your permission.

There are several ways lawyers assess their fee, and following are some of them. These descriptions are adapted from The Compleat California Consumer Catalogue: A lawyer may ask for a "contingent fee" and take a percentage of money awarded if the case is won and gets nothing if it is lost. Lawyers make this type of arrangement in personal injury cases, or when a client cannot afford a lawyer, but seems to have a good claim. You can negotiate the percentage your lawyer gets, but most often that fee is about one-third of the money awarded. Make sure you and your lawyer understand who will pay court costs and other expenses.

A lawyer may charge an "hourly rate." This may amount to more than $100 per hour, but varies with the reputation, experience, and ability of the lawyer. You may be charged a "flat fee" which you agree upon with your lawyer. Here you may come out ahead if the case becomes more complex than originally anticipated and the lawyer has to put in more time, but you may not do so well if the case is easier to handle than expected. Another type of fee is the retainer. A retainer is really a down payment when you agree to use a lawyer's services. The retainer does not cover costs or expenses, and may or may not be a down payment against the final fee. Ask your lawyer if it is.

Legal services are now being marketed in increasingly innovative ways, and you may soon find them available in chain stores, right next to the counters selling prescription eyeglasses and insurance.

The idea is to provide high volume, low-cost, no-frills, legal service to low- and middle-income consumers who often are dissuaded from using traditional legal services because of perceived high prices, but who will check out the advertised prices for "over-the-counter" services.

Another option for obtaining legal services now available in many areas is a prepaid legal plan. These plans are actually "legal insurance," much like health insurance, for which a premium is paid, and service provided when needed.

Most plans provide broad coverage for routine legal services such as family matters (including divorce, custody, and adoption), real estate purchases or sales, landlord-tenant matters, consumer credit and debt problems, wills and probate, misdemeanors, and traffic matters. Felony criminal matters are often excluded.

In the past, prepaid legal plans were available primarily to groups such as consumer cooperatives, credit unions and labor unions. Today however, some plans are open to individuals.

As with all other endeavors in which two or more parties conduct business, disagreements or problems, between lawyers and clients do arise. And, like other consumer problems, they can often be resolved by sitting down and trying to work them out. If this fails, however, you can contact your local or state bar association for assistance in settling a disagreement or in handling charges of unethical conduct

Lights from the Christian World

By Josephine Cleveland

Within the heart of every human being since the fall of the first man, Adam, there has been a vacuum. It took the meteoric death on the cross of the Son of God to fill that vacuum. It is only filled as One allows Him to fill it. Man has searched for riches, fame, pleasures and excitement of the world's allurements. Temporarily it is appealing, enticing and enjoyable; but those who have attained such find it is not enduring. They continually search for the well of refreshing water that never runs dry.

Friend, once the Divine Presence dwells within you an everlasting supply of fresh water is available to you. True, you may need often to sip from the cup; but you can be assured there will always be an abundant supply.

Sunday, June 7, 1931

ly. Life will become more than singing in the sunshine. You will become capable of singing when the dark clouds of adversity closes the bright rays of the sun from your view. You will see others not just as they now are but what they can become. You will bring new life to others. Yes, it means at times sacrifice, obedience and suffering. It means lost of fellowship with the world's flock. What an exchange! You will find the well of water that never runs dry. You will find an inner peace and joy within. You will find fine comfort, strength and power to over come any obstacle that confronts you. Praise God!

WORD of GOD

Natural Gas Decontrol - When & How?

By Viola M. Payne
The latest prediction on price decontrol of natural gas came on June 1st from a Senator who probably knows as much about it as anyone - Lloyd Bentsen of Texas. Bentsen and Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas, speaking before a meeting of Texas Independent oil operators in Ft. Worth, said opponents in the 97th Congress have made it clear that any move toward decontrol would be counteracted by threats to extend the windfall profit tax on oil to natural gas.

