

AARP To Give Driving Course

A course in defensive driving techniques will be given by the Cisco Chapter, No. 2447, American Association of Retired Persons to members of NRTA, AARP and Aim on August 13 and 14 at the Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church in Cisco.

Sponsored by NRTA-AARP as a cooperating agency of the National Safety Council, the classroom course offers pointers in preventing accidents in spite of the incorrect actions of others and adverse driving conditions.

During two 4-hour class sessions beginning at 9:00 a.m. each day, instructors will use films and other visual aids to demonstrate how older drivers can improve their driving skills. No tests are given by the NSC Certified Instructor. Registration information can be obtained from Anton White, Cisco, telephone 442-2496 each afternoon.

Because the course is subsidized by NRTA-AARP, members pay a reduced tuition. With membership of more than 12 million persons, NRTA-AARP is the nation's largest organization dedicated to helping older citizens achieve retirement lives of purpose, dignity, and independence. NRTA-AARP encourages older Americans to remain active in community and public affairs, provides legislative representative to all levels of government, and sponsors services to help them stretch fixed retirement incomes. The Associations also publish magazines and other materials of special interest to older readers. For more information write NRTA-AARP, 215 Long Beach Blvd., Long Beach, CA., 90801.

People Who Don't Have Time For Tennis, Golf or Swimming

You recognize the need for exercise and you want to gain the benefits, but you can't seem to find a suitable activity. You used to play tennis once or twice a week during the summer months and enjoyed an occasional racquetball game - but courts are expensive, difficult to reserve and your weekends are precious. There's so little time. Swimming is fun, but unless you own your own pool, it's inconvenient and practically impossible during those long, winter months. And the thought of plunging into water during winter makes you shudder. Golf is nice, but again very time consuming, and really not much exercise when a cart is used. Running? You'll admit, you've tried it, but it's difficult and boring.

Conflict. Should you keep looking or just give up and become a soft slob? Perhaps there's an exercise you haven't tried, although you do it all the time as a part of your daily routine. Walking. It's inexpensive, easy and you don't need much equipment once you've bought a good pair of shoes. In fact, you can use the running shoes that have been languishing in your closet for three months!

No, walking for exercise is not a joke; it will work if approached as a disciplined activity. Walking is an excellent way to get your heart pumping, improve circulation and expand lung capacity. It'll firm you up, shape your calves, thighs, buttocks, and abdomen, and reduce tension much the same as a running program would.

You'll sleep better coupled with a nutritious, low-calorie diet, a walking program will aid you in losing weight more quickly than you would without exercising. And while it's not limited to people over 40, it certainly makes more sense for the older adult than jogging into a coronary.

The body burns calories in a very sophisticated way; the benefits of a regular exercise program tend to stay with the participant even after the actual exercise itself ceases. So, you'll continue to burn calories at a faster rate even after you've stopped walking. Here's your calorie burn-up rate: brisk walking at 4 m.p.h. will burn 400 calories an hour; and at 2 m.p.h. 200 calories an hour. If you walked only one additional mile a day (at a rate of one mile in 15 minutes) you'd lose 10 pounds a year.

You should be able to fit a walking program of at least 20 minutes, four to five times a week, into your busy schedule with little difficulty. Some people do it in the early mornings or immediately after work; many find walking during their lunch hour convenient and a welcome change of pace. And, you can walk instead of using the elevator, walk to and from work, while doing errands, or when you need a break to clear your head. You'll probably work better after a short but brisk walk.

The following is the recommended program for walking exercise:

1. Dress comfortably, wear good shoes that offer good support of the foot, legs and body. Never dress or casual shoes.
2. Maintain good posture. Keep stomach muscles pulled in, back straight. Relax shoulders and arms.
3. Tense your thighs and buttocks with each step for maximum tightening benefits.
4. Breathe naturally.
5. Walk quickly for optimum exercise benefits. Move from your hips, not from the knees.
6. Choose a different route each time, if possible. It's more fun.
7. Pick a destination - you'll walk at a steady pace.
8. Set goals for yourself. Walk faster; walk farther as you progress in your routine; but don't push yourself if you haven't exercised in a long time.
9. Have a health examination before embarking on an exercise program, and regular check-ups thereafter.
10. Enjoy the scenery!

ALLSUP'S GRADUATES ASSISTANT MANAGER-Victoria Clark (left) receives her diploma from Gary Whittington, instructor, for successfully completing the Allsup's Assistant Store Manager Training Course. Held at the company's home offices in Clovis, New Mexico, the class is a requirement for all Allsup's assistant managers. According to Whittington, "The training prepares individuals for future advancement by teaching them proper food handling, cooked food procedures, store cleanliness and maintenance as well as public relations. It's designed to produce a more professional employee who can better serve the customer and community." Victoria will return to her store at 913 West 8th Street in Cisco to assume the duties of assistant manager.

Tara Davies (left) and Eloise Torres from Cisco High School were participants in the second annual Big Country Front Line Camp for baton twirlers, flag corps, and drum majors held on the campus of Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene June 8-12. Approximately 230 youngsters were on hand for the five-day clinic.

The camp was conducted by Southwest Camps of Cisco, with Eris Ritchie as camp director. The baton twirlers were taught by a six-member staff of twirling experts from Florida, Texas and Arizona, headed up by Ken Sasser of the International Twirling Teachers Institute in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. The drum majors were given their instructional program by Rob Lovett of Brownfield, a band director and former drum major at Texas Tech University. The flag corps girls were taught by a staff directed by Barbara Palacek of Lake Charles, Louisiana.

In addition to the Front Line Camp, Hardin-Simmons University and Southwest Camp also hosted two sessions of cheerleader camp-June 15-19 and June 22-26.

WORD of GOD

Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle? Who shall dwell in thy holy hill?
He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart.
He that backbiteth not with his tongue, nor doeth evil to his neighbor, nor taketh up a reproach against his neighbor.
In whose eyes a vile person is contemned; but he honoreth them that fear the Lord. He that sweareth to his own hurt, and changeth not.
He that putteth not out his money to usury, nor taketh reward against the innocent. He that doeth these things shall never be moved. Psalm 15

Doctors Lower Infant Mortality Rate

HOUSTON—Doctors are able to lower infant mortality rates with a medical advance that allows them to "examine" unborn babies by using pictures produced by sound waves, says a researcher at Baylor College of Medicine.

The technique, called ultrasonography, also allows mothers—and fathers—to "see" their babies before birth, if they choose.

The procedure provides doctors with a safe and painless way to know what is going on inside the womb and in some cases to detect and treat problems in the fetus (the developing baby), said Russell Deter, M.D., director of the obstetrical ultrasonography program at Baylor.

Using a scanner that bounces ultrasound waves (not heard by the human ear) off body tissue at a specific depth, doctors get a cross-sectional "photograph" that shows details of the development of a fetus. Some scanners, like movie cameras, also show fetal movements.

The technique is especially valuable in caring for expectant mothers who have medical problems or a history of difficulty in pregnancy, Deter said.

Although its purpose is medical, a frequent side effect has been a strong emotional involvement of the mother with the unborn child.

Some mothers prefer not to find out details such as the baby's sex, Deter said, and only want to know that the fetus is healthy.

Others want to watch the baby develop in the womb. Some even name the baby before birth.

One young mother whose third pregnancy was monitored by ultrasound describes her experience this way:

"You see this thing that looks like a frog—it really does look like a tadpole—you see it growing arms and legs and becoming a little person that sucks its thumb and does upside down flips, that reaches out and holds on to its foot or the umbilical cord. I still have pictures from that time and my older children can hardly believe that it's Katie."

"The first time my husband saw it he was almost dumbfounded. He thinks every father should have the chance to watch the baby growing."

Watching babies in the womb and improving methods for assessing growth has been the focus of several ultrasound research projects by Deter.

Most obstetricians use ultrasound to see whether there are one or more fetuses, the position of the fetus and details of its anatomy.

Doctors can also determine the age of the fetus when the mother is uncertain of the date of conception by using ultrasound pictures to compare fetal measurements to standard growth charts. Knowing the exact age of the fetus can be vital when the mother has a condition such as high blood pressure or diabetes which makes early delivery desirable.

An ultrasound image is projected on a small screen that resembles a TV screen. When the high frequency sound waves are aimed inside the patient's body, they create echos that travel back and generate electrical signals that register on the screen as white, gray and black dots to form a fuzzy picture.

The picture is only about one-tenth as good as what the eye can see, but that's good enough to see fingers and toes, and by the 25th week, whether the child is a girl or boy.

Deter said most patients find that seeing their unborn child helps ease fears.

One woman recalls: "I had been trying to get pregnant for years. Then I had two miscarriages. I can't say how reassuring it was for me to see everything was finally going well. When I went in for my scans, some medical students would usually gather around and make comments about what a beautiful heart my baby had, or what perfect, tiny kidney...I started a journal and I'd write down everything that was said...We chose his name before he was born and when we would talk about him, we called him by name."

The woman gave birth to a healthy son, now two months old.

Courses in ultrasound are offered at many of the nation's medical schools, including Baylor. Ultrasound has become an indispensable tool in the care of pregnant women, Deter said, and in the future most obstetricians will have the equipment in their own offices.

Bob Bullock Releases Figures On Oil Taxes

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Friday released figures showing that Attorney General Mark White's proposal to increase severance taxes on oil and gas would heap millions of dollars in new taxes on Texans.

"What the Attorney General is suggesting makes about as much sense as burning down your house to get rid of mice. Texas consumers will end up being burned and burned bad," Bullock said.

Bullock said an analysis of a 30 percent severance tax on oil and gas will increase the taxes the average Texas motorist pays in severance taxes each year for the purchase of gasoline from $26.56 to $80.10.

Bullock said Texas refineries consume 64 percent of the crude oil produced in the state.

Bullock also said that because the cost of natural gas in Texas is higher than the cost for out-of-state customers, Texans wind up paying 73 percent of the natural gas severance tax.

Texas crude oil is taxed at 4.6 percent of value, while the natural gas rate is 7.5 percent.

Overall, a 30 percent severance tax would mean about $2.6 billion in additional taxes on oil and $1.6 billion on natural gas.

"Basically, White's proposal will quadruple the taxes that Texans pay on energy products and if he's successful in having a severance tax placed on coal or lignite he'll end up jacking up our electric rates because all the lignite produced is consumed in Texas," Bullock said.

"Those who advised the Attorney General on this were ill-advised. I'll be glad to show him my figures, I just hope he's got someone smart enough to explain them to him."

Bullock said White's retaliatory severance tax proposal won't work in Texas because it will not only cost Texas consumers more but it's also a kick in the teeth to the state's 650,000 royalty owners.

THE IMPACT OF RETALIATORY SEVERANCE TAX INCREASES IN TEXAS
Background

On July 2, 1981, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that a 30 percent severance tax levied by Montana on coal production did not restrain interstate commerce or interfere with federal energy policy.

The suit against Montana was brought by several parties, including several Texas utility companies who had long-term contracts to buy Montana coal and were paying what they considered unreasonably high prices caused by the tax. Obviously, coal consumers in both Montana and Texas wanted to limit the tax to a reasonable level and in so doing, indirectly, limit the price of the coal.

Montana officials were quick to point out that Texas is the nation's largest energy producer and levies severance taxes on both crude oil and natural gas production. However, the arguments in the case centered around the sizable 30 percent rate of the Montana tax. Texas crude oil is taxed at 4.6 percent of value and natural gas is taxed at 7.5 percent. The consumers argued in the suit that the 30 percent rate was unreasonably high and burdened interstate commerce.

Proposed Increase
Following the court's ruling, the Texas Attorney General, who had argued against the 30 percent tax, suggested that if it was all right for Montana taken it also was all right for Texas. He and others suggested that Texas should raise its severance taxes to gain large benefits primarily at the expense of out-of-state customers.

This "two-wrongs-make-a-right" mentality overlooked a major point. Between 85 and 90 percent of the coal mined in Montana is purchased by out-of-state customers. When their severance tax is raised, the cost is passed on to users in other states.

However, two-thirds of Texas crude oil and natural gas is purchased and used by Texas residents and businesses. An increase in Texas severance tax would be partially passed on to out-of-state users. Two-thirds of any increase would show up in higher costs of living and doing business in Texas.

In 1980, an increase in the crude oil and natural gas severance taxes to 30 percent would have resulted in an increase in tax revenue of $6.5 billion, slightly more than all state taxes collected that year.

Of this increase, an estimated $4.4 billion would have been paid by Texans, not other states, in the form of higher prices. Natural Gas Tax

To see how the increase in Texas would happen, crude oil and natural gas need to be looked at separately. Texas businesses and residents consumes 87 percent of the seven trillion cubic feet of natural gas produced in the state. Because Texans pay higher prices for our natural gas ($1.50 per MCF average in 1980) than out-of-state customers ($1.15 per MCF average), Texans wind up paying 73 percent of the natural gas tax in the purchase of price of gas. In other words, Texans paid $534 million of the $734 million gas severance taxes collected in 1980.

If the natural gas severance tax had been 30 percent in 1980, Texans would have paid an additional $1.6 billion. Sixty-one percent of this increase would have been paid by Texas businesses. Such a massive increase could be expected to have an adverse impact on Texas sound business climate.

The impact on Texas residential customers is equally severe. In 1979, $20.32 of a residential customer's natural gas bill covered the severance tax on the gas. A quadrupling of the tax to 30 percent would have increased the severance tax on the gas consumed by the average residential customer to $81.28.

Crude Oil Tax
An increase in the crude oil severance tax is much the same. In 1980, 64 percent of the oil produced in the state was consumed in Texas refineries. Severance taxes on this were $499 million of the $784 million in oil tax collections.

A 30 percent tax would have increased the taxes on Texas refineries by $2.8 billion. If this cost was passed on to the refiners customers, the affect on Texas motorists would be substantial. The average Texas motorist pays $26.56 per year in severance taxes in his purchase of gasoline. Increasing the tax to 30 percent would increase the cost of gasoline to the average motorist $80.10 per year assuming that Texans paid only their share of the increased tax.

There is likelihood that a pass-through of increased refining costs to Texans could be much higher than to out-of-state customers. Texans are substantially supplied by Texas refineries, while residents of many other states receive their refined products from multiple sources, including Texas. Thus, to remain competitive in out-of-state markets, it is possible that producers could attempt to offset increased severance taxes in the Texas market while holding their price in other states constant. Therefore, Texans might wind up not only paying the increased severance tax on the crude oil used in their gasoline, but also the increased cost of gasoline and heating oil sold in New York.