The Senator from Texas also told members of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association (TIPRO) that the so-called experts were wrong in two predictions regarding energy. Later he cited the "wrong predictions" in this way:

"Just a few years ago the so-called experts were unanimous in telling us about two trend lines that would never change. They pointed to an inevitable, increasing dependence on imported sources of energy and an inevitable decline in domestic production," the Senator said.

"Look at it today. We are not becoming increasingly dependent on foreign sources. Back in 1977 we imported 8.8 million barrels per day. In April of this year we were down to 5.4 million.

"Those who wrote of America's energy assets were sadly mistaken. Today there are more than 3,800 rigs operating in the United States, a thousand more than at this time last year.

"They're drilling deeper, more expensive wells, and the operators are taking bigger risks to find energy in America. And they're succeeding, finding new energy assets not just for today but for the future."

The reasons for the improvement in our energy situation, he said, is deregulation, free market pricing, and the incentives for producers to produce. The Democratic Senator said that the nation has had enough controls and enough "punishing taxation". He warned, however, that "the fight is far from over", especially in the field of Windfall Profit Taxes and deregulation of natural gas.

unlike crude oil, will require specific legislative action to repeal the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978. For weeks there have been rumors from Washington of an impending Bill drafted by the Reagan Administration, in which the President would ask Congress to deregulate the well head price of natural gas as of Sept. 30. The Office of Management and Budget confirmed that such documents had been prepared, but stressed that the final decision had not been made.

Behind any Legislative support there has to be education of the public in the complexities of fuel production, fuel reserves, and the sometimes boring technical data which goes with it. Boring - that is - unless a citizen understands the whole fabric of what is happening, and how it will influence his life style. For the decontrol of natural gas prices is an emotional issue, one in which many people do not want to be confused with facts.

For obviously the more than 200 million persons now in this country can't go out and chop enough wood to keep warm. Now can industry, or the military, run on wood or even coal - at this time. So unless the American consumer will accept the idea that higher energy prices are necessary and for his own benefit, Congress is likely to fall short of providing enough incentives to decrease America's dependency on foreign fuel.

The battle lines, on this issue, are going to be sharply drawn - between those persons who believe the great natural resources should be available to all citizens who need them, and those who believe in private or corporate ownership and no government control.

Under a truly free enterprise system, the products of the earth go to those who can afford to pay for them. It is hoped, however, that the decontrol of natural gas would react on the market about like the decontrol of crude oil - first cause the price to find a higher world-market level, then taper off as an abundance of gas became available. At the present time American consumers are paying $1.65 per thousand cubic feet for gas imported from Mexico and Canada costs $4.50 per thousand cubic feet.

One good thing Americans have going for them is that the country actually has an abundance of natural gas resources, if properly developed. Most experts agree that "It's here - and in the lower 48 States." The record new drilling in 1980 included over 14,000 newly completed gas wells. But with controlled prices at a level which is only one-third the equivalent heating value of crude oil, drilling and completion of new gas wells is not expanding fast enough to meet the future energy needs of the United States. It is expected that the price gap between natural gas and crude oil will be even wider by 1985 - unless corrections are made - leading to an even greater price shock to consumers when gas finally is decontrolled. (And economists feel that it inevitable must be, at some future time).

professor of business and economics at North Carolina State University, specializes in natural gas - and has long advocated deregulating the prices.

"Under the present system we will find curtailment biting again sometime in the early to middle 1980's," he states.

He also believes that if incentives for increased natural gas drilling were to be increased immediately, that reserve additions and annual production would balance by 1985. But he is less optimistic about immediate changes, and points out there is not route around the present National Gas Act that approaches the efficiency with which the President decontrolled crude oil.

The U.S. Geological Survey believes there are huge undiscovered reserves of natural gas in America. A 16 month study by the agency indicate that from 475 to 740 trillion cubic ft. of natural gas remain to be drilled. This compares with slightly less than 200 trillion cubic ft. of reserves recorded at the beginning of 1981.

In 1980, 743 wells were drilled to over 15,000 ft., about 1.5 per cent of the total wells drilled. The Anadarko Basin of Texas and Oklahoma, and the Tuscaloosa Trend - which stretches across Louisiana into southeastern Texas - are both prolific producers of gas below 15,000 ft. some 20,000 ft. wells in the Tuscaloosa Trend cost more than $12 million, and $8 million wells in the Anadarko Basin are reported to be very common. The deep Texas drilling included a well in Pecos County to 29,622 ft., which is the deepest hole in Texas. Absolute open flow of gas was calculated at 5.185 million cubic ft. per day from this well.

Early this year a number of independent oil and gas producers took the stand that the 97th Congress should decontrol all natural gas at the earliest possible date, repeal the natural gas use prohibition of the Fuel Use Act, and establish a natural gas import policy which does not encourage imports as a replacement for domestically produced gas.

So the stage is probably set for another long and bitter fight over natural gas pricing. Senior Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace attempted to sum up the issue by saying:

"The American public is making an investment of (energy) prices. To be sure, the removal of these Federal artificial pricing schemes is painful, but our energy position is such that nothing less than the security of our nation is at stake.

"Under these conditions, I believe the American consumer will accept this responsibility."

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

Last week I visited a home and saw marks on a white wall, with initials beside them. "Puzzled?" asked my host.
"Yes," I answered.
"Every month I measure the kids," he said, "and I mark their growth. It thrills me to see them grow."
And it thrills our Heavenly Father to see us grow; for St. Peter said, "Grow in grace."
To grow, one must eat. The prophet said in Jeremiah 15:16, "Thy words were found and I did eat them, and Thy word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of my heart." We must feed our souls as regularly as we feed our bodies. To grow, one must exercise. This means witnessing by lip and life. There is no greater mission than that of drawing one to the Lord, and there is no greater mistake than that of driving one from the Lord.

Either you grow in grace or go down in disgrace. Wouldn't you rather grow?

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
 142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
 WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

The balanced-budget approach of Texas state government has made for a fiscally sound treasury which is able to meet present needs without being hamstrung by past budgetary indiscretions.

The progressive attitude of both state government and that of the cities in Texas has created a business climate second to none. I have been impressed by the approach of Texas cities to seeking new industry, but with an eye to attracting businesses which will allow both city and company to benefit from the new site.

The management-labor climate in Texas also has proved an asset in encouraging industrial expansion and relocation. The growing personal income level for Texans illustrates the benefit to individual workers of Texas' right-to-work approach to organized labor.

Our vast natural resources, and the willingness to use them in a responsible way, also have contributed to our growing prosperity.

In short, Texas has presented a good model to the rest of the nation looking for ways to increase economic activity and employment levels.

The next ten years will provide renewed challenges and opportunities. Providing necessary government services to our growing population without onerous taxation will call for careful planning.

Keeping population levels and employment opportunities increasing at about the same rate also will challenge the ingenuity Texans historically have demonstrated.

But I am confident Texans are more than capable of handling any situation presented to them. Texas will continue to be a land of opportunity for its present and future citizens.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen

Watching Washington

A new, pathbreaking study I requested has attempted to rank this country's energy options according to the amount of investment required to develop them and their payoff over the near term.

This analysis, something that hasn't been done before, can play an important role in our efforts to insure that Americans have adequate supplies of energy at reasonable prices.

At my request, 16 Library of Congress experts spent 18 months preparing this study for the Joint Economic Committee. They sized up the present status and future prospects for some 31 conventional and unconventional forms of energy ranging from oil and coal to solar and nuclear energy.

The study indicates, for example, that a very small federal research investment in three sources—heavy oils too thick for extraction with traditional technology, unconventional gas trapped in coal, sandstone and shale rock, and alcohol fuels produced from coal, wood and farm crops—could pay big dividends between now and the year 2000.

At a time when the American people are demanding less government spending—and rightly so—it makes no sense to invest diminishing federal research dollars into development of a particular energy source without some idea of how that source stacks up against other forms of energy.