The Planting And Taking Care Of Hanging Baskets

By Ted Brice

There are two types of hanging baskets, the wire type and the plastic type and they may vary in size. But the average is 10 to 12 inches. For the wire type you will need unilled sphagnum moss that is not needed for the plastic basket. For the wire basket attach the three hanging wires so that they cover a wire coming from the bottom of the basket, not just the circular wire at the top. For the plastic basket attach the three hanging wires in the hole provided and wrap over the top and around the same wire. For the wire basket place the unilled sphagnum moss loosely in a three gallon bucket and cover with water and push the moss down to get it thoroughly soaked. Wringing out a hand full of the moss at a time and pat the moss down in the bottom and then on the sides of the wire basket. Let the unilled sphagnum moss extend over the top of the basket. Hold up the basket and inspect it to be sure that the sides are completely covered. Then place a clay-pot saucer or aluminum in the bottom of the basket which will partially overcome the drying out of the basket after it is hung.

The following applies to both the plastic and wire types of baskets. Fill in one-third of the basket with potting soil. Select the plants and set them out in a space representing the basket. Don't overcrowd the plants as you set them out. Remember they need room to grow in the basket. If the plants are in pots, set them in basket to see how they will look. At this point you can tell if the soil level is enough. Never plant the plants any deeper than they were growing in the nursery. Add any potting soil that is needed to bring the soil level to within one inch of the top of the basket. Let the soil slope to the center of the basket in order to retain some water. Plant the center plant first work out to the sides planting the other plants. After planting, water slowly until water runs from the basket. Hanging baskets need to be watered daily and fertilized every two weeks with a light solution of water soluble fertilizer.

Some plants for hanging baskets that require 80 percent shade and no more than two hours of morning sun would be, Fibrous Begonias (try Fiesta White, Galaxy white Pink, Jewel Red), trailing Strawberry, Wandering Jew, Chlorophytum, Geranium (ivy-leaved or trailing), Ferns and Ivy. The following plants may be used with some afternoon sun; Boston Fern, Dwarf Ageratum, Lantana, Geraniums, Coleus, Marigold, Petunias, Chrysanthemums and the Shrimp Plant.

Hanging baskets can be used to brighten up the smallest place to the largest. They can be hung from the eaves of the home as well as from tree limbs. Lets add some beauty to our homes with hanging baskets.

J.L. Stafford: The Man With Time For People

By Viola M. Payne
"J.L. Stafford loved golf!" Cisco people use the past tense in this sentence hesitantly, almost in disbelief. Although J.L. Stafford died in January of this year, it seems difficult to confine him to one segment of time. For his life reached across many areas - he was a Gunner on a B-17 bomber in World War II, and in Cisco a Tournament winning golfer, one of the owners of S. and M. Supply Co., Church and Civic worker, a Golf Instructor for Cisco Junior College, and a member of the Masonic Lodge. But - most of all - people remember that he was willing to give time to others.

"You can say that he really cared for people," notes a Cisco friend. "He not only encouraged beginning golfers, but helped people in many other ways. But he never told about the good he did - wouldn't have wanted any big notice."

On May 1st of this year, at the beginning of the annual Cisco Country Club Par-Scotch Scram, family and friends of J.L. Stafford dedicated a memorial to him. This is erected at No. 1 Tee Box in front of the Pro Shop at the Country Club. Those contributing were: La Verne Stafford, Mike and Steve Simmel, Mrs. Georgia McEachern, Dorothy and Major Farnsworth, Howard Tucker, Eddie McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Abbott, Bobby Smith, Mr. and Mrs.

O.L. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Wagley, Ruth and Winston Heidenheimer, Lucy Collier, John and Letha Schaal, Charlie Graham, James and Irene Cotton, Joe Sitton, Jerry Sitton, Ed and Irene Wende, Don and Russell Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. Doug Jones.

This year's Tournament was held in Stafford's memory, and was named the J.L. Stafford Classic. This event will continue to carry Stafford's name each year in the future. Par Scot Scram Champions for 1981 are Bennie Nichols and Mike Tiberville.

Another memorial to Stafford is planned in the future. At this time Irene Cotton is accepting contributions from the community for this project.

Although he was born in Carlsbad, N.M. in 1921, J.L. Stafford spent most of his life in Eastland County. His father died when he was six weeks old, and his Mother, Georgia Stafford, brought J.L. to Eastland so they could live with his Stafford Grandparents. When the boy was about six years old his Mother married Don McEachern of Eastland, and the stepfather brought J.L. up as his own son. Another son, Ray, was born to this family.

Fortunately there was a Grandfather Neal McEachern in the picture - a golfer who ran the Golf Course in Eastland. Little Johnson of Athens, and they visited and played back and forth.

Besides being a member of the Cisco Country Club, Stafford served as its President for two years. He also spent two terms as a Cisco City Councilman, and served on the Cisco Jr. College Board of Regents.

In the mid 1970's J.L. began teaching a Community Service Golf Course at Cisco Junior College. He also became a volunteer Coach for a Cisco Junior College Golf Team, and spent many extra hours with this group. The College Golf Team played Tri-Meets in Abilene, Hobbs N.M., Odessa, Snyder, and Brownwood.

Stafford's Community College Classes produced some fine golfers, with area winners among them. Some of the local golfers he taught were: Randy Rhodes, Dorothy Farnsworth, Mike Tiberville, Mike Simmel, LaVerne Stafford, Joe Heyser, Donnie Cate, Gary Webb, Benny Nichols, Mark Eaves.

In January, 1980 the Cisco Chamber of Commerce, recognizing Stafford's unique contributions, gave him an "Overdue Award" for his Community Services and promotion of golfing in this area.

About one year later, after a brief illness, J.L. Stafford died. Members of the family who survive him are his Mother, Mrs. Georgia McEachern of Cisco, his wife, LaVerne Stafford, who works for Eastland Memorial Hospital, two stepsons, Mike and Steve Simmel, a brother, Ray McEachern of Hobbs, N.M., and a foster son, Benton Porter.

When J.L. became ill George Owens and Charlie Graham finished out his year with the College most capably. But since this season ended there has been no Golf Team for C.J.C., and no Golf Classes for Cisco.

But golfers still play at Cisco Country Club, trying to remember the things J.L. showed them.

"I used to be able to call for him when I got into trouble," a golfer says, "And he would come running to help me out. Now there's no one."

Others try to express how they fell, but maybe the marker says it best. This memorial unique in several ways - it can be used and enjoyed by golfers, and it notes an individual rather than a building or event. It says simply:

"In memory of our friend, J.L. Stafford".

Robin White Wins 4H Honor

Robin White, fourteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie White, of Eastland, has won a very nice 4-H honor recently. Her recordbook on Citizenship placed FIRST at the District 4-H Recordbook Contest last week. Robin's book competed with 4-Hers' from all over the central district (eighteen surrounding counties). Robin's Citizenship record book concentrated on her trip to Japan last year as part of the 4-H/LABO exchange program.

By winning first place at the District contest, Robin is eligible to compete at the State level with her recordbook. The State contest is in August and we wish Robin good luck!

Bolger Consider 23-Cent Stamp

U.S. Postmaster General F. Bolger says it is possible the price of a first-class stamp would climb to 23 cents next year.

Bolger, in Cincinnati yesterday to address a National Postal Forum convention, complained the recent jump to an 18-cent stamp isn't producing enough revenue.

"One thing for sure," he said, "somewhere this year we'll probably have to propose an increase in rates again. And if we file for another rate case, you're probably talking of a 22-or 23 cent stamp. That wouldn't take effect until late next year."

Bolger, who is unhappy the commission rejected his request for a 20-cent stamp earlier this year, defended the possible 5-cent increase, saying, "You don't make a rate case just for today. You try to project for a two-or three year cycle. We'll have to look at inflation and labor negotiations and then project what our costs will be."

If Bolger does request a 22-or 23-cent stamp, it will have to be approved by the Postal Rate Commission, which then must send it on to the Postal Service governors.

"The question is whether you're going to live within your income or not, and we can't," Bolger said. "It's just impossible. We've been left with a $1 billion shortfall from the 18-cent rate instead of the 20-cent rate."

Bolger also issued a strong anti-strike declaration in anticipation of the expiration of postal employee union contracts July 20.

"It's illegal to strike, it's illegal to call for a strike," he said. "If there is a work stoppage, I'll move in quickly to see that the people are required to obey the law. If they don't they will be fired."

"Secondly, if we do not have the ability to provide the services that the law requires us to provide, I would take steps to lift restrictions on the private carriage of mail. If we can't provide the service people want, then I would allow other people to provide it. I think that's my responsibility, my obligation under the law and I wouldn't hesitate to do it."

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

For almost a decade we in government and you in the private sector have been talking about developing a national energy policy.

We have generated enough computer printouts from enough energy use models to bury the entire Congress, and a substantial number of bureaucrats as well. We have generated enough regulations to confuse the most dedicated businessman and make lawyers rich. But until now, we have not had anything that could honestly be called an effective energy policy.

But in all this fruitless search for an energy policy, the planners failed to take into account the most obvious and the most critical element -- the American people and their ability to respond to a changing world.

The Administration is in the process of evolving a policy which will put the people and their marketplace in the center of the equation where they belong. That is not to say government can wash its hands of the problem and walk away.

There is a legitimate role for the federal government in developing new sources of energy, in ensuring energy security and even in regulation. But this role should start where the ability of the private sector to handle the situation ends. We must stop the government from inhibiting energy independence.

All Americans are involved in making energy policy. When an individual decides to form a carpool because the price of gasoline is too high to drive alone, he is helping create a conservation policy. When an independent producer decides to drill an oil well on the hope of a return on his investment, he is implementing a policy of increased production.

Computers cannot gauge human responses to future situations with precision. That is a major reason so many projections of future energy production and consumption have been wrong.

Increased reliance on the market decisions Americans make every day offers a continuing national referendum which is a far better means of charting the nation's energy path than stubborn reliance on government dictates or a combination of subsidies and regulations.

Certain mitigating measures may be required from time to time to avoid unacceptable burdens on one sector of our society or another, but these can best be considered in the context of social, not energy, policy.

The President's action to end oil price controls and to dismantle the burdensome regulatory apparatus associated with those controls was a major step in implementing an energy policy focused on market realities. The challenge ahead is to provide a healthy economy and policy environment that enables citizens, businesses and state and local governments to make rational energy production and consumption decisions -- decisions that reflect the true value, in every sense, of all the nation's resources.

Panicky, piecemeal efforts by government to relieve energy supply and price uncertainties have been and always will be counterproductive.

I know that the citizens, the energy producers and the industries of Texas stand ready to do their share and more in implementing a reasonable energy policy which relies on the traditional greatness of the American people and their ingenuity and resourcefulness.

Charles W. Stenholm

Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON, D.C. — When one embarks on an attempt to effect change in government, there are no guarantees that the trip will be a smooth or easy one.

During the past year, since I became convinced that the political current of the Democratic Party, with its obvious strong drift toward "spend, spend, spend and tax, tax, tax," philosophical objectives, needed change, I have weathered some strong opposition to my convictions.

On November 4, 1980, the American voting public confirmed what I had come to believe, that that philosophy had brought this nation to the brink of economic disaster. The decision that voters made last November was not so much a "turning out" of some politicians as it was a turn away from current economic policy. It was not a mandate to follow any man or political party blindly, but to open our eyes to the dangers such an economic policy had pressed upon us and to change course before it was too late.

I remain committed to changing that course and doing so in the fairest and most equitable manner that I think is possible. The first steps toward that change, sharply cutting the level of government spending, were relatively easy votes to cast. There was a clear-cut difference in approaches presented to the Congress during the budget considerations. I have voted my convictions and my conscience, even though those votes have been politically difficult and have estranged me somewhat from some of the leadership of the Democratic Party. While there is talk of "punishing" conservative Democrats for their support of that austere budget, I would cast the same votes today or any day, regardless of the cost to my political future.

One of the first things that members of my Democratic leadership told me when I came to the Congress was that at no time would they ever ask me to vote against my convictions or my conscience. I have every right to expect them to honor that commitment.

Leadership, in its truest sense, is a very lonely business. It is more a matter of following the dictates of one's conscience, rather than necessarily marching in rank with one's party or blindly following the dictates of any one person or giving in to political expediency.

At this writing, I have not decided what course I will take on the tax cut, as I have yet to examine final versions of the two proposals and make a personal assessment of the issues included in each. I realize that whatever my decision may be, there will be those who will criticize my actions and I will honestly and sincerely respect those differing opinions.

As I told my colleagues on the House Floor during debate on the budget reconciliation, the beauty of the American system of government is that reasonable men may disagree. I might also suggest the wisdom in agreeable men being able to reason, as well.

Small-business Angle

by Wilson S. Johnson

"DEATH KNELL FOR DEATH TAXES"

A small-business man I know spends 20 percent of his profits for life insurance to be certain there will be enough cash for his survivors to pay estate taxes and still hold on to the family lumber mill.

Another man who owns a soap manufacturing plant in a small, eastern city says his heirs would have to sell out if he didn't spend thousands for insurance now. The soap plant is the major source of employment for the town, and if another company bought it, the plant would probably be closed and the business consolidated elsewhere.

One of the dreams of any person who has built a successful business during his or her lifetime is to pass that business along to other members of the family—a spouse or surviving children and grandchildren. A business is a legacy.

Today federal government policy is forcing the liquidation of hundreds of successful, privately-owned businesses because of the negative impact of estate or "death" taxes. To many people, estate taxes are perceived as a means of forcing the redistribution of enormous amounts of money when wealthy people die. But the truly wealthy have sophisticated ways of estate planning which help them avoid estate taxes. The law hits squarely the small, family business when government policy ought to be to encourage the continuation of a strong, competitive independent business sector.

A recent survey of urban areas conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) revealed that a substantial number of business people responding—particularly in the northeastern part of the country—either inherited or purchased the company from a member of the family. Urban areas, such as those in the northeast, are already facing severe drains on resources and the negative impact of death taxes on small, independent businesses will add to the problems there and elsewhere in the country.

Analysis of the revenues raised by estate taxes and the economic harm being done to the labor-intensive small-business community suggests that the death tax should be abolished and the relative small number of tax dollars lost be raised by alternate means.

Wilson S. Johnson is president of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women.

Collins Bill To Require Audit Of IRS

A bill to require an annual auditor of the IRS and its agents has been introduced by Texas Congressman Jim Collins. These auditing provisions are included in Collins' Taxpayer's Bill of Right—H.R. 2389.

"Currently, there is only random and select auditing of the IRS. My bill provides for a comprehensive and complete audit. This would bring to light any questionable procedures or irregularities within the IRS.

"My Taxpayers' Bill of Rights addresses many inadequacies in our tax system. A full annual audit of the IRS would have raised these issues, such as whether a quota system is used for the evaluation of an IRS agent's performance," Collins said.

Collins noted that the provisions to audit the agents annually was also essential. "Because of the great amount of responsibility these agents have, they ought to be held to a higher standard. Also, they should know what it's like to be audited so they can better understand what the taxpayer experiences.