This Library of Congress analysis attempts to tell us which

J.P. Doodles by Barry McWilliams

SPRING IS BUSTIN' OUT ALL OVER

areas of research might give us the best results for our money. It ranks energy sources in nine categories, from small-investment—large-payout to large-investment—small-payout, between now and the turn of the century.

Among these sources at the bottom of the scales, which would require a heavy research investment but would not hold out the promise of much benefit between now and the year 2000, according to the study, are such things as magnetohydrodynamic energy and ocean thermal energy conversion.

The researchers excluded from their evaluation other energy forms, such as fusion, which may have a big payoff in the long term (after the year 2000) but aren't expected to offer much before then.

They also did not analyze sources, like passive solar energy since private investment, rather than government research, is needed to judge whether these are economically attractive and reasonably reliable.

The importance of this major analytical work for our nation can scarcely be overestimated. For the first time we have seen a serious, comprehensive attempt to find which energy supply choices will give us the greatest and fastest payback per federal research dollar.

I have sent the first copy of this report to the President and I am urging him to incorporate its findings into his energy program for our nation.

An adequate energy supply goes hand in hand with a strong America. It is vital to our national defense and to our economic well-being. This unprecedented study brings us one step closer to our nation's goal of energy independence.

Her Credit Record-A 'Must' For Widowed, Divorced

Her own credit record is a "must" for the woman who is widowed or divorced, so it's important to establish one early, advises Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist. "Because some women have no independent credit history, they may find credit accounts they've shared for years with their husbands suddenly terminated upon death or a divorce," the specialist explains. "This sudden loss of credit, often when they need it most, can create a tremendous strain on the budget and the emotions," she adds. Mrs. McCormack is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. BUILD CREDIT RECORD Here are her suggestions for building a credit record: Start your credit history in your own name - for example, Carol Bryan White, rather than Mrs. William White or just Carol White. Open a savings account and a checking account in your own name. Add to the savings account regularly, and don't overdraw your checking account. These two steps will demonstrate your ability to manage money. Apply for a charge account at a local store. Pay bills promptly and in full so no finance charge will be assessed. In addition, apply for a gasoline or national credit card and use other accounts as references. UNDERSTAND CREDIT HISTORY Your credit history is a record of your payments on credit cards, charge accounts, installment loans and mortgages. It's important to keep all payments current so your credit history will show you to be a responsible financial manager. Many creditors rely on this credit history - or "track record" - in deciding whether to approve credit for you when you request it. In most cases, a local credit bureau gathers credit information about you and sends it to creditors who ask for it. Here's another step to protect yourself: ask your creditors to report credit information in both spouses' names. Ask your credit bureau for a form requesting this be done on accounts opened before June 1, 1977. Accounts opened after that date usually are reported in both names, although it's a good idea to check with your credit bureau occasionally to make sure this is being done.