"This bill is basically one of fairness and equity. Any unfair advantage an agent might have over the taxpayer, because of familiarity with the formula used to determine who gets audited, should be eliminated," Collins said.

Other provisions of H.R. 2389 include: binding the IRS to its advice, allowing taxpayers to record interviews, and awarding legal and accounting costs to taxpayers who challenge the IRS and win.

The Taxpayers' Bill of Rights currently has 74 cosponsors and is in the Ways and Means Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Texas Farm Bureau Wants Quarantine Strengthened

WACO—The Texas Farm Bureau has asked the federal government to strengthen the quarantine on fruits and vegetables from the Mediterranean fruit fly-infested quarantine area of northern California.

"The spray area should be expanded to include a one-and-a-half mile buffer zone around all areas in which medflies have been found," TFB President Carrol Chaloupka said in a telegram to President Reagan.

The Texas farm leader also told the President; "We are in complete agreement with your decision to deny the request of California Governor Jerry Brown Jr. to declare the fruit fly-infested areas a federal disaster area.

"We believe that the California governor has contributed to the spread of the fruit fly. We feel his actions have jeopardized an important part of the nation's food supply. In our opinion, he and the misguided so-called environmentalists of his state have permitted the spread of the infestation through their inaction.

"Governor Brown was told by competent authorities a year ago that the then small outbreak could be eliminated through three simple steps: stripping of trees and ground spraying, introducing sterile flies, and most important, permitting aerial spraying of the common garden pesticide, malathion. This is how we quickly and successfully rid the Rio Grande Valley of Texas of the dreaded pest in 1967.

"Yet, the Governor refused to use the safe aerial spraying, electing instead to mobilize an army of workers on the ground in a futile, $23 million effort to eliminate the pest. According to officials of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the medfly could have been eradicated in 1980 with an effective spray program at a cost of only $128,000."

Are Judges Abusing Our Rights?

By Rep. John Ashbrook
(R., Ohio)

Federal marshals clapped handcuffs on University of Georgia Prof. James A. Dinnan last summer and hauled him off to prison. What could this 50-year-old academician possibly have done? Dinnan had served on a faculty committee that voted 6 to 3 against promoting a young woman assistant professor.

The woman sued, alleging sex discrimination. In pre-trial proceedings, Dinnan readily described the criteria he used in his decision but refused to say how he had voted. For that refusal, federal Judge Wilbur D. Owens, Jr., held him in civil contempt and ordered him to pay $100 a day for 30 days and then spend 90 days in jail unless he answered the question.

Released three months later, Dinnan discovered that he faced another jail term if he refused to reveal his vote in further proceedings. Vowing to move to another country first, Dinnan proclaimed, "If academic freedom is not the right to judge one's peers free from outside pressure or intimidation, then what is it? Once the courts control the schools of America, you're headed toward totalitarianism."

Dinnan's protest is among the growing number of complaints nationwide that many judges are overreaching their constitutional authority. We have, declares Harvard professor emeritus Nathan Glazer, developed an "imperial judiciary" in which judges "now reach into the lives of the people, against the will of the people, more than ever in American history." States the Los Angeles Times: More and more judges have developed an itch for more and more power, and they are scratching it at every opportunity.

Today, should a judge find that there has been a denial of due process or equal protection, he can overrule the President and Congress as well as state and local legislatures. He can seize a school system, prison or mental hospital, appropriate public funds, and set policy. Examples abound:

- In Atlanta, parents, outraged by "head shops" pushing drug paraphernalia aimed at youngsters, persuaded the Georgia legislature to outlaw such sales. But last December a federal judge voided the statute as "vague," even though similar wording has been upheld in laws outlawing counterfeiting, gambling and bootlegging paraphernalia. So drug paraphernalia reappeared in the head shops.

- Outside Albany, N.Y., high school students sought to hold a voluntary prayer session in their classrooms before the start of the school day. Outlawing the practice as "too dangerous to permit," federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman argued that it "might indicate the state has placed its imprimatur on a particular religious creed."

- In Parma, Ohio, voters chose to require a referendum on all zoning variances. A federal judge treated this vote as evidence, along with other city actions, of intentional racial discrimination and ordered the community provide low-income housing.

Decisions of this sort have altered the nation's basic governmental structure. They have stripped power from elected officials and transferred it to appointed judges who serve for life.

Keeping judges in their proper sphere is an old problem. Tyrannical and lawless judges in part caused rebelling Englishmen to draw up the Magna Carta in 1215. In 1625 English statesman Francis Bacon warned: "Judges ought to remember that their office is to interpret law and not to make or give law." The judicial role under the U.S. Constitution has been a problem from the start, with judges reaching for power and colliding with Presidents and Congress.

Voter reaction against the "activist" Supreme Court under Chief Justice Earl Warren was a major factor in the 1968 Presidential election of Richard Nixon. Nixon appointed four Justices during his first term, but in many respects the Court's activism actually accelerated. All the busing decisions, the voiding of the abortion laws of 46 states the overturning of death-penalty statutes are products of the Supreme Court under Chief Justice Warren Burger, who succeeded Warren in 1969. When it comes to voiding acts of Congress, the Burger Court has been the most activist ever. In 11 years it has voided 37 Congressional enactments compared with 2 such actions by the Warren Court in a 16-year period.

Concern over the High Court's use of its powers is shared even by some on the Court itself. Justice William H. Rehnquist accuses the present activist majority of "fashioning for itself a legislative role resembling that once thought to be the domain of Congress." Justice Byron White has said that the fact "that the Court has ample precedent for the creation of new constitutional rights should not lead it to repeat the process at will."

For generations, the federal judiciary upheld the position that education is a field reserved for the states. Then, in 1969, the Warren Court decreed that the due-process clause gave federal judges the right to oversee public-school discipline, supplanting elected legislators and school boards.

In 1975, the Burger Court expanded the trend by overturning an Ohio law allowing school principals to suspend disruptive students for up to ten days. Such actions have contributed to an epidemic of violence in the nation's high schools. Columnist James Kilpatrick reported the story of a St. Louis teacher who gave this explanation for choosing early retirement: "The courts have made it just about impossible to suspend or expel a disruptive child. I'd had all I could take."

No mandates have stirred more controversy than those directing school busing. In 1971 the Supreme Court declared that a local federal judge had seemingly unlimited power to force a racial balance to his satisfaction. Soon judges were ordering large-scale busing.

Over the past two decades, Supreme Court Justice have written a code of criminal procedure overwhelmingly favoring criminal defendants. In one case, two Bronx, N.Y., policemen saw a man start across the street, glance nervously at them, then turn and hurry off, hugging a vanity case. After giving chase, they cornered him, and found a pistol in the vanity along with heroin packaged for street sale. But the New York Court of Appeals judges ruled that the police had to exclude the evidence, and they dismissed the indictment thus freeing the pusher because the officers did not have "probable cause" for arrest. One dissenting judge protested: "Such a conclusion borders on the absurd. The officers had every right, if not the obligation, to pursue the defendant in order to investigate this highly suspicious conduct." Last December the Supreme Court declined to hear the prosecutor's petition that the ruling imposes "an unreasonable burden on our police."

The federal judiciary ruled (in 1966) against police interrogation if the suspect objects. When police could in-terrogate, they solved 91 of every 100 murders; today the percentage of unsolved murders has tripled to an all-time high.

State legislatures have sought repeatedly to deter murder by imposing death penalty. Again and again they have been thwarted by a Supreme Court that arbitrarily changes the rules. In 1972 five Justices decreed that the death-penalty laws of 41 states were unconstitutional because they left to the uncontrolled discretion of judges or jurors whether defendants should be imprisoned or die. Thirty-six states promptly enacted new laws making death mandatory for specified categories of murder and other crimes. Then the Justices did a U-turn in 1978, holding Ohio's death-penalty law invalid because it failed to give the sentencing judge enough discretion.

Many legal authorities feel today's rampant judicial activism deprives the American people of the right to be governed by elected representatives. For checks and balances on judges, we must look to the other branches of government and to electorate. Congress has two clear ways to curb judges:

1. The Constitution gives our elected legislators power to remove whole classes of cases from court jurisdiction. At least 20 bills to do so are pending. Last May Prof. Charles E. Rice of Notre Dame University Law School testified: "It would be a healthful corrective. Supreme Court decisions in several areas are distortions of the constitutional intent. It is the duty of Congress to remedy this wrong. The Court might learn a salutary lesson and avoid future excursions beyond its proper bounds."

2. The 14th Amendment, under which the Supreme Court has invaded most state functions, specifically names Congress the supreme definer and guardian of the rights it creates. Chief Justice Earl Warren, for example, declared that Congress can supplant the rules for police interrogations his Court handed down.

At stake in the struggle to control our high-handed judiciary is nothing less than the sanctity of law itself in our constitutional system. As the distinguished legal historian Raoul Berger asks, "How long can public respect for the Court survive if people become aware that the tribunal which condemns the acts of others as unconstitutional is itself acting unconstitutionally?"

'Barrier Free Design For The Disabled'

Few able-bodied persons recognize or appreciate the architectural problems encountered every day by those who are physically handicapped. The aggravations and frustrations presented by architectural barriers in public buildings, offices and homes are numerous and largely unnecessary. Rehabilitation efforts are thwarted. The disabled, as well as the elderly who also suffer certain physical limitations, are often prevented from participating as contributing and productive members of their society because of these barriers.

Some efforts have been made towards the elimination of such barriers. Standards have been set and legislation passed. Barrier-free design is growing. The question remains—is the real need well enough recognized and understood even by those attempting to implement these standards? Designs are frequently piecemeal and token efforts fail to provide maximal use.

For instance, a ramp approach is built for a too-narrow doorway, or a curb is placed between the parking area and an otherwise accessible building. Often so-called "accessible" restroom facilities in no way properly accommodate the severely and permanently disabled wheelchair users—who need them most.

Certainly there is a large segment of society, the disabled and the elderly, who could be included in rather than excluded from community life. By 1985 it is predicted that the physically disabled may total more than 40 million.

Even today one out of every 10 persons in the United States have some disability preventing use of buildings which have been designed for the physically fit.

Architects have been among the first to begin to make remedial efforts on half of the handicapped. But the problem is not theirs alone. It rests with all who are in a position to effect a change. Builders, contractors, legislators, city and state planners and even the general public, all can help. Architects can continue to lead in designing buildings and structures that will serve as large a portion of society as possible, not just the physically fit. They can work toward changing building codes to include American Standards Association specifications on architectural barriers and see that they are incorporated in their designs. Contractors can work with architects in being certain that American Standards Association specifications are observed. State and City officials can be alerted to the needs of the disabled and see that existing and new legislation is enforced. The general public can become more appreciative of the needs of the disabled and supportive of the efforts toward barrier-free design.

Meeting the needs of the community requires the cooperation of all resources in the community, since no one agency or resource can do this by itself.

The family recognized Curtis cousin Dewitt Samford, who is 92 years young, and his family of California as having traveled the greatest distance to attend the reunion.

Those attending enjoyed much good food. There was a picnic on Saturday and a lunch on Sunday catered by Oscar Weeks, of Cisco, who was engaged to prepare and serve the barbecue lunch.

How much the Dallas Cowboys improve at the defensive back, outside linebacker, and running back positions will determine if the Cowboys will have a great year in '81, according to General Manager Tex Schramm.

Coach Gene Stallings is said to have stated that three or four of the rookie defensive backs now in camp look better than any that he has seen in camp in several years. Some names of rookies mentioned are draft choices Ron Fellows, Ken Miller and Vince Skillings, and free agents Emerson Walls and Mike Downs, a tall and fast safety from Rice. So the present problem there may be to find room on the roster for some of these rookies while keeping enough experienced people to man the starting spots.

Talk is that Coach Tom Landry wants to carry seven defensive backs, but could cut to six linebackers. Since there are seven returning linebackers and they hope to keep a rookies, such a cut would require the departure of two veterans. Which two is a good question.

On offense the coaches would like for Tony Dorsett to gain more yards in '81 and for one of three veteran fullbacks to play so well that he would become the unquestioned starter.

The starting offensive line, already considered strong, can expect challenges from former first draft choice Robert Shaw, most improved in the off season program Kurt Petersen, and first draft choice Howard Richards. Shaw and Petersen, a 270 lb. guard, seem to prefer the challenge of practicing against Cowboy star tackle Randy White. The two along with Richards indicate that the Cowboy offensive line of the future will be bigger and stronger but still quick.

Tight end Jay Saldi may go in as a pass receiver back on third downs as Preston Pearson, now retired, did previously.

As punter prospects try to develop consistency, Mr.

Schramm states, "Until a better punter is found, Danny White will punt."

Mr. Schramm says that the Cowboy defense can be expected to use a three, four, or five man pass rush and efforts to stop opposing receivers at the line.

He also anticipates no problem in signing veterans Pat Donovan, Randy White, Drew Pearson, and Tony Hill to longer contracts.

Fox Reunion

THE REST OF THE GOSPEL
We all know the story about the repentant thief on the cross and how in Luke 23:43 Lord Jesus promised to take him to paradise that very day; which most people assume meant heaven. Yet, in John 20:17, on the third day, Jesus tells Mary not to touch Him for He had not yet gone to His Father in heaven. Then where did He take the thief on the first day? It wasn't heaven because He hadn't gone to heaven even by the third day. Where is this paradise that Jesus went to the three days He lay in the tomb? Why is it important to know where and why He went there? To find out the answer to this part of the gospel, write me for a personal reply at-The Rest of the Gospel, P.O. ## Putnam News

By Mrs. R.B. Taylor

Still hot and dry. There have been a few clouds today and it has not been 100 degrees. Maybe we will have a shower before too long. Most gardens are gone and also most of the fruit. I did get some peaches at Weatherford. The grasshoppers still thrive they are eating the fence posts now! We do have something to be thankful for. The stock tanks have plenty of water. I think fishing is pretty good some of my friends have had some nice catches lately.

Mrs. Marie Maxwell hosted a Tupperware party last Tuesday evening at the Community Center. Mrs. Darrell Green of Clyde is the Tupperware representative.

An ice cream party was given at the Community Center Friday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. John Petty who have recently moved to Brownwood.

Several Putnam and Cisco residents attended a brunch at the home of Mrs. Fred Heyser at Baird. Mrs. Randy Wilson and Mrs. Darrel Benton of Abilene hosted the affair honoring Miss Vici Temple of Abilene. Miss Temple and Bobby Jack Wilson are to be married at Abilene July 31. Bobby Jack is the grandson of Mrs. Heyser.

Mrs. R.L. Clinton of Cisco visited Mrs. R.B. Taylor and Mrs. Clinton Waddell Monday.

Mrs. Ray (Judy) Maxwell of Albany was in Putnam Monday showing her new son, Joseph Ray to her friends here.