Blood Types - No Simple Matter

By Marvin Payne In the normal course of events, probably the farthest thing from most people's minds is what blood type they are. Anyone who has ever had a transfusion, however, should appreciate the importance of the capital letters on his hospital name tag. The basic idea of blood typing became important when physicians stopped bleeding their patients and decided it would be better to replenish their blood instead. It took awhile for the new idea to catch on, though, since many of the early transfusions were unsuccessful. In the case of a bad reaction, the patient would usually turn yellow and become greatly weakened. Then he would either die of shock or the particular disease he already had. It was soon discovered, however, that the success rate for transfusions were greatly increased if members of the family - or close relatives - were used as donors. Even so, the bad transfusion reactions remained far too common for comfort. It was this problem which led the brilliant scientist Carl Landsteiner to develop the A B O typing system, which he perfected in 1901. It had long been known that the blood could be separated into a cellular portion and a fluid portion. Landsteiner believed that the fluid and the cells were distinctly different, and had different functions. This idea led to a series of experiments in which he mixed the cells of one person with the fluid of another in various combinations, and watched for clumping of the cells to occur. Most of his conclusions are still valid today, with only the terms modernized. On the surface of the red blood cells are many projections (things that stick out) called antigens. In the fluid portion of the blood there are substances floating around called antibodies which can attach to the antigens, causing the red blood cells to clump. Most importantly, only one kind of antibody will combine with one kind of antigen in the cells. Thus, the two major antigens were identified and called A and B. A person can either have antigen A, antigen B, both, or neither one, and the four basic types are named after the antigens: A, B, AB, and O. If a person has one of the antigens, he will not have that antibody. If he lacks one of the antigens, he will have the antibody in his fluid, as shown in the diagram: Type A - Antigen A - Antibody b Type B - Antigen B - Antibody a Type AB - Antigen A & B - None Type O - Antigen - None - Antibody a & b So we see that if a type A person is given type B blood, his antibodies will attack the donor's cells and cause a reaction. The same would be true with a type B recipient and a type A donor. Type AB can receive any type of blood, since it has neither the a or b antibody. This person is known as the Universal recipient. Type O can only receive type O, but since it lacks the A & B antigens, it is termed the Universal donor. Problems could arise from the antibodies present but they represent only about 1 percent of the fluid. So if a person was given one pint of blood, only .16 ounces of antibody would be present, and wouldn't create a problem. In practice, however, the types are matched as closely as possible, and before each transfusion a two-step cross-matching is done. In the first step, or major match, the donor's cells are mixed with the recipient's fluid. Secondly, the recipient's cells are mixed with the donor's fluid. If clumping occurs in either step, the transfusion is usually not given. The cross matching is necessary, since A & B are not the only blood antigens present. Many more of lesser importance have been discovered. Among these is the RH factor, found in 1940 by Landsteiner and Weiner, which is the major cause of the Blue Babies syndrome. Most of the other types do not cause serious reactions, and are useful mainly for identification. To date, over 50 different blood types have been found. In fact, it has been said that in the near future a person can be identified by his blood as easily as by his fingerprint. So the next time you cut yourself, you can look at it with the knowledge that the blood you see is just as much an individual as you are.

People Things

MAYOR ERIS Ritchie was beginning to get the "feel" of his new job when we interviewed him Thursday. He had spent three or four hours Wednesday and Thursday at City Hall, studying city problems and his duties. And a good many well wishers have called or dropped in at his office since he was installed last Monday night.

Mayor Ritchie got the deluxe treatment out at his house last Monday. His family honored him at dinner. Their children prepared appropriate signs and put them up around the house. Steaks were cooked on the grill and a freezer of ice cream was ready for dessert.

And the staff at Mr. Ritchie's Southwest Enterprises, 300 Avenue D, held an impromptu social in his honor Tuesday. Refreshments were served.

The new mayor will be a pretty busy man the next few weeks as this is the season for the annual cheerleader and band twirlers and drum major camps that he holds in several cities of the state. He hopes to be able to make all of the city council meetings during the period.

The Abilene newspaper had a nice write-up about Mayor Ritchie the other morning, didn't you think?

CISCO IS well represented these days at Our Cabana, well known Girl Scout camp at Cuernavaca, New Mexico, by Mrs. Lloyd McGrew and daughters Mary Beth and Deanna and Charla Bradford, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Bradford.

Mrs. McGrew and Mrs. Juanita Estes of Clyde left last Saturday from DFW airport with eight girls from this Girl Scout region for the 10-day camping period. Girls from Clyde and Breckenridge were attending with the three Ciscoans.

The Lloyd McGrews spent their honeymoon in Mexico after their marriage some years ago, and Mrs. McG was showing their daughters where they visited. This is the first trip to Mexico for the Cisco girls. They're due home Saturday, June 13.

DON'T TELL Mary Crofts but the handsome crystal chandelier in the living room at their home up on 5th Street was in shambles for a time last Wednesday. Son Dash Crofts, well known television and night club entertainer who was spending the week at home, was moving a chair and got it too high, bumping the chandelier.

Crystal pieces fell right and left. Dash, assisted by his dad Sutton and brother Bob, picked up the pieces. There were no broken pieces so they got a ladder and Dash was able to re-hang them - hopefully in the right places.

The chandelier looked as good as new when they finished. So if nobody tells Mary, the chances are that she'll never know about the accident. The chandelier, by the way, is a handsome one

Claude Wilson Buried in Rites Held Wednesday

Funeral services for Claude L. Wilson, 65, of Cisco, retired owner of R&W Television Service, were at 4 p.m. Wednesday at the Church of the Nazarene in Cisco, directed by Cisco Funeral Home. The Rev. C.L. Reneau officiated. Burial was in Oakwood Cemetery.

Mr. Wilson died about 2 p.m. Monday in E.L. Graham Memorial Hospital after a long illness.

He was born July 9, 1915, in Bonham. He married Ila Parmer on May 9, 1946. He was a member of Woodmen of the World Lodge and the Church of the Nazarene.

Survivors include his wife; two stepdaughters, Mrs. Margie Barker of Hewitt and Mrs. Janet Howell of Hattiesburg, Miss.; two brothers, Roy of St. Louis, Mo., and Elma of California; a sister, Mrs. Reba Rath of Grass Valley, Calif.; and four grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Roy Carthe, Hallie Parker, Melvin Travis, B.W. Robertson Sr., Vernon Hagar and Mitt Sparks.

that would cost a lot to replace.

A young lady relative visiting at our house this past week made it a point to drive passed the Crofts home so she could photograph the place where Dash grew up.

One of the Crofts neighbors told us that it isn't unusual to see cars stop while somebody makes a picture of the home.

DR. GEORGE Lucskiw, the young Canadian medical doctor who plans to set up shop in Cisco, arrived last weekend and has spent the week visiting and meeting folks. Beginning medical practice here will be delayed another few weeks by red tape - getting his credentials approved by the Texas medical folks.

Meanwhile, Dr. Lucskiw plans to do a bit of visiting and sightseeing, and he'll be ready when the paper work is finished.

DOES PROF. Wyley Peebles of the CJC music department plan a trip to Europe this summer? Nope. He plans to buy a new car and feels that another trip to Europe will have to wait. What is more, he is real busy with the CJC Summer Theater that kicks off a new season here June 11th.

IF YOU LIKE to watch good golf, drop out to the Cisco Country Club this Saturday (June 6) and Sunday. They're playing the annual CCC low ball partnership tournament.

And if you like to eat Oscar's barbecue, drop out there at 7 p.m. this Saturday. Players and their wives are being treated to dinner and you can buy a plate for $3.65. It will be a nice affair.

MR. KENNETH Hawari, the young Ciscoan, arrived in Washington in time to begin work in his special congress internship June 1st, reports his mother, Mrs. Tarek Hawari. He's due to be there for a month working under Congressman Charles Stenholm in the Burleson-LBJ Internship program. He was one of four young folks chosen from the 17th district for the honor.

Kenneth's wife, the former Beverly Preston, remained in Austin where she is job interviewing. She is a UoT graduate and plans to work there while Kenneth, a May UoT graduate, goes to law school. Cisco Lions and a number of individuals helped buy Kenneth's airplane ticket to Washington and back and this was sincerely appreciated, his mother reported.

Kenneth wrote his mother that he attended a presidential press conference the other day.

VACATIONING down south a week or so ago, John and Letha Schaal dropped in at Luckenbach, Texas - the town made famous by the song and some good promoting. They found the tiny hamlet interesting and enjoyed looking around. Finding the town isn't easy as folks steal the road signs that give directions as fast as they put them up.

The Schaals enjoyed the German restaurant cooking at Fredricksburg and elsewhere in that region. John played in the golf tournament over at Breckenridge recently. His opponent for the final match was a man named Sam Snead. He wasn't the old pro who is so famous in golfing circles but John lost to him after fighting an even battle for 17 holes.