Mrs. Terecia Moseley of Lake Buchanan and her mother, Mrs. R.C. Speegle here, visited their sister and daughter, Mrs. Melva Sublett at Pottaboro recently. Mrs. Sublett is very ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Taylor of De Ridder, La., visited Mrs. R.B. Taylor Wednesday. Mrs. Taylor returned to Weatherford with them to visit Bill and Dorothy Taylor. Mrs. Homer Taylor of Sweetwater and Mrs. Bobbie Taylor of Snyder came to Weatherford on Friday and we all went to Granbury to the old opera house to see a stage production of "No, No, Nannette." The opera house was built in 1880.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Donaway had supper Saturday night with their son, L.C. and family at their new home at Albany. Mrs. Patsy Chambers of Scranton visited the Donaways this week.

Word has been received here of the death of Sam Webster of Stanton. Mr. Webster lived in the Putnam community for a long time. He married Jewel Ingram.

Mrs. Maxie Solomon is a proud great-grandmother! Christopher Michael Hyles was born to James and Debbie Hyles at Mineral Wells July 24. He weighed five pounds and six ounces and is 18 inches tall. The grandparents are Margie and Bud Taylor of Mineral Wells.

4th Commandment
Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy.

Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work:

But the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates.

For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it.

Consider Investment Objectives

Are you thinking about investing in real estate? If so, you need to give serious thought to the benefits you expect to receive from the venture.

Some people acquire older rental property because they need a cash income each month to help supplement their other income sources.

Others buy a motel or farm because it is a source of employment for their family members. Still other investors buy unimproved land because of its appreciation potential as a hedge against inflation.

People with substantial incomes from other sources may be most interested in properties which have tax shelter advantages, such as office buildings or apartment complexes. Since each individual has unique investment circumstances and needs, considerable thought should be given to selecting the appropriate type of real estate for acquisition.

ENERGY SAVING WAYS!

With DISHWASHERS

In this age of energy conservation, energy options are an important consideration when buying an appliance. According to home economists from Whirlpool Corporation, newer dishwashers do the tough job of washing dishes, pots, pans and casseroles clean at quite a low cost. In fact, those accustomed to washing and rinsing dishes under a flowing stream of water may be surprised to find that more hot water, and therefore more energy, may be used in handwashing than by operating many dishwashers on the market.

The estimated average usage for a dishwasher is eight loads per week. Newer machines also offer an energy-saving Air Dry option. By using this option instead of heated drying whenever possible, energy consumption can be reduced substantially. For older models without this option, the homeowner can simply turn the dishwasher off after the wash/rinse cycle is over and open the dishwasher door to let dishes air dry.

Real Versus Personal Property

If you are buying or selling a home, be certain you understand the difference between real and personal property.

Real property includes the land and everything affixed to it—buildings, plants, fences and so forth. Inside the home, permanent fixtures such as lights, built-in kitchen appliances and the hot water heater are considered real property. Personal property includes all other items.

But sometimes the definitions are not so clear cut. For instance, curtains are sometimes considered personal property but can be included in the sale of real property. Any items of personal property you want to include or exclude from the sale can be written into the contract.

Before selling your home, have a clear agreement with the purchaser about any items which might cause confusion.

EASY-TO-CARE-FOR PLANTS CAN IMPROVE A HOME

Every home can always take some improvements—but not every homeowner has the money to make them these days. Yet, there is a way to improve the appearance of your home or apartment that doesn't cost much... and adds color, grace and pleasure to any room. Plants.

Take advantage of them to cleverly hide a cracking wall, fill in a gloomy, empty corner or "curtain" a bare window. Whether they are tall, elegant palms, succulents or hearty trailing vines, plants blend well with any decor. And, by following just a few basic rules, you'll find that taking care of them is easy, fun—and most rewarding.

Feeding, for example, once considered a dreaded, complicated chore, is now really a simple matter. According to new research conducted by Dr. H. W. Scheld at the University of Houston, unflavored gelatin is an excellent source of organic nitrogen which is what plants need to make them greener, healthier and fuller. Yes... that familiar household product, unflavored gelatin, now has a new use... as a good source of nourishment for household plants.

Plants get their other essential nutrients from the commercially-prepared potting soils in which they come... or which you use when you repot them into larger containers. The nitrogen that they may be missing can now easily be supplied by dissolving one envelope of Knox Unflavored Gelatin in one cup of hot tap water, then adding three cups of cold water to make a quart of liquid. Prepare only as much of this mixture as you plan to use at one time. Feed this mixture to your plants once a month as part of your normal watering/feeding pattern. Knox is a pure, safe food—with no additives—and it's almost impossible to burn your plants as you might do with other plant foods. Be careful not to overwater your plants, of course. Knox is convenient to use, too, and if you don't already have a box of it in your kitchen, you can quickly pick one up at the supermarket on your next shopping trip.

Plants can enrich the appearance of any room. To keep them fuller and greener, feed them with an unflavored gelatin and water mixture about once a month as part of your normal watering/feeding pattern.

To help your houseplants grow, remember that they need to be periodically repotted into larger pots. Regular monthly use of unflavored gelatin, combined with proper lighting and watering, will help assure that your modest investment in household plants more than pays off in making your home more attractive, inviting... and fun to be in.

Texas Homes Getting Smaller

If you have been in the homebuying market several years, you may have noticed houses are getting smaller.

The average size of a Texas home built in 1978 was 1,600 square feet. This compares to almost 1,700 square feet in 1974. As building costs and utility expenses rise and the average household size continues to decline, the size of houses will likely decline further.

This reduction, however, may not mean less space for each person in the household. In 1976, there were almost three persons per Texas household. In 1990, this will decline to about 2.5 persons. What this means is that the size of houses could decline even further—say to 1,400 square feet—without decreasing the average space per person in the year 1990.

Kitchen Can Be Sewingroom

Ever yearn for the good old days when every home had its own sewing room? Just not practical in today's houses with construction costs limiting "extras."

However, that doesn't mean you should give up having your own special sewing nook. How about a corner of the kitchen as illustrated here? This cozy sewing area, which even includes Grandma's sewing machine, still going strong, is versatile and allows you to keep an eye on simmering pots or active toddlers while you're cutting and pinning.

The floor, in a rich terra cotta shade, forms a warm basis for the entire room's decor.

Matching paint is repeated on the walls and cabinets and inserts of the flooring material onto the cabinet door fronts add a special custom touch.

The KESWICK pattern of this Mannington floor is bold and contemporary and includes such features as the JT88 never-wax wear layer for easy maintenance (leaving more time for sewing) and a soft cushioning for comfort underfoot. Another useful feature is its exclusive Aquabar moisture barrier coat which helps prevent moisture-related problems.

An attractive addition to the decor is the large basket holding extra bolts and cuts of fabric. The framed bulletin board keeps sketches and sewing information in view.

For free decorating booklets on never-wax flooring, write Mannington Mills, P.O. Box 30, Salem, NJ 08079.

Mortgage Into Cash

If you have financed or are considering financing the sale of your home, then you may be interested in a new financial program which allows you to turn that mortgage into cash.

In the current high-interest-rate market, many home sellers are willing to provide financing on the home they sell by lending on a mortgage. The Federal National Mortgage Association--commonly called Fannie Mae--has a new program whereby it will purchase first mortgages from persons who sold and financed their own homes. To qualify, a loan must have been made on Fannie Mae standard documents, meet Fannie Mae credit and appraisal standards and be serviced by an approved lender.

The cash amount, however, received from Fannie Mae is likely to be less than the face amount of the mortgage. For details, check with a lender approved by the Federal National Mortgage Association.