ALASKAN Mary Carey, who recently visited her sisters Annie Rendall and Lela Lloyd in Cisco, is mentioned in an article on Arctic cooking in the June issue of Trailer Life, a national magazine devoted to travel in trailers.

There's an item about Fiddlehead Fern, a dish that is something like turnip greens, and Mrs. Carey's recipe for preparing it is quoted. The item also tells about this type of fern that is found only in Alaska.

Last we heard, Mrs. Carey was enroute to Australia for a rock hound meeting and a general tour before going home to Alaska.

SALESMAN John McGuire was over in Albany the other day and noticed a barber shop with a vacant chair. So he went in for a hair cut. Midway in the cutting operation, the barber stopped and began laughing loud and long.

At length, the barber got his mirth under control and explained. The day before a man (who had just passed out front) approached the barber who has a shoe stretcher. The man had a shoe that was so tight that he could hardly walk. Would the barber stretch it?

And the barber agreed. He was having trouble getting the stretcher to go into the shoe properly when he discovered that there was a sock crammed into the toe. When he fished the sock out, the man's shoe fit like it was supposed to.

"Don't tell anybody," the man told the barber. "I'd never live it down." After telling John about the incident, the barber had another good laugh and then finished the hair cut.

THE HAROLD ADLINGS recently spent a week or so at St. Louis where his sister's husband died and was buried. Ivan Webb of the oil companies out at Kamon House made a flying trip to New York City the other day. Tracy Owens, 1981 CHS grad, is spending the summer working over at S&M Supply Company. Mrs. Bill Hester tells us that their Colony Restaurant has been burglarized five times since they opened a year or so ago. In addition to losing money in the robberies, the building damage has been costly.

AREA GRAIN harvest has been hampered by rain. There's a good crop in prospect, too. Rain has been falling often enough the past ten days to prevent harvest work in many areas.

Harold Pippen of the auto sales store out on west Highway 80 tells us the auto body shop that they opened recently is doing nicely. Macon Strother of San Augustine and Anthony Strother of Houston, both former CHS football stars, formed a partnership to win top honors in a golf tournament at San Augustine last weekend.

ment at San Augustine last weekend.

DR. ROBERT Blackstock, local dentist, has been hearing rumors that he plans to close his office here and move to Dallas to teach in a dental school. There's absolutely nothing to such rumors and he wouldn't consider leaving Cisco, he tells us. The Cisco Rotary Club now has a piano of their own out at the Colony Restaurant where they meet. They bought it for $100. Mr. E.W. Rust of the meat processing company purchased the old Lutheran church building and is dismantling it to salvage the lumber. Century plants are in bloom in front of Jammie's Restaurant and the City Park swimming pool.

FORMER Ciscoan Don Johnson of Athens will be here this Saturday and Sunday to play with Ralph Glenn in the Cisco partnership golf tournament. The Tops Baileys are planning travel trailer vacations to Ruidoso, New Mexico, and Colorado this summer. The American Legion Post has sold 10 of the 12 U.S. Flags they had on hand. Call Mr. E.L. Jackson if you want one.

Splashin' Around

By Jon Cermin
After one and one-half weeks everything at the City Pool seems to be running quite smoothly. The water has cleared up considerably and the pH and Chlorine levels are well within ideal zones.

Many of you are probably wondering about swimming lessons. Some of you have heard on KERK that they were scheduled to begin this Monday, June 8. Due to complications, they will have to be cancelled until the middle part of summer when another instructor is available. The lessons will hopefully begin around the second week in July.

I would also like to point out a few changes in the schedule. Due to lack of participation family night will only be held on Tuesday and Thursday nights. By the way, this Tuesday's family night has been cancelled due to a private party. There will be no swimming now on Monday and Wednesday nights. Also, it would be encouraging to see more women out on ladies' day (Monday).

Our attendance during the daytime has really been great, except for this past week during the wet and cool weather.

Don't forget, family passes $65 and individual passes $35 are still available. Weather permitting, see you at the pool!