No. 1 K.W. Jameson is located seven miles south of Ranger and spots 2,173 feet from north and 1,533 feet from east lines of Lot 1, north 1/2 of Harvey Kendrick Survey, A-340. It will drill to 4,000 feet.

AUSTIN--Texas Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace today expressed shock at opposition from the oil industry and some states to increasing oil and gas exploration on federal lands.

"Year after year, industry has begged the government for greater access to federal lands for increased exploration and production," he said. "Now, instead of rejoicing over the expanded, accelerated federal leasing program, complaints have been voiced from both inside and outside the industry."

Recently, the U.S. Interior Department announced plans to open up one billion acres of offshore land to oil and gas exploration over the next five years.

Wallace made the statement to oil industry representatives gathered for the Commission's monthly statewide oil and gas proration hearing here.

The Commissioner challenged the industry to concentrate on domestic rather than foreign exploration, saying the industry's increasing exploration overseas, coupled with a lack of U.S. production incentives, apparently makes it more profitable to drill overseas than at home.

"I want to do whatever is necessary to insure that American-made drilling rigs are operating on American soil - it is in the national interest," he said.

Wallace cited the millions of dollars U.S. oil companies are spending this year exploring and developing oil resources in Indonesia, Angola, and China, and said, "I am much more interested in jobs for Americans than I am jobs for roughnecks in China or drillers in Angola."

NGP Plans Construction Of 50-Mile Pipeline

Northern Gas Products Company (NGP) will construct and operate a low pressure gathering system and a 50-mile pipeline in north central Texas, announced John Hon, regional manager for Houston region.

The system will gather and transport natural gas from wells in Eastland, Comanche and Erath counties to NGP's Lipan gas processing plant in Hood County, which is located 70 miles southwest of Fort Worth. Propane, ethane, iso and normal butane and natural gasoline will be extracted from the gas stream at the Lipan plant.

Construction of the line is scheduled to start in August with completion in November. The line will originate in southern Eastland County where the gathering system will be built. The first 16

"Why cannot the United States Presidents and the United States Congresses make it possible and equally attractive for companies to drill in America?" he asked, noting that only two percent of America has ever been explored by a drill bit and only three percent of U.S. federal offshore lands has ever been offered for lease until now.

"Before this nation finance a worldwide exploration program, we should thoroughly inventory our own resources and set about developing a sufficient energy base that will guarantee our position of world leadership," the Commissioner stated.

Wallace told the oil industry representatives that the time has come to "fish or cut bait."

"The counter-productive windfall profits tax must be changed to provide that above-normal profits be plowed 100 percent back into the domestic production of energy of all forms or be taxed at 100 percent," he said. "This has been the accepted Texas position."

He went on to say that "if the industry declares and proves that capital is insufficient to meet this massive and urgent exploration effort, then I am prepared to recommend that the President and the Congress take another look at the tax laws to provide the capital in the interest of our national security."

Wallace said the nation's energy priorities are still tangled. "To be sure, drilling has increased in this country," he said. "Our storage tanks, limited as they are - are full. However, we are still almost 40 percent dependent on unstable foreign sources for our daily crude oil needs."

"There is no glut of oil in America," Wallace said.

In closing, the Railroad Commission's senior member called for the country to stop erecting barriers to all-out production in America and to thrust the full weight of government and industry behind exploration and production at home.

miles of pipeline will be 16-inch diameter pipe designed to accommodate wells under 50 PSI. The remaining line will be 10-inch diameter pipe.

Larry Eledge, director of gas liquids acquisition, said producers along the final 34 miles of pipeline will be able to hook up to the line regardless of their well pressure.

When completed, the line will have the capacity to move up to 10 million cubic feet of gas per day.

Northern Gas Products Company produces ethane, propene, iso and normal butane and natural gasoline and fractionates mixtures of these liquids into commercially pure components.

Northern Gas Products is part of Northern Liquid Fuels Company, a division of InterNorth, Inc., a diversified energy corporation based in Omaha, Nebraska.

To Exhibit Technique For Getting Asphalt Like Oil Out Of Ground

Liquifying the equivalent of an asphalt road underground and bringing it to the surface through a small oil well hole is what the petroleum industry has to accomplish in adding "tar sands" to our energy production.

Equipment for doing this by melting the thick asphalt like oil, mainly with steam, will be on exhibit at the World Oil & Gas Show and Conference to be held in Dallas, Texas

December 14-17, 1981, says Martin C. Dwyer, General Manager.

"New technology for finding and producing more energy and getting a greater percentage of oil out of existing reserves will be seen by an estimated 30,000 oil men from every state in the union and an expected 50 nations of the world", Dwyer pointed out.

Railroad Commission Grants Thirty Permits For New Pipelines

AUSTIN—A total of 30 permits to operate new pipelines in Texas were granted by the Railroad Commission in June 1981, according to the RRC's Oil and Gas Division.

Eighteen of the permits were for gathering pipelines, four were for gas plants, four were for trunk transmission lines, two were for feed stock lines, and one was for a distribution line. Another was for other purposes.

Gathering lines bring oil and gas from production leases, while a trunk transmission line is a larger diameter line into which smaller lines connect. At gas plants, natural gas is stripped of the liquid hydrocarbons usually present in well-head gas. Feed stock is crude oil or other hydrocarbons that are basic materials for refining or manufacturing processes.

Twenty-six of the newly-permitted pipelines will transport gas, two will move petroleum products, and two will transport crude oil and condensates.

Private pipelines accounted for 28 permits last month, while two were for common carriers. A common carrier performs public work for hire, such as the movement of petroleum products.

In June, 12 permits were granted in Southeast Texas, four in deep South Texas, two each in East Texas, East Central Texas and the San Antonio, Refugio, and San Angelo areas, and one each in the Panhandle, West Central Texas, and the Lubbock and Midland areas.

Gathering lines approved:

JM Petroleum Corp., Dallas, crude/condensates, Wood County; Compressor Rental Services, Inc., Breckenridge, gas, Eastland County; Seagull Pipeline Corp., Houston, gas, Galveston County (two lines—one for gas, the other for crude and condensates); National Gathering System, Inc., Houston, gas, Jasper County; Intrastate Pipeline Co., Inc., Houston, gas, Harris County; Prairie Producing Co., Houston, gas, Matagorda County; Southern Natural Gas Co., Monroe, La., gas, Roberts County; Ferguson Crossing Pipeline Co., San Antonio, gas, Brazos County; Huggs Inc., Shreveport, La., gas, Harrison County; Seagull Pipeline Corp., Houston, gas (two lines—one in Tom Green County, another in Orange County); Tejas Gas Corp., Corpus Christi, gas (three lines—in Montgomery, Aransas, and Duval Counties); Prairie Producing Co., Houston, gas, Matagorda County; Tenroc Corp., Needville, gas, Runnels County; T-Gas Pipeline Co., Houston, gas, Live Oak County. Gas plant lines approved:

J.L. Davis-Wilson County Plant, Midland, gas, Wilson County (two lines);

Mobil Producing Texas and New Mexico, Inc., Houston, gas, San Patricio County; Sid Richardson Carbon and Gasoline Co., Fort Worth, gas, King and Cottle Counties.

Trunk transmission lines approved:

Esperanza Transmission Co., Corpus Christi, gas, Van Zandt County; Adobe Gas Co., Midland, gas, Pecos County; Texas Crude, Inc., Houston, gas, Brooks County; Intrastate Gas Transmission, Inc., Houston, gas, Navarro County.
